THIS BIBLIOGRAPHY OF 228 AUTOBIOGRAPHIES BY PENNSYLVANIANS IS DIRECTED TO STUDENTS, HISTORIANS, LIBRARIANS, AND GENERAL READERS. IT DOES NOT INCLUDE BOOKS PUBLISHED AFTER 1960, FICTIONAL AUTOBIOGRAPHIES, DIARIES, JOURNALS, MANUSCRIPTS, OR SHORT SKETCHES IN VOLUMES OF COLLECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY. ENTRIES CONTAIN BRIEF ANNOTATIONS, REFERENCES TO THE LIBRARIES IN WHICH THE BOOKS MAY BE FOUND, AND CITATIONS REFERRING THE READER TO A SUBJECT ENTRY IN THE PROFESSIONAL AND OCCUPATIONAL INDEX AT THE END OF THE DOCUMENT. Introduction

This bibliography of Pennsylvania autobiographies can assist students, historians, librarians and general readers in their desire to gain a better understanding of the culture and history which are a part of our heritage. But there is a greater reward to be found in the reading of autobiographies. As we read the lives of famous as well as common men, the conviction grows on us that man is surely the most remarkable tenant of this planet. We realize that if he is an animal (a rather whimsical theory) he is the only time-binding and ruminate animal. He is able, therefore, to discern a pattern in his own life as well as in the lives of men who lived generations ago. The seemingly random, trivial vicissitudes of his life, in fact, are leading him straight onward, grooved to iron rails, to his destiny. He stubbornly clings to his conviction that all is not in vain, that all will come right in the end. This realization gives hope, hope stimulates courage, and courage develops in him the strength which he must have if he is to travel, in good cheer, a common road with his fellow man.

The entries are brief; however, each citation contains author, title, place and date of publication and an abbreviation of the name of the library in which the book may be found. (See Guide to Symbols, paragraph II, following). The number which appears at the right of each citation refers to a subject entry in the Professional and Occupational Index (paragraph III, following).

Books published after 1960, fictional autobiographies, diaries, journals, manuscripts and short sketches in volumes of collected autobiography are not included. A supplement, which will include books published after 1960, is planned.

Credit for seeking out and compiling the 228 entries contained herein goes to Dr. Glenn S. Weight, special assistant in the General Library Division of the State Library.

State Librarian.
