

The following bibliography attempts to bring together references from the behavioral sciences which focus on the Vietnam veteran experience. Of special importance are manuscripts which deal with (a) the development and maintenance of intimate relationships during and after military service, (b) the relationship between combat experience and interpersonal competence, and (c) the relationship between the American family system and interpersonal violence. The primary purpose of this bibliography is to stimulate and facilitate research in the area of interpersonal adjustment and family life among Vietnam veterans toward greater understanding of and solutions to the adjustment problems among veterans.

Armstrong, R. I'm going to make it - I've got to! Saturday Evening Post, May 4, 1968, 77-81.

David, J. A. The psychiatrically ill Vietnam veteran: Special problems in management. Address to Episcopal Veterans Administration Hospital Chaplains, Episcopal Church Center, New York, 1970.

Discovery '69, 16 week course begun by CUNY at Fort Dix to facilitate dischargees transition from military to academic life. New York Times, April 20, 1969, 58.

Fox, R. P. Narcissistic rage and the problem of combat aggression. Archives in General Psychiatry, in press.

Freedman, A., Budman, S., & Hinkel, H. Sensitivity training with physically disabled and emotionally disturbed Vietnam era veterans in a N and S

Gallup, G., & Clark, B. What combat does to our men; results of a survey. Readers Digest, June, 1968, 65-68.

Harper, M. S. The young veteran vis-a-vis the veterans of the three previous crises and/or wars. Inference for assessing the adequacy of VA rehabilitation programs. Paper presented at meeting of VA Cooperative Studies in Psychiatry, Houston, Texas, April, 1970.

Heiman, E. M. Marijuana precipitated psychoses in patients evacuated to CONUS. USARV Medical Bulletin, 1968, 40 (9), 75-77.

Heinz, W. C. Vietnam crisis; what happens when war separates a young family; Captain D. Moore's family. Ladies Home Journal, September, 1965, 74-75.

Hill, R. The returning father and his family. Marriage and Family Living, 1945, 7, 31-34.

Home from the war. Atlantic Monthly, November, 1972, p. 56.

D. C., February, 1972.

Join the Army, learn a trade; dubious slogan. Trans-Action, November, 1969.

Lake, A. Now that he's home again. McCall's, January, 1969, 44-45.

Lang, D. Coming home. New Yorker, July 17, 1971.

Liberman, E. J. War and the family, the psychology of antigrief. Modern Medicine, April, 1971, 179-183.

Lindeman, B. Will somebody please welcome this hero home? Today's Health, June, 1971, 54-56.

Lumry, G. K. Psychological effects of prisoner-or-war experiences. Minnesota

Menninger, R. W. *What troubled youth are troubled about, diagnosis and pre-

The Negro veteran; a report comprising the study and analysis of problems resulting from the return of Negro veterans to the ghetto population in the City of Baltimore, Maryland. Washington, D. C.: Program Sciences Corporation, 1968.

Peck, C. P. Vietnam veteran. Newsletter for Research in Psychology, November, Pettera, R. L. What is this thing called "field consultants" in psychiatry? USARV Medical Bulletin, 1968, 40 (7), 31-36.

Polner, M. Vietnam war stories. Transaction, November 1968, 8-16.

Smith, R. W., & Young, H. R. Symptom patterns of psychiatrically diagnosed veterans who request treatment and those who do not. Psychological Reports, 1968, 22, 1001-1005.

Stenger, C. A. The Vietnam veteran: His characteristics, his times, and his war. Unpublished Veterans Administration manuscript, 1972.

Stern, D. B. Social work/psychology specialist with the mobile riverine force. USARV Medical Bulletin, 1968, 40 (9), 70-74.

Stress in flight and flight. Time, April 14, 1967, p. 57.

U. S. Veterans Administration. The Vietnam veteran in contemporary society.

