Students, grades 7 through 9, will examine and hopefully gain understanding of the process for effecting change within the structure of a Democratic society in this quarter course of study. Focus is upon the reasons, limits, methods, and effectiveness of American dissent bringing about social change. The responsibility of citizenship in a Democracy is stressed. Thirteen units are:

1) Reasons for Dissent in America;
2) Methods of Protest and Dissent;
3) Basic Guarantees for the Right to Dissent;
4) Conflicts in History: Cause and Effect Relationships;
5) Role of Individuals in Influencing Change;
6) Analysis of Conflict Today;
7) Radical Groups Engaged in Protest;
8) Minority Groups Engaged in Protest;
9) Anti-Dissent Groups;
10) Limits of Protest/limits of Control;
11) Problems Facing Youth;
12) Future Outlook.

Included is a bibliography of books, periodical articles, and multi-media materials recommended for student and teacher readings. Related documents are: SO 002 708 through SO 002 970.

DADE COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

DIVISION OF INSTRUCTION 1971
INTRODUCTION

This course of study was written as part of a total effort to revise curriculum to fit the quinmester administrative organization of schools. The materials and information in this guide are meant to be neither all-inclusive nor prescriptive; but rather, an aide to teachers as they plan instructional programs, taking into account student needs and characteristics, available resources, and other factors.

The major intent of this publication is to provide a broad framework of goals and objectives, content, teaching strategies, class activities, and materials all related to a described course of study. Teachers may then accept the model framework in total or draw ideas from it to incorporate into their lessons.

The guide is divided into 1) a broad goals section, 2) a content outline, 3) objectives and learning activities, and 4) materials. The first section provides descriptive and goal-oriented information for the teacher; "indicators of success" refers to suggested prerequisite or corequisite experiences. The content outline illustrates, in general terms, the scope and major subdivisions of the course. The objectives and learning activities section, hopefully, provides a total picture of the concept or main idea and specific behavioral objectives for a set of given learning activities. The materials section of the guide lists resources in four categories: essential textural or other material; alternate classroom materials to use in place of or in addition to the aforementioned; supplementary teacher resources; and supplementary student resources. The appendix may include other material appropriate for a specific course: e.g., pretests, readings, vocabulary, etc.

Anyone having recommendations relating to this publication is urged to write them down and send to: Social Studies Office, Room 306, Lindsey Hopkins, A-1.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: AN EXAMINATION OF MEANS OF EFFECTING SOCIAL CHANGE IN AMERICA. EMPHASIS IS PLACED ON CITIZEN RESPONSIBILITY IN A DEMOCRACY. INCLUDES: (1) WHY AND HOW PEOPLE DISSENT, (2) HOW VARIOUS GROUPS REACT TO DISSENT AND WHY, (3) THE LIMITS OF DISSENT IN A FREE SOCIETY, (4) MEANS TO CONTROL DISSENT, (5) THE EFFECTIVENESS OF DISSENT IN BRINGING ABOUT SOCIAL CHANGE, AND (6) THE ROLE OF YOUTH IN DISSENT AND CHANGE IN AMERICA TODAY.

CLUSTER: Political and Economic Studies
GRADE LEVEL: 7-9
COURSE STATUS: Elective
INDICATORS OF SUCCESS: None

COURSE RATIONALE: It behooves educators to help students examine the reasons for dissent in America, but it is even more important for students to examine and understand the various processes for effecting change within the structure of a democratic society. By focusing on some of the relevant conflicts facing American society the student learns about his responsibility as a citizen in a free society to work within the structure which provides the machinery for change.
COURSE GOALS: TERMINAL OBJECTIVES

1. The student will examine the various methods of protest and dissent used in the United States.
2. The student will identify the various methods of protest and dissent used in the United States.
3. The student will examine the various methods of protest and dissent used in the United States.
4. Given a set of historical events dealing with conflict (one or two to be identified as the event), the student will analyze the causes and effect relationships.
5. The student will analyze a source of conflict in the United States today.
6. The student will evaluate the methods and effectiveness of the methods used by radical and other groups to effect change.
7. The student will identify the concept that dissent is an American tradition.
8. The student will cite evidence to show that individuals in America have dramatically influenced groups to effect change.
9. The student will analyze the various methods of protest and dissent used by radical and other groups to effect change.
10. The student will critically examine the methods of the groups who work for drastic changes in our society.
11. The student will identify problems or conflicts facing young people in our society.
12. The student will hypothesize about possible future trends in our society.
13. The student will identify problems or conflicts facing young people in our society.
14. The student will describe his critical value system for drastic changes in our society.
COURSE CONTENT OUTLINE:

XIII. Student Values Regarding Conflict and Change
GOAL: THE STUDENT WILL EXAMINE THE REASONS FOR DISSENT IN AMERICA.

FOCUS

I. INTERACTION AMONG INDIVIDUALS OR GROUPS SOMETIMES RESULTS IN HOSTILE ENCOUNTERS OR STRUGGLES. DISSENT MAY MANIFEST ITSELF:

   A. POLITICALLY
   B. ECONOMICALLY
   C. SOCIALLY

OBJECTIVE

The student will examine reasons for dissent in America.

LEARNING ACTIVITIES

1. The teacher might begin with a general discussion on dissent and protest. Questions such as the following could be asked:

   a. What is your definition of a dissenter?
   b. Who are today's dissenters?
   c. What is all the protesting about?
   d. Is protest spreading?
   e. What do you personally think about people who protest?
   f. Do changes come about only by protest?

2. Have students define the following:

   - dissent
   - rebellion
   - institutions
   - folkways
   - civil disobedience
   - culture
   - radical
   - treason
   - demonstration
   - riot
   - extremist
   - interaction
   - encounter
   - evolution
   - redress of grievances
   - confrontation
   - hostility
   - civil liberties
   - unjust
   - agitator
   - establishment
   - revolution
   - non-violence
   - mores
   - reformist
   - crusader
   - polarization

3. The teacher may want to utilize the (Pre) Test - shown on page 24 of the WORLD WEEK (Scholastic Magazine) September 28, 1970. A list of questions is given which tests for personal reactions to such questions as "How do you try to get your views across? How do you react when someone opposes or ignores you? Do you think the person who makes the biggest noise gets the most attention? Do you feel you have to take a stronger position if your demands are not met?, etc.

<td>5. Visit art museums or galleries and examine the art work for examples of protest. Also analyze some of the cartoons of Jules Feiffer (Miami Herald, etc.).</td>

They send me to eat in the kitchen
When company comes,
But I laugh,
And eat well.

Tomorrow,
I'll sit at the table.
When company comes.
Nobody'll dare
Say to me,
"Eat in the kitchen,"
Then.
Besides,
They'll see how beautiful I am
And be ashamed-
I, too, am America.

7. The student will compare and contrast protest literature from colonial times to the present.

Suggested questions for discussion:

a. In which period of our history was the protest literature most appealing to the masses?
b. What kinds of words were and are being used to arouse people's sentiments?
c. Which example of protest literature appealed to you the most and why?
d. Discuss some changes that came about because of protest literature.

| IV. Changes or events are important in the context of their history or in perspective. | Given a set of historical events dealing with conflict the student will describe cause and effect relationships. | 1. Have students trace the reasons for conflict and methods of dissent in the U.S. during colonial times. This could be put in the form of charts, posters, etc.
2. Have students trace the reasons for conflict and methods of dissent before and after the Civil War.
3. Have students trace the reasons for the growth of the following:
   a. Labor unions
   b. Civil Rights movement
   c. College protest movements
   d. Women’s Lib
   e. Anti-war movements
   f. Save our Planet movements
   g. Minority power groups
   How did the above movements achieve recognition and power?
4. Form committees covering all the above areas to make judgements as to whether the method used was the most effective for that time in history. If there is disagreement as to the method used for that time in history, students should suggest actions which would have been more appropriate.
5. Have students make charts showing a few of the grievances expressed by the colonists, the groups or individuals that were active and the techniques they used to get redress of their grievances. Using this same technique, the student will list some of the grievances voiced today by protest groups and show the methods used for redress. After completion of the chart, the student can make some judgements as to the similarities and differences between the two eras. |

FOCUS | OBJECTIVE | LEARNING ACTIVITIES

2. After examining some of the examples of dissent in our history, the student will differentiate between those groups who protested within the limits of the law and those who protested in a manner that broke the law.

3. Have students construct a time line highlighting important events or people throughout our history that will substantiate the concept that dissent is an American tradition.

4. Through the medium of art, have students depict a scene or event that portrays a respected act of dissent in American history. (Boston Tea Party, Signing of the Declaration of Independence, Tom Paine's call to Revolution, etc.)

6. Have students role-play a character in history who was involved in dissent and change.

7. Have students research the following wars in U. S. history and answer the following questions:
   a. Was there dissent to the war?
   b. Who were the dissenters?
   c. What methods of dissent were employed?

   (1) American Revolution
   (2) War of 1812
   (3) Mexican War of 1846
   (4) Civil War
   (5) War with Spain
   (6) World War I
   (7) World War II
   (8) Korean War
   (9) Vietnam War

(Remind the students that the exercise of the right of protest has helped bring about many of the things Americans take for granted today – the prohibition of slavery, women’s voting rights, primary elections, the right of labor to organize – to name only a few.)
GOAL:
The student will cite evidence to show that individuals in America have dramatically influenced groups to affect change.

FOCUS
VI.
GROUPS OR INDIVIDUALS VARY IN THE AMOUNT OF INFLUENCE THEY CAN EXERT IN BRINGING ABOUT CHANGE. IT MAY DEPEND UPON THEIR STATUS IN SOCIETY.

OBJECTIVE
The student will cite evidence to show that individuals in America have dramatically influenced groups to affect change:

- a. Politically
- b. Socially
- c. Economically

LEARNING ACTIVITIES
1. The student will identify the following people and place them in their historical setting:

<table>

<tr>
<td>Tom Paine</td>
<td>John Quincy Adams</td>

2. After the above has been completed, have students describe the method of dissent employed by the individual and the effectiveness of the dissent.

3. Have students give examples of how the writings of such men as Upton Sinclair, William Lloyd Garrison, Martin Luther King, Henry Thoreau, Rachel Carson and others influenced the public to rally for change.

4. Game: 3 Clues. Student will give a description of a well-known dissenter in America and have the class identify the personality. For example: Clue #1 - He has set out to change the scheme of things with the single-mindedness and dedication of a devout populist. Clue #2 - He is more than a muckraker, a lobbyist, a lawyer, or an investigative reporter . . . . Clue #3 - He has formed a group of young people into an organization called _Raiders._ (Answer: Ralph Nader.)

5. Class discussion: Do you believe that one individual can change the course of history? Which of the individuals studied do you think had the most impact in bringing about change? Can one person change the system?

a. Students for Democratic Society (SDS)
b. Weathermen
c. National Organization Women (N.O.W.)
d. War-Resisters League (other anti-war groups)
e. Ku Klux Klan

g. Student Non-Violent Coordinating Comm. (SNICC)
h. Nader's Raiders
i. The Minutemen
j. Yippies
k. Various Nazi-Bundist groups

2. Based on his findings, the student will make a judgement regarding the validity of the protestations of the group. If grievances of the group are sound, are the methods employed for redress equally sound? If not, student should suggest alternative techniques. The teacher may want to use the following criteria to determine effectiveness of dissent:
a. Whether the harm caused exceeds the good achieved.
b. Where the laws are violated.
c. Whether all reasonable, lawful, and peaceful means had been exhausted.
d. Whether the rights of others were violated.
e. Whether the method of protest offends social customs or community standards.
f. Whether the intention was different from the act.

(Discussion can take place regarding planned action vs. unplanned action.) Source: Life, Oct. 10, 1969, Chicago Convention and Chicago 8.
3. Which groups are responsible for putting out the following literature:
   - New Left Notes
   - Village Voice
   - The Movement
   - Liberation Magazine
   - San Francisco Express
   - The Rat
   - The Guardian

   What are their aims and purposes? Are they effective?

4. The student will consider these means of protest:
   b. Disruption of public and/or private business, such as police department, school system, restaurants.
   c. Assaults on public/private property.
   d. Assaults on private citizens.
   e. Assaults on police, soldiers, or National Guardsmen.

   and discuss the following:

   Which of the above forms of protest do you think would be the most acceptable means of achieving the following goals:
   a. Bringing about changes in college curriculum and rules for students.
   b. Winning political independence from an imperial "mother country".
   c. Forcing removal of foreign occupation troops.
   d. Achieving equality and freedom in a country without democratic processes.
   e. Obtaining larger welfare payments.
   f. Stopping a war you consider immoral or unjust?
FOCUS: THE USE OF VIOLENCE AS A MEANS OF PROTEST AGAINST SOCIAL CONDITIONS WHICH ARE CONSIDERED UNREASONABLE IS NOT NEW. THE HISTORY OF RIOTS AND VIOLENCE IN THIS COUNTRY DATES BACK TO THE FOUNDING NATION.

OBJECTIVE: LEARNING ACTIVITIES

5. Trace the use of violence in the U.S. as a means of protest against social conditions considered oppressive by some groups:
   a. Boston Tea Party
   b. Whiskey Rebellion
   c. Anti-Cholic Riot 1844
   d. Pullman Strike 1894
   e. Draft Riot 1863 (NYC)
   f. Homestead Plant Strike 1892

6. Based on the student's research, the student will make a value judgement on the following:
   a. Was the violence a planned action?
   b. Who was at fault?
   c. Were other means tried first to solve the conflict?
   d. Is protest by destruction of property included in the guarantees of the First Amendment?

7. List situations today that are potentially explosive, but where there are safety valves available for settlement of the grievance. Examples might include:
   a. Labor and management conflicts — there are Federal Arbitration Boards.
   b. Racial Conflicts — There are Community Relations Boards.
   c. Any dispute where the courts or public defender or an ombudsman might be utilized.

8. Class discussion: When do you stop depending on established channels and fight for your cause outside legal channels?

9. Students will list and discuss persons or groups who have successfully brought about constructive change in a non-violent, lawful manner. Are these persons or groups respected and admired in our society?

      Mr. A. "Inconsistent with the values of American democracy."
