FOREWORD

This collection of organization charts and statements of responsibilities of division and department chairmen in California junior colleges was prepared as background material for use at the California Junior College Association Annual Improvement of Instruction Conferences.

The 1966 conferences - Southern Conference, November 3, 1966, El Camino College; Northern Conference, November 17, 1966, Chabot College - have as their theme "The Role of the Division Chairman or Department Head, and His Responsibility for the Improvement of Instruction."

The materials in this collection were solicited from California junior colleges by memorandum. No follow-up request was made. In most cases the exhibits represent pages taken from the administrative or faculty handbooks of the respective colleges. In a few cases, charts and job descriptions were abridged.

The Improvement of Instruction Conferences are an annual project of the CJCA Committee on Curriculum and Instruction. Because "Improvement of Instruction" is ranked in first priority in a study of critical problems and needs of California junior colleges, the CJCA Research and Development Committee asked the Instruction Committee to give attention in the 1966 conferences to ways research could be helpful in bringing about improved instruction. The conference planning committee believed division and department chairmen were in a pivotal position to initiate instructional improvement and consequently the conferences were planned to explore ways in which division and department chairmen might assume leadership in their respective colleges in this field.

It is hoped that this collection of responsibilities of division and department chairmen will be a helpful reference to conference participants. The conferences may wish to recommend that an analysis of present responsibilities be made, or that additional information be collected. In this regard, attention of readers is called to studies made by Chabot College, 1963, and Hancock College, 1966, in the Appendix of this report.

Appreciation is expressed to Foothill College for making duplicate copies of this report available to all junior colleges.

Physical Education (Women) ..... Miss Louella Daetweller
Physical Science .................. Mr. Victor Hunsaker
Social Science ..................... Dr. Kenneth Umstead

Department Chairmen are, in their special areas, the advisers and consultants to the administration. They occupy these positions by their acquaintanceship with the community and its educational program, their breadth of training and their knowledge of their special areas, and their concern for the over-all development of sound college services to the students of the community. Their final concern must be for the welfare of the College, the general college program, and their interest and concern in the success of the individual faculty members in their areas. They will also have the following responsibilities:

a. General

(1) To interpret to their departmental staffs the educational philosophy of the College and to assist in implementing this philosophy through the curricula and the instructional program

(2) To advise their departmental staffs as to administrative policy and to conduct the activities of their departments within that policy

(3) To foster coordination and mutual understanding among the departments of the College

(4) To foster democratic procedures within the department and in the classroom

(5) To assume leadership in cultivating within the department a positive, alert, creative, professional attitude on educational matters, both within and without the College

b. Administration

(1) To serve on such committees as requested by the administration

(2) To call regular departmental meetings, as directed by the administration, to appoint study committees within the department and to report by written minutes to the administration the activities and recommendations of these groups; and to bring to the department for recommendation or action problems and proposals as requested by the administration

(3) To complete and submit reports requested by the administration and to maintain adequate departmental records as requested; to assist and advise their faculty members in the making of official records

(4) To assist in the making of the annual budget and to aid in the supervision of the budget through review of requisitions, and to act as adviser to the administration in the purchasing of technical materials requested by their area, always keeping in mind that expenditure of funds should aim for the greatest educational value and the wisest expenditure of public monies

(5) To aid in the management and development of the physical plant, maintaining the security of their areas, recommending for its maintenance and repair, and proposing and advising for its modification or enlargement to meet instructional needs
c. Curriculum Development

Committee

(2) To assist in the revision of the catalog and preparation of other published material related to the instructional program

(3) To bring to the departmental staff statements and and interpretations of student characteristics and needs as determined by the Dean of Student Personnel Services as a basis of curricular changes and improvement of instruction

(4) To recommend the sequence of courses composing a curriculum and to aid in coordinating the activities of the departments involved

(5) To serve when requested in liaison with other junior colleges, the state colleges, and the universities, of with lay committees of the community, to ensure the validity of the College offerings
d. Instruction

(1) To assist in the development, supervision, and coordination of all courses in their area

(2) To stimulate improvement of teaching techniques, devices, and methods within their area
(3) To stimulate the use of library resources, audio-visual materials, and other aids to instruction

(4) To recommend the adoption of texts and other instructional materials

(5) To assist in the formulation and administration of a continuous program of evaluation of instruction in their department and the College as a whole

(6) To aid in the maintenance of grading standards and recommend practice and policy

(7) To aid in the formulation and administration of adequate testing programs, both placement and evaluation, within their areas

(8) To transmit to the department the statement of success of graduates or others, either at other institutions or in the vocational field

(9) To assist in the formulation of the class schedule

e. Personnel Matters

(1) To assist in the determination of staff by indicating skills needed to maintain an adequate faculty to meet the programs of the department

(2) To advise on the selection of staff by participating in the interview of candidates to evaluate the candidate's technical qualifications in his field, recognizing that final choice rests with the administration

(a) The department chairman's primary responsibility is to be concerned with the qualifications of the prospective faculty member as might apply to his general and specific training in the area of the division involved. The department chairman will be given full opportunity to evaluate the candidate through screening of correspondence and the papers provided by placement services. He will be expected, if he is present and available in the community, to sit in on the interview. He will be asked to evaluate the candidate's scholastic training, his experience, his professional attitude, and his personality. The department chairman's recommendation will be given very serious consideration by the Dean of Instruction and the President before any appointments are made. The Dean of the Evening Division will coordinate with department chairmen to the greatest extent possible regarding employment of certificated personnel for summer and evening sessions. Final judgment, however, lies with the President, as indicated above.

(b) It will be the responsibility of the department chairmen to give to the Dean of Instruction a written list of additional personnel which the chairman feels will be needed in the ensuing year and to identify the services which such additional faculty members would be expected to render. The department chairmen are available to faculty members in their areas for help and assistance in educational problems.

(3) To assist in the evaluation of probationary faculty members

(4) To advise on the assignment of faculty members, to secure the maximum use of their skills and to ensure professional growth

(5) To assist in the administration of personnel policies, absences, office hours, professional relationship of staff, teaching load, etc.

(6) To assist in the formulation and administration of an in-service training program or programs

f. Counseling and Placement

To encourage their instructional staff to utilize fully the services of the specialized counselor and the counseling services in order to improve service to the student.

g. Evening Services

(1) To assist the Dean of the Evening Division in the proposal and formulation of courses for adults

(2) To assist the Dean of the Evening Division in the selection of faculty members, scheduling and direction of all courses for adults and in the utilization of the physical plant during the evening hours

(3) To assist the Dean of the Evening Division in the articulation of the summer and evening programs

(4) To assist the Dean of the Evening Division in the orientation and guidance of part-time faculty members in matters related to curriculum, testing and grading

SUBJECT AREA COMMITTEES: THE DEPARTMENTS

The advisory committees established for the advancement and development of teaching fields are known as departments. These committees are headed by a department chairman who is elected according to the following procedure (as specified by the Advisory Committee on Campus Administration):

1. Nominations are submitted to the department head one week in advance of the nominating meeting; there are no nominations from the floor.

2. Election of department heads are to take place sometime within the last thirty days of instruction in the school year, prior to the completion of the fall class schedule.

3. The candidate elected must receive a majority of votes. If there is no clear majority, a run-off must be conducted between the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes.

4. The new department head takes office as soon as elected.

The DEPARTMENT CHAIRMAN represents the curricular department or area as it advises with the administration, the Committee on Instruction, and professional organizations. His chief responsibility is to give leadership in the improvement of the department's offerings and the methods of instruction. The department chairman at Diablo Valley College have chosen not to be involved in the evaluation of probationary teachers; therefore, evaluating becomes the responsibility of the assistant deans, the dean of instruction, and the president, also evaluation of teachers.

Besides calling and chairing meetings, the department chairman originates recommendations for the budget, supervises the expenditure of the budgeted funds, participates in the interviewing of teacher candidates and in making recommendations for appointment to the president. He works with new teachers to help them receive necessary services and materials (text, course outlines, etc.) to understand the curriculum as presently specified, approved, and on file in the Office of Instruction, to become familiar with the philosophy and practices of the college and the department.

Since the departments are parts of divisions supervised by an assistant dean of instruction, the department chairman works closely with the assistant dean on matters of curriculum, personnel, and budget. As consultants, the assistant deans attend department meetings, refine preliminary budgets, coordinate class assignments and schedules for their divisions, and generally act in liaison between the administration and the department.

Department chairmen are given released time for the performance of their assignments according to the following formula: One fifth time released for 6 to 15 instructors and two-fifths for more than 15 instructors.

j. Division Chairman (Language Arts Division as Example) -

(1) Nature of the position:

A Division Chairmanship at Foothill College is an administrative-instructor position on the staff of the Dean of Instruction. Chairmen work with personnel in the Dean of Instruction’s Office in the development, supervision, and coordination of programs assigned to the Division, and in promoting the interests of students in the Division.

(2) Professional requirements:

(a) Credentials:

An administrative or supervisory credential is necessary, whenever the amount of administrative work exceeds that of teaching; however, this need not be a limiting factor for an applicant willing to apply himself immediately to the task of obtaining a qualifying credential.

(b) Education and experience:

Education and experience should be of a sufficiently broad background to indicate competency in, and understanding of, both transfer and "terminal" curriculums appropriate to the junior college. In general, these competencies and understandings will be evidenced by:

1. A minimum of a Bachelor's Degree with a major that is appropriate to the nature of the curriculums in this Division.

2. An advanced degree in a field compatible with the Language Arts Division or in education.

3. Meaningful experience in one or more of the areas represented in the Division.

4. Administrative and supervisory experience in education or in language arts.

(3) General responsibilities:

Under the leadership of the Dean of Instruction and in cooperation with the Director of Technical Education and the Evening College Director, Division Chairmen have responsibility for the following:
(a) Administrative:

1. Provide leadership in the formulation, development, and revision of curriculums and course outlines; present division proposals to the Curriculum Committee.

2. In close cooperation with the Dean of Instruction and, where appropriate, with the Director of Technical Education and the Director of the Evening College, assume a major role regarding faculty appointments, teaching loads and assignments, classroom visitations, evaluation of instruction, tenure, promotions, and dismissals.

3. Coordinate the recommendations of appropriate texts and other teaching materials.

4. Certify to the Dean of Instruction, for payroll purposes, attendance of all personnel in the Division, approve faculty requests to be absent from assigned classes, and arrange for substitutes in case of faculty absence.

5. Represent the members of the Division in an administrative capacity.

6. Edit and justify budget requests of individual faculty members; formulate annual Division budget requests for teaching services, instructional supplies, clerical assistance, operation and maintenance, equipment, library resources, audio-visual aids, and travel.

7. Regulate expenditures within approved Division budgets by preparation of purchase requisitions and adjustment of funds within the Division.

8. Assume responsibility for providing within the Division an esprit de corps among the students of the Division through such means as meeting with majors, students' activities related to the major, interest in individual student's aspirations and goals, awards for outstanding majors, etc.

(b) Coordinating:

1. Keep the staff of the Division advised on college and divisional procedures and regulations.
2. Coordinate the day and evening educational programs offered by the Division including the service and general education courses for students whose major lies in another division.

3. Coordinate activities within the Division in regard to exhibits, bulletins, instructional facilities including the foreign language laboratory, relation to other divisions, and public relations.

4. Work with counseling staff.

(4) Specific duties and responsibilities (Language Arts Division):

(a) Provide leadership in direct cooperation with the Dean of Instruction in transfer programs and through the Director of Technical Education in terminal programs in such areas as:

1. English composition and literature
2. Foreign languages
3. Speech
4. Reading improvement

(b) Instigate and carry out liaison activities when authorized by the Dean of Instruction or the Director of Technical Education with such individuals, agencies, and groups as:

1. Advisory committees (local and area)
2. English, speech, reading, and foreign language departments of institutions of higher education
3. Appropriate professional societies and governmental agencies
4. High school counselors and language arts teachers

   j. Provision of leadership in the development of the textual and audio-visual library for the department.

   k. Administration of a sound substitution system whereby any loss in the instructional hour due to absence will be minimized.

   l. Reduction of personnel problems within the department and the provision of arbitration services when they do occur.

   m. Coordination of all aspects of instruction with the corresponding departments within the district high schools. Development of liaison with colleagues in the state colleges and universities to avoid friction but at the same time to prevent violation of the objectives of the junior college.

   n. Participation in a public relations program that would foster the community college concept and tie the citizenry to Grossmont College with the strong bonds of identification.
2. Criteria for selection of department chairmen:
   a. Should be tenured.
   b. Must have appropriate academic preparation with the Master's Degree normally considered as a minimal qualification.
   c. Capability of reasonableness and objectivity in dealings with others, including other members of his department, administrators, students, and the general public. Not to be overlooked here is the importance of maintaining good relations with his colleagues in high schools of the district and with colleagues of institutions to which our students transfer.
   d. Has demonstrated organizational ability.
   e. Has the ability and willingness to present department needs and objectives, combined with a broadness of point of view in respect to the total college program.

3. Appointment Procedures
   a. The administration will nominate with the approval of the nominees at least one candidate from each department for the position of department chairman.
   b. Confirmation of department chairman will occur each May and when a vacancy occurs.
   c. The administration is required to submit with each nomination a list of the qualifications of the nominee.
   d. A secret ballot confirmation will be handled by the administration and certified by the President of the Faculty Senate. A simple majority of department members is required to confirm the department chairman. Results of the confirmation, including vote count, will be announced to the department in written form.
   e. All members of the department who are members of the Faculty Senate are eligible to vote including those faculty members on sabbatical leave.
   f. In the event that a candidate does not receive a majority, the administration must present a new nominee to the department.

4. Compensation by released time
   a. Department chairmen will be released the equivalent of three lecture hours each semester if the full-time equivalent department members total six or more.
   b. Department chairmen will be released the equivalent of three lecture hours in the spring semester if the full-time equivalent department members total three to six.
c. No formal arrangement for released time will be obtained in those departments with less than three full-time equivalent instructors.

Department Chairmen

Two years ago department chairmen were designated. They received extra compensation for their services which consisted of making the departmental budget, determining class offerings for the semester, and holding departmental meetings.

This current year, in larger departments, the department head has been given released time which permits the individual to teach a 4/5 load rather than a 5/5. It is expected that a certain amount of supervision will be provided by all department heads but in such a manner that it is informal as compared to supervision done by the administration.

Department heads are involved in the selection of new staff, and department heads do assume responsibility in the recommending of staff for re-employment.

9/19/66
LANEY COLLEGE

226.4 Division Chairman

It is anticipated that no division chairman will be designated for the academic year 1965-1966. It is expected, however, that growth of Laney College will create in the near future conditions requiring the selection and regular assignment of division chairmen, supplementing the present reliance on departmental organization with assigned departmental chairmen.

Such conditions will become evident with emergence of larger instructional units involving assignment of six or more certificated instructors on regular contract status, more often than not including instructors on multiple disciplines or vocational areas. Duties and responsibilities of the division chairman are expected to closely parallel those now assigned to departmental chairmen, excepting that they may require more time and effort because of increased size and complexity of the operational unit involved. For this reason, it is hopefully expected that release time in approximation of 0.4 of the normal teaching load may be provided for performance of divisional responsibilities. Clarification of details relating to qualifications, selection, assignment term and other factors of this functional operation must await further study and agreements between administration and faculty.

226.5 Departmental Chairman

Each instructional department, with four to six regular instructors on contract assignment in a single discipline or vocational area, may annually elect one of its permanent staff to serve as department chairman for the academic year. The election shall occur as early in the semester as possible, preferably within the two weeks following the start of classes, and the results of the election will be made known to the dean of instruction. Should the department prefer not to elect its chairman, or should it be unable to agree on the selection of its chairman, the dean of instruction may recommend a candidate to be appointed by the president after the second week of classes. Normally, the chairmanship will rotate among the permanent staff annually and two consecutive years of service will be regarded as maximum unless a request for exception to the rule shall be approved by the Laney College Council. Service as departmental chairman may not be compensated by extra remuneration under current provisions of the Board Policy Manual. Compensation in the form of release time for departmental duties will be instituted as quickly as budget provisions will permit.

The Departmental Chairman is responsible to the Dean of Instruction or the designated Assistant Dean for performance of the following duties:

1. Serves as chairman of departmental meetings of regular staff.

2. Recommends the assignment of instructors within the department and prepares a preliminary master schedule of classes.
226.5 Departmental Chairman (Cont.)

3. Gives leadership to preparation of departmental recommendations for curriculum development, evaluation of instruction and catalog materials.

4. Reviews with instructors annually admission prerequisites for entry to courses or curricula.

5. Prepares department recommendations on staff additions, textbook selections, library material and so forth.

6. Consolidates and submits departmental preliminary budget requests for instructional supplies, equipment, alterations to buildings and so forth.

7. Assists with recruitment, selection and evaluation of certificated staff.

8. Provides leadership to intradepartmental problems of articulation of course offerings and curriculum development.

9. Communicates the consensus of departmental staff regarding suggestions, requests or recommendations to the dean of instruction or his designate.

10. Performs such other departmental duties as may be required.

226.6 Head Instructor

Usually appointed on an annual basis by the president, acting on the recommendation of the dean of instruction, the head instructor provides desirable leadership in a single discipline or vocational area with two to four instructors on a regular contract status. No release time is provided for the performance of normal instructional area duties.

The Head Instructor is responsible to the Dean of Instruction or his designated representative for the performance of the following duties:

1. Serves as chairman of instructional area meetings and is assisted by a coordinator, if one is assigned, who acts as a consultant.

2. Representing the consensus of the certificated staff, prepares recommendations for the improvement of instruction and curriculum development.

3. Provides leadership to operations of the instructional program.

4. Consolidates preliminary budget requests for annual supplies, equipment, and instructional materials for transmittal to the dean of instruction.

5. Assists, as requested, in the selection, assignment and evaluation of certificated staff within the instructional area.

6. Assists in the recruitment, selection and advisement of students.

7. Performs such other duties in the area as may be required.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE DIVISION CHAIRMAN

The Division Chairman shall serve as liaison between the members of his division and the administrative officers. He shall be directly responsible to the Dean of Instruction on all matters, except those relating to student personnel, in which case he will be responsible to the Dean of Student Personnel.

The Division Chairman shall:

1. Participate with Administration in the selection, supervision, and evaluation of instructors within his division. In this process he will be responsible for assisting members of the division to search out the most effective means of instruction for the students within that division.

2. Participate and coordinate with the Administration in the development, revision, and evaluation of the curricular offerings of his division.

3. Coordinate the preparation of requisitions for supplies and equipment for his division provided the appropriate clerical help is available.

4. Assist and coordinate the preparation of the annual budget for his division. He will be responsible for presenting and defending this budget but will not be responsible for recommending or administering cuts or adjustments in the budget.

5. Administer the day-to-day program of substitute instruction, working in close cooperation with the Dean of Instruction who is responsible for recruiting, credentialing and maintaining a pool of qualified substitutes.

6. Coordinate the preparation of the master class schedule for the division.

7. Coordinate the evaluation and equalization of teaching loads within his division.

8. Consult with the librarian regarding the library collection as it relates to the curriculum of his division.

9. Coordinate the activities of the departments within his division as these are developed.

10. Conduct regular meetings of his division to insure effective communications among members of the division.

11. Participate with the Administration in the liaison between the college and high schools and between the college and other colleges and universities.
12. Participate with the Administration in the liaison between the college and industry, business and other community groups as it pertains to the division.

13. Coordinate the preparation of course outlines and textbook selection for the division and maintain appropriate files of these activities.

Method of Selection, Tenure and Compensation of Division Chairmen

Division Chairmen shall be appointed by the President. Each division will nominate two persons whom they consider qualified for the position and will submit these nominations to the President. The President will consult with members of the division prior to making his final appointment.

In the event that it would be appropriate to bring in a Division Chairman from outside of the regular faculty, the Administration will consult with the division first.

Division Chairmen may be re-nominated for successive terms.

Division Chairmen will be reimbursed for this assignment as follows:

1. Through appropriate reduction in teaching load

2. Through hourly pay for supervision of the evening or summer program as determined in advance with Administration.

3. Through the regular salary schedule for extra assignments beyond the regular teaching year.
The instructional program at Golden West College has been organized into seven divisional units each headed by a Chairman. Although it is necessary to maintain these operational units as separate administrative identities, the artificiality of divisional boundaries is acknowledged. Faculty members are encouraged to develop interdisciplinary or inter-divisional courses and curricula when it serves the interests of our students to do so.

THE ROLE OF THE DIVISION CHAIRMAN

Divisional structure. Divisions at GWC are designed to afford close ties between kindred disciplines, and to provide a simple basis for the integration of the entire curricular and co-curricular program of the college. In addition, the division serves as the framework for the advisement of students, and as a basis for student government. The division chairman is accordingly responsible to the Dean of Instruction and the President for the staffing, promotion, coordination, and development of divisional programs relating to instruction, advising, and divisional student affairs.

Curriculum development. In keeping with the commitment to instructional leadership, the division chairman encourages close liaison with the community, and guides the division in the constant development of responsible and creative educational goals and the acceleration of the division's program in view of these goals by new and thoughtful means. For this reason the division chairman represents the division on the Curriculum Council of the college.

Supervision and evaluation. Also within the charge of the chairman is the familiarization of probationary personnel with divisional and college assignments, and the assistance in professional development of each division member. In this light the chairman assumes responsibility, with the Dean of Instruction and the President, for faculty evaluation and ensuing recommendations. Not only is the direct instructional competence of the division member within the ambit of evaluation, but the teacher's role as adviser is also considered. Hence the chairman works with the Dean of Students and the division counselor in heightening the division's contribution to student advisement and student career selection.

Budget and supplies. Finally, the supervision of the procurement and use of supplies and teaching aids is the task of the chairman. The division chairman approves all teachers' requests for supplies and equipment. He recommends annually all matters pertaining to the division budget.
responsibilities of division chairmen

Division Chairmen have the following responsibilities and duties:

1. Promote, organize, coordinate and develop the program of their divisions.

2. Develop with the Dean of Instruction recommendations for staff changes and additions within the division.

3. Divisional Organization and Responsibility

a. The organizational unit most important to teaching faculty is the instructional division. The detailed procedure for division operation described in the following paragraphs was developed jointly by faculty and administration.

b. Division chairmen are appointed by the president of the college with the advice of tenured faculty of the division concerned and such other persons as the president may consult, and with the approval of the Board of Trustees. The appointment is normally for a three year term, with no restriction on the number of terms and with an annual review of performance by the president.

c. The function of the division chairmen is to assist the administration and the division faculty in developing and implementing policies and procedures which will provide for the effective and efficient operation of the instructional program of the college.

d. In the performance of this function division chairmen are responsible to the college president and designated members of his administration for interpretation of pertinent college policy and procedures to division members and for the implementation of such policy and procedure.

e. Division chairmen are responsible to the division faculty for conveying and interpreting to the college president and designated members of his administration recommendations made by the division for modifications in policy and procedure which affect the instructional program of the college.

f. The authority necessary to the performance of their general function and their specific duties is delegated to the division chairmen by the president of the college and, insofar as their individual or group interests are represented by the chairman, by the members of the division faculty.

g. The specific duties assigned to division chairmen under the current organizational plan of the college are as follows:
II - Administration and Organization

(1) To work with division faculty members by individual consultation, group meetings, and other appropriate means to insure opportunity for faculty participation and to promote faculty involvement in such matters of professional concern as the following:

(a) Preparation of teaching schedules.

(b) Selection and evaluation of instructional materials and equipment including recommended textbooks, library materials, and division instructional equipment.

(c) Curriculum development and course evaluation including maintenance of current course outlines on file.

(d) Development and maintenance of standards of student performance, particularly in multi-section courses.

(e) Selection and evaluation of division personnel when appropriate.

(f) Orientation and inservice education of new faculty members.

(g) Professional development of individual faculty.

The division chairman will schedule a minimum of three meetings per semester at which matters of division concern are discussed and will provide the college president, and appropriate members of his administration, with the minutes of such meetings and any specific division recommendations resulting from such meetings.

(2) To assist the president and designated members of his administration in

(a) Determining need for new faculty members for the division.

(b) Selection of new faculty members in consultation with appropriate division members when practical.
II - Administration and Organization

6. (c) Orientation and inservice training of probationary faculty.

(d) The annual evaluation and recommendation for reemployment of probationary faculty members, including the recommendation for tenure, and following consultation with the tenured members of the division.

(e) The professional development of all division faculty members in cooperation with the Professional Achievement Committee.

(f) The development of appropriate instructional facilities.

(3) To work with the administrative dean in

(a) The development of the annual division budget.

(b) The approval of division requisitions for supplies, equipment, and inservice.

(c) The supervision of division physical facilities, equipment and supplies.

(4) To work with the dean of instruction in

(a) Curriculum development through division curriculum representative.

(b) Maintenance of current course outlines.

(c) Improvement of instructional techniques and methods.

(d) The provision of appropriate instructional materials, supplies, equipment and facilities including textbook selection and placing of textbook orders with the bookstore.

(e) Preparation of teaching schedules.

(5) To work with the dean of extended day and summer session in

(a) Determining extended day and summer course offerings.
(b) Coordinating course content and instructional standards between day and extended day day offerings of the college by individual and/or group work with part time faculty assigned to evening instruction.

(6) To work with the various student personnel services--admissions and records, activities, counseling--as needed to improve liaison between these activities and those of the instructional divisions.

(7) To conduct such other activities as may be assigned by the president to promote the instructional program of the division.

h. Released time and/or additional salary compensation for division chairmen shall be administered by the president of the college in accordance with current policy of the Board of Trustees.

i. It is recognized that existing divisional organization may require modification to fulfill its functions as the college grows. Recommendations for such modification may be initiated by the division faculties, the division chairmen, or the college administration. Recommendations which can be accomplished within the current policy of the Board of Trustees for released time and/or additional salary compensation may be authorized by the president of the college after consultation with the personnel affected. Recommendations requiring modifications to existing board policy on released time and/or additional salary compensation may be recommended by the president of the college for approval of the Board of Trustees after consultation with the personnel affected.

MEMORANDUM

To: All Certificated Personnel

From: H. J. Sheffield

Subj: Duties and Conditions of Employment of Division and Department Heads and Coordinators, and proposed RESPONSIBILITIES OF TEACHERS.

Items I, II, III, and IV have been approved by the Board of Trustees. Item V is suggested, is probably quite incomplete, and contains explanatory paragraphs.

I. CHAIRMEN OF DIVISIONS

Chairmen of Divisions act as agents of the college administration in carrying out details of the instructional program.

Specific Duties:

1) To assist in determining community and student needs, in organizing curricula, and in evaluating instruction in day and in evening classes.
2) To prepare schedules of the day and evening class offerings that have been suggested by departments or administration and that have been approved by the administration.
3) To coordinate budgets for departments within the division.
4) To assist in determining instructional policy by serving on the instructional council of the college.
5) Chairmen of Divisions, together with other administrative personnel designated by the President, are members of the ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL. .......(Added by action of the President to approved Board policy.)

Conditions of Employment:

1) Chairman of divisions shall be appointed annually by the President of the College.
2) They shall serve for one year but may be reappointed.
3) Chairman of divisions shall receive additional compensation in the amount of $30.00 for each month of employment. When the duties of the office require time beyond that normally expected of a full time teacher, they shall be relieved of such proportion of teacher load as may be determined by the President of the College.
4) Chairman of divisions are eligible for summer session employment when needed and for 3 hours weekly of Extended Day employment when needed (or for 6 hours weekly for one semester.)

II DEPARTMENT HEADS:

Department heads act as spokesmen for all instructors in a department and represent the special needs and interests of the department.
Specific Duties:

1) To lead the department in continuous improvement of instruction and courses.
2) To suggest offerings and teacher assignments for day and evening schedules.
3) To prepare course descriptions and necessary regulations pertaining to courses taught.
4) To determine instructional needs and to suggest budgets for the department.
5) To help new teachers fit into the instructional program of the college.
6) Departmental heads, together with administrators designated by the President, will serve as members of the PRESIDENT'S ADVISORY COMMITTEE. (Added by action of the President to approved Board policy.)

Conditions of Employment:

1) After July 1, 1959, all department chairmen shall be appointed annually by the President to serve during a contract year. They may be reappointed.
2) There shall be no monetary compensation for the duties of department chairmen. When such duties require time beyond that normally expected of a full-time teacher, the chairman may receive such reduction in teaching load as is determined by the President.
3) Department heads are eligible for extended day employment and summer session employment when their services are needed.

II COORDINATORS

Coordinators perform such specific functions as may be assigned by the President in supervising the instructional program.

Specific duties:

1) To serve as a two-way communications link between the assigned activity and the college administration.
2) To organize and direct the assigned activity.
3) To act as leader of all personnel assigned to the particular activity in the constant evaluation and improvement of the assigned job.

Conditions of Employment:

1) Coordinators shall be appointed annually for such a number of months as their services may be needed.
2) They shall serve during a contract year and may be reappointed. There shall be no additional compensation for coordinators. When such duties require time beyond that normally expected of a full-time teacher, the coordinator may receive such reductions in teaching load as may be determined by the President.
3) Coordinators are eligible for extended day employment and summer session employment when needed.

The Co-ordinator of Instruction and the Co-ordinator of Technical-Terminal Instruction are directly responsible to the President and are chiefly concerned with the organization, administration, and supervision of the instructional program. The Deans of Instruction help the Co-ordinators administer this program.

The principal responsibilities of the Co-ordinators and Deans of the Division of Instruction are as follows:

1. Supervising the development of curriculums and courses
2. Evaluating instruction, including grading standards and practices
3. Conferring with administrators and instructors of other schools and with the faculty of the College in order to maintain equivalence of content in lower-division courses and to maintain academic standards in these courses
4. Maintaining liaison with business, industry, labor, the professions, and civil service in organizing and developing semiprofessional curriculums and placing graduates of these curriculums
5. Reviewing requests for approval of textbooks, supplementary books, syllabi, and principal supplies to be required of students
6. Exercising general supervision of the library and the audio-visual aids service
7. Assigning instructors to departments and courses
8. Preparing the Schedule of Courses (time and room schedule)
9. Scheduling final examinations
10. Keeping a current file of course outlines in the office of the Division of Instruction
11. Taking part in the selection, orientation, and evaluation of the teaching staff
12. Obtaining and supervising substitute instructors
13. Supervising preparation of the sections of the College catalogue dealing directly with instruction, and exercising general supervision of the publication of the College catalogue
14. Planning and conducting departmental meetings
15. Developing publications explaining the instructional program
16. Reviewing departmental budgets
17. Maintaining articulation with high schools, state and private colleges, and universities

18. Co-operating with Bay Area universities and colleges in training student teachers

19. Helping to discipline students guilty of purely academic violations

20. Determining under what circumstances students may defer taking courses required by the College

21. Determining under what circumstances students may audit courses

22. Supervising preparation of plans for the Commencement Observance and Awards Assembly

RESPONSIBILITIES OF DEPARTMENTAL REPRESENTATIVES

The departmental representative is the immediate supervisor of his department. Instructors are requested to consult with him first concerning matters affecting their department. Each departmental representative is responsible to the Co-ordinator or Dean in charge of his department. (Departments and Co-ordinators and Deans in charge are listed on page 18.) In carrying out his principal responsibilities, the departmental representative --

1. Helps develop and revise curriculums and courses

2. Helps select textbooks and other teaching materials

3. Helps select and orient instructors

4. Helps supervise and evaluate instruction. In most departments, in connection with this duty, he acts as liaison officer with the Director of Testing, Research, and Guidance in order to determine standards for admission to certain courses and to evaluate the progress of students in these courses.

5. Determines the following in conjunction with the Co-ordinator or Dean in charge: the courses to be offered by the department, the number of sections in each course, changes in the scheduling of sections

6. Assigns and reassigns students to courses and sections

7. Prepares instructors' teaching schedules and submits them to the Co-ordinator or Dean in charge

8. Files current outlines of courses with the Co-ordinator of Instruction

9. Prepares the budget for equipment and supplies needed by the department and submits the budget to the Co-ordinator or Dean in charge

10. Assumes responsibility for the proper use of equipment and supplies

11. Keeps an up-to-date inventory of equipment used in the department and gives a copy to the Co-ordinator of Educational Management
12. Advises students who need special information in their major fields
13. Assists in developing administrative policies for the College through his membership in the President's Council
14. Helps develop publications explaining the instructional program
15. Helps the Co-ordinator or the Dean in charge maintain liaison with counselors and with other schools
16. Acts as departmental liaison officer with the Director of Placement and also with employers and labor organizations if the department offers semiprofessional curriculums
17. Helps plan and conduct departmental meetings
18. Prepares departmental copy for the College catalogue
19. Helps the Co-ordinator or Dean in charge obtain substitutes or otherwise care for classes when instructors are absent
20. Files semiannually with the secretary to the President, for transmittal to the Co-ordinator of Educational Management, a list of the textbooks and principal supplies required of students in the courses offered by the department
Division Chairmen

Responsible to the Dean of Instruction.

The following duties, responsibilities and obligations are designated and assigned in both the regular day and extended day programs:

I. GENERAL/PROFESSIONAL

A. To assume leadership within the division in the cultivation of positive, active and creative attitudes on all educational matters and concerns

B. To act as liaison between administration and divisional staff members relative to divisional and or departmental functions

C. To interpret to their divisional staffs the philosophy of the college and to assist in the implementation of this philosophy through the curricula and the instructional program

D. To advise their divisional staffs of administrative policy and to conduct the activities and programs of their respective divisions within the framework of that policy

E. To foster coordination and mutual understanding among the divisions of the college

F. To assist in the administration of a program of continuing, on-going professional growth within their divisions

G. To foster democratic procedures within the division and in the classroom

H. To represent the college to the community and the district in a professional capacity and to assist in interpreting the college program and services to the community and the district in all public relations matters and concerns

II. ADMINISTRATIVE

A. To organize and hold divisional meetings when ever necessary; and to keep accurate minutes of such meetings

B. To bring to the division for recommendation or action problems and proposals as requested by the administration; to bring to the attention of the administration any problem for recommended action or remedy that may in any way impair the program of the college

C. To appoint study or research committees within the division whenever deemed advisable and to report the activities, findings and recommendations of such groups to the administration

D. To co-operate with the Council of Instructors or any study one of its sub-committees may be making toward the solution of any problem that will mutually benefit the staff, the student body, the college and the community or improve the services of the college to the community and district

E. To assign or delegate specific duties or responsibilities as needed or demanded within the division

F. To coordinate the duties and specific responsibilities of departmental chairmen if membership and or size warrants such positions within the division

G. To complete and submit reports requested by the administration and to maintain adequate divisional records as requested; to assist and advise their staff members in the completion and submission of official records

H. To assist in the preparation of the annual budget and to aid in the supervision of the divisional budget through review of requisitions, and to act as adviser to the administration in the purchase of technical or instructional materials or aids requested by their area, keeping in mind that expenditures should aim for the greatest educational value and the wisest use of public funds

I. To maintain equitable distribution of equipment, materials and supplies to all staff members and to insure proper storage and security of such

J. To assume responsibility for the divisional equipment and supply orders

K. To complete, with the assistance of divisional members, the annual inventory of all divisional equipment and supplies

L. To aid in the management and development of the physical plant, as it applies to their area, maintaining its security, recommending for its maintenance and repair, and proposing and advising for its modification or enlargement if necessary to meet instructional needs
III. INSTRUCTIONAL

A. To be permanent members of the Curriculum Committee.

B. To bring to the divisional staff statements and interpretations of student characteristics as determined by the administration which may provide the basis for curricular changes and revisions, more adequately suit the needs of a changing student body, and improve the quality of the educational effort.

C. To recommend to the dean of instruction the sequence of courses comprising a curriculum and to aid in its coordination should other divisions be involved.

D. To serve when requested in liaison with other member colleges or with lay or advisory committees of the community or district to ensure the continued validity of the college program.

E. To assist in curriculum development, organization and evaluation.

F. To delegate responsibility for all divisional courses of study, their explication, their deposition, and their revisions.

G. To assist in the supervision and coordination of all courses in their area.

H. To stimulate and encourage the improvement of teaching techniques, devices and methods within their areas.

I. To assist in the consideration and selection of textbooks used within the division, and to recommend to the administration the adoption of texts and other instructional materials; by the same token, to recommend the discontinuance or change in the use of texts.

J. To aid in the maintenance of grading standards and recommend practices, policies and procedures in this regard.

K. To aid in the formulation and administration of adequate testing programs, for both placement and evaluation purposes, within their areas; this may include designating test materials and assigning proctors.

IV. PERSONNEL

A. To assist in the determination of faculty within the division by indicating the skills, specialties, or subject matter areas needed to maintain a well-qualified staff and to meet the ongoing programs of the division.

B. To advise the dean of instruction on the selection and retention of divisional personnel, recognizing that final judgment rests with the President.

C. To assist the dean of instruction in the supervision and evaluation of probationary personnel.

D. To identify the services divisional personnel are expected to render, to assign any additional divisional activities which may develop throughout the college year.

E. To provide and ensure adequate orientation for new staff members; to assist in the formulation and administration of in-service programs to insure professional growth.

F. To advise on the assignment of divisional personnel to secure maximum use of their skills and specialties, and to recommend to the dean of instruction any changes in teaching assignments insofar as such changes would enhance the quality of the effort.
II. Duties and Responsibilities

Working cooperatively with the Deans of Instruction and the Dean of the Evening Division, division chairmen are to assume the leadership and the responsibility to promote, organize, coordinate and develop the programs of their divisions, fulfilling these functions:

1. Devise means of evaluating and improving instruction.

2. Assist in the selection and assignment of new instructors and assume the obligation to see that each has proper orientation to his duties and obligations.

3. Assist in the evaluation of instructors.

4. Help the Deans of Instruction and the Dean of the Evening Division in maintaining a list of teachers that may be available for substitute work in the division area.

5. Work with the Deans of Instruction and the Dean of the Evening Division in organizing division teaching and room schedules for inclusion in the master schedule.

6. Work cooperatively with the Guidance Staff, through regular meetings, in communicating and forwarding the understanding of the curriculum of the division as it relates to the characteristics and needs of community college students.

7. Consult with the Dean of the Evening Division and make recommendations regarding the staffing of evening classes and assist in the orientation and supervision of evening instructors upon request of the evening Dean.

8. Serve as liaison between the Administration and members of their divisions by attending curriculum and other meetings.

9. Assume responsibility in regard to community relationships as they pertain to the division.

10. Coordinate the division budget, both supply and capital outlay.

11. Assume other assignments which their position and the Administration require.

12. Serve as instructors.
III. Procedures

1. Hold division meeting at least once a month.

2. Maintain regular office hours for consultation with members of their divisions.

3. Maintain instructor evaluation schedule: the first formal evaluation session to be held prior to Thanksgiving Vacation; the second, by March 1.

4. Begin visitations of new staff members during the second week of school and complete the initial visitations at least one week prior to Thanksgiving Vacation.

5. Have orientation meetings with new members of their staffs and assign members of their divisions to act as helpful guides during the opening days of school.

6. Introduce new staff members not only to the policies and procedures of their divisional area but also to the philosophy and procedures of the total enterprise of the College.

7. Submit the names of possible substitute teachers to the Dean of Instruction by September 20.

8. Distribute minutes of their divisions not only to their members but also to all members of the Curriculum Committee.

9. Attend regularly the monthly meetings of the Curriculum Committee.

10. Make arrangements that will enable instructors to visit classes of successful teachers.

11. Bring professional literature and in-service training opportunities to the attention of division members.

12. Work closely with individual instructors to see how well each is doing with the students under their supervision: i.e., inspection of student progress (test scores, surveys, etc.).

13. Inspect occasionally teacher-made examinations and other course materials to determine their effectiveness in fulfilling the goals of courses, as stated in course outlines.

14. Keep the course outlines up-to-date and in file in the office of instruction.

15. Analyze occasionally the pattern of student grades to determine erratic grading, halo, etc.
16. Observe casually, but critically, the instructor as he is engaged in school activity outside the classroom.

17. Organize, whenever appropriate, advisory committees to help further the educational program of their divisions.

18. Arrange meetings, whenever appropriate, with the guidance staff to further understanding of the curriculum of their divisions as it relates to the characteristics and needs of community college students.

IV. Length of Appointment

Appointment will be for the school year 1966-1967.

V. Compensation

A time allowance of 1/6 of their teaching assignment plus remuneration of $500 a year shall be given them for assuming the leadership and responsibility of their divisions. The time allowance may be adjusted according to the scope and requirements of their divisions.

VI. Length of Service During School Year

The length of service is the same as that of instructors except for one week additional, which may be either before or after school opens or closes depending on the demands of the position. Arrangements will be approved by the Dean of Instruction.
During the first year of operation as a separate district, Solano College will be organized and administrated in a flexible manner.

Many of the district office functions will be assumed by the Solano College Administration while the Vallejo Unified School District will continue to serve the college in the areas of business, maintenance, and selected personnel services.

The division of responsibilities between President - Superintendent and the Vice President - Assistant Superintendent has not been set. Both administrator's will work as a team in the administrating of Solano College.

Thirty-four questionnaires were sent to junior colleges of varying sizes, and thirty-one were returned. This is not only an example of cooperation on the part of busy people, but it also indicates that many administrators are giving thought to this area. I hope the enclosed recapitulation will be of some help to you.

One part of the questionnaire had to do with items that department heads had full or partial responsibility:
