ABSTRACT

This catalog is a reference guide to microcomputer-based library software. It is noted that a CMBLS listing does not constitute a recommendation, as recommendations are not the policy of the FEDLINK (Federal Library and Information Network) Library Automation Resource Service, and that the catalog errs on the side of overinclusion to give the individual user many packages to explore on his/her own. Software is listed alphabetically under broad headings that indicate specific areas of application: (1) Acquisitions; (2) Cataloging; (3) Circulation; (4) Interlibrary Loan; and (5) Serials Control. Multifunction software packages are listed separately under each function they are designed to perform. Library systems claiming to be integrated are listed under Integrated Library Systems as well as under each function they are designed to perform. Each entry includes the software publisher, name and version of the software package, date of its publication, address and telephone number of the publisher, and a brief description with a price listing. Instructions are given for submitting additions to the list or corrections to items in this catalog, which is produced from a regularly updated database. A directory of publishers and a subject index are provided. (SD)

About FLICC/FEDLINK

The Federal Library and Information Network (FEDLINK) is a cooperative program of the Federal Library and Information Center Committee (FLICC). The network offers, by federal agency, through its library, information center, or other information-oriented office, the opportunity to enhance the information resources available to meet the requirements of its personnel.

Through FLICC/FEDLINK, agencies have cost-effective access to a number of information and operations support services including online reference databases from the major vendors, online cataloging, interlibrary loan, acquisitions, and serials control from bibliographic utilities, and ordering services of book jobbers and serial subscription agencies.

Using FLICC/FEDLINK service contracts, federal libraries, information centers and other offices obtain services directly from commercial sources. These contracts usually provide substantial discounts not available to individual customers. For both large and small volume users, this approach secures favorable terms assuring lower costs.

The FLICC/FEDLINK program operates under the Library of Congress Department of Procurement Authority (DPA) grant from the General Services Administration (GSA). Arrangements for initiation and payment for services are made through a purchase order agreement (POA) executed by the appropriate agency and the Library of Congress, acting as agent for the Federal Library and Information Center Committee.

For further information about these services, write FLICC, Library of Congress, Washington, DC 20540, or telephone (202) 707-4454.

Introduction

The CMBS (pronounced "symbols") catalog is a reference guide to microcomputer-based library software. General purpose software packages (such as Lotus 1-2-3, dBase, or WordPerfect) are not listed in CMBS.

Organization: Software is listed alphabetically under broad headings that indicate specific areas of application: Acquisitions, Cataloging, Circulation, Interlibrary Loan, and Serials Control. Multi-function software packages are listed separately under each function they are designed to perform. Library systems claiming to be "integrated" are listed under Integrated Library Systems as well as under each appropriate area of application.

More and more software programs are becoming available that perform less generally recognized but clearly library-related activities. These programs are listed under software headings appropriate to the activities they perform. For example, packages that format citations in a variety of ways will be found in the Bibliographics section of the catalog. Similar software programs are Vendor-specific Acquisitions Systems, and CD-ROM.

Entries: Each entry includes the software publisher, name (in large type), version, date of publication, address and phone number of publisher, and a brief description with price listing. Information about each package was collected from a variety of sources: actual examination of packages or demonstration disks, advertisements, published reviews, and trade and professional newsletters.

Any software version indication higher than "1" was obtained from an examination of the product and is accurate. However, some versions and date listings are not bibliographically reliable. In instances in which a product was known to be the first public version even though it did not carry that designation, "Version 1" and either the date the product was announced or the date it was received in FEDLINK's collection is listed. In cases in which version and date are approximate, the listing "Version ?" appears.

Selection and recommendation: A CMBS listing does not constitute a recommendation, as recommendations are not the policy of the FEDLINK Library Automation Resource Service. This catalog errs on the side of overinclusion, in order to give the individual user many packages to explore on his/her own.

Updates: This catalog is produced from a regularly updated database. Additions to the list, or corrections to items in this catalog, may be sent to FEDLINK via paper mail or the Automated Library Information Exchange (ALIX) bulletin board. An ASCII version of this file may also be downloaded free of charge from ALIX at 202-707-9656 (1200 baud, 8 data bits, 1 stop bit, no parity). ||

ACQUISITIONS

Advanced Libraries and Information, Inc : ALPI (Version ?, 1985) 2570 S. Beretania Street #207, Honolulu HI 96826 (808-947-4441)

Integrated package operating on an IBM PC/XT with PICK operating system. Formerly known as Advanced Library Concepts. Prices vary from $23,000. System acquired by GEAC January, 1989.

Brodart Automation, Inc : Bookbase Acquisition System (Version ?, May 1987) 500 Arch Street, Williamsport PA 17705 (800-233-8467)

Full featured, multi-vendor acquisition system operating in 512K RAM and with a 20MB hard disk. Four modules for $2000.
