ABSTRACT

California state statutes and a series of court cases have required campus security and police departments to release information about incidents occurring on campus to the media and the general public. Despite the law and case decisions, recent studies reveal campus police and security officials are still reluctant to release information to the media because of the interest of the security/police officials to protect the privacy of campus students and employees versus the right of the public, including the media, to have access to incidents occurring on campus. The courts and the Department of Education have clearly identified the difference between "education" records and "law enforcement" records. The Federal "Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act" (FERPA) prevents release of a student's educational record beyond "directory" information. Criminal investigation and incident reports do not apply under this law. This paper reviews the laws and court decisions regarding release of crime information to the media. A general overview of California law regarding release of campus information the media is as follows: (1) law enforcement shall release general information to the media, including time, nature, and factual circumstances of incident, name and age of the victim, and a description of the arrest; (2) law enforcement shall not release information that would endanger the safety of the investigation, victim or witness information, information relating to juveniles, and identity of persons reporting child abuse; and (3) law enforcement may release victim information with the victim's permission, and the public safety officer under investigation with the officer's permission. CAMPUS POLICE/MEDIA RELATIONS

Philip Mullendore, D. Crim. Director, Police and Safety, Pasadena City College, Pasadena California. A paper presented at the California College and University Police Chiefs Association Fall Conference October 16, 1997

THE DILEMMA

California state statutes and a series of court cases have required campus security and police departments to release information about incidents occurring on campus to the media and the general public. The United States Supreme Court has stated "Public records by their very nature are of interest to those concerned with the administration of government and a public benefit is performed by the reporting of the true contents of the records by the media. The freedom of the press to publish that information appears to us to be of critical importance to our type of government in which citizenry is the final judge of the proper conduct of public business. (Nebraska Press Assoc. v. Stewart, 427 U.S. 539, 96 S.Ct. 2791 49 L.Ed.2d 683 (1976).

Yet, despite the law and case decisions recent studies reveal campus police and security officials are still reluctant to release information to the media. The Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) or better known as the Buckley amendment is usually cited as the reason for withholding information from the media. A study conducted by Tom Dickson, Ivan Holmes and Liz Naden, Southwest Missouri State University found there was a need to educate campus administrators and campus police/security officials about the right that student newspapers have to publish such information and other information that does not put the institution in a good light.

The issue, is the need of security/police officials to protect the privacy of campus students and employees versus the right of the public, including the media, to have access to incidents occurring on campus. Campus security/police officials when in doubt, don't release the information.

The purpose of this paper is to review the laws and court decisions regarding release of crime information to the media.

THE LAW FEDERAL STATUTES

Campus Security Act (1990)

Enacted in 1990, the Campus Security Act requires that colleges and universities which receive Federal funds release their security policies and the three most recent years of campus crime statistics for..

Murder
Sex Offenses (forcible/non-forcible)
Robbery
Aggravated Assault
Burglary
Motor Vehicle Theft

Also requires that schools provide statistics for the following categories of arrests...

Liquor Law Violations
Drug Abuse Violations
Weapons Possessions

Campus Sexual Assault Victims' Bill of Rights (1992)

The security policies released pursuant to the Campus Security Act shall specifically address sex offense prevention and include the following provisions in cases of alleged sexual assault

- Accuser and accused must have the same opportunity to have others present.
- Both parties shall be informed of the outcome of any disciplinary proceeding.
- Survivors shall be informed of their options to notify law enforcement.
- Survivors shall be notified of counseling services.

Title II of Public Law 101-542 The Student Right-To-Know and Campus Security Act of 1990, enacted by Congress and signed into law on November 8, 1990 amended section 485 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 by adding campus crime statistic and security reporting provisions for colleges and universities. The security provisions were amended in 1992 by The Campus Sexual Assault Victims' Bill of Rights to require that schools develop policies to deal with sexual assault on campus and provide certain assurances to victims

These provisions apply to all institutions of higher education, both public and private, nationwide which participate in any of the funding programs authorized by the Higher Education Act. The United States Department of Education is charged with enforcing the provisions of this statute.

Under the provisions of this Act all prospective students and employees are entitled to a copy of a school's crime statistics for the three most recent calendar years and security policies. Current students and employees are to be provided this information automatically. The Student Press Law Center maintains a page dedicated to providing student journalists with information on how they can use the Campus Security Act to better report on campus crime.

The complete text of the law as amended in 1992 follows.

Section 401(a) of Pub. These regulations can be found in the Code of Federal Regulations at 34 CFR Sec. 668.47 Institutional security policies and crime statistics.

Since the final regulations were issued the Department of Education has issued a Dear Colleague letter dated May 1996 which addresses Federal privacy law (FERPA) as it relates to the reporting of crime statistics, crimes handled by on-campus disciplinary proceedings and the method to file a complaint alleging non-compliance with the Act.

Campus Sexual Assault Victims' Bill of Rights (1992)

The security policies released pursuant to the Campus Security Act shall specifically address sex offense prevention and include the following provisions in cases of alleged sexual assault

1. Accuser and accused must have the same opportunity to have others present.
2. Both parties shall be informed of the outcome of any disciplinary proceeding.
3. Survivors shall be informed of their options to notify law enforcement.
4. Survivors shall be notified of counseling services.
5. Survivors shall be notified of options for changing academic and living situations.

FERPA

The Federal "Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act" (F.E.R.P.A.) which is also known as the "Buckley Amendment" (20 U.S.C. sec.1232g(a)(4)(A)) was enacted in 1974 to protect the confidentiality of academic records such as grade reports and financial aid data. K-12, college and university law enforcement records were exempt unless they were shared with other campus offices such as a disciplinary committee. Schools were able to use this as a loophole to state open records laws and restricted access to their campus security and police records.

Congress changed the law in 1992 to open access to campus law enforcement records, but not to disciplinary proceedings involving criminal allegations. A recent study however concluded that F.E.R.P.A. "is still being used extensively to deny student newspapers access to campus security records" (SMSU, 12/94). types of institutions of higher education.

F.E.R.P.A. prohibits the release of educational records except with the permission of the student. The institution can release "directory" information without the student's permission. Directory information includes the student's name, address, telephone listing, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended by the student. FERPA protects as confidential, information, information which a student is required to produce or divulge in conjunction with application and attendance at an educational institution FERPA was amended by congress to exempt from the definition of "education records" those records that are created by a law enforcement unit for a law enforcement purpose and maintained by that law enforcement unit, thus allowing educational agencies and institutions to disclose these records publicly without obtaining prior written consent. If a law enforcement unit of an institution creates a record for law enforcement purposes and provides a copy of that record to a dean, principal, or other school official for use in a disciplinary proceeding, that copy is an "educational record" subject to FERPA if it is maintained by the dean, principal or other school official and not the law enforcement unit. The original document created and maintained by the law enforcement unit is not an education record and does not become an education record merely because it was shared with another component of the institution.

A "law enforcement unit" is any person or group of persons sworn or non-sworn designated by the institution to control conduct of persons on campus and to protect campus property. "Law enforcement records" include crime reports and incident reports. If a law enforcement record is created "exclusively" for non-law enforcement purpose it will not be considered a record of the law enforcement unit. If the law enforcement record is created for disciplinary purposes only, it is then considered to be an "educational record".

CALIFORNIA STATUTES

The general rule in California is the media has access to information relative to calls for service and incidents compiled by a campus police/security department. The legislature has enacted several laws protecting the rights of victims and witnesses in specific crimes and has protected the identity of juveniles. The media may also have access to accident and disaster areas. They may not, however have access to areas determined to be a "crime scene".

CALIFORNIA'S CAMPUS SECURITY AND CRIME AWARENESS STATUTES

Enacted in 1992 at sec. 67380 (a)(3) of the California Education Code, the California law applies to certain institutions "receiving public funds" and requires release within "two business days following the request" for information.

Education Code 67380

- a) The governing board of each community college district, the Trustees of the California State University, the Board of Directors of the Hastings College of the Law, the Regents of the University of California, and the governing board of any postsecondary institution receiving public funds for student financial assistance shall do all of the following:
 - (1) Require the appropriate officials at each campus within their respective jurisdictions to compile records of both of the following:
 - (A) All occurrences reported to campus police, campus security personnel, or campus safety authorities of, and arrests for, crimes that are committed on campus and that involve violence, hate violence, theft or destruction of property, illegal drugs, or alcohol intoxication.
 - (B) All occurrences of noncriminal acts of hate violence reported to, and for which a written report is prepared by, designated campus authorities.
 - (2) Require any written record of a noncriminal act of hate violence to include, but not be limited to, the following:
 - (A) A description of the act of hate violence.
 - (B) Victim characteristics.
 - (C) Offender characteristics, if known.

- (3) Make the information concerning the crimes compiled pursuant to subparagraph (A) of paragraph (1) available within two business days following the request of any student or employee of, or applicant for admission to, any campus within their respective jurisdictions, or to the media, unless the information is the type of information exempt from disclosure pursuant to subdivision (f) of Section 6254 of the Government Code, in which case the information is not required to be disclosed. Notwithstanding paragraph (2) of subdivision (f) of Section 6254 of the Government Code, the name of a victim of any crime defined by Section 261, 262, 264, 264.1, 273a, 273d, 273.5, 286, 288, 288a, 289, 422.6, 422.7, or 422.75 of the Penal Code shall not be disclosed without the permission of the victim, or the victim's parent or guardian if the victim is a minor.

For purposes of this paragraph and subparagraph (A) of paragraph (1), the campus police, campus security personnel, and campus safety authorities described subparagraph (A) of paragraph (1) shall be included within the meaning of "state or local police agency" and "state and local law enforcement agency," as those terms are used in subdivision (f) of Section 6254 of the Government Code.

- (4) Require the appropriate officials at each campus within their respective jurisdictions to prepare, prominently post, and copy for distribution on request a campus safety plan that sets forth all of the following: the availability and location of security personnel, methods for summoning assistance of security personnel, any special safeguards that have been established for particular facilities or activities, any actions taken in the preceding 18 months to increase safety, and any changes in safety precautions expected to be made during the next 24 months. For the purposes of this section, posting and distribution may be accomplished by including relevant safety information in a student handbook or brochure that is made generally available to students.
- (5) Require the appropriate officials at each campus within their respective jurisdictions to report information compiled pursuant to paragraph (1) relating to hate violence to the governing board, trustees, board of directors, or regents, as the case may be. The governing board, trustees, board of directors, or regents, as the case may be, shall, upon collection of that information from all of the campuses within their jurisdiction, transmit a report containing a compilation of that information to the California Postsecondary Education Commission no later than January 1 of each year, commencing January 1, 1993. The commission shall submit a report to the Legislature and the Governor on July 1, 1993, and every two years thereafter, on the type and number of incidents of hate violence occurring in institutions of public higher education in California. It is the intent of the Legislature that the governing board of each community college district, the Trustees of the California State University, the Board of Directors of the Hastings College of the Law, the Regents of the University of California, and the governing board of any postsecondary institution receiving public funds for student financial assistance establish guidelines for identifying and reporting occurrences of hate violence. It is the intent of the Legislature that the guidelines established by these institutions of higher education be as consistent with each other as possible. These guidelines shall be developed in consultation with the California Postsecondary Education Commission, the Department of Fair Employment and Housing, and the California Association of Human Rights Organizations. The report shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

- (A) A comparison of incidents occurring in the year being reported to previous years for which there is hate violence data.
- (B) To the extent possible, a comparison of incidents of hate violence occurring at community colleges, the California State University, the Hastings College of the Law, the University of California, and postsecondary institutions receiving funds for student financial assistance with incidents occurring at colleges and universities in other states and private universities in California.
- (C) Findings and recommendations to the Legislature on the means of addressing hate violence at community colleges, the California State University, the Hastings College of the Law, the University of California, and postsecondary institutions receiving public funds for student financial assistance.
 - (b) Any person who is refused information required to be made available pursuant to subparagraph (A) of paragraph (1) of subdivision (a) may maintain a civil action for damages against any institution that refuses to provide the information, and the court shall award that person an amount not to exceed one thousand dollars ($1,000) if the court finds that the institution refused to provide the information.
 - (c) For purposes of this section, "hate violence" means any act of physical intimidation or physical harassment, physical force or physical violence, or the threat of physical force or physical violence, that is directed against any person or group of persons, or the property of any person or group of persons because of the ethnicity, race, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, disability, or political or religious beliefs of that person or group.
 - (d) This section does not apply to the governing board of any private postsecondary institution receiving funds for student financial assistance with a full-time enrollment of less than 1,000 students.
 - (e) This section shall apply to a campus of one of the public postsecondary educational systems identified in subdivision (a) only if that campus has a full-time equivalent enrollment of more than 1,000 students.
 - (f) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, this section shall not apply to the California Community Colleges unless and until the Legislature makes funds available to the California Community Colleges for the purposes of this section.

Education Code 67385

(a) The governing board of each community college district, the Trustees of the California State University, the Board of Directors of the Hastings College of the Law, and the Regents of the University of California shall each adopt, and implement at each of their respective campuses or other facilities, a written procedure or protocols to ensure, to the fullest extent possible, that students, faculty, and staff who are victims of sexual assault committed at or upon the grounds of, or upon off-campus grounds or facilities maintained by the institution, or upon grounds or facilities maintained by affiliated student organizations, shall receive treatment and information. If appropriate on-campus treatment facilities are unavailable, the written procedure on protocols may provide for referrals to local community treatment centers.

MEDIA ACCESS TO STUDENTS AND STAFF ON CAMPUS

May school administrators require members of the news media to (1) register their presence on campus, (2) comply with other conditions for interviewing students, observing an event or examining the curriculum being taught, and (3) leave the premises if their presence would interfere with the peaceful conduct of the activities of the school?

A public college or university would have difficulty in limiting access to the campus to the media during normal business hours. Most campuses are open with few barriers to the public and therefore the members of the media would have to interfering with the instructional process to be considered a trespasser pursuant to Penal Code 626 or 602. If the media enters a classroom then the likelihood of their presence interfering with the orderly process of instructional activities is greater. The trespass statutes could be invoked.

The California Attorney General rendered an opinion (A.G. Op 95-509) regarding the media's presence on a K-12 campus. The Attorney General concluded that school administrators may require members of the news media to follow reasonable conditions while they are on school grounds in order to prevent interference with the orderly educational activities of the school. These conditions may restrict the news media representatives in the same manner that access by members of the general public may be limited, i.e. requiring registration (Penal Code 627), accompaniment by a staff member while on school grounds, and denial of permission to enter classes that are in session. Members of the news media, as well as members of the general public, may be asked to leave if it reasonably appears to school officials that such persons are committing acts likely to interfere with the peaceful conduct of the school's educational activities (Penal Code 626.6, Education Code 32211).

RELEASE OF CAMPUS INFORMATION TO THE STUDENT PRESS

The landmark case for disclosure of campus police/security records was BAUER v. KINCAID decided March 31, 1991. Traci Bauer, a University of Southwest Missouri student and editor of the campus newspaper brought an action against Paul Kincaid, the campus security chief seeking access to criminal investigation and incident reports maintained by the campus security department. The campus held that FERPA exempted them from Missouri's equivalent of the California Public Records Act (Government Code 6254), FERPA prevented disclosure of campus police/security incidents, the SMSU Safety Security and Safety Department was not a commissioned police department and therefore records collected by them were not subject to disclosure.

The court ruled in favor of Bauer stating "An individuals enrollment at a state university should not entitle him or her to a greater privacy rights than members of the general public when the privacy interest relates to criminal investigation and incident reports.

Nor could the federal government have reasonably intended to make university students a specifically protected class of criminal suspects. This court concludes that records sought by plaintiff are not educational records the release of which could result in a loss of federal funding under FERPA.

CONCLUSION

The courts and the Department of Education has clearly identified the difference between "educational" records and "law enforcement" records. FERPA prevents the release of a student's educational record beyond "directory" information.. FERPA also protects academic data generated while an individual is a student at an educational institution. Criminal investigation and incident reports are not the same type of records which the Act expressly protects.

Criminal investigation reports are specifically excluded from educational records which FERPA protects. Criminal investigation and incident reports do not contain the same type of information which a student is required to submit as a precondition to enrollment or attendance, nor is this type of information created in the natural course of an individual's status as a student.

Campus law enforcement and security officials must realize that the press is entitled incident reports except as otherwise exempted by law. Police and security officials cannot exercise complete discretion in determining what records to release. As the court stated in a previous case, " Law has reached its finest moments when it has freed man from the unlimited discretion of some ruler, some civil or military official or some bureaucrat. Where discretion is absolute, man has always suffered." (United States v. Wunderlich, 342 U.S. 98 (1951)).
