This booklet is a guidebook for leaders of small group discussions in the Valleybrook Elementary School-Lakemont High School Simulation Game. The game focuses upon typical problems of elementary and secondary schools with heterogeneous (racial and ethnic) student bodies. The information in the guidebook is confined to a brief explanation of the role of the leader of group discussions, some procedural and general suggestions for facilitating participant interaction, a brief discussion of role-playing, and a series of synopses of both filmed and written problems with related questions or suggestions appended. Incident Response Sheets for participants are also included. (Author/JW)
GUIDEBOK FOR DISCUSSION LEADERS for
SOLVING MULTI-ETHNIC PROBLEMS:

A Simulation Game for Elementary and High School Teachers

originated by
Dr. Frederick P. Venditti
Director, Educational Opportunities Planning Center
University of Tennessee

distributed by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nni B'rith
New York, N. Y. 10016
Initial work on the Valleybrook Elementary School-Lakemont High School Simulation Game was done at the Educational Opportunities Planning Center, College of Education, The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, Tennessee, and was funded in part under U. S. Office of Education Grant No. OE-6-37-012. The opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the position or policy of the U. S. Office of Education, and no official endorsement by the U. S. Office of Education should be inferred.
FREDERICK P. VENDITTI has been an innovator in the field of education for the past twenty years. He has served as Director of the Educational Opportunities Planning Center at the University of Tennessee since its creation in 1966 and, in this position, is responsible for planning and participating in inservice education for teachers working in desegregated schools. He has served as consultant to the U.S. Department of Justice on desegregation and to the Equal Educational Opportunities Program of the U.S. Office of Education.

Currently Associate Professor of Educational Administration at the University of Tennessee, Dr. Venditti has also been a teacher and administrator on the elementary and high school levels. He has published articles in such educational journals as The Educational Forum, Journal of Social Psychology, and Journal of Negro Education, among many others, and he is the co-author of a series of handbooks on early childhood education.

Dr. Venditti is presently serving on the Board of Directors of the Greater Knoxville Human Relations Council, the Tennessee State Council on Human Relations, and the East Tennessee American Civil Liberties Union. Among other professional organizations in which he holds membership are the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the National Education Association, and the Tennessee Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development.
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Numerous people made important contributions to the development of the Valleybrook Elementary School-Lakemont High School Game. Dr. Donald Cruickshank gave vastly helpful advice without which the project workers might well have floundered. Special thanks are due Jean Peele, a former graduate assistant in the Educational Opportunities Planning Center (EOPC), University of Tennessee, for her organizational and other multi-faceted efforts in behalf of the project, especially during its early, critical phases. Thanks go as well to Peg Achilles, Joseph Atkins, and Linda Burroughs also former EOPC graduate assistants, for their important help. Ernest Robertson and Guy Taylor of the University of Tennessee Photographic Services Department gave invaluable assistance with the production of the filmed problem incidents included in the game as did Professor Thomas Cooke of the University’s Speech and Theatre Department. The superintendent of the prototype school systems and the principals, teachers, and students of the prototype schools, all of whom must unfortunately remain anonymous, rendered obviously indispensable services for which sufficient thanks cannot be expressed. Finally, the writer is deeply grateful to the staff of the Anti-Defamation League of B’nai B’rith for their consultation and cooperation in bringing this program to fruition.

Frederick P. Venditti

II
Table of Contents

Introduction

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I. Group Leader Information</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Your Role</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Some Procedural and General Suggestions</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Role-Playing Activities</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II. Problem Materials</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A. The Valleybrook School Problems</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. Sleeping Child (Filmed)</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Incident Response Sheet for Participants</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Isolated Child (Filmed)</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Incident Response Sheet for Participants</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. The Curriculum is Questioned (Filmed)</td>
<td>17</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Incident Response Sheet for Participants</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Questions for Group Leader Use</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4. A Reading Problem (Filmed)</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Incident Response Sheet for Participants</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Questions for Group Leader Use</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5. A Plea for Help (Filmed)</td>
<td>23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Incident Response Sheet for Participants</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Questions for Group Leader Use</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6. A Problem for the Faculty (Filmed)</td>
<td>26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Incident Response Sheet for Participants</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Questions for Group Leader Use</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

III
7. Teachers' Lounge (Filmed) 29
   Incident Response Sheet for Participants
   Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

8. An Unexpected Encounter (Filmed) 30
   Incident Response Sheet for Participants
   Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

9. The Birthday Party 35
   Written Problem
   Incident Response Sheet for Participants
   Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

10. A Communication Problem - Negro 39
     Written Problem
     Incident Response Sheet for Participants
     Questions for Group Leader Use

11. A Communication Problem - Puerto Rican 43
     Written Problem
     Incident Response Sheet for Participants
     Questions for Group Leader Use

12. Fighting Boys 47
     Written Problem
     Incident Response Sheet for Participants
     Questions for Group Leader Use

Related Role-Play Information

IV
13. A New Pupil's Problem

Written Problem

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

B. The Lakemont High School Problems

1. A Spirit Problem (Filmed)

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

Questions for Group Leader Use

2. We Were There (Filmed)

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

Questions for Group Leader Use

3. Volunteer Parents (Filmed)

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

Questions for Group Leader Use

4. Order in the Classroom (Filmed)

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

Questions for Group Leader Use

5. A Matter of Dress (Filmed)

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

Questions for Group Leader Use

6. A Parent Conference (Filmed)

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

7. A Communication Problem - Negro

Written Problem

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

Questions for Group Leader Use
8. A Communication Problem - Puerto Rican 81
Written Problem
Incident Response Sheet for Participants
Questions for Group Leader Use

9. An Angry Mother 85
Written Problem
Incident Response Sheet for Participants
Questions for Group Leader Use
Related Role-Play Information

10. Trouble Ahead 92
Written Problem
Incident Response Sheet for Participants
Questions for Group Leader Use

11. A New Pupil's Problem 96
Written Problem
Incident Response Sheet for Participants
Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

Appendix A Incident Response Sheet Format 100

VI
INTRODUCTION

This booklet contains information which will help you to function as a leader of small group discussions which are an integral part of the Valleybrook Elementary School-Lakemont High School Simulation Game. The game, which focuses upon typical problems of elementary and secondary schools with heterogeneous (racial and ethnic) student bodies, has already been or soon will be explained to you in detail. Therefore, the information contained in this guidebook is presented without discussion of the overall structure, mechanics, or objectives of the game. The guidebook content is confined to a brief explanation of your role, some procedural and general suggestions for facilitating participant interaction in your small group, a brief discussion of role-playing, a series of synopses of both filmed and written problems (some of which your group will discuss) with related questions and/or suggestions you will find helpful. Two of the written problems also contain related role-play information. Incident Response Sheets for participants, about which more will be said below, are also included.
I. GROUP LEADER INFORMATION

YOUR ROLE

Basically you will be a "discussion expediter" or "facilitator." You should seek constantly but subtly to direct the attention of the members of your group to the most relevant aspects of the problems under discussion. You should do this by such means as asking crucial questions at appropriate times, restating participant comments for clarity, summarizing the discussion at critical intervals and initiating spontaneous role-plays, about which more will be said later. You should also, of course, encourage each group member to express his thoughts and feelings. You must not, however, intervene so frequently in the discussion as to inhibit or interfere with constructive interaction taking place among members of the group. Nor should your interventions be of a nature (e.g., strong pronouncements of personal opinion) that will have the effect of intimidating or dominating your group.

SOME PROCEDURAL AND GENERAL SUGGESTIONS

You will be working on several occasions with a group of from six to ten members. The suggestions offered below will assist you to play your leadership role effectively.

1. Unless it is physically impossible to do so, always have the members of your group seat themselves with you in a circle or around a table so that all can see each other.
2. If group members are not acquainted and are not already wearing name tags which can be read easily from any vantagepoint in the circle, have them print out their names on large sheets of paper and pin these on their clothing where they can be easily seen. (Be sure to take pins to each session if this procedure has to be employed.)

3. If the members of your group are strangers to each other, make it the first item of business at the initial session to go around the circle quickly allowing each individual to introduce himself briefly.

4. In most training programs, participants will react in writing in large groups to a series of questions on Incident Response Sheets before coming together in small groups. See Appendix A for sample format. (The Incident Response Sheets are related to filmed and/or written problem incidents that are presented individually to all participants simultaneously.) If your training program is not so organized, members of your small groups will fill out their Incident Response Sheets at the beginning of each of your small-group sessions. Time this work if it is done this way, and encourage all your group members to devote at least fifteen minutes to it.
5. Use the Participants Handbook. Study the information it contains which relates to those problems your group considers. Pay especial attention to the "thumbnail sketch" of the simulated school (i.e., Valleybrook or Lakemont) in which your group members are to imagine they are working. Remind them as it becomes necessary that they should be problem-solving in the context of that school.

6. Try to keep the participants "in role." (All will be Terry Pattersons if the Valleybrook School problems are being used or Sandy Johnsons if the Lakemont High problems are being considered.) An effective way of doing this is to address all players with the appropriate role-play name as a prefix to their real last names, e.g., "Terry Patterson Samuels," "Sandy Johnson Adams." Also encourage the members of the group to address each other in this manner.

7. In general, follow the format of the Incident Response Sheets in all small group sessions. That is, to the extent possible, get the thinking of each group member on all questions or tasks listed on the response sheet for each problem considered. An expeditious way of doing this is by "going around the circle." Have one person offer his ideas relative to the first question and ask the others to add theirs in order. Have another person give the initial reaction to the second question and proceed again around the circle.

8. Do not follow the format of the Incident Response Sheet or the procedure just suggested slavishly. Interpose the questions suggested later in this guidebook on a selective basis. That is, "pick and choose." Use only the question or questions that, at critical junctures, you judge may assist the group to redirect or sharpen its thinking, gain needed insights, or promote more productive or meaningful interaction among members.

9. Allow and encourage group members to question each other and make comments they feel are relevant. Do endeavor, however, to move the discussion along to the point where actual short- and long-term solutions are proposed by individuals and evaluated in terms of their probable outcomes by the group as a whole.

10. Initiate and encourage others to initiate spontaneous role-playing. (Because of its importance in the small group sessions, role-playing is discussed at length in the following section.)
11. If one of the written problems with related role-play information is used by your group, you select or allow the group to select the players. Give the appropriate role-play information sheets to the designated players. None of the players should see the information given his fellow actors prior to the role-play. These sheets should be collected at the conclusion of the role-play session.

12. Following each of your small-group sessions, your group members will combine with members of other small groups in large-group meetings for additional idea-sharing. Be sure that a spokesman for your small group is selected sometime during each of its sessions. You should not act as spokesman unless your group adamantly insists that you do. Encourage the group to select different spokesmen for the various large-group meetings.

ROLE-PLAYING ACTIVITIES

As stated earlier, spontaneous role-playing is an activity which can have great value when engaged in by members of small groups playing the Valleybrook School Game. In the small-group milieu, role-play has frequently served as the vehicle which has enabled players to reach a real understanding of the affective dimensions of the problems under consideration. It has proved to be an excellent means of involving individuals and eliciting their direct expression of ideas and emotions. Role-playing also brings out discussion material which might otherwise be omitted from consideration.

In role-play, individuals are to react spontaneously as characters in a given situation. There are no scripts—the dialogue, action and outcome being determined as the individuals interact with one another. Two of the problems of the Valleybrook-Lakemont game are designed as role-plays, however, and related background information is provided to the participants. Situations can be role-played with varied casts several times, the differing "actors" giving different interpretations and direction to the same situation. Role-playing can be short- or long-term depending on the participants.

Role-playing is most effective when the individuals involved are relatively uninhibited. For this reason, you as a group leader must usually introduce role-playing in early group sessions through your own dialogue with group members, thus forcing them to assume a "role" and respond in the first person rather than in the third person. For example, in the problem incident, "The Sleeping Child," participants are asked to answer the young girl's question, "Should I wake him now, teacher?" During the discussion of this question, you might assume without explanation to the group the character of the young girl and direct the question to a specific group member:

You (as girl): "Should I wake him now, teacher?"

Group member: "Well, I'd say . . . ."

You: "I'm the little girl and I'm asking you-- 'Should I wake him now, teacher?'"

Group member: "Uh . . . no. Let's let him sleep if he is so tired."

You: "Good!"

After you have used a few of these introductory role-playing situations with various group members, they will usually begin to respond quickly, identifying readily with the character of Terry or Sandy. Moreover, as time passes group members will start to initiate similar role-playing situations without your promptings.

As the group sessions progress, the problem incidents lend themselves to more advanced role-playing without your participation, and with the utilization of more than one group member and even some elementary staging. For example, in the exercise, "The Birthday Party," group members are asked to respond to a white mother's request that her child be allowed to hand out birthday party invitations to only the white children in Terry's room. No matter what stand the group member takes, a provocative role-play situation is set up. If the group member's response is that he/she would not allow the invitation to be issued at school, you immediately initiate role-playing as follows:
You: "Okay, you (indicating the member responding) are the teacher and it is the next day before school--and you (indicating a white female group member) are Mrs. Keeler. You are angry that the teacher has refused you this favor and have come to school to 'straighten her out.'"

If a group member has responded originally that he/she would allow the invitations to be issued, then the upset parent would have become a Negro mother or father whose child came home "broken-hearted because he had not been invited to Larry's party."

Interesting contrasts are made apparent in role reversal. Role reversal is a form of role-playing in which individuals assume roles opposing their own more natural ones. For example, in "The Birthday Party" incident, a white group member might be asked to portray an upset Negro mother while a Negro group member plays the role of a white Terry Patterson. Analysis of reversal and its effectiveness by all group members should follow all role-playing in which it is used.
II. PROBLEM MATERIALS

This section of the manual includes synopses of and questions and suggestions relating to all problems included in the Valleybrook-Lakemont Game. These questions and suggestions should be used at your discretion to stimulate discussion and/or encourage confrontation of some of the more subtle or threatening aspects of the problem incidents under consideration. Also included are the participant's Incident Response Sheets, the actual written problems, and related role-play information. In all cases the form of each problem (i.e., film or written incident) is indicated, and attention is called to student cumulative records if they are relevant. When additional information is available for role-play problems, this fact is also specified. The Valleybrook problems appear first in the section and the Lakemont problems second.
Terry Patterson is at his/her desk while the students are busy with seat work. The children (with their giggles) call Terry's attention to the fact that Billy, a Negro boy, is asleep at his desk. In the ensuing comments between Terry and a few of the students, it is learned that this is not the first time Billy has fallen asleep in school, that the boy's parents work the night shift, and that consequently Billy is without supervision and watches television as late as he wishes.* It is also learned that Terry, on the previous day, sent Billy to the school clinic for sleeping in class. Terry is required to make an immediate decision as to what action to take now when a student asks, "Shall I wake him now, teacher?"

A record on Billy is available in the Participant's Handbook.

*In all of the filmed incidents Terry's words are superimposed on the screen in print rather than spoken orally. The camera is Terry's eyes so that Terry himself/herself is never seen in the filmed incidents. Superimposing Terry's words as indicated thus permits male or female (and black or white) identification with Terry.
Sleeping Child

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. What factors do you believe may be contributing to the problem?

3. Exactly what would you say in response to the question asked at the end of the film?

4. What are some alternative long-term courses of action you might take to help Billy?

5. What information did you find (if any) that was helpful in formulating plans to help Billy?

6. What other information would you like to have? How could it be obtained?

7. What personal value or values do you hold which prompted you to reach your decisions?

NOTE: See Appendix A for sample format of Incident Response Sheet.
Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

1. What is the immediate problem with which Terry is confronted?

2. If Billy were portrayed as a white child, would the situation be altered in any way? Discuss possibilities.

3. Which of the factors affecting Billy frequently describe most children from low socio-economic environments? Which do not?

4. What effects might the presence of the grandmother have on Billy and his family?

5. What health factors might be involved in this situation? What is the teacher's role in attending to these?

6. What difficulties do you foresee in working with Billy's parents?

7. Does enlisting the cooperation of the family—especially by means of a home visit—become more difficult if the race of the teacher is different from that of the parents? (In considering this question, black Terry Pattersons might consider Billy to be white, whereas white Terrys may identify with the film's Negro child.)

8. Role-play possibilities (See page 7 for suggestions):

   a. Question 3 on the Incident Response Sheet should be answered in the first person. The group leader may assume briefly the role of the student posing the question to force the group members into the desired form of response.

   b. The parent-teacher confrontation (see number 7 above) presents possibilities for role-playing. Group members may be asked to address the group leader as though they were approaching the parent. In this way the group leader can pose the additional problem of an uncooperative, fearful, or resentful parent. If group members foresee no problem of a white or black teacher dealing with parents of the other race, the group leader may invite a group member of a different race to enact a parent confrontation. The group leader would in this case respond as a parent highly conscious of the race factor.
Terry Patterson is observing the children in his/her class during a free-play period. One of the students, Flora, a Negro girl, is observed standing apart from the other children who are playing a group game. Two white students leave the group and engage in conversation concerning Flora. The boy student invites Flora to play, whereupon the girl student responds with the information that Flora never wants to play. Their conversation points out that Flora is relatively new to an integrated school situation. The boy confronts Terry with the problem of Flora's isolation by asking at the film's conclusion, "Teacher, how can we get Flora to play with us?"

A record on Flora is available in the Participant's Handbook.
Isolated Child

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. What factors do you believe may be contributing to the problem?

3. What would you say in response to the question asked at the conclusion of the film?

4. What are some long-term courses of action you might take to help Flora?

   What might be the probable outcome(s) associated with each course of action?

5. What information did you find (if any) that was useful in formulating alternatives?

6. What other information would you like to have?

   How could it be obtained?

7. What personal value or values do you hold which prompted you to reach your decisions?
Isolated Child

Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

1. What is the immediate problem? Why would Terry act as he/she indicates in response to the immediate problem? What is the long-range problem?

2. What support can be offered for Flora's isolation being self-imposed rather than group imposed?

3. Is the problem situation altered if Flora becomes a white rather than a black student? How can being a member of a minority group exaggerate feelings of insecurity and poor self-concept?

4. Would a black Terry Patterson be more able to help Flora than a white Terry? Would the situation be altered if Terry were black and Flora white?

5. How might a white Terry Patterson be a part of Flora's tear?

6. How about relationships with Flora's family? (See Question 7, "Sleeping Child.")

7. Role-play possibilities:
   a. Require first person responses to the question asked at conclusion of film; the group leader may assume the role of the boy and ask the question directly to a group member to force desired manner of response.
   b. The teacher's approach to Flora might be role-played by two group members assuming the roles of Terry and Flora. The possibility of a contrast between Flora's reaction to a white Terry and her reaction to a black Terry (the same person should play Flora in both instances) may be explored if this appears desirable.
Filmed

The Curriculum Is Questioned

Terry Patterson is at his/her desk while the students are copying a list of Union and Confederate states. A student asks if all the states must be copied and is told that they must. All is quiet for a moment; then a Negro student says that she does not like to have to study about the Civil War. Another Negro student agrees with her protest. A conflict between the Negro and white students flares briefly as a few white students state their enjoyment of the subject after the Negro children have expressed their discomfort at being reminded of slavery. The issue of studying the Civil War is presented squarely to Terry to defend as, at the film's conclusion, a Negro girl asks, "Why do we have to study about the ol' Civil War, Teacher?"
The Curriculum is Questioned

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. What factors do you believe may be contributing to the problem?

3. Exactly how would you respond to the question at the end of the film?

4. What alternative long-term courses of action do you believe might be taken to solve this kind of problem?

5. What personal value or values do you hold which prompted you to reach your decisions?
The Curriculum is Questioned

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. In what ways might the black children feel threatened by the issue of slavery?

2. How might a black Terry Patterson, as opposed to a white Terry Patterson, affect the feelings of the black children? The white children?

3. What could Terry have done prior to the day's lesson to prevent the threat and discomfort of the black children?

4. What role, if any, do the mass media play in precipitating the kind of problem presented?

5. What role does the traditional history textbook play in the situation presented?

6. How might the study of slavery and the Civil War be used to create greater understanding and cooperation between the black and white children in Terry's class?

7. What is the teacher's role and responsibility in handling racial issues in a biracial class? What might be the results of the various ways of handling such issues?
Filmed
A Reading Problem

It is early in the year and Terry Patterson is giving a short oral reading test to his/her students. Three children, two white and one black, are called to Terry's desk for the test while the other children work quietly at their seats. The three children in turn read aloud a few sentences. Their reading is significantly below grade level, and they appear uncomfortable. The last reader, Tommy, after struggling through his sentences, looks at Terry and asks, "Why do we have to read, Teacher? I don't like to read." The film ends as the children wait for Terry's response.

Records for Sally, George and Tommy are available in the Participant's Handbook.
A Reading Problem

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem you have seen as specifically as possible.

2. Exactly how would you answer Tommy's question at the end of the film?

3. What factors do you believe may be contributing to the children's reading disabilities?

4. What specific information did you find that was useful in gaining a better understanding of each of the children?

5. What are some alternative instructional or evaluative procedures open to you for working to improve Sally's reading? George's? Tommy's?

6. Which available course(s) of action would you choose for each child? Why?

7. What special materials and/or techniques would you employ with each child?

8. What personal value or values do you hold which prompted you to reach your decisions?
A Reading Problem

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. What are some ways teachers can provide specialized help for slow or educationally handicapped students without unduly taking away time from the better students?

2. How can teachers provide special assistance for slow or educationally handicapped students without calling attention to their inferior class standing?

3. What is the obligation of the teacher for educating the student who is not able to perform at the assigned grade level?

4. Should Terry differentiate reading materials in any significant way as he/she seeks to help the three students become better readers? How? (This line of questioning should be used to bring out the inappropriateness of much traditional reading material for black children.)
Filmed
A Plea for Help

Terry Patterson is working on class records after school when a Negro colleague stops by with some promised materials and a plea for help. Terry learns that a trying relationship has developed between the Negro teacher and one of her white students. The difficulty began when the teacher required the student to have an excuse properly verified in the school office, then returned to her. The student did so but in a rude manner, and since that time has been "impudent" and increasingly difficult to discipline. Terry is asked to respond to the situation at the conclusion of the film when the teacher asks, "Terry, what do you think I should do?"
A Plea for Help

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What seems to be the troubled teacher's problem?

2. What factors do you believe are contributing to her problem?

3. What alternatives are open to her in solving the problem?

4. What specific response would you give to her request for help at the conclusion of the film?

5. In what ways, if any, do you think you might help her to solve the problem?

6. How could a total school come to grips with this type of problem?

7. What personal value or values do you hold which prompted you to reach your decisions?
A Plea for Help

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. Are there any racial reasons why Terry's colleague might be having difficulties with the white child? What might some be?

2. If Terry's colleague were white and the "problem child" black, might there be racial reasons accounting for the difficulty? What might some be?

3. Who would have the advantage: a white Terry in a predominantly black classroom dealing with an impudent black child or a black Terry in a predominantly white classroom dealing with an impudent white child? Exactly why?

4. Can you think of any reasons why Terry's colleague might be reluctant to seek help from her principal?
Filmed
A Problem for the Faculty

Terry Patterson is in a faculty meeting. Mr. Simpson, the principal, recognizes the school's band director, Mr. Martin, who presents a problem for the faculty to solve. Mr. Martin, a Negro, is concerned that the school band may become extinct because of waning support of white and black students. As Terry listens, Mr. Martin explains that during the previous year the band was predominantly white. With the admission of a few Negro members and the expressed interest of other Negroes in joining the band, white members began to drop out. This year the white members have continued to drop out of the school band and the expected Negro membership has not materialized. Soon, Mr. Martin concludes, the band may not have enough members to function. Mr. Simpson, expressing concern, turns to Terry and the other faculty members. The film concludes as he asks, "Do any of you have suggestions as to steps Mr. Martin might take?"
A Problem for the Faculty

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. What do you believe are the factors contributing to the problem?

3. What alternatives are open to Mr. Martin as he works in the problem situation?

4. In what ways, if any, do you think the faculty can work to solve the problem?

   What might be the probable outcome(s) associated with each course of action?

5. In what ways, if any, do you think you personally might contribute to a solution of the problem?

6. What personal value or values do you hold that prompted you to reach your decisions?
A Problem for the Faculty

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. Would the problem situation be likely to be different if Mr. Martin were white rather than black? Why or why not?

2. Is eliciting student participation in extra-curricular activities likely to become a special problem in the desegregated school? Why or why not?

3. Would black children by nature be more likely than white children to want to participate in certain kinds of activities, e.g., band, chorus, athletics? Why or why not?
Filmed
Teachers' Lounge

Terry Patterson enters the teachers' lounge where a discussion pertaining to the integrated staff at Valleybrook School is in progress among three teachers. An experienced, Negro female teacher reveals that Miss Green, a white teacher who is not present in the lounge, often makes her feel unwelcome. Especially annoying is Miss Green's continued mispronunciation of "Negro" and the fact that she has a Confederate license tag on her car.* Two teachers, one white and one black, express the opinion that Miss Green is not intentionally insulting, but it is evident that the complaining teacher construes her actions as deliberate and highly prejudiced. Terry is brought into the discussion when asked at the film's conclusion, "Terry, what would you suggest that I do?"

*In a non-southern setting, Mrs. Green might be identified as a new teacher from the South so as to make the incident more appropriate for the group.
Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What seems to be the complaining teacher's problem?

2. What factors do you believe are contributing to her problem?

3. What alternatives are open to her in resolving the problem?

4. How would you answer her question at the end of the film?

5. What action(s), if any, do you believe you personally could take to help alleviate the complaining teacher's problem?

6. What (if any) school-wide approaches could be taken?

   What might be the probable outcome(s) associated with each course of action?

7. What personal value or values do you hold that prompted you to reach your decisions?
1. Many white teachers in the South will be quite defensive about the implied prejudice of pronouncing Negro as "nig-ra" and of having a Confederate tag on one's car. They may want to express their reactions to the film's implications immediately and may not wish to follow the pattern of responding privately on paper, then following the question format in discussion. If the discussion dynamics begin immediately, the group leader may choose to allow the discussion to continue, returning to the format later. The Negro group members should be asked for their reactions to "nig-ra" and for their preferences as to how their race is identified, i.e., black, Negro, Afro-American, colored, or other.

2. The group members may be asked to reverse the races in the film, thinking of the complaining teacher as white and of Miss Green as a Negro who refers to members of the Caucasian race as "whitey" and who has a "Black Power" bumper sticker on her car.

How does this reversal affect the problem? Are the two situations analogous?

3. This simulation exercise lends itself to an open discussion of the "little things" that can and do give offense to racially-sensitive individuals. The group leader should try to allow all group members to express their opinions freely. After discussion and expression of reactions to the simulated problem and its implications, the discussion should be directed to means of insuring that misunderstanding and casual comments do not mar inter-personal relations. Also, the group might deal with the implications of having a bona fide racist(s) on the faculty. For example:

What is the effect of teacher-teacher relations on the school climate in general?

What effect might intra-faculty racial strife have on the students?

What might be some specific ways of dealing with a racial bigot(s) on a biracial staff?

What can be done to counteract the damaging effects of racism among faculty members?
Filmed
An Unexpected Encounter

It is after school and Terry Patterson is working on records at his/her desk. Suddenly the door is opened and an angry and upset white father confronts Terry.

Terry learns from the father that his daughter, Suzie, was kissed by a Negro child while on the playground the preceding day. The father explains his anger as concern since so many of "those children," implying the Negro children in the school, are "not very clean." Also, he is upset because he feels such incidents might lead to "other things." The film concludes as the irate father demands of Terry, "Now, what I want to know is what you're going to do to stop this sort of thing from happening."

A record is available for Suzy in the Participant's Handbook.
An Unexpected Encounter

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What seems to be the problem?

2. What factors do you believe have contributed to the attitude of Suzie's father?

3. Exactly what would you say to the upset father at the end of the film?

4. What steps (if any) would you take in an attempt to prevent a recurrence of the type of incident responsible for the complaint?

What might be the probable outcome(s) associated with each course of action?

5. What personal value or values do you hold that prompted you to reach your decisions?
An Unexpected Encounter

Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

1. How widely held among whites are the stereotypes applied to Negroes by the upset father?

2. How justified are the father's implied fears of interracial dating and marriage?

3. The potential explosiveness of this incident (and the root fears involved) can be well demonstrated through role-playing. Encourage various members of the group to play both the role of Terry and the father. A particularly revealing kind of role-play is sometimes enacted when a Negro group member takes the part of the father. Role reversal can also be illuminating in another way. Have a black father confront Terry with the complaint that his daughter has been kissed by a white boy.
Written
The Birthday Party

Just before school starts on a Monday morning, a pupil (Larry Keeler) hands Terry Patterson a note from his mother. In the note Mrs. Keeler requests that Larry be allowed to bring to school the following day written invitations to his birthday party to be held Wednesday afternoon, and to issue the invitations to all of the white children in the class. Mrs. Keeler explains that she will be out of town all day and, therefore, will be out of reach by telephone. She requests that Terry respond by a note sent home that afternoon by Larry. Terry must make his/her response.

This simulation exercise is presented in the form of the written note from Mrs. Keeler rather than by film. Group members are asked to write out the exact responding note they would send home to Mrs. Keeler.

A record is available for Larry in the Participant's Handbook.
The Birthday Party

Written Problem

Just before school starts on Monday morning a pupil hands Terry Patterson the following note:

Dear Teacher:

Larry's birthday is this coming Wednesday. I am planning a party for him after school that day and want to invite all of the white children in your room to attend. Is it all right if Larry brings written invitations to give to the children tomorrow? I will be away from home all day today until late this evening and cannot be reached by telephone - I must drive to Springer to look in on my mother who has been ill. Please send your answer home with Larry in a note. Thank you very much.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Keeler

A record for Larry Keeler is available in the Participant's Handbook.
The Birthday Party

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. What are some factors which should be taken into consideration in working out a solution to the problem?

3. What, if any, long-range implications are connected with the problem?

4. What would you say in your note to Mrs. Keeler? (Write your exact reply.)

5. What are some alternative ways to prevent a similar problem from arising again?

6. What value or values do you hold that prompted you to reach your decisions?
The Birthday Party

Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

1. What, if any, implications are involved in this problem incident insofar as basic school policy is concerned?

2. See pages ______ for suggestions relating to role-playing activities.
Terry Patterson receives a note from the principal, Mr. Simpson, directed to all of the teachers. The note recognizes the various language difficulties several of the teachers have expressed regarding oral communication with the Negro students. Mr. Simpson requests that each teacher write down possible suggestions as to ways of improving Negro speech and understanding of "standard English" on a classroom, schoolwide, and systemwide basis. The suggestions are to be given to Mr. Simpson prior to the next faculty meeting.

This simulation exercise is presented in the form of the note to Terry rather than by film. Group members are requested to respond as Terry Patterson to the principal's request.
A Communication Problem (Negro)

Written Problem

Terry stops in the office before school to check the mail. The following communication is in all of the teachers' boxes.

Dear Teacher:

All day yesterday I thought about a problem that was raised, but discussed only briefly, in our staff meeting after school the day before yesterday. The problem? The difficulty some of you reported you are having in communicating orally with your Negro pupils. There seemed to be general agreement among those of you who are white that many expressions and pronunciations used by your Negro students are unfamiliar or unintelligible to you. You also expressed the concern that some of your own middle-class white speech forms and pronunciations might be equally unfamiliar or unintelligible to many of your Negro pupils.

I should like for us to discuss and work together on this problem in a special staff meeting on Wednesday afternoon next week.

To expedite our work on Wednesday, I should like for each of you to do the following before the meeting:

1. Write down a list of all possible ways you can think of by which individual teachers in their own classrooms might help their Negro pupils improve their speech and understanding of "standard" English.
2. Write down a list of all possible things you can think of that might be done cooperatively by a few teachers on a school-wide basis to lessen the communication problem between white teachers and Negro pupils.
3. Write down a list of all possible things you can think of that I and/or Central Office personnel might do to assist with the solution of the problem.

If you will do the above, I believe by working in our staff meeting, initially in small groups and later all together, we can come up with composite guidelines that may be of real help to us. Anyway let's give it a try.

Thomas Simpson
A Communication Problem (Negro)

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. Draw up the lists of suggestions requested by Mr. Simpson.

3. What sources of information were available (if any) which were useful as you formulated your suggestions?

4. What other information would you like to have had?

   How could it be obtained?

5. What personal values prompted you to reach your decisions?
A Communication Problem (Negro)

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. How widespread are communications problems in the desegregated school?

2. Should teachers endeavor to make "standard English" the prevailing mode of speech of black and/or white disadvantaged children? Why or why not?

3. Some authorities are advocating that disadvantaged children be taught "standard English" as a second language. Explain their concept. Do you agree or disagree with their ideas. Why or why not?
Terry Patterson receives a note from the principal, Mr. Simpson, directed to all of the teachers. The note refers to language problems several of the teachers have described in connection with Puerto Rican (or Mexican-American) students. Mr. Simpson requests that each teacher write down suggestions as to possible ways problems of this type might be alleviated. The suggestions are to include ideas that can be implemented by the individual teacher in his/her classroom and on a school-wide and systemwide basis. These suggestions are to be given to Mr. Simpson prior to the next faculty meeting.
A Communication Problem (Puerto Rican or Mexican-American)

Written Problem

Terry stops in the office before school to check the mail. The following communication is in all of the teachers' boxes.

Dear Teacher:

All day yesterday I thought about a problem that was raised, but discussed only briefly, in our staff meeting after school the day before yesterday. The problem? The difficulty some of you reported you are having in communicating with your Puerto Rican students.

I should like for us to discuss and work together on this problem in a special staff meeting on Tuesday afternoon next week.

To expedite our work on Tuesday, I should like for each of you to do the following before the meeting: (1) Write down a list of all possible ways you can think of by which individual teachers in their own classrooms might help their Puerto Rican students to improve their proficiency in speaking and writing standard English. (2) Write down a list of all possible things you can think of that might be done cooperatively by a group(s) of teachers to accomplish the same end. (3) Write down a list of all possible things you can think of that I and/or Central Office personnel might do to assist with the solution of the problem.

If you will do the above, I believe by working in our staff meeting, initially in small groups and later all together, we can come up with composite guidelines that may be of real help to us. Anyway, lets give it a try.

Thomas Simpson
A Communication Problem (Puerto Rican or Mexican-American)

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. Draw up the lists of suggestions requested by Mr. Simpson.

3. What sources of information were available (if any) which were useful as you formulated your suggestions?

4. What other information would you like to have had?

   How could it be obtained?

5. What personal value or values prompted you to reach your decisions?
A Communication Problem (Puerto Rican or Mexican-American)

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. Should English or special teachers be expected to assume the major responsibility of dealing with the problem? Why or why not?

2. Should Puerto Rican (or Mexican-American) history and culture be included in Valleybrook's curriculum along with an emphasis upon the Spanish language? If so, how might this be done?

3. How might parents be involved in solving the problem?
Terry Patterson receives a request from the principal, Mr. Simpson, to come to the office for a parent conference with Mr. Rick. Terry anticipates that the impending conference will not be pleasant as Mr. Rick has not been cooperative in regard to Terry's disciplinary actions with his son, David. Mr. Rick had sent a note to Terry the preceding week warning Terry about having "jumped on (David) for fighting with that Hayes boy." Terry responded at that time with a note explaining the necessity of disciplining the boys for fighting.

Records are available in the Participant's Handbook on both boys involved in the fighting incident which led to the present confrontation between Terry Patterson and Mr. Rick. The record on David suggests that Mr. Rick is a former member of the American Freedom Party.

This simulation exercise is unique in that it sets up extensive role-play with additional background information provided for the group members acting the roles of Terry, Mr. Rick, Billy Hayes, and David Rick. The exercise is presented in the form of the written notes exchanged between Terry and Mr. Rick rather than via film.
Fighting Boys

Written Problem

Last week Terry Patterson received the following note:

Teacher:

Today my boy came home from school and told me that you had jumped on him for fighting with that Hayes boy. I refuse to put up with this and it had better not happen again. If it does there will be trouble and you will be very sorry.

Timothy Rick

The next day Terry sent the following note in answer to Mr. Rick.

Dear Mr. Rick:

I regret that the fighting incident to which you referred in your note occurred. Since both boys were fighting, however, it would have been unfair to have reprimanded one and not the other. Obviously, we cannot permit fighting as someone might get hurt. In addition, it upsets the other children. Perhaps with your cooperation it will not happen again.

I hope you understand.

Terry Patterson

At the moment Mr. Rick is waiting in the main office to see Terry Patterson. He is quite upset and angry. Mr. Simpson has just sent a request for Terry to come to the office.

Records for both boys are available in the Participant's Handbook.
Fighting Boys

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What is the immediate problem to be faced in the impending confrontations with Mr. Rick?

2. What, if any, immediate preparations can you make for the conference?

3. Would or would you not ask to have David and Billy brought into the conference? Why, or why not?

4. What is the long-term nature of the problem?

5. What are some factors to be taken into consideration in working out a solution to the long-term problem?

6. What are some alternative courses of action you might follow in an attempt to deal with the problem in the future?

   What are the probable outcomes associated with each course of action?

7. What, if any, school-wide action could be taken to alleviate this type of problem?

8. What personal value or values do you hold that prompted you to reach your decisions?
Fighting Boys

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. Should Terry request that the boys be present at the conference with Mr. Rick? Why or why not?

2. Does the problem incident imply any bad judgment on the part of the principal? Why or why not?

3. Does the problem incident have any implications regarding school policy? If so, what are they?
Related Role-Play Information

Information for Terry Patterson

1. Last week on the playground David Rick and Christopher Hayes got into a fight. The argument began when Christopher snatched David's hat and would not return it right away. David chased him and although unable to catch him managed to trip Christopher so that he fell. He came up swinging and David hit back at him. Although neither boy was hurt both became quite angry. You disciplined both boys by keeping them after school. The next morning David brought a note from his father threatening you if you should discipline his son again for fighting.

2. Yesterday at lunch David tried to trip Christopher again as the boys were leaving the lunch room. Christopher retaliated by shoving David. You observed the boys scuffling and again you kept them after school.

3. David is not an aggressive child and you are surprised that he has been fighting. Christopher has not been an overly aggressive child this year and has caused no problems in this way either. You really do not know what, if anything, has caused the present bad feelings between the two boys.

4. You have never met Mr. Rick although you did meet his wife at one of the PTA meetings. She seemed to be a rather quiet type.
Related Role-Play Information

Information for Mr. Rick

1. You have been having many problems this past year, both personal and financial. You would like to walk out on everything but do not know what would happen to the children. You worry about money a great deal. It seems there is never enough. Recently you took another job and now it seems you are always tired.

2. You came from a background of hardship. Consequently, you missed a lot of advantages. While you were in the army you had the opportunity for the first time to see some of the world and how other people live. You had hoped to find success in a job when you were discharged but because of an educational deficit success has eluded you.

3. You are prejudiced and dislike the idea of the Negro children attending your children's school. You feel that you are better than they and that they have no right to be there.

4. You are secretly proud that your boy got into a fight. You have been hoping he would show a little spunk. You are also upset that he was disciplined because the other boy was a Negro child. You feel that it was alright for him to hit the Negro boy but that the other boy should not have been allowed to hit David back. In addition, you would not have objected to David's having been punished for fighting if the other boy had been a white child. As it is however, you are really mad and are going to do all you can to cause trouble for the teacher and perhaps the school also.
Information for David Rick

Perhaps as a result of moving around or perhaps as a result of the economic problems of your family you are having a hard time adjusting to school and the other children. You feel that the children pick on you but when you tell the teacher about this you do not feel that she is really concerned. If you tell your folks at home how the other children treat you your mother says, "Don't worry, they like you. How could they help but like you?" Your father says, "Hit back, when the kids pick on you." You are confused. You tried it your mother's way and now you tried it your father's. You are not happy with either. You really do not dislike Christopher and you do not think the other children like you any better as a result of your fight with him. You go to school early many mornings hoping you will get to talk with the teacher because one day you think maybe you will get enough nerve to ask for help. You would like to do well in school and you would like to be popular with the other children but you are confused.
Fighting Boys

Related Role-Play Information

Information for Billy Hayes

You did not mean to cause trouble, since you were only playing when you snatched Christopher's hat. All your classmates tease David and he had never reacted before as he did when you took his hat. You like him all right -- you never really thought about it one way or the other.

Neither you nor your folks minded that you were disciplined, and you do not see what all the fuss is about with David's father. You think that grown-ups sure can act peculiar sometimes. You hope that your family does not come to the school because that would really be embarrassing to you. You hope, too, that you would not have to go to the office. You also like your teacher who you hope will not get into trouble over any of this.
A new student, Rachel Braun, hands Terry a note from her mother before school starts. The note reports that David Rick, another of Terry's pupils, has been directing anti-Jewish epithets at Rachel and requests that Terry talk with David and instruct him to cease his attack on Rachel. Rachel's mother also asks for suggestions as to what she and her husband might do to be helpful and indicates they will contact David's parents directly if Terry thinks this advisable. Mrs. Braun asks that Terry respond by a note sent home that afternoon by Rachel. Terry must write this note.

This simulation exercise is presented in the form of the written note from Mrs. Braun rather than by film. Group members must write the exact responding note they would send home to Mrs. Braun.

A record is available for David in the Participant's Handbook.
A New Pupil's Problem

Written Problem

Rachel Braun, a new student, hands the following note to Terry before school:

Dear Teacher:

My daughter, Rachel, enrolled in your school the day before yesterday. Last night she reported to her father and me that a classmate, David Rick, had called her anti-Jewish names throughout the day. Rachel has never been attacked in this manner in school before and is extremely upset by the Rick boy's behavior toward her.

I'm sure you would not approve of what is going on and am taking this means of immediately calling it to your attention. I dislike writing, but we will not have telephone service for several more days, and I work, myself, and cannot get to the school during regular school hours.

Would you please speak to the Rick boy and ask him to stop calling Rachel names? Also, would you please send a note home this afternoon with Rachel confirming your willingness to do this and giving me any suggestions you might have as to how my husband and I might be helpful in getting this matter settled. If you think it advisable, we will take this problem up directly with David Rick's parents.

I'm sure you will understand how important it is that we get this matter ironed out at once. Rachel is a sensitive child whose smooth adjustment to her new school is being threatened.

Thank you very much for your help and cooperation.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. David Braun

A record for David Rick is available in the Participant's Handbook.
A New Pupil's Problem

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. What are some factors which should be taken into consideration in working out a solution to the problem?

3. What, if any, long-range implications are connected with the problem?

4. Where would you seek background information about the problem?

5. What would you say in your note to Mrs. Braun? (Write your exact reply.)

6. What are some alternative ways to prevent similar problems from arising in the future?

7. What value or values do you hold that prompted you to reach your decisions?

NOTE: On actual worksheet more space is provided for notations.
A New Pupil's Problem

Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

1. Are Rachel and her parents displaying hypersensitivity to a kind of slur on their religious group that would better be ignored? Why or why not do you think this to be the case? Should the school become involved at all in such matters? Why or why not?

2. Would you investigate Mrs. Braun's charges against David? How?

3. Would you bring Rachel and David together in an attempt to solve the problem? Why or why not?

4. Role-play possibilities:
   a. Role-play a conference with Rachel.
   b. Role-play a conference with David.
   c. Role-play a conference involving both Rachel and David.
The executive committee of the Rebel Yell Pep Club of Lakemont High School is meeting to discuss applications for membership. Sandy is a co-sponsor of the club and is observing the proceedings from the back of the room. One of the club officers notes that there are no black students among the applicants for club membership. Some members express their concern that the black students may not feel wanted in the currently all-white club. One student responds that indeed he doesn’t particularly want black students in; whereas, another student questions whether or not the club name may be offensive to the black students. Most of the club members agree that they have a responsibility to involve all students at Lakemont High in school activities. But the question is, "How?" The film concludes as the committee members turn and ask, "What do our sponsors suggest?"
A Spirit Problem

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What is the problem?

2. What are the factors contributing to the problem?

3. What would you say in response to the question asked at the end of the film? ("What do our sponsors suggest?")

4. What could you do as an individual teacher to contribute to the solution of the problem?

   What are some long-range, school-wide solutions for the problem?

5. What values do you hold that prompt your suggested solutions for the problem?
A Spirit Problem

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. What are some of the implications of the comments made by the various club members?
   a. Are there differences in the reactions of white and black discussion group members to the "Dixie" incident mentioned in the film? To the club's name, the Rebel Yell Pep Club? If different reactions are offered, encourage the group members to express their feelings fully.
   b. Why is it that students often continue to refer to a newly integrated school as the "white school?" What does this indicate about the school? The faculty? The student body?

2. What might be some reasons why black students are not very active in extracurricular school activities?

3. Is there a difference between "desegregation" and "integration?" Define each term.

4. How can a school promote integration of its minority group students within the framework of its regular curriculum? In extra-class activities?
Sandy is at his/her desk after school when a colleague stops by and asks for some advice. The colleague is Jane Fowler, a young, white teacher of 11th grade American history. Jane describes to Sandy the unexpected display that greeted her when she arrived at school that morning. Pictures and names of Negroes had been placed all about the room. Jane confesses to Sandy that many of the Negroes pictured and named in the display are unknown to her. Accompanying the display was a large sign reading, "WE WERE THERE."

Sandy learns that Jane removed all of the materials prior to the arrival of her students because she was unsure of how to proceed. The film concludes as Jane asks Sandy, "How would you interpret this? Where do I go from here?"
We Were There

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What is the problem?

2. What are the factors contributing to the problem?

3. How would you answer Jane Fowler's question at the end of the film?

4. What could you do as an individual teacher to contribute to the solution of the problem?

What are some long-range, school-wide solutions for the problem?

5. What values do you hold that prompt your suggested solutions for the problem?
Questions for Group Leader Use

1. What does the important role played by textbooks in the determination of curriculum content have to do with this problem? Are there any implications here for the selection of textbooks? What are they?

2. Does a teacher like Jane Fowler have an obligation to expand the content of her subject field so that minority group contributions to American history are given more emphasis? If so, how might she accomplish this? Are there sources of help available to her? What are they?

3. How should 'Negro history' be taught—as a separate unit or on an integrated basis? Why?

4. What sorts of things might be done in a predominantly white school to help Negro students develop a greater sense of pride in their race and culture and increase white students' appreciation of Negro contributions to our history and society? Have group members suggest what they might do in their respective subject matter areas.

5. Should a teacher allow discussion of controversial issues raised in class? If so, what are his responsibilities with reference to such discussions?
Each year the 10th grade of Lakemont High School sponsors a spaghetti supper. This year Sandy's home-room is in charge of the supper and the class is completing plans. The class secretary observes that so few parents have volunteered to serve on the various committees that the supper may have to be called off. This announcement causes quite a stir, since many tickets have already been sold. The president tries to solve the problem by asking certain students if they can get their parents to participate. Both a white and black girl, when questioned, indicate that their parents won't be available to help. The latter student comments brusquely, "My parents don't want to come to nuthin' at this school, and they sure aren't goin' to serve on any CLEAN-UP Committee! Huh!" Immediately several white students respond that it is unfair that some parents never help out. As the film concludes, Sandy, who has been quietly observing the proceedings from the side of the room, is suddenly faced with a divided class and a ticklish question to answer: "Why is that, teacher?" (Some parents never come to school.) "How can we get them to participate?"

Records on the white girl (Derrill) and the black girl (Hannah) are available in the Participant's Handbook.
Volunteer Parents

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What is the problem?

2. What factors are contributing to the problem?

3. Where did you find information that you consider relevant to the problem?

   What was it?

4. What could you do as an individual teacher that would contribute to the solution of the problem?

5. What are some long-range, school-wide solutions for the problem?

6. What values do you hold that prompt your suggested solutions for the problem?
Volunteer Parents

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. Would you expect Derrill's mother to be an active participant in school affairs? Why or why not? How do parents in the lower socio-economic brackets tend to regard teachers and schools?

2. Would you expect Hannah's parents to be active participants in school affairs? Why or why not? What significance do you attach to Hannah's comment about the CLEAN-UP Committee?

3. Why might Negro parents in a minority school situation (like Lakemont High) be especially difficult to involve in school activities? White parents in a minority school situation?

4. Should Sandy and other Lakemont High teachers make home visits to get better acquainted with parents? Why or why not? Would a white Sandy be likely to have any problems with a home visit with Hannah's parents that a black Sandy might not have? Why or why not? Might a black Sandy have some problems with a home visit with Derrill's mother that a white Sandy might not have? Why or why not?

5. Is there any significant evidence that the problem of involving parents in a meaningful way in school affairs should be given a high priority by school teachers and administrators? What about involvement of community leaders who may not be parents? (The significance of the "community control" and "decentralization" controversies can be explored here.)
Filmed
Order in the Classroom

It is near the close of the school day. Sandy is approaching another teacher's room to give her a message when a disturbance is heard. As the classroom comes into view, Sandy sees an upset teacher, two laughing boys, and a generally disrupted class. The bell rings and the students dash out leaving the teacher feeling quite distraught. She turns to Sandy, describing the disrespectful behavior of the two boys who had been standing. She indicates that the students do not accept her authority and seem even to "hate" her. Finally, with deep concern she asks, "Sandy, what am I going to do?" The film concludes as she waits for a response.

The teacher in the film is black. One boy is white; the other is black.
Order in the Classroom

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What is the problem?

2. What are the factors contributing to the problem?

3. How would you answer the teacher's plea for help at the end of the film?

4. What could you do as an individual teacher that would contribute to the solution of the problem?

5. What are some long-range, school-wide solutions for the problem?

6. What values do you hold that prompt your suggested solutions for the problem?
Order in the Classroom

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. Are there any particular reasons why the black teacher might be having "discipline problems" with her predominantly white class? If so, what might some of these be?

2. Might a white teacher have special problems maintaining order in a predominantly black class? Why or why not?

3. Would a black Sandy be likely to give the same advice to the teacher asking for help as a white Sandy? Why or why not?

4. Are there any reasons why the teacher in the film might be reluctant to seek the principal's help? If so, what are they?
Filmed
A Matter of Dress

It is homeroom period. Sandy is working at his/her desk while the students work or talk quietly in their seats. Suddenly, the attention of the room is directed toward a student brought in for enrollment in Sandy's homeroom. The student is Charles Washington, black, who is returning to Lakemont High School after attending school for several months in Atlanta. The students react with some surprise to Charles' appearance. A white student laughingly calls him a bushman. To this Charles responds by calling him a honkie. Several students react to Charles and his mode of dress. One defends his right to dress in any way he pleases; others object to his mode of dress, associating it with the Black Militant movement. Charles listens to their comments, then swings around to Sandy, demanding, "Do you see anything wrong with the way I look?" The film concludes as the class awaits Sandy's reaction.

A record on Charles Washington is available in the Participant's Handbook.
A Matter of Dress

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What is the problem?

2. What are the factors contributing to the problem?

3. How would you answer Charles' question at the end of the film? ("Do you see anything wrong with the way I look?")

4. Where did you find information that you consider relevant to the problem?

What was it?

Where would you seek additional information if you felt it was needed?

5. What could you do as an individual teacher to solve the problem?

What are some long-range, school-wide solutions for the problems?

6. What values do you hold that prompt your suggested solutions for the problem?
A Matter of Dress

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. What are Lakemont High's regulations regarding dress, hair, etc.? Are these regulations sound? Why? Why not? If they stand in need of modification, how should this process be conducted?

2. Might Charles' period of residence in Atlanta have altered his racial attitudes? Why or why not? What effects do the mass media (e.g., television) have on social attitudes?

3. What did the black girl's response "Black is beautiful" have to do with Charles' appearance?

4. What danger was inherent in the white boy's assumption of black militancy from Charles' dress? How do outward appearances affect teacher expectations of students?

5. Why do you think Charles is dressed as he is?

6. Why might a white Sandy feel more threatened by Charles' question than a black teacher? ("Do you see anything wrong with the way I look?")
Sandy Johnson, Miss Adams, one of the guidance counselors at Lakemont High, and Mr. Brooks, father of one of Sandy's homeroom students, are in conference. Mr. Brooks, a Negro, is quite disturbed by the continuing advances a white student, Ronald Greer, is making toward his daughter. (Ronald is also in Sandy's homeroom.) Mr. Brooks indicates that the boy's attentions are highly unacceptable to his daughter and highly insulting to the family. Furthermore, Mr. Brooks indicates that several of the white boys at Lakemont have shown disrespect for the black girls, apparently considering them "in this school for their convenience." Since both Ronald and his daughter are in Sandy's homeroom, Mr. Brooks places initial responsibility for curbing Ronald's objectionable behavior on Sandy. He states that unless Sandy and the school resolve the matter satisfactorily he will be forced to take further action that might put the school in an "unfavorable light." The film concludes as Mr. Brooks asks Sandy, "Do you think you and the school can handle this matter?"

Records are available in the Participant's Handbook for Mr. Brooks' daughter, Lorraine, and for Ronald.
A Parent Conference

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What is the problem?

2. What are the factors contributing to the problem?

3. How would you answer the question at the end of the film?

4. Where did you find information that you consider relevant to the problem?

   What was it?

   Where would you seek additional information if you feel it is needed?

5. What could you do as an individual teacher that would contribute to the solution of the problem?

6. What are some long-range, school-wide solutions for the problem?

7. What values do you hold that prompt your suggested solutions for the problem?
A Parent Conference

Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

1. How might the historical positions of the white male and the black female in America have influenced Ronald's view of Mr. Brooks' daughter? How might they account for Mr. Brooks' special concern over Ronald's advances?

2. What might the school do to dispel such stereotypes and thus reduce the possibility that they might cause the kind of behavior about which Mr. Brooks is complaining?

3. Should Sandy have a talk with Ronald? With Ronald's parents? With both Ronald and his parents?

4. Does any member of the group consider that he has reliable evidence (observational, research) regarding the incidents of boy-girl relationships (e.g., interracial dating) in desegregated schools? If so, allow him to express himself and elicit reactions from other group members.

Role-plays:

1. Have members of the group role-play the problem conference, picking it up at the point where the film ends.

2. Have members role-play a follow-up conference between Sandy and Ronald.
Written
A Communication Problem
(Negro)

Sandy Johnson receives a note from the principal, Mr. Dennis directed to all of the teachers. The note refers to various language difficulties several of the teachers have described in connection with oral communication with Negro students. Mr. Dennis requests that each teacher write down suggestions as to possible ways of alleviating communication blocks between white teachers and black students. The suggestions are to include ideas that can be implemented by the individual teacher in his/her classroom and on a schoolwide and systemwide basis. These suggestions are to be given to Mr. Dennis prior to the next faculty meeting.

This simulation problem is presented in the form of the note to Sandy rather than by film. Group members are requested to respond as Sandy Johnson to the principal's request.
A Communication Problem (Negro)

Written Problem

Sandy stops in the office before school to check the mail. The following communication is in all of the teachers' boxes.

Dear Teacher:

All day yesterday I thought about a problem that was raised, but discussed only briefly, in our staff meeting after school the day before yesterday. The problem? The difficulty some of you reported you are having in communicating orally with your Negro pupils. There seemed to be general agreement among those of you who are white that many expressions and pronunciations used by your Negro students are unfamiliar or unintelligible to you. You also expressed the concern that some of your own middle-class white speech forms and pronunciations might be equally unfamiliar or unintelligible to many of your Negro pupils.

I should like for us to discuss and work together on this problem in a special staff meeting on Wednesday afternoon next week.

To expedite our work on Wednesday, I should like for each of you to do the following before the meeting:
(1) Write down a list of all possible ways you can think of by which individual teachers in their own classrooms might help their Negro pupils improve their speech and understanding of "standard" English. (2) Write down a list of all possible things you can think of that might be done cooperatively by a few teachers on a school-wide basis to lessen the communication problem between white teachers and Negro pupils. (3) Write down a list of all possible things you can think of that I and/or Central Office personnel might do to assist with the solution of the problem.

If you will do the above, I believe by working in our staff meeting, initially in small groups and later all together, we can come up with composite guidelines that may be of real help to us. Anyway let's give it a try.

Walter Dennis
A Communication Problem (Negro)

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. What are the factors contributing to the problem?

3. Draw up the lists of suggestions requested by Mr. Dennis.

4. What personal value or values prompted you to reach your decisions?
A Communication Problem (Negro)

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. How widespread are communication problems in the desegregated school?

2. Should teachers endeavor to make "standard English" the prevailing mode of speech of black and/or white disadvantaged children? Why or why not?

3. Should English teachers be expected to assume the major responsibility for solving communication problems in the desegregated school? Why or why not?

4. Some authorities are advocating that disadvantaged children be taught "standard English" as a second language. Explain their concept. Do you agree or disagree with their ideas? Why or why not?
Sandy Johnson receives a note from the principal, Mr. Dennis, directed to all of the teachers. The note refers to language problems several of the teachers have described in connection with Puerto Rican (or Mexican-American) students. Mr. Dennis requests that each teacher write down suggestions as to possible ways problems of this type might be alleviated. The suggestions are to include ideas that can be implemented by the individual teacher in his/her classroom and on a school-wide and systemwide basis. These suggestions are to be given to Mr. Dennis prior to the next faculty meeting.

This problem is presented in the form of a note to Sandy rather than by film. Group members are requested to respond as Sandy Johnsons to the principal's request.
A Communication Problem (Puerto Rican or Mexican-American)

Written Problem

Sandy stops in the office before school to check the mail. The following communication is in all of the teachers' boxes.

Dear Teacher:

All day yesterday I thought about a problem that was raised, but discussed only briefly, in our staff meeting after school the day before yesterday. The problem? The difficulty some of you reported you are having in communicating with your Puerto Rican students.

I should like for us to discuss and work together on this problem in a special staff meeting on Tuesday afternoon next week.

To expedite our work on Tuesday, I should like for each of you to do the following before the meeting: (1) Write down a list of all possible ways you can think of by which individual teachers in their own classrooms might help their Puerto Rican students to improve their proficiency in speaking and writing standard English. (2) Write down a list of all possible things you can think of that might be done cooperatively by a group(s) of teachers to accomplish the same end. (3) Write down a list of all possible things you can think of that I and/or Central Office personnel might do to assist with the solution of the problem.

If you will do the above, I believe by working in our staff meeting, initially in small groups and later all together, we can come up with composite guidelines that may be of real help to us. Anyway, let's give it a try.

Walter Dennis
A Communication Problem (Puerto Rican or Mexican-American)

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. What are the factors contributing to the problem?

3. Draw up the lists of suggestions requested by Mr. Dennis.

4. What personal value or values prompted you to reach your decisions?
A Communication Problem (Puerto Rican or Mexican-American)

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. Should English or special teachers be expected to assume the major responsibility of dealing with the problem? Why or why not?

2. Should Puerto Rican (or Mexican-American) history and culture be included in Lakemont's curriculum along with an emphasis upon the Spanish language? If so, how might this be done?

3. How might parents be involved in solving the problem?
Sandy has noted that Dwayne, a black homeroom student, has made failing grades at the end of the first semester in the academic courses he has been taking. Feeling that these courses are beyond Dwayne's present abilities, Sandy suggested to him that he should enroll in basic remedial courses during the remainder of the year and asked him to tell his parents about this suggestion. Dwayne's mother reacts to Sandy's suggestion via a note in which she accuses Sandy of wishing to put Dwayne in segregated classes and indicates that she is coming to school at once to discuss the matter further with Sandy.

This problem is presented in the form of the note Dwayne's mother has written rather than by film. Group members are asked to indicate on their incident response sheets how they would prepare for the impending conference with Dwayne's mother. The problem is explored in a culminating role-play for which additional information is provided.

A record is available for Dwayne in the Participant's Handbook.
An Angry Mother

Written Problem

Sandy has noted that Dwayne, a black homeroom student, has made failing grades at the end of the first semester in algebra, biology, and world history and suggested to Dwayne yesterday that he should consider enrolling in basic remedial courses. (At Lakemont High, the remedial classes are predominantly black.) Dwayne has just handed to Sandy the note reproduced below:

Dear Teacher:

My son came home very angry yesterday because you told him he would have to drop out of his academic classes and take some remedial courses this semester. I am aware of what "tracking" is and of how it can be used to get around integration. I cannot imagine how you can be so determined to resist integration that you would use this tactic. All you are succeeding in teaching is hate and humiliation. I demand that Dwayne be kept in his academic classes where he will be with both white and black students. I shall come to school this afternoon to discuss this matter with you further.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Gerald R. Rawls

You have decided to see Mrs. Rawls after school today despite the tone of her note and the short notice she has given of her intention to talk with you.

A record for Dwayne is available in the Participant's Handbook.
Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What is the problem?

2. What are the factors contributing to the problem?

3. How would you prepare for the conference with Mrs. Rawls?

4. What are some alternative approaches to the solutions of Dwayne's problem?

5. What are some long range, school-wide solutions for similar problems of other Lakemont High students?

6. What values do you hold that lead you to offer your suggested solutions?
An Angry Mother

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. Is the "tracking" system, no matter the composition of the student body, a defensible educational approach?

2. Are Dwayne's academic deficiencies common among many black high school students? If so, what are some of their root causes?

3. Should homeroom teachers assume the kind of counseling responsibility Sandy Johnson has taken in Dwayne's case? Why or why not?

4. Should Sandy seek to involve anyone else in the impending conference with Mrs. Rawls? Why or why not? If so, whom? Why?

5. Is there any justification for Mrs. Rawls' accusation that "tracking" produced resegregation in integrated schools? Explain.

6. Are there grouping and/or other procedures which can be employed to promote integration within the desegregated schools? If so, what are they?
An Angry Mother

Related Role-Play Information

Information for Sandy Johnson

You have not had Dwayne in any of your classes but have observed him in your homeroom. He has been extremely quiet and has caused no problems or been involved in any disruptive incidents. He impresses you, however, as a boy who seems to be seething inwardly.

Dwayne does not appear to have any special friends in your homeroom group and, in fact, seems to avoid association with his classmates. You have noted that he rarely opens a book when time is available for study. His cumulative record indicates that his grades have been barely passing at best in all of his subjects and that he had had to attend summer school to make up failures in 8th and 9th grade math.

Your suggestion that Dwayne enroll in basic remedial courses was prompted by a genuine concern that the academic courses in which he has been enrolled are beyond his present abilities. When you spoke to Dwayne privately about the matter, you asked him to tell his parents about your suggestion. Dwayne agreed to do this. He did not seem offended by your advice, but you were not successful in drawing him out. He seemed incapable of or unwilling to articulate his thoughts or feelings about school. You were surprised by Mrs. Rawls' accusation that you had told Dwayne that "he would have to drop out of his academic classes," but have had no opportunity to discuss the matter with the boy.
An Angry Mother

Related Role-Play Information

Information for Dwayne Rawls

In your case, school is a place of much frustration and misery. Schoolwork has always been hard for you, but classes have seemed especially difficult this year. You have trouble reading your textbooks and, in fact, you intensely dislike reading.

You have never been able to get grades that satisfy your parents. Somehow you feel that you are failing them, but you resent their nagging. You feel that your teachers are against you and that the school has not given you a fair shake. You knew you were failing, but you were hurt and finally angry (although you didn't let this show) when Sandy Johnson suggested that you change to basic courses. You feel this means that the teacher thinks you are dumb. Besides, you know it is important to compete with "whitey"; yet, being put into basic classes is like admitting you are dumb and that black students are not as smart as white students. You don't like the academic classes you're in, but you are rather pleased at the way your mother "told off" Sandy Johnson in her note. Your satisfaction is mixed with resentment toward both Sandy and your mother, however, and you wish adults didn't make life so complicated.
An Angry Mother

Related Role-Play Information

Information for Benita Rawls

You are the product of segregated schools. You attended a segregated elementary school and graduated from a segregated high school at age 15. You went on to a black college, hoping to work your way through. Marriage at age 16, and a baby at age 18, forced you to quit school and work full-time. You have always regretted not being able to finish college and not being able to hold a position more befitting your intellect. You are determined that your children will be college educated.

You and your husband are among the more active civil rights leaders in the black community and feel the black person must assert himself if he is ever to get "whitey" to grant him his due rights. You feel the school and educators have deliberately thwarted your son's chances for academic success because of resentment over school desegregation. This final action by Sandy of seeking to place Dwayne in the remedial group infuriates you. You consider it a racist tactic and a personal insult to your intelligence and that of your offspring.

If Sandy is white:
You attack Sandy as a white racist, and the school and teaching system as a tool of white racism.

If Sandy is black:
You regard Sandy as an "Uncle Tom," blind to what is going on, a complete tool of the white man's system. You try to make him/her see that tracking is a white racist tactic.
Sandy finds a note after homeroom period that suggests a gang fight between rival Negro and Puerto Rican (or Mexican-American) gangs might erupt in the park on the following night. The information is addressed to Charles Washington (one of Sandy's homeroom students) who is invited to take part in the altercation. Sandy feels he/she must take some sort of action.

This simulation problem is presented in the form of the note found by Sandy rather than by film. Group members are asked to indicate on their incident response sheets what action(s) they would take.

Trouble Ahead?

Written Problem

When Sandy's homeroom group leaves the room Sandy notices a sheet of paper on the floor under the seat of Charles Washington, a black student who has been in the homeroom group for only two weeks. Sandy, wanting a tidy room, picks up the paper and finds it to be the following note:

Charley

We going take up Louis Ruiz gang tomorrow nite at the park. They say they be there. You want in the Royals better get in on it. We need good cats. See me after school.

Alfred

Sandy has heard students and colleagues say that Alfred Wetmore and Luis Ruiz (neither of whom Sandy has in classes or homeroom) are respectively leaders of rival black and Puerto Rican gangs. Sandy fears a violent gang fight may be in the offing and decides personal action must be taken.

A record for Charles Washington is available in the Participant's Handbook.
Trouble Ahead?

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. What is the problem?

2. What are the factors contributing to the problem?

3. What immediate action(s) would you take?
   What are the probable outcomes associated with each?

4. What are some long range school-wide actions that might be taken to deal with the problem?
   What are the probable outcomes associated with each course of action?

5. What values do you hold that prompted you to offer your suggested solutions?
Trouble Ahead?

Questions for Group Leader Use

1. Why are "gang" activities so common among adolescents in general? Do you think the urge to form gangs is stronger among minority group adolescents than other boys and girls? Why or why not?

2. Why might black and Puerto Rican or other minority group students be likely to fight each other in a school like Lakemont?

3. Why might Charles be especially interested in the black Royal Gang?

5. Is Sandy's only responsibility that of calling the matter to the attention of the principal? Why or why not?

6. How might parents be involved constructively in solving this type of problem on a long range basis?

7. Do you think Sandy might learn anything important about the "gang situation" and/or possible impending fight by talking privately with Charles? Why or why not? Do you think Sandy's race and/or sex might make a difference in such a conference with Charles? Why or why not?

Role-plays:

1. Role-play a conference with Charles conducted by a white Sandy.

2. Role-play a conference with Charles conducted by a black Sandy.
A new student, Rachel Braun, hands Sandy a note from her mother before school starts. The note reports that Ronald Greer, another of Sandy’s homeroom pupils, has been directing anti-Jewish epithets at Rachel and requests that Sandy talk with Ronald and instruct him to cease his attack on Rachel. Rachel’s mother also asks for suggestions as to what she and her husband might do to be helpful and indicates they will contact Ronald’s parents directly if Sandy thinks this advisable. Mrs. Braun asks that Sandy respond by a note sent home that afternoon by Rachel. Sandy must write this note.

This simulation exercise is presented in the form of the written note from Mrs. Braun rather than by film. Group members must write the exact responding note they would send home to Mrs. Braun.

A record is available for Ronald in the Participant’s Handbook.
A New Pupil's Problem

Written Problem

Rachel Braun, a new homeroom student, hands the following note to Sandy before school:

Dear Teacher:

My daughter, Rachel, enrolled in your school the day before yesterday. Last night she reported to her father and me that a classmate, Ronald Greer, had called her anti-Jewish names throughout the day. Rachel has never been attacked in this manner in school before and is extremely upset by the Greer boy's behavior toward her.

I'm sure you would not approve of what is going on and am taking this means of immediately calling it to your attention. I dislike writing, but we will not have telephone service for several more days, and I work, myself, and cannot get to the school during regular school hours.

Would you please speak to the Greer boy and ask him to stop calling Rachel names? Also, would you please send a note home this afternoon with Rachel confirming your willingness to do this and giving me any suggestions you might have as to how my husband and I might be helpful in getting this matter settled. If you think it advisable, we will take this problem up directly with Ronald Greer's parents.

I'm sure you will understand how important it is that we get this matter ironed out at once. Rachel is a sensitive child whose smooth adjustment to her new school is being threatened.

Thank you very much for your help and cooperation.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. David Braun

A record for Ronald Greer is available in the Participant's Handbook.
A New Pupil's Problem

Incident Response Sheet for Participants

1. Identify the problem.

2. What are some factors which should be taken into consideration in working out a solution to the problem?

3. What, if any, long-range implications are connected with the problem?

4. Where would you seek background information about the problem?

5. What would you say in your note to Mrs. Braun? (Write your exact reply.)

6. What are some alternative ways to prevent similar problems from arising in the future?

7. What value or values do you hold that prompted you to reach your decisions?
A New Pupil's Problem

Questions and Suggestions for Group Leader Use

1. Are Rachel and her parents displaying hypersensitivity to a kind of slur on their religious group that would better be ignored? Why or why not do you think this to be the case? Should the school become involved at all in such matters? Why or why not?

2. Would you investigate Mrs. Braun's charges against Ronald? How?

3. Would you bring Rachel and Ronald together in an attempt to solve the problem? Why or why not?

4. Role-play possibilities:
   a. Role-play a conference with Rachel.
   b. Role-play a conference with Ronald.
   c. Role-play a conference involving both Rachel and Ronald.
APPENDIX A

Incident Response Sheet Format

The Birthday Party

1. Identify the problem.

2. What are some factors which should be taken into consideration in working out a solution to the problem?

3. What, if any, long-range implications are connected with the problem?
The Birthday Party (Contd.)

4. What would you say in your note to Mrs. Keeler? (Write your exact reply.)

5. What are some alternative ways to prevent a similar problem from arising again?

6. What value or values do you hold that prompted you to reach your decisions?