ABSTRACT

This curriculum outline introduces the components of a Latin America Civilization course which acquaints students with the Philippines and the similarities that exist between the Philippines and Latin America. First, the goals and student objectives of the course, which emphasizes the history, economic, political, religious, ethnic, and social problems of the Philippines, are presented. Next, the course outline and assignments are provided, highlighting the following periods: (1) the Philippines before the coming of Spain, focusing on classes and social practices; (2) the Spanish conquest of the Philippines, exploring reasons for the conquest, Spanish rule, foreign challenges to Spanish rule, consequences of Spanish presence, Christianization of the Philippines, social classes, and economic development; (3) development of Filipino nationalism, concluding with the Philippine revolution; and (4) the United States' rule in the Philippines, focusing on the coming of the United States, the Philippine-American war, social and economic progress, peaceful struggle for independence, the Commonwealth of the Philippines, Japanese occupation, and the Philippines as an independent nation. The remainder of the outline consists of the student pretest, activities and strategies for presenting material, audiovisual materials used for the course, and comparisons and contrasts of the Spanish colonization of the Philippines and of Latin America. Contains bibliographies for students and teachers. (TGI)

8. How did Corazon Aquino become president?

V. Activities/Strategies for Presenting Material

The instructor can assign reading sections and chapters that students must read and discuss in class. The instructor may also show the video "The Pacific Century # 8" on the Philippines.

Comparisons can be drawn between Latin America and the Philippines regarding the problems and issues that face both regions. These activities can be discussed in small groups or with the instructor leading the discussion.

VI. Audio-Visual Materials--Located in Communication South Office 110

Overhead transparencies (several)

Videocassette (35 minutes) "The Pacific Century # 8" (located in the library)

Maps to give each student.

VIII. Comparisons and Contrasts of Cultures

The Philippines were first settled by Malay tribes followed by the Chinese. After this period, the Philippines were invaded by the Spanish and colonized by them. This period of Spanish Colonial Rule lasted over 300 years, until the United States became the Colonial Ruler in 1898, as a result of the Spanish-American War. The issues and problems that affected the Philippines also affected the nations of Latin America. These two regions undoubtedly have a Spanish connection worthy of discussion.

Bibliography for Students

1. Philippines: A Country of Study. 1993, Library of Congress.

I find this book particularly important. Its chapters provide a basic understanding of the Filipinos. It gives a good description of the Filipinos from the Pre-European contact to the present. A very interesting account and description of the Filipinos' values and beliefs, as well as their common interests and issues on which they are united and divided, are discussed. Their attitudes toward each other and toward their social system and political order are topics one would find of interest. I recommend this book be read by the instructor and students.

2. Abeleda, Alberto S., Jr. Philippines History and Government. Published by Saint Bernardette Publications, Inc.

This book was printed in the Philippines. I recommend the instructor read this book and pass out handouts of selected chapters. The book was written by a Filipino for Filipinos. The book gives me a new perspective on how Filipinos look at themselves.

3. Karnow, Stanley. In Our Image: America's Empire in the Philippines. 1989, Library.
4. Editorial Research Reports: The Philippines. 1992.
5. Background Notes: The Philippines 1989. United States Department of State.
6. Cultugram--Republic of the Philippines. 1990.
7. The Filipino Express. A Matter of Faith: A Look at the Filipino Community's Christian Churches.
8. Steinberg, David Joel. The Philippines: A Singular and Plural Place. 1990 Westview Press (This book can be found in the St. Louis Public Library.)

This book is particularly interesting because it identifies the Philippines as a unified nation with a single people, as well as highly divided society between Christians and Muslims, peasants and city dwellers, uplanders and lowlanders, rich and poor, and between the people of one ethnic, linguistic or geographic region and those of another.

Even though many of their institutions were inherited from Colonial past, their ways of life do not always show that perception. The Filipinos have their own self identity. (The instructor can design individual chapters or handouts.)
