This questionnaire assesses drug knowledge, drug use practices, and attitudes in junior high school, senior high school, and college students. The 115 items (multiple choice, yes/no, agree/disagree, or completion) deal with personal and demographic data, general attitudes, attitudes toward institutions (police, American business, Army, etc.), "book" knowledge of drugs, "street" knowledge of drugs (drug argot and the like), attitudes toward drug use and users, and drug use practices. The instrument is untimed, group administered, and may be given by the classroom teacher. Interpretation of the general attitude items requires experience with personality measures. No technical data was available for review. See also TM 001 219. (DG)
INTRODUCTION

As you know, there has been a great deal of talk and publicity about drugs and youth. Much of what we are hearing and reading about drugs and college students is based on relatively little information. The study you have been asked to take part in is designed to get more specific information about how students feel about drugs. We are trying to find out how much young college students know about drugs and what their attitudes and experiences with them are.

Before you go ahead with the questionnaire, there are three important points to be made:

First, these questionnaires are completely anonymous. You will notice that we have not asked for your name on the test sheets. In this way, it is quite different from the usual school test. The personal information we ask for is there simply because we need to know how these things relate to what you know about drugs. We are interested in how the students here as a whole feel about drugs not in how any individual feels. When you have finished the questionnaires they will be taken to the Narcotics Center. Your questionnaires won't remain here. We are taking these precautions so that you may feel frank in the answers you put down.

Second, there are a lot of technical questions in this questionnaire. We know that you won't know the answers to all of the questions. You have probably learned what you know about drugs by reading on your own or by talking to friends. Just pick out the answer to each question that seems the most reasonable to you.

Third, your participation in this questionnaire survey is entirely voluntary. We want to get as good a cross section of students as we can, so we hope that all of you will answer to the best of your ability. We are interested in your reactions to the questionnaire, and would appreciate your writing comments in the margins or at the end.
