The rapid growth of higher education in recent decades has called attention to the need for ever-increasing levels of support.

These requests for additional support have, quite properly, lead governors, legislators, and the general public to ask if the support funds are being expended efficiently and in accord with "business-like procedures."

One major area in which the public is concerned is the apparent excessive and wasteful duplication of degree programs and courses between the institutions supported by the state. The usual procedures used by a state college or university in explaining why it is necessary for it to enter a new field are seldom subjected to elaborate and objective legislative studies. Often the legislature is too busy with the many demands it must meet to have adequate time for such studies. Furthermore, studies of higher education require highly specialized expertise not always available in legislative staffs. Consequently, state legislatures have in many cases created a special coordinating board for higher education to serve as the agency which will perform these functions. In other states, constitutional conventions have re-written the section dealing with higher education in order to attempt to solve these problems in an orderly manner.

Thirty-nine states have by legislative enactment or constitutional revision provided: (1) a single board of regents for all higher education, or (2) a coordinating board -- in addition to a board of trustees for each institution in the state or several groups of systems such as a university system, a state college system, and a junior or community college system.
There are, quite naturally, variations and permutations within each of the thirty-nine states that have provided legal support for such boards. Consequently, there is no standard legal provision applicable to the coordinating problem in each of thirty-nine states. This report summarizes and quotes from the actual legislative enactments or the state constitution in the thirty-nine states which provide such legal mechanisms for coordination.

It is interesting to note that the increased national and state concern about "conflict of interest" has lead eighteen states to stipulate that no educator or state employee (including employees of educational institutions) may serve on the coordinating board, with the exception of ex officio members such as the governor or the state superintendent of public instruction.

The Midwestern Office of the Council of State Governments is indebted to Mr. Williams of The University of Michigan for making this study available.

The report has been approved by members of the Midwestern Standing Committee on Higher Education and the Midwestern Advisory Committee on Higher Education. We trust that governors, legislators, other state officials and students of higher education will find this report informative and useful.

PREFACE

There are thirty-nine states with: (1) a single board of regents for all higher education, or (2) a coordinating board -- in addition to a board of trustees for each institution in the state, or several groups of institutions such as a university system or a junior college system.

The attached report presents, in lay language, the essential provisions of the legislative acts or constitutional statements regarding the single, central, or coordinating board in these thirty-nine states.

There is a wide range of responsibility assigned to these agencies. The State of Illinois Board of Higher Education authorizes the Board of Trustees of the university and other universities to reach tentative decisions in certain areas and to file these as recommendations with the state board for final decision. In some states the coordinating board is advisory only. In other states (Connecticut) the decision of the board regarding program allocations to institutions is binding unless modified by the legislature. In Florida, all decisions of the Board must be approved by the State Board of Education and in matters involving fees or capital outlay by the legislature also.

In other states, the board includes one member of the board of regents of the university, the state college system, and the junior college system. Others even include presidents in the membership of the board.

In some states it is clear that the board was established to remove the institutions from political control or interference from the governor or other agencies.

There are a number of states which prohibit any employee of the state or educational institution from serving as a board member.
This report does not justify the issuance of broad sweeping generalizations about the powers and duties of these boards. Actually each state responded to the general question of control or coordination of higher education in the manner that seemed best in the light of its own problems as seen by its legislators or constitutional convention.

Perhaps it should be noted that wide divergence exists in the language and format of the reports about each state. This is due to the divergence in language and format used by each state in describing its board.

In order to insure that the material in this report possess the highest validity, the executive officer of the board, or an appropriate agent of the state, in each of the states, was given a copy of the statement describing his board and asked to approve it, or make suggestions for correction. All such corrections are included in this document and include information regarding organization and procedures up to July 1, 1967.

Summary of Legal Provisions

It will be noted in the following table and in the longer descriptive statement about each of the thirty-nine states with some form of a coordinating board that all points of interest are not listed or discussed for each state.

These omissions are based entirely on the fact that the legislative acts or constitutional provisions are silent on those points not described.

The Regents shall expand educational and cultural opportunities in the state, keeping pace with the expansion of the state in other fields, and provide educational facilities appropriate to the interests of the residents of the state.
Arizona Board of Regents

The Board of Regents of the Universities and State College consists of ten members: the governor, the state superintendent of public instruction, and eight members appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, for terms of eight years. Each member of the Board is required to take an oath of office and to execute a bond in the amount of $5,000 filed with the state treasurer.

The general administrative powers of the Board are:

1. Enact ordinances for the government of the institutions under its jurisdiction.

2. Appoint and employ a president or presidents, vice presidents, deans, professors, instructors, lecturers, fellows, and such other officers and employees as it deems necessary.

3. Determine the salaries of persons appointed and employed.

4. Establish a retirement system for any institution under its jurisdiction. For this purpose the Board may make such contributions of funds under its control as it deems expedient, but in no event shall the contribution rate be more than five and three one-hundredths per cent of the teaching staff payroll for the year for which such contribution is made, notwithstanding any other provisions of law to the contrary, relating either to non-admitted annuity insurance companies or the expenditure of public monies.

5. Remove any officer or employee when in its judgment the interests of the education in the state so require.

6. Fix tuitions and fees to be charged and graduate the tuitions and fees between institutions and between residents, nonresidents, and students from foreign countries.
7. Establish curriculums and designate courses at the several institutions which in its judgment will best serve the interests of the state.

8. Award such degrees and diplomas upon the completion of such courses and curriculum requirements as it deems appropriate.

In addition, the Board is authorized to purchase, receive, hold and make and take leases of, and sell real and personal property for the benefit of the state, and the institutions under its jurisdiction.

Within ninety days after the close of each fiscal year, the Board of Regents shall make a report for the fiscal year to the governor, setting forth the state of progress of the state colleges and the university, the courses of study, the number of professors and other instructional staff members employed, the number of students registered, the amount of receipts and expenditures and such other information as the Board deems proper.
Arkansas Commission on Coordination of Higher Educational Finance

Each of the state-supported institutions in Arkansas has its own individual board of trustees.

In addition, there is an Arkansas Commission on Coordination of Higher Educational Finance which is designed to provide greater coordination of financing the higher education program of the state. The Commission serves in an advisory and recommending capacity to the general assembly and to the governor of the state, with respect to all matters pertaining to the financial operation and capital improvement at the state-supported institutions.

The Commission consists of ten members appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate for terms of ten years. The Commission is required to meet once quarterly and at such other times as deemed necessary. The functions of the Commission are:

1. To receive, evaluate and coordinate budget requests for the several institutions and to present a single budget report containing recommendations for separate appropriations to each institution, to the general assembly and to the governor, prior to each regular session. This assignment, however, does not preclude any institution from submitting any matter pertaining to the financial obligation and needs of the institutions to the general assembly or to the governor at any time.

2. The Commission shall conduct continuing studies in the institutions in all matters involving finance and capital improvement, and shall from time to time, submit recommendations to the governor, general assembly, and to each institution of its findings with recommended plans for implementing the recommendations.
The separate boards of trustees of the several institutions continue to exercise their present function and powers and nothing in the act establishing the Commission shall be construed to deprive or limit in any way, the statutes and constitutional provisions of the boards of trustees.

The separate boards of trustees are required not to issue any notes or bonds for any purpose unless the board of trustees has secured the advice of the Commission as to the economic feasibility of the project to be financed by such notes and bonds.

The Commission shall notify the board of trustees within thirty days of its advice and counsel regarding the economic feasibility of the proposed project.

The advice of the Commission shall not be binding on the board of the institution involved.

Property donated to the state-supported institutions may be sold, leased, rented, or mortgaged as need indicates by the board of trustees of the donee institution. All income derived from such property shall be placed in a separate account and made available solely to the institution for whose benefit the conveyance was made. Such property shall be exempt from taxation and the income from such donated property shall not in any manner be charged against any appropriation to the institution in question.
The California Coordinating Council for Higher Education

The Coordinating Council for Higher Education in the state of California consists of eighteen members, three representatives each of the University of California, the California state colleges, the public junior colleges, the private colleges and universities in the state, and six representatives of the general public -- these six are appointed by the governor, subject to confirmation by the senate to serve four-year terms. Representatives of the private colleges are appointed by the governor after consultation with an association of private institutions.

The Council shall have the following functions, advisory to the governing boards of the institutions of public higher education and to appropriate state officials:

1. Review of the annual budget and capital outlay requests of the university and the California state colleges, and presentation of comments on the general level of support sought.

2. Advice delineating the different functions of public higher education and counsel as to the programs appropriate to each segment thereof; and in connection therewith shall submit to the governor and to the legislature within five days of the beginning of each general session a report which contains recommendations as to necessary or desirable changes, if any, in the functions and programs of the several segments of public higher education.

3. Development of plans for the orderly growth of public higher education and the making of recommendations on the need for and location of new facilities and programs.
NOTE:

The Coordinating Council for Higher Education in California is one of the most effective coordinating agencies for higher education in the United States. It has earned this role by, (1) Expressing its judgments about new programs or institutions entirely in the context of, "Is this proposal in accordance with the accepted master plan for higher education in the state of California?" (2) Making far-reaching studies of the future needs of higher education in California for a period of fifteen to twenty years in advance; (3) Securing approval from the legislature for these future needs of higher education and securing appropriations for the purchase of buildings, new campuses, and the like, so that these facilities were available when the need arose; (4) Recommending changes in the master plan for higher education to the institutions of higher education, the general public, and the legislature, when changes seemed indicated.
The legislature of the state of Colorado has established a Commission on Higher Education and assigned to it the following duties applicable to all post high school institutions in the state, supported in whole or in part by state funds including junior colleges and extension programs of all state-supported institutions:

1. Provide opportunities for post high school education for the state of Colorado.

2. Avoid needless duplication of facilities in programs in institutions of higher education.

3. Achieve simplicity in state administrative procedures pertaining to higher education.

4. Effect the best utilization of available resources so as to achieve an adequate level of higher education in the most economical manner.

5. Continue to recognize the constitutional and statutory responsibilities of the existing governing boards of institutions of higher education.

The Commission consists of seven members appointed by the governor with the consent of the senate for terms of four years; not more than four members may be in any one political party. At the time of appointment, no member shall have been an officer, employee, or member of a board of control, or an officer or employee of any state-supported institution of higher learning in the state for a period of two years prior to his appointment.

An advisory committee to the Commission consisting of nine members is also available for assistance in higher education. Two members of the senate, one representing each party; two representatives from the house, one from each party, shall be appointed by the presiding officers of the houses; five members are elected from the higher educational institutions as follows: one member of the Board of Regents of the University, one member of the Board of Colorado State College, one from the Board of the Colorado School of Mines, one member representative of the Trustees of the State Colleges, and one member elected by the Junior College Committee of the Junior Colleges.

The executive director of the Commission shall conduct studies and programs in higher education and other state agencies in order to avoid duplication of both programs and staff.

Budget requests from the several institutions are prepared on common forms, prepared by the state budget office, and submitted to the Commission, the governor and the executive budget office, and the joint budget committee of the general assembly. The Commission, after reviewing each institutional budget, makes a report thereon with its comments and recommendations, and submits a consolidated budget showing recommendations for each institution, together with the original budget request of each institution.

The Commission also assumes the same responsibility with relation to capital outlay requests. Its recommendations regarding capital outlay shall devise as nearly uniform standards of space and space utilization as possible, with consideration given to differences in institutional roles and functions.

The Commission shall assume certain responsibilities regarding the role and functions of the institutions. These are listed below:

1. Review the proposal for any new degree program before its establishment in any institution, and transmit its decision to the institution within ninety days after receipt of such proposal. No institution shall establish a new degree program without first receiving the approval of the Commission.
2. Review existing or proposed non-degree programs and make recommendations to the governing boards of the respective institutions and the general assembly as to the costs thereof.

3. Recommend to the respective governing boards of such institutions appropriate roles and functions as part of the overall system of higher education in the state, and advise the governor and the joint budget committee of the general assembly of its recommendations in this respect, and of the action of the respective governing board with respect thereto.

4. Recommend to the respective governing boards of such institutions programs which could be eliminated or consolidated because they constitute unnecessary duplication or because there are other good and sufficient causes for their elimination or consolidation; and recommend programs which could be added to present programs of such institutions consistent with their roles and functions, and advise the governor and the general assembly of its recommendations in this respect, and of the action of the respective governing boards with respect thereto.

5. Make recommendations to the governor and the joint budget committee of the general assembly on the establishment of state-supported institutions of higher education.

6. Develop a unified program of extension offerings, recognizing the responsibility of the state to provide, to the extent possible, higher education in communities remote from a campus, and the need to integrate the extension functions of state-supported institutions of higher learning.

In addition, the Commission shall make studies toward the further development of state policy in higher education, and maintain a forward looking comprehensive plan for public higher education; conduct statistical studies to assist use of their personnel and facilities; appoint advisory committees to assist the Commission in suggesting solutions for problems and the needs of higher education; seek the cooperation and advice of private institutions in performing its duties and functions.

The Commission shall serve as the state agency for the administration of federal acts.

The Commission shall also cooperate with the various state agencies by recommending fiscal regulations which recognize the distinct nature and problems of higher education; recommend to the state purchasing agent systems of purchasing which recognize the nature of the institutions; recommend to the civil service commission personnel policies regarding non-academic employees which recognize the nature of the institution; cooperate with the state auditor in post auditing procedures.
The state of Connecticut has a Board of Trustees for the University, a Board of Trustees for the State Colleges, and a Board of Trustees for the Community Colleges, and the State Board of Education which serves as the Board of Trustees for the State Technical Colleges.

Each board of trustees maintains its responsibility for the operation of its institution, or group of institutions.

The Commission for Higher Education consists of sixteen members; one trustee from the University of Connecticut, one from the State College Board, one from the Community College Board, and one from the State Board of Education, plus twelve members appointed by the governor for periods of eight years with the advice and consent of the legislature. The duties of the Commission are:

1. Be responsible for coordination of planning for higher education throughout the state, encourage the governing boards of the constituent units to initiate necessary plans for development of the institutions under its control, and receive these plans for approval.

2. Establish an Advisory Council for Higher Education with representatives from public and private institutions to study methods for coordinating efforts of all such institutions in providing a stimulating and enriched educational environment for the citizens of the state.

3. Conduct research and studies concerning the state's provision of higher education.

4. Make an impartial assessment of the legislative proposals and budgetary requests for higher education and report thereupon to the governor and the general assembly.
5. Be responsible for licensing and accreditation of programs and institutions of higher learning.

6. Prepare and publish annual reports on the conditions, progress and needs of higher education in the state, and publish such other reports and information concerning the higher educational interests of the state as it deems advisable.

7. Approve the size of the central office staffs of constituent boards, and the salaries and working conditions of said staffs; approve leases and site acquisitions.

The Commission shall review recent studies of the need for higher educational services, with special attention to those completed pursuant to the legislative action, and to meet such needs shall initiate additional programs or services through one or more of the constituent units.

The Commission appoints a chief executive officer and such advisory committees as the Commission deems necessary in defining and suggesting solutions for the problems and needs of higher education, in order to promote more effective planning and coordination of the state system by appropriate regulations.

Chapter 10 of the Revised Statutes of 1965 vests sole responsibility for granting doctoral degrees and post-baccalaureate professional degrees in the university of the state. Special responsibility for the preparation of public school teachers, including the master's degree, and authority for providing liberal arts programs is vested in the Board of Trustees of the State Colleges. The Board of Trustees of Regional Colleges is vested with the responsibility for providing programs of study for college transfer, terminal vocational, retraining, and continuing education leading to occupational certificates or to the degree of associate in arts or sciences, and vests in the State Board of Education responsibility for the state technical colleges and programs leading to the degree of associate in applied science.

In case of a dispute between governing boards of two institutions regarding the implementation of the state plan, the Commission shall hold hearings and the findings of the Commission shall be binding on the governing boards unless modified by later legislative action.

The governing board of each institution prepares its budget request on forms required by the Commission and submits such additional information to the Commission as requested by the Commission. The Commission then reviews the budget requests, and submits its recommendations for a total budget to the state budget director, the governor, and the general assembly, outlining the requests of the constituent units, the recommendations of the Commission and further statements and proposals regarding an improved coordinated system of education within the state. The Commission also submits, in their original form, all of the budget requests of the constituent boards.

Once funds are allocated by legislative action, the governing board of each institution may determine the allocation of funds for operation and maintenance of the programs and activities authorized for that unit.

The Commission also serves as the accrediting board for all higher education in the state. Commission approval is required for the granting of degrees, the introduction of new programs, and the use of the term "junior college,"
"college," or "university."

The state of Connecticut has a board of trustees for administering the state-supported regional community colleges. This board is charged with planning the expansion and development of institutions within its jurisdiction, and shall submit such plans to the Commission for approval.

After approval by the Commission of the plan of the Board of Trustees of the Regional Community Colleges for development of a new regional community college, said Board of Trustees shall select the site for such new college with the advice and subject to the approval of the Commission.

The Board of Trustees of the State Colleges are required to maintain the same relationship to the Commission as are the Board of Trustees for State-Supported Regional Community Colleges.

These studies shall consider the need for new institutions and the place of the private institutions in relation to the state programs.

11. To provide and coordinate credit and non-credit extension courses in all fields which the Board shall consider necessary to improve and maintain the educational standards of the state.

All fees established by the Board of Regents shall, after approval by the State Board of Education, be submitted to the legislature before they become effective. The legislature shall "consider such fees and approve, alter, amend or change them in any manner it deems to be in the best interest of the state."

No buildings shall be constructed, altered, remodeled or added to by the state university system without express approval of each project having first been granted by the legislature (exception is made in the case of buildings erected by federal grants, private gifts or grants, insurance payments for replacement of destroyed buildings, and any construction within the sum of $50,000 does not require legislative approval).

All appropriations made for the use of any or all institutions in the University System of Georgia shall be paid to the Regents in one lump sum with the power and authority in said Regents to allocate and distribute the appropriation among the institutions in such manner and amount as will further an efficient and economical administration of the University System.

When funds are received from sources other than the legislature, i.e., gifts, grants, endowments for the use or benefit of any particular institution,

The control of the educational institutions of the state sustained wholly or in part by the state shall be the responsibility of the Regents.

The legislative enactments provide for free tuition for war veterans, children and widows of deceased veterans, Indians, and blind residents. The legislature, however, appropriates annually a sum of money to the Board of Regents to be used in paying the tuition of those students who are not charged by the institutions.

The Board of Regents is expressly prohibited from erecting any buildings or structures or maintaining or equipping such buildings without the specific approval of the legislature.

The Board may borrow money and issue revenue bonds; may accept gifts of personal property; the Board is the state agency in receiving and expending funds provided by the federal government.
