This course of study was written as part of a total effort to revise curriculum to fit the quinmester administrative organization of Miami schools. The major intent is to provide a broad framework of goals and objectives, content, teaching strategies, class activities, and materials all related to a prescribed course of study. The guide is divided into: (1) a broad goals section, which provides descriptive and goal-oriented information for the teacher; (2) a content outline, which illustrates, in general terms, the scope and major subdivisions of the course; (3) objectives and learning activities, which provide a total picture of the main idea and specific behavioral objectives for a set of given learning activities; and, (4) materials section, which presents guide lists resources in four categories: essential textual or other material; alternate classroom materials to use in place of or in addition to the aforementioned; supplementary teacher resources; and, supplementary student resources. INTRODUCTION

This course of study was written as a part of a total effort to revise curriculum to fit the quinmester administrative organization of schools. The materials and information in this guide are meant to be neither all-inclusive nor prescriptive; but rather, an aide to teachers as they plan instructional programs, taking into account student needs and characteristics, available resources, and other factors.

The major intent of this publication is to provide a broad framework of goals and objectives, content, teaching strategies, class activities, and materials all related to a described course of study. Teachers may then accept the model framework in total or draw ideas from it to incorporate into their lessons.

The guide is divided into 1) a broad goals section, 2) a content outline, 3) objectives and learning activities, and 4) materials. The first section provides descriptive and goal-oriented information for the teacher; "indicators of success" refers to suggested prerequisite or corequisite experiences. The content outline illustrates, in general terms, the scope and major subdivisions of the course. The objectives and learning activities section, hopefully, provides a total picture of the concept or main idea and specific behavioral objectives for a set of given learning activities. The materials section of the guide lists resources in four categories: essential textual or other material; alternate classroom materials to use in place of or in addition to the aforementioned; supplementary teacher resources; and supplementary student resources. The appendix may include other material appropriate for a specific course: e.g., pretests, readings, vocabulary, etc.

Anyone having recommendations relating to this publication is urged to write them down and send to: Social Studies Office, Room 306, Lindsey Hopkins, A-1.

| I. AFRICA IN PRE-COLONIAL DAYS | A. The student will compare the major contributions of the Ghana, Mali, and Songhay civilizations to contributions made by nations of today. | 1. Using a map of Africa, locate the areas in which were found the ancient kingdoms of Mali, Ghana, and Songhay:
   a. Discuss the terrain and topography of the areas in light of their suitability for agriculture and human habitation.
   b. Compare Africa to the United States in terms of size, shape, location and coastline. |
| | | 2. Use overlay paper to trace an outline map of Africa, labelling the ancient kingdoms, for further activities. |
| | B. The student will differentiate between the major and minor languages in West Africa and infer the complexity that could be created. | 3. Divide students into three groups to research the contributions of each kingdom. Provide the following resources for groups to use to obtain their information:
   Great Rulers of the African Past. Dobler and Brown
   The Glorious Age in Africa. Chu and Skinner
   A Guide to African History. Davidson
   The Lost Cities of Africa. Davidson
   Each group will prepare a report of its findings to present to the class. |
| | | 4. View and discuss the films:
   a. In Search of Past Part I, 27-C (1-31679)
   b. In Search of Past Part II, 26-C (1-21684) |
| | | 5. Discuss the common linguistic systems in Africa pointing out that Bantu and the Sudanic languages were the predominant languages spoken. Show how some of the minor languages are derivations of the predominant languages and identify particular tribes.
   a. Choose an expression which illustrates a Bantu sound and ask students to pronounce some Bantu words.
   b. Develop a chart or bulletin board showing the sound and syllabication systems of the Bantu and Sudanic languages.
   2. Discuss how language differences can create problems where several languages are spoken. |

Note: The teacher should refer also to the Dade County guide, Nobo History and Culture.

         a. Comparison of the food, clothing, and shelter of the slave with that of the master.
         b. Differentiation between the severity of discipline used by masters and overseers. |
LEARNING ACTIVITIES

3. Discuss the influence that the planter's treatment of slaves had on the treatment of blacks through the Twentieth century.

4. Describe and discuss the dual treatment of slaves in terms of "house-slave" and "field slave."

5. Direct students to research the rules set by plantation owners to control slaves and their families.

Follow-up discussion:
   a. How do these rules compare with rules set by employers today?
   b. Could slaves form unions? How could owners prevent group action such as boycotts, "sick-outs", etc.
   c. Why were the rules so harsh?
   d. How might the owner have justified such treatment?

6. Pass out a copy of the Declaration of Independence to the class. Discuss its meaning, especially the first two paragraphs. Then pass out to the students such statements as listed below. Have them examine the statements critically, discussing the truths or untruths of the statements and evaluate them in the light of the present.

   a. No person held to service or labor in one state under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered upon the claim of the party to whom such service or labor is due. (Constitution of the United States, Article IV, Section 2, paragraph 3.

      b. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States or any place subject to their jurisdiction. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation. (United States Constitution, Amendment 13)
c. Congress lacks the authority to prescribe punishment for individuals conspiring to deprive others of the equal protection of the laws according to the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments and Article IV, Section 2 of the Constitution. (Summary of findings of the Supreme Court in United States vs. Harris 1883)

| | C. The student will identify goals and concerns of the NAACP. | 3. Assign the optional reading of Booker T. Washington's book, Up From Slavery. Oral or written reports should be prepared on Washington's basic ideas and how they were developed.
| | | 1. Discuss DuBois' objections to Washington's philosophy of education.
   a. Compare the educational background of the two.
   b. Show differences in academic preparation as a possible reason for the different philosophies of education.
| | | 2. Explain the ongoing feud between DuBois and Washington and develop the activities of DuBois leading up to the Niagara Movement and the founding of National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.
| | | 1. Explain and discuss the reasons for Whites calling a conference to discuss the status of the Blacks during this period.
   Assign brief biographical sketches to be prepared of the founders of the NAACP.
| | | 2. Compare the activities of the NAACP today with those of the founding organization.

| | B. The student will examine the significance of the 1954 Supreme Court's decision on school desegregation. | |

1. Discuss the practice employed after Reconstruction of establishing separate and unequal schools for Blacks and Whites. Some mention needs to be made of the continuing legal efforts of the NAACP to bring this inequity to the attention of the Supreme Court and the American public.

2. Direct students in the investigation of the Supreme Court's decision on Brown vs. the Board of Education of Topeka, Kansas. Compare with Dred Scott or Plessy vs. Ferguson decisions.

3. Discuss methods and activities used to cause the 1954 decision to be deferred as a reality until as late as the present.
FOCUS

C. The student will identify the changes that have resulted from the passage of the Civil Rights Bill of 1964.

OBJECTIVE

LEARNING ACTIVITIES

4. Discuss the difference in the quality of education under the separate and unequal system of education.

5. The students might write an essay or short story depicting what they think the United States should be like as far as school desegregation is concerned.

6. Discuss Jonathan Kozol's book, Death At An Early Age, with the class.

7. Have the class compare outdated history texts with one or more recently adopted books. Encourage students to find changes and suggest reasons for those changes.

8. Have students take a critical look at their school. Encourage students to suggest ways in which they feel the school can promote better relations between racial groups.

1. Make available to the students provisions of the Civil Rights Bill of 1964. Discuss the ways in which these provisions provide for equal rights for Blacks.

2. Direct students in discussing what they can do to help insure human rights for all in an egalitarian society. This should include a discussion and review of what is being done.

3. Have students conduct a survey on open-housing in their bloc. Compare the results with attitudes reflected on this subject that would have come during the period following Reconstruction.

4. Form a committee to investigate the causes of crime and delinquency in the city. How is this connected with human rights? (Provide The Other America by Michael Harrington and the President's Crime Commission Report as resources.) Have the committee to report as a panel discussion before the class.
