The American Studies quinmester course for grades ten through twelve on the United States and Asia emphasizes how United States foreign policy evolved in Asia from the Spanish American War in 1898 which was a turning point in policy to the present and the need to understand the involvement of foreign policy and its implication for mutual development. Course goals are for the student to: 1) analyze the motives for United States involvement in Asia at the turn of the 20th century; 2) trace the development of Japan as a Pacific power and describe its effect upon the United States; 3) formulate hypotheses about the impact of World War II upon the United States in Asia; 4) discuss critically the United States policy of containment in Asia; 5) identify the variables of political, military and economic significance regarding the Indochina conflict. The content outline coordinates course goal concepts. A materials section includes listings of recommended basic textual and other materials, alternate student and class material, and teacher reference materials. Related documents are: SO 002 708 through SO 002718, SO 002 768 through SO 002 792, and SO 002 949 through SO 002 970. (Author/SJM)

INTRODUCTION

This course of study was written as a part of a total effort to revise curriculum to fit the quimmester administrative organization of schools. The materials and information in this guide are meant to be neither all-inclusive nor prescriptive; but rather, an aide to teachers as they plan instructional programs, taking into account student needs and characteristics, available resources, and other factors.

The major intent of this publication is to provide a broad framework of goals and objectives, content, teaching strategies, class activities, and materials all related to a described course of study. Teachers may then accept the model framework in total or draw ideas from it to incorporate into their lessons.

The guide is divided into 1) a broad goals section, 2) a content outline, 3) objectives and learning activities, and 4) materials. The first section provides descriptive and goal-oriented information for the teacher; "indicators of success" refers to suggested prerequisite or corequisite experiences. The content outline illustrates, in general terms, the scope and major subdivisions of the course. The objectives and learning activities section, hopefully, provides a total picture of the concept or main idea and specific behavioral objectives for a set of given learning activities. The materials section of the guide lists resources in four categories: essential textual or other material; alternate classroom materials to use in place of or in addition to the aforementioned; supplementary teacher resources; and supplementary student resources. The appendix may include other material appropriate for a specific course: e.g., pretests, readings, vocabulary, etc.

Anyone having recommendations relating to this publication is urged to write them down and send to: Social Studies Office, Room 306, Lindsey Hopkins, A-1.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: A STUDY OF THE UNITED STATES AND ASIA, FROM FIRST-CONTACT TO INVOLVEMENT TODAY. EMPHASIS IS ON UNDERSTANDING THE INVOLVEMENT OF FOREIGN POLICY AND ITS IMPLICATIONS FOR MUTUAL DEVELOPMENT.

CLUSTER: American Studies

GRADE LEVEL: 10-12

COURSE STATUS: Elective

INDICATORS OF SUCCESS: None

COURSE RATIONALE: WITH THE INVOLVEMENT OF THE UNITED STATES IN VIETNAM, OUR EMERGING RELATIONS WITH THE PEOPLES REPUBLIC OF CHINA AND THE DELICATE POLICY MANEUVERS WITH JAPAN, THE STUDY OF ASIAN RELATIONS IS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE. THE EMPHASIS OF THIS COURSE IS AN UNDERSTANDING OF HOW U. S. FOREIGN POLICY EVOLVES: THE UNDERLYING PRINCIPLE DIRECTING THIS COURSE IS RESEARCH BY STUDENTS. THE TEACHER'S FUNCTION ASIDE FROM LEADING STUDENTS TO INQUIRE INTO THE DATA SHOULD INVOLVE ENCOURAGING STUDENTS TO BE ENGAGED IN ACTIVITIES SUCH AS THE PROPOSAL OF REASONS FOR U. S. INVOLVEMENT IN ASIA. STUDENTS SHOULD BE ABLE TO GENERALIZE FROM THE DATA GIVEN, DISCUSS CRITICALLY AND ESTABLISH DEDUCTIVE PREDICTIONS REGARDING THE INVOLVEMENTS OF THE FUTURE.
COURSE GOALS:

1. THE STUDENT WILL ANALYZE THE MOTIVES FOR UNITED STATES INVOLVEMENT IN ASIA AT THE TURN OF THE TWENTIETH CENTURY.

2. THE STUDENT WILL TRACE THE DEVELOPMENT OF JAPAN AS A PACIFIC POWER AND DESCRIBE ITS EFFECT UPON THE UNITED STATES.

3. THE STUDENT WILL FORMULATE HYPOTHESES ABOUT THE IMPACT OF WORLD WAR II UPON THE UNITED STATES IN ASIA.

4. THE STUDENT WILL DISCUSS CRITICALLY THE UNITED STATES POLICY OF CONTAINMENT IN ASIA.

5. THE STUDENT WILL IDENTIFY THE VARIABLES OF POLITICAL, MILITARY AND ECONOMIC SIGNIFICANCE REGARDING THE INDOCHINA CONFLICT.
I. As a world power of the first rank, the U.S. first became involved in world affairs in Asia, not Europe.

A. Spanish-American War results:
   1. Philippine Islands
   2. Guam
   3. Samoa
   4. Hawaiian Islands

B. Contact with many European powers in China and Japan—Open Door Policy (1899) -
   1. Equal commercial opportunities for all nations in China
   2. "Monroe Doctrine of the East"
   3. Latent power vs. overt action
   4. Extraterritoriality

C. Domestic opposition:
   1. Moral
   2. Prudential

II. Recognition of Japan as the counter-weight in the Pacific balance of power:

A. Commercial advantages of Japan
B. Theodore Roosevelt's role in the Russo-Japanese War
C. Woodrow Wilson and the recognition of Japan's special interest in China (1917) - Dollar Diplomacy
D. Washington Naval Conference of 1921-22
E. Policy of collective security - 1930's:
   1. Effect on Japanese expansion
   2. Effect on China's position in Asia
   3. Polarization of the relations between the U.S. and Japan
   4. Economic sanctions against Japan (1940)

III. The Impact of World War II in Asia:

A. The U.S. became the prominent naval power of the Pacific.

B. The U.S. became the major western influence in Asia.
C. The U.S. acquired the former role of Japan:
   1. Soviet Union with interests in North Korea and Manchuria
   2. China and the Korean Conflict

IV. Communist leadership poses a new threat.

A. The U.S. defense line must be maintained:
   1. Formosa
   2. Korea
   3. Indochina
B. "Containment" of the 1950's—defense perimeter to run from the Aleutians to Japan, the Ryukyu Islands and the Philippines.

V. Military and political involvement of the 1960's and 1970's

A. Major political issues on the domestic scene:
1. "China Lobby" of great political influence
2. Committee of One Million Against the Admission of Communist China to the United Nations

B. Individual Defense Pacts:
1. Japan
2. Korea
3. Australia and New Zealand
4. Southeast Asia Treaty of 1954

C. Indo-China Conflict:
1. Political dissent and policy change
2. Military goals and accomplishments
3. Economic ramifications for Asian allies and enemies

| A. The student will describe the circumstances of the Spanish-American War which caused a turning point in U.S. foreign policy. | 1. Use the EJS, Tecnifax transparencies on Asia, $12-00115, to emphasize and clarify any particular point in the course of study.
3. Discuss the following statement: "Some people have referred to the Spanish-American War as a blot on our history; others have called it a glorious episode of which we should be very proud." What is your opinion? Agree? Disagree? Somewhere in between? Why?
4. Identify the ways in which the Spanish-American War marked a turning point in U.S. foreign policy.
5. Have students bring in periodicals to serve as a source of comparison between the impact of the events in Cuba today with the events in Cuba in 1898.
6. View the following films: The Philippines: Gateway to the Far East, 11"C.

| B.    | The student will analyze the motivations of U.S. involvement in China by establishing the Open Door Policy. | 1. Discuss in class the following: "It was once said that the U.S. promulgated the Open Door Policy because she refused to join the gang of looters but wanted a share of the loot." (For further information consult Rise of the American Nation, by Todd and Curti or The U.S. and The New Imperialism, 1898-1912, pp. 42-47.
2. The following could very well serve as titles of books on important aspects, episodes and events of American foreign policy in Asia. For two of the following titles, write a brief summary of the contents of such a book:
   a. Three Men Who Made China: Sun, Chiang and Mao
   b. Monroe Doctrine of the East
   c. Latent Power vs Overt Action
3. Napoleon once said of China, "There lies a sleeping giant. Let him sleep, for when he wakes he will move the world."
   a. How did foreign powers contribute to the awakening of this giant?
   b. Describe the effects of this awakening on the Chinese people.
   c. Discuss how the awakening has changed the world.
4. View the film: China: Old and New. 16'C. #1-13103.
| C.    | The student will investigate the way in which dissent was manifested in the early days of U.S. involvement in Asia as opposed to present day manifestations. | 1. Have students bring in articles from newspapers or news flashes from radio and TV and discuss facts vs. opinions, prejudice or bias in regard to dissent in matters of the war in Indochina.

LEARNING ACTIVITIES

D. The students will describe the effect of the Washington Naval Conference of 1921-22 on the building-up of Japan to World War II.

4. Correspondent Arthur Bullard criticized the U. S. policy during this period saying that it would result in "Japanese commercial predominance in China equivalent to the U. S. position in Central America." Discuss what implications this prediction could have had on U. S. foreign policy in Asia.

5. Listen to the record: Sun Yat-sen: The Man Who Saved China. #4-40652. Discuss this leader's role in the early development of China in dealing with the U. S.

1. After reading appropriate excerpts from their textbook (i.e., Rise of the American Nation by Dodd and Curti), have students write a comparative essay on the following points of view regarding the impact of the Washington Naval Conference:

   a. Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes hailed the Washington Conference as a great step toward "The reign of peace."
   b. Nathaniel Peffer in 1933 called the Washington Conference "amicable generalities of self-denying ordinances."

2. Students will list the major provisions of the Conference and the major nations involved.

3. Discuss the policy of the U. S. toward Japan of non-violence and nonrecognition of Japan's forcible gains in Manchuria and China in 1931.
FOCUS | OBJECTIVE | LEARNING ACTIVITIES

4. Have students define and state the importance of the following identification lists:
   a. League of Nations
   b. Cordell Hull
   c. collective security
   d. diplomacy
   e. conciliation
   f. appeasement

5. The American Ambassador to Japan, Joseph C. Grew, in 1937, said that the policy of the U.S. as witnessed in the Washington Conference "leads not to peace but potentially to war." Describe the events which substantiate this claim.

6. Obtain a copy of Franklin Roosevelt's "quarantine the aggressors" speech of 1937 and make it available to students. Discuss the following parts in class:
   a. "Positive endeavors to preserve peace."
   b. Concrete efforts to halt aggression.
   c. He hastened to add that he had meant nothing definite or substantial.

E. The students will cite evidence for the position that the collective security foreign policy of the 1930's did not stop Japanese expansion, did not help China and polarized relations between the United States and Japan.

1. From their textbook, students will make a chart of Japanese expansion from 1922 till 1940. Have students select a year on the chart and write a short report on what happened during that year.

2. Discuss the declaration of Secretary of State Cordell Hull of the principles of international law and the peaceful settlement of international disputes. What effect did this have on our relations with Japan?

1. Using the EJS Tecnifax transparency on the U. S. Becomes a World Power #2-30100, clarify any particular point in the course of study.

2. Discuss what General Douglas MacArthur meant in 1951 when he said that the U. S. had transformed its "western strategic frontier" from the West Coast and an exposed, vulnerable salient (Hawaii-Midway-Guam-Philippines) to the entire Pacific Ocean.

3. In order to clearly see all the areas of study in their proper geographic perspective, students will have to circle on a map of the Pacific all the islands or bases extending in an arc from the Aleutians to the Marianas that were under the control of the U. S.

4. Have students identify the following:
   a. strategic
   b. Aleutians
   c. Marianas
   d. General MacArthur
   e. imperialistic power
   f. transformation

B. The students will formulate hypotheses which reflect the power of the U. S. in Asia as a result of World War II.

1. In a descriptive essay have students list the elements which they think constitute world power.

2. Using their textbook as a source, have students list on a chart the countries which were involved in Asia before the war on one side of the paper and the countries which still had influence after the war on the other side of the paper. Next to each country state the nature of change in their role after the war as opposed to before the war.

After reading materials selected appropriately from the bibliographic index, the teacher assigns committees of students to discuss in small groups the factors which caused General MacArthur to call the Pacific a "friendly lake, a vast moat to protect us...a protective shield for all of the Americas and all free lands of the Pacific Ocean area."

4. Consult again the EJS Tecnifax transparency on The U. S. Becomes a World Power #2-30100 to clarify points in the course of study.

1. Using the EJS Brady transparencies on Korea, #2-30077, clarify any particular point in the course of study.

2. On a map of Asia have students outline the countries below:
   a. The Soviet Union
   b. China
   c. Manchuria
   d. North Korea
   e. South Korea
   f. Outer Mongolia

3. Discuss the statement, "The history of the Far East since 1894 has consisted of efforts first by Japan and now by Russia for control."

4. After reading in their textbooks, have students write an essay explaining the question: "Why was Korea called a dagger pointing at the heart of Japan?"

FOCUS
IV. Communist Leadership Poses a New Threat.

OBJECTIVE
A. The students will discuss critically the proposition that the U.S. defense line must be maintained in Asia.

LEARNING ACTIVITIES

1. After a discussion on the domino theory, discuss the insistence of MacArthur that "under no circumstances must Formosa fall under Communist control," or Korea, or Indochina, or any other point in Southeast Asia.

2. Students will list the characteristics of the defense line foreign policy which contended that Communist China's expansion, military or political must be checked for the sake of security in the whole Pacific area.

3. Have students select one of the following books and report on it to the class:

   a. Power and Diplomacy by D. G. Acheson
   b. China: The People's Middle Kingdom and the U.S.A. by J. K. Fairbanks
   c. American Diplomacy 1900-1950 by C. F. Kennan
   e. The American Tradition in Foreign Policy by F. Tannenbaum
   f. Containment and the Origins of the Cold War by E. C. Rozwenc and K. Lindfors
   g. The Cold War by R. W. Winks

4. Have students do research to find the role Chinese nationalism and dynamic Chinese leadership played in bringing about a new threat and a new vulnerability for the U.S. (Use The United States and China by Fairbanks).
