ABSTRACT

This manual serves as a guide to the organization of library collections for Ball State University students in the graduate school of library science. The manual presents, in a concise manner, methods and card forms used in establishing bibliographic controls over a library collection. It is intended that the manual will be used in conjunction with other writings on cataloging, including the basic reference tools. Explanations are accompanied by graphic examples, but no particular system of classification or method of subject cataloging are presented. The handling of non-print media is also discussed. (SG)

INTRODUCTION

This manual for Ball State University students studying the organization of library collections represents an evolutionary process starting from a work produced by the Library Staff in 1945. A major revision was made in 1958, which this author revised and rewrote in 1966. The publication of the Anglo-American Rules necessitated a revision the following year. Meanwhile, the scope of the Library Science program at Ball State has enlarged from its initial purpose of preparing school librarians to its present full scale graduate program in the areas of school, public and academic librarianship.

The purpose of this manual is to present concisely methods and card forms used in establishing bibliographic controls over a library collection. Generous use is made of examples to aid the student in understanding and putting into practice principles of the organization of library materials. It is expected that this manual be used in conjunction with a wide selection of writings on cataloging including the basic authorities. Although the sample cards used as illustrations of cataloging practice make use of classification numbers from the ninth abridged edition of the Dewey Decimal Classification, the manual makes no effort to present any particular system of classification. Similarly, no effort is made to set forth the principles of subject cataloging. Sample cards, however, use subjects from the ninth edition of Sears List of Subject Headings.

In recognition of the growing importance of a variety of educational media and the increasing inclusion of such items among library resources, suggestions for processing them have been included.

THE CATALOG CARD

The card catalog, as we know it, represents the product of evolution from the earliest printed book catalogs through the experimental use of paper slips and various sized cards to the standardized form we know today.

Since the card catalog is made up of an orderly arrangement of catalog cards, our purpose will be to equip the user of this manual with the techniques for preparing the various kinds of catalog entries appearing in the catalog.

The standard size of cards used for building the catalog is 7.5 x 12.5 cm., or approximately 3 x 5 inches. To contribute to ease of interpretation, standard items of information are expressed in a specified way and placed on the card in a definite pattern. If the cards are typed, a definite set of rules is necessary to achieve a consistent form. Although there is likely to be variation in the practices of different libraries, there should be adherence to a single form in a given library. It follows then that the card style offered in this manual may differ from practice in some libraries, but it is believed that accepting the suggestions offered here will result in a neat, readily understood form.
Economy of effort and ease of production have been guideposts in determining the style.

The entry, personal or otherwise, is placed at first indention. The title begins on the next line at second indention. The remainder of the body of the card follows the title with each new line returning to the first indention thus producing a paragraph-like appearance.

The collation begins on the next line following the body of the card, at second indention. If there is a series note, it follows three typewriter spaces after the collation. Other notes begin at second indention, double-spaced below the collation.

Exceptions will be explained as they occur.
PUNCTUATION AND CAPITALIZATION

In general, standard rules of English punctuation and capitalization are followed. Exception is made in the title transcription where only the first word, proper nouns and proper adjectives are capitalized. In transcribing works in other languages the practice of the language being copied is observed.

ABBREVIATIONS

For convenience and brevity, it is frequently advisable to use abbreviations on catalog cards. A list of acceptable abbreviations is found on page i, at the back of this volume.

ROMAN NUMERALS

Because they are more easily read, Arabic figures are used in preference to Roman numerals, except in title transcriptions, and occasionally in the collation.
The information given on a catalog card interprets the material it represents to the user. The call number in the upper left corner of the card enables the user to locate the material of his choice. The officially acceptable entry for the work appears on the top line of the main entry card. Below this appears the title of the work as it is given on the work itself. Next there may be relevant explanatory material from the title page. This, in turn will be followed by the edition statement, if one is required. The last item incorporated in the body of the card is the imprint, composed of the place of publication, the publisher and the date of publication.

Below this the user finds the description of the material in terms of its length, type of illustrations, and size. This description is called the collation.

In addition to these required elements, notes may appropriately be added to describe the work more fully, or list special features included in the work.
MAIN ENTRIES

An entry on a catalog card is the word or phrase at the head of the card under which the card is filed. There may be author entries, title entries, subject entries, series entries, illustrator entries, editor entries, and so on. The main entry for any item is the name indicating primary responsibility for the content of the work. All other entries for a given item are known as added entries.

The selection of the main entry for any library material is the first and most important part of the work of the cataloger. The basis for the cataloging of any book is its title page. Most frequently the main entry will appear on the title page and be the name of a person. Because of the volume of materials being processed and the difficulty of locating information about the authors, it has become increasingly more common to accept as the entry form the author's name as it appears on the title page. The cataloger will, however, attempt to determine the acceptable form of the author's name, if it has already been established. On the occasions when authorship cannot be ascribed to a single individual, it is the responsibility of the cataloger to determine the form of the main entry, using the rules set forth in the Anglo-American Cataloging Rules.

If the work is the publication of a group of individuals acting as a unit, the entry becomes the name of the group, and is known as a corporate entry.
MAIN ENTRIES

In some instances, such as the Bible and other anonymous classics, the authorship of the material has been obscured by time and circumstances. For these a standardized form of the title has been generally accepted as the entry.

There may be so many contributors that responsibility cannot be assigned to any individual, then the title itself may become the official entry if no editor is named on the title page, or if the name of the publisher does not appear in the title. The main entry card is then prepared using hanging indentation form.

AUTHOR ENTRIES

The entry for a person usually consists of his full name followed by his birth and death dates, if available. If the author's full name is not given on the title page of the book, the cataloger must establish the official form by searching in bibliographical or biographical sources. To maintain consistency in the card catalog, all entries should be checked against those already filed to assure accuracy and the same degree of fullness.
MAIN ENTRIES - PERSONAL NAMES

The author's name, surname first, is placed at the head of the main entry card, beginning at first indention. If the entry extends beyond the first line, it continues on the next line beginning at third indention. Follow the surname and the forenames with commas before adding the author's birth and death dates. Close a completed author entry with a period. For authoritative treatment of rules for determining the form of a person's name see Anglo-American Rules, p. 73-105.

Lewis, Sinclair, 1885-1951.

Completed author entry with birth and death date

For living authors the birth date is followed by a hyphen.

Schlein, Miriam, 1926-

Author with birth date only

Use the designation-"d." if only the death date is available and close the heading with a period.

Chaucer, Geoffrey, d. 1400.

Author with death date only

Close the author's name with a period if no dates are to be included.

Benet, Laura.

If the author's name extends beyond one line start the second line at third indention.

For approximate date use (ca.) for circa.

Helena, Saint, 246 (ca.) - 326.

Use a question mark if date is uncertain.

Defoe, Daniel, 1661?-1731.

If only an initial is given for a forename, leave eight spaces after the initial, omit the period and comma preceding birth date.

Travers, Pamela L 1906-

If only initials are available leave eight spaces between them.

Liverhant, S E

Long name continuing to second line at third indention

Approximate date

Uncertain birth date

Name with initial representing second forename

Name with initials only
If the initial stands alone and does not represent a name, follow it with a period and comma before the date.

Truman, Harry S., Pres. U.S., 1884–
Generally the entry for a married woman is under her latest name, that is, her husband's surname, her own forename, or names, and her maiden name. In the past the maiden name was inclosed in parentheses. Many of these entries will be found in library catalogs. The designation Mrs. is not used. Cross references should be made from any other forms of name by which the author is known. Women authors, who after marriage write under their maiden names, may continue to be entered under their maiden names.

COMPOUND NAMES

Family names made up of more than one element are known as compound names. Compound surnames are ordinarily entered under the first part of the name. Cross references are made as necessary from the other parts of the name to the accepted form.

In many parts of the world the surname may be preceded by a prefix. In general, in non-English speaking countries entry is under the surname itself. In English speaking countries the prefix is considered an integral part of the surname. Thus, Anglicized surnames beginning with d', de, von, or van are entered under the prefix, with cross references being made from other parts of the name to the form accepted as the entry.

ORIENTAL NAMES

Although the surnames of Oriental authors precede the forenames in print and in speech, separate them in the entry position by a comma. Make a cross reference from the name appearing last to the official form of entry. If the author has become a citizen of an English-speaking country his name then appears in the usual order with the surname preceding the given names and separated by a comma.

PSEUDONYMS

Authors sometimes write under assumed names known as pseudonyms. When the real name is known, it is usually used for the entry on the catalog card, even though the pseudonymous name is used on the title page of the book. If the real name cannot be found, use the pseudonym as the entry.

Occasionally an author's identity is not known until a great amount of material has been published under a pseudonym. In such a case, the assumed name may continue to be used as the accepted entry.

TITLES OF HONOR

Titles of honor are sometimes used as a part of the author's official entry. Such titles are inserted after the author's given names, and are followed by a comma and the author's dates.

Collections of writings by various authors may be assembled and issued as a single work by an editor or compiler. Since this person is chiefly responsible for the finished work, his name is used as the main entry on the catalog card. The editor in this primary relationship to the book should not be confused with the function of editor who criticizes or explains the work of a single author. In the latter case the editor's relationship to the book is of secondary importance, and his name becomes an added entry, while the name of the original author is retained as the main entry.

When the name of the editor is to be used as the main entry, the form of name to be used is established in the same way as if he were the author. Follow the editor's name and dates, if they are known, with a comma before adding the abbreviated designation ed. or comp. as the case may be.

MAIN ENTRIES - CORPORATE ENTRIES

A group of individuals acting together as a unit is known as a corporate body. The publications of such a body are entered under the name of the body. Entries of this type are called corporate entries. In addition to societies, conventions, committees and business corporations, this type of entry also applies to educational and other institutions, and to governmental agencies. The form of the entry is based on the actual name of the organization as determined in its charter, constitution, or legislative authorization. Cross references should be made whenever necessary to aid the catalog user in finding the official entry. For complete treatment of headings for corporate bodies see Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, p. 106-144.

The title of a work is used as its entry when too many individuals are responsible for its content to warrant ascribing authorship to an individual, and when no editor is named on the title page. If the publisher's name appears in the title, enter under title. Encyclopedias and many dictionaries may be examples of this type of publication. Repeated changes of editors and compilers in different editions of works normally entered under editor or compiler make it advisable to enter such publications under title. Occasionally a work is issued with no indication of the author's identity; it must be entered under its title.

Serial publications are also entered under title unless they are issued under the auspices of a corporate body or have a personal author.

The card form used for most title entries is known as hanging indention. The title starts at first indention and continues on subsequent lines at second indention to the close of the body of the card. The collation and remainder of the card receive the usual treatment. No title added entry is made since the work is entered under its title.

An explanation of circumstances warranting entry under title may be found in Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, p. 17-18.

After the main entry for a work has been determined, the cataloger proceeds with setting down the body of the card. The title page serves as the basis in supplying the information. The items to be transcribed are the title, explanatory subtitle, and the imprint. Other items may be included depending on the nature of the book. These may include (1) the author's name, if the title page form differs from the form selected for the main entry (2) the names of joint authors (3) the names of editors, compilers, or illustrators and (4) the edition statement. Additional, but irrelevant, information on the title page is omitted. In general, the punctuation of the title page is used unless the cataloger decides different or additional punctuation will increase clarity of meaning. The wording and spelling of the title page are followed exactly. Initial articles are not omitted. If an error occurs on the title page, correction may be made by supplying a missing letter or letters within brackets; or the abbreviation "i.e." followed by the correct form in brackets. If the first word of the title is the possessive form of the author's name, it is usually omitted.

Books written in foreign languages receive the same treatment as works in English, with the title page being transcribed in the language in which it is written and following the form of that language. For example, in German all nouns are capitalized. No translation is made on the card. If the title page is in more than one language, including English, the title is transcribed in the language appearing first, followed by the title in English. The inclusion of the title transcription in other languages will depend on the judgment of the cataloger.

Information not appearing on the title page, but needed to complete the body of the card, may be obtained from elsewhere in the volume. It then is enclosed in brackets.

Reference should be made to Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, p. 191-211, for the full treatment of descriptive catalog practices.

The examples that follow show the transcription of typical title pages as they would appear in the body of the card.

BODY OF THE CARD - DESCRIPTIVE COMMENTS

Additional descriptive comments that indicate by whom a book is edited, compiled, translated, or illustrated follow immediately after the title or explanatory subtitle if the author's name does not appear in the body of the card. For complicated expressions, close the title with a period and start a new statement copying the descriptive comments. Some of these descriptive comments may be abbreviated even though they are written out in the book. A variety of terms may be used to show that there are illustrations, as: pictures by, drawings by, lithography by, or drawn by. These are copied in the form in which they appear. Likewise, translators may be indicated by various wordings, such as, rendered by or done into English. Copy such information in the words of the title page, changing it only to make use of standard abbreviated forms, such as illus. for illustrated, ed. for edited, introd. for introduction, and so on.

BODY OF THE CARD - ADAPTATIONS

Materials often appear in form different from the original work. These changes may involve abridgment of the text, use of a vocabulary more familiar to the reader, or a complete change in form, such as a dramatization of a work. We speak of these works as adaptations. The choice of main entry for such works depends on the amount of original work done by the person making the adaptation. The title page statement recognizing the relationship between the original work and the work in hand should be transcribed in the body of the card.

When two or more persons are responsible for a work, the one whose name appears first on the title page is known as the main entry and all others are known as joint authors. If there are only two authors their names are set down as they appear on the title page immediately following the title or subtitle. Credit is usually given to all authors if there are three or fewer. If there are more, use only the first one listed and substitute and others in brackets for the additional ones listed. Joint editor and joint compilers are transcribed in the same manner as joint authors.

The body of the card follows the wording of the title page in expressing joint authorship.

Names are transcribed exactly as they appear whether the given name is in full or only initials are used.

Should the words by or and be omitted on the title page, they are added and enclosed in brackets to show that they have been added by the cataloger.

If the author's name on the title page is a pseudonym, and the real name is used as the entry on the catalog card, it is necessary to transcribe the pseudonymous name in the body of the card. A "see" reference is made from the pseudonym to the real name used as the entry.
When authors change, enlarge, or revise books but retain the original title, the edition is usually indicated on the title page. Each revision or edition is cataloged as a separate book. The position of the statement of the edition on the title page may vary, but the cataloger always puts it immediately preceding the imprint. It is a new statement and forms a unit. The wording may vary. Abbreviations are used such as: New ed.; Completely rev.; Rev. and enl.; 2d ed.; 3d ed.; 5th ed.; etc. If the edition statement is secured from elsewhere than the title page it is enclosed in brackets.

BODY OF THE CARD - IMPRINT

The term imprint as used by catalogers includes the place of publication, the name of the publisher and the date of publication. The imprint begins a new statement and is preceded by three spaces. If more than one place of publication appears, record in the imprint the first place mentioned, unless another is indicated by typography as the actual place of issue. The place is followed by the name of the publisher. All important words in the name of a publisher are capitalized, since it is the name of an organization.

If the name of more than one domestic publisher is given on the title page, use only the first one and the corresponding place. If both a foreign and domestic publisher are given, use the American one if it appears first. Otherwise, use both the foreign and the domestic imprints, separated by a semicolon. If the name of a publishing firm and a division of the firm are both given, omit the firm's name if the division is well known. For example, if Whittlesey House of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. appears on the title page, use only Whittlesey House.

The name of the publisher is shortened and abbreviated as much as possible without confusing its identification. Omit such phrases as, published by, published for, and the word publisher. Omit the initial article The, the words and sons, and company, incorporated, and limited, including the abbreviations for these. Represent the given names of publishers by initials only.

If the publisher statement on material issued by a corporate body should be identical with the main entry, omit the publisher from the imprint.

BODY OF THE CARD - IMPRINT - DATE

The date used on the card may be the imprint date, the date when the book was published; or, the copyright date, which is the date when the copyright was granted by the Library of Congress. The imprint date, which may be found at the foot of the title-page, is the year of the printing of a book rather than the year when the material was copyrighted. Since books which have identical contents may be printed in different years, the imprint date is not a reliable gauge of the age of the material. The copyright date, if the book has one, is a better source of information. Use the imprint date on the catalog card only in case there is no copyright date, or in case the imprint date and the copyright date are the same. Many books are published without an imprint date.

The copyright date is the date on which the author or the publisher secured legal protection for the work. The copyright date usually appears on the back of the title page, often spoken of as the verso side of the title page. Since the copyright date is a better indication of the age of the material in a book, it is used in preference to the imprint date, unless the two dates are identical.

On the catalog card, use the latest copyright date accompanied by the letter c. Should the copyright date not be given on the title page, precede the date with the letter c with brackets, using the form [1958].

If no date is given, the letters [n.d.], meaning no date, are enclosed in brackets.

Occasionally the date of publication appears elsewhere in the book than on the title page. In that case the date is enclosed in brackets. The letter c is not used because the date does not represent the copyright date.

The imprint date of a set of books is represented by giving the date span from the earliest to the latest issued.

Since the user of any library material may be concerned with the length of the publication, such information is included on the catalog card. In many cases the inclusion of illustrations may be of importance. The height of the book may affect its location in specially adapted shelving. The term collation is used to mean the physical description of a work in terms of length, illustrations, and size. The collation will consist of information concerning number of pages, or volumes, in a work, the illustration statement and the height of the book in centimeters.

The paging is indicated by recording the number on the last numbered page. If the work contains more than one numbered section, the last numbered page of each important section will be recorded as the collation. If the pages are unnumbered, count the pages, beginning with the first page having to do with the text and continuing to the end of the text. If the work contains fewer than 100 pages, record this number enclosed in brackets as the paging of the book. For longer unpaged works record lv.(unpaged) as the collation. For works containing more than one volume, use the number of volumes as the collation. If the work is continuously paged, the total number of pages, enclosed in parentheses, follows the volume statement.

The illustration statement may use the abbreviation illus. to include all types of illustrations. When certain types of illustrations seem particularly important they may be mentioned in alphabetical order after the term illus., using the following terms: charts, facsimiles, forms, genealogical tables, maps, music, plates, portraits. The qualifying abbreviations col. and part col. may be used to indicate the presence of colored illustrative material. Two typewriter spaces are used to separate the illustration statement from the paging statement, and the size from the illustration statement.

NOTES ON CATALOG CARDS

Additional information describing the item being cataloged, but not appropriately included in the body of the card, may be added in notes. Such notes may show that the work belongs to a series of similar works, that bibliographies on the subject of the book are included, and that related documents or other special features are present. The contents note listing the items contained in a collection of plays or short stories is of great aid in locating a work too slight to be published alone.

A series is composed of a number of works having some relationship to each other and issued by the same publisher usually in similar format. The series usually has a short title, such as Landmark books, Portrait of the nation series, Chronicles of America, or Rivers of America, to mention a few. The word series need not be a part of the series title. A series may have an author, as well as a title, as in the case of serial publications of corporate bodies. The name of the series may appear on the title page, half-title page, or on the cover of the book. Books belonging to a publisher's series such as the Beacon Hill bookshelf or Macmillan pocket classics have in common only their appearance. This is less important than series having a subject relationship.

The series title is recorded on the catalog card following the collation. The cataloger leaves three spaces and copies the series title and volume number, enclosing it in parentheses. If the note extends beyond one line, the succeeding line continues at first indentation. The name of the editor of the series is not included as a part of the series note. Capitalization of the series title follows the rules for recording other titles.

NOTES ON CATALOG CARDS - BIBLIOGRAPHIES

Notes on catalog cards begin at second indentation, that is, one line below, double spaced, after the close of the collation, or the series note. If it extends to the succeeding line, continue at first indentation.

Each successive note begins on the line immediately below the last, starting at second indentation. One of the most frequently used notes indicates the presence of bibliographies. The form Includes bibliography is used to indicate that there is one bibliography, or that there may be several bibliographies scattered through the book. It is unnecessary to show the exact paging or the exact title of the bibliography unless the length of the bibliography is impressive or its title denotes coverage too distinctive to ignore.

The cataloger is responsible for deciding what information needs to be recorded on the catalog card. Judgment as to what is important will be guided by the type of material, the size of the library, and the needs of the library's users. Such items as the inclusion of the U.S. Constitution in a history of the United States, or an important glossary of terms in a scientific work might be brought out in a note. Variations in the publisher of the volumes in a set would certainly be indicated in a note.

When books and other materials contain a variety of parts it is useful to make a note giving the contents. Appropriate materials for using contents notes are volumes of collected biographies, short stories, plays and essays. In a set of books the title page of each volume may indicate that it covers a definite phase of a subject or a span of time. Contents notes are not made for volumes of poetry or works on a single broad subject by one author.

The contents note is always the last note on a catalog card. Listing is done in paragraph form to save space. The word Contents begins at second indention and the succeeding lines begin at first indention.

The source of information recorded in a contents note may be the title page, table of contents, or headings introducing the various components to be recorded. Initials are used to represent the authors' given names. Items are separated by a period, followed by a dash and one space, before recording the next item. If the word by must be supplied to complete the authorship statement in a contents note, it is not necessary to enclose it in brackets.

If the note is too long to be concluded on one card the listing is stopped above the hole, leaving space to type (Continued on next card). The heading of the second card consists of the call number, the author, title, and imprint date, followed by the designation (Card 2). After leaving a blank line below this heading, the cataloger continues typing the material to appear on the card.

To save time, when the contents note is long, the cataloger may prefer to give the complete contents on only the main entry and shelf card and to use a shorter form for the added entry cards. In that case the contents note is replaced with the directive For contents, see main entry.

ADDED ENTRIES

The catalog card headed with the entry denoting chief responsibility for the content of the work is called the main entry card. All other entries for the work made by putting additional headings above the material on the main entry card are called added entries.

The purpose of making added entries is to aid the user of the catalog in finding the material for which he may be searching. To achieve this end, therefore, added entries may be made for the titles of the materials; the subjects with which materials deal; and for the names of illustrators, translators, joint authors, joint compilers and editors that have a secondary relationship with the work.

The added entry heading is placed in the space above the main entry, beginning at second indentation. If more than one line is needed for the entry, continue it on the next line at third indentation.

The usual practice is to make title cards for all books of fiction and non-fiction books which have distinctive titles. When alternative titles exist, added entries are made for both. Title added entries are not usually made for titles beginning with such common phrases as The life of, The history of, or An introduction to. Subject added entries are thought to represent such works adequately. Title added entries are not usually made for biographies beginning with the biographee's first name. Subject added entries are always made for the person under consideration in a biography.

Title card for an alternative title
For such classics as Shakespeare's Macbeth, the title page may read The tragedy of Macbeth or Shakespeare's Tragedy of Macbeth. In order that all of the editions of such a work may file together, a common practice is to make the title card for a standardized form of the title, and not for the varying titles. The same principle may be applied to any standard work that is published under many slightly varying titles.

ADDED ENTRIES - SUBJECT HEADINGS

From the standpoint of the user of the library, the subject added entry for a work is possibly the most important added entry. Sears List of Subject Headings for Small Libraries is the prime source for determining the form of the subject headings for school libraries. For new subjects too recent to appear in the Sears list the Readers Guide to Periodical Literature is helpful. A comprehensive source is Subject Headings Used in the Dictionary Catalogues of the Library of Congress.

After a subject heading is selected for a work, it is typed in the space above the main entry beginning at second indentation. It may be typed in black capital letters, or in red using upper and lower case letters. In a new library the cataloger may adopt the form of her choice. In an established library it is probably advisable to continue the form already in use. If the form using upper and lower case red letters is chosen, capitals should be used for the first word of the heading, the first word of a subdivision of the subject, a qualifying word in parentheses, and proper nouns and adjectives. Use no mark of punctuation at the end of a subject heading. Within the heading use a comma to separate the parts of an inverted heading. Separate the subdivisions of a subject heading by a space, a dash, and a space, as AMERICAN POETRY - COLLECTIONS.

Forms of subject headings vary. They may be a single word as BASEBALL or CHRISTMAS; a compound heading as NURSES AND NURSING, or IMMIGRATION AND EMIGRATION; a phrase, as BIBLE AS LITERATURE; an adjective followed by a noun, as PUBLIC HEALTH, or NATIONAL CHARACTERISTICS; an inverted heading as POETS, AMERICAN; or EDUCATION, ELEMENTARY; a subject followed by a qualifying phrase in parentheses, as DISCOVERIES (IN GEOGRAPHY); or a subdivided heading as U.S. - HISTORY - CIVIL WAR - FICTION; BOOKS AND READING - BEST BOOKS.

Personal names are used as subject headings when the person is the subject of the work as in a biography, or in a critical estimate of an author's work. The form of the name is the same as for an author entry, except that the heading is capitalized or typed in red and is not closed with a punctuation mark. For presidents of the U.S. and of other countries, add the abbreviation Pres. and the name of the country, such as: Washington, George, Pres. U.S., 1732-1799; Magaysay, Ramon, Pres. Philippines, 1907-1957; Juarez, Benito Pablo, Pres. Mexico, 1806-1872. Names of kings, queens, emperors and nobility are written in full by the recognized title, for example: Lafayette, Marie Joseph Paul Roch Yves Gilbert Du Motier, Marquis De, 1757-1834; Peter I, The Great, Emperor of Russia, 1672-1725; Margaret, Princess Of Great Britain, 1930- ; Marie Antoinette, Consort Of Louis XVI, King Of France, 1755-1793.

When a book has two or more authors, the one whose name appears first on the title-page is used as the main entry. All other authors are known as joint authors. To make a joint author added entry, type the name of the joint author in the space above the main entry beginning at second indentation. The joint author’s name is established in the same way as if he were a main entry. If the joint author should already be entered in the catalog, the new entry is identical in form with that already in the catalog. The designation jt. author is added to the name following a comma and one space. Close the joint author heading with a period.

Translator, joint translator, editor, joint editor, illustrator and other similar headings are made in the same way as joint author added entries, using such abbreviated designations as tr., jt.tr., ed., jt.ed., illus., jt.illus., etc.

The works of well-known authors are often published with editor's notes and explanations for the use of the reader. Such editors have a secondary relationship to the text and are given added entry position. The same is true of any joint editors who may have assisted in the work. In the examples below, William Shakespeare and John Milton are responsible for the works listed and therefore their names are used as the main entries and the editors' names are used as added entries.

ADDED ENTRIES FOR WORKS WITH TITLE AS MAIN ENTRY

ADDED ENTRY - CHANGED TITLES

Books are sometimes known by more than one title since they may be published in one country under one title, and under a different title in another country. The work is cataloged using the title appearing on the title page and a note is made to record the variant title. Title added entries are made for both titles.

Title: Dead man over all.
Each work in the library may be represented in the catalog by several added entry cards, in addition to the main entry card. Since these cards having different entries may stand far apart when filed alphabetically in the card catalog, a list of all added entries must be made so that the cataloger will know which cards have been made and filed for each work in the library. Should a book be lost, the cataloger will then know which cards are to be removed from the card catalog in order to remove all records of the work.

The listing of all the added entry cards is called the tracing. Printed cards have the tracing on the face of the card near the bottom. Since, often there is not room on the face of a typed card, it is placed on the back of the main entry. When more than one card is necessary to complete the main entry, the tracing is typed on the back of the first card. To place the tracing, turn the author card face down with the hole at the top and record the tracing in the upper left corner two lines below the hole and indented two spaces from the left edge. Arrange the tracing items in the following order: subject headings, other added entries, title, or titles, and series. Within any category of headings it is not necessary to adhere to any special order in listing them. The form of the tracing is to match exactly the heading to be used on the added entry card as to capitalization, and spacing, except that, if a decision has been made to type subject headings in red, they will be typed in black in the tracing.

SHELF LIST CARD

In addition to the main entry and the added entries, another card, which is identical with the main entry, is necessary to complete the set. It is known as the shelf list card. It receives its name from the fact that the cards are arranged in a separate file in the order in which the books stand on the shelf. Cards that represent books are arranged alphabetically by author within each classification and, by title, if there is more than one by the same author. Books of biography are filed under the designation for biography, and then alphabetically by the name of the biographee. Biographies about the same person are then sub-filed by the main entry.

The number of copies of a given title owned by the library is indicated in pencil in the left margin near the collation. The number of copies also appears on the face of the main entry in the same position as on the shelf card.

It is the custom in many libraries to record on the back of the shelf list card the source from which the material has been received, the date, and the price of each copy. If such a record is kept, an accession book and accession numbers for books are unnecessary. If an accurate accession record has been kept and accession numbers have been used, the librarian may or may not continue with the practice as she sees fit.

To type the order information, place the shelf list card, face down with the hole at the top, and record the order information two lines below the hole, beginning two spaces from the left edge of the card. Leave two spaces between the date and the dealer, and two between the dealer and the price. If additional copies are received, record them in the same way. The same form is used for all materials cataloged.

CROSS REFERENCE CARDS

When material is added to the library, it is listed in the card catalog under the most exact and logical subject entries possible. Since the English language is made up of many synonymous terms, individuals often think of the same subject in different terms or wordings. Because a good catalog should enable the user to find the material which the library contains, the cataloger must provide references from each of several possible terms to the one that has been adopted for a given subject. Cards indicating such references are called cross reference cards. Since these cards do not represent books of materials, they do not bear a call number. There are two kinds of cross reference cards, namely, see references and see also references.

The see reference card directs the inquirer from an entry under which material has not been listed to an entry under which it has been listed. See references are made for synonymous terms for subject headings, for the second part of a compound heading, for the direct form of an inverted heading, and for variations of spelling.

On the fourth line of the card at second indention in capital letters, write the heading under which the material is not listed. On the sixth line at third indention write the word see in lower case letters. On the eighth line at first indention write the heading under which the material has been listed. Those who prefer subject headings in red, will follow the capitalization and form given in Sears List of Subject Headings for Small Libraries. The words see and see also are always typed in small black letters.

In almost every library are found anonymous classics, which are old writings of acknowledged excellence whose authors are unknown. Examples of such writings are the epic Beowulf, national folk tales, and Arabian Nights. These have been published in many languages and versions by many publishers under a variety of titles. For example, Arabian Nights has been published also with the titles Tales from the Arabic, The Thousand and One Nights, Arabian Nights Entertainments, and others.

Books containing the sacred writings of any religion may be classics but are not necessarily anonymous, because the authorship of at least parts of them are known. They are, however, handled in the same way as other classics of unknown origin.

In order that the main entries for all versions of an anonymous classic or a sacred writing, may be the same, a short title has been established for use as the main entry. This title brings the different versions and editions of a work together under a uniform entry, regardless of its individual title.

The following is a list of titles which have been established for use as entries for certain well-known anonymous classics and sacred writings: Arabian nights; Beowulf; Bible; Mabinogion; Mother Goose; Nibelungenlied; Reynard the Fox; Chanson de Roland. In libraries for children and young people it might be advisable to use Song of Roland instead of the French form of the name.

Enter an anonymous classic or sacred writing under the established title, putting that title in the entry position on the card and closing it with a period. Complete the unit card as for an author card, trace and make the necessary added entry cards. Should the title of the book be the same as the established title, no title card is made.

Enter the Bible, either complete or partial form under Bible with the language of the text indicated in the entry. For example: Bible. French. or Bible. Latin. In small collections the entry might be simplified by omitting the language designation for editions in English. The year of printing is used to distinguish the various issues in the same language. The different versions or translations of the Bible may have that feature indicated in the entry also. For incomplete editions or abridgments in English use the entry: Bible. English. Selections. For complete coverage of the rules for formulating Bible entries see Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, p. 156-163.

Bible as author
Enter stories retold from the Bible and books about anonymous classics and sacred writings under the name of the author and make the added entry cards in the usual way.
Library materials may contain separate parts or sections. One author or publisher may be responsible for all of the parts, or different individuals may be responsible for the separate parts. Entries made for each of the separate sections, whether they be stories, plays, essays, reports, or biographical sketches are known as analytics. There are three kinds of analytics: author analytics, subject analytics, and title analytics.

Plays and short stories in collected works of different authors seem to call for author and title analytics. Collected biographies and parts of factual books call for subject analytics.

There is more than one accepted form for analytics. Since many libraries use printed cards, the unit card is commonly used. Those who type analytic cards may prefer to use the partial contents form, or another shortened form. Examples will follow.

When a book needs to be analyzed, the cataloger should catalog the book as a whole first, listing the parts in the contents note.

When the parts of a book are all by one author, only title analytics need to be made. Sometimes plays in a book may be listed on the title page or on a separate page of contents. Some libraries follow the practice of omitting the listing of titles of plays, etc., on the title page, if so given, but list them in a contents note.

Since the titles of the plays for the above book are listed in the contents note, it is unnecessary to write out the titles in tracing. The words Title analytics for contents are sufficient.
It often happens in a collection of plays or stories by one author that the first play in the book becomes the title of the whole book. Tracing for all items can be indicated by the phrase Title analytics for contents.

"BOUND-WITH" WORKS

It happens occasionally that two or more books by the same or by different authors, each book with a separate title page and with separate paging, are bound together. Such a publication is known by the term "bound-with." Each part is cataloged as an individual book in the usual way. Obviously the book can be assigned only one classification number should the contents of the two parts deal with entirely different subjects. The classification number for the first part is assigned the book. Notes need to be made on the card showing the author and title of the other work with which it is bound. The note reads Bound with followed by the author's name in inverted order, using initials to represent given names; two spaces after this the title of the other work; then three spaces later, the place and date of publication.

Supplements cannot always be treated as independent entries because they are too closely related to the original work to stand alone. The entry for the supplement may be added to the card for the original work using the form known as the “dashed-on entry.”

Begin the entry at first indentation two lines below the entry for the main item on the card. Use three underscore marks to show that the author of the supplement is the same as the entry of the original item. If the title of the supplement is also the same as the original item, leave one space and then three underscore marks to represent the title. Leave one space and continue on the same line the transcription of the title-page information of the supplement according to the rules for making the body of the card.

UNIFORM TITLES FOR MUSIC

Uniform titles are used to bring together all editions of a composer's or writer's works and to establish an orderly arrangement of complete and partial collections of a composer's or writer's works. A musical composition may be known under variant titles in different countries. For example, The Magic Flute by Mozart is called Die Zauberflöte in Germany. To the music performer or record lover this makes very little difference, and the card catalog must make provision for bringing together all forms of a given work. This is done by assigning the work a uniform title, usually the title under which the work was first published, and making references from other known titles to the uniform title. The uniform title, enclosed in brackets, is typed on the line below the main entry beginning at second indentation. On the next line at second indentation, copy the title as it appears in the work in hand. Continue the card in the form set forth previously in this manual. For full treatment of uniform titles see Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, p. 145-172. For the application of uniform titles to musical works see p. 299-314 in the same source.

SERIALS

A serial is a publication which is issued at more or less regular intervals and in the same or similar format. Single issues of serials may be monographs, or they may be such publications as newspapers, magazines, yearbooks, almanacs, annual and biennial reports, and directories. In many libraries magazines and newspapers will not be cataloged, but such serials as the World Almanac and Who's Who in America will be cataloged. A serial composed of many monographs may have each unit treated individually, but non-monographic serials must be treated together.

A set composed of every issue of a serial which has ceased publication is a closed set. One that is still being published is obviously incomplete and is called an "open" set. It is cataloged using the "open" entry form.

A complete treatment of serial cataloging practice may be found in Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, p. 231-246.

Unless a serial has a definite author, (either personal or corporate) it is entered under title. The wording of the title page may vary considerably from issue to issue; hence, the body of the card is made in brief form in order to fit the set. Cards for incomplete sets of serials are so made that an indefinite number of issues can be recorded as they are acquired. One way is to record in a "library has" note the number of volumes the library has. Leave one line between the "library has" note and whatever precedes it on the card. If the volumes are numbered, use the abbreviation v. for volume, followed by the number in arabic numerals, a comma and the date of the volume. If the library has more than one copy of a volume, record in pencil following the date of the volume the number of copies using arabic numerals for numbers, followed by the abbreviation c. for copies. Editors of serials change frequently and may not be recorded, consequently added entries may not be made for them. The users are likely to be better acquainted with the publication than with the names of the editors.

Items that need to be recorded in pencil are dates in the imprint, the number of volumes in the collation, and the number of copies if more than one, all of which are subject to change as new acquisitions are made. Should the library not have acquired yearbooks for successive years, space is left in the "library has" note so that the year and volume may be filled in as the yearbooks are acquired.

Added entry cards may be made for serials in the usual way, except that the library's holdings are not given and the catalog user is instructed to see the main entry. This eliminates the recurring necessity of altering the "library has" note on all cards except the main entry and shelf list card.
Some libraries use commercially printed cards and simply check the volume numbers or years that the library owns. The imprint and collation may be left open on both the main entry and shelf card. The printed holdings card is filed immediately behind the shelf list card and the instruction: For volumes in library see shelf list card, is put on the main entry.

ANALYZED SERIALS

Occasionally the individual volumes of a serial would be more useful to the library if they were represented by subject and title cards as well as being represented as volumes in a serial. Examples are the individual volumes of the Reference shelf and the various volumes of the Yearbook of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. A serial card is made for the whole set following the pattern already set forth. A notation Analyzed is put on the back of the main entry and the shelf card.

Main entry for serial having each volume devoted to a single topic

Tracing for a serial set with each volume having also its own set of cards

A main entry and set of cards is made for each volume in an analyzed serial set, just as if it were being cataloged as a separate item. The call number of the volume will be determined by the classification of the whole set instead of the subject matter of the individual volume. The card for the volume being analyzed will carry as its series note the name and volume number of the set to which it belongs.

The tracing will be made just as for any separate work, except that there will never be a series added entry. The shelf cards for the various volumes of an analyzed serial set will be filed in volume number order immediately following the shelf card for the complete set.

A set of books is composed of two or more volumes which have a title in common and are bound in uniform or similar binding. The volumes of a set may be published at the same time or at different times; they may be unified by sharing the same authorship or they may be written by different authors. They are usually issued by the same publisher. If a set has a distinctive title likely to be well known, and a general index, the cataloger will catalog the set as a whole to keep all of the volumes together on the shelf. If each volume has a distinctive title, title analytics may be made for each. Imprint dates, and the number of volumes in the collation of a set in the process of publication are given in pencil so that it may be easily changed. When the set is completed these items may be typed on the card.

PHOTOGRAPHIC REPRODUCTIONS

With increasing frequency works are being produced by photographic means, both in macroform and microform. This is significant for the book cataloger when the chief purpose of the reproduction is to make the work available in its original appearance. Instructions for cataloging microforms will be offered in a section dealing with non-book materials. Simple reprints, with or without identical title pages, do not require special handling. However, works issued by a new publisher for the purpose of producing a duplicate of an earlier edition are cataloged in such a way as to make this relationship clear.

If there is a new title page, it is used to supply material for the body of the card; otherwise the reproduction of the original title page is used. In this case the original imprint is followed by the new imprint, inclosed in brackets, if it does not appear on the title page. No special treatment is required in constructing the collation. Any information concerning the book that should be conveyed to the potential user is given in a note.

AUTHORITY FILES

Libraries may set up and maintain authority files to record the latest acceptable forms for author entries. They may also have authority files for subject headings appearing in the catalogs and the reference cards made to aid the library's public in using the subject headings. Small libraries may consider their card catalog to be the authority for the form of an author’s name to be used, but they will wish, in any case, to keep a record of the cross references they have made. This record becomes, then, an authority file for entries needing cross references. The file will include for every entry duplicates of the cross references made for the public catalog as well as a card clearly indicating the references made. For example:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>De Cervantes Saavedra, Miguel</th>
<th>Cross reference made for both catalog and authority file</th>

<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cervantes Saavedra, Miguel de, 1547-1616.</td>

Some libraries keep a record of the subjects used in the catalog by putting pencil checkmarks by the subject in the published list of headings. The advantage of such simplicity is questioned, however, when a new edition of the subject heading list demands complete comparison with the earlier list before it can be used. Very small libraries may be able to use their catalog without maintaining an authority file but most libraries will wish to record each new subject on a card when it first occurs. Duplicates of "see" and "see also" cards made for the public catalog, as well as cards showing the references that have been made, all go together to make up the subject authority file. This is especially helpful in keeping "see also" references up to date since the cataloger would refer users at any one time only to those subjects on which the library has material. As the library grows the new subjects will need to be added to the "see also" cards already in the catalog. Such additions are always made in conformity with directions in the subject heading list being used by the library.
Since the present day library has developed from a book center to a learning center, it is inevitable that the librarian will be responsible for organizing many forms of materials. The filmed materials may include moving pictures, filmstrips, microfilm, microfiche, transparencies, and slides. There may be recorded materials such as disc recordings, tape recordings, and wire recordings. Printed materials, in addition to books, may include maps, charts, pictures, microcards and a host of programmed learning materials that sometimes defy description. The principles of cataloging all forms remain the same; the problem is to make a satisfactory adaptation of conventional cataloging practices to represent the various forms adequately for the user.
The material presented here is, except for a minor variation in punctuation, a summary of the instructions for cataloging recordings as given in Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, p. 321-328.

Main entries for recorded materials are established in the same way as for printed materials. In other words, the recorded words of an author are entered under the author; recorded music of a composer, under the name of the composer; recorded works from many sources, under the title. For disc recordings the source of information used on the catalog card is the disc label or album cover, whichever offers more of the information needed to build a catalog card. If disc labels are being used as the authority, the labels on both sides of a record are considered in the same way as the double spread of a title page. The card form is the same for recordings as for a book, except that following the complete title, the word Phonodisc is inserted, enclosed in parentheses. Recordings may also be in the form of tapes, wires, cylinders or rolls. In these instances the terms phonotape, phonowire, phonocylinder, and phonoroll are used in the same way as the term phonodisc.

The imprint for a record consists of the trade name of the record or the producer followed by the album number. If the records have also disc numbers, these are recorded in parentheses after the album number.

It is customary in many libraries to assign a call number to recordings in order of accession with an appropriate symbol denoting the form of material as D, D, D, ...D, D, etc.

As for books, the complete set of cards will consist of the main entry, shelf card and any needed added entry cards.

COLLATION

The collation of a phonodisc consists of the number of sides, the size (diameter in inches) and the playing speed, represented by the number of revolutions per minute. Two typewriter spaces are left after the first and second components. If there is more than one album, this is indicated in addition to the number of sides in the following form: 3 albums (12s.). The collation of a sound filmstrip is expressed in the following form: 48fr. color and phonodisc: 2s. 12in. 33 1/3 rpm.

Tape recordings are handled in the same way as disc recordings with respect to entry. Since there is no label, and frequently no permanent container, from which to transcribe the title, it is usually taken from the introduction heard on the tape. In some cases the cataloger must supply a title, which is then enclosed in brackets. The term Phonodisc in parentheses is added after the title. The imprint consists of the name of the producer and the date. Since tapes are often records of addresses, public occasions, and actual happenings, the date may be specific as to month and day, in addition to the year.

The collation is made up of the number of reels, diameter of the reel in inches and the playing speed. Usual speeds, which indicate the number of inches of tape played per second are 3 3/4, 7 1/2 and 15.

Call numbers for tape recordings may be assigned similarly to the plan for disc recordings, possibly using the symbol T; for example: T, T, T, etc.

Both filmstrips and moving pictures are entered under title as main entry since both are ordinarily made by production organizations and represent the work of many individuals working together. As a result the cards are always in hanging indentation form, with the title beginning at first indention and the second line and successive lines of the body of the card beginning at second indention. The term Filmstrip in parentheses follows the title. The imprint of both films and filmstrips usually consists of the producer and the date. Occasionally different firms may be responsible for editorial supervision, for production, or for distribution. In such a case both may appear on the catalog card. No information in the body of the card will be bracketed if it is secured from the container, or the accompanying text or user's manual. The collation of a single filmstrip will show the number of frames, using the abbreviation fr. for the term, and color will be indicated when appropriate. For a set of filmstrips the collation will show the number in the set. The number of frames in each strip of a set may be shown in the contents note immediately following each title in the set.

The usual practice is to assign consecutive accession numbers to filmstrips in conjunction with a chosen symbol, as G, G, G, etc.

Added entries are made as necessary in the usual pattern.

Sound filmstrips are cataloged from the standpoint of the filmstrip, with the disc appearing as part of the collation, for example: 60fr. and phonodisc: 1s. 12in. 33 1/3rpm. For a color filmstrip use the following form: 52fr. color and phonodisc: 1s. 12in. 33 1/3rpm. The location of the recording is indicated in a note. A complete set of cards is made for the filmstrip. A shelf card only is made for the disc or tape supplying the sound.

If the word Filmstrip is not a part of the name of a filmstrip series, it is added in parentheses after the name of the series. It is followed by the number of the filmstrip in the series.

The cataloging of films and filmstrips is similar with respect to determination of entry and the content of the body of the card. The term Motion picture in parentheses follows the title. The imprint consists of the producer and the date. The collation consists of the playing time in minutes, followed by the sound indication and the color indication. If no color is indicated it is assumed the moving picture is in black and white. Since all educational films are 16mm. wide, it will not be necessary to include the width in the collation. The same principles and possibilities obtain for films as for filmstrips as far as making sets of cards, tracings and added entries.

Films are ordinarily organized in a consecutive accession order with a chosen symbol, as M, M, M, etc.

Slides may be cataloged by applying the principles for organizing other filmed materials. As a rule, slides are produced in sets and will serve the purposes of the user if they are cataloged as sets unless the set is so large and diverse that breaking it into subsets covering detailed topics would be more advisable. Because of considerations resulting from the storing of slides, many libraries will choose to assign the sets consecutive accession numbers together with a symbol chosen to designate the medium as 2, 3, 4, etc. Within each set successive numbers are given to indicate sequence. Slides are always entered under title as their production represents the composite effort of designers, artists, photographers and reproduction specialists. If no general title for the set is on the slides, it may need to be taken from a dealer’s catalog or supplied by the cataloger. The term Slide in parentheses is used following the title. The imprint consists of the producer and date.

The collation consists of the number of slides in the set, the color indication, and the dimensions of the slides. The completion of the main entry and making of the set of cards follow the usual cataloging principles. Personal added entries are seldom made, but subject added entries are of great importance.

NON-BOOK MATERIALS - MICROTAPMS AND MICROCARDS

Since microfilms and microcards are, in fact, photoreproductions, they are entered and described in terms of the original appearance of the material. This means the entry is determined, the body of the card is completed and the collation is set down as if one were handling a book form publication. The type of reproduction is set forth in a note giving also any relevant data concerning circumstances of reproduction, such as the location of the copy from which the film was made and the imprint of the microfilm. A physical description of the reproduction follows. For microfilm this will be the number of reels. No size indication will be given since 35mm. is the prevalent size. The cataloger will determine a symbol for each type of medium and add items in consecutive accession order in each category, for instance K, K, K, etc. for microfilms and KC, KC, KC, etc. for microcards.

The completion of the set of cards by making the shelf card and any necessary added entries proceeds in accordance to the principles for cataloging.

Because of their form and function maps require special consideration in applying cataloging principles. The complete map is considered as a title page and any available information on it may be used. Only information taken from outside sources must be bracketed.

The entry is determined by the person or body responsible for the map. The title may be supplied by the cataloger if none appears on the face of the map. The imprint consists of the place, publisher and date, in the usual form.

The collation for a single map will consist of the word map followed by its dimensions in centimeters. For a set of maps the number in the set will precede the term maps. For colored maps the abbreviated qualification col. is used preceding the word map. Typical collations are:

- map 24x35cm.
- col.map 24x30cm.
- 7 col.maps 25x35cm.

Large maps may need to be folded for storage. Typical collations for them would be:

- map 81x67cm, fold. to 33cm.
- 2 maps 75x90cm, fold. to 25x28cm. (For item with folded width exceeding height)

The designation map above the classification number will readily identify the type of material and indicate its location to the user.

It will often be possible to organize pictorial materials according to a subject scheme such as is used for pamphlets and other materials not of sufficient importance to justify individual cataloging. There may be times, however, when the subject scheme is not adequate; or, when the importance of the artist, or designer, make separate cataloging desirable. The pictorial representation should be entered under the name of the individual or body responsible for it; that is, works of individual artists, under the artist; works issued by corporate bodies, under the name of the body. Reproductions of originals are entered in the same way as originals. If no title appears on the work, the cataloger may supply an appropriate title. The imprint consists of the publisher, if it appears on the work, and a date. The date may be the date of execution, or publication. In the absence of a date on the piece the cataloger may supply an approximate date, in which case it will be enclosed in brackets.

The collation will consist of a term describing the item and its size in centimeters, height given first, except for photographs and transparencies, which are measured in inches. Typical collation statements are:

- photo. 10x8in.
- col. photo. 10x8in.
- chart 60x72cm.
- drawing 20x30cm.
- engraving 25x35cm.

Added entries may be made for the names of persons or corporate bodies connected with the work, for subjects, and for titles as necessary.

FILING GUIDE

I. Basic rule.
1. Arrange all entries, English and foreign, alphabetically according to the English alphabet.
2. Arrange word by word, alphabetizing letter by letter to the end of the word. (This is the rule "nothing precedes something."
Example: New York precedes Newark.)

II. Items which are disregarded in filing.
1. The articles a, an and the in initial positions are disregarded, but when they appear elsewhere, they are given the same treatment accorded any other word. Articles in all languages are treated in the same manner.
2. Designations such as comp., ed., illus., ft. author, pseud., and tr. when they appear in entries, are disregarded.
3. Designations such as Sir and Gen., when they appear in inverted personal names are disregarded.
4. Commas, periods, parentheses, apostrophes and other marks of punctuation.

III. Abbreviations.
Arrange abbreviations as if spelled in full.
Examples: Mc or M' as if Mac
St. as if Saint
Dr. as if Doctor
Mlle. as if Mademoiselle
Mr. as if Mister
Mrs. as if Mistress

IV. Elisions.
Arrange elisions in English as they are printed and not as if spelled in full. Example: O'mine not of mine. Treat as one word the contraction of two words resulting from an elision. Example: Who's is filed Whos, not Who is.

V. Numerals.
Arrange numerals in the titles of books as if spelled out in the language of the title. Spell numerals and dates as they are spoken, omitting the "and" except at a decimal point between two digits and in mixed numbers.
Examples: 101 as one hundred one
1812 as eighteen twelve, if a date; otherwise as eighteen hundred twelve.
6½ as six and one-half
VI. Signs and symbols.
Alphabet the ampersand ( &) as "and", "et", "und", etc. according to the language used in the title.

VII. Hyphenated and compound words
Arrange hyphenated words as separate words if each word is a word in itself. If the first part is a prefix such as anti-, co-, etc., arrange as one word.

VIII. Compound names.
Arrange names consisting of two or more words, with or without a hyphen, as separate words, after the simple surname, interfiled in alphabetical order with titles and other headings beginning with the same word.
Examples: Hall, William
          Hall & Patterson
          HALL FAMILY
          HALL OF FAME
          Hall-Quest, Alfred
          Hall-Wood, Mary
          Hallen, Archur

IX. Names with a prefix.
Arrange a name with a prefix as one word. This includes such names as D'Arcy, Du Challu, Van Dyke, Van Loon, etc.

X. Forename entries.
Arrange a forename entry after the surname entries of the same name, interfiling with titles and other headings beginning with the same word. Include compound forename entries. Alphabet with regard to all words, articles and prepositions included.
Examples: Charles, David
          Charles, William
          Charles-Roux, Francois
          Charles, a title
          Charles Alexander, duke of Lorraine
          Charles, archduke of Austria
          Charles City, Iowa
          Charles II, duke of Lorraine

XI. Author entries.
1. Under an author's name, personal or corporate, arrange the items in two categories.
   a. Main entries for works by the author, subarranged by title.
      Literary works may then be subarranged by publisher alphabetically.
   b. Secondary entries for the author, subarranged by the main entry of the work.
   c. Works about the author, subarranged by the main entry of the work.
2. The entries for two or more persons who have identical names are arranged chronologically by birth date.
XII. Subject entries.

1. Arrange a subject, its subdivisions, etc. in the following order:
   a. Subject without subdivision.
   b. Form, subject and geographical subdivisions, inverted subject headings, subject followed by a parenthetical term, and phrase subject headings interfiled in one alphabet, disregarding punctuation.
   c. Period divisions under such subheads as History, Politics and government, and Foreign relations arranged chronologically.

XIII. Order of entries.

When the same word, or combination of words is used as the heading of different kinds of entries, arrange the entries alphabetically by the word following the entry word. Disregard kind of entry and form of heading, except as follows:

a. Arrange personal surnames before the other entries beginning with the same word.

b. Subject entries under a personal or corporate name are to be filed immediately after the author entries for the same name.

Examples:

- Love, John L
- LOVE, JOHN L
- Love.
- Smith, John.
- Love.
- Taylor, Robert.
- LOVE
  - Williams, Thomas.
- Love and beauty.
- LOVE (IN THEOLOGY)
- Love-letters.
- A love match.
- LOVE POETRY
- LOVE - QUOTATIONS, MAXIMS, Etc.
- Love songs, old and new.

XIV. Editions.

Card which are the same except for an edition number, i.e., 2d ed., 3d ed., or a notation such as rev. are filed in chronological order by publication date.

XV. The Bible.

1. Arrange all editions of the whole Bible (language, form, and subject) in one alphabet. Under each language, subarrange texts by date and then by version or editor.

   Arrange all divisions including the parts, in one alphabet; subarranging texts as above.

   Arrange like Old Testament.

4. Bible. Titles, etc.
SUGGESTED PROCESSING PROCEDURE

1. Arrange order cards alphabetically behind guide card, Outstanding Orders.
2. Arrange printed cards (if available) by sets alphabetically by entry behind guide card, Printed Cards.
3. On arrival of books, add date received, and price to the order card.
4. Shelve books alphabetically by entry.
5. Cataloging procedure:
   c. Compare description of book on printed card with book. If cards are not available, make a unit card using standard cataloging rules.
      (1) Correct any differences on printed cards by changing such items as dates, editions, publishers, pages, etc.
   d. Select the classification number.
      (1) Scan the preface of the book and the table of contents.
      (2) Confirm your selection by checking the shelf-list for type of book to which the same number has previously been assigned.
      (3) Check other classifying aids when necessary.
      (4) Write it in the book in pencil on the page after the title page.
   e. Check form of subject headings with Sears, List of Subject Headings.
   f. Prepare cards.
      (1) Type the call number, subject headings, and any other added entry headings on the printed cards.
      (2) Type source, date, and price, from order slip on the back of the shelf-list cards.
      (3) Type book card and pocket.
      (4) If analytics are to be typed, trace on back of main entry, and make the analytics.
   g. Revise typing on all cards.
6. Remove catalog cards and order slip from the book.
   a. Arrange shelf cards by number in one pile.
   b. Place catalog cards in another pile to be arranged alphabetically.
   c. File order slips by department requesting book in tray used for budget apportionment.
7. Place ownership markings on book and paste in pocket.
   a. Record the number of new titles.
