ABSTRACT

This program review manual provides a common or minimum set of review criteria and standard reporting procedures for colleges to use in conducting a self study to determine how well programs are functioning in relation to stated objectives, the mission and resources of the college and district, and the needs of the students and the community served. Program review is essential in maintaining departmental vitality, demonstrating institutional effectiveness, and meeting accountability mandates set forth in Peralta's local institutional planning process and regional and national accreditation. The program review should indicate whether the program is effective and should continue as is, or if the curriculum needs to be altered, goals and objectives redefined, etc. Details on the composition of the program review team, procedures to follow, report format, availability of data, and time lines are described. Questions to guide the program review are listed by three main categories: Where have we been? Where are we now? Where can we go from here? Separate program review guides, data charts, and sample questionnaires are provided for liberal arts programs and occupational/vocations/ career programs. (JL)

PERALTA COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT PROGRAM REVIEW PROCESS

INTRODUCTION

BACKGROUND

The development of a systematic approach to program review in Peralta began in the fall of 1988. Prior Peralta program reviews, to the extent they existed, were primarily administrative reviews of quantitative data related to program viability. They were conducted in times of fiscal strife and the results were utilized to determine which programs were discontinued and which retained. Program quality, if considered at all, was a secondary concern.

After several months spent allaying negative reactions to program review by the faculty, the District Program Review Committee (DPRC) was established, consisting of faculty and managers appointed by the Senates and the Presidents. The DPRC was designed as a shared governance body consisting of twelve faculty, appointed by the College Senates through the District Academic Senate (DAS), and seven managers from the colleges and District Office. Faculty membership has been reduced to two representatives from each college.

The role of the DPRC was to (a) design and oversee the review process, (b) report annually to the Council on Instruction, Planning and Development (CIPD), and (c) suggest priorities for funding recommendations that emerge from the program reviews. Since the CIPD is not in a position to implement recommendations or to assure that they are given substantive administrative consideration, another step has been added to the process. A brief summary of each review and key recommendations along with the response of the district and/or college administration will be prepared as outlined below. These documents will be available on-line (IWS) and will also be distributed periodically.

To design the present system, the DPRC obtained samples of evaluation systems and materials from other colleges and districts and modified them to fit the needs of the Peralta Community College District. Pilot program reviews of the Computer Information Systems (CIS) and English programs at College of Alameda and Vista College were conducted in the spring of 1989 to test the program review system.

During the first cycle of program reviews, 1990-1994, the Office of Institutional Development was responsible for developing the program review schedule, conducting program review workshops, assisting faculty with the writing of the reports (supplying data, designing and analyzing questionnaires, formatting charts, etc.), collecting the final reports and arranging for presentations of the reviews before the DPRC.

The number of faculty interested in and able to serve on the DPRC dwindled over the years and the Committee became largely composed of administrators. As part of the Peralta Planning Process (P3) which took place in the Spring 1994, a Program Review Task Force was established. The Task Force examined the program review processes at a few other California community colleges. Generally, they seemed to be more complex systems than at Peralta. In other words, they would require much more analysis, personnel, and time than was currently expected of the faculty at Peralta. Therefore, the Task Force recommended keeping Peralta's current process with the following changes:

- Expand program review to include Student Services (Counseling, Transfer Centers, DSP&S, etc.), ongoing Special Projects (Puente, STAR, etc.) and other Offices (Admissions and Records, Student Activities, Financial Services, Personnel, etc.) in addition to the academic disciplines;
- Schedule oral program review presentations by disciplines before the College Curriculum Committees and Student Services before the College Matriculation Committees (and other appropriate committees for other offices) rather than a District Program Review Committee;

- Enable faculty to use staff development time to prepare the program reviews; and
- Forward a summary of recommendations from program reviews to the Council on Instruction and Policy Development (CIPD), the District Matriculation Committee, and other district committees as appropriate.

By reporting directly to college committees, the program review recommendations should receive the attention they deserve and can be more readily incorporated into the colleges' institutional plans, self-studies for accreditation, and other state and federal reports, as well as the college's annual budget development process.

PURPOSE

Program review is essential in maintaining departmental vitality, demonstrating institutional effectiveness and meeting accountability mandates set forth in Peralta's local institutional planning process and regional and national accreditation. The information gathered and analyzed aids in planning, decision making, personnel development, program improvement, and better utilization of district and college resources.

The goal of the district's program review process is to have a collaborative group of faculty and administrators analyze and discuss a particular program and generate a report and recommendations representing the best judgment of the group. The report should give insight into three broad questions:

- Where has the program been?
- Where is it now?
- Where should it go from here?

The entire process is based on clarifying program strengths and weaknesses and successes and concerns. The impact on the program of changes and opportunities that occur in the disciplines, the world or work, and in feeder and transfer institutions should be presented and analyzed.

Specifically, the program review will:

- Promote steady improvement in the quality and currency of all district programs;
- Provide an early warning system to alert program faculty and college managers to problems in time for proactive solutions;
- Generate data about external and internal conditions affecting each program that enable sound operational planning;
- Encourage intelligent and timely budget input to support steady program development and improvement;

The Program Review Manual provides a common or minimum set of review criteria and standard reporting procedures to guide the self-study. Completed reports will provide members of the community with current information about the vitality of the program.

Generally, the information provided should indicate how well the program is functioning in relation to its objectives, the mission and resources of the college and district, and the needs of the students and the community served. The program review should indicate whether the program is effective and should continue as is, or if the curriculum needs to be altered, goals and objectives redefined, priorities adjusted, and/or resources reallocated.

SELECTION OF PROGRAMS

All programs will be scheduled for formal review every five years. A four-year schedule was developed based on an alphabetical list of departments, with the fifth year reserved for those programs that were unable to complete their reviews as scheduled. Similar departments are scheduled to complete program reviews during the same term across all four colleges to encourage dialogue and comparisons.

PROGRAM REVIEW TEAM

The department chairperson or assistant dean will select a faculty member to lead the Program Review Team. With the assistance of the department chairperson and/or the assistant dean, this faculty member will select a program review team, consisting of full-time and part-time faculty and staff from the program. Faculty members from the same discipline teaching at the other Peralta colleges or at a neighboring community college, private college, California state university or University of California system could also be recruited for advice or assistance in conducting the program review. Likewise, members of the business community and outside experts can be called upon to serve as additional resource persons. The Director of Institutional Development is also available for technical assistance with respect to program data or statistical analysis of surveys.

PROCEDURES

The Program Review Team will gather and analyze data as outlined in the Liberal Arts or Occupational Program Guidelines.

Bases for the evaluation should include the appropriateness, adequacy, quality and/or effectiveness of the following:

- Program's goals and objectives
- Curriculum
- Scheduling
- Class size
- Instructors' qualifications and preparation
- Instructional methods
- Facilities, equipment and supplies
- Institutional support
- Administration
- Student assessment and placement
- Success of majors
- Success of Transfer students
- Job placement rate (if applicable)

In addition, the following data should be provided:

- Enrollment statistics: day/evening; full-time/ part-time; average class size
- Operating costs
- Students' persistence and retention rates
- Student demographics
- Faculty demographics

Satisfaction surveys should be distributed to students, faculty, administrators, and advisory committee members. The results should be analyzed and summarized in narrative form. The Office of Institutional Development is available to assist faculty in designing an appropriate survey and scanning and tabulating the results.

Special attention should be given to the recommendations stemming from the program review. Whenever possible, a proposed timeline for implementation of the recommendation should be provided, along with the fiscal impact and person(s) responsible. If the recommendation requires additional funding, possible funding sources should be identified for follow-up, including major competitive grants or foundation support. Recommendations should be realistic, taking into account personnel, facilities and funding constraints.

REPORT FORMAT

The final report should follow the outline as suggested in the Liberal Arts and Occupational program review guidelines as attached. One copy of the final report should be submitted to the Office of Institutional Development, along with a copy of the report on diskette, preferably in IBM WordPerfect. A short summary of the report should also be appended to the report to facilitate circulation of the recommendations to the appropriate administrators for their responses. The summary should include the following sections:

- I. Assignment
- II. Program Review Team Members
- III. Major Findings
- IV. Recommendations
- V. Administrative responses

AVAILABILITY OF DATA

The Office of Institutional Development will send a data packet to each faculty member designated as the program review coordinator for the Department. Among the items included are: Grade distribution by instructor for the department, printout of /PED screens, degrees and certificates awarded by student demographics, and class size statistics. Additional data is available on request.

/PED SCREEN INSTRUCTIONS

Program information is available on-line on the District's computer system. Security clearance is not required to access these screens. Type /PED; A, L, M, V for Campus; department abbreviation as listed in the schedule, and academic year desired. Press Enter. There are six screens showing student enrollment, student retention, number of active and canceled sections, Contract ADA, Prorata ADA, Contract FTE, Prorata FTE, Contract cost and Prorata cost. Department information is available beginning with the 1989-90 academic year.

Student demographic information is available on /SDS. The Departments should compare departmental demographics with the college and district figures, explaining disproportionate enrollment or success rates if noted by particular groups.

TIME LINE

Programs scheduled for review during the fall semester/quarter should submit their reports to the college curriculum committees by January 31st; spring semester/quarter programs, by May 15th. Copies should also be sent for review to the respective College Presidents, Deans and Assistant Deans of Instruction or Deans and Assistant Deans of Student Services.

CURRICULUM COMMITTEE REVIEW

The College Curriculum Committees will schedule a special meeting for the presentation of the completed reviews during the semester or quarter immediately following the completion of the review. Fall program reviews will be presented to the Committee in the spring; spring program reviews, in the fall.

The faculty leader with assistance from other members of the department or program will present the findings of the program review. The team members as well as all interested program faculty and staff, deans and other managers are invited to participate in the presentation. The committee will discuss the report and entertain a motion to either accept the report as presented or request further research.

PROGRAM REVIEW RECOMMENDATIONS

At the end of the spring and fall terms, the findings and recommendations of the programs reviewed during that term will be circulated to the appropriate administrators for their responses. These responses will be added to the summaries and distributed by the District Office to the Trustees, the Faculty Senates, CIPD and the College Presidents. Further distribution within the colleges will be the responsibility of, and at the discretion of, the College Presidents and the Program Review Chairperson.

The colleges may use the list of recommendations to establish priorities for funding that are submitted to the Chancellor and budget development group for consideration in discussions regarding program improvement or expansion. The development of a funding plan that best reconciles the program development needs of the colleges and the district as a whole is thereby facilitated. The adoption of the final budget in late summer permits each program with special development funds to readjust, if necessary, the Action Objectives listed in the Institutional Plan.

A complete file of recommendations and administrative responses will be maintained by the District Office of Institutional Development. This list will be revised and published for the Presidents and CPAC on a quarterly basis. A particular recommendation will remain on the list until the issue raised has been resolved or agreement reached that the recommendation cannot be met. All major recommendations should be acknowledged and receive an appropriate response, although, of course, not all can be accepted and implemented.

The Program Review recommendations and responses will be available for downloading through the IWS system. A draft of program review recommendations will be placed in the program review file in IWS as soon as the review is completed. A final list of recommendations and administrative responses will be available as soon as the responses are submitted. Thus, all interested parties will have immediate access to the recommendations and administrative responses.

In order to access the program review summaries and administrative responses on IWS, interested persons should contact the Data Center for instructions. No security clearance is needed.

It is strongly recommended that the district and college administration annually earmark a certain percentage of the budget to implement the program review recommendations.

QUESTIONS TO GUIDE PROGRAM REVIEW

After the basic data sheets of the evaluation are complete, the Program Evaluation Committee should address the following questions as applicable to each program.

Where have we been in the last five years?

1. What curriculum changes have been made?
2. What have been the trends in instructor work load and departmental budget?
3. What significant changes have been made in facility and equipment available to the Department?
4. What have been the trends in the following:
  - a. student enrollments by age, ethnicity, gender
  - b. student retention by age, ethnicity, gender
  - c. number of declared majors
  - d. placements or transfers of majors
  - e. student interest, motivation, persistence by age, ethnicity, gender
  - f. number of degrees/certificates awarded by ethnicity, gender
5. What has the department been trying to accomplish, and what evidence is there that progress has been made?
6. What are faculty perceptions of institutional support in the last five years?
7. What has been the effect of any mandated controls or requirements by external licensing and accrediting agencies?

Where are we right now?

8. Are the curriculum offerings appropriate in terms of their relationship to the discipline as a whole and to the students typically served by the program?
9. What are your current articulation agreements? With which colleges (or high schools) does this program articulate?
10. What is the current evaluation of the following:
  - a. workload/FTE faculty
  - b. budget to the program's goals
  - c. enrollment and retention
  - d. student interests, motivation, and persistence
  - e. degrees/certificates awarded
  - f. grading policies
  - g. major requirements
11. What are the faculty's perceptions of the current health of the program?
12. What opinions are held of the program by such agencies or groups as the following:
  - a. high schools

- b. transfer institutions
  - c. students in the program
  - d. counselors
  - e. college administrators
13. What is the pattern of retention rates and grade distribution by course and over the department?
  14. Are the facilities adequate to all the courses offered by the department with respect to size, structure, equipment, location?
  15. Is the schedule of offerings adequately synchronized with that of other departments in which your students are likely to be taking courses simultaneously? If not, what are the problems?
  16. Could you consolidate the number of courses or sections without adversely affecting program quality?
  17. Do the range of faculty talents match the range of offerings in your department?
  18. Is the mix of regular and hourly faculty a good one for this discipline? If not, what should it be and why?
  19. What activities have the faculty pursued to keep themselves current in their fields and open to new directions in this discipline? What opportunities have been available to faculty for this purpose in the last few years?
  20. Are any faculty involved in outside activities, professional or community in nature? Do these conflict or complement instructional activities?
  21. Could program performance be improved by alterations in class size? At what cost/improvement educationally? At what cost/savings financially?
  22. What is the general morale of faculty in the department?
  23. Is there any level of the program that is impacted (too many students) underenrolled?
  24. Is there an identifiable type of student served by or attracted to the program?
  25. Is there an intended sequence of classes in the program? If yes, do students follow that sequence? If not, what can be done?
  26. What are the most and least popular courses in the program?
  27. Are there regular student evaluations of the program? If so, how are they used? If not, why not?
  28. What strategies might improve student satisfaction with the education offered by the programs?
  29. Do any courses have unusually low or high retention rates over the five year period studied? What sense can be made of these facts?
  30. Are external reviews made of the program? If so, what recommendations have been made in recent years by these reviews?

31. What current societal attitudes and influences might be affecting the program, and how can you make better strategic use of these forces?
32. How do the revenues attributable to the program compare with the direct cost of delivery?
33. What percentage of the total college income is generated by the courses in this department, and what percentage of the college budget is allocated to it?
34. Are there instructional reasons why the offerings of this discipline should be more or less expensive than those of other programs?
35. What are some strategies, consistent with your educational purposes, for increasing revenues or reducing costs?

Where should/can we go from here?

36. How will any trends outlined in "Where we are now" affect the program in the future?
37. Is this discipline likely to benefit or suffer from expected trends in the following:
  - a. population
  - b. employment
  - c. technology
  - d. societal changes in attitude, conditions
38. What college or district goals are related to this department in a direct way?
39. What should be the major goals of the program/department for the next five years?
40. What actions will you take to meet your goals/objectives?

LIBERAL ARTS PROGRAM REVIEW

1.0 Program Description

- A. Please give a general description of the program.
- B. List the educational purposes or goals of the program.
- C. What criteria do departmental faculty use to judge whether the courses are indeed serving the educational purpose(s) above?
- D. Discuss any recent changes in the program (last 3-5 years) that affect the excellence or variety of offerings that have been scheduled.
- E. What are significant strengths of this program?
- F. What are current problem areas of the program?

2.0 Program Issues

This section of the report will include individual statements of concern that have been expressed by faculty, administrators and students regarding overall program viability.

3.0 Comparison With Other Colleges

Summarize briefly, any differences between your program and comparable programs offered in neighboring two- or four-year colleges and universities:

- Community colleges (e.g. San Jose, Foothill-De Anza, Diablo Valley, Los Medanos, Chabot, Las Positas, Contra Costa, San Francisco, Ohlone)
- University of California at Berkeley and California State University, Hayward
- Private Colleges (e.g. Holy Names, the University of San Francisco, Saint Mary's)

Also discuss how your program compares with similar programs offered at the other Peralta Colleges.

4.0 Analysis of Student Data

Analyze various student trends in your department/discipline--enrollment (ethnicity, gender, age), retention, persistence (term to term), number of students majoring, and number of degrees awarded, and success of transfer students.

Also summarize the student questionnaires or any interviews you may have conducted. Students should be asked to complete a program/course evaluation survey in classes on two successive days and evenings. A copy of the survey instrument should be placed in the Appendix with a summary of responses for all classes, including student comments on open-ended questions. Also indicate the response rate--the number of students who returned a questionnaire divided by the number of students who were asked to complete the questionnaire.

The Office of Institutional Development can assist you in designing student surveys. A Scantron machine is available to automatically scan survey responses and statistically analyze results.

5.0 Evaluation By Current Faculty

In narrative form, please summarize the results of the faculty survey that you selected to distribute. You may use the faculty surveys reproduced at the end of this section or design your own more specifically tailored to your department or discipline. If you need assistance in designing an appropriate survey or tallying and analyzing the results, contact the Office of Institutional Development.

The survey instrument and survey results should be tabulated and placed in the Appendix. Also list faculty comments made to open-ended questions.

6.0 Evaluation by Current Administrators

In narrative form, summarize the results of the administrators' program evaluation surveys. The survey instrument and survey results should be tabulated and placed in the Appendix.

7.0 Student Data

Complete the tables, as indicated on the attached template. Information for this table and following tables are available on-line on the six /PED screens.

8.0 Instructor Data

Complete the tables, as indicated on the attached template.

9.0 Program Costs

Complete the table, as indicated on the attached template.

10.0 Relationship to Other College Programs

- A. Indicate any courses that provide direct service to any other college program, and the program served.
- B. List courses outside this department for which one of the courses here is a prerequisite or recommended part of a student's program, and the courses involved, if applicable.
- C. Indicate any courses from other departments which you require or recommend to your students, and the specified courses, if any, related to that requirement or recommendation.
- D. What do faculty believe the offerings of this discipline will contribute to the lives of their students? Why should a student study in this discipline?

11.0 Conclusions

This section of the report will include a listing of significant findings from each of the previous sections of the evaluation report.

12.0 Recommendations and Goals

This section of the report will list the recommendations for change that are being proposed and an implementation schedule. Recommendations should be based on an analysis of the data gathered in the previous sections of this report. They may include any or all of the components that affect quality of instruction including curriculum, enrollment, equipment, personnel, facilities or budget.

These recommendations will be considered by your department chairs/assistant deans and deans in formulating their unit/institutional plans. If additional resources are required, please indicate possible funding sources.

The forms on the following pages are available on diskette (in WordPerfect 5.1 or 6.0 format.) For more information, contact the Office of Institutional Development at 466-7301.

ENGLISH PROGRAM EVALUATION SAMPLE STUDENT SURVEY

We are asking you to fill out this survey form in order that the college's English Department may get information on how well it is serving the students who enroll in its classes. By discovering what works and what doesn't in the English program, the department can begin making changes that will benefit students. Your answers to the survey will not be used as an evaluation of this class or this instructor but will be assembled with the answers from other English Department classes to help produce a complete picture of students' needs. Thank you in advance for your cooperation.

OCCUPATIONAL PROGRAM REVIEW GUIDELINES

PERALTA COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT
OCCUPATIONAL PROGRAM EVALUATION

GUIDELINES

1.0 Program Description

In four sections, the team will briefly describe the program, identify major historical events in the last five years of program operation, list the major goals that have guided program activities, and indicate ties with the community, other schools or postsecondary institutions and industry or business.

- 1.1 Description: A short description of the program, preferably taken from the college catalog. Additional information may be added beyond the description in the catalog if deemed appropriate, such as the program descriptions used in the Vocational Education Annual Report.
- 1.2 History: Identification of relevant historical events in the life of the program, such as major curriculum shifts, facility changes, and major issues addressed, drawn from written documents such as advisory committee minutes, catalogs or intradistrict memos.
- 1.3 Goals and Objectives: A listing of the major goals and objectives of the program, preferably written in measurable terms (e.g., increase job placement 20%)
- 1.4 Community Information: A listing of other schools, both public and private, that offer the program as well as an indication of industry need and support of the training.

2.0 Program Issues

This section will discuss statements of concern from all or any members of the Program Review Team that arise in the course of conducting the evaluation or working out the goals and objectives. Full disclosure should be made of all issues raised during the review process or as a result of the conclusions or recommendations proposed.

3.0 Program Advisory Committee Questionnaire

All members of the program's Advisory Committee should be asked to complete the Advisory Committee questionnaire. The Team Chairperson will tally the results and list any comments. The summary tally and comments should be in the hands of the team early in the evaluation period.

4.0 Student Questionnaire

All students enrolled in the program during the week following the first census should be asked to complete the student questionnaire. A group of students should also be asked to participate in follow-up surveys after they leave the college. Their names and current addresses should be updated regularly for effective longitudinal tracking to see if the program and training received helped them in future jobs.

Questionnaire results should be summarized in narrative form in this section. The questionnaire tallies should be placed in the Appendix along with any student comments listed by questionnaire number.

A representative sample of students who have attended the program in the last two years, and have completed or left the program, should also be contacted in a telephone survey.

5.0 Instructor Questionnaire

Each faculty member, contract and hourly, should complete the questionnaire. The results of the questionnaire should be summarized in this section.

6.0 Administrator Questionnaire

The administrator responsible for the program should complete the questionnaire. The results of the questionnaire should be summarized in this section.

7.0 Analysis of Student Data

This is a detailed analysis of student participation in the program. The data is available on the /PED screens or other district reports.

Information from student interviews or surveys may also be included.

8.0 Analysis of Instructor Data

The chart displays a detailed listing over a five-year period of instructor load assigned to the program and instructor productivity. It also summarizes the program's personnel costs in terms of salaries and benefits.

9.0 Analysis of Program Costs

In this table, summarize all program costs.

10.0 Summary of Labor Market Implications

In this section, the labor market information and implications for your program -- present and future -- should be discussed in terms of program size, components, facilities, and equipment. Information on the labor market for the Peralta service area can be obtained from the Employment Development Department.

11.0 Conclusions

In this section, the major conclusion(s) from each prior section of the report will be summarized.

12.0 Recommendations and Goals

This section of the report will list the recommendations for change that are being proposed and an implementation plan and schedule for each recommendation. Recommendations should be based on analysis of the data gathered in the previous sections of this report. They may include any or all of the components that affect quality instruction including curriculum, enrollment, equipment, personnel, facilities or budget.
