FOREWORD

The supplement of the Sexual Barrier Legal and Economic Aspects of Employment, follows the pattern used in the original work. The scope and purpose are the same.

This, Supplement II, covers the laws and conditions governing the employment of women; the materials, which include books, articles, pamphlets and government documents, are limited to those in English. All materials are taken from American, Canadian and Australian publications, and additionally from printed materials of the United Nations and other international organizations.

The supplement includes material published during 1970 and 1971 which is briefly annotated. The number of entries included is indicative of the continuing interest and concern in the area of women and employment.

My aim is to develop a useful and workable source on legal and economic aspects of women's employment. Therefore, there is a new organization of material. Although still retaining the division between books and documents and periodical articles, parts have been expanded and new ones added.

The Equal Rights Amendment is added as a separate category due to the great volume of current material and importance of the topic. The text of the Equal Rights Amendment and Wiggins modification are reprinted from the Congressional Record.

The section on the developments of women in foreign countries has been expanded and the material describes the emerging role of women abroad, in society and in employment.

A number of law journals carried articles on women's rights. 80 Yale Law Journal 871-895 (1971) has an extensive article on the Equal Rights Amendment presenting reasons for its passage and predicting the effects of its enactment. 6 Harvard Civil Rights-Civil Liberties Law Review 215-260 (1971) devoted an entire issue to the Equal Rights Amendment. 5 Valparaiso University Law Review 203-488 (1971) had a symposium on women and the law. 23 Hastings Law Journal 1-31 (1971) covered topics not previously covered in any other law journal.

Several publications of value to women started in the last year. Among them are Spokeswoman, The New Woman, Ms, Per se and PM. Also published last year, although not directly related to women and employment, was Germaine Greer's The Female Eunuch.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I wish to express my gratitude to all those who assisted and advised me in this endeavor: to Dean Marvin J. Anderson for allowing me to use the Library and facilities of Hastings College of the Law; to Mr. Carleton W. Kenyon of the Library of Congress Law Library who originally suggested the idea for the bibliography, as well as for his interest and moral support; to Professor Dan F. Henke of the Hastings College of the Law Library who encouraged me to publish it. This work could not have been completed without the additional help of Mr. Thomas Reynolds of the University of California School of Law Library, Ms. Elionor J. Martin of San Francisco Public Library, Mr. Peter W. Marshall, third year student at Hastings College of the Law and Mr. Paul Vassallo of the Department of Legislative Reference of the Library of Congress. For their encouragement and understanding I extend grateful appreciation to Dr. and Mrs. Zarija Matich and Miss Juliana Matich, Belgrado, Yugoslavia.
