FOREWORD

This latest edition of the People-to-People Committee for the Handicapped Directory of Organizations Interested in the Handicapped is the product of the dedicated labors of a small, part-time staff, the cooperation of those organizations listed herein and the financial support of Committee members, particularly Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Ewing and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Warshaw.

This Directory became both a necessity and a labor of love when the Congress in its wisdom legislated an affirmative action program for the employment, retention and advancement of qualified handicapped men and women by employers having contracts with the Federal Government. Some handbook was necessary for the U.S. Department of Labor to use in pointing out to employers where and from whom they could obtain cooperation and assistance in the private sector in obtaining qualified workers with disabilities, including those with a history of mental or emotional ailment who were ready for work and those who were classed as mentally retarded citizens who also needed only an opportunity.

The Labor Department in issuing its Regulations to carry out the affirmative action section of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 saw fit to list the CFTH Directory as a source for employers. The small supply then remaining was speedily exhausted and some of the industrial giants and employer organizations resorted to duplicated versions of the 1973 Directory.

Thanks to Dave Brigham, CFTH Executive Director, and to Dorothy Dunnigan and Betty Tidrick of the secretariat, we are happy to present this updated version for use by the people of America.

The Directory can be used as a cooperative bridge between the voluntary and public agencies in the rehabilitation field and the marketplace where the jobs are. It is a reference source, by no means complete or all-inclusive, but probably the only and best one available. A careful reader will find herein those organizations concerned with the techniques, training, treatment, devices and procedures utilized in the modern American drama of helping the handicapped to help themselves.

- Creston C. Herold, Executive Director

ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

The American Congress of Rehabilitation Medicine exists for the purpose of providing a scientific forum for communication among the many disciplines concerned with rehabilitation medicine. It has a membership of more than 2,000 practicing professionals, educators and scientists who are working actively for the advancement of rehabilitation medicine. The organization focuses its programs and meetings on research findings, and new practice knowledge and techniques of interest to all professionals in the rehabilitation field.

The roster of current membership in the Congress includes physicians of various specialties...rehabilitation nurses...rehabilitation counselors...speech pathologists...physical therapists...occupational therapists...psychologists...social workers...prosthetists and orthotists...administrators...scientists...and engineers.

Membership offers an opportunity to contribute to the scientific progress of rehabilitation through interdisciplinary cooperation and exchange among all health-related professions.

The Congress is dedicated to these objectives:

- To promote and advance the art and science of rehabilitation medicine
- To provide a scientific forum for communication among the rehabilitation disciplines

To provide national leadership in the development of an improved and expanded delivery system for rehabilitation services

To enhance individual professional development through continuing education in scientific assemblies, seminars, and post-graduate courses

To recognize and honor contributors to scientific research, education and practice in rehabilitation medicine

To assist in the recruitment of personnel for careers in the many disciplines of rehabilitation medicine.

PRINCIPAL PROGRAMS

The Annual Session

The annual sessions include scientific and business meetings, scientific and technical exhibits, lectures, seminars, post-graduate courses, the John S. Coulter Memorial Lecture, the presentation of the Gold Key Award—the highest honor bestowed by the Congress—and the presentation of the Bernard M. Baruch Essay Award Medal.

The Interdisciplinary Forum

This innovative program is conducted on a national level for all professional disciplines to unify the concepts of rehabilitation. The program is developed along interdisciplinary lines in seminars centered on selected sub-themes of knowledge and practice and is intended to reflect the interests of the broad-based membership of the Congress.

ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

The Blinded Veterans Association is a national membership organization founded in 1945 to assist blinded veterans in their rehabilitation. The work of the Association is carried out by a Board of Directors of ten, a small national office staff, a Field Service staff of six and numerous volunteers. Since its inception, membership has steadily grown and includes veterans whose blindness has resulted from service during World Wars I and II, the Korean conflict, the Vietnam Era and peacetime.

The BVA's principal purpose has been to assist the nation's blinded veterans to effectively cope with and overcome the severely handicapping effects of blindness, with the ultimate goal of obtaining satisfying gainful employment commensurate with individual capability.

PRINCIPAL PROGRAMS

Services of the BVA, whether provided on an individualized basis through field workers or selectively through its spokesman function, are freely provided to all blinded veterans regardless of their membership status. These services include:

Legislative programs to assure the maintenance of high quality, comprehensive rehabilitation services by the Veterans Administration.

Information programs to alert the veteran to available services.

Activating and Encouragement programs for encouraging the blinded veteran to desire and seek rehabilitation

Explorative programs on the possibility of establishing and operating a national clearinghouse for information about training and job opportunities for blinded veterans.

Graphic Demonstrations, through the use of qualified blinded veterans as field workers, to encourage possibilities for positively dealing with handicaps imposed by blindness.

ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

CHAP is an official Air Force program established in 1961 and designed to make available, when possible, all the services required to assist Air Force families throughout the world who have children with a physical, emotional or intellectual handicap.

All Air Force medical facilities have CHAP officers assigned under the director of Base Medical Services. The assistance provided families may be in the form of counseling and referral concerning medical, educational or recreational services, special assignment consideration and/or financial assistance.

PRINCIPAL PROGRAMS

CHAP resource listings of available services and agencies on base and adjacent communities are published at each medical facility. Copies of similar listings of bases under the parent command are on file.

Assignment Consideration—The CHAP officer assists families in acquiring necessary documentation required for appropriate command review of requests for assignment or deferments. Individual cases are assured of available resources at each assignment.

Parent group organizations are available headed by chaplains.

Referral to base agencies are made when parents need help with: transportation, religious and special classes, volunteer assistance for special recreation, legal guidance, and hospital registrar for medicine needs.

Financial costs. The CHAP officer assists parents in obtaining the necessary care and benefits available through the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS). Other forms of financial assistance may be available through the American Red Cross, the Air Force Aid Society and private, local and state agencies.

Group projects are initiated at base level and receive support and evaluation from the Surgeon General's Office and Air Force Aid Society.

A CHAP Management Symposium is held annually for CHAP officers.

Council of State Administrators of Vocational Rehabilitation

1522 K Street, N.W., Suite B 36 - Washington, D.C. 20005 - (202) 659-9483

OFFICERS FOR FISCAL YEAR 1975

Thorold S. Funk, President
C. Owen Pollard, President-elect
Dr. Harvey C. Hirschi, Secretary-Treasurer
Joseph H. Owens, Jr., Executive Director

ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

The Council of State Administrators of Vocational Rehabilitation is composed of the chief administrators of the public vocational rehabilitation agencies for physically and mentally handicapped persons in the states, the District of Columbia, and the four territories. These agencies constitute the state partners in the State-Federal program of vocational rehabilitation services provided under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The Council's 80 directors supervise the vocational rehabilitation of some 1.3 million handicapped persons.

Founded in 1940 to furnish state input into the State-Federal program of vocational rehabilitation, the Council has, since then, provided a forum for state administrators to study, deliberate, and act upon matters affecting the vocational rehabilitation of handicapped persons. The Council serves as a resource for the formulation and expression of the collective points of view of state vocational rehabilitation agencies or all issues affecting the provision of vocational rehabilitation services to handicapped persons. The Council maintains communication with similar organizations in health, education, welfare, and manpower fields, as such organizations are related to vocational rehabilitation.

PRINCIPAL PROGRAMS

The organization provides a forum to enable administrators of state vocational rehabilitation agencies to study and discuss matters relating to vocational rehabilitation and its administration. It also serves as an advisory body to the Rehabilitation Services Administration of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. It has a similar advisory role to the National Rehabilitation Association. The organization meets in full session a minimum of twice yearly to communicate on issues of concern within the field of rehabilitation.

The NASMHPD is a state-funded nonprofit organization founded in 1963. It has two major divisions: State Mental Health Representatives for Children and Youth (SMHRCY); and Representatives of State Mental Health Programs for the Aged (RSMHPD). The NASMHPD provides:

- A means for exchange of information between state agencies for the mentally disabled on state programs, laws, plans, needs and practices.
- A channel for quick information reports on news of federal agencies and the Congress.
- A vehicle for communicating the objectives and needs of the state mental health agencies to the federal government (the administrative departments; the executive offices; the courts and the Congress).
- A means for state mental health agency administrators to meet on a regular and organized basis to exchange program and administrative ideas and to develop a national consensus and policy for public mental health programs.

The NASMHPD coordinates the actions of the 54 state mental health agencies with — other state agencies; national citizen voluntary associations and their state affiliates; national professional associations; national associations of other state agencies; city and county government associations; national health and mental health provider groups and consumer and patient advocacy groups and labor unions. Additionally, it compiles and distributes to the states, data and information on the administration of MH-MR programs in the states. (Surveys and Studies).

425 Michigan Avenue Chicago, Illinois 60611 (312) 527-4800

OFFICERS

Vincent L. Tofany, President
 John D. Lawlor, Executive Vice President
 H. Gene Miller, General Manager

ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

The National Safety Council is a non-governmental, non-profit, privately supported public service membership organization, devoted to encouraging methods and procedures leading to increased safety in all walks of life. Since its founding in 1913, it has been instrumental in collecting and publishing information and data regarding accidents; in the dissemination of educational and informative data and for all other information relative to safety methods and procedures. The challenge confronting NSC's efforts to minimize accidents and reduce injury has been multiplied many times by the country's tremendous population and production growth. Accidents, the Number One cause of death in persons between the ages of 1 to 38, rank as the fourth leading cause of all deaths in the United States. One person is killed by accident every four minutes; one person is injured by accident every three seconds.

PRINCIPAL PROGRAMS

NSC's more than 15,500 members are served by its headquarters staff of some 450 editors, writers, researchers, statisticians, and engineers. In addition to one regional office, it has 81 accredited chapters (including 21 statewide organizations) and more than 240 unaccredited state and local safety groups, working on coordinated accident prevention programs. Over 3,000 professionals in all disciplines volunteer their assistance in carrying out NSC's programs at the state and local levels. Strong public support is engendered toward the reduction of accidents in industry, on the farm, in schools and colleges, in the home, on streets and highways, in recreation.

NATIONAL SERVICES

To carry out these programs, the Council:

- Serves as a national and international clearinghouse of information about causes of accidents and ways to prevent them
- Stimulates accident prevention programs, advises companies, traffic authorities, industrial management, transportation officials, school administrators and farm organizations; works with organized labor, churches, clubs, colleges and traffic authorities as well as with industry

Maintains the world's largest library of accident prevention data; produces informative and educational materials; conducts safety achievement programs for industries and for commercial vehicle operators; furnishes technical information, advice and testimony, when requested, on pertinent legislation

Publishes eight nationally distributed magazines with a total circulation of nearly 3,000,000

Compiles and publishes annual data covering accidents of all kinds

OFFICERS

James S. Dwight, Jr.; Administrator
 Dr. Andrew S. Adams; Commissioner, Rehabilitation Services Administration
 Dr. James F. Garrett; Executive Director, Research Division
 Francis X. Lynch; Director, Division of Developmental Disabilities

ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

The Social and Rehabilitation Service administers programs of the United States Department of Health, Education, and Welfare that deal with the handicapped, dependent families and children. Of the several agencies and offices of the Service, the Rehabilitation Service Administration is principally concerned with the rehabilitation of the handicapped. Within RSA, the Research Division sponsors grants and contracts to study, develop and disseminate new and innovative methods of rehabilitating the severely disabled.

The Division of Developmental Disabilities serves those people whose disabilities are neurological in origin, such as the mentally retarded child or adult, the cerebral palsied person, and those with seizure disorders. The Division provides coordinative services to State, local and voluntary agencies throughout the country in an effort to bring a constellation of services to the developmentally disabled person.

Regional Commissioners supervise all programs and activities of the Service in each of the ten Federal Regions throughout the country. These Commissioners, and their staffs, work directly with State rehabilitation agencies, voluntary groups, universities, and other rehabilitation facilities and organizations.

PRINCIPAL PROGRAMS

Programs of Rehabilitation Services Administration deal with the supervision, management, development and promotion of the provisions of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. It provides matching funds, program support and guidance to State and local agencies in the administration of the following State-Federal programs:

Vocational Rehabilitation for Disabled People
 Disabled Social Security Insurance Applicants
 Disabled Supplemental Security Income Applicants

Services for the Blind and Visually Handicapped
Services for the Deaf and Hearing Impaired

United Cerebral Palsy Associations is a national voluntary health organization dedicated to a continuing overall attack on cerebral palsy. Its primary function is to seek solutions to the multiple problems of cerebral palsy, with affiliates providing direct services to the cerebral palsied in states and communities.

These affiliates are brought into program planning at the national level through their representation on the Professional Service Program Committee. This committee functions through advisory councils and sub-committees dealing with specific problems such as advocacy, transportation, living arrangements for the handicapped, infant programming, and services for teenagers and adults. Policies and programs are implemented through specialized departments, including the Medical, Governmental Activities, Program Services, Public Information and Education Departments.

PRINCIPAL PROGRAMS

The organization carries on a program of guidance, instruction, and assistance to affiliates and other community agencies, including:

- Professional service programs
- Research and professional training
- Infant care centers
- Adult vocational and service programs
- Governmental activities, public education and information
- Field services, including assistance in operations of affiliates, women's activities, youth activities, and affiliates' campaigns and organizational events

The national office of the organization carries on a full program of grants-in-aid to cerebral palsy research, training and education. The medical activities include development and publication of professional information for use by physicians and medical and technical schools; collection and evaluation of data relative to various methods of treatment; and dissemination of information to parents and professional groups.

- Dr. John Newdorp, Executive Medical Officer

ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

The United Mine Workers of America Welfare and Retirement Fund is a trust-fund service organization providing health services and pension benefits for active and retired bituminous coal miners, their families and their dependent survivors.

Formally created under the terms of the National Bituminous Coal Wage Agreement of 1950, the Fund operates on an industry-wide basis as an organization distinct from both the UMWA and the coal mine operators. The Fund is governed by a three-person board of trustees, as provided by the 1950 agreement. The board is comprised of a chairman designated by the UMWA, a representative appointed by the bituminous coal operators and a neutral trustee, who is named by the other two. The day-to-day business of the Fund is conducted by a director, hired by the trustees to carry out their policies. Medical direction is provided by an executive medical officer.

Headquartered in Washington, D.C., the Fund has 10 Regional Offices (formerly Area Medical Offices) spread throughout the nation's coalfield areas. These coalfield offices are staffed by more than 250 persons -- including public health nurses, trained medical administration laymen and rehabilitation counselors -- who are responsible for solving any retirement or health problems Fund beneficiaries may have.

PRINCIPAL PROGRAMS

The Fund's principal programs, and related activities, provide for a comprehensive range of retirement, medical and hospital services for beneficiaries and their dependents. Health care services include:

- Medical, surgical and related services for ill and injured men, women and children
- Vocational and other rehabilitation services, obtained by referral from outside public and private agencies for facilitating total rehabilitation of beneficiaries
- A full-time field staff who, as part of their responsibilities, are trained to work with physically handicapped beneficiaries
