This quinmester course of study for grades 7 through 12 examines the nature and causes of prejudice in a psychological, sociological, and biological frame of reference. Emphasis is upon discovering the patterns of prejudice and discrimination. Activity units require the students to investigate prejudice by inquiring affectively and cognitively into the problem. Eight units are: 1) Prejudice, requiring students to define and give examples; 2) and 3) Nature and the Causes of Prejudice; 4) Effects of Prejudice Politically, Socially, and Economically; 5) Role of Society; 6) Role of Mass Media; 7) Role of Private and Government Institutions and Agencies; and, 8) Role of the Individual. An extensive bibliography of textual and audio visual materials is included. Related documents are: SO 002 708 through SO 002 718, SO 002 768 through SO 002 792, and SO 002 949 through SO 002 970. SOCIAL STUDIES

PREJUDICE IN AMERICA

by Grace C. Abrams & Fran Schmidt

for the

Division of Instruction
Dade County Public Schools
Miami, Florida

1971
INTRODUCTION

This course of study was written as a part of a total effort to revise curriculum to fit the quinmester administrative organization of schools. The materials and information in this guide are meant to be neither all-inclusive nor prescriptive; but rather, an aide to teachers as they plan instructional programs, taking into account student needs and characteristics, available resources, and other factors.

The major intent of this publication is to provide a broad framework of goals and objectives, content, teaching strategies, class activities, and materials all related to a described course of study. Teachers may then accept the model framework in total or draw ideas from it to incorporate into their lessons.

The guide is divided into 1) a broad goals section, 2) a content outline, 3) objectives and learning activities, and 4) materials. The first section provides descriptive and goal-oriented information for the teacher; "indicators of success" refers to suggested prerequisite or corequisite experiences. The content outline illustrates, in general terms, the scope and major subdivisions of the course. The objectives and learning activities section, hopefully, provides a total picture of the concept or main idea and specific behavioral objectives for a set of given learning activities. The materials section of the guide lists resources in four categories: essential textual or other material; alternate classroom materials to use in place of or in addition to the aforementioned; supplementary teacher resources; and supplementary student resources. The appendix may include other material appropriate for a specific course; e.g., pretests, readings, vocabulary, etc.

Anyone having recommendations relating to this publication is urged to write them down and send to: Social Studies Office, Room 3C6, Lindsey Hopkins, A-1.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: AN INTRODUCTION TO PREJUDICE AND DISCRIMINATION IN AMERICA, PAST AND PRESENT. INCLUDES TYPES OF PREJUDICE, CAUSES FOR PREJUDICE, THE COSTS OF PREJUDICE, WHERE PREJUDICE OCCURS. FOCUSES ON BEHAVIOR PATTERNS THAT LEAD TO PREJUDICE AND WAYS THESE PATTERNS MAY BE CHANGED, USING EXAMPLES FROM HISTORY, FROM CURRENT EVENTS, AND FROM WITHIN THE PUPILS' IMMEDIATE SURROUNDINGS.

CLUSTER: BEHAVIORAL STUDIES

GRADE LEVEL: 7-12

COURSE STATUS: ELECTIVE

INDICATORS OF SUCCESS: NONE

COURSE RATIONALE: THE PROBLEM OF PREJUDICE IS ONE THAT PEACHES INTO THE MINDS AND HEARTS OF ALL AMERICANS. THE HARMFUL EFFECTS OF PREJUDICE HAS RESULTED IN RACISM, OTHER FORMS OF DISCRIMINATION, DEPRIVATION OF CIVIL RIGHTS AND HARM TO PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT AND CIVIC AND SOCIAL EFFECTIVENESS.

IT BEOOYES EDUCATORS NOT ONLY TO TEACH STUDENTS THE NATURE AND CAUSES OF PREJUDICE BUT THERE IS AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY THAT THE STUDENT UNDERSTAND THAT DISCRIMINATION FOSTERS CONDITIONS IN THE CULTURE THAT WILL PREVENT HUMAN BEINGS FROM ACHIEVING FULL DEVELOPMENT AND FULL HUMAN DIGNITY. ANY LEGACY OF HATE IN THE CULTURE MAY BE DISPPELED THROUGH EDUCATION.

IF OUR DEMOCRACY IS TO SURVIVE AND REMAIN RESPECTED BY ITS CITIZENRY, THEN THE PROBLEMS OF PREJUDICE SHOULD BE SOLVED. IT IS ESSENTIAL THAT STUDENTS UNDERSTAND OUR PLURALISTIC SOCIETY AND ACCEPT AND RESPECT HUMAN DIFFERENCES. PERHAPS THEN HE WILL WORK ACTIVELY TOWARD THE ELIMINATION OF HARMFUL PREJUDICES IN HIMSELF AND OTHERS.
COURSE GOALS:

1. THE STUDENT WILL FORMULATE A DEFINITION AND GIVE EXAMPLES OF PREJUDICE HE HAS EXPERIENCED AND OBSERVED IN OTHERS.
2. THE STUDENT WILL EXAMINE THE NATURE AND CAUSES OF PREJUDICE IN A PSYCHOLOGICAL AND SOCIOLOGICAL FRAME OF REFERENCE.
3. THE STUDENT WILL EXAMINE THE NATURE AND CAUSES OF PREJUDICE IN A BIOLOGICAL FRAME OF REFERENCE.
4. THE STUDENT WILL ANALYZE THE EFFECTS OF PREJUDICE POLITICALLY, SOCIALLY, AND ECONOMICALLY IN OUR SOCIETY.
5. THE STUDENT WILL INVESTIGATE THE IMPACT THAT A "TROUBLED" SOCIETY HAS ON INTER GROUP RELATIONS AND ON THE ATTITUDES OF ITS CITIZENS.
6. THE STUDENT WILL EXAMINE THE ROLE OF THE MASS MEDIA IN SHAPING ATTITUDES OF THE MEMBERS IN OUR SOCIETY.
7. THE STUDENT WILL INVESTIGATE THE ROLE OF INSTITUTIONS AND AGENCIES IN OUR SOCIETY THAT ARE TRYING TO SOLVE THE PROBLEMS OF PREJUDICE AND DISCRIMINATION.
8. THE STUDENT WILL SUGGEST ACTIONS THAT AN INDIVIDUAL CAN PARTICIPATE IN TO NEGATE OR SOLVE SOME OF THE PROBLEMS OF PREJUDICE AND DISCRIMINATION.
COURSE OUTLINE:

I. Prejudice
   A. Personal
   B. Observed in others

II. Nature and Causes of Prejudice
   A. Psychological
   B. Sociological

III. Nature and Causes of Prejudice
   A. Biological

IV. Effects of Prejudice
   A. Politically
   B. Socially
   C. Economically

V. Role of Society
   A. Inter-group relations
   B. Attitudes of citizens

VI. Role of Mass Media
   A. Shaping attitudes

VII. Role of Institutions and Agencies
   A. Private
   B. Government

VIII. Role of the Individual
   A. Education
   B. Action
GOAL 1: THE STUDENT WILL FORMULATE A DEFINITION AND GIVE EXAMPLES OF "PREJUDICE" HE HAS EXPERIENCED AND OBSERVED OTHERS.

| What is prejudice? | A. The student will define "Prejudice" and give examples of "prejudice" he has observed in others. | 1. The teacher might begin by reading a statement: "Prejudice has been defined as an attitude, usually emotional; acquired in advance of sufficient evidence and relevant experiences. Prejudice is unreasoned and oftentimes unreasonable. It can be self-destructive." This can be followed by a general class discussion: "What does the word 'Prejudice' mean to you? Is it a feeling? Is it an action? Have you ever suffered from the effects of prejudice? Is prejudice innate or learned behavior? Are some prejudices harmless?"

2. Have the students define the following:

General discussion of results of students evaluation of self.

1. The student will write an essay: "My prejudices and how I got them." Before the essay is written, the student will be asked to keep a record of what is said by parents, siblings, friends, and others that he comes in contact with, that he might consider contributed to his biased feelings and opinions.

2. The student will cite or write of personal incidents of "wrongdoings" by persons or groups directed towards them which might explain some of the personal prejudices they have. (some of the written responses could be unsigned if so desired.)

The causes of prejudice are many and often complex in nature.

C. The student will examine the causes (superficial and underlying) of prejudice.

1. The teacher will list some of the causes of prejudice on the board (or on a ditto). She will ask the students to illustrate some of the causes either by cartoons, illustrations of short skits. The following list may be used:
   a. dislike of people who are different as to race, religion, creed, socio-economic class, nationality, age, sex or political beliefs.
   b. Guilt feelings over relationship with parents, or feelings of inferiority.
   c. Fear feelings from insecurity or feelings of inadequacy. A sense of continual failure.
   d. Ignorance of facts about others, or the pluralism of the society. Not understanding nature of our culture.
   e. Rumors which distort and exaggerate.
   f. Frustration coming from lack of success or unjust punishment.
   g. Opinions and thinking that is condoned by family which include name-calling, scapegoating, exclusion, etc.
   h. Domination by authoritarian figure which suppressed individuality.
   i. A deeply harmful or traumatic experience which left deep scars.

Class discussion on the list of causes of rap sessions with focus on the causes that might have affected the student personally.

The teacher might utilize the following materials for classroom use and research. Develop activities around their use:

a. Prejudice: The Invisible Wall (Scholastic Book Services) This is an anthology containing logbook, posters, records, etc.

b. Prejudice and Discrimination by Fred R. Holmes (Inquiry into Crucial American Problems) This soft-covered book contains factual information plus incidents and stories of prejudice and discrimination that are interesting and challenging to the student.
Prejudice is not innate but is acquired through social experiences.

Prejudice lends itself to self-delusion.

Prejudiced feelings (attitudes) tend to affect the way one perceives a situation.

FOCUS

OBJECTIVE

2. The student will either accept or reject the following hypothesis: "Prejudice is never found in children who have not been exposed to it. Prejudice like any social attitude is learned." Students may utilize the school library materials to research the above, and try to reach a conclusion. The student will then construct a chart with the following headings depicting the forms and types of prejudice: Individual, Social Class, Race, Nationality, Religion, Politics, Intelligence. (Any others teacher or students decide on.)

3. Either as individuals or groups, the student will design a public attitude poll or survey which will attempt to determine the attitudes and feelings of their neighbors and friends. The questions used might cover: hippies, rock festivals, drug culture, Blacks, Chicanos, Puerto Ricans, Cubans, atheists, Jews, Catholics, teachers, pornography, Communists, the Establishment, people who are obese, have pimples, etc. Based on the information in their surveys, the student should try to determine if those interviewed knew the difference between fact, opinion, rumor and generalizations as applied to their thinking about other people.

4. Students may want to dramatize portions of well-known dramas or musicals such as West Side Story, Raisin in the Sun, Black Like Me and South Pacific. (Students can sing and discuss the words to "You have to be Taught to Hate" from South Pacific.)

5. Using an overhead projector, the teacher will show the attached master (made into a transparency). Ask the student to study the picture carefully, noting all details. Turn off projector, ask students to describe the scene fully in writing. They do not sign name. Select papers at random, have them read aloud. Turn on projector again. Compare written with real picture. Ask these questions: Did your description cover factual things in the picture? Did you show bias or prejudice in your description? Why?
To the teacher: This transparency master is designed to accompany this week's "American Issues" story. See "Junior Workshop" for suggestions on using the master.
6. Questions for general discussion:
   a. Why do some people hate and show their prejudice and discriminate against others while some people do not?
b. What role does the family play in developing your patterns of thinking, feeling and acting towards other people?
c. Were all your beliefs and attitudes solely shaped by your family? Who else or what else helped develop your attitude and social patterns of living?
d. In what areas of your society do you find discrimination today?

7. Explain Conscious, unconscious, hidden and overt. Give examples of each.

Note: It is recommended the teacher obtain a class set of Fear and Prejudice by Selma Hirsh, Public Affairs Pamphlet #245.

| Prejudice lends itself to self-delusion. | A. The student will examine the nature and causes of prejudice in a psychological frame of reference. | 1. The student will be asked to be introspective. He will consider the following questions and jot down his answers to be used for class discussion purposes or in the form of rap sessions if desired: (could be put on a ditto)
   a. Do you need to feel superior to someone else?
   b. Isn't every human being a little prejudiced?
   c. How are prejudices learned?
   d. Is prejudice a form of conformity?
   e. What accounts for the need to hate? Hate of self—than others? Must you hate yourself first before you can hate others?
   f. Is prejudice a crutch for poor emotional health?
   g. Do you feel "lucky" that you are not a member of a discriminated minority group?
   h. Does hate serve as a stabilizer for those who are prejudiced?
   i. Are prejudiced people happy people?
   j. Can our courts by their decisions regulate behavior?
2. Have students define the following:
   Psychological sociological emotional health
   inter-group relations
   stabilizer
   scapegoat
3. The teacher can make up a ditto sheet of situations which will necessitate decisions on the part of students which might be indicative of prejudice:
   a. You are having a party in your home. You are allowed to invite up to 16 guests. List the people you would invite. Now analyze your list, as to the different races, religions, ethnic or socio-economic status. Were your choices based on any personal unreasonable prejudices? If so, what were they?
   b. The teacher may want to use different situations based on the following:
      1. Situation where a new neighbor has moved in of a different race. |

| How do stereotypes develop? | B. Given a list of common stereotypes the student will make judgements as to (a) why stereotypes develop, (b) prejudice develops. | 2. Situation where you had to choose a committee to help on a very special class project.
3. Situation where two students were fighting. Would you take sides and why?
4. The student should write an essay? "Theoretically a Friend Should Be..." The student will make an assessment as to the theory of friendship and the reality. Do your friends meet the qualifications described in your essay? Just how do you pick your friends?
1. Put a list of personal characteristics or occupations on the board. Ask students to write down the national or racial group with which he identifies each characteristic or occupation. For example, when the student sees the word "laundry" does he put down the word "Chinese"? If he sees the word "money" does he put down "Jew"? If he sees the word "revolutionary" does he put down the word "Communist"? List could include the following:
- crime stupid criminal
- athlete lawyer inferior
- superior drunken intelligent
- happy-go-lucky lazy dirty
- militant
2. Put a list of minorities on the board and have students write down adjectives to describe the different groups. Ask "What stereotypes come through." Try to elicit from the students evidence for rebuttal of the stereotypes.
   Question: Is stereotyping of minorities ever done to rationalize unfair treatment of a dominant majority? If so, why?
4. General discussion on the effect of prejudice and stereotyping.

Does "success" (money, position, acceptance, etc.) aspired to in American culture have anything to do with a person being less discriminated against? c. As the discriminated group loses their unique identity and becomes part of the mainstream, do prejudicial feelings against the group decline or even disappear? d. Many groups such as the Chicano, Blacks, Puerto Ricans, Cubans and Indians are striving for power and acceptance based on their unique identity. Why do groups such as these insist on maintaining their language and culture? Are they being prejudicial (unfair) towards others in the culture? e. <td>A. The students will cite evidence that harm has been done to individuals because of prejudice.</td>

Discrimination has many ugly effects: racism being perhaps its most virulent.

The problem of prejudice has reached into the hearts and minds of all Americans.

The teacher should emphasize: Prejudice is a feeling and discrimination is an action. Prejudice and discrimination represent learned behavior.

2. The teacher will draw on the blackboard the following chart showing areas of prejudice throughout our history:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>RELIGION</th>
<th>EDUCATION</th>

Prejudice brings fear, suspicion, revulsion, hatred. This leads to discrimination, social upheaval and denial of human rights and dignity.

* Note: There is an interesting case pending: Acries vs. Purdy (Miami Div.) Suit challenges bail bond system in Metro Jail which "punishes poor and indigent prisoners." Local American Civil Liberties Union will give students more information on this case and others that seem to be concerned about the discrimination practiced against poor prisoners and those accused of crimes that cannot afford the legal system.

From their research up to date, the students will organize the discriminatory episodes/situations they have discovered throughout history in the U.S. under the correct category.

Discuss: What change did you find has taken place in some of these problems? For example: Do religious institutions perpetuate feelings of prejudice? Did they ever overtly/covertly promote prejudice? How did the changes you have discovered come about?

1. Based on individual or collective research, the students should determine which groups in American history were most discriminated against and perhaps are still discriminated against. Once the determination has been made, the student should:
   a. compare and contrast the standard of living of the discriminated groups with those in the mainstream.
   b. any other comparisons.

2. Throughout our history groups motivated by prejudice and hate have engaged in actions that were questionable. The student may name some of these groups and document consequences. E.g. Who were/are the groups responsible for:
   a. the ill treatment of the Mormons
   b. the lynchings of the Blacks
   c. the Salem witch trials?

3. The students will research the effects of discrimination on certain groups in relation to the following events in American history:

Discussion: Do the effects of discrimination follow a consistent pattern?

1. The student will gather evidence from the mass media (films, newspapers, magazines, filmstrips, radio, T.V.) citing the economic, political, and social problems facing a particular group who is discriminated against currently in the U.S.

Problems should cover the following:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Economic</th>
<th>Political</th>
<th>Social</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>job opportunities, education, housing, job training, poverty.</td>
<td>right of franchise, equal representation, (one man-one vote) policy making, leadership positions.</td>
<td>mobility, integration, recognition in any field of endeavor, acceptance, not being able to live in certain neighborhoods.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The student will report his findings to the class using visual aids (posters, transparencies, graphs, charts, maps, film or filmstrips, etc.).

2. The student should determine through research if there is a basis that economic instability is a cause of discrimination, segregation, and scapegoating.

Question for discussion: Is there any validity to the statement that certain groups in our society are the "last hired, first fired?" Show film - Last Hired, First Fired - New York Times/Arno Press.
FOCUS
Prejudice has led to and fed on war, oppression, and fear.

The cost of prejudice is high - not only in terms of dollars - but in terms of human dignity and social stabiility.

E. The student will identify the tensions in the society which contribute to discrimination.

F. The student will research and analyze the social effects of prejudice.

LEARNING ACTIVITIES
1. Types of tension and discrimination are listed below. The student will try to document specific cases of prejudice and discrimination in one or more of the following areas:
   a. Economic and housing patterns (1) job discrimination, (2) discrimination in housing,(3) poverty, etc.)
   b. Legal discrimination and tension
      (1) law and the American Indian
      (2) relocation of Japanese Americans
      (3) deprivation of civil rights
   c. Political
      (1) American Negro and his government
      (2) Political role of Mexican-Americans
      (3) Representation in government of minority groups
   d. Social
      (1) harm to personal development
      (2) racism
      (3) token desegregation
      (4) economical and socially deprived child
      (5) violence
   e. Religious
      (1) formation of hate groups
   f. Foreign Policy
      (1) War in Vietnam

2. The student will research and analyze the social effects of prejudice (family instability, mental illness, self-hate, crime and delinquency, self-doubt) on the person discriminated by. Which of these are measurable? In terms of what cost to society?

3. Have volunteer students read passages from Black Like Me by John Griffin. What is the message of the book? What was a white man trying to say about racism in the South?

4. Noting that prejudice becomes a social problem when feelings turn to behavior, which is:

3. (continued)
   a. a threat to social order
   b. a waste of human resources
   c. a threat to democratic life
   d. takes away civil rights

4. Have students cite evidence to substantiate the following statement: "Unfair treatment of certain groups who are discriminated against in our society is a serious national problem because it is unjust and injurious not only to the group doing the discrimination but to the country as a whole."

5. Students should cite possible consequences which could result because of discriminatory practices (economic, political, and social) against a group such as:
   a. riots in the city and ghettos
   b. few opportunities
   c. poverty
   d. hatred
   e. prejudicial laws (Jim Crow, etc.)
   f. divisive society

6. Class discussion:

   It is said that the learning process that produces prejudice and discrimination is a circular one. Attitudes are passed from society to the individual and then back from the individual to society.
   a. Do you agree?
   b. Give examples of this process.
   (Society=individual=society)

Note: Teacher might want to refer to Quin: Minorities in American Society. Teacher should have a copy for own use of Prejudice U.S.A. edited by Charles Y. Glock and Ellen Siegelman by Frederick A. Praeger, Publisher, in cooperation with the Anti-Defamation League of B'r'ai Brith.
GOAL 3: THE STUDENT WILL INVESTIGATE THE IMPACT THAT A "TROUBLED" SOCIETY HAS ON INTERGROUP RELATIONS AND ON THE ATTITUDES OF ITS CITIZENS.

2. Each society through its history has developed a set of aims and values. Defining the "troubled society" as the divisiveness and differences in priorities and goals within a culture, the student will identify areas of conflict in our society that have led to prejudice and discrimination (or caused by prejudice and discrimination?). For example:
   a. conflict of separation of church and state (in areas of education, taxation, etc.)
   b. role of land ownership in early America (pre-requisite for franchise and participation in government)
   c. status of women
   d. slavery as an institution
   e. U.S. expansionism and foreign policy
   f. role of U.S. government and laws which reinforced prejudicial attitudes and actions on the part of its citizens (separate but equal doctrine, poll tax, literacy tests, separation by color in the military service and public places, Indian reservations, immigration laws which exclude some, Jim Crow laws)
   g. Civil Rights laws which attempt to right wrongs (backlash in busing areas, etc.)
   h. The high priorities set by the Military - their demand for more and more revenue from the total economy.
   i. Justice in America. Is there justice for the poor (our bond systems, our defense system, our jails and whole penal system?)
   j. Our economic system which stresses competitiveness and the profit motive

Today, there are more and more Americans who have changed their attitudes about the military. Why?)</td>

Note to teacher: For further clarification - Prejudice and Society, by Earl Raab.

1. Read the following: "The learning of prejudice is a natural result of actual participation in patterns of prejudiced behavior; or of first-hand observation of the patterns of prejudiced behavior in the community; but it may also result from vicarious participation, or second hand observation of the patterns of prejudiced behavior. A society provides many 'cues' for social behavior." (From Prejudice and Society)

2. Ask the students to identify some "cues" that society provides that result in discrimination and prejudice. For example: "white and colored signs" classified ads which specify religion or race "restricted" housing areas

   Does our society still provide "cues" for prejudicial attitudes and behavior?

3. The students will take a local survey of employers particularly in the tourist industry. They will attempt to determine hiring practices and reach a judgement as to whether there is any discrimination against Blacks, Puerto Ricans, Jews, Catholics, or Cuban refugees.

|       |           | d. Are these conditions the result of prejudice and discrimination?
|       |           | 5. The students may want to research other nations and their culture in order to determine if American society has more problems resulting from prejudice and racism than other cultures?
|       |           | 6. The students may want to investigate the role of the Public Defender in our community? Who are the people that use the services of the Public Defender? Are the poor discriminated against in the realization of justice?
|       |           | 7. The class can be divided into groups. Each group will research areas of conflict in our society today and try to determine how these conflicts cause or add to the prejudices of people, resulting in discriminating practices. Example: Negative portrayal of Hippies - their wishes for communal living and some with drug culture. |

   e. Do you consider T.V. a Riot Box?

8. The students will bring to class newspaper or magazine articles that use inflammatory or highly subjective reporting that might lead to pre-judgement of any particular person or group. Example:
   - The report of a crime which specifies the criminal's race or nationality.
   - The use of "Red" or "Commies" when reporting on a country or the war.

9. Have the student collect items from newspapers or magazines in which the person or group involved felt his/her rights were being violated or in which the student felt someone's rights were being violated.

10. Have students purchase the current issue of Mad Magazine and show examples of how humor and satire can debunk some commonly accepted attitudes and values.

11. Have students refer to some current popular novels and show how literature can debunk or reinforce some commonly accepted prejudices.

12. Read a copy of a newspaper or magazine of a minority group (Ebony) and analyze the attitudes portrayed toward the majority groups in the society.

1. Essay or panel discussion: What should be the role of the mass media in a democracy in:
   - shaping opinions
   - changing opinions
