D. Staff Personnel

1. Are policies which affect teacher personnel and the instructional program transmitted to the staff through:
   a) regular discussions?
   b) a reference handbook?
   c) publications such as a system newspaper?
Many elementary schools are developing new practices in an attempt to improve the effectiveness of the schools. Listed below are some of those practices. A brief definition of each practice is provided. For each practice, please indicate the extent to which the practice has been given some attention within your own school, by using the alternative responses defined below. Circle your response.

1. IN USE = fully implemented as a regular feature of the program or currently being used on a trial or pilot basis
2. PLANS = definite plans have been made for implementation, including allocation of materials and/or personnel
3. UNDER STUDY = currently or recently considered in terms of feasibility by an officially designated group within the school
4. REJECTED = study has been completed and a decision not to implement the practice has been made
5. DROPPED = practice discontinued after a trial or pilot project
6. UNKNOWN: NOT CONSIDERED = practice is unknown or was never considered seriously

I. Teaching teams: two or more teachers, all of whom participate in planning and meeting the class sessions.

2. Television instruction: students view TV regularly as a basic instructional process.

3. Programmed instruction: students, independently or as groups, use programmed texts without machines.

4. Teaching machines: a mechanical device involving programmed material arranged in minute steps with immediate feedback as to correctness of response.

5. Language laboratory: any device used to present recorded voices as part of the audio-lingual approach to learning language.

6. Simulation or gaming: any device used to create a problematical situation, whether realistic or logical, involving students in strategy and decision making.

1 2 3 4 5 6
7. Non-graded programs: series of courses open to all students with interest and potential for success without regard to grade level of student and/or sequence of courses.

8. Bilingual education: some courses other than a language course in which instruction is offered in English and/or another language.

9. Continuous progress: students within course work at own pace with long term completion date through pre-designed units of study including various materials.

10. Directed study: students complete work for credit independent of group task but under supervision of a specific teacher with whom student meets at least once a week.

11. Independent study: student initiates work on a topic of interest and uses available resources, but consults with teachers only when needed.

12. Flexible scheduling: scheduled courses meet for various periods of time during different segments of the day and with student groups of significantly different size.

13. Back-to-back scheduling: students in two different subjects scheduled in sequential periods to foster cooperative teaching among teachers of different subjects.

14. Instructional materials center: extensive library collection complemented by a wide variety of audio-visual materials for direct student use.

15. Resource center: specialized center with learning materials specifically selected in terms of relevance to one or several subject areas, usually with adult staff who provide assistance.

16. School-within-school: for administrative, guidance, and/or instructional purposes, students and faculty are organized into smaller than total school units.

17. Optional attendance: selected students are permitted to decide if they will attend a given session of a particular scheduled class.
18. Community cultural center: school provides administrative and organizational leadership in the development of a program of general interest to community citizens.

19. Expanded summer school: opportunities are provided for enrichment as well as remedial work during the summer months.

20. Pre-service program: school provides special pre-service orientation for teachers new to the school to familiarize them with the school setting.

21. In-service program: local school provides workshops and conferences for teachers focusing on specific concerns of the school and its community.

22. Expanded guidance services: supplemented guidance staff to provide counseling, vocation guidance, job placement, and coordinated referral system.

23. Breakfast program: early morning food available to students at minimal or no cost.

24. School-community liaison: resident(s) of the community is employed in an advisory position to facilitate communication between parents and the school.

25. Parent handbook: school provides for parents a booklet that describes and interprets the activities, programs, and procedures specifically in terms of what is expected of parents.

26. Parent counseling: specially trained counselor responsible for initiating contacts with parents and for providing special meetings designed to increase parents' understanding and concern for the child's success.

27. Tutoring program: special academic assistance provided within the school by peers, near peers or adults other than the certified teachers.
Of the practices listed on the preceding page, which do you believe to be of most significance in terms of their potential for the effective education of students in your school? Please specify by giving the identification number to the right of the item.

28. Greatest potential
29. Second most promising

If you and your staff have developed promising new approaches which the above terms fail to describe adequately, would you briefly describe the nature and purpose of those practices so that they may be included in this study of elementary schools.

ABSTRACT

Ohio's State Department of Education requires that all elementary schools within the state begin to evaluate their programs in the 1971-72 school year. Project 4-E -- Evaluating Elementary Education Effectively was initiated in the Columbus Public Schools to fulfill this mandate. As part of the project, checklists were prepared which adhere closely to the statutory requirements listed in the 1970 revised State Minimum Standards for Ohio Elementary Schools. The checklists cover the following areas: Organization and Administration; Curriculum and Instruction; Pupil Services; Staff Personnel; Instructional Materials and Equipment; School and Community Relations; Evaluation and Research; Physical Facilities. Three types of questions were utilized, i.e., "yes" or "no" questions, short "fill-in" questions, and multiple choice questions. The checklists were piloted in May 1971, revised during the summer and are being administered in final form to all (N=128?) elementary schools in Columbus, Ohio in the fall of 1971.

The checklists were developed by James W. Altschuld* and Dale Baker of the Columbus Public Schools, based upon a questionnaire which was constructed by the National Committee on Secondary Education and used in "A Study of the Education of Youth in Large Cities." Information regarding both the checklists and Project 4-E may be obtained from Dale Baker of the Department of Evaluation, Research and Planning of the Columbus (Ohio) Public Schools.
