This syllabus for teachers of the third year of a course in Mandarin Chinese is based on the texts "Beginning Chinese" and "Beginning Chinese Reader" by John DeFrancis. The objectives and scope of the third year focus on increasing listening comprehension, improving conversational ability, composition skills, and extensive character recognition. This course emphasizes reading skill and translation ability while coordinating audiolingual activities with reading development. Seventeen units are outlined with sections on Chinese culture to be coordinated with the basic classroom instruction. For the companion documents see FL 002 202, FL 002 204, and FL 002 205. (RL)

THIRD YEAR CHINESE

Objectives for the Third Year Chinese

1. To be able to understand with reasonable ease rapid standard speech.
2. To be able to speak approximating native speech in intonation and pronunciation in a variety of situations.
3. To be able to read with reasonable ease such as magazines and newspapers.
4. To be able to write social letters and compositions on topics of interest.
5. To be able to recognize about 750 Chinese characters.
6. To have more practice in translation both from Chinese to English and from English to Chinese.
7. To develop a better understanding of Chinese history.

The Scope for the Third Year Chinese

Chinese III will emphasize reading skill and translation ability. Audio-lingual activities will be integrated closely with reading. The students have more freedom in all language activities.

1. Conversation--Listening and Speaking:
   a) Beginning Chinese--Lesson 22-24
   b) Intermediate Chinese--Lesson 1-6

2. Reading and Writing:
   a) Beginning Chinese Reader (Part I)--Lesson 22-30
   b) Read Chinese (Book II)--Lesson 1-8

3. Chinese Culture--Briefly discuss the history of Chinese civilization with special emphasis on political and social developments from Chou Dynasty to Ch'ing Dynasty.
METhODOLoGY

Reading is the major activity and skill to be developed this year. Class participation shows a greater integration of language skills. Composition should consist of the writing on a topic discussed orally in class. The following proportions of class time are recommended to be devoted to the four skills:

- Listening 20%
- Speaking 20%
- Reading 40%
- Writing 20%

1. Listening comprehension
   a) A wider range such as articles from newspapers and magazines should extend the learning of vocabulary, expand recognition for cultural achievement, and provide suitable topics for conversation and composition.
   b) Listening activities should include:
      1) Short oral reports made by students in simple Chinese
      2) Singing songs
      3) Pattern drills

2. Speaking
   a) Brief oral reports preferably on a cultural topic
   b) Discussions of readings previously studied
   c) Acting out short dramatic skits or dialogues
   d) Memorization of poetry and monologues
   e) Continued use of folk songs
3. Reading
   a) Daily reading assignments and a variety in type of materials used are recommended.
   b) Reading activities which will aid in developing both comprehension and speed are:
      1) Arranging scrambled words in complete sentence
      2) Selections especially written for reading practice (using only known lexical and grammatical items)
      3) Occasional short, timed, silent reading periods, followed by oral questions
      4) Some supplementary reading and the use of a small dictionary should be required
      5) Brief written or oral summaries based on the home reading assignment

4. Writing
   a) Specific directions or models should be given for composition so that the result may be authentic language rather than a translation from English.
   b) The emphasis in writing should be placed on paragraph construction rather than on sentence structure
   c) Writing activities should include:
      1) Dictation
      2) Sentence completion
      3) Combining several dialogues into a short story
      4) Summarizing a section of the reading material within a word limit
      5) Write a short composition every two weeks, preferably on topics of daily life experience
THIRD YEAR CHINESE

The Content of the Textbook

1. Beginning Chinese by John DeFrancis

   Publisher: Yale University Press, 1963

   The text is divided into 26 lessons dealing with daily life situations. Each lesson consists of the following items:

   1) Dialogue: This helps the students to use the vocabulary and its special combinations in their conversation.

   2) Vocabulary and Sentence Build-up: New vocabularies are learned not individually but in their contexts. Sentence Build-up is used as a way to reach the goal.

   3) Pronunciation Drills: This section is used to study the sounds of Chinese.

   4) Pattern Drills: This section is used to study the grammar of spoken Mandarin Chinese.

   5) Notes: This section explains the grammar and its cultural context.

2. Beginning Chinese Reader (Part I) by John DeFrancis

   Publisher: Yale University Press, 1966.

   The text is divided into 30 lessons. Each lesson is consisted of 10 new characters and many special combinations.

   This text is closely correlated with Beginning Chinese. It will be used after the students have finished lesson 12 of the conversation text. Each lesson is divided into the following parts:

   1) Vocabulary and its Special Combinations

   2) Build-ups and Illustrative Sentences

   3) Dialogues and Narratives

   4) Translation into Chinese
3. Intermediate Chinese by John DeFrancis
Publisher: Yale University Press, 1964.

The text is divided into 24 lessons dealing with daily life situations. There are about 1000 sentences for new words and grammar, 200 review sentences, and 600 questions.

Since the first and second year Chinese cover most of the basic sentence patterns, the third year Chinese will be more detailed and elaborate points which develop from these basic patterns.

4. Additional Teaching Materials:

1) Audio-Visual Materials
   a) Filmstrips: China and her neighbors series
      McGraw-Hill, set of 14, color, no guide
   b) Disc Recordings: Chinese stories
      Chinese Oversea Affairs, set of 14 (in Chinese)

2) Supplementary Reading Material
   a) Read Chinese Book II by Richard I. Chang
      Published by Far Eastern Publications, Yale University, 1965.

3) Language Notebook:
   15 minutes per day of language tape work is followed.

4) Chinese culture (in English)
   1) The Rise and Splendour of the Chinese Empire by Rene Grousset
      Published by University of California Press, 1964.
   2) A Short History of the Chinese People by L. Carrington Goodrich
      Published by The University Library, 1955. (Harper and Row)
