Adult Education

Our Nation's educational system was built upon the assumption that a free and enlightened electorate could be largely accomplished through education during childhood. That assumption has created a child-centered educational system which tends to be terminal in its approach and has contributed to the need for adult compensatory education programs. More and more we are accepting the realization that learning is a continuous, lifelong process and that there must be established a comprehensive system that provides for the education of adults.

The question no longer exists as to whether or not the education of adults should be an integral part of private and public educational institutions. The problem now is how to organize and equip the education profession, business and industry, labor and management, the military, local, State, and Federal governments for the inevitable task of providing acceptable and proven education opportunities for each adult at any time in his life when the need occurs.

Our Nation must be as vitally concerned with the education of its adults as it is with the education of its children. Adult education can pay rich personal and social dividends—not 20 years from now—but immediately. Our Nation must provide the “second opportunity” for the partially educated, the uninvolved, the illiterate, the adult with yesterday's tools who are in need of marketable skills for today. We must provide a means for more comprehensive, lifelong learning programs.

Continuing steps are needed toward the goal of the fullest educational opportunity for every american adult

Adult Education

The Problem Defined

THE ACT TERMINATES

In time, America's educational environment must become just as adult-oriented as it has been child-oriented for so many decades. To reach this equivalency, the Council urges following a route that will rise step by step toward comprehensiveness. In this manner alone, society can build on the base it has already established and avoid the potential tragedy of remaining educationally static.

The primary target now and for the years to come must be to provide more learning opportunities for a larger number of adults. There is not yet a commitment within all States that is sufficient to this target.

For 6 years, the Nation has had specific Federal legislation—the Adult Education Act. In the opinion of the Council, this Act has been effective; the dollars apportioned through it have been dollars well-spent.

Measured against other Federal education legislation, the Adult Education Act still is an infant. But—and here is the most immediate aspect of the problem—The Act terminates on June 30, 1973. Unless legislative action is taken now, there is imminent danger that the country may slow down or even step backward in providing educational opportunities for adults!

In its Annual Report for 1972, the Council set forth as its first recommendation an antidote for the termination of the law—“. . . the immediate development of an expanded and comprehensive Adult Education Act.”

Eventually, such comprehensive legislation will be essential if the systems of adult education in the Nation are to be adequately developed and sustained, if the American adult from any walk of life is to be equipped with the requisite skills to survive in a computer-driven world.

Comprehensive legislation cannot and should not be accomplished without the most careful forethought and reasoned analysis. Therefore, the Council recommends moving toward a completely new Act by measured intervals—by taking “Steps Toward Comprehensive-ness.” The first of these steps should be to write useful modifications of the existing Act and thus take advantage of its proven strengths.

The Council is cognizant of the President’s auspicious proposal for Education Revenue Sharing. The Council endorses this partnership plan. However, the Council is deeply concerned that in the early stages of Education Revenue Sharing a high priority will not be given adult education without specific financial and leadership assistance from the Federal Government. Earmarked funds for educationally disadvantaged adults would maintain the Federal commitment to compensatory education. The earmarks for adult education will provide a minimum level of funding and adequate safeguards to ensure a national priority.

Eventually, adult education will be an integral part of the education enterprise, a full-fledged partner, and can become a segment of the delivery system titled Education Revenue Sharing.

Therefore, the National Advisory Council on Adult Education recommends to the President the development and implementation of new Federal adult education legislation.

Specifications for legislation are outlined in this report.

Components toward Comprehensive Legislation

The route toward truly comprehensive adult education legislation begins here with a first step. This embodies the further recognition that provisions have to be made to expand educational opportunities for adults through direct Federal assistance.

In the pages that follow, various components are specified. The specifications will require a formal drafting and the development of actual legal/legislative language.

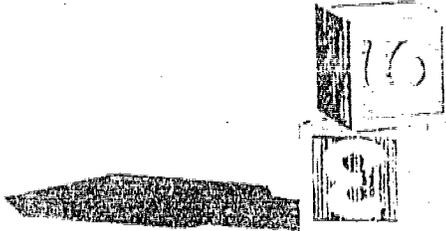

By no means do these specifications represent the only discernable ways in which the Act could be strengthened. Some additional provisions may become the responsibilities of the States, or may be detailed in subsequent amendments to the Act.

The Council sets forth these components as building blocks for thought, not only within the Federal Government but also—of equal importance—within the States. They can become road signs for the States, guiding them on where adult education funds can be allocated when the President's plan for Education Revenue Sharing is converted into reality.

Against this background, the Council's first step toward comprehensiveness proposes the following specific components in a Federal Adult Education Act.

■ PURPOSE

To encourage the establishment of programs of public adult education in order to expand educational opportunities for adults.

■ STATE GRANT PROGRAM

To allot funds to the States for the Federal share of the cost of adult education programs.

■ STATE PLAN

To set forth a program for the use of Federal funds to achieve the purpose of the Act.

■ SPECIAL ACTIVITIES

To provide USOE discretionary funds for innovative experimental projects.

■ EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES FOR ADULT INDIANS

To provide funding for specified adult education programs and support services for American Indians.

■ INSTITUTIONALIZED PERSONS

■ ADMINISTRATION/USOE ORGANIZATION

To establish an organizational structure and to implement an Office of Associate Commissioner for Adult, Continuing, and Community Education.

■ ADVISORY COUNCILS

To provide an advisory mechanism on matters pertaining to the Administration of the Act.

To assist in solving or to alleviate the problems of educational reform related to the education of adults.

To provide a funding cycle through fiscal year 1978.

¹ Allotments at same level as FY 72 due to a continuing resolution with an estimated distribution of $51.3 million with $165,000 reserved for the Advisory Council, two percent of the balance reserved for the outlying areas, and the balance distributed with a basic amount of $150,000 and the remainder distributed on the basis of those 16 and over without a certificate of graduation from high school, with no State receiving less than its FY 71 allotment.

² Estimate.

³ State allotment reduced by $1,247, in accordance with Section 416 of P.L. 91-230, due to the ineligibility of Glascock County to receive Federal funds because of failure to comply with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

1972 Special Projects 309(b)

Special Federal projects are funded with discretionary dollars to promote innovative programs in adult education.

In fiscal year 1972, there were 58 projects funded at a total of $6,991,771. Special projects funded in fiscal year 1972 sought to serve the educationally, socially, and economically disadvantaged adult. One method of better serving adults was accomplished through the cooperation among agencies in co-funding projects. Adult basic education projects in conjunction with model cities programs is an example of agencies working together.

Special projects are authorized by Section 309(b) of the Adult Education Act, which states:

“The Commissioner is authorized to make grants to local educational agencies or other public or private non-profit agencies, including educational television stations, for special projects which will be carried out in furtherance of the purposes of this title, and which—

“(1) involve the use of innovative methods, systems, materials, or programs which the Commissioner determines may have national significance or be of special value in promoting effective programs under this title,

“(2) involve programs of adult education, carried out in cooperation with other Federal, federally assisted State, or local programs which the Commissioner determines have unusual promise in promoting a comprehensive or coordinated approach to the problems of persons with educational deficiencies.”

Many special 309(b) projects included the following activities:

Involving parents in a family learning adult education model.

Using educational television in a multistate format to bring adult career education into homes.

Developing adult education models for correctional institutions.

Stimulating participant self-development and encouraging the adult student to be an independent and continuous learner.

Addressing and abstracting adult basic education instructional materials.

Developing and field testing a comprehensive model for ABE program evaluation which will incorporate output and efficiency measures and strategies for assessment of qualitative factors in program operation.

Developing communication and computational skills as a basis for attitudinal changes that help the participant to become more effective as a parent, as a consumer, and as a fully responsible citizen.

Developing a model by which public schools can organize and implement a program relating adult education to community problem-solving.

Helping professionals, associate professionals, and volunteer leaders in community basic education and related programs to develop more effective interorganizational communicative linkages.

Developing basic education programs for linguistically, culturally, and geographically isolated adults.

Providing adult education services to residents of model cities in cooperation with the Housing and Urban Development Model Cities Program.

1972 Professional Staff Development and Teacher Training 309(c)

To provide training for personnel in adult education in fiscal year 1972, $3,007,437 was allocated to 15 teacher-training programs. This funding permitted approximately 3,000 teachers, administrators, counselors, and associate professionals to attend summer adult education institutes. The institutes were designed to upgrade the individual skills of personnel who provide adult education services.

Training proposals included the following:

- Effective techniques for training personnel of special population groups such as Urban Blacks, Rural Blacks, Migrants, Spanish-Speaking, Asians and Indians.
- Innovative programs for development and utilization of associate professionals and volunteers in adult education.
- The development of university level programs to prepare teachers for adult education.
- Career-Based Adult Education Programs in Correctional Institutions.
- Adult Education Center for Cultural and Ethnic Understanding.
- Center for Resource Development in Adult Education.

The Adult Education Act (P.L. 91-230) makes provision for the training of adult personnel. Section 309(c) states:

“The Commissioner is authorized to make provision for training persons engaged, or preparing to engage, as personnel in adult education programs designed to carry out the purposes of this title, including the payment of such stipend and allowances (including traveling and subsistence expense, if any, for such persons and their dependents) as the Commissioner may determine by regulation. The Commissioner may provide such training by making grants to institutions of higher education, State or local educational agencies, or other appropriate public or private agencies or organizations."

1973 Priorities

In FY 73, approximately $2.5 million will be allocated for nine Phase II regional staff development programs.

The regional program requires supportive funding from State governments and institutions of higher education. They are designed to develop institutional capability and become a permanent training resource after 3 years of Federal participation. Regional offices of education plan jointly with State departments of education to assure that regional staff development models are responsive to State training needs.
