ABSTRACT

As part of the institutional assessment plan at Florida's Pensacola Junior College (PJC), unit supervisors complete reports on one or more indicators of effectiveness related to 51 goals in 16 functional areas. This handbook provides a guide for completing unit reports for the 1996-97 assessment cycle. Following an introduction describing the purposes of assessment at PJC, the responsibilities of functional area leaders are described and the titles of leaders are provided for each area. Next, lists of personnel are provided in the institutional effectiveness assessment units for academic departments at PJC's four campuses, instructional and support services, and district administrative services. A timetable for the 1996-97 assessment and instructions for completing unit reports are then presented, followed by a list of PJC's 11 strategic goals for the period from 1992-93 to 1997-98. An extensive appendix provides blank and sample assessment report forms and a 1996 report on PJC's goal, objective, and indicator statements. This report includes the college's philosophy and mission statements; a list of strategic goals; and descriptions of the goals, objectives, and indicators in the following 16 function areas: admissions, curricular completion requirements, curriculum, community programs, faculty quality and development, learning resources, instructional support, computer resources, organization and administration, financial resources, physical resources, grants, instructional effectiveness, institutional advancement, institutional research, and student development services. ## INTRODUCTION

This handbook is intended to provide a simple guide for completing the unit reports for PJC's institutional effectiveness assessment for 1996-1997. As in past years the reporting process for each indicator has been reduced to a single page form. This process is for the general improvement of the college, to allow the various parts of the college to report on their good work and productivity, and to comply with the requirements of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools as expressed in the most current Criteria (Section III).

The concept of institutional effectiveness is at the heart of the Commission's philosophy of accreditation and is central to institutional programs and operations. It pervades the Criteria for Accreditation. This concept presumes that each member institution is engaged in an ongoing quest for quality and can demonstrate how well it fulfills its stated purpose. The quality and effectiveness of education provided by each member institution are major considerations in accreditation decisions. Although evaluation of educational quality and effectiveness is a difficult task requiring careful analysis and professional judgement, each member institution is expected to document quality and effectiveness by employing a comprehensive system of planning and evaluation in all major aspects of the institution.

The Commission advocates no single interpretation of the concept of institutional effectiveness. It does, however, expect each member institution to develop a broad-based system to determine institutional effectiveness appropriate to its own context and purpose, to use the purpose statement as the foundation of planning and evaluation, to employ a variety of assessment methods, and to demonstrate use of the results of the planning and evaluation process for the improvement of both educational programs and support activities. Educational quality will be judged finally by how effectively the institution achieves its established goals.

The purpose of this process is not simply to comply with SACS mandates but to affirm the good work of the College and to improve its effectiveness. The institutional effectiveness process is an opportunity for each unit of the College to demonstrate its own high quality productivity. This is the fifth and final year of the current five-year institutional effectiveness cycle. A new assessment plan and procedures will be developed for the next five-year cycle.

ASSIGNMENTS 1996-1997

Each major functional area has a person who led the process last year for his or her area. The functional area leader this year is again responsible for assigning reporters and insuring that reports are made on time. (See the following page for listing of functional area leaders.) The usual practice is for functional area leaders to delegate these tasks to the various institutional effectiveness units.

1. Each functional area leader must report on each goal in his or her area this year (1996-1997).
2. Each functional area leader must assign for assessment this year (1996-1997) at least two indicators for each goal, provided that the goal has two or more indicators; or a sufficient number of specific indicators to insure that all area indicators will have been assessed within the five-year period.
3. Each functional area leader must plan each annual assignment so that all indicators are assessed at least once within the five-year period (1992-1993 through 1996-1997), including those already reported for 1992-1993 , 1993-1994, 1994-1995 and 1995-1996.
4. Each functional area leader must provide that each reporter he/she designates files a BLUE form for each indicator with the Institutional Research Office by October 4, 1996, and a fully complete YELLOW report form for each indicator by May 1, 1997.
5. In addition, each provost this year must insure that each academic department under his/her supervision will report on the indicators recommended and agreed to by the Department Head Advisory Committee. Each department head should be the reporter for these. The exact indicators for this year will be provided directly to each provost.
6. Use the current list of goal, objective, and indicator statements (R-96-777C). (Academic department heads should consult this list for format and style.) Old indicator lists are now obsolete and should be discarded!
7. If modifications are desired for existing goal, objective and indicator statements on the current list (R-96-777C) please submit a BLUE form on which the current language is written but is overlined (such as: ~~the quick red fox~~ ...) and the new language is added but is also underlined (the slow brown cat ...). It may well be that some existing statements are inappropriate and may be totally deleted (by using this process). If significant changes or additions must be made, these must be presented for review and approval either at the President's Council or CASA.
8. "Deferred" assessments do not count. (Deferred goal, objective and indicators were included in the 1992-1993 report, but will not be included in the 1996-1997 report.

Timetable and Steps
Institutional Effectiveness Assessment
Report Form
1996-1997

Step 1.

By October 4, 1996, using the BLUE Institutional Effectiveness Assessment Report Form write in at #1 the Functional Area for which you are reporting, then at #2 the number of the PJC Strategic Goal under which you want to report your unit's effectiveness.

Select from the master list (see the APPENDIX at page 14) and write-in a Planning Unit Goal at #3 and an Objective at #4 for your unit that directly follow from that Strategic Goal. You may use the same goals and objectives as you used last year (if appropriate) or you may want to develop new goals and objectives. Goals/objectives should relate to key and telling aspects of your unit's productivity for the year. Objectives should relate specifically to the output of your unit rather than its processes, and not the amount of resources consumed. An objective should state specifically what is to be done, by whom and by what date. A goal is a more general statement of what your unit does, or is striving to do.

At #5 describe the Indicator Standard you plan to use for this specific objective. This standard should be quantified (using numerical measures) in some way if possible. It should clearly show how well your objective has been attained. A cut-off or threshold number or percent is suggested to demonstrate attainment. (This can be a sum of items, or percentages, or changes in numbers or percents). In some cases a simple "yes" or "no" may be appropriate for a given standard. Use a separate report sheet for each Indicator if you plan to report on more than one.

Significant changes or additions to these goals, objectives or indicators must be presented to either the President's Council or to CASA for discussion and approval.

Please return the completed BLUE form(s) to Institutional Research by October 4, 1996.
I will record each and contact you if there is any problem.

Step 2.

By May 1, 1997: Using the YELLOW Institutional Effectiveness Assessment Report Form, write in the information you previously submitted on the Blue form.

You should at #6, record the indicator data you have developed for your objective and note if your standard was achieved. Please keep in mind that this process is not intended to be judgmental but to document the key productivity factors of your unit and to help identify areas for future development.

Briefly describe at #7, how you collected these data and cite any formal sources such as other reports or publications.

And at #8, write how your unit used or plans to use the information you generated in this process.

Please then return all fully-completed YELLOW forms to Institutional Research with any attachments by May 1, 1997. Attachments should normally not exceed six pages.

Your report will be used to generate a general report for the college which should be available in mid-August 1997. Your form will be reproduced as a part of this report, so neatness does count.

Please try to focus your objectives and indicators on the key aspects of the operation of your unit that best describe the quality and/or quantity of your main output. You should ask: "What best describes the main productivity of my unit?" Avoid using input data or process measures if possible. This is an excellent opportunity to highlight what your unit does well.

Introduction: Pensacola Junior College in the fall of 1996 begins its fifth cycle of formal institutional effectiveness assessment. Accordingly, an updated set of functional area, goal, objective and indicator statements is required.

This document is intended for use in the 1996-1997 institutional assessment process only. It is based on the statements generated by the PJC Institutional Effectiveness Taskforce and its subcommittees in 1992 and 1993. Over the past four years, various units of the College have requested revisions and additions to these original statements and these have been approved by CASA or the President's Council.

This document ("The White Book") includes in addition to the revised statements: (1) an index which keys the functional areas to the new SACS criteria areas, (2) the PJC statements of mission and philosophy, and (3) the PJC strategic plan goals. (Note that each functional area is cross-indexed at the beginning with one or more PJC strategic plan goals.)

If further modification of any of these documents for the 1996-1997 assessment year is needed, any desired change should be submitted to the Office for Institutional Research and Effectiveness, which will present the proposed change to the President's Council or to CASA for review and approval.

Each year the Department Head advisory Committee selects specific indicators to be reported by all academic departments. Individual academic departments may chose additional indicators for assessment each year. Academic department heads will be advised by the committee of this year's selections.

PHILOSOPHY AND MISSION OF PENSACOLA JUNIOR COLLEGE

Philosophy

Pensacola Junior College is a student-centered, comprehensive community college dedicated to providing educational opportunities that develop the personal, academic, career, and aesthetic capabilities of individuals so that they may achieve self-fulfillment and participate fully and positively in a democratic society.

Furthermore, the College promotes lifelong learning to meet the challenges of a changing world, strives for equity in access and in the learning process for each individual regardless of race, sex, religion, age, or disability, and provides quality educational programs and services that embrace high academic standards. Being accountable to its citizens, the College exercises fiscal responsibility manifested by offering services and programs at the lowest possible cost to support the concept of an open door institution.

Pensacola Junior College, as a comprehensive community college, must be many things to many people and must serve the diverse needs of the community now and into an increasingly complex world of the future.

Mission

The mission of Pensacola Junior College is to provide educational opportunities to meet the diverse requirements of all students in preparing for, and continuing with, lifetime education in career training and intellectual fulfillment. College credit courses and Associate of Arts degree programs at the freshman and sophomore levels prepare students for entry at the university junior level.

Associate of Science degree programs and vocational certificate programs are offered to students in technical areas to train for career entry and for limited transfer opportunities. Community services, courses, and programs in continuing education supply individuals and groups with particular needs and interests, whether credit or non-credit, as a lifelong learning endeavor.

The College serves those students not prepared to enter college level programs by providing adult basic programs, developmental programs, and adult high school programs. The economic development of the service area is supported through training and retraining activities in an attempt to attract new industry and expand existing industry. Finally, the College fulfills a commitment to serve as a center for cultural, recreational, leisure, health, and athletic activities for the enrichment of the students and citizens of Escambia and Santa Rosa counties.
