ABSTRACT

The compilation is a comprehensive listing of films available from the centers in the Instructional Materials Centers/Regional Media Centers (IMC/RMC) Network. Each IMC/RMC location is given a numerical code in a preliminary listing. These numerical codes are used within the film listing, which is arranged alphabetically according to film titles, to indicate the center or centers from which each film may be borrowed. A brief description of each film is provided which includes such information as the subject and scope of the film, length, color or black and white, address of distributor, and price. (KW)

The IMC/RMC Network Professional Film Collection is the result of cooperative efforts by IMCs and RMCs interested in the creation of one standard, comprehensive listing of films available throughout the Network. Mrs. Joan Miller, Associate in Instructional Materials at the New York State Education Department SEIMC in Albany, has been instrumental in compiling the initial listing and forwarding it to the CEC-ERIC Information Center. CEC-ERIC will be responsible for updating this list as the Network Centers report additional film acquisitions. For your convenience, forms for this purpose are included in the back of this listing.

HOW TO USE THIS CATALOG

A preliminary listing indicates the numerical code for each IMC/RMC location. Within the film listing (which is arranged alphabetically according to film titles), the numbers to the extreme right designate the center(s) from which the particular film may be secured. ALL requests for films should be directed to the nearest IMC/RMC serving you.

ADAPTATIONS OF PSYCHODIAGNOSTIC FINDINGS TO TEACHING MATERIALS

10

16mm, b/w, 20 min., $150.

William Cruickshank lectures briefly on developing body image concepts, followed by a demonstration by a teacher and children, over which are heard Cruickshank's evaluation and explanatory commentary. Emphasis is on teacher-made materials for use with learning disabled children. Filmed during the Learning Disabilities Seminar at Rocky Mountain Educational Laboratory, Greeley, Colorado.

Available: Barbre Products, Inc.
2130 South Bellaire Street
Denver, Colorado 80222

AFRAID OF SCHOOL

28 min., b/w, 1966, sound.

In the film, 6-year-old Tommy refuses to stay in school. His desperate parents seek psychiatric help and after several months in therapy, Tommy comes to realize that school is unavoidable. It is shown how, through counseling, the parents become more firm in their discipline. The film consists of unrehearsed interviews between the child, his parents, and the psychiatrist. It demonstrates the effect of experiences in infancy on the child's emotional development. Some techniques for handling "school phobia" are shown.

Available: McGraw Hill Films
330 West 42nd Street
New York, New York 10036

AGGRESSIVE CHILD

9,12

28 min., b/w, 1966, sound.

In the film, Phillip is an intelligent 6-year-old, whose disruptive behavior causes authorities to suggest psychiatric help to the parents. The people in this film are real patients who discuss their problems with a real therapist. It shows that serious emotional problems often underlie difficult and puzzling behavior in children.

AIDS FOR TEACHING THE MENTALLY RETARDED

1,4,5,6,9,10

38½ min., color, sound.

Phase A - Motor Training

11 min., color, sound.

Shown are how unique devices and exercises stimulate the passive child to initiate activities and help him to understand cause and effect relationships. The crawling maze, stepping ladder, table swing, balance beam, and swimming tables, designed to improve locomotion, coordination, spatial orientation, and balance are illustrated. Also shown are climbing obstacles, sinking trees, and off center tires that introduce the child to a variety of sensations and experiences through which he may increase motor control and gain awareness of the body and what the body can perform.

Phase B - Initial Perceptual Training.

7½ min., color, sound.

Shown are exercises involving various sensory areas to help improve perceptual skills. In matching cards, nuts and bolts, sound and weight boxes, the child is shown to learn to discriminate with respect to sight, touch, weight, and sound. As he arranges colored nails on a painted board or aligns the movable discs of a pattern column, the student develops manual dexterity and improves hand-eye coordination.

Phase C - Advanced Perceptual Training.

9 min., color, sound.

Building upon previous exercises, new experiences are provided that help the student to make decisions and draw conclusions. The child learns to manipulate devices such as the slot box and electric maze, which are adjusted to his level of dexterity and can be altered to challenge his increasing skill. The ferris wheel and jumping peg provide friendly competition among the students and encourage rapid decision making. Counting pans teaches quantitative relationships between numbers and objects. Use of the number column enables the solution of arithmetic problems of increasing difficulty. The knowledge gained from the first three phases will help the child to communicate effectively and meet problems encountered in his environment.

Phase D - Integrated Motor Perceptual Training. 6 min., color, sound.
This step includes activities that integrate movement and perception. Hop scotch requires concentration and muscle coordination. Roller skating promotes an awareness of the body and its capabilities. Folk dancing is a skill that also teaches social courtesies and consideration for others. Singing develops a sense of rhythm and improves auditory acuity. Varied craft activities often point the way toward vocational aptitudes that may be developed by further training. Completed craft articles provide the student with tangible and satisfying evidence of his accomplishment.

Phase E - Sheltered Workshop 5 min., color, sound.
Actual work experiences, adjusted to the levels of their abilities, are offered to students in the training phase of the sheltered workshop program. Working on a sub-contract basis, they process products that are used in the consumer market. The work is divided into simplified steps that can be mastered by the students. The operation is facilitated by the use of specially designed guiding devices. Once mastered, tasks are pursued industriously and with pride. Financial proceeds are divided among the trainees who enjoy being useful and productive wage earners.

LANGUAGE AND LINGUISTICS (series of 13 titles)

INTRODUCTION20 min. b/w.*

An introduction to the Language and Linguistics series is provided. The importance of language is discussed and common misconceptions concerning language are pointed out. Explained is how the words we use and the way we use them affect the way we think and see the world. The relationship between language, para-language, and kinesics is developed.

LANGUAGE AND WRITING20 min., b/w.*

The film begins a definition of language, discusses the logic of language, explains misconceptions about language and writing, points out that language symbolizes experience and writing symbolizes language, and shows the relationship between written and spoken language using vowels, intonation patterns, and distribution patterns.

A DEFINITION OF LANGUAGE20 min., b/w.*

The film reviews and continues the definition of language from the preceding segment, Language and Writing. It explains the relationship between language and culture, tells whether one language is older, better, or more difficult to learn than another language, and discusses language patterns and how they affect the learning of a language.

A LINGUISTIC APPROACH TO LANGUAGE LEARNING20 min., b/w.*

The film examines the meaning of "correctness" and the importance of "rules" in grammar, points out the difference between literary and spoken language, discusses the four types of stress used in speaking (primary, secondary, tertiary, and weak), and shows how the preceding factors affect the learning of a foreign language.

THE SOUNDS OF LANGUAGE20 min., b/w.*

How linguists analyze and classify significant sounds of language is explained. Phonetics and phonemics, and the science of speech sounds are discussed. The organs of speech are shown and demonstrated.

DIALECTS20 min., b/w.*

The film explains and demonstrates dialect differences in standard English. Five guests from different geographical areas of the United States illustrate differences in pronunciation. How language variations are divided into geographical areas is illustrated.

GRAMMAR - PART I20 min., b/w.*

Examined are the structure, patterning, and classification of words, and how the linguist defines a word in terms of base, vowels, and stress patterns. Examples using nouns, verbs, and pronouns are presented.

GRAMMAR - PART II20 min., b/w.*

Part 2 continues the discussion of grammar and how words are classified. It explains how adjectives, adverbs, and prepositions are identified by structure rather than meaning.

HISTORY OF THE INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGE FAMILY20 min., b/w.*

The film discusses the history of the Indo-European language family and how different languages are related, explains how linguists developed a systematic reconstruction of Germanic languages, points out the contributions of Grimm and Verner in developing laws of language development, and stresses predictability and patterning in language structure.

HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE20 min., b/w.*

The film investigates the history, development, and spread of the English language, develops a breakdown of the Proto-Germanic language into related families of languages, traces the dialects of England about 600 AD, and explains how vocabularies change and develop as cultures mingle. Other world languages are reviewed. Comments are made on the feasibility of a world language.

TITLE

LOCATION

ALPHABET

20 min., b/w.

The film analyzes the English writing system and traces the origin, development, and spread of the alphabet. It shows and explains various writing systems, including Sanskrit, Chinese, Arabic. The significance of hieroglyphics in the development of written language is discussed.

LINGUISTIC SCIENCE AND THE TEACHING OF READING

20 min., b/w.

The film discusses the use of the linguistics approach as a means of improving reading ability. Analyzed are the deficiencies and strong points of the phonics and word methods of teaching reading. The purpose and nature of reading are explained, examples of patterning in the English spelling system shown and a remedy to the reading problem using language as a basis suggested.

LANGUAGE AND MEANING

20 min., b/w.

The film defines meaning from the linguistic point of view, explains the part structure plays in determining meaning from language, and discusses the relationship of para-language and kinetics to language and meaning. It also shows how linguistic science can be applied to analysis of the psychiatric interview.

LEARNING ABOUT LEARNING

20 min., b/w.

The film explores the different strategies employed in developing new theoretical concepts about man's ability to learn, pointing out that these studies conducted with human beings and animals have already led to changes in methods of instruction in schools and colleges.

LEARNING AND BEHAVIOR: THE TEACHING MACHINE

SENSORTONIC READINESS PROGRAM

22 min., b/w, sound.

The film illustrates the developmental sequence of the motor program as practiced at the Pathway School, and illustrates several of the academic implications and applications of motor skills. The word "sensortonic" is used to indicate the readiness and tone of the motor system to set upon information. The concept is expressed as a single word to further imply that the sensory system must gain skill and speed of response in the feed-back information it receives from the dynamic, performing motor system. In turn, the motor system gains skill and efficiency because of the requirements and sophistications in the sensory systems.

WHO IS THIS CHILD

30 min., b/w, $50.

Who is emotionally disturbed? How do we define those who are emotionally disturbed? How do we find that child in the school or home? These questions are investigated in the film by employing techniques of a case study. Two illustrations of educational programs dealing with emotionally handicapped children are presented. An autistic child is shown in a public school class setting and an acting-out aggressive child is pictured attending a special residential school. The difficulties of forming a definition for the term "emotionally disturbed" that will be satisfactory in every case, and the problems of constructing a working description by which a child is identified, are further elaborated upon by the discussion panel. The panel participants also discuss the recently mandated legislation for emotionally handicapped children and then amplify points raised by the film segment of the program.

WHO SHALL HELP THIS CHILD

b, 20 min., b/w, $59.

The film shows that the help that may be given to an emotionally disturbed child is found in many forms. Surveyed are special education programs suited to the emotionally handicapped child's individual requirements and capabilities. Education facilities such as a special residential school, a BOCES special class program, the use of a resource room, and use of volunteer "Teacher Moms" are all effectively explored. Recently mandated legislation is shown to have enlarged the scope of educational services to the emotionally handicapped child. In the second half of the program, the participants explore the provisions of the mandate, comment upon the points raised in the film segment of the program, and answer the question, "Who shall help this child?"
