National Evaluation Systems, Inc., has prepared for distribution by the Georgia Department of Education the set of content objectives found in this Study Guide. These objectives have been verified as important content requirements for initial certification. Not all of the listed objectives have had test items written for them. The selected objectives have not been identified. All objectives which appear here are certification requirements and a sampling of them will be tested.

When the project to develop the Georgia Teacher Certification Tests (TCT) was begun in November 1976, an Ad Hoc Committee composed of Georgia educators was appointed to work with NES on each TCT. The function of these Ad Hoc Committees was to review all NES-generated materials with a goal of making the materials more reflective of Georgia education needs. The first step in the test development process was that of content domain specification. Educators identified all content knowledge that an applicant would need to know to function effectively in a Georgia school. This content was further defined into content objectives, which were sent to currently practicing Georgia educators for verification. These educators provided actual ratings of the "job-relatedness" of the content objectives. At that point, it was possible to identify, from the original domain specification, the extent of essentiality of specific content skills for successful performance on the job. Test items were written for the most essential objectives which spanned the content of the field.

The purpose of providing objectives is to explicitly define the content required of an applicant for certification in this field. Further, the statement of these objectives should assist in preparing for the criterion-reference content knowledge test. We encourage applicants to study these materials, which will enhance their understanding of the content field and alleviate any unnecessary concerns about the nature of the Georgia Teacher Certification Tests.

Along with these materials go hopes for a rewarding career in education.

Georgia Teacher Certification Testing Program
Administration and Supervision (Field 023)

Introduction

This Handbook was developed specifically for persons preparing to take the Georgia Teacher Certification Test (TCT) in Administration and Supervision. The committee developed the Study Guide to provide relevant information and background.

Development of the Test

The Administration and Supervision Test was developed by National Evaluation Systems, Inc., working with Georgia educators, as part of a contract with the Georgia Department of Education. The test development process included content domain specification. Georgia educators identified the content knowledge that an applicant would need to function effectively in a Georgia school. Resulting content objectives were sent to practicing Georgia educators for review. These educators were asked to rate the "job-relatedness" of each of the content objectives. Their ratings made it possible to identify, from the original domain specifications, the relevance of specific content knowledge to successful performance on the job. Test items which spanned the content of the field were written for those objectives rated as most essential.

Subareas of the Test

The seven subareas of the test are listed below. The acronym identifying each of the subareas throughout the Handbook as well as the approximate number of test items included on the test are shown in parentheses for each subarea:

1. Overview of Leadership in Education (LE)(11 to 20 items)
2. Organizational and Legal Structures in Education (LS)
(over 20 items)
3. Management of School Operations (MS)(over 20 items)
4. Personnel Management (PM)(over 20 items)
5. Instructional Supervision (IS)(over 20 items)
6. Curriculum Development (CD)(11 to 20 items)
7. Social Issues in School Administration (SI)
(over 20 items)

Suggested Coursework Prerequisites

Results of research conducted by Schnittjer* in 1983 on the performance of examinees from the Georgia TCT in Administration and Supervision indicated certain tendencies which are summarized below:

1. Examinees who have completed their masters degree work with a major in administration and/or supervision as part of a planned program at a Georgia institution have a higher pass rate.
2. Examinees with a balance of courses in administration, supervision, and curriculum have a higher pass rate.

* This study involved 205 TCT examinees in Administration and Supervision who had done graduate work at four Georgia institutions.

Analyses of these results indicate that while the TCT may be taken at any time, the Handbook will be most useful for those who have completed their coursework at the fifth year level in administration and/or supervision.

Features of the Handbook

The Handbook has been organized according to the seven subareas of the Administration and Supervision Test. Included are references keyed to each of the test objectives for each of the seven test subareas.

This Handbook contains:

1. A listing of the content objectives for each subarea with specific readings from the numbered reference list matched to each objective;
2. Intent notes designed to provide some elaboration as to the scope and aim of most of the objectives; and,
3. A numbered listing of selected reference materials which are also cross-referenced to the appropriate objectives.

In some cases several objectives have been referenced to the same readings because those readings cover several topics. The references given are suggested references only and are not necessarily an exhaustive or complete listing.

The Testing Situation

In addition to the content objectives, the references, and intent notes found in subsequent sections, the examinee should be aware that:

1. There are 250 multiple choice questions with four possible answers for each question.
2. There are no penalties for guessing when unsure of an answer.

3. Examinees are given 3 1/2 hours of actual test time. However, at the end of this time an additional hour may be requested.
4. In order to pass the TCT one does not have to pass each subarea. Your total score is determined by the overall number of correct answers.

Test Taking Skills

Examinees wanting specific help with test-taking skills should ask for assistance from their college/university counseling center and/or refer to one or more of the references listed below:
