The purpose of the survey was to compile a descriptive catalog detailing the strengths of Louisiana's library resources. The catalog should be a useful tool at all levels for interlibrary loan, patron referral, collection development, and for the identification of outstanding reference and bibliographical materials in academic, public, special libraries and in media centers serving schools at the administrative system level. The survey includes materials from all academic, public, special and administrative system-level media centers in Louisiana and analyzes library strengths identified by the participating libraries. The study is devoted primarily to printed materials. It does include descriptions of outstanding film and archival collections, but analyzes these materials only as far as the participating libraries have reported and described their collections. This report is a compilation of responses to the three questionnaires used in the survey. The libraries, state agencies and media centers to which survey questionnaires were sent are listed in alphabetical order.

ALPHABETICAL LISTING OF LIBRARIES, STATE AGENCIES WITH LIBRARY-RELATED FUNCTIONS, AND MEDIA CENTERS

PREFACE

In its composite report dated March, 1969, the Study Committee on Library Development, Louisiana Library Association, Vivian Cazayoux, Louisiana State Library, chairman, stated that a better knowledge of the resources of Louisiana libraries was high on the list of priorities recommended for attention. To quote: "... before planning for the development of new resources or the better use of existing ones, a clear idea of present areas of strength and specialization is necessary... Sallie Farrell, State Librarian, reported that funds to conduct a survey of resources are available under Title III of the Library Services and Construction Act, and the chairman was authorized to appoint a committee to develop a proposal for such a survey. The broad directive from the Study Committee is that the survey should identify and describe types of collections rather than individual titles."

John B. Richard, Louisiana State University at Alexandria, was named chairman of the committee to plan the survey and to develop guidelines therefor. Other members of the committee were: Debora R. Abramson, Louisiana State Library; Mrs. Sue Von Bodungen, Louisiana State University Library; Mrs. Eleanor Joseph, East Baton Rouge Parish Library; Mrs. Margaret T. Lane, recorder of documents, office of the Secretary of State; Mrs. Gladys S. Ward, Processing Center, East Baton Rouge Parish Schools. Advisors to the committee were Sallie Farrell and Mrs. Florrinell Morton, Louisiana State University Library School.

According to the guidelines which were developed: "The purpose of the survey is to compile a descriptive catalog detailing the strengths of Louisiana's library resources. It should be a useful tool at all levels for interlibrary loan, patron referral, collection development, and for the identification of outstanding reference and bibliographical materials in academic, public, special libraries and in media centers serving schools at the administrative system level. The survey will include materials from all academic, public, special, and administrative system-level media centers in Louisiana and will analyze library strengths identified by the participating libraries. It will not be within the purview of the survey team to judge the validity of the materials received, but to analyze and describe the entries in order to make the information available and accessible to other libraries. The study will be devoted primarily to printed materials. It will include descriptions of outstanding film and archival collections, but will attempt to analyze these materials only as far as the participating libraries have reported and described their collections..."
Three questionnaires were prepared to be used to elicit the information felt to be basic to the survey. The first was to provide the essentials of a profile of the responding library; the second was to provide more detailed information about certain kinds of resources; the third was to encourage a more detailed and specific reporting of subject strengths and emphases.

This report is a compilation of responses to the questionnaires. As is usually the case with reporting the findings of such a survey, it has not been feasible to include all. For instance, the holdings in significant bibliographic items and the specifics in significant newspaper holdings must be reported by another means; mimeographed lists will be made available. At the outset, it was hoped that the resources of church and temple libraries (special libraries) might be included. Many librarians helped to identify those which might be approached, but after an experimental survey in one of the areas of the State it was decided that the general nature of the resources of this type of library might be recognized but that it was not feasible to develop individual profiles.

The Humphry report recommends that libraries within the State be organized to function as members of systems or regions, and this idea has proved to be worthy of favorable consideration.¹ The public and academic libraries in the Northeast Region have already settled into this pattern and those in several other regions are proceeding with intensive self-studies which very likely will lead to regional organization. Whether or not this type of organization evolves for each of the proposed seven areas, the prevalence of the concept seems to dictate that the report of survey findings should take the regional areas into account and this has been done.

The consequent emphasis upon regional relationship and the concern that the special emphases and strengths of the smaller, as well as the larger, libraries be shown provide this survey report with its own characteristic. It may seem incongruous that an emphasis reported by a smaller library is to be found in a listing which includes also an impressive strength reported by one of the great libraries of the State. Such an apparent incongruity would not be found in the report of a survey which is concerned only with holdings of statewide significance. With the focus upon the region, the picture changes. Within the smaller area, emphases and comparatively lesser strengths are notable; in many instances, a lesser strength may be adequate to meet the needs of the average inquirer.

¹ Library Service in Louisiana ... A report prepared for the Louisiana Library Association by John A. Humphry and James Humphry, III (New York, 1968) p. 67
The surveyor has at least two concerns; that the report of survey findings may be thought to be unfair to certain libraries, particularly the larger libraries, and that in the nature of the work error is almost inevitable. In recognition of both the report has been given a format which bespeaks its nature— that of a publication which, immediately upon its appearance, is in need of revision—a Preliminary Checking Edition. The last sheet in each copy, entitled "Request for Revision", carries a form which may be completed by the user, detached, and returned to the address given. Revision requests will be compiled and a copy of the compilation sent to each library, agency, and media center to which original questionnaires were sent. Revision can then be noted on the blank pages which have been provided in the present edition—one facing each printed page. These additions and corrections will be incorporated later in a revised edition.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Staff members, advisory to the director but not to be charged with the survey’s inadequacies and faults, are: Katherine Bridges, Russell Library, Northwestern State University; Mrs. Connie G. Griffith, Special Collections Division, Howard-Tilton Memorial Library, Tulane University; Clara Haupt, Terrebonne Parish Library; J. Norman Heard, University Libraries, University of Southwestern Louisiana; Dr. Mary W. Hymon, A. C. Lewis Memorial Library, Grambling College; Thomas S. Shaw, The Library School, Louisiana State University.

Sallie Farrell, representing Louisiana State Library, has not only sponsored the survey by securing funds for its undertaking but also consistently offered encouragement in many forms. She has made members of her staff available for helpful consultation; the contribution which Murrell Wellman, associate state librarian, has made in this regard is especially to be noted. Mrs. Margaret T. Lane, recorder of documents with the office of the Secretary of State and member of the committee which planned the survey, has given special help at many points in the development of the survey.

Finally, there must be acknowledgment of the most important contribution of all—that made by the participating librarian. Without response to request for information there would be no findings to report. As far as the surveyor was aware, questionnaires were completed with patience and in good temper and this in a time when the proliferation of questionnaires and forms to be completed would have made another mood quite understandable.

COMMENT ON CERTAIN FEATURES OF THE REPORT AND SUGGESTIONS FOR USE

Regional or other categorical relationship

Throughout this report, regional or categorical relationship of library or agency is indicated by the following symbols:

- sa : Libraries and library-related services which are maintained by state institutions and which have a statewide responsibility
- cap : Capitol region (the Baton Rouge area)
- c : Central region (the Alexandria area)
- ne : Northeast region (the Monroe area)
- nw : Northwest region (the Shreveport area)
- sc : South Central region (the Lafayette area)
- se : Southeast region (the New Orleans area)
- sw : Southwest region (the Lake Charles area)

In some instances another set of symbols has significance:

- P : Public library
- A : Academic library
- S : Special library
- M : Media center

Library or agency identification

Throughout this report, a library to which reference is made in an entry generally is identified by a shortened or abbreviated form of the name, and generally the user who is familiar with libraries in Louisiana will have no difficulty in associating the abbreviation with the full name since in many instances the shortened form consists of the initial word in the official name. If the association should prove to be difficult, consult the alphabetical listing, beginning on page 147, of all libraries, agencies, and media centers to which survey questionnaires were sent. Official names are given and in the same alphabetical listing shortened and abbreviated name forms are found, with "see" references to the full names. Regional relationship and type of library or other category are indicated.

Quoted comment

When not attributed to another source, comment indicated as quoted is an excerpt from a response to a questionnaire and is to be attributed to the individual completing the questionnaire.

Terms encountered only in profiles descriptive of media centers

Certain terms encountered only in relation to media centers may require explanation:

- ESEA: Elementary and Secondary Education Act (1965)
Title I school: A school which qualifies under Title I, ESEA, as one serving low-income families predominantly

Title II school: A school which qualifies under Title II, ESEA, as one in compliance with the Civil Rights Act (1964)

Target school: A Title I school in which Title I services are rendered to the educationally deprived.

The subject strength and special collections entry

It is the rare subject-area entry in which all of the large libraries might not have been noted as having strength significant for patron referral or for interlibrary loan. The omission of one or more of the larger libraries from the entry is to be expected, these libraries did not report strength in all areas in which they well might have and the surveyor did not assign a strength which had not been claimed. Any serious omission can be corrected by use of the “Request for Revision” form provided for this purpose.

Lending and use practices

Practices followed by the majority of libraries are:

Interlibrary lending is general.

Individuals not normally served may consult resources on the premises, and, with many libraries, may borrow, sometimes with certain stipulations.

Documents are administered under the conditions stipulated upon acquisition.

Archives, manuscripts, and related special items are, in general, to be used on the premises only.

Special collections are, in general, to be used on the premises.

Copying facilities are widely provided and the willingness of libraries to provide copies may affect favorably the prospective borrower’s chances to obtain.

Instances of variation from these practices are noted in the listing beginning on page 147.

Lending and use policies and practices of media centers may be determined upon inquiry. In general, materials and services funded under Title I, ESEA, are for use in Title I programs and activities, only.

Request for revision

The user is invited to use the form carried on page 160 to report his request for deletion, addition, and revision, and his suggestion of subject areas which he would have expected to find represented in the findings of the survey but did not. Detach page 160, complete the form and return it to the address given.

DELETION. Because a strength may not have developed as anticipated or for other reason, a library may wish to request deletion of representation in an entry.
ADDITION. When the whole report of findings is examined, a library may wish to claim a strength or subject emphasis in its collection which had originally been overlooked, and a library not represented in the present report may wish to be represented in its revision.

REVISION. There should be no great concern that the volume count or other count used in developing a library's profile is now far short; in this respect all counts call for revision and it is to be understood that statistics are not current by at least a year and a half. But in some instances, the surveyor may have misinterpreted some questionnaire response or may have made an error in copying from the original. In such cases it is important that a correction be made.

SUBJECT AREAS the user would have liked to find included as strengths or emphases in Louisiana library resources, but did not. If the strengths and emphases listing (page 44 and following) fails the user when he consults it for the location of resources in a certain subject field or in certain fields, the subject or subjects should be noted in the space provided. To illustrate, one who examined the list before publication expressed disappointment at not finding the location of material on folk medicine and commercial art. It is likely that this kind of disappointment will not be uncommon. When a reasonable number of reports of this nature have been received, an attempt will be made to locate corresponding resources and the findings reported back to participating libraries.

The use of color to facilitate convenient use.

The use of various colors of paper to distinguish one section of the report from another should help the user to locate easily the section to which he wishes to turn.

STATE AGENCIES

In the Humphry report the authors call attention to "the library information services of all departments of state government." ¹ This establishes a category which this survey recognizes. In their nature libraries and services maintained by state agencies have their commission to serve state-wide and therefore it seems inappropriate to identify them with any of the regions which are contemplated for Louisiana. In the following notations in regard to these libraries and services, portions quoted are from the Humphry report unless they may be attributed to another source.

LOUISIANA STATE LIBRARY (LSL)

Arrangement: Within each type of document, entry is first by state agency and then by region (the regions in alphabetical order). Within the region, public, academic, and special libraries are listed — in that order. Within no region is the listing lengthy enough to prevent location of any library at a glance. Shortened or abbreviated forms of official names are used. For help in identification, refer to the inclusive alphabetical listing beginning on page 147.

Definitions:

A DEPOSITORY LIBRARY is one in which certain government publications are deposited for the use of the public.

A COMPLETE, or FULL, DEPOSITORY receives all publications made available to depositories.

A REGIONAL DEPOSITORY for U.S. documents receives and retains at least one copy of all publications made available to depositories and, within the region, provides interlibrary loan, reference service, and assistance for regular depositories in the disposal of unwanted government publications as provided by law. As used in this definition, "region" is not to be confused with "region" as used elsewhere in this report.

A HISTORICAL DEPOSITORY for Louisiana documents has agreed to retain one non-circulating copy, in the original, of each document supplied by the Recorder of Documents for research purposes, in perpetuity, and to provide duplication services at actual cost, whenever such services are requested.

A PARTIAL DEPOSITORY receives only selected titles, series, or groups of publications.

For a listing of complete (or full) depositories, regional, and historical depositories, see page 131.

SUBJECTS REPRESENTED IN DOCUMENTS HOLDINGS

In most instances the subject is given here as it appears in the library’s report of holdings and in some instances—to conform to general usage—it’s a variation of the subject as used as a subject heading by Library of Congress. Some holdings are included in the report’s “Subject Strengths, Subject Emphases, and Special Collections”, page 44. In many instances documents holdings are implicit in a strength or emphasis which a library claims.

The regional relationship of each library is indicated:

(cap) Capital region  (sc) South Central
(c) Central region   (se) Southeast region
(ne) Northeast region (sw) Southwest region
(nw) Northwest region

(sa) State agency; not identified with a region

Symbols are used to indicate the kind of document to which reference is made:

US U.S. documents  PC Parish and city documents
LA Louisiana documents F Foreign documents
OS Out-of-state documents IO International organizations documents

Within the entry representing a subject, libraries are listed alphabetically.

The shortened or abbreviated form of the name of the library is used. For help in identifying the library, if help is needed, consult the inclusive listing beginning on page 147.

ARCHIVES, MANUSCRIPTS, AND RELATED MATERIAL

With rare exception the libraries reporting holdings of this nature indicate that they are to be used on the premises and in some instances with special permission.

Arrangement: Holdings of state agencies are given first, then libraries are listed by region — the regions in alphabetical order. Within the region arrangement is by type of library — public, academic, special — in that order, and within the type alphabetically by library. In no region is the listing lengthy enough to prevent the location of a library at a glance. Shortened or abbreviated forms of official names of libraries are used. For help in library identification, refer to the inclusive listing beginning on page 147.
