ABSTRACT

Developed by industry representatives and educators for use by vocational instructors, this guide focuses on the tasks and competencies necessary for a student to develop in order to secure employment as a counterperson in automobile, agriculture, and truck parts. The task list is an outline of various skills and proficiencies and covers sales, instore merchandising, outstore advertising, communications, store layout, trade magazines, security, orders, tickets, forms, parts and equipment identification, services, inventory and stock, and miscellaneous topics. The competency record, a replacement for the traditional report card, lists student competencies to be checked upon accomplishment and relates directly to the skills found in the task list. A list of industry representatives involved in developing the task list and competency record is also included. (TM)

Documents acquired by ERIC include many informal unpublished materials not available from other sources. ERIC makes every effort * to obtain the best copy available. Nevertheless, items of marginal '* reproducibility are often encountered and this affects the quality of the microfiche and hardcopy reproductions ERIC makes available via the ERIC Document Reproduction Service (EDRS). EDRS is not * responsible for the quality of the original document. Reproductions supplied by EDRS are the best that can be made from the original. *******************

JOB DESCRIPTION

Counterperson - (DOT 289,358). (Other common job title: Salesperson)

The Counterperson provides services for customers. He/she must develop skills in selling, stockkeeping, inventory, inventory control, and merchandising. This individual should have good mechanical aptitude, an I understanding of engineering concepts and knowledge of catalogs and their uses. He/she is a research clerk, reference clerk, counselor to mechanics, information guide, salesperson, public relations specialist, and mathematician. Flexibility is required as the Counterperson must be able to adapt to functioning in the role of housekeeper, engineer, or salesperson at any given time.

Graduates of the Counterperson occupational prefram find employment in wholesale stores, auto/truck/agricultural machinery dealerships, ware-houses, jobbers, and mass merchandising stores.

It is not assumed that he/she could be employed as the parts manager, credit manager, or merchandising manager without additional training and/or experience.

A student who has training in a limited segment of this occupational program may find employment in one of the following spin-off occupations: Shipping and Receiving Clerk, Stock Person, Machine Assembler (Agriculture)

TASK LIST

COMPETENCY RECORD

The competency record that appears in this section is suggested as a replacement for the traditional report card. It gives employers, students, parents and other teachers information about what each student can and cannot do. For example, on the competency record which follows, checkmarks could be given in the right hand column to indicate each of the competencies that a student has demonstrated. It is recommended that the instructor use the competency record as a record keeping device and that he/she refer back to the task list for more specific information about the tasks students should be able to perform when they receive credit for each competency.

Further explanation of how to use task lists and competency records is given in the orange booklet entitled "Competency Based Route to Vertical Curriculum Articulation". See page 19 if you wish to order a copy.
