This course for grade 8 contains 122 lessons designed to teach United States History, including analysis of democracy and society as well as awareness of the citizen role. The guide provides a basic focus of instruction and also presents a range of teaching techniques, materials, and activities which teachers can utilize according to student needs and interests. A statement of general objectives for the course identifies the understandings, attitudes, appreciations, habits, and skills to be accomplished. Content is divided into 10 units of study which parallel chronological periods in the nation's development. Each unit is introduced by a statement of content followed by definition of unit objectives and relevant questions. Individual lesson plans are organized into three areas: References, Content Stresses, and Student Activities. Included at the end of the unit is an evaluation instrument, such as a written achievement test, map skills test, or criteria for oral reports and individual projects. Audio-visual aids for each unit are also listed. A bibliography of course materials includes LAND OF THE FREE: A HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES by Caughey and Franklin and THE AMERICAN NEGRO by Clemons, Hollitz and Gardner. (JSB)

This publication is a part of the evolving design for teaching and learning that the professional staff of the Pittsburgh Public Schools is creating.

The curriculum is the central skeleton upon which the teacher builds the planning for learning. It gives constancy and structure to the educational process, never inhibiting or containing the freedom of the teacher, but rather encouraging him to teach creatively and innovatively within its framework.

Curriculum development in a good school system never stops. As our society changes, and as our body of academic knowledge changes, and as our knowledge of the learning behavior of children changes, so must curriculum respond. It is in this spirit that this document has been thoughtfully and conscientiously developed by our colleagues, for the good of all children and teachers in Pittsburgh. It represents the legal authority of the people through the Board of Education, in declaring what children should learn, and it represents the best judgment of our faculty in declaring the processes through which these ends are achieved.

But no curriculum guide, no matter how close to perfection it may aspire, is of any value until it is wholly possessed by all the teachers who come within its scope. Accordingly, I commend this guide to all teachers concerned, and ask that you make it a product of your own individual commitment, and contribute to its continued improvement over the years.

A central duty of the public schools in the United States in our time is to make citizens informed, critical, and responsible. Citizens must be informed about the fundamental assumptions, values, and issues in American society and national policy. Their approach must be critical, not only of the policies and acts of officeholders but even more of the evidence on which their own judgments are based. They must be responsible for acting within a framework of law and order, for respecting the rights of others, and for taking part in community action. The public schools help to prepare future citizens.

A sampling of assumptions on which American society and national policy are based might be:

- That men are born free, that it is the duty of government to protect their persons, their freedom of speech and initiative, their right to full opportunity, from persons, from groups, and from government itself.

- That men are not by birth or circumstances fixed in social classes, but are free to strive to learn more and to earn more.

- That government furthers business enterprise, but at the same time regulates it.

- That government acts for the social betterment of citizens.

- That government officials are democratically elected or appointed.

A sampling of values on which American society and national policy are based might be:

- The virtue of hard work.

- The necessity for citizens to assume individual responsibility.

- The indispensability of individual initiative for progress.

A sampling of issues on which American society and national policy are based might be:

- How much and how fast shall the federal government act to end poverty?

- To what extent should the government provide for the aged and handicapped?

- How much and how fast shall the federal government act to end racial discrimination?
• How and to what extent shall the United States act beyond its borders to protect free nations from the spread of Communism?

• To what extent shall the United States initiate and foster regional agreements, according to the terms of the United Nations Charter, for collective security, as NATO and OAS?

• To what extent, by what means, and how rapidly shall the United States act to solve the world problem arising from the fact that population outruns the food supply?

• How much and how rapidly shall the United States act to promote economic growth in the so-called developing nations?

Teachers are urged to consider the narrative and the analytical United States history which they teach in the eighth-grade survey course against a background of their own critical thinking about assumptions, values, and issues. In other words, one must teach what happened. But one teaches what happened in order that young citizens may ultimately approach an understanding of assumptions, values, and issues, and in order that they may become critical and responsible.

The attention of teachers is called to the following:

• Each Arabic numeral indicates a suggested one day’s lesson. Only 122 lessons have actually been developed within the course of study. This leaves ample time for reports, library work, audio-visual presentations, committee work, and evaluation.

• Lessons must of necessity be suited to the needs of the students of each class. Therefore, the lessons that teachers develop can range widely in technique and approach. Nevertheless, though the approach can be limitlessly elastic, teachers will be well advised to build around the carefully identified content stresses which are recommended. Further emphases are possible.

• Specified activities are suggested, not required. It is assumed that teachers will sample them in order to extend the range of their techniques, that they will choose and adapt those activities best suited to their students, and that they will invent a great variety of techniques as they proceed. Additional activities suggested in the text may also be used.

• The teacher should preview the entire unit before beginning to teach it. Some projects will require advanced planning on the part of the teacher and students so it is imperative that the teacher have an overview of the unit, including activities to be used, visuals to be presented, and topics for reports to be assigned.

• Many of the suggested activities aim toward training in good library use and searching techniques. In conjunction with the school librarian, teachers should encourage opportunities for students to use library facilities. Research and library work must be incorporated into each unit. Several lessons in the course are actually library periods.
which give the student an opportunity to use the most recent sources of information. By using a variety of references the student should begin to form the skills of evaluating sources, comparing data, and reaching conclusions based on a large sampling of current material.

- Students should be given an opportunity to select, organize, and clarify information through the use of outlining, graphs, and charts.

- Teachers cannot give too much care to reinforcing the skills of reading comprehension, clear and forceful writing, effective speaking, and accurate interpretation of maps, graphs, and charts.

- Current events should by all means be included in the study of United States history. Some teachers may prefer to allot a few minutes each day; others may prefer to assign half a period a week to the study of current events. Though early history is important, young persons identify best with the present.

- The evaluation at the end of each unit purports to test if the unit's objectives have been realized. More items are included than some teachers may want to use, and adaptations are possible. The evaluation is so constructed that test grids can be used by the student.
GENERAL OBJECTIVES

UNDERSTANDINGS

• To develop an overall knowledge of the historical development of the United States from its colonial beginnings to the present time.

• To recognize the influence of leading figures and significant events as they affected the development of America's history. This is meant to include those personalities representative of various minority groups.

• To know that the American democratic government is the product of ideas held by some individuals of the past, but it has developed distinctive characteristics of its own. Students should learn the main features of American government; e.g., a written constitution, an elected representative government, federalism, and separation of governmental powers.

• To understand that the United States is a pluralistic society and that its people have come from a variety of cultures and hereditary backgrounds, all of which have contributed to the development of the American civilization.

• To know that the growing American economy is characterized by the freedom to work, save, and invest, but that all of these have been influenced by the activities of the various economic institutions and the government as well.

• To be aware of the influence of the geographic environment upon the development of the industries, customs, and beliefs of the American people.

ATTITUDES AND APPRECIATIONS

• Dedication to a democratic society with strong appreciation for its privileges.

• Acceptance of the right of others to have values and customs that differ from one's own.

• Acceptance of the responsibility for the consequences of one's own behavior.

• Appreciation of the effect of freedom in many areas (political, social, religious, and economic) on the growth of American culture.

• Appreciation by the students that they are the beneficiaries of the work and sacrifices of previous generations.
Acceptance of the urgent need for participation in attempting to solve the pressing problems of the times.

Acceptance of the historical truth that clear-cut solutions to problems are rare.

Continuation of interest in current affairs both domestic and worldwide.

HABITS AND SKILLS

- To locate and identify various sources of information; e.g., books, dictionaries, newspapers, magazines, pamphlets, etc.

- To critically evaluate information and to distinguish fact from opinion and interpretation.

- To reach solutions to issues on the basis of objective evidence rather than subjective values.

- To extend the skills necessary to use geographic, graphic, and tabular materials effectively.

- To anticipate the consequences of one's actions in matters such as courtesy, honesty, dependability, perseverance, self-discipline, and other character traits in the context of social expectation.

- To communicate ideas orally in the context of citizenship activity.

- To live and work effectively with others.

UNIT I. EUROPEANS COLONIZE THE AMERICAS, 1450-1763

This unit deals with the discovery, colonization, and colonial development of America. It offers many challenges about the origins of the United States and also suggests a relevance and a significance for the current problems about man and society. What was the role of the individual in exploration and discovery? Can the students be helped not only to appreciate the American heritage from England but also from other nations, races, and religions? What were the problems facing the early colonists? Were these problems successfully and completely resolved? These are a few of the many challenging questions possible in the first unit. The opportunities for asking questions about the meaning of the information are varied and limited only by the understanding of the students.

OBJECTIVES

- To discuss the cause-and-effect relationships with regard to discovery, exploration, and colonization of the future United States
- To explain what is meant by a pluralistic society and how many cultures and groups have contributed to American civilization
- To describe the role of minorities in the discovery and colonization of America
- To read and interpret maps, graphs, and charts
- To construct graphs and charts
- To discuss the influence of geographic factors on economic and social development

LESSONS

1. EXPLORATION AND DISCOVERY

References

- Land of the Free, pages 17-23
- The Challenge of America, pages 49-55, 53-67
- Building the American Nation, pages 4-18
- Eyewitness, pages 7-10
- The American Negro, page 1

Content Stresses

- The human element in historical change: the role of leadership and intelligence and a grasp of the available knowledge of maps, shipbuilding, and navigation

Student Activities

- Construct a chart to indicate specific economic, scientific, and cultural reasons for the discovery of America.
- Begin a time line.
- Trace the route of Columbus' first voyage to the West Indies.
- List in one column the items of geographic knowledge that were available to Columbus. List in a second column items of geographic knowledge that Columbus did not have.

2, 3. PORTUGUESE AND SPANISH EXPLORATIONS

References

- Land of the Free, pages 3-31
- The Challenge of America, pages 67-74
- Building the American Nation, pages 19-20, 30-32, 43-44
- Eyewitness, pages 7-9, 17-19
- Before the Mayflower, pages 34-35
- Resource Supplement, pages 1-4
- The American Negro, page 1

Content Stress

- Spanish motives and achievements
- Spanish contributions to the New World

Student Activities

- On a map, color or otherwise indicate the Spanish Empire.
- Locate and label a few original Spanish settlements that are present-day cities.
- Draw a map showing the Line of Demarcation.
- Use the map to explain the significance of the Line of Demarcation.
- Begin construction of a chart identifying each of the major explorers, the dates of the exploration, the areas they explored, and the name of this area today.
- Continue the time line.

4. THE ENGLISH, FRENCH, AND DUTCH ACHIEVEMENT

References

- Land of the Free, pages 31, 53-67
- The Challenge of America, pages 76-90
- Eyewitness, pages 10-12

Content Stress

- National rivalry: territorial claim based on explorations
Student Activities

- Continue the time line.
- Continue to trace the explorations on the map and chart.
- Locate the important claims and settlements of the English, Dutch, and French.
- Play the role of Marquette, Joliet, and the Indians.
- Play the role of Hudson when he realized that he had not discovered a water route to the East.

5. THE FIRST AMERICANS

References

- Land of the Free, pages 34-41
- The Challenge of America, pages 36, 38, 40, 43, 45-46, 69-71
- Building the American Nation, pages 22-30
- Before the Mayflower, page 35

Content Stresses

- The natural and human resources of the Indian
- The appearance of the Indian to the explorers and colonists
- American Indian contributions to the New World and to the Old World

Student Activities

- Collect legends about the various explorers.
- Make a chart classifying the contributions of the American Indian to the Old and New World.
- Discuss how the Indians aided and resisted the explorers and colonists.
- Role play William Penn making a treaty with the Indians.
- List and research Indian names in the Pittsburgh area. (See the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh School Bulletin No. 202, January, 1928, "Indian Names of Pittsburgh Streets.")
- Construct a diorama of an Indian village. Select a committee to explain the structure to the class.

6, 7, 8. INFLUENCE OF GEOGRAPHIC, ECONOMIC, AND CULTURAL FACTORS ON THE GROWTH OF THE ENGLISH COLONIES

References (Northern Colonies)

• Eyewitness, pages 21, 22, 28, 34, 36
• The American Negro, pages 1-2

Content Stresses

• Why people came and settled in the English colonies
• Life in the English colonies

Student Activities

• Compare the reasons for minority migration to America: Scotch, German, and African.
• Explain how settlements in America were actually business ventures.
• Compare the geographic, economic, and cultural factors of the Northern, Middle, and Southern colonies. Construct a chart for each comparing these areas.
• Read sections of The Knickerbocker History of New York. Discuss Peter Stuyvesant.
• Role play the trial of Roger Williams.
• List some of the provisions James Oglethorpe developed to regulate the settlement of Georgia.
• Research the role played by the following Negroes: Lucy Terry, Phillis Wheatley, Absalom Jones, James Forten, Lemuel Haynes, Paul Cuffe.
• Outline the plan for the governing of South Carolina.
• Locate the thirteen colonies on a map and indicate the important towns. Separate the Northern, Middle, and Southern colonies.
• Explain Lord Baltimore's plan for establishing Maryland.
• Explain why certain towns grew in size and importance while others diminished in size and importance.
• Role play life in a Quaker community, in a New England shipyard, and in a Southern plantation family.
• Compare the origins of Jamestown and Plymouth. List the differences and use this list for class discussion.

9. NON-ENGLISH SETTLERS

References

• Land of the Free, pages 64-67
• The Challenge of America, pages 78-83, 137-141
• Building the American Nation, pages 34-39
• Eyewitness, pages 10-12
Content Stress

- Nationality groups in the colonies (Correct the outmoded stereotype of the "melting pot"; teach instead the current concept that America is a pluralistic society.)

Student Activities

- Locate where the non-English people settled.
- Compare various attitudes held by the settlers toward the Indians.
- Compare the reasons of various nationality groups for settling in America.

10. THE FRENCH AND INDIAN WAR

References

- Land of the Free, pages 125-128
- The Challenge of America, pages 162-174
- Building the American Nation, pages 144-149
- Eyewitness, pages 27, 37, 44

Content Stresses

- Conduct of the French and Indian War
- French defeat ends threat to England
- English becomes the dominant language in North America

Student Activities

- Report on the significance of Pittsburgh, 1753-1763; Braddock's Road; Forbes Road; young Washington in western Pennsylvania; Braddock's expedition; the capture of Fort Duquesne; French and Indian relations; British and Indian relations.
- Compare the French and English settlements as to population, location, and structure.
- Appoint a committee to create a transparency locating the fortifications of both the English and French.
- List the factors that enabled the English to defeat the French.
- Draw the uniform worn by the French soldier, the English soldier, and an Indian warrior.

11. PITTSBURGH, 1753-1763

References

- The Challenge of America, pages 169-170
- Building the American Nation, page 146

Content Stresses

- Influence of location on the growth of the city
- British and French influence on the city
Student Activities

- Draw a map showing Pittsburgh and environs.
- Discuss the geographic location of Pittsburgh. How did this location determine its importance?
- Locate streets named after famous Frenchmen and Englishmen of this period: Forbes, Brady, Dinwiddie, Mt. Washington, Braddock, Duquesne Way. (Refer to articles found in the slip file in the Pennsylvania Room of the Carnegie Library.)
- Visit the Point Museum and the Fort.

EVALUATION

1. The student should list two reasons for the European explorations. Use any two of the following:

a. A race was on to find an all-water route to the East.
b. Discovery of precious materials by the Spanish led other nations to seek wealth.
c. European nations wished to gain a "foothold" in the New World.

2. The student should give three important reasons for the colonization of the Americas. The following reasons may be considered as correct:

a. European rulers encouraged colonization hoping to gain economic prestige.
b. Merchants organized companies for financial gain.
c. Various religious groups sought freedom of worship.
d. Some nations wished to establish permanent trading centers.

3. Given the following list of events, the student will draw a time line and arrange the events in chronological order:

a. Columbus makes his first voyage. (1492)
b. Magellan circumnavigates the world. (1522)
c. Cortés explores Mexico. (1519)
d. Pizarro conquers the Incas. (1536)
e. Cartier leads a French expedition along the Saint Lawrence River. (1535)
f. John Cabot explores the northern coast of the New World. (1497)
g. Henry Hudson leads an expedition for the Dutch. (1609)

4. Given a map, the student will draw the Line of Demarcation. He should also explain what significance this line played in establishing Portuguese as the official language of Brazil.

5. Given a map on which exploration routes are drawn and numbered, the student will refer to the map and then place the number of the route before the name of the explorer who followed that route. (Use the map on page 9.)

6. Classify the following factors, indicating if they are typical of the Northern, Middle, or Southern colonies. Draw three columns labeling them Northern Colonies, Middle Colonies, and Southern Colonies. Place each item below in the proper column.

a. Tobacco became a salable crop.
b. Rice and indigo became an important crop.
c. Rocky land and thin soil limited the amount of farming done in this section.
d. Bays and rivers made shipping profitable.
e. Large farms yielded grain by the hundreds of bushels, livestock was raised, and fruit was abundant.
f. Surface deposits of iron ore made the growth of the iron industry possible.
g. Whale hunting became an important trade.
h. Slave labor contributed to the growth of the plantation system.

7. From the list of "Suggestions for Oral or Written Reports," the student should select a subject and present at least one oral or written report. The report should meet with the following standards:

a. Use of visuals should be encouraged in oral reports.
b. Information must be accurate.
c. A variety of sources should be used. At least two sources should be consulted. Sources should be stated.
d. The vocabulary should be the student's own.
e. Trivial details should be kept to a minimum.
f. Oral reports should be limited to three minutes. Time should be allowed for questions.

8. The student should list at least six cultural groups which contributed to the pluralistic society of the United States.

9. Given a map on which geographic locations and routes of explorers are drawn and numbered, the student should place the number of the geographic location or exploration route before the name it matches. (Use the map on page 10.)

10. To gain a respect for America's legacy and to perpetuate traditional values of American life, the student should be provided with ample opportunity to use the library as a source of information for oral and written reports dealing with the men and women who have made the nation great. By using a variety of library materials, the student will be given the experience of searching and finding his own information and arriving at his own conclusions. The information he retrieves should be shared with his fellow students. In this way each student will profit from the discoveries made by his classmates and through discussion learn more about great Americans and the times that produced them. Test items should be prepared to provide the student with an opportunity to demonstrate his understanding of the achievements of important men, some of whom are listed on the following page.

UNIT II. THE THIRTEEN ENGLISH COLONIES WIN INDEPENDENCE, 1763-1783

The Revolutionary period is among the most significant in the study of American history. It offers many questions to ponder, many problems to work at, and many conflicts to interpret. Was the Revolution a break from the past or was it a confirmation of what had already taken place? Was it largely influenced by British tradition or the new environment? Here is an excellent opportunity for students to observe the many-sided role of leadership and the complex role of decision making. What can be more meaningful for a dynamic approach to American democracy than an interpretive study of the Declaration of Independence? How has this document been used and how will it continue to be used to challenge complacency and to expand the meaning of democracy? An interesting question is suggested by the material in this unit on the treatment of loyalists and all who disagreed with the war. Students can also be introduced to the contradictory nature of military victories. As the Revolution so often demonstrates, sometimes the victor in battle loses in the end and the loser wins.

OBJECTIVES

• To list the consequences of good and bad leadership
• To list the steps of a logical decision-making process
• To realize that the Revolution was an American variation of the British tradition
• To name at least two interpretations that should be given for the causes of the Revolution
• To demonstrate knowledge of map skills

LESSONS

Content Stresses

- The nature of the issues between the American colonies and England
- Colonial reaction to the new British policy

Student Activities

- Form two committees to write newspapers, one from the colonists' point of view and another from the British point of view. Encourage the use of cartoons and editorials.
- Study and discuss the picture on page 132 of Land of the Free.
- Discuss the action taken by the colonists against the English controls.
- Prepare material for a panel discussion on "The Views of the Tories and Loyalists."
- Evaluate the roles of the following as contributing to the Revolution: the Sons of Liberty, Committees of Correspondence, Boston Massacre, Crispus Attucks, Boston Tea Party.
- Present both the point of view of the colonists and that of the crown in a panel discussion.
- Draw cartoons illustrating the Boston Tea Party, Sons of Liberty, reaction to the Stamp Act.

Content Stresses

The purpose, strengths, and weaknesses of the Continental Congresses Process of logical decision making

Student Activities

Role play delegates at the First Continental Congress reaching the decision not to break with the mother country.
Play the role of Edmund Burke pleading for conciliation with the colonies.
Using the decision-making process, answer the following question: How can I decide what course of study to follow in high school?

Content Stresses

- Reasons for the Declaration of Independence
- The uniqueness of the philosophy of the Declaration

Student Activities

- Read and discuss the Declaration of Independence.
- Discuss the attitudes the colonists had on the subject of slavery.
- Discuss the section "All men are created equal."
- Compare the Mayflower Compact and the Declaration of Independence.
- Find sections in these documents in which democracy is developed: the Magna Carta, Mayflower Compact, Maryland Toleration Act, Pennsylvania Charter of Religion, Fundamental Orders of Connecticut, English Bill of Rights.

Content Stresses

- The American struggle
- Although the British were not beaten, they could not win
- French help to end the war

Student Activities

- Role play General Burgoyne and Colonel St. Leger planning their campaign.
- On a transparency, trace the battle lines for the encounter at Saratoga.
- Construct a chart indicating the political and military activities during the Revolutionary War.
- Chart the military positions at Yorktown on a map.

Content Stress

- The United States recognized as a nation

Student Activities

- Study the Treaty of Paris.
- Map the possessions of the United States and the remaining British and Spanish possessions.

10. ORAL REPORTS ON THE MILITARY HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

- How did success at Ticonderoga lead to success at Boston?
- Bunker Hill is a study in the mixed and often confused meaning of military victory. How did the British win and yet lose? How did the Americans lose and yet win?
- Why did the Americans change from fighting for their rights as Englishmen to independence?
- How were Loyalists treated?
- Why is the American victory at Saratoga called the "turning point of the war"? (Refer to The Challenge of America, page 206.)
- Why has Valley Forge become a legend?
- What is the significance of George Rogers Clark's victory in the West?
- How was Washington's victory at Yorktown a good example of success by cooperating allies?
- Although Washington lost more battles than he won, why was he a great leader for a war like the American Revolution?
- For a more extensive listing of reports, use Land of the Free, pages 153-154.

EVALUATION

1. Given the following multiple choice questions, the student should be able to select the best answers:

An important role of the French and Indian War was that it (a) ended the Indian menace, (b) caused France to cede its claims west of the Mississippi to England, (c) encouraged a spirit of independence in the colonies, (d) lessened England's restrictions on the colonists.
In the 1760's and 1770's the basic issue dividing the colonies from Great Britain was (a) taxation without representation, (b) governors appointed by the king, (c) duties on imports, (d) stationing of British soldiers in America.

Which of these great documents relating to the rights of Englishmen came last? (a) Declaration and Resolves of the First Continental Congress, (b) Magna Carta, (c) English Bill of Rights, (d) Petition of Rights.

The significance of Thomas Paine's Common Sense was that it (a) suggested a plan of reconciliation with England, (b) urged the colonists to use a "common sense" approach to their problems with England, (c) argued that the protests of the colonies should be made only to Parliament, (d) urged open revolt against the king.

Which is not a part of the Declaration of Independence? (a) a statement of the rights of the individual, (b) a listing of the grievances against the king, (c) a framework of the type of government desired, (d) a statement of independence for the colonies.

All of the following were advantages of the British except (a) they had the most powerful navy in the world, (b) they were fighting for their homes and families, (c) they could afford to hire mercenaries—the Hessians, (d) they were a great industrial nation.

Which military event came last? (a) Yorktown, (b) Saratoga, (c) Quebec, (d) Bunker Hill.

All of the following were major factors in the American victory over the British except (a) George Washington's ability to inspire unselfish devotion and confidence, (b) Americans had been accustomed to political and economic freedom for many years, (c) the vast majority of Americans were Protestants, (d) the Americans were trained in the kind of fighting adapted to the New World environment.

All of the following statements about black participation in the War for Independence are true except (a) over 5,000 blacks fought for the patriots' cause, (b) Peter Salem and Salem Poor were two of the heroes in the war, (c) when the Revolution broke out, Washington and the Continental Congress readily accepted black participation, (d) thousands of blacks helped the British cause.

The names Steuben, Lafayette, and Kosciusko are associated with (a) leadership of Hessian troops quartered in the American colonies, (b) seventeenth century nationalist movements in Western Europe, (c) foreign support for the North in the Civil War, (d) foreign aid to Americans during the American Revolution.
What proportion of the American colonists is estimated to have wanted a complete break with England before the Declaration of Independence was issued? (a) about 10%, (b) about one-third, (c) about 50%, (d) about two-thirds.

One of the advantages of the Americans in the Revolutionary War was (a) they had plenty of money to buy arms, (b) they had many munitions plants, (c) they were fighting on familiar ground, (d) they hired Hessians to fight for them.

The Battle of Saratoga was important because it (a) marked the end of the war, (b) prevented the British from dividing the colonies, (c) strengthened the British, (d) relieved the Americans at Fort Stanwix.

The Treaty of 1783 gave the United States control of territory as far west as the (a) Appalachian Mountains, (b) Mississippi River, (c) Pacific Ocean, (d) Rocky Mountains.

The chief factor that makes for sound interpretation of history is the (a) author's patriotism, (b) weight of the evidence, (c) approval of the government, (d) trend of public opinion.

Which is the latest satisfactory explanation for the American Revolution? (a) differences in points of view, (b) taxation without representation, (c) growing interference with American economic life, (d) Parliament's act to curtail the "rights of Englishmen."

2. Given the following events, the student should be able to write a brief explanation of the significance of the events:

a. Bunker Hill (1775)
b. Battle of Saratoga (1777)
c. Treaty of Alliance with France (1778)
d. War in the South (1779-1781)
e. Declaration of Independence (1776)
f. Valley Forge (1777-1778)
g. War in the Northwest (1778)
h. Yorktown (1781)

3. The student should be able to write a brief explanation of at least one of the following points of view for causes of the American Revolution:

a. Economic factors as a cause of the Revolution
b. Social factors as a cause of the Revolution
c. Political factors as a cause of the Revolution
d. Psychological factors as a cause of the Revolution

4. The student should be able to point out or locate on a map of the United States the following:

a. The area acquired by the United States under the Treaty of Paris, 1783
b. The Old Northwest Territory
   c. Boston, Saratoga, New York, Valley Forge, Yorktown

Use the map on page 20.

5. Given appropriate maps, the student will answer the following statements. If the statement is true, write the symbol + on the line. If the statement is false, write the symbol 0 on the line. If the information is not given, write the letter N on the line. Use the maps on pages 21, 22, and 23. Answers must be based on information provided on the maps.

   + In 1750 England had less land than Spain or France.
   + By the Treaty of 1763 England received all land westward to the Mississippi River and Canada.
   + By 1763 France had been forced out of the mainland of North America.
   + Spain held Florida until 1750, lost it to England in 1763, and regained it after the Treaty of Paris of 1783.
   N Because France was no longer a neighbor after 1763, the Thirteen Colonies became more independent of the mother country.
   0 By the treaty that followed the Revolution, the American colonies won not only their independence but Canada as well.
   0 By the Treaty of Paris the United States won complete control of the Mississippi River.
   + By 1783 Spain had more land in the New World than any other nation.

6. Check for student understanding of the contributions of leading personalities by the inclusion of multiple choice or matching test items that are based on reports about leading personalities of this period.

UNIT III. AMERICA BECOMES A NATION, 1783-1823

This unit examines the beginnings of the United States as a nation. It affords the student the opportunity to study an experiment in self-government, limited government, individualism, guaranteed rights, and unlimited opportunity to seek rewards in the form of private property. The American nation must be understood as a revolutionary development, a social system possessing almost limitless social and spatial mobility. The United States Constitution, uniquely flexible, assures the right to dissent, fosters unity in diversity, and provides safeguards against the possible tyranny of the majority.

Unfortunately, the Founding Fathers failed to solve the problem of slavery and to appreciate the rights of minorities such as slaves, Indians, and women. The new nation, still small in population and weak in resources, faced challenging problems in finances and foreign affairs. It had to create policies and make demanding decisions.

The United States grew politically and geographically, thus serving to strengthen the developing nation. Thomas Jefferson as President sought to draw all Americans together in a common purpose and demonstrated that the constitutional provision for peaceful, democratic change was possible. With the acquisition of the Louisiana Territory the size of the nation grew markedly. With the War of 1812 the United States proved to the world that it would stand up for its rights. A new spirit of nationalism stirred within the nation.

OBJECTIVES

- To discuss the democratic foundations on which the Constitution is built
- To describe how the Constitution met the changing needs of the new republic
- To chart the structure and functions of the federal government
- To describe how the individual states organized new governments based on written constitutions, guaranteeing self-government within the federal framework
- To discuss how and why the Bill of Rights safeguards the right to dissent and the liberties of the individual
- To gain the skill of interpreting original documents
- To apply the tools of economics to understanding American life
- To gain skill in reading and interpreting maps, graphs, and charts
To describe the influence of minorities on historical events and cultural traditions

To discuss the fledgling attempts of a new nation in its relations with other countries

To state the influence of Jefferson on American democracy

To discuss how the new nation became involved for mainly economic reasons with other nations

To explain how the territory of the United States was expanded and organized

To list the reasons for the formulation of the Monroe Doctrine

To understand that involvement in world affairs makes neutrality difficult and often causes disagreement at home

LESSONS

Content Stresses

- Accomplishments of the Confederation
- The Ordinance of 1787; struggle for recognition of the new nation
- Why the Articles were inadequate
- How the colonists became organized states and formed a weak federal government

Student Activities

- Locate the boundaries of the Old Northwest Territory.
- Study and interpret the chart on page 158 of Land of the Free.
- Find how the Ordinance of 1787 provided for new states. (See page 237 of Land of the Free.)
- Discuss the following: Why had so weak a government been set up?
- Discuss the following: Why did some Americans wish to modify the government?

2. THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION: FOUNDATIONS OF DEMOCRACY

References

- Land of the Free, pages 159-165
Content Stresses

- Writing of the Constitution
- Divergent views make compromise necessary
- Human rights
- Government by consent

Student Activities

- Role play the leaders of the Constitutional Convention.
- Dramatize their ideas for strengthening the government.

3. THE CONSTITUTION: LEGISLATIVE BRANCH*

References

- Land of the Free, pages 625-628
- The Challenge of America, page 229

Content Stresses

- The meaning of the Preamble
- Qualifications, terms, and election of Representatives and Senators
- Power of Congress
- How a bill is passed
- Powers denied to Congress; powers denied to the states
- The legislative process

Student Activities

- Present thinking on the meaning of the Preamble in a panel discussion. Follow with a discussion involving the class.
- Read Article I of the Constitution.
- Begin a chart to indicate the duties, qualifications, and powers of each branch of government.
- Use the transparency "How a Bill Goes Through Congress." A chart describing the process is found on page 38.
- Discuss the question: What does war do to the respective powers of the federal government and of the states?
- Discuss the following: What does a depression do to the federal government and to the states?
- Stress the importance of the power of the federal government to regulate interstate commerce, Article I, Section 8, Paragraph 3.
- Stress the importance of the Elastic Clause, Article I, Section 8, Paragraph 18.

* If more time is needed, two days may be used for this lesson.

Content Stresses

- Qualifications, terms, and election of the President
- Powers and duties of the President
- Position of the Vice President

Student Activities

- Read Article II of the Constitution.
- Continue constructing a chart indicating the powers of each branch of government.
- Discuss the controls the President has over the legislative and judicial branches. Refer to the chart on page 160 of Land of the Free.
- Use the World Almanac to gain specific information about the size and scope of the executive department of the federal government.
- Name the members of Washington’s cabinet.
- Name the current members of the President’s cabinet.
- Compare the two.

5. THE CONSTITUTION: JUDICIAL BRANCH

References

- Land of the Free, pages 160-161, 630
- The Challenge of America, pages 229-231
- Building the American Nation, page 749

Content Stresses

- The purpose of the amendments; how an amendment is added to the Constitution
- Qualifications and terms of the judicial branch
- Powers and duties of the judicial branch of government
- The judicial process

Student Activities

- Read Articles III, IV, VI, and VII of the Constitution.
- Continue the chart begun in lessons 3 and 4.
- Define federalism and discuss why it was more effective than the Articles of Confederation had been.
- Develop visuals to present and interpret the following characteristics of the American government: checks and balances (see page 230 of The Challenge of America) and separation of powers (see page 161 of Land of the Free).
6. THE BILL OF RIGHTS

References

- Land of the Free, pages 164-169
- The Challenge of America, page 236

Content Stresses

- How an amendment is added to the Constitution
- Reasons for the addition of the first ten amendments or the Bill of Rights
- Significance of the Bill of Rights in present-day life

Student Activities

- Read Article V of the Constitution.
- List what each section of the Bill of Rights means.
- Trace the rights guaranteed back to the colonial grievances.
- Discuss how the Bill of Rights has been applied to problems of today.
- Debate current issues. Use the Bill of Rights as a basis for making decisions as to the legality of actions and reactions; for example, college riots, rights of minorities, etc.

7. BEGINNING A NEW GOVERNMENT

Content Stresses
- The beginning and development of political parties
- The importance of parties in a democratic society

Student Activities
- Chart the controversial points which led to the establishment of the Democratic-Republican and Federalist parties.
- Draw cartoons depicting these differences.
- Choose a political party of Jefferson's day to support and explain the choice.
- Role play a debate between Jefferson and Hamilton on political and economic issues.

10. ADAMS' PRESIDENCY

References
- Land of the Free, pages 180-183
Content Stresses

- XYZ affair; the Constitution is threatened by the Alien and Sedition Acts
- Kentucky and Virginia resolutions

Student Activities

- Discuss the background of the XYZ affair and its importance to future policy.
- Describe the Alien and Sedition Acts.
- List the ways that these acts violated constitutional guarantees.
- Read and discuss the Kentucky resolution.
- Evaluate "midnight" appointments on the basis of ethics and politics. (This issue might be used as a subject for debate.)

11. PRESENTATION OF REPORTS DEALING WITH THE ESTABLISHMENT OF CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT

Content Stress

- Presentation of individual reports, using suggestions for reports on page 36.

Student Activities

- Report on Thomas Jefferson and his legacy to the present.
- In panel discussion, explain the similarities and differences in leadership between Washington and Simón Bolívar.
- Debate the following: Was the Whiskey Rebellion justified?

- British raid and burn Washington; Battle of the Great Lakes

Student Activities

- View and discuss the War of 1812 transparency.
- Identify the places where the battles of 1812 took place; locate them on a map.
- Compare the date of the Battle of New Orleans with the date of the Treaty of Ghent.
- Tell the story of the composing of "The Star-Spangled Banner."
- Make a model of Perry's flagship, Niagara, or some other vessel used in the war (such as Macdonough's ship at Plattsburg).

17. NATIONALISM IN LATIN AMERICA AND NATIONALISM AT HOME

References

- Land of the Free, pages 201-209
Content Stresses

- Revolutions in Latin America
- The Monroe Doctrine
- Reasons for the formulation of the Monroe Doctrine

Student Activities

- Discuss the nature of nationalism. Use Latin America and the United States as examples.
- Discuss when nationalism is strongest: before, during, or after a war.
- Discuss the pros and cons of nationalism; for example, "My country—right or wrong."
- Discuss the question: If challenged, could the United States have enforced the Monroe Doctrine prior to 1850?
- Prepare oral reports on Simón Bolívar and José de San Martín.

EVALUATION

1. Given the following multiple choice questions, the student will place the letter of the best answer in the space at the left.

   a. Under the Articles of Confederation Congress could not (a) impose taxes, (b) make treaties with foreign nations, (c) borrow money, (d) develop foreign lands.

   d. The Northwest Ordinance of 1787 provided (a) for religious freedom, (b) for prohibition of slavery in the territory, (c) for a way of getting new states into the Union, (d) all of these.

   b. The "Great Compromise" made at the Convention of 1787 provided for (a) a system of amendments, (b) representation by population and state, (c) a system of federal courts, (d) government of territories.

   b. The system of checks and balances is a method of (a) keeping any one state from becoming too powerful, (b) keeping any one branch of the federal government from getting too powerful, (c) keeping labor and capital from becoming too powerful, (d) keeping the military from becoming too powerful.

   b. The Whiskey Rebellion was important because (a) it established a citizen's right to make whiskey, (b) it showed that the government was strong enough to enforce the law, (c) it was the first tax law that was disobeyed, (d) it made the sale of whiskey illegal.
The Alien Acts made it (a) illegal to come to the United States during a war, (b) possible for the President to deport any dangerous foreigner, (c) possible for foreigners to come to the United States to settle, (d) none of these.

The Sedition Act (a) provided for punishment of malicious writing about the President and Congress, (b) set heavy penalties, (c) was vigorously enforced, (d) all of these.

The Louisiana Purchase was important because (a) it insured American use of the Mississippi River, (b) it made the United States two-thirds larger, (c) it was a great land bargain, (d) all of these.

The Lewis and Clark Expedition was important because (a) it helped open up the West, (b) it gave the United States exclusive claims to all the land west of the Mississippi, including Spanish claims, (c) it proved travel to the Pacific was easy, (d) it gave the United States exclusive claims to Texas.

The War of 1812 was fought (a) because the United States' neutrality was violated, (b) because of impressment of sailors, (c) because the United States wanted to annex Canada, (d) all of these.

An outcome of the War of 1812 was (a) the United States gained a great deal of new territory, (b) the United States decided it could no longer remain a neutral country, (c) the United States proved it was an independent nation, (d) all of these.

The Missouri Compromise settled the slave question (a) in the Old Northwest Territory, (b) in the Louisiana Territory, (c) in the United States, (d) none of these.

The Monroe Doctrine stated (a) European countries had to give up their colonies in the Americas, (b) European countries could not establish new colonies in the Americas, (c) that the United States would take part in European affairs, (d) all of these.

2. The student should answer the following statements using the name of the political party that best fits the statement. Use only the letters to indicate answers.

a. Democratic-Republican
b. Federalist

a. Favored a weak central government.

a. Favored by farmers and city workers.

b. Favored tariffs.

Favored a national bank.

Party that disagreed with the use of implied powers.

Party led by Hamilton and John Adams.

3. Using a copy of the Bill of Rights as a reference, the student should decide what rights, if any, are violated in the following situations:

   a. Newspaper censorship. (press)
   b. The dishanding of a peaceful citizens' group in a city park. (assembly)
   c. The retrial of a man previously acquitted of the same crime. (double jeopardy)
   d. The closing of all Presbyterian churches. (religion)
   e. A law forbidding citizens to own guns. (right to bear arms)
   f. Bail of $50,000 set for illegal parking. (excessive bail)
   g. Army barracks destroyed by fire, and the Army forced nearby citizens to give housing to the soldiers until new barracks could be built. (quartering)
   h. It was rumored that stolen goods could be found in an apartment house. Therefore police conducted a systematic search of all apartments in the building without a warrant. (search and seizure)
   i. The city government forced all homeowners of a city block to sell their houses so that a needed parking garage could be built. (no violation)
   j. Mr. Jones was arrested when he complained to City Council that he did not want to sell his house to the city. (right of petition)
   k. Mr. Green was charged with damages amounting to $2,000 in an automobile accident. The judge declared him guilty and ordered him to pay the $2,000. (no violation)
   l. A judge ordered a boy to have his hair shaved as punishment for a speeding violation. (cruel and unusual punishment)

4. Given the following information, the student should use the letter of the action that describes the statements below:

   a. The President checks the Congress.
   b. The President checks the Supreme Court.
   c. The Congress checks the President.
   d. The Congress checks the Supreme Court.
   e. The Supreme Court checks the President.
   f. The Supreme Court checks the Congress.

(e, f) The court declares a law unconstitutional.

a The President uses his power of veto.

o The Senate disapproves a presidential appointment.

b Judiciary appointments are made by the President.

d Judges are impeached.
5. With each right granted to citizens, there must be a responsibility. Given the following list, the student should answer briefly what responsibility is related to the following rights:

a. Driver's license (knowledge of and obedience to laws)
b. Voter's registration (knowledge concerning candidates and exercising the right to vote)
c. Public education (attainment of the best possible education for self-improvement)

6. The student should list the three branches of the federal government and give two important responsibilities of each. (Any responsibilities of the three branches of government in the Constitution should be considered correct.)

7. The teacher should include questions that relate to contributors to our national heritage.

UNIT IV. CONCERN FOR HUMAN RIGHTS INCREASES; YET SLAVERY EXPANDS, 1823-1860

In the 1830's and 1840's a new concern had crystallized for the development of individualism, laissez-faire, and individual enterprise. The age was influenced by frontier individualism and equalitarianism. Many values of the age were personified by the popular image of Andrew Jackson, and so older historians have used the term Jacksonian democracy. In theory, the government was to offer no economic privileges for the few but to provide equal opportunities for all. Monopolies of all kinds, like the Second Bank of the United States, were to be destroyed.

Reform movements were initiated to free the individual from unequal restraints, both natural and social, and to make him an equal competitor. The most profound but also the most controversial was the abolition movement. Yet it was the greatest paradox of the age that as the drive for individualistic democracy grew, the slave system of the South intensified and was righteously defended. Abolitionists became martyrs and outcasts, and Negro slaves themselves rebelled overtly and covertly against overwhelming odds. The question which men raised in the Age of Jackson was the question which men raise and must answer today. Can democracy exist if it does not provide equal opportunity for all?

OBJECTIVES

- To name the ways frontier life contributed to the nature of American democracy
- To discuss the nature of sectional issues
- To list the ways that reform movements represented concern for the individual in American democracy
- To discuss the nature of the institution of slavery
- To list the outstanding Americans who worked to solve the problem of slavery
- To gain skill in charting information on maps
- To maintain skill in using the time line

LESSONS

1. INFLUENCE OF THE FRONTIER ON THE NATURE OF AMERICAN DEMOCRACY

Content Stresses

• Improved treatment of criminals, the insane, and the handicapped
• Women's rights

Student Activities

• Participate in a "Meet the Press" interview of Dorothea Dix, Thomas Gallaudet, and Samuel Howe. Have the class act as reporters who question the panel.
• Discuss the need for reform in the treatment of criminals, the insane, the handicapped, and women.
8. EDUCATION FOR ALL, A DEMOCRATIC IDEAL; INDIVIDUALISM

References

• Land of the Free, pages 264-271
• The Challenge of America, pages 386-394
• Building the American Nation, pages 273-275, 338-342
• Eyewitness, pages 135-144, 153-154

Content Stresses

• Education
• Individualism

Student Activities

• Discuss: Why is universal, free, compulsory public education necessary in a democracy, in an industrial society such as the United States, Germany, or the U.S.S.R.?
• Discuss: How are the public schools of Pittsburgh financed?
• Discuss: How are the public schools of Pittsburgh administered?
• Discuss: What American values did Emerson and Thoreau reinforce?
• Report on Horace Mann, Catharine Beecher.

EVALUATION

1. The student should place a check to the left of the statement if he thinks it held true during the period from 1823-1860.

   Though people everywhere spoke in favor of democracy, many people in the South vigorously defended slavery.

   One principle believed under Jacksonian democracy was "economic privileges for all."

2. The student should name three reform movements in the period, 1823-1860. Any of the following answers could be considered as being correct:

   a. Rights and suffrage for women
   b. Humane treatment of the insane
   c. Religious and utopian experiments
   d. Improved education
   e. Abolition of slavery
   f. Humanitarian reforms

3. The student should name two problems with which President Jackson had to deal. Any of the following could be considered as correct:

   a. Corruption in government
   b. Slavery
   c. The United States Bank
   d. Sectionalism
4. On an outline map, the student should shade the classification of states and territories to match the legend.

6. The student should write a brief essay comparing the views of a typical businessman in Massachusetts with the views of a planter in South Carolina in 1860. What were some of the problems each section of the country was facing at the time? The essay should include contrasting views on slavery and abolition, the Fugitive Slave Law, central government versus states' rights, political rights, voting rights for all people, economic interests, and the protective tariff.
7. The student should arrange the following in order by choosing the correct chronological listing. (The date listed after each event is for the teacher's use.)

a. Jackson becomes President for the first time. (1829)
b. Nat Turner's revolt. (1831)
c. John Brown's raid. (1859)
d. The Tariff of Abominations is passed by Congress. (1828)

The student should check the correct chronological listing:

- a, b, c, d
- a, c, d, b
- d, a, b, c
- d, c, b, a

8. The teacher should construct test items to show student understanding of the achievements of the men and women listed below.

UNIT V. TECHNOLOGY, BUSINESS ENTERPRISE, WESTWARD EXPANSION, AND INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS SPUR ECONOMIC GROWTH, 1787-1860

Democratization, economic growth, and territorial expansion have been interacting processes in American life. The first three quarters of a century of independence witnessed an energetic people on the move, a vast movement of unplanned and uncoordinated individualistic enterprise, innovation and growth in industry and agriculture, far-reaching developments in transportation and communication, and a continuous migration westward. America was generating a dynamic society based on social and spatial mobility. The stage was being set for the development of a national economy.

Politically, most men believed in freedom from government restraint; yet nearly all sought some kind of governmental promotion or at least support for individual enterprise. Students should understand the economic growth of the times and the emerging specialization by regions.

OBJECTIVES

- To describe how regional economic growth depended upon improved transportation
- To discuss how maritime activity, industrialization, individual enterprise, improved technology, westward expansion, and immigration promoted economic growth
- To maintain skill in reading and interpreting maps and graphs

LESSONS

1. IMPROVED TRANSPORTATION

References

- Land of the Free, pages 221-226, 231-235
- The Challenge of America, pages 290-293 (map: 293), 347-348
- Building the American Nation, pages 274-275, 402-403

Content Stress

- The role of roads, highways, and railroads in improving transportation and in strengthening regional economies

Student Activities

- On an outline map of the United States, indicate roads and railroads of the early 1800's.
On the back of the map, answer the following: What consequences were likely to develop from the general directions of the roads? List the ways the government helped improve transportation.

2. IMPROVED TRANSPORTATION (Continued)

- Building the American Nation, pages 275-276, 287-289, 403-404

Content Stress

- The role of canals, steamboats, and clipper ships in improving transportation and in strengthening regional economies

Student Activities

- On the map, begun in the preceding lesson, indicate, with an appropriate key, canals of the early nineteenth century. On the back of the map, answer:
  - What are the disadvantages of the use of canals?
  - What advantages have canals over roads?
  - What advantages have railroads over roads and canals?
- Discuss why some canals were failures while others proved to be a success.
- Report on the canals leading to Pittsburgh.
- How did steamboats speed the settlement of midcontinental America?
- Report on clipper ships and whaling.

Content Stresses

- The role of the inventor
- The effect of inventions on industry
- The effect of invention on agriculture

Student Activities

- Use library facilities for a research period.
- Make a chart headed Inventor, Invention, and Significance.
- Discuss the role of invention on economic growth.
• Research and report on the patent process. What types of strange devices have been patented?
• Prepare advertisements which would help sell an invention described in this unit.

- Resource Supplement, page 12, III

Content Stresses

- Routes west
- California settlement
- The Oregon settlement with Great Britain
- Mining activity in the West
- Mormon trek and settlement

Student Activities

- Role play the cultural interchange between Americans and Mexicans in California during this period. Be certain to depict the benefits and contributions of both groups.
- Using a current road map of the United States (which can be obtained from any oil company), travel by road from Pittsburgh to Oregon, San Francisco, Los Angeles. Trace the routes to the Far West in the 1840's. Draw conclusions.
- On the map, locate mining towns. Draw conclusions as to how mining affected transportation, settlement, agriculture, and statehood.

EVALUATION

1. Given an open-book test (time: five minutes), the student should use the graph on page 329 of Land of the Free to answer the questions on the following page.
a. In what year did most immigrants come to the U.S.A.?

b. What nationality groups predominated in the migration to the U.S.A. between 1820-1860?

c. Why was there a sharp drop in immigration in 1860?

d. How many immigrants came to the United States in 1830?

2. The student should write an essay in which the following question is answered: How has better transportation affected American economic development? Divide the answer into two parts: direct effects and indirect effects. The following answers are acceptable:

a. Economic growth is dependent upon productive capacity and effective demand.

b. Early American transportation had to be improved before a demand effective enough to support widespread mass production could be created.

c. Improved transportation created direct economic effects by creating jobs for road builders, inn owners, etc., as well as indirect economic effects of widening markets and improving resource mobility.

3. The student should be able to complete the following chart bringing out the economic significance of various modes of transportation listed.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Modes of Transportation</th>
<th>Advantages-Disadvantages</th>
<th>Economic Significance</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Stagecoach</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boat</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Railroad</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The following points should be included in the student's answers:

a. The American economy not only benefited directly from the development of transportation through the creation of jobs, but also benefited indirectly by broadening markets, creating an effective demand for goods that could not be economically shipped over long distances.

b. Transportation also made it possible to move resources where they were needed for use in producing finished goods.

4. Given the following list, the student will name the significance of each inventor's achievement to the economic development of the United States:

a. Francis Cabot Lowell

b. Charles Goodyear

c. Richard Hoe

d. Cyrus McCormick

e. John Deere

f. Norbert Rillieux

g. Henry Blair

h. Eli Whitney
5. Given the outline map below, the students will locate and identify the territory added to the United States following the Mexican War.

6. From the list of "Suggestions for Oral or Written Reports," the student should select a subject and present at least one oral report. The report should meet the same standards as described in the Evaluation of Unit I.

SUGGESTIONS FOR ORAL OR WRITTEN REPORTS

- The National Road

VI. SLAVERY SPLITS THE NATION; RECONSTRUCTION FAILS THE NEGRO, 1860-1877

The great questions surrounding the meaning and significance of the Civil War period continue to challenge all who think about it, and its unsolved and partially solved problems which caused the struggle in the first place still confront the United States. The issue of slavery was the most challenging problem ever to face the American people even though the leaders of the federal government wanted uppermost to preserve the Union. How can a people who adopted the equalitarian principles of the Declaration of Independence continue to shelter slavery? Can the meaning of democracy be limited? Can it exclude? Slavery challenged the American concept of equal opportunity and social mobility. It mocked the encouragement of individualism and the promotion of private enterprise. And in the end it shattered the political machinery which had previously adjusted problems peacefully.

The challenge to democracy raised by the question of slavery was irrevocably destroyed by the war, but out of the question a new challenge persisted and grew—the violence of racism, so disruptive and degrading to the spirit and growth of democracy.

OBJECTIVES

- To discuss the implications of the issue of slavery
- To list the causes and results of the Civil War
- To discuss the nature of Reconstruction
- To explain the implications of the Fourteenth Amendment

LESSONS

1. CAN SLAVERY BE COMPROMISED?

References

- Land of the Free, pages 326-330
- The Challenge of America, pages 423-441
- Building the American Nation, pages 408-412
- Eyewitness, pages 188-206

Content Stresses

- Past compromises that failed
- Efforts to preserve the Union and maintain slavery cause conflict
Student Activities

- List and review the compromises that failed.
- Debate the question: Could the United States have existed much longer half slave and half free?
- List the events of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries which were a part of the slavery controversy. Use the writing of the Declaration of Independence to indicate the beginning of the controversy.

2. SLAVERY, A DIVISIVE FORCE

References

- Land of the Free, pages 330-333
- The Challenge of America, pages 439-443
- Building the American Nation, pages 414-424

Content Stress

- Attempts at compromise fail

Student Activities

- Chart the sectional differences which divided the North and South up to 1860.
- Draw political cartoons illustrating Webster's support of Clay in the Missouri Compromise.
- Debate the merits of the Kansas-Nebraska Bill.

3. SECESSION AND LINCOLN'S REACTION TO IT: TO UNITE THE NORTH AND PRESERVE THE UNION

Content Stress

- Lincoln's desire to preserve the Union leads to Civil War

Student Activities

- Discuss: What possible responses could have been made to the firing on Fort Sumter?
- Debate: Resolved: That the firing on Fort Sumter forced the nation into civil war.
- Using an outline map, show the division between the Union, Border, and Confederate states in 1861.
4. COMPARISON OF THE NORTH AND SOUTH: MILITARY OBJECTIVES

References

- Land of the Free, pages 340-343
- The Challenge of America, pages 451-452
- Building the American Nation, pages 432-437

Content Stresses

- Comparison of the strengths and weaknesses of the Union and the Confederacy
- Northern plans for victory
- Confederate plans for victory

Student Activities

- Make a chart contrasting the strengths and weaknesses of the Union and Confederacy.
- On a map, show how the North planned to defeat the South.

Content Stress

- The Negro's struggle for education

Student Activities

- Research some of the black schools set up during Reconstruction. Are these schools still in existence?
- Discuss the progress of educational opportunities for Negroes.

EVALUATION

1. Given the following items, the student should match the right column with the column to the left by placing the letter of his choice on the line provided. He may use each item in the right column more than once.

   a. Resulted in statehood for Maine.
   b. Ended the slave trade in Washington, D.C.
   c. Admitted California to the Union.
   d. Was repealed by another item on this list.
   e. Ruled that the Missouri Compromise was unconstitutional.
   f. Outlawed slavery north of 36° 30' north latitude in the Louisiana Territory.
   g. Promised strict enforcement of the Fugitive Slave Law.
   h. Was sponsored by Stephen A. Douglas.
   i. Was the work of Henry Clay.

   a. Compromise of 1850
   b. Dred Scott decision
   c. Missouri Compromise
   d. Kansas-Nebraska Act
2. The student should base his answers to the following statements on the map below. If the statement is true, write the symbol + on the line. If the statement is false, write the symbol 0 on the line. If the information is not given, write the letter N on the line.

- All of the states south of the Mason-Dixon line seceded from the Union. N
- South Carolina was the first Southern state to secede. N
- All United States territories remained under federal control during the entire war. N
- There were fewer states in the Confederacy than in the Union. +
- The Union had more people than the Confederacy. N
- All of the states west of the Mississippi River remained in the Union. O
- There were more than twenty states fighting for the Union cause. +
- The Union had many more advantages than the Confederacy in this war. N
3. The student should write the letter indicating the best answer in the space provided.

a. The meaning of the Dred Scott decision was that (a) Congress could not prohibit slavery in the territories, (b) only Congress could legislate to prohibit slavery in any part of the United States, (c) slavery could not be prohibited in any state, (d) the Fugitive Slave Law was unconstitutional.

b. The man who declared "A house divided against itself cannot stand" was (a) Abraham Lincoln, (b) Stephen A. Douglas, (c) John Brown, (d) William H. Seward.

d. The position of the Republican Party in 1860 was one that (a) favored the abolition of slavery throughout the United States, (b) opposed the extension of slavery into the new territories, (c) favored the doctrine of "popular sovereignty," (d) supported the Dred Scott decision.

d. Prior to the Civil War, the Southern states attracted few immigrants because (a) these states had strict immigration laws, (b) transportation to the region was not developed, (c) farming was not attractive to the immigrants, (d) free men could not compete with slave labor.

a. The immediate cause of the Civil War was the (a) attack on Fort Sumter, (b) Dred Scott decision, (c) Thirteenth Amendment, (d) Battle of Bull Run.

d. The President and the Vice President of the Confederacy were (a) Breckenridge and Bell, (b) Davis and Seward, (c) Davis and Bell, (d) Davis and Stephens.

a. At the beginning of the Civil War, President Lincoln regarded as his greatest aim the (a) preservation of the Union, (b) freeing of the slaves, (c) conciliation of the South at all costs, (d) maintenance of cordial relations with Great Britain.

b. Which was not an advantage possessed by the North over the South at the outset of the War? (a) superior transportation system, (b) greater financial resources, (c) superior military leadership, (d) varied economic resources.

d. The chief purpose of the Union blockade during the war was to prevent (a) English volunteers from reaching the Confederacy, (b) Confederate officials from reaching Europe, (c) the French navy from aiding the South, (d) the export of cotton to Europe.

c. During the War Between the States the South's advantages were all of the following except (a) its almost four million slaves, (b) its excellent military leaders, (c) its large supply of capital, (d) it was fighting a defensive war.
The Emancipation Proclamation of Abraham Lincoln (a) declared free all slaves in the Border states, (b) declared free all Northern slaves and prohibited compensation to the owner, (c) declared free all slaves in areas still in rebellion on January 1, 1863, (d) went into effect on January 1, 1864.

Lincoln issued the Emancipation Proclamation for all of the following reasons except (a) he knew it would greatly hurt the South's war effort, (b) he felt it was a military necessity, (c) he no longer cared if the Border states joined the Confederacy, (d) he realized his action would probably win support in Britain and France.

All of the following statements about black participation in the Civil War are true except (a) blacks were excluded for 1 1/2 years as an official government policy, (b) by the end of the war over 200,000 black soldiers had participated in the war, (c) the South's slaves were a major factor in its ability to hold out for four years, (d) because of black peoples' past history of aiding the nation in time of need, black men were readily accepted into the Army of the Union.

All of the following were Northern military successes during the Civil War except (a) the blockade of Southern ports, (b) the battles of Bull Run and Chancellorsville, (c) the battles of Vicksburg and Gettysburg, (d) the campaigns of Sherman in Georgia and Grant in Virginia.

All of the following were Southern military leaders in the Civil War except (a) Stonewall Jackson, (b) George Meade, (c) Robert E. Lee, (d) J. E. B. Stuart.

President Lincoln's plan for Reconstruction was based on the theory that the Confederate states (a) were to be treated as territories, (b) could be readmitted to the Union by Congress only, (c) had never actually left the Union, (d) were to be occupied by Union forces for a period of twenty years.

The amendment which freed the slaves was the (a) Twelfth, (b) Thirteenth, (c) Fourteenth, (d) Fifteenth.

Lincoln's plan for Reconstruction included all of the following except (a) full pardons for Southerners who took the oath of allegiance, (b) exclusion of Confederate leaders from pardons, (c) military control of the South, (d) requirement that 10% of the voters of 1860 in a state take the oath of allegiance and draw up a new constitution before readmission to the Union.

All of the following economic changes took place in the South after the Civil War except (a) the breakup of the plantation system, (b) the end of cotton growing, (c) the creation of the sharecropping system, (d) the growth of industry.
The functions of the Freedmen's Bureau included (a) protection of freedmen, (b) helping freedmen toward self-support, (c) helping poverty-stricken white people, (d) all of these, (e) none of these.

Which of the following provisions could be found in the Radical Republican congressional program for Reconstruction? (a) the South was divided into five military districts, (b) freedmen were given the right to vote and to hold office, (c) Southern states were required to ratify the Fourteenth Amendment, (d) all of these, (e) none of these.

Southern blacks by mid-1866 would be the least likely to support which of these? (a) Freedmen's Bureau, (b) vagrancy laws, (c) Civil Rights Act, (d) "forty acres and a mule."

The purpose of the Black Codes in the South during the very early part of Reconstruction was to (a) aid the carpetbaggers, (b) grant suffrage to Negroes, (c) prevent the exploitation of freedmen, (d) restrict the civil and political rights of blacks.

"The Right of Citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude" is contained in the (a) Fourteenth Amendment, (b) Fifteenth Amendment, (c) Thirteenth Amendment, (d) none of these.

"Nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law" is a statement found in which amendment? (a) Fifth, (b) Fourteenth, (c) Fifteenth, (d) Thirteenth.

All of the following statements are true of the period in which the Reconstruction of the South took place (1865-1875) except (a) it was a period marked by nationwide corruption, (b) the governments in the Southern states were far more corrupt than in any other section of the nation, (c) the administration of President U. S. Grant was tainted by much corruption, (d) the Southern governments in which blacks participated accomplished many important reforms for the South.

All of the following were accomplishments of the Reconstruction governments in which blacks participated except (a) the abolition of imprisonment for debt, (b) granting the right to vote to women, (c) the establishment of public school systems, (d) the improvement of the South's transportation systems.

Reconstruction came to an end (a) at the beginning of Grant's first term, (b) in 1877, following the recall of federal troops by President Hayes, (c) immediately following the enactment of the Thirteenth Amendment, (d) only after a Democratic candidate was elected President.
4. The student must be made aware of his heritage. Include test items that measure his understanding of the achievements and contributions of individuals, some of whom are listed below.

UNIT VII. THE ECONOMY AND DEMOCRACY GROW, 1865-1917

In the second half of the nineteenth century profound changes in American life overcame and challenged traditional ways of thinking. At this time the vast technology of industrialism matured, calling for a concentration and combination of economic organization revolutionary in its impact on American life. The traditional image of free competition had to give way to planning and control. Were the new industrial giants conspiring to monopolize an immemorial scarcity, or were they a highly complex instrument to achieve economic growth beyond all previous experience? What would happen to individualism and individual promotion of private enterprise? As the new entrepreneurial class acquired vast fortunes, what would happen to the American dream of equal opportunity? How could the individual worker deal with corporate employers and their impersonal hierarchies? Should he organize and combine too? And how could new industrial cities, crowded beyond all earlier models, provide a healthy and safe communal life and an environment which would promote individual growth?

OBJECTIVES

- To discuss the nature and results of the economic growth of the period
- To describe the interrelation of technologic and economic development
- To discuss the problems of labor organization and poverty, minorities, urbanization
- To develop an awareness that social problems increased and became more complex
- To realize the constant necessity for reform
- To understand the individual's responsibility to make reform possible
- To explain the relationship between government and business
- To construct maps, graphs, and charts

LESSONS

1. LIFE ON THE PLAINS, PraIRIE FARMING

References

- Land of the Free, pages 431-437
- The Challenge of America, pages 342-346, 535-544
- Building the American Nation, pages 471-474
Content Stresses

• The agricultural revolution
  • Loneliness of life on the prairies

Student Activities

• List the changes in agricultural techniques from 1780-1880. Draw illustrations of the new agricultural implements.
• Use the map on page 472 of Building the American Nation to trace the cattle drives.
• Indicate cities in existence today that grew up along these trails.
• Locate songs that were sung by cowboys of this period. If possible, sing a few.
• Discuss the equipment used by cowboys and how the names of this gear were adapted from the Spanish language.
• Explain how this equipment met the needs of the cowboy.
• Make a chart of man's use of the agricultural products of the plains.

2. STEEL

References

• Land of the Free, pages 377-378, 384, 400
• The Challenge of America, pages 515-520
• Building the American Nation, page 486

Content Stresses

• Steel, the basis of a modern industrial economy
• The steel industry in Pittsburgh and western Pennsylvania

Student Activities

• Study pictures of steel mills. If possible, visit a steel mill.
• Make a chart showing the iron- and steel-making process.
• Sing "John Henry." (See page 400 of Land of the Free.)
• Using a map of the United States, indicate the geographic reasons for Pittsburgh’s rise as a steel center.
• List the improvements in industry, transportation, and agriculture made possible by "cheap steel."

3. OIL

References

• Land of the Free, pages 378-381
• The Challenge of America, pages 520-521
Building the American Nation, pages 486-487

Content Stresses

- The oil boom in western Pennsylvania; labor migration to the oil fields
- Oil as a major economic factor in the twentieth century

Student Activities

- Field trip: Visit the Drake Museum which is located in Titusville, Pennsylvania.
- Construct a model of Edwin L. Drake's first oil well.
- Make a chart showing the products and uses of petroleum.
- Report on the recent problems in offshore oil drilling (California, Louisiana, Texas).
- Define monopoly. Explain how Rockefeller created a monopoly in the oil industry.

4. MINING

- The Challenge of America, pages 325-328
- Building the American Nation, page 474
- Eyewitness, pages 90-91

Content Stress

- Mining of coal, gold, and silver

Student Activities

- Field trip: Visit Bruceton Mine. A tour of an experimental mine is conducted by the Bureau of Mines at no cost.
- Locate songs about mining; e.g., "The Gerry Dancers," "I Went to Oak Hill and I Asked for a Job," "Sixteen Tons."
- Role play a miner and his family discussing the activities and problems of the day.
- Draw a map showing the chief areas of Pennsylvania in which coal is found. Indicate anthracite fields and bituminous fields.
- Dramatize life in a boom town in Colorado. Demonstrate or explain the various techniques used to extract gold. Create visuals.
- Report on current problems related to mining (water pollution, mine subsidence, strip mining, health and safety problems).

5. ELECTRICITY AND COMMUNICATIONS

References

- Land of the Free, pages 226, 385-388
Content Stresses

- The world's increased dependence upon electricity
- Communication makes the world grow smaller

Student Activities

- Write or give an oral report on Samuel F. B. Morse, Alexander G. Bell, Thomas Edison, Cyrus Field, Guglielmo Marconi, Lewis Latimer.
- List some items that use electric power.

6. AUTOMOBILES

References

- Land of the Free, pages 485, 542-543
- The Challenge of America, pages 526-529
- Building the American Nation, pages 555, 606-607, 613
- Economics Readings, pages 53-55

Content Stress

- The automobile revolutionizes American life

Student Activities

- Draw some of the first horseless carriages. Bring in individual collections of car models.
- Chart the major and supportive industries that developed because of the automobile industry.
- Explain and demonstrate the principles of an assembly line.
- Draw a car of the future. Explain the reasons for its construction.

7. RAILROADS

References

- Eyewitness, page 158
- Economics Readings, pages 32, 52

Content Stress

- Railroads draw the country together
Student Activities

- Construct a graph to illustrate railroad mileage in the United States. Explain the rise and decline of railroad mileage.
- List the inventions which made the railroads safer and more efficient.
- Discuss the role of the following in the railroad industry: government, immigrants, and the Negro.
- Relate the settling of the West to the growth of railroads.
- List the ways that railroads contributed to the economic growth of the country.

8. THE AIRPLANE

References

Content Stress

- Changes in American life as a result of industrialization

Student Activities

- Collect pictures showing the growth of industries.
- Make a layout of a city with emerging industries, perhaps showing a river, mill sites, workers' houses, commercial centers.
- Discuss the question: How can cities be planned rather than just emerge?
• Trace the growth of Pittsburgh from 1865 to 1917.

- The Challenge of America, pages 579-584
- Building the American Nation, pages 503-506
- Eyewitness, pages 339-340, 401

Content Stress

• The many social problems that urbanization creates

Student Activities

• Chart conditions and improvements of conditions concerning the following: child labor, Negro rights, immigrants, city health problems, and tenements.
• Write letters that members of a farm family which has recently moved to the city might have written. They should include a description of their new way of life, the reception they received when they first arrived in the city, their impressions of the city, their living quarters, etc.
• Prepare a map of a "dream city." The maps should illustrate a completely planned city. The business area, industry, housing, recreation, entertainment, schools, services, and shopping should be indicated.
• Contrast the advantages and disadvantages of city living.
• Compare the tempo of life in the city of 1900 with that in the city today. Introduce the term megalopolis.

   e. Made monopolies illegal.
Provided for government inspection of medicines and canned meat.

Worked for a strengthened government.

Controlled a political machine.

2. The following people were important as inventors, businessmen, or worked for social improvement. They may be used as items in a matching test. They could also be used as multiple choice, fill-in, or other types of test items.

   a. Alexander Bell
   b. Thomas Edison
   c. Cyrus McCormick
   d. George Westinghouse
   e. Lewis Latimer
   f. Elijah McCoy
   g. Wright Brothers
   h. Edwin Drake
   i. Samuel Morse
   j. Robert Fulton
   k. Charles Goodyear
   l. Henry Ford
   m. Madam C. J. Walker
   n. J. P. Morgan
   o. Andrew Carnegie

   a. Invented the telephone.
   b. Invented the phonograph and light bulb.
   c. Invented the reaper.
   d. Invented the air brake which improved railroad safety.
   e. Worked in Edison's laboratory and invented a carbon filament for the Maxim electric lamp.
   f. Invented an automatic lubricating cup for machinery.
   g. Made the first successful airplane flight.
   h. Drilled the first oil well.
   i. Invented the telegraph.
   j. Invented the first successful steamship.
   k. Discovered a way to vulcanize rubber.
   l. Pioneered in the use of mass production and the assembly line in automobile manufacture.

3. The student should list the way prairie farmers solved the following problems:

   a. Drought (artesian wells and dry farming irrigation)
   b. Windstorms (wind breaks, storm cellars)
   c. Deep sod (steel plows)
   d. Few trees for lumber (sod houses)

4. The student should define monopoly and trust and explain how they differ. Give an example of each. (Any answer indicating that a monopoly means one-company control of an industry should be considered correct. Any definition indicating that a trust means the combining of corporations to form giant businesses to eliminate competition could be considered correct.)

5. The student should state three geographic conditions that led to Pittsburgh's becoming an important steel center. (Water transportation, coal fields, availability of iron ore are acceptable answers.)
6. Using the chart below, the student should answer the following questions:

   a. In what year was the highest percentage of America's population farmers? (1820)
   b. In what year was the highest percentage of America's population city dwellers? (1960)
   c. What percentage of the population lived in the country in 1850? (65%)
   d. What percentage of the population lived in the cities in 1790? (5%)

UNIT VIII. THE NATION TAKES A PART IN WORLD AFFAIRS AND IS CONFRONTED WITH DOMESTIC PROBLEMS, 1865-1930

When industrialization swept away the old order and constructed a new economy and a new society, it made the United States a world power rather than a second-rate power operating in isolation. The United States expanded into the Pacific, the Far East, and the Caribbean. Such developments demonstrated both a new power and responsibility in world affairs. By the beginning of World War I the United States was the most powerful nonbelligerent; however, it increasingly became a participant as an arsenal for the Allies, a procedure which led to active military intervention and the defeat of Germany. After the war the United States abandoned world leadership, signed international paper agreements but refused responsible commitment.

In this post-World War I period America returned to traditional internal interests and activities dominated by a consumer-oriented economic growth. Growing urbanism intensified rural-urban tensions and contributed to a widely held belief in a conspiracy on the part of immigrants, radicals, Catholics, and religious libertarians to undermine traditional rural American values.

OBJECTIVES

- To list and interpret the causes and results of United States participation in world affairs, 1865-1930
- To discuss the issues and policy with regard to immigration
- To list the causes and the nature of the prosperity of the 1920's
- To improve the interpretation of cartoons, pictures, and graphs
- To examine the problems of the intervention of the United States in foreign affairs
- To interpret the effects of intolerance of minorities played on the lives of immigrants and Negroes

LESSONS

Content Stresses

- The changing patterns of immigration
- Problems faced by immigrants
- Contributions made by immigrants
- Changing patterns of Negro life in America

* Teachers may wish to devote two days to this lesson.
Student Activities

- Use the graph on page 587 of The Challenge of America to demonstrate changing immigration patterns.
- Discuss the various problems (i.e., economic and social) faced by immigrants.
- Research immigration restrictions and report the findings to the class. The class should then form conclusions based on this information.
- Write a diary of an immigrant family's reaction to the New World.
- Discuss the reasons for and the effects of the Great Migration.

6. RESEARCH LESSON: WORLD WAR I

Student Activities

- Make a chart showing the major new industries and industries developed because of them.
- Discuss why Prohibition led to organized crime.
- Play records of some of the early jazz musicians.
- Read some of the literary works of Negro writers in the 1920's. Discuss the works read in class.

EVALUATION

1. Using the cartoons on page 506 of Land of the Free as a reference, the student should answer the following questions:
   a. What attitude is reflected by the Statue of Liberty?
   b. What is the attitude of the two men with their backs to the statue?
   c. What immigration policy is implied by the cartoon?
   d. What contrast does the caption imply concerning the immigration policy of the United States?

2. From the following statements, the student should choose the item which best describes the Open Door Policy:
   a. China will trade only with the United States.
   b. Foreign troops will keep order in Chinese ports.
   c. China will recognize all nations and permit equal trade in its country.

3. The student will complete the following multiple choice exercise, listing the letter of the item that best completes the statement or answers the question:
   Which of the following events lead to the outbreak of World War I in 1914?
   a. Archduke Franz Ferdinand is assassinated.
   b. Germany declared war on the United States.
   c. German submarine attacks began.
   d. The Lusitania was sunk.

   Name the Allied nations at the beginning of World War I.
   a. The United States, Italy, and Britain
   b. Germany, Italy, and Turkey
   c. Britain, France, and Russia
Which of the following events was most important in causing the United States involvement in World War I?

a. The sinking of the Lusitania
b. The invasion of Ethiopia
c. German submarine warfare

Name the American Expeditionary Force Commander in Chief in World War I.

a. Pershing
b. Lloyd George
c. Clemenceau
d. Stalin

Name the holiday celebrated each year which commemorates the signing of the Armistice.

a. Memorial Day
b. Veterans Day
c. Labor Day
d. Independence Day

4. The student should make a brief statement on how the following situations contributed to the outbreak of war between the United States and Spain:

a. Americans were losing money while Cuba was in rebellion.
b. Yellow journalism exaggerated reports of Spanish cruelty in Cuba.
c. The Spanish were believed to be responsible for the sinking of the Maine.

5. The student should examine the statements above and tell which one was the chief cause of the Spanish-American War. He should explain his answer. (Any intelligent answer indicating that the sinking of the Maine was a direct cause for the declaration of war on Spain is acceptable.)

6. The student should locate and label the following on an outline map:

a. The Philippines
b. Hawaii
c. Cuba
d. Puerto Rico
e. Panama Canal
f. Caribbean Sea

7. The student should list several reasons why immigrants chose to live in the cities. Any of the following is acceptable:

a. More jobs were available in the cities.
b. The cost of land in rural areas was high.
c. Immigrants generally could not afford the expense of travel.
8. The student should list four successful Allied battles or offensives in which Americans took part in World War I. The following should be mentioned:
   a. Belleau Wood
   b. Château-Thierry
   c. Marne
   d. St. Mihiel

9. The student should name four terms of the Treaty of Versailles. (As an answer, accept any four terms of the treaty.)

10. The student should write a brief essay explaining why the League of Nations failed. (The teacher should use his judgment to determine the validity of the student’s answer.)

11. The student should explain how each of the following names and events reflects an era of intolerance:
   a. The Scopes trial
   b. The Ku Klux Klan
   c. The Red Scare
   d. The Sacco-Vanzetti trial

   The teacher should use his judgment to determine the validity of the student’s answer.

12. The teacher should prepare test items to provide an opportunity for students to show what they are able to do as a result of reports on the following list of personalities.

UNIT IX. THE NATION SUFFERS DEPRESSION AND WAR, 1930-1945

The Great Depression strained traditional assumptions about individualism, private enterprise, and communal power. Could Americans wait for the depression to work itself out? Were there emergencies that needed immediate attention from organized authority? How much responsibility must or should the government assume? The New Deal assumed that the depression was a challenge to the effectiveness of democratic government to act and to solve problems. A new governmental responsibility for economic health and growth emerged and developed, along with an increased emphasis on responsibility for social welfare.

Some industrial nations, strained by economic collapse, turned to totalitarianism to unify their people in pursuit of the dream of unlimited national power and glory. The resulting international anarchy led to the widespread devastation and mass killing of World War II and to the total military defeat of Germany, Japan, and Italy. The victors, the United States, the Soviet Union, and Great Britain, created the United Nations in an attempt to end international anarchy.

OBJECTIVES

- To explain the nature, effects, and possible causes of the depression of the 1930's
- To describe government efforts to combat the depression of the 1930's
- To list the causes and discuss the course of World War II
- To discuss the formation and aims of the United Nations

3. Given the following list, the student should be able to identify the names and terms. Acceptable definitions follow:

a. Socialism: A theory or system of social organization in which the major industries and the communication and transportation facilities are owned, managed, or controlled by the government.

b. Communism: An economic system in which the means of production and distribution are owned, managed, or controlled by the government. The political system is usually a dictatorship.

c. Fascism: A system in which there is a combination of private ownership and a system of political dictatorship, with major restrictions upon individual political, economic, social, and religious freedom.

d. Dictatorship: A country in which one person or a group exercises absolute authority.

e. Axis Powers: The alliance combination in World War II whose major members were Germany, Italy, and Japan.

f. Allied Powers: The alliance combination in World War II whose major members were Great Britain, Russia, China, the United States, and France (until its defeat in 1940).

g. Pearl Harbor: The United States' most important Pacific naval base (Hawaii) on which the Japanese conducted a successful "sneak" attack (December 7, 1941) and caused the United States to enter World War II.

h. Blitzkrieg: A new type of warfare introduced by the Nazis which involved close coordination of air and land forces in a sudden lightning-like attack.

i. D-Day: The carefully prepared Allied invasion of Western Europe which began on June 6, 1944 at Normandy under the supreme command of General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

j. Munich: A city in Germany in which Prime Minister Chamberlain of England and Premier Daladier of France met with Hitler and Mussolini in 1938 and negotiated the Munich Pact. Hitler was "allowed" to take the Sudetenland, which was a part of Czechoslovakia.
k. Appeasement: Giving in a bit to an aggressor in the hope that he will eventually be satisfied enough to discontinue his aggressions.

l. Swastika: The cross-like (cross with ends of the arms bent at right angles, all in the same direction) symbol of the Nazi Party.

m. Kamikaze: Name given to Japanese airplane pilots who were sent out on suicide missions.

o. Mein Kampf (My Struggles): Book written by Hitler while he was in prison in which he explained his philosophy of life.

p. Lend-Lease: An act passed by Congress in March of 1941 which gave the President the power to "lend, lease, or exchange" any necessary war materials to help a country whose defense was deemed necessary to American defense.

q. FEPC (Fair Employment Practices Committee): A committee created by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to investigate and check job discrimination in the defense industry.

r. Underground Movement: Secret organizations formed in Axis-controlled Allied nations in order to fight for freedom using any means possible.

4. The student should indicate the correct chronological order of Group I and Group II by checking the appropriate listing.

Group I

a. Dictatorships rise in Italy and Germany.
b. Hitler invades Poland. (1939)
c. The Nazis invade France. (1940)
d. The Nazis invade Russia. (June, 1941)

The student should check the correct chronological listing.

- [ ] c,b,a,d
  - [x] a,b,c,d
  - [ ] a,b,d,c

---
Group II

a. The Japanese attack Pearl Harbor. (December, 1941)
b. The Battle of the Bulge takes place. (1944)
c. Germany surrenders. (May, 1945)
d. Japan surrenders. (August, 1945)

5. The student should state the major role of the following divisions of the United Nations:

a. General Assembly: The Assembly consists of all the members of the United Nations, each member having one vote. The Assembly admits new members, votes on the United Nations budget, makes recommendations concerning world peace and security, and promotes international cooperation.

b. Security Council: The council is made up of fifteen member nations. Five are permanent members (U.S., U.S.S.R., Great Britain, France, and Nationalist China). Ten are nonpermanent, elected for two-year terms by the Assembly, and chosen on a regional basis. The council has as its primary responsibility protecting world peace.

c. Economic and Social Council: The council is made up of twenty-seven members elected by the General Assembly. It tries to find solutions to international economic and social problems such as poverty, illiteracy, and disease.

d. Secretariat: The Secretariat is the permanent staff of the United Nations. It cares for the organization's day-to-day work. At its head is a Secretary-General appointed by the Assembly on the recommendation of the Security Council.

e. International Court of Justice: This is often called the World Court. It decides disputes between nations and gives advisory opinions on legal questions. It is made up of fifteen judges selected by the Assembly for nine-year terms.
6. Given the following list of multiple choice questions and statements, the student should select the choice which best completes the statement or answers the question. Place the letter of the choice of the correct answers on the line provided.

UNIT X. AMERICANS DEAL WITH ECONOMIC GROWTH, THE WAR ON POVERTY, CIVIL RIGHTS AND WORLD PROBLEMS, 1946-PRESENT

The year 1945 brought an end to World War II, but not an end to tension or conflict, either domestic or international. Economic growth has made the United States an affluent society, but has not eradicated poverty. Heavy consumption of goods by private persons has increased and is accepted, even valued. But how much of the gross national product the federal government shall take to rebuild cities, make pure the water and air, educate the young, bring full employment and give equal opportunity to minorities is debated. The federal government has moved to guarantee voting and other civil rights to Negroes and to end racial segregation in public schools.

The realignment of nations mainly into two huge power blocs—the free nations led by the United States, Communist nations by the Soviet Union—has kept the world in cold war and has produced two hot wars, Korea and Vietnam. The emergence of an aggressive Communist state on mainland China threatens to plunge the world into war. The fear of atomic annihilation is one factor which restrains the United States and the Soviet Union. Trouble persists in the Middle East. The United States continues to update policy in regard to the nations of Africa and Asia in an attempt to move them closer to the United States position.

OBJECTIVES

EVALUATION

Note: The study of current events is an integral part of United States history; however, the nature of this study makes it impossible to include an evaluation of current events in the course of study. The teacher should construct an evaluation dealing with contemporary events. The following questions are only examples of the type of questions which could be asked. For this reason, answers have not been provided.

1. Given two cartoons, one involving domestic problems and the other international problems, the student should be asked the following:

   a. What is happening in the cartoon?
   b. What is the significance of the caption?
   c. State in a few words what the cartoonist is trying to say.

* This lesson may be used as a library activity. Notify the school librarian to select books and brochures dealing with this topic. This lesson would involve the children searching for information. Reports should be shared with the class.
2. The student should indicate whether each of the following is true or false:

_____ Flights by Apollo spaceships have carried Americans to and around the moon.

_____ Edward Brooke of Massachusetts was elected as the first Negro Senator since Reconstruction.

_____ Many of the student protesters favored continuation of the war in Vietnam.

_____ The Progressive Party won the United States national election in 1948.

_____ James Hoffa was Attorney General of the United States.

_____ The Warren court stood for school integration and civil rights for the Negro.

_____ President Johnson's ordering of a complete bombing halt in November, 1968, was based on an understanding that the Viet Cong would make a complete break with North Vietnam.

_____ Japan's status as one of the leading industrial powers in the world is founded on its trade with mainland China.

_____ An American spy ship, the Pueblo, and her crew were hijacked by the North Koreans.

3. The student should place to the left the letter corresponding to the correct answer:

_____ The five permanent members of the United Nations Security Council are France, U.S.S.R., Great Britain, Nationalist China, and (a) Japan, (b) Czechoslovakia, (c) U.S.A.
