ABSTRACT

These curriculum materials correlate the subject matter of English with that of construction trades by incorporating the vocabulary, terminology, concepts, and skills of construction trades into the academic area of twelfth grade English. The five units deal with attitudes, speaking and listening, letter writing and job application, paragraphing, and the research paper. Each unit includes an overview, course objectives, student activities, instructional materials, evaluative materials, and a bibliography which also includes a list of equipment, films, and other supplies.

Introduction

The materials you are about to use were developed in the summer of 1973 by teachers experienced in teaching the subject areas involved. These materials were developed with respect to the concept of performance objectives as organized by EPIC Diversified Systems Corporation of Tuscon, Arizona. EPIC was retained by the Natchitoches Parish School Board to serve as monitor and evaluator of this Interest-Based Curriculum.

The instructional materials developed in English, mathematics and science correlate the vocabulary, terminology, concepts and skills of construction trades to each academic area involved. For the sake of consistency, the format utilized herein contains certain symbols and abbreviations as instructional guides.

Objectives within the documents were divided into four categories; 1) program Objectives; 2) Performance Objectives; 3) Process Objectives; 4) Activities. These are categorized by the numbering system preceding each objective or activity. For example, the number sequence 8-1-3 refers to: Performance Objective number eight, signified by the first numeral; process objective number one, represented by the second numeral; and activity number three, as indicated by the third numeral. The numbers in parenthesis beneath each sequence (2,7,4) indicate that the Program Objectives, to which each process objective relates. This identification system allows immediate identification of the objective(s) covered and assists in establishing a Project Monitorial System, referred to by the abbreviation PMS.

These courses of study are designed to be as inclusive as possible. Included are all activities with which a student will be involved in a teaching situation, along with many of the evaluation materials. Work-sheets, guides, and other materials will be used. Also, each unit or topic is terminated by a bibliography preceded by a list of equipment, films and other supplies.

Copies of these materials may be obtained from the Louisiana State Department of Education. If not available there, they may be secured by writing to:

Mr. Trent O. Melder, Coordinator
Natchitoches Central High School
Natchitoches, Louisiana 71457

Cost is $3.75 per booklet to cover expenses involved in preparation, handling and shipping.

Foreword

Within the pages of this document are contained the efforts by a group of teachers to develop curricular materials designed to correlate the subject matter of English with that of construction trades. The purpose of these efforts is twofold. First, it is the opinion of those involved that the subject matter of academic areas should be taught to students in a way that is both useful for their future aspirations and meaningful to them as citizens of our community, state, and nation. Second, by utilizing an interest-based curriculum, it is felt that the interests of students in their academic areas will be heightened, thereby improving their achievement in those subjects involved.

This course of study is not an adaptation of the traditional course or courses in English to a level compatible with the achievement of students involved. Quite the contrary is true. Every effort has been expended to assure that basic concepts and ideas in grammar, literature, communication, and other topics involved, have been included. The foremost change has been to adapt the vocabulary of construction trades to the English course of study. Utilizing this approach to the teaching of English opens to students two possibilities upon graduation. First, they will be able to utilize the skills gained in construction trades to enter actively into a vocation. Second, should their aspirations include post-secondary study, the knowledge gained through the correlated English classes opens this door to them also.

Development of the materials contained herein was most difficult and time consuming; however, the results are immeasurably rewarding. The opportunity to develop these and other materials was made possible by an ESEA Title III Grant. Our thanks are extended to the Louisiana State Department of Education for its assistance and encouragement.

Teachers involved in the development of these materials include the following:

Mrs. Sylvia Brown	Natchitoches Central High School
Mr. Andrew Marusak	Natchitoches Central High School
Mrs. Vicki Warner	Gorum High School
Mrs. Mary A. Mosley	Natchitoches Central High School
Mrs. Bettye Bruning	Librarian, Natchitoches Central High School
Mrs. Nina Magers	Art, Natchitoches Central High School

UNIT I
ATTITUDES

OVERVIEW: ATTITUDES

At the top of the list of reasons for loss of jobs is poor attitude. Employees who are irresponsible, disrespectful, untidy, and overly sensitive reflect an immature attitude and cost their employers time, energy, and money. No one wants to hire and work with an unpleasant person. An individual's attitude can determine how well he gets along on the job and at home.

A good attitude is a habit. Often it is easy to form when things at home and school run smoothly and money is plentiful and health is good. However, the times to work hardest to maintain a good attitude are the bad times. These are the times when breaking the "good attitude" habit becomes tempting. Teen-agers need time and maturity to help them develop and hold good attitudes. The first step is having a sense of self-worth.

Through vicarious experiences people can learn and grow to a mature understanding of themselves and others. Reading novels provides endless opportunities for learning and for appreciating good attitudes. This unit offers, through the reading of a novel, the chance to explore attitudes toward self, school, parents, and friends. Relating personal experiences to those read about and discussed in class should motivate the students to improve their own attitudes. They should be able to see how their attitude affects what they do and, as a result, what happens to them.

UNIT: ATTITUDES

- 1-0-0 At the end of the unit on attitudes the students will demonstrate (5,6,7, 8,9,11) school, peer and community concepts, using oral and written responses in relationship to the novel, that was then, this is now.
- 1-1-0 During several class periods the teacher will introduce to the students the elements of the novel.
- 1-1-1 Filmstrip - "The Use of the Title," Eyegate, 3-2-A
 - 1-1-2 Discussion of filmstrip 3-2-A
 - 1-1-3 Filmstrip - "Foreshadowing and Prophecy," Eyegate, 3-2-B
 - 1-1-4 Discussion of filmstrip 3-2-B
 - 1-1-5 Filmstrip - "The Symbol," Eyegate, 3-2-C
 - 1-1-6 Discussion of 3-2-C
 - 1-1-7 Film - "The Novel--What It Is, What It's About, What It Does"
 - 1-1-8 Discussion of the novel film
- 1-2-0 During several class periods the teacher will introduce to the students the novel, that was then, this is now.
- 1-2-1 Short summary of that was then, this is now
 - 1-2-2 Handout of vocabulary and spelling words pertaining to that was then, this is now
 - 1-2-3 Review of how to use the dictionary
 - 1-2-4 Assigning of vocabulary words to groups (handout 1-2-2)
 - 1-2-5 Oral discussions of vocabulary findings
 - 1-2-6 Assigning of first 6 chapters to read in class
 - 1-2-7 Assigning of the rest of the novel (5 chapters) to read before the next class meeting
 - 1-2-8 Discussion questions
 - 1-2-9 Writing of a different ending to the novel, that was then, this is now
 - 1-2-10 Role playing of specific incidents
 - 1-2-11 Assigning of projects
- 1-3-0 During one class period the students will write a descriptive paragraph pertaining to selected transparencies in relationship to the novel, that was then, this is now.
- 1-4-0 During a portion of one class period the teacher will administer, collect, score and compile results in reference to the students' ability to comprehend the different types of characters in the novel, that was then, this is now.
- 1-5-0 During one class period the teacher will distribute a selected reading list of other novels for which the students will be held responsible.

ACTIVITIES

that was then, this is now

by S. E. Hinton

From the time they were children, the two boys had been best friends, like brothers. At thirteen, they had harassed the cops together, fought off the Socs together with the rest of their gang, and acted as one person. Now, at sixteen, they were inseparable, even though Bryon spent a great deal of time being a hot shot with the chicks. Mark, more interested in getting away with things (hot-wiring cars, for instance) set up the pool games in Charlie's Bar that gave Bryon the chance to hustle a little extra money. There was nothing to worry about, really. They were still kids; nothing serious could happen to them. And then Charlie got shot (killed) trying to protect them from an ugly little set-to in the alley.

Mark called it fate. "Things just happen," he said, "and that's that." But it bothered Bryon. Why, as soon as anyone did anything because he cared about anyone else, did it lead to trouble? First, there had been a kid named Mike, who was a mass of bandages because he had tried to do a favor for a black girl, and now Charlie. Mark himself came off with ten stitches in his head defending a casual friend, and even M & M, Cathy's thirteen year-old brother, who was a true flower child (a serious, trusting, intent boy with a peace symbol around his neck and eyes like those in a war-orphan poster) got lost when his father wouldn't stop baiting him.

Mark didn't think about it, but it worried Bryon. He was in love with Cathy, growing up and beginning to care. And then one night, when he was still shook up from the discovery of what exactly had happened to M & M, he had to make his own terrible decision.

1-2-1 (continued)

This book doesn't give any answers to the problems of today's young people. It explores, dramatically and with honesty, the questions. It is written by S. E. Hinton, author of The Outsiders, a person who knows what the questions are.

pp. 186-188.

1. There is very little information concerning two of the parents involved in that was then this is now, but there is just enough said that you can form an opinion about both of them. What types of parents are Mrs. Douglas and Mr. Carlson? How are they alike, and how do they differ? Who do you think is the better parent? Why do you feel this way? And why do you think these two parents behaved like they did?
2. Whom would you like to be most like, Bryon or Mark? Why?
3. In the beginning of that was then, this is now, S. E. Hinton casually introduces M & M to us as just a friend of Bryon's and Mark's; however, M & M soon is placed in a very important and meaningful role in this story. Discuss M & M's role. Do you know of anyone like him?
4. What are the reasons for Bryon's turning Mark in to the police? Support your answer with specific details.
5. Why does Bryon break up with Cathy?
6. Why do you think Bryon went to see Mark in the reformatory?
7. Why didn't Mike Chambers feel revengeful toward the blacks who beat him up? Whom did this reflect upon later in the novel? Be specific when supporting your answer.
8. Why did Bryon and Mark cut Angela's hair? Were they "getting even"? If so, what were they "getting even" for?

1-2-11 Each student will be responsible for two of the projects listed below:

1. Make a drawing of an incident which occurred in our novel.
2. Make a drawing of one of the characters in our novel.
3. Make up a quiz concerning the characters in our novel.
4. Write a skit concerning an incident which occurred in the novel, other than the type we have already studied.
5. Make up a time line of the events which occurred in the novel.
6. Write a one sentence summary of the action in each chapter of our novel.
7. Write a fictitious newspaper article concerning an event from the novel which might really be found in a real newspaper.
8. Read another book by S. E. Hinton and compare it to that was then, this is now.
9. Discuss the ironical aspects of that was then, this is now.
10. Write an imaginary conversation between two persons in the novel.

DIRECTIONS FOR COMPLETING MONITORIAL SHEET

A. Heading Information:

1. Class: Enter the name of the Interest-Based Curriculum Area, eg. Math For Industry.
2. Teacher: Enter name of teacher. If more than one teacher is involved, give the name of the teacher managing the instructional activity.
3. Date: Enter the date of submission of the monitorial sheet.
4. Objectives (By Number): Enter the numbers of the interim-performance objectives covered by the monitorial sheet. Process and task level objectives should not be entered in this area of the form.
5. Time Interval: Specify the beginning and ending dates for the industrial activities covered on the particular monitorial sheet.

B. Line Item Information:

1. Objectives: Enter the number(s) of the process/task level objectives implemented to bring about the behaviors specified in the interim-performance objectives noted in A-4 above. Do not specify interim-performance objectives at the line item level.
2. Estimated Time: Enter the estimated time for completion of each process/task objective. This should be noted in terms of days to the nearest tenth. One day is equivalent to the instructional activity period for the given curriculum area for a single group of students.
3. Actual Time: Same as #2 above in terms of actual days and tenths of days utilized to carry out the line item objective.
4. Date Completed: Date of completion of the instructional activity.
5. Teacher's Initials: Initial each line item to signify completion of the instructional activity.

C. Additional Information:

1. Objectives Not Covered (List By Number): List those process/task objectives not implemented in the instructional activities for the given interim-performance objectives.
2. Objectives Altered or Added (List By Number; State Adjusted Objective on Back of Sheet): Complete as specified.

UNIT I I
SPEAKING AND LISTENING

OVERVIEW

It is important for a person to know that he really is being heard and understood when he speaks. To insure being heard, a person must cultivate good speaking habits. Making introductions, using the telephone, reading aloud, and telling stories are examples of occasions when good speaking skills enhance communication.

Most of us form habits of speaking which enable us to get along but which do not create the impression of a forceful, confident speaker. Of course, speaking cannot be effective unless there is good listening. The art of comprehending and evaluating what one hears requires conscientious practice and application. A good student or a good worker will almost always be a good listener. The listening habit is one that will be beneficial in work, school, home, recreation, and church.

This unit reviews and stresses the importance of good speaking and listening habits. There are student-planned activities and group involvement centered around role-playing situations. The student is shown the importance of oral communication in many facets of life outside the school environment.

UNIT: SPEAKING AND LISTENING

- 1-0-0 (4,5,10,11) At the end of the speaking and listening unit, the students will demonstrate oral two-way communication by presenting and evaluating short oral personal anecdotes satisfactorily in accordance with the speaker and listener profiles.
- 1-1-0 During the lessons on speaking the teacher will guide the students in practicing speaking situations, as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
- 1-1-1 Class discussion of the characteristics of good and bad speakers, using transparency for motivation
- 1-1-2 Make a bulletin board or poster from pictures cut out of magazines showing people in different speaking situations.
- 1-1-3 Discuss handout, "Making Introductions."
- 1-1-4 Role play activities: making introductions
- 1-1-5 Buzz session with reports from groups
- 1-1-6 Practice stating the main idea from newspaper articles and editorials, using materials from library and home.
- 1-1-7 Class or group project: write and present a fifteen-minute news broadcast, including news, weather, and sports.
- 1-1-8 Class or group project: practice oral-reading skill by presenting the radio play entitled "The Lone Ranger" from ACE 402.
- 1-1-9 Review telephone courtesy (1-3-4 to 1-3-6 from eleventh grade unit).
- 1-1-10 Review the guidelines for giving speeches (1-3-9 from eleventh grade unit).
- 1-1-11 Make preparations for telling a personal anecdote as part of the unit. Discuss "anecdote," using Readers' Digest for examples.
- 1-2-0 During the lessons on listening the teacher will provide opportunities for evaluating and improving listening skills, as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
- 1-2-1 Review the importance of good listening habits during a "rap session."
- 1-2-2 Evaluation of listening skills using ACE 402 Kit, ACE I Skills Booklet, pp. 19-22
- 1-2-3 Discuss the following types of listening:
A. Listening and organizing (outlining)
B. Listening for function

- C. Listening to remember details
 - D. Listening to make a judgment
 - E. Listening for clues to solve a mystery
- 1-2-4 In small groups the students will practice the different types of listening through activities in the ACE 402 Kit.
 - 1-2-5 Learn to take notes while listening to a speech or lecture.
 - 1-2-6 Have a guest speaker give a talk on the construction industry. Students will take notes.
 - 1-2-7 Class discussion of the guest speaker's talk using notes taken by the students
 - 1-2-8 Discussion of propaganda and critical listening
 - 1-2-9 Evaluation of listening skills using ACE 402 Kit, ACE 14 Booklet, pp. 435-438.
- 1-3-0 During the speaking and listening unit the teacher will train the students to evaluate each other using the speaker and listener profiles, as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
- 1-3-1 Discussion of speaker and listener profiles
 - 1-3-2 Class members will share prepared personal anecdotes and evaluate, using speaker and listener profiles.

ACTIVITIES

A GOOD SPEAKER . . .

1. . . . has a pleasing voice.
2. . . . has good diction.
3. . . . has skill and ease in the use of words.
4. . . . listens well.
5. . . . likes people.
6. . . . is courteous.
7. . . . cultivates a variety of interests.
8. . . . adjusts his conversation to his environment.
9. . . . has a broad vocabulary.
10. . . . avoids overuse of slang.
11. . . . avoids gossip and criticizing others.
12. . . . includes others in conversations.
13. . . . is tactful.
14. . . . always thinks before he speaks.

A BAD SPEAKER . . .

1. . . . speaks too loudly and too long.
2. . . . interrupts others, often to contradict them.
3. . . . eavesdrops.
4. . . . is strongly opinionated.
5. . . . uses excessive profanity.
6. . . . has nervous habits while speaking.
7. . . . steals the ideas of others without giving credit where it's due.

8. . . . mumbles.
9. . . . is sarcastic.
10. . . . fails to listen.

Introducing someone to someone is a part of the day's work. Remember that both persons are not being introduced, but that one is being introduced to the other. This should help when trying to decide the who-to-whom angle. You are not introducing Donald and Carol--you are introducing Donald to Carol. The name of the person to whom you want to show a little more respect is spoken first.

Basic rules:

1. Introduce a man to a woman. "Miss Jones, this is Mr. Burns." The woman's name is spoken first. The exceptions to this rule are ministers and men of special distinction and importance such as the President of the United States or state governors. In each of these cases, the form is reversed, as "Bishop Townsend, may I present my aunt, Mrs. Monroe?"
2. Introduce a younger person to an older person. "Mr. Boydstun, this is Johnny Carter."
3. Introduce an unmarried woman to a married woman. "Mrs. Brown, this is Joan Bennett." If there is a marked difference in age, such as a young bride and an unmarried woman many years her senior, the procedure is reversed.
4. Introduce a boy to a man. "Mr. Rhodes, this is Kenneth Gray."

5. Introduce a child to an older person. "Mr. Staples, this is my little sister, Nancy Lee."
6. Introduce your school friends, both boys and girls, to your mother.
"Mother, this is Margaret Barton and Jack Huston."
7. Introduce everyone (except those of high ministerial position) to a clergyman. "Father O'Neal, may I present my mother?"

When responding to an introduction, it is polite to say, "How do you do?" or "Hello." To repeat the name of the person is a nice touch, as "How do you do, Miss Bruner?" Make it a point to listen to names and to remember them.

There are certain gestures, such as shaking hands or rising when introduced, that are considered courteous and fitting for some situations. Men and boys should always rise when introduced. Remember that it is a compliment to the other person when you offer a hand or rise.

Try to feel and be friendly. Look at people as if you really see them when you are being introduced.

Act out the following introductions using guidelines from "Making Introductions." Ad lib as much as possible to make this an interesting activity.

Introduce the following:

1. Your older brother to your shop teacher
2. Your mother to your shop teacher
3. Your clergyman to your boss
4. Your ex-girlfriend to your best buddy
5. Your new girlfriend to your ex-girlfriend
6. Your foreman to a customer
7. Your girlfriend to your grandmother
8. Your grandfather to your fellow worker
9. Your shop teacher to your new boss
10. Your best friend to your "old maid" aunt

In your groups spend five minutes talking about one of the following subjects. At the end of the buzz session one member of the group will report a general, brief summary of what was said in his group.

1. Prejudice
2. War
3. Civil Rights
4. Working for a living
5. Watergate
6. Stock Market
7. Secretariat
8. Movies
9. Religion
10. World Hunger
11. ESP
12. Education
13. The American Indian
14. Space program
15. Chemical warfare
16. Louisiana politics
17. Natchitoches politics
18. Construction trades

Read the following editorials reprinted in Texas Forestry, July, 1973. When you are called upon, state the main idea of each article. Then go on to individual newspaper or magazine reading; read one article and be able to state the main idea.

Cutting Wood Exports

At a time when this nation badly needs more products to export, foreign sales of logs and wood products are being curtailed.

The Nixon administration has completed negotiations with Japan which will result in reductions of up to 11 percent in shipments of lumber to that country. At the same time, the U. S. Senate is considering a measure to limit overseas sales of logs and wood products.

These are attempting steps to take in view of rising costs of lumber and plywood used in domestic construction. But they are self-defeating, and therefore the wrong steps to take.

Today's dollar problems are largely the result of this country's deficit in balance of payments. To overcome these problems, we need more, not less, goods flowing into the export market. Logs and lumber are a significant part of the goods which we have been selling abroad.

Japan has agreed to curtailment of lumber goods from the U. S. But it does not intend to do without. Instead, it plans to seek increased imports from Canada, the Soviet Union and other sources.

Thus, we lose a good market for our goods, perhaps permanently, in a country where we need to continue selling in order to offset the torrent of products which Japan sells to us.

Surveys of national forests have shown that we have ample growing timber to meet our current lumber needs and still not damage the future supplies of this renewable resource. The trouble has been that environmental groups have objected to increased cutting from federally owned lands.

By scientific, selective cutting, more of this timber should be made available, and the export of wood products should continue. If we continue to whack away at our foreign sales, we may find that about the only thing we have left to export is dollars.

More Timber Sales

Home buyers should benefit from a belated decision by the Nixon administration to increase timber cutting in national forests.

The Cost of Living Council and the Agriculture Department have announced that a Forest Service staff will be beefed up in order to increase timber sales approximately 10 percent annually from federal lands during the next two years. Meanwhile, a task force will weigh the possibilities of setting higher lumber production targets beyond those dates.

The decision to increase harvests from national forests has been slow in coming, apparently, because of pressures from environmentalists who would like for the trees to remain intact.

Foresters contend, however, that sound selective cutting in a forest increases growth of remaining trees, thereby providing better recreational as well as production benefits in future years.

In allowing the harvest increase, the Forest Service must make certain that timber stands are not damaged by overcut but are actually improved.

In this manner we can expect that further lumber price increases will be avoided and that future supplies of wood products will be assured.¹

A. Listening and Organizing

It is often helpful to take notes in the form of an outline when we listen to a speech or an explanation. Making an outline in correct form forces us to make a distinction between major ideas and supporting details. Knowing how to make an outline is essential to the student as well as to the person on a job.

B. Listening for Function

When working in the field of construction, a person must know how to listen for function. We must find out how and why a certain tool is used or a certain order was given. Being able to understand the working parts of any unit, whether it be a machine or an organization of people, requires a keen awareness and use of listening.

C. Listening to Remember Details

Every day hundreds of occasions demand the remembering of details. Following directions, getting acquainted, shopping, banking, enjoying recreation, working, and being at school all require remembering numerous details. A good memory and strong powers of concentration make it easy to listen and grasp details.

D. Listening to Make a Judgment

One of the most important types of listening is listening to make a judgment. At some time during the life of every person a particular situation arises in which he must decide in one way or another whether it be right or wrong, good or bad, or guilty or not guilty. It is extremely important to listen carefully to all sides of a question so that a fair decision can be made according to our individual standards.

E. Listening to Solve a Mystery

Sometimes this type of listening is just for fun, but occasionally we must solve a real mystery by listening carefully for evidence or loop-holes in evidence. It might be a small matter such as who lost the car keys, or it could be very serious; so listening attentively will help to alleviate pondering and waste of time.

1. Underhanded propagandists get in some of their most telling blows by appealing to the emotions in such ways as the following:
 - a) Making a pretense of patriotism
 - b) Emphasizing points that will arouse or strengthen race, class, religious, or party prejudice
 - c) Implanting the idea that what they sell will bring fulfillment of one's dreams and desires
 - d) Playing upon fears of the future, of the new and untried, of being thought queer or different, of being unpopular
 - e) Whitewashing individuals, actions, or policies with names that denote desirable qualities: "this unselfish patriot," Downy fabric softener
 - f) Implying that to be happy one must "keep up with the Joneses"

2. Dishonest propagandists conceal truths by such means as these:
 - a) Pointing out only the good points of what they advocate
 - b) Twisting facts so as to give entirely wrong impressions
 - c) Dealing in vague generalities instead of in specific facts
 - d) Omitting any news unfavorable to their policies
 - e) Quoting some authority incompletely to give the impression that he favors something which he actually opposes

3. Often advertizers or unscrupulous politicians accomplish their ends by trying to make their opponents look ridiculous. They imply that support for those opponents comes only from the weak and the un-intelligent.

GUIDE to

BETTER LISTENING

TAKE NOTES IF THERE IS A CHANCE YOU MIGHT FORGET WHAT YOU HEAR.

- a. Notes need not be complete sentences; get the important words.
- b. Use numbers, signs, and abbreviations whenever you can.
- c. What you jot down should be accurate and clear. Be sure that your notes are not so brief and vague as to be meaningless later.

DIRECTIONS FOR COMPLETING MONITORIAL SHEET

A. Heading Information:

1. Class: Enter the name of the Interest-Based Curriculum Area, eg. Math For Industry.
2. Teacher: Enter name of teacher. If more than one teacher is involved, give the name of the teacher managing the instructional activity.
3. Date: Enter the date of submission of the monitorial sheet.
4. Objectives (By Number): Enter the numbers of the interim-performance objectives covered by the monitorial sheet. Process and task level objectives should not be entered in this area of the form.
5. Time Interval: Specify the beginning and ending dates for the industrial activities covered on the particular monitorial sheet.

B. Line Item Information:

1. Objectives: Enter the number(s) of the process/task level objectives implemented to bring about the behaviors specified in the interim-performance objectives noted in A-4 above. Do not specify interim-performance objectives at the line item level.
2. Estimated Time: Enter the estimated time for completion of each process/task objective. This should be noted in terms of days to the nearest tenth. One day is equivalent to the instructional activity period for the given curriculum area for a single group of students.
3. Actual Time: Same as #2 above in terms of actual days and tenths of days utilized to carry out the line item objective.
4. Date Completed: Date of completion of the instructional activity.
5. Teacher's Initials: Initial each line item to signify completion of the instructional activity.

C. Additional Information:

1. Objectives Not Covered (List By Number): List those process/task objectives not implemented in the instructional activities for the given interim-performance objectives.
2. Objectives Altered or Added (List By Number; State Adjusted Objective on Back of Sheet): Complete as specified.

UNIT III

LETTER WRITING AND JOB APPLICATION

OVERVIEW: LETTER WRITING AND JOB APPLICATION

Why write letters? There are times when writing a letter is the only practical way in which people who are separated by any real distance can keep in touch with one another. The letter reflects the character of its sender; therefore, the sender should watch his diction, his typing, and the general appearance of his letter.

There are three classifications of letters: those that should be written, those that may be written, and those that must be written. Business letters are those that must be written.

Communication, both written and oral, has a most significant effect on human relations. The primary objective of this unit is to teach students that what a person writes is just as important as what he says. Often the writing is more important because the receiver cannot see a friendly smile in the words written.

A sincere, friendly, honest attitude does not apply only to letter writing; it can set the tone for an interview as well. Therefore, it is the purpose of this unit to stress those skills that will better equip the students in writing better business letters and in getting and keeping jobs.

UNIT: LETTER WRITING AND JOB APPLICATION

- 1-0-0 Throughout the letter writing and job application unit the (4,5, 6, 7,8,9, 10,11) students will apply their abilities to write acceptable business letters and demonstrate their knowledge of procedures in job interviews with at least 85% accuracy, using the "Unmailable Letter" check list as a guide and group monitoring.
- 1-1-0 To evaluate each student's ability of language usage and mechanics, the teacher will give a pretest. The teacher will monitor the test according to standard usage and mechanics.
- 1-1-1 Give pretest, using handout 1-1-1.
- 1-1-2 Teacher will show corrections on transparencies the same day.
- 1-1-3 Return pretest scored and explain to each individual his weakness so that he may study.
- 1-2-0 Use Kit 5, CE - S-C to introduce to the students the values of working. They should become aware that getting the job is only one part--holding the job is even more important.
- 1-2-1 As each transparency is used, stop and discuss such questions as:
- A. Which do you think is easier--to find a job or to hold it ? Explain your reasoning.
 - B. What are the job sources in our city?
 - C. What is the significance of a personal-data record, family-data record card?
 - D. What are some of the key points in an interview?
 - E. What are some credentials that are necessary before you begin work?
 - F. What are some payroll deductions?
 - G. What is net pay, gross pay?
 - H. Explain the ways the employee may get promoted.
- 1-3-0 The project teacher will supply each student with a list entitled "Unmailable Letters" to be used in monitoring letters.
- 1-3-1 Handout "Unmailable Letters" list.
- 1-3-2 Review handout 1-3-1.
- 1-3-3 Use Kit #372.6, W, "Letter Writing," to recall forms of business letters.
- 1-3-4 Special help is to be given at this time in relation to 1-1-3. This is to be individualized study.
- 1-4-0 The students will be given letters to write. They will be evaluated by standards taught.

- 1-4-1 Review the different kinds of business letters.
 - A. Inquiry
 - B. Reply
 - C. Credit and collection
 - D. Sales
 - E. Claim and adjust
 - F. Employment
 - G. Social business
 - 1. Congratulatory
 - 2. Sympathy
 - 3. Invitation
 - 4. Thank-you note
- 1-4-2 Write a letter of application to Alex Smith, Roofing Contractor, 1842 Shreve Drive, Dallas, Texas 71356.
- 1-4-3 Use the opaque projector to show two or three letters in order to evaluate in small groups.
- 1-4-4 Correct errors made in the letters.
- 1-4-5 The San Jose Daily News, 40 East 4th Street, San Jose, California 95103, has advertised some antique hardware for cabinets for sale. Write a letter of inquiry.
- 1-4-6 Evaluation by teacher; students correct all errors.
- 1-4-7 Write a letter to a customer to remind him that his account is overdue. Make up the address and all essentials.
- 1-4-8 Individual evaluation of 1-4-7, noting tone of letter
- 1-4-9 Group activity: Select the best letters that have been written in activities 1-4-2, 1-4-5, and 1-4-8. Make a bulletin board display.
- 1-4-10 Using the bulletin board as a reference, point out why these particular letters were selected. Use the following as a guide to explain them to the class:
 - A. Creates a good first impression
 - B. Is correct in every detail
 - C. Is courteous, friendly, and sincere
 - D. Promotes goodwill
 - E. Is clear and concise
 - F. Is well paragraphed
 - G. Has good form
- 1-5-0 The teacher will show a transparency of a résumé. Each student will study copies from references and begin his permanent résumé for future use.
 - 1-5-1 Check résumés for correctness; show two or three on opaque projector.
- 1-6-0 The teacher will emphasize the importance of the job interview.
 - 1-6-1 The students are to review the steps of being hired.
 - A. Recruiting
 - 1. Advertisements
 - 2. Friends
 - 3. Agencies

- B. Selecting
 - 1. Application forms
 - 2. Aptitude tests
 - 3. Interviewing
 - 4. Checking references
- C. Induction
 - 1-6-2 List on the board the ways of recruiting. Discuss.
 - 1-6-3 Discuss application forms and have students fill out several. Use handouts 1-6-2 and others from file.
 - 1-6-4 Invite one of the counselors as a guest to speak on aptitude tests; showing examples of different kinds.
 - 1-6-5 Review materials related to interviews.
 - A. Preparing for the interview
 - 1. Know your qualifications
 - 2. Know the job
 - 3. Relate your qualifications to the job
 - B. Conducting yourself during the interview
 - 1. Appearance
 - 2. Manners
 - 3. Speech and conversation
 - C. Aftermath of your interview
 - 1-6-6 Play the tape and show the filmstrip, "The Job Interview!"
 - 1-6-7 Use the square review for a check-up.
- 1-7-0 The project teacher will explain to the students that keeping the job is more important than finding the job.
 - 1-7-1 Show posters "How to Keep Your Job" (counselor's office).
 - 1-7-2 Have each student work activity sheet 1-7-2.
 - 1-7-3 Review poster, "Ten Personnel Commandments,"
 - 1-7-4 Review for unit test by having each student write five good questions and their answers in relation to the unit.
 - 1-7-5 Use usage and mechanics handout 1-7-4 as review.
- 1-8-0 The project teacher will conduct the unit test, score, and evaluate as documented by monitoring written work.

ACTIVITIES

Directions: Think through the following sentences. Tell what is wrong with each and on the second line state briefly the areas of language usage and/or mechanics in which the writer needs additional study and practice:

Square Review for "The Job Interview"

A "square review" is a type of review in which the students share ideas from material studied. The chairs are arranged back to back in groups of four. Each student has pencil and paper. When the signal is given, each student writes down one idea that he remembers from the lesson (in this case, "The Job Interview"). The papers are passed around the group on signal, and each student adds an idea to each paper without repeating ideas. At the last signal, an appointed chairman from each group collects the papers, eliminates repetitious ideas, and presents his group's review to the class. This is an excellent type of review for reinforcement of learning.

1. Make a list of tips you'd give a new employee for his first day on the job.
2. Make a list of deductions that probably will be taken from your gross pay.
3. Using the following information, fill in the pay statement for Harold Collin's pay check. Double check your figures.

Harold Collins is a married man with one child. He works for Dixie Brick, Inc. His base pay is $2.80 per hour, and he has just worked a regular 40-hour week. Mr. Collins worked 10 hours overtime, for which he is paid "time-and-a-half," or $4.20. How much is his gross pay?

How much was his net pay if he pays $4.00 for medical insurance, $1.10 for group life insurance, and $1.50 each week for savings bonds? Be sure you include all other deductions such as state and federal taxes, social security, and dependents.

1. (a) Gross pay per week _____
(b) Gross pay per month _____
2. Net pay per month _____

I. Define the following words; then use each in two sentences:

1. their - there
2. accept - except
3. to - two - too
4. affect - effect
5. your - you're
6. desert - dessert
7. it's - its
8. principal - principle
9. who's - whose

II. Complete the following sentences:

1. Singular means _____.
2. Plural means _____.
3. A singular subject must have a _____.
4. A plural subject must have a _____.
5. The word "you" always takes a _____ verb.

III. Rewrite the following paragraph. Make it standard English.
(correct all errors)

The boss tries to learn you not to waste materials, but students don't always measure two accurately, and their you have it--another piece of material wasted.

There is also the problem of tools. The tools they are left laying around and you no thats how they gets lost or damaged. You've seen careless students, two, sawing into nails, using screwdrivers too pry with, and hitting chisel handles with hammers. It want be long before they'll have to be throwed out.

Sow I says in closing, Be a good citizen on the job and takes care of them tools.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Hi! I help Create that "First Impression" for your reader. I am the First THING he will notice. I should be addressed correctly.

Hi! I am a REPRESENTATIVE!
I represent the business that mailed me. I, too, help create that "First IMPRESSION." I must be neatly written and well-arranged so that my reader will WANT to read my message.

My message should be framed on the page so that I will look like a picture in a handsome frame. Then I will be an attractive message that:

- (1) will be high in attention value,
- (2) will transfer smoothly into the mind,
- and (3) will earn prestige.

INSTRUCTIONS

One Number Is All You Ever Need For Social Security And Tax Purposes
Special Attention Should Be Given To Items Listed Below

Fill in this form completely and correctly. If any information is not known and is unavailable, write "unknown". Use typewriter or print legibly in dark ink.

- 1 Your social security card will be typed with the name you show in item 1. However, if you want to use the name shown in item 2, attach a signed request to this form.
- 3 If not born in the USA, enter the name of the country in which you were born.
- 5 If a stepfather, adopting father, or foster father is shown, include the relationship after name, for example, "John M. Jones, stepfather."
- 10 If you have ever before filled out an application like this for a social security, railroad, or tax number, check "yes" even if you never received your card. If you check "yes," give the name of the State and the approximate date on which you applied. Also enter your social security number if you did receive the card and remember the number. You may find your number on an old tax return, payroll slip, or wage statement.
- 11 If you get your mail in the country, without a street address, show your R.D. Route, and Box number; if at the post office, show your P.O. Box No.; if there is no such way of showing your mail address, show the town or post office name. If mail under your name is not normally received at the address which you show, use an "in care of" address.
- 14 Sign your name as usually written. Do not print unless this is your usual signature. (If unable to write, make a mark witnessed by two persons who can write. The witnesses preferably should be persons who work with the applicant and both must sign this application. A parent, guardian, or custodian who completes this form on behalf of another person should sign his own name followed by his title or relationship to the applicant; for example, "John Smith, father.")

A. The Qualifications Summary

Before you start your campaign for the job you want you should decide (1) just what it is that you have to sell to a employer. Employment papers are
(2) (3)
sales instruments, and it must be prepared just as careful as a sales letter.
(4) (5)
They must present you in the best possible light. The first step in the (6)
job-getting campaign is to prepare a qualifications summary. a qualifications summary--sometimes called a data sheet, a personal record, or a résumé is a (7) description of your qualifications. It usually includes a statement of your (8) education your employment record, a list of references, and other data A (9) (10) (11)
qualifications summary is highly useful because it helps a person Recognize (11) (12)
their true worth.

I waited in the outer office, a bundle of nerves in my new shoe's and tie. This job was just what I wanted--needed--to have spending money for the summer. I would start out as a helper, but I knowed I could advance quick to a higher post.
(1)
(2)

(3)
Man, was it hot in there! I thought the secretary had said ten oclock, and it was ten-fifteen already. What was taking so long. My tie was hot, (5)
(4)
and my shoes was too tight. Maybe I could come back another day--

(6)
"David, you may go in, now. Mr. ledford is ready to see you.

(7) (8)
My heart started pounding in my ears. My knees turned to water and (9)
my mouth was like cotton. As I entered the main office I saw Mr. Ledford (9) smile at me, shaked my hand, and offer me a chair. I felt so awkward, so (10) inexperienced, so young!

I could tell Mr. Ledford was trying to put me at ease by asking questions and making small talk. Very slow I began to relax. After a while what he (11) was saying seemed to register, and I opened up even more. Him and I began to (12) communicate in earnest. I told him about my school, my interests, and my goals, (12) (13)
and he told me that he thought there was a place for me in his company.

(14)
I had the job! It was a thrill to be a "working man" in a large company.
I was to start the next morning at eight o'clock. It would be a great summer, after all.
(15)

UNIT IV
PARAGRAPHING

OVERVIEW: PARAGRAPHING

This unit deals with the major aspects of paragraph writing: sentence structure, punctuation, capitalization, vocabulary, unity and coherence. It is basically a review of past lessons from the eleventh grade construction trades unit. The purpose of this twelfth grade unit is to enable the students to express themselves concisely on a higher academic level. This unit gears the student toward the objectivity of independent thinking which he will need as he leaves the confines of high school to face the business world.

Motivation is the keynote to proper paragraph writing. The job of the teacher is to get the student to organize his thoughts and to think clearly and logically. If the student can obtain a writing confidence through the improvement of this skill, he then will be able to communicate well with others inside and outside of the business world.

UNIT: PARAGRAPHING

- 1-0-0 (4,5,10,11) At the end of the paragraph unit the students will demonstrate their knowledge of writing paragraphs (which includes the basic grammar mechanics) by at least a 60% accuracy score of a teacher-made test.
- 1-1-0 During one class period the teacher will explain and review, through use of handouts, the sentence patterns as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
- 1-1-1 Recognizing placement of subjects in a sentence
- 1-1-2 Finding verbs and verb phrases in a sentence (handout 1-1-1)
- 1-1-3 Writing of sentences using specific subjects and verbs
- 1-2-0 During several class periods the teacher will conduct a review of the development of writing good paragraphs as documented by the monitoring of certain written activities.
- 1-2-1 Reviewing filmstrip, "Steps in a Paragraph, 6-7"
- 1-2-2 Reviewing filmstrips, "Steps in a Paragraph, 1-3; 4-5; 8-9"
- 1-2-3 Reading of five paragraphs as examples
- 1-2-4 Writing of topic sentences, using specified topics
- 1-2-5 Writing of two paragraphs, using topic sentences from 1-2-4
- 1-2-6 Correcting of paragraphs in class by students
- 1-2-7 Reviewing of grammatical rules while correcting (1-2-6)
- 1-3-0 During one class period the teacher will conduct a review of building good, solid paragraphs through use of a handout concerning the standard paragraph as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
- 1-4-0 During several class periods the teacher will assign research topics in which the students will use available outside resources in writing their topic sentences and paragraphs. The teacher will collect, score and compile results for the students on the basis of their paragraph-writing abilities.

1-2-3 A

When man developed new tools to help him with farming or hunting, he worked with stones. Then he discovered metal. He found copper in Egypt about 5,000 years ago. Bronze was then developed about 3,500 years ago. Not long after this, iron was first used in Europe. Using metals gave man more control in his struggle against nature. He also began to develop a new technology for making tools.¹

1. Underline the topic sentence.
2. What is the main topic of this paragraph?

3. Is there a "clincher" sentence? If so, place two lines under that sentence. If not, add one using your own words.

4. Circle the subject or subjects in each sentence within this paragraph.

UNIT V
THE RESEARCH PAPER

OVERVIEW: THE RESEARCH PAPER

The ability to find information and to present an informative report of the findings is a vital part of achievement. Although not every step in formal research is used in everyday research, many skills can be incorporated for use in finding all kinds of information, from job assignments to home hobbies.

Knowing where to go and what tool to use to do research is a basic skill that can be employed by all people. In a career the ability to do research can be the key to advancement or job satisfaction. A person who flounders about, unsure of where to find the information he needs, wastes time and energy and creates a poor image of his competence.

Organizing and writing data are skills that need to be developed in order to achieve clear communication. Doing the research is only half the job; making it presentable is the final test. Writing skills and self-expression are reflected in a prepared paper.

This unit includes a review and an application of the basic research skills. Areas of construction trades, labor, and economics are explored and researched, and formal papers are prepared. The purpose of this unit is to expose the students to research and to prepare those who might get higher education for such assignments as they might receive.

UNIT: THE RESEARCH PAPER

- 1-0-0 At the end of the research unit the students will demonstrate their (4,5, 10,11) abilities in organizing a research paper by presenting a well-developed, informative paper that satisfactorily meets the demands of research as stated by the classroom teacher.
- 1-1-0 During one class period the teacher will present motivational and review material concerning research and the construction trades, as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
- 1-1-1 Discussion of the need for research skills
- 1-1-2 View transparencies, "Major Steps in Research."
- 1-2-0 During several class periods the teacher will guide the students in reading to select a subject for research and in defining the limits of their research problem, as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
- 1-2-1 Review the use of the Readers' Guide.
- 1-2-2 Discuss the list, "Topics for Research," and use this as a starting point in finding magazine articles to read.
- 1-2-3 Read and discuss magazine articles based on the interests of the students.
- 1-2-4 Discuss the handout, "Selecting the Subject."
- 1-2-5 Select subjects and define problems for research.
- 1-3-0 During several class periods the teacher will guide the students in finding facts and in organizing their findings for their research papers, as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
- 1-3-1 Review the steps in gathering information, using 1-3-5 (a), (b), and (c) from eleventh grade unit .
- 1-3-2 Review the steps in making a topic outline from notes, using 1-3-6 from eleventh grade unit .
- 1-3-3 Spend time making working bibliographies, taking notes, and making outlines.
- 1-4-0 During several class periods the teacher will instruct the students in writing the research paper as evidenced by the project monitorial system.
- 1-4-1 Discussion of footnoting
- 1-4-2 Review making the final bibliography, using 1-3-7 from eleventh grade unit.

- 1-4-3 Write rough draft and revise.
 - 1-4-4 Discuss the final draft.
 - 1-4-5 Write the final draft and hand in for teacher evaluation.
- 1-5-0 At the end of the research unit the teacher will evaluate the research papers giving equal percentages to form, content, grammar and usage, and style, as evidenced by the project monitorial system.

ACTIVITIES

1-1-1 Discussion of the Need for Research Skills

Almost every day we encounter problems or questions about which we don't have enough information. Sometimes our natural curiosities will guide us in finding some answers; however, sometimes we are asked to find specific information and to make a written report of our findings in a formal paper. In the world of work it is possible that your supervisor will ask you to do this. It is also possible that you might do it on your own and present it to your employer as a solution to a company problem. Most employers want to know the answers to questions such as: "How can we grow?" "What changes shall we make?" "Can we improve our service?" "How effective was the recent direct-mail campaign?" "Where shall we locate our new store?" "What improvements are needed in our lunchroom?"

It is a good idea to look at a research assignment, not as a big, dull, dreary waste of time, but as an opportunity to learn something. It is also often a chance to be recognized or considered for a promotion.

The following examples will show some of the kinds of questions for which people seek answers. How would you proceed in trying to find the answers to each of them?

1. A building contractor thinks that his telephone rates are too high. He wants to know what contractors in other towns must pay.
2. There is a spot on the living room rug. Mother wants to find out how to remove it safely.
3. A television quiz program asks for the title of the literary work containing the following quotation: "Neither a borrower nor a lender be."
4. The members of the class are discussing career education in Japan. They want to know what kinds of school books are being used there.
5. Two students disagree as to whether Samuel Gompers could have met Sinclair Lewis. They want to investigate whether the paths of these men ever crossed.
6. A high school senior is considering aviation as a career. He wants to know the advantages and disadvantages of an occupation in this field.
7. A young man has just finished reading The Jungle. He wants to find out if Lewis' interpretation of the meat-packing industry is historically accurate.
8. A girl is intrigued by a passage in her history book describing the building of the pyramids in Egypt. She wants to know more about life in ancient Egypt.
9. Several members of an English class have just seen a play by Shaw, Ibsen, Chekhov, Barrie, or some other dramatist of an earlier period. They want to know something about other plays the author has written and about the social conditions that formed the background of the play.
10. A newspaper story tells of a boy who attempted suicide because of a facial deformity. Several young people become interested in the subject of plastic surgery and the developments in the field during World War II.

Notice that in the preceding list of examples some of the problems are fairly simple, while others are rather complex. Some of them can be answered by a telephone call, an interview, or a glance at an encyclopedia. Others call for careful and prolonged investigation and study in many sources, most of them in the library. In each instance, however, the basic steps are the same.

HANDOUTS

SELECTING THE SUBJECT
AND
DEFINING THE PROBLEM

- I. Choose a subject which interests you. Your investigation should be a pleasant adventure, not a chore.
 - A. It may be related to an occupation.
 - B. It may be suggested by a hobby you have developed.
 - C. Your free reading might arouse your interest in a subject.
 - D. A class discussion may stimulate your curiosity.
- II. Choose a subject that you can handle in the amount of time you are allotted.
 - A. Avoid subjects that require extensive and detailed study. You are not writing a book.
 - B. Limit your subject to one phase of a broad question.
- III. Choose a subject that is neither too technical nor too difficult.
- IV. Choose a subject that has some importance to most people. Subjects should appeal to the average reader as in some way significant or interesting.
- V. Do not confuse the problem of the paper with the title, which should be short. If your general subject is "wage laws," for example, you might state your problem as, "In what ways are wage laws unfair to small business owners?"
- VI. For your convenience in gathering information, the basic question of your study should be broken down into a group of more specific questions. These questions may serve as your preliminary outline.
- VII. After reading on the subject, you may wish to change your questions, drop some, and add others.

There are times when we must use an author's exact words or we must paraphrase an author's words in a research paper. When you quote another writer's precise words (direct quotation), all the words quoted should be placed in quotation marks, just as was done on your note cards. There is an exception to this rule in cases of quotations that are four lines or more in length. For such quotations, no quotation marks are needed; instead, quoted matter is indented a few spaces from each side margin and (in typing) is single spaced.

A paraphrase, since it is your own language and not the words of another, is not indented or set off by quotation marks.

Since both the quotation and the paraphrase contain material taken from other writers, you must give proper credit to the authors. Employ footnotes for this purpose. The procedure is the same for quotations and for paraphrases. At the end of the quoted or paraphrased matter, place just above the line a small numeral, called a superscript. Footnotes are numbered consecutively in the order of their appearance on a single page, in a single chapter or section, or throughout the paper.

If what you are writing is a part of what is generally known about your subject, it is not necessary to footnote. However, if you have any doubts, give credit to the source.

Footnotes are listed in a separate list at the end of your written paper. They are numbered throughout the paper so that they can be properly organized at the end. For a guide in how to write footnote references, see The MLA Style Sheet, 2nd. ed., 1970. Different publishers follow different practices with regard to footnotes. The important thing to remember is that the form must be consistent throughout the paper.

In general, the following is a guide for correct footnote form:

A. For a book:

1. Indent approximately one inch from the left hand margin of your paper.
2. Place the footnote number in the upper $\frac{1}{2}$ of the line.
3. Give the author's name in the correct order, not last name first!
4. Place a comma after the author's name.
5. Give the title of the book, and underline it.
6. Give the city of publication.
7. Place a colon after the city of publication.
8. Give the publisher.
9. Place a comma after the publisher.
10. Give the date of publication.
11. Enclose the city, publisher, and date in parentheses.
12. Place a comma after the closing parentheses.
13. Use a small "p." or "pp." depending upon whether the footnote comes from one page or more than one page of the book.
14. Place a period after the page abbreviation.
15. Give the page number(s) from whence the footnote comes.
16. Place a period after the footnote number(s).

Example:

¹Pauline Arnold and Percival White, Homes: America's Building Business (New York: Holiday House, 1960), pp. 90-91.

B. For a magazine article:

1. Steps 1-4 under "A" above.
2. Give the title of the article and enclose it in quotation marks.
3. Put a comma after the title of the article inside the quotation marks.
4. Write the title of the magazine and underline it.
5. Put a comma after the title of the magazine.
6. Write the volume number of the periodical.
7. Put the date of the magazine in parentheses after the volume number.
8. Put a comma outside the parentheses after the date.
9. Write the page number(s) followed by a period.

Example:

² David A. Pease, "Changes Increase Mill Efficiency, Production," Forest Industries, 99 (Oct., 1972), pp. 66-67.

1. Type your paper if possible, or write neatly in ink, using paper of good quality.
2. Write on one side of the page only.
3. In the center of the first line of the first page, write the title of the paper.
4. Skip a line between the title and the first line.
5. If you are typing the paper, use double spacing, except for quotations four lines or more in length, footnotes, and the bibliography, all of which are single spaced.
6. Leave a good margin at the top, bottom, and sides of your paper.
7. Number all the pages except the first.
8. Begin each chapter or section on a new page, placing the title six spaces from the top.
9. Prepare a title page.
10. Prepare a table of contents.
11. Read your entire paper carefully to guard against errors. Fasten your pages (in the right order) into a folder with your name on the outside.

DIRECTIONS FOR COMPLETING MONITORIAL SHEET

A. Heading Information:

1. Class: Enter the name of the Interest-Based Curriculum Area, eg. Math For Industry.
2. Teacher: Enter name of teacher. If more than one teacher is involved, give the name of the teacher managing the instructional activity.
3. Date: Enter the date of submission of the monitorial sheet.
4. Objectives (By Number): Enter the numbers of the interim-performance objectives covered by the monitorial sheet. Process and task level objectives should not be entered in this area of the form.
5. Time Interval: Specify the beginning and ending dates for the industrial activities covered on the particular monitorial sheet.

B. Line Item Information:

1. Objectives: Enter the number(s) of the process/task level objectives implemented to bring about the behaviors specified in the interim-performance objectives noted in A-4 above. Do not specify interim-performance objectives at the line item level.
2. Estimated Time: Enter the estimated time for completion of each process/task objective. This should be noted in terms of days to the nearest tenth. One day is equivalent to the instructional activity period for the given curriculum area for a single group of students.
3. Actual Time: Same as #2 above in terms of actual days and tenths of days utilized to carry out the line item objective.
4. Date Completed: Date of completion of the instructional activity.
5. Teacher's Initials: Initial each line item to signify completion of the instructional activity.

C. Additonal Information:

1. Objectives Not Covered (List By Number): List those process/task objectives not implemented in the instructional activities for the given interim-performance objectives.
2. Objectives Altered or Added (List By Number; State Adjusted Objective on Back of Sheet): Complete as specified.

DIRECTIONS FOR COMPLETING TEST RESULTS FOR INTERIM
PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES

A. Heading Information:

1. Class: Enter the name of the Interest Based Curriculum Area, eg. Math for Industry.
2. Teacher: Enter name of teacher. If more than one teacher is involved, give the name of the teacher managing the instructional activity.
3. Date: Enter the date of submission of the result sheet.

B. Line Item Information:

1. Interim Performance Objective Number: Enter the code number for the interim performance objective for which data are reported.
2. Expected Proficiency Level: Enter proficiency level specified in the interim performance objective.
3. Date Tested: Enter date of testing for the specified interim performance objective.
4. Group Average: Enter the average for the student group tested. Use the same statistic as specified in the interim performance objective proficiency level (see number 2 above), eg., if 70% is the proficiency level then group average should be specified in terms of percent correct response.
5. Number of Students Tested: Enter the number of students measured for the specified interim performance objective.
6. Number of students meeting the Objective: Enter the number of students that scored at or above the expected proficiency level as specified in number 2 above.
