This check list and explanation of a SELF EVALUATION INSTRUMENT for Ohio's Business and Office Education Programs has been compiled from two sources. The first source used at the Toledo workshop was the unpublished Master thesis of Robert T. Addison (Whitehall-Yearling High School), at The Ohio State University, June, 1960. The second source was the report of the workshop held at the University of Toledo, June, 1966, under the direction of Dr. Esther E. Anderson. The instrument has not been used on a trial basis, but is presented here for the first use while it awaits further refinement.

Evaluation is a multi-facet examination of the BOE program and should be an annual procedure by every school on a self-examination basis. A vocational program must be periodically examined each year to determine strengths and weaknesses, to up-grade, improve, and to generally determine its effectiveness in the education of our youth.

This instrument is presented to you on a trial basis to help the schools give a better educational program to their youth. Please use it, and in addition, report to the State Supervisor of Business and Office Education any recommended changes. Additional copies may be obtained from the State Office of Business and Office Education.

PART I

Basic Explanation

This evaluation format was designed to assist an evaluator or group of evaluators to follow a standardized opinionnaire in a rating system.

This grading plan is adapted from Evaluative Criteria, 1960 Edition (National Study of Secondary School Evaluation, Washington 6, D. C.). Using such a standard source makes possible (1) a sound basis upon which to make judgments, and (2) utilization of these materials in any general evaluation of a school program.

| |
|-----------------|
| I. INSTRUCTIONS |

CHECKLISTS

The checklists consist of provisions, conditions, or characteristics found in a good Business and Office Education program. Some may not be necessary, or even applicable, in every school. If any important features or procedures are omitted in the printed materials, they should be added in the appropriate places. The checklists should accurately and completely portray the program, facilities, and practices in the school, thus providing the factual background for the evaluations.

The use of the checklists require five letters:

- | | |
|---|---|
| E | Provision or condition is made extensively. |
| S | Provision or condition is made to a moderate extent. |
| L | Provision or condition is very limited or missing but needed . |
| M | Provision or condition is missing but its need is questioned. This question might arise in relation to the philosophy and objectives of the program, the needs of the students, or because of the differences of opinion of evaluators. |
| N | Provision or condition is not desirable or does not apply. |

When an item contains statements such as "Certain content is required for all students" or "All teachers have the following qualifications" the intention is to indicate the upper limit for those items. It is not implied that the provision must be present to the full extent stated in order to use the rating "E."

EVALUATIONS

Evaluations are the best judgments of each individual member on the staff. These judgments are made in light of the formulated philosophy and objectives of the department. After each individual member has made his evaluation, the staff should meet as a group and discuss each item and decide on a single departmental rating. This single departmental rating should then be transferred to the departmental profile sheet (Appendix). The departmental profile sheet presents a graphic summary which may be compared to a profile of the entire state. At the end of each section is a box for putting the evaluator's summary number of that section.

When one makes a judgment upon what is included in an evaluation item, using the ratings defined below, he should consider in the light of his whole experience how well the program is meeting its objectives and the needs of the students.

- | | |
|----|---|
| 5. | Excellent : the provisions or conditions are extensive and are functioning excellently. |
| 4. | Very good :* <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. the provisions or conditions are extensive and are functioning well, or b. the provisions or conditions are moderately extensive but are functioning excellently. |
| 3. | Good : the provisions or conditions are moderately extensive and are functioning well. |
| 2. | Fair :* <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. the provisions or conditions are moderately extensive but are functioning poorly, or b. the provisions or conditions are limited in extent but are functioning well. |

*If, in making the self-evaluation, members of the school staff wish to indicate which of the alternatives given for evaluations "4" or "2" applies, they may use "4a," or "4b," and "2a," or "2b."

1. Poor: the provisions or conditions are limited in extent and functioning poorly; or they are entirely missing but needed.
- M. Missing: the provisions or conditions are missing but their need is questioned. This question might arise in relation to the philosophy and objectives of the program, the needs of the students, or because of differences of opinion of evaluators. Items marked "M" do not affect any graphic summary for the program.
- N. Does not apply: the provisions or conditions are missing but do not apply, or they are not desirable for the youth of this school or community, or they do not conform to the program's philosophy and objectives.

| II. PHILOSOPHY OF THE EVALUATIVE PROCEDURE FOR BUSINESS AND OFFICE EDUCATION PROGRAMS |

Evaluation of a Business and Office Education Program is the process of judging the effectiveness of a curriculum which has been designed to educate students to an employable level upon graduation. It is realized that philosophies and objectives may vary according to the needs of a particular school and community.

The results of the evaluation should be used as a guide to improve the program. Identification of strengths and weaknesses with areas for improvement indicated can be accomplished through continuous self-evaluation.

The departmental personnel should submit a summarized report of the self-evaluation and a plan of action for program improvement to the school administration so that they may prepare recommendations for program improvement to be submitted to the board of education.

The evaluation procedure must necessarily include student evaluation which is covered to some extent in Chapter VII. A supplement to this bulletin will be prepared to identify specific measures and methods for such student evaluation.

The total evaluation process will include a four phase program, done regularly on a planned schedule. The schedule may be every year, or on a periodic basis. The Vocational Education Act of 1963 calls for an evaluation every five years. At that five-year point, the following items will be checked in a total evaluation:

1. Quality of program, as measured by this type of instrument.
2. A follow-up study of the students to check placement.
3. An employer follow-up to determine student fulfillment of occupational objectives.
4. A student evaluation, employing various analysis including a testing program, as indicated earlier in this chapter.

III. PHILOSOPHY OF BUSINESS AND OFFICE EDUCATION PROGRAMS

The Business and Office Education Programs provide the student with occupational knowledge, skills, and depth training essential for initial employment and for advancement in the business world. The programs are based upon careful analysis of the particular needs of the student and the community.

Intensive skill development and integration of related areas is provided in the programs offered in the 11th and/or 12th years to those students who possess the abilities, interests, and personal qualities necessary for entry-level positions. The use of block-time scheduling and supervised cooperative experiences provide flexibility within the programs. Provision is made for the incorporation of new technological developments and for the changing needs of students as business conditions change.

The programs provide the opportunity for enrichment by making it possible for the student to participate in extra-curricular activities, including fine and applied arts.

Merits of the programs can be partially determined through the use of a continuous follow-up procedure. Periodic business surveys and evaluations are an integral part of such programs.

| |
| IV. OBJECTIVES OF BUSINESS AND OFFICE EDUCATION PROGRAMS |
|---|

1. To know community job standards.
2. To be aware of occupational opportunities.
3. To build communication skills.
4. To develop computational skills.
5. To develop proficiency for entry-level positions.
6. To produce an even flow of work through the use of integrated skills and procedures.
7. To become acquainted with the organization and financing of a business.
8. To grow in understanding of basic economic and legal concepts.
9. To become conversant with advanced technology.
10. To develop desirable personal qualities.
11. To cultivate an appreciation of the importance of effective human relations.
12. To know the advantages of self-confidence, self-discipline, and self-development.
13. To acquire an appreciation of the need for personal responsibility as a citizen of society.
14. To acquire actual work experience which is correlated to classroom experiences.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR DEPARTMENTAL PROFILE

After the business and office education teachers have arrived at a single evaluation for each section, the single total score or evaluation should be transferred to the profile sheet in this section by placing an "X" or some other point of marking on the scale. Connecting lines drawn from the plotted evaluation presents a graphic picture of the total evaluation.

Ratings of 1 and 2 indicate that considerable improvement is needed. A rating of 3 indicates average attainment and a rating of 5 indicates full attainment of the criteria checked.

An example of a departmental profile is included which shows a school that fully meets the criterion on Public Relations in the C.O.E. program, but needs considerable improvement in the area of Physical Facilities and Equipment.
