Creating Project Improvement Plans and Teams

For each improvement area selected as a priority by the group, develop an action plan by specifying:

Department(s):	Team Leader:
Project Description:
Action Steps:	Team Members:
3.	.
Funding Considerations:
Communication Considerations:

Project Planning Phases

Phase I
Framing the Project
 Small group does initial planning and forms subgroups.

Phase II
Distributing the Work
 Sub-teams are organized to undertake projects.

Phase III
Refinement of Work
 Sub-teams are created, where appropriate, for refinement and a deeper look into particular areas.

Teams keep others in the department informed of work and report back to larger group.

Advantages:

- Capitalizes on expertise at various levels of the organization
- Results in involving many people, not just core team
- Enhances understanding and buy-in
- Small teams facilitate easy scheduling
- Each team contains a member of planning group to provide continuity and inclusion of work in final outcome

THE EVALUATION AND SCORING PROCESS

The seven Excellence in Higher Education categories are an important dimension of organizational excellence in higher education. In this sense, all are components of a complex, interrelated, and interdependent system. For purposes of analysis, the EHE approach "freezes" the ongoing dynamics of an institution, department, or program and focuses on each component individually to gain a better sense of organizational strengths and potential areas for improvement. Figure 1 summarizes the areas addressed under each category.

Approach, Implementation, and Outcomes

Categories 1.0 through 6.0 are concerned with approach and implementation, while the focus of category 7.0 is on outcomes.

Approach refers to the methods and strategies used by your organization. Approach is evaluated based on the extent to which the methods and strategies used are:

- ✓ Effective
- ✓ Systematic
- ✓ Integrated
- ✓ Innovative
- ✓ Consistently applied
- ✓ Based on reliable information
- ✓ Regularly evaluated and improved

Implementation relates to the manner and extent to which approaches are implemented and applied within an organization. More specifically, implementation focuses on the extent to which the approach is:

- ✓ Implemented with consistency
- ✓ Implemented in all areas and work groups
- ✓ Monitored and continually improved

Results refer to outcomes and achievements. The focus is on:

- ✓ Documented outcomes and achievements
- ✓ Assessments of current performance
- ✓ Examination of improvement trends over time

Percentage Ratings

For each category, approach, implementation and/or results are rated from 0 to 100 percent. At one end of the continuum is a rating of 100 percent, which would be appropriate if all criteria set forth in a particular category were fully addressed, such that the organization is an international leader in this area. At the other extreme, a rating of 0 would be appropriate if the organization has not addressed any of the criteria in the category. The Percentage Rating Guide (form A) in the Forms and Guides section of this workbook provides a detailed description of the percentage scoring ranges and their interpretation.

Unlike the assessment scale familiar to most educators, 50 percent or 60 percent are not “failing” ratings in the Excellence in Higher Education or Baldrige frameworks. Rather, as described in form A, these middle-range ratings are used to characterize organizations with reasonably successful approaches and implementation strategies and results.

A Rating Summary (form B) is provided for recording percentage ratings for each category in the Forms and Guides section. When the assessment is complete, the result is a profile like that illustrated in figure 2.

Categories and Point Values Categories

Each of the seven EHE categories has assigned point values (figure 3). In all, 1,000 possible points are available to be awarded. A more detailed breakdown of point values for items within categories is shown in figure 4.

For each category, the scoring process consists of:

- (1) Determining the percentage rating that best corresponds to the extent of approach/implementation or results for each category (typically, by averaging the ratings of all the individuals participating in the assessment process).
- (2) Multiplying the average percentage (the "rating") by the point value—the weighting—for the category. For instance, if the average Leadership rating for a particular organization is 40 percent, multiply that percentage by the 120 points available for the category. A total of 48 points would be awarded ($.40 \times 120 = 48.0$).

Forms C to I can be used to calculate percentage ratings and scores for each category. Form J can be used to record summaries for all categories. As suggested in Form J, the total score for an institution, department, or program is derived by adding the point values from all categories.

EXCELLENCE IN HIGHER EDUCATION, 2003-2004

developed by Brent D. Ruben, Ph.D.

Self-assessment leads to stronger performance in our nation's colleges and universities. That's the premise of Excellence in Higher Education, a model self-assessment program that has earned accolades from the higher education community. Institutions like Berkeley, Wisconsin, Rutgers, MIT, and dozens more have implemented the EHE model to help advance the effectiveness of their institutions.

Based on the Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award framework, the third edition of this bestseller is the definitive tool for college and university administrators in defining mission, assessing stakeholders, measuring outcomes, gauging performance against other institutions, and ensuring continuous improvement.

The flexibility of the EHE model makes it appropriate for use with administrative or academic departments, with administrative or faculty councils or senates, and with programs, centers, or institutes. Moreover, the framework can be used by an entire college or university, or with a particular department, division, or campus.

The EHE program includes everything you need to conduct a self-assessment workshop. The book provides facilitators with a solid understanding of the EHE model, providing detailed guidance in each of seven areas:

- leadership
- strategic planning
- external focus
- measurement and knowledge utilization
- faculty-staff and workplace focus
- process effectiveness
- outcomes and achievements

The Workbook and Scoring Guide and CD-ROM include generously illustrated PowerPoint presentations for use in facilitating workshops. The scoring guidelines will help you interpret results and gauge your institution's performance.
