ABSTRACT

This manual presents lesson plans for a second year course in spoken English for Navahos, based upon one hour of instruction five days a week. It contains a review of troublesome sounds, conversational dialogues, and work with the grammatical structure of spoken English. Actual conversational situations are used to teach the speaking patterns necessary to function in a given situation. Automatic two- and three-way exchanges are also used. The manual concentrates on phonics, cultural enrichment through the presentation of prose and poetry, and exercises to increase skills in spoken English. Included are plans for work in the language laboratory. (Author/SK)
A COURSE IN SPOKEN ENGLISH
FOR NAVAJOS
SECOND YEAR PROGRAM
LANGUAGE LABORATORY NO. II

for

A COURSE IN SPOKEN ENGLISH FOR NAVAJOS

Designed for Navajos with 3rd to 7th grade reading achievement who are learning to speak English as a second language.

Prepared by Vincent DeNunzio, Education Specialist

INSTRUCTIONAL MANUAL
for
Second Year Program

This manual contains a review of troublesome sounds, conversational dialogues, and a deeper involvement of the grammatical structure of spoken English. Actual conversational situations are used to teach the speaking patterns necessary to function in a given situation.
Students are required to produce quick, accurate responses without help. Automatic two and three way exchanges are also used. In general, this book speeds up the exposure and provides experience in refining talking skills. Self-evaluation is used frequently.

The second year program can be adapted for use with the more verbal speaker without first going through Book I. However, it is not recommended for use with non-verbal students, or students who have many incorrect talking habits. You are encouraged to refer frequently to the first year program and the teacher’s manual.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS:
THE SHORT ŌO AND “TH” SOUNDS

The following drills will be much faster than your other lessons. Try to keep up with them. Speak in a clear voice.

Listen:

M. Is the lesson easy?  F. Yes, it is.
M. Is Fred Martin absent?  F. Yes, he is.
M. Are the windows open?  F. Yes, they are.

Now you answer with “yes” and a short answer:

7. Will they walk together to the bank?
8. Is this your first trip?
9. Neither of the cars stopped when they reached the railroad tracks.
10. I'm not sure whether I'll have spaghetti or sausages.

SECTION 3. ASKING QUESTIONS

Now, I will give you some answers; you ask the questions for these answers. For example, listen:

Yes, I went to town.
Did you go to town?

Yes, I saw the movie.
Did you see the movie?

Yes, I ate my breakfast.
Did you eat your breakfast?

Yes, I bought my lunch.

Yes, I spoke to Tom.

Yes, I lost my money.

Yes, I brought some money.

Yes, I drove the car.

Yes, I forgot the lesson.

Now, follow the example. Begin every question with "did." I'll give the answers; you ask the question. All right, let's begin:

Yes, I went to town.

Yes, I saw the movie.

Yes, I ate my breakfast.

Yes, I bought my lunch.

Yes, I spoke to Tom.

Yes, I lost my money.

Yes, I brought some money.

SECTION 5.

Now, you are going to see some pictures. As soon as you see the picture tell what you see. When you see the picture, tell what you see. Let's begin:

(Show series of 15 pictures, 8 seconds each.)

SECTION 6. DESCRIPTION OF THE PICTURE

Take a good look at the picture in front of the room. Now, let's suppose you are describing it to someone who cannot see. Tell as much as you can about it. All right, you may begin speaking. (75 second pause)

All right, stop your tapes, please.

SECTION 7. READING

You'll find a printed sheet on your desk. When you are ready, turn on your tape and read the sheet. Turn off your tape when you are finished.
Now, the pictures you will see will happen tomorrow. So you write what you see and put “tomorrow” after every sentence. Remember, when you write your sentence that these things will happen tomorrow. “Tomorrow” is at the end of every sentence. All right. Let’s begin:

11. (Show first picture) (8 seconds)
   You should write “The boy will eat tomorrow,” or “The boy is going to eat tomorrow” next to No. 11.

12. (8 seconds)

13. (8 seconds)

14. (8 seconds)

15. (8 seconds)

Now, let’s go to the last section of the test. Find Section I. In the front of the room the teacher will put up a picture. Write a story telling about the picture you see. Write as many sentences as you like. When you are finished, the test is over.

SOMETHING ABOUT NAVAJO HISTORY

Navajo legends tell that the People emerged from underground into the Southwest. However, the generally held belief of anthropologists is that they came across the Bering Strait in early times, though perhaps somewhat later than the other tribes which inhabited the Southwest.

Be that as it may, they first came into the light of history while they were living in an area along the Colorado-New Mexico boundary, between the Chama and upper San Juan Rivers. This was in the late 14th or early 15th century. From there they spread south and west into what is now known as the Navajo Country. In the early 1600's they were an aggressive and powerful tribe.

Sometime during the 1600's they acquired horses and sheep from the Spaniards, as well as the use of metal and the knowledge of working wool. The Navajos are famous for their adaptability, and in those early centuries they learned much of the culture that has made them the people they are today. It has been said of them that while they formerly copied a great deal from their neighbors, they improved on everything they copied.

They were increasing in numbers during this time, also. According to legend, there were originally four Navajo clans. They have added to these, in particular from the Pueblos, until today there are more than sixty. Since marriage within the clan is still regarded as incest, it can be understood that the Navajo “population explosion” necessitated the addition of other clans.

Until the advent of white soldiers in their territory, the Navajos were semi-nomadic; although they lived in loosely defined areas, they swarmed all over their country, raiding one day and appearing miles away the next. They had no friends among other tribes, and regarded the oncoming white settlers as enemies. Everyone’s hand was against them and they retaliated with all the strength they could muster, with the result that the Navajo country was a dangerous place for anyone but a Navajo to appear.

The first military expedition against The People was made in the winter of 1846, when Col. Doniphan and 350 soldiers met with them at Bear Springs, later Fort Wingate, and signed a nominal treaty. Since there was no acknowledged Navajo head, any leader of a band who signed a treaty was responsible for his own people only; this fact was not understood by the Army, which held all Navajos responsible for all treaty promises. This led to retaliation, further treaties, increased misunderstandings, and more raids, for the next twenty years. Finally, it was decided to round up The People and send them to Fort Sumner, New Mexico, where they were to settle down, learn the art of farming, and become peaceful citizens, insofar as they were able.
Col. Kit Carson was given the task of locating the Navajos. They hid in such vastnesses as Canyon de Chelly, from which they defied the troops to dislodge them. It became necessary to kill their sheep, destroy their cornfields, and devastate their orchards, literally to starve them into submission. Even then, not all the Navajos surrendered. Bands of people fled into the far western and northern parts of the area, there to hide and elude the troops until they were finally left unmolested.

Those who went to Fort Sumner found little there to their liking. The water was bad, their old enemies, such as the Comanches, raided them at every chance; they had no heart to try to make a success of something they so bitterly detested. After four heart-breaking years they petitioned the Peace Commission to be allowed to return to their old homes, and promised that they would cause no more trouble. The Treaty of 1868, which resulted, also recorded the promises made by the white men. Freed of their captivity, The People walked back to their homeland.

Even then they found troubles. They were still beset by enemy tribes, and the Army contractors who were to feed them and put them on their feet again, often profiteered. But both sides were trying and when in 1869 an issue of sheep and goats was made, the Navajos felt encouraged.

So, less than a hundred years ago, the Navajo people made a new start toward progress. That they had the stamina, the great urge to succeed, the will to work, and the adaptability which has always characterized them, is obvious in the progress the Tribe has made within this century.

Better living conditions now prevail throughout the reservation. The People have schools and hospitals. Paved roads now criss-cross the reservation. A new $8 million sawmill furnished employment for many Navajos. Tribal parks, civic centers, and other recreational facilities provide pleasure for thousands. With these, and through the valuable oil, uranium, helium, mineral and other holdings of the Tribe as a whole, they have the means to further their ambition to become sharing citizens of the United States.

M. This ends the lesson.
COLUMBUS
by Joaquin Miller

It is difficult for modern Americans to appreciate fully the debt we owe Columbus. As you read this poem, try to imagine what it would be like to cross the Atlantic, not knowing what lay ahead; before there were any ocean liners, submarines, or airplanes. What kind of man would attempt such a voyage?

Behind him lay the gray Azores,
Behind the Gates of Hercules;
Before him not the ghost of shores,
Before him only shoreless seas.
The good mate said: "Now must we pray,
For, lo! the very stars are gone,
Brave Admiral, speak; what shall I say?"
"Why, say: 'Sail on, sail on! and on!'"

"My men grow mutinous day by day;
My men grow ghastly wan and weak."
The stout mate thought of home: a spray
Of salt wave washed his swarthy cheek.
"What shall I say, brave Adm'r'l, say,
"If we sight naught but seas at dawn?"
"Why, you shall say, at break of day:
'Sail on! Sail on! and on!'"

They sailed and sailed, as winds might blow,
Until at last the blanched mate said:
"Why, now not even God would know
Should I and all my men fall dead.
These very winds forget the way,
For God from these dread seas is gone.
Now speak, brave Adm'r'l, speak and say —"
He said: "Sail on! sail on! and on!"

Then pale and worn, he paced the deck
And peered through darkness, Ah that night
Of all dark night! and then a speck —
A light! A light! At last a light!
It grew, a starlit flag unfurled!
It grew to be Time's burst of dawn.
He gained a world; he gave that world
Its greatest lesson: "On! sail on!"
QUIZ #2
LISTENING PRACTICE: /s/ /z/ and /iz/

Take your answer sheet. Write your name, the date and Quiz #2 at the top of your page. Make two columns. Number from 1 to 20 on each column.

You will hear forty words, some of which end in the /s/ sound, some in the /z/ sound, and some in /iz/. Write “s” or “z” or “iz” for each word—whichever ending you think you hear. Listen carefully:

LISTENING PRACTICE
ADJECTIVES: COMPARATIVE FORMS

M. Listen carefully to this short story.
F. Many years ago there lived a rich man who wished to do something for the people in his village. First, however, he wanted to find out whether they deserved his help.

In the center of the main road in the village, he placed a very large stone. Then he hid nearby and waited to see what would happen. Soon there passed an old farmer with his cow.

“What fool put this big stone right in the center of the road?” said the farmer, but he made no effort to remove the stone. Instead, with some difficulty, he passed around the stone and continued on his way. Another man came along and the same thing happened; then another came, and another, and another. All of them complained about the stone in the center of the road but none of them took the time or the trouble to remove it. Toward evening, a young man came along. He was honest and hard working. He saw the stone and said to himself:
"The night will be dark. Some stranger or a neighbor will come along in the dark and strike against the stone and hurt himself."

The young man began to remove the stone. He had to push and pull with all his strength to move it to one side. But, imagine his surprise, when under the stone he found a bag full of money and this message:

"This money is for whatever honest man first removes this stone from the road."

M. Now answer the following with complete sentences:

M. Did this story take place recently or many years ago?
M. Was the man who placed the stone in the road a rich man or a poor man?
M. In what part of the road did he place the stone?
M. What did he do after he placed the stone in the road?
M. Did he hide nearby or far away?
F. Who soon passed by?
F. What did the old farmer say when he saw the stone?
F. Did the farmer make little effort or no effort to remove it?
F. What happened when a second man came along?
F. Who came along toward evening?
M. What did the young man say to himself?
M. What kind of young man was he?
M. Did he remove the stone easily or did he have to push and pull with all his strength?
M. What did he find under the stone?
M. What message did he also find under the stone?

F. Listen:

THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH
— Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

Under a spreading chestnut-tree
The village smithy stands;
The smith, a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy hands;
And the muscles of his brawny arms
Are strong as iron bands.

His hair is crisp, and black, and long,
His face is like the tan;
His brow is wet with honest sweat,
He earns whate'er he can,
And looks the whole world in the face,
For he owes not any man.
Week in, week out, from morn till night,
You can hear his bellows blow;
You can hear him swing his heavy sledge,
With measure beat and blow.
Like a sexton ringing the village bell,
When the evening sun is low.

And children coming home from school
Look in at the open door;
They love to see the flaming forge,
And hear the bellows roar,
And catch the burning sparks that fly
Like chaff from a threshing-floor.

He goes on Sunday to the church,
And sits among his boys;
He hears the parson pray and preach,
He hears his daughter's voice,
Singing in the village church;
And it makes his heart rejoice.

It sounds to him like her mother's voice,
Singing in Paradise
He needs must think of her once more,
How in the grave she lies;
And with his hard rough hand he wipes
A tear out of his eyes.

Toiling - rejoicing - sorrowing,
Onward through life he goes;
Each morning sees some task begun,
Each evening sees it close;
Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose.

Thanks, thanks to thee, my worthy friend,
For the lesson thou hast taught.
Thus at the flaming forge of life
Our fortunes must be wrought;
Thus on its sounding anvil shaped
Each burning deed and thought.

THERE IS; THERE ARE (POSITIVE)

THERE IS and THERE ARE are important phrases in English. Use THERE IS with singular nouns; use THERE ARE with plural nouns. (Examples: There is a book on the table. There are two magazines on the desk.)

GIVE THE CORRECT FORM:

1. There (is, are) a magazine on the chair.
2. There (is, are) two men in the office.
3. There (is, are) many children in the park.
4. There (is, are) many people on the bus.
5. There (is, are) a man at the door.
6. There (is, are) seven days in a week.
7. There (is, are) twelve months in a year.

20. There (is, are) many new words in this lesson.
21. There (is, are) a new student in our class.
22. There (is, are) a letter here for you.

THERE IS; THERE ARE (NEGATIVE)

The negative form of THERE IS and THERE ARE is gotten regularly by placing NOT after the verb. (Examples: There is not one cloud in the sky. There are not many students in our class.) In everyday conversation, however, the contractions isn't and aren't are generally used. (Examples: There isn't one cloud in the sky. There aren't many students in our class.)

CHANGE TO NEGATIVE FORM. USE CONTRACTIONS ONLY.

1. There are many chairs in this room.
2. There is a radio in each room.
3. There is a policeman on the corner.
4. There are many offices in that building.
5. There are many new students in our class.

19. There are many exercises in this lesson.
20. There is a library in this building.
21. There are two telephones in the office.
22. There is a blackboard in our classroom.

THERE IS : THERE ARE (QUESTION FORM)

The question form of THERE IS and THERE ARE is gotten regularly by placing the verb before the word there. (Examples: Is there a pencil on the desk? Are there many students in your class? How many days are there in a week?)

CHANGE TO QUESTIONS:

1. There is a policeman on the corner.
2. There are many students in our class.
3. There is a typewriter in each class.
4. There is a window in each room.
5. There is a letter here for you.

Week's Lessons Follow
A LETTER TO A SWEETHEART

One day a young man was writing a letter to his sweetheart who lived just a few miles away in a nearby town. Among other things, he was telling her how much he loved her and how wonderful he thought she was. The more he wrote, the more romantic he became. Finally, he said that in order to be with her he would be willing to suffer the greatest difficulties, he would face the greatest dangers that anyone could imagine. In fact, he said, to spend only one minute with her, he would climb the highest mountain in the world, he would swim across the widest river, he would enter the deepest forest and with his bare hands fight against the fiercest animals.

He finished the letter, signed his name, and then suddenly remembered that he had forgotten to mention something quite important. So, he added at the bottom of the letter: Sweetheart, I'll be over to see you on Wednesday night — if it doesn't rain.

To whom was the young man writing?
Did his sweetheart live far away or nearby?
Among other things, what was he telling her?
Did he become more or less romantic the more he wrote?
Did he promise to suffer great difficulties or little difficulties in order to be with her?
What kind of dangers was he ready to face?
To spend only one minute with her, what mountain was he ready to climb?
What river was he ready to swim?
What did he add to his letter?
Did he promise to visit her no matter what happened?
What did he say would stop him from visiting her?

Indirect statements:

Helen said, "I don't feel well."
Helen said that she didn't feel well.
John said, "I'll be back before noon."
John said that he would be back before noon.
She said, "I cannot speak Spanish."
M. She said that she couldn’t speak Spanish.
F. The boy said, “My first name is Paul.”
M. The boy said that his first name was Paul.

F. Now you change the following from direct to indirect speech. ABCD.

M. Helen said, “I don’t feel well.”
F. Helen said that she didn’t feel well.

M. John said, “I’ll be back before noon.”
F. John said that he’d be back before noon.

M. She said, “I cannot speak Spanish.”
F. She said that she couldn’t speak Spanish.

M. The boy said, “My first name is Paul.”
F. The boy said that his first name was Paul.

M. Now let’s continue:

F. Bill said, “I’ve read the book.”
M. Mary said, “It’s going to rain.”

F. The girls said, “We are going to the movies.”
F. The teacher said, “Everyone has to write a composition.”

F. John said, “I don’t know how to do this.”
F. William said, “I can tell them by telephone.”

M. Now let’s go back to ABCD and you may check yourself.

F. Mike said, “I like to work here.”
M. Mike said that he liked to work here.

F. The man said, “I have no money.”
M. The man said that he had no money.

F. The girl said, “The plane will be an hour late.”
M. The girl said that the plane would be an hour late.

F. She said, “It will arrive at five o’clock.”

F. Now try it on your own again:

M. The doctor said, “John is a very sick boy.”
M. Mary said, “I knew his name.”
M. Mr. Smith said, “I am too busy to leave.”
M. John said, “It is getting late.”
M. He said, “We will have to hurry.”
F. Listen:
M. John asked, "Where does Mary live?"
F. John asked where Mary lived.
M. He asked me, "How do you like Phoenix?"
F. He asked me how I liked Phoenix.
M. He asked me, "Where do you live?"
F. He asked me where I lived.
M. She asked me, "Are you going with them?"
F. She asked me whether I was going with them.
M. Mr. Smith asked me, "Where are you going?"
F. Mr. Smith asked me where I was going.

M. Now you change the following from direct to indirect speech:
F. John asked, "Where does Mary live?"
F. He asked me, "How do you like Phoenix?"
F. He asked me, "Are you going with them?"
F. Mr. Smith asked me, "Where are you going?"
M. He asked her, "What is your name?"
M. He asked her, "Where do you work?"
M. The man asked me, "How old are you?"
M. I asked her, "What time is it?"
M. I also asked her, "Where are you going?"
M. The teacher asked, "Where is John?"

F. Pronunciation drill:
F. Listen and repeat:
M. stops F. sits M. talks
M. keeps F. let's M. laughs
M. sleeps F. gets M. coughs
M. hopes F. takes M. stuffs
M. writes F. checks M. telegraphs
M. sits F. makes

F. Listen closely for endings. Listen and repeat:
M. He usually stops work at noon and sleeps for an hour.
M. She sits in the park everyday and waits for her friends.
M. He always walks and talks with me.
M. She always laughs at us.
M. These shops don't sell maps.
F. She's always at least ten minutes late for dates.
F. Thanks for my books.
F. These are my friend's handkerchiefs.
F. The births and deaths are recorded in the city hall.

M. Listen and repeat:
F. names M. stairs M. schools
F. towns M. er's M. pencils
F. songs F. times M. letters
F. walls F. pens M. chairs
M. smiles F. things
M. cars F. rings

F. Listen and repeat:
M. How many times have you played these games?
M. These signs say there are telephones in this drugstore.
M. The walls of these schools are made of brick.
M. Do you get many letters from your sisters and brothers?

F. Listen:
M. Where does he work?
F. I don't know where he works.
M. What time is it?
F. I don't know what time it is.
M. Where is Mr. Smith?
F. I don't know where Mr. Smith is.
M. Is he in his office?
F. I don't know whether he is in his office.
M. Did he leave the building?
F. I don't know whether he left the building.

M. Now, you answer. Begin with "I don't know." ABCD.
F. Where does he work? M. I don't know where he works.
F. What time is it? M. I don't know what time it is.
F. Where is Mr. Smith? M. I don't know where Mr. Smith is.
F. Is he in his office? M. I don't know whether he is in his office.
F. Now you answer on your own:

M. Did he leave the building?

IDIOMATIC VERB PHRASES "USED TO," "GOING TO"
PRONUNCIATION REVIEW DRILLS — FINAL 'S' SOUNDS

M. Listen carefully to the following story:

ROBERT BRUCE AND THE SPIDER

F. Robert Bruce was a famous Scottish patriot and general. In the early fourteenth century, he tried to drive the English out of Scotland. But he was unsuccessful because the English were too powerful. Finally, Bruce was forced to run away and to hide in a cave.

One day he lay on his back in his cave, thinking of the sad state of Scotland, a spider began to weave a web above his head. Simply to amuse himself, Bruce reached up and broke the web. Immediately the spider began to weave a new one. Then six times in succession Bruce broke the web, and six times the spider immediately made a new one. Bruce admired such determination. He said to himself that he would break the web the seventh time. If the spider made a new one, it would be a good lesson to him for he had been defeated six times in battle.

Bruce then broke the web, and again the spider made a new one.

From this simple incident, Bruce gained new encouragement. He again gathered an army, and this time he was successful in driving out the English.

M. Now answer these questions:

1. Who was Robert Bruce?
2. Who did he try to drive out of Scotland?
3. Was he successful or unsuccessful in his first efforts?
4. Were the English very weak or very powerful?
5. What was Bruce finally forced to do?
6. Where did he hide?
7. What did Bruce do to amuse himself?
8. What did the spider begin to do?
9. How many times in succession did Bruce break the web?
10. What did Bruce admire about the spider?
11. What did Bruce learn from the incident?
12. Was he finally successful or unsuccessful in driving out the English?

HIAWATHA

by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

(Hiawatha was born of the beautiful Wenonah. Deserted by Hiawatha's father, the West-Wind, Wenonah soon faded from loneliness and died. It was Nokomis, the grandmother, who raised Hiawatha.)

By the shores of Gitche Gurnee
By the shining Big-Sea-Water,
Stood the wigwam of Nokomis,
Daughter of the Moon, Nokomis.
Dark behind it rose the forest,
Rose the black and gloomy pine trees,
Rose the firs with cones upon them;
Safely bound with reindeer sinews;
Stilled his fretful wail by saying,
"Hush/ the Naked Bear will hear thee!"
Lulled him into slumber, singing
"Ewa-yea/ my little owlet!"
Who is that, that lights the wigwam?
"Ewa-yea/ my little owlet!"

Many things Nokomis taught him
Of the stars that shine in heaven;
Showed him Ishkoodah, the comet;
Ishkoodah, with fiery tresses;
Showed the Death-Dance of the spirits,
Warriors with their plumes and war clubs,
Flaring far away to northward
In the frosty nights of Winter;
Showed the broad white road in heaven,
Pathway to the ghosts, the shadows.
Running straight across the heavens,
Crowded with the ghost, the shadows.

At the door on summer evenings
Sat the little Hiawatha;
Heard the whispering of the pine trees,
Heard the lapping of the waters,
Sounds of music, words of wonder;
"Minne-wawa/" said the pine trees,
"Mudway-aushka/" said the water.

Saw the fire-fly, Wah-Wah-taysee,
Flitting through the dusk of evening.
With the twinkle of its candle
Lighting up the brakes and bushes,
And he sang the song of children,
Sung the song Nokomis taught him;
Wah-wah-tayee, little firefly,
Li-te, flitting, white-fire insect,
Little, dancing, white-fire creature,
Light me with your little candle,
Ere upon my bed I lay me,
Ere in sleep I close my eyelids/

Saw the moon rise from the water
Bright before it beat the water,
Beat the clear and sunny water,
Beat the shining Big-Sea-Water.

There the wrinkled old Nokomis
Nursed the little Hiawatha,
Rocked him in his linden cradle,
Bedded soft in moss and rushes,
Rippling, rounding from the water,
Saw the flecks and shadows on it,
Whispered, "What is that, Nokomis?"
And the good Nokomis answered:
"Once a warrior, very angry,
Seized his grandmother, and threw her;
'Tis her body that you see there"

Saw the rainbow in the heavens,
In the eastern sky, the rainbow,
Whispered, "What is that, Nokomis?"
And the good Nokomis answered:
'Tis the heaven of flowers that you see there
All the wild flowers of the forest,
All the lilies of the prairie,
When on earth they fade and perish,
Blossom in that heaven above us."

When he heard the owls at midnight,
Hooting, laughing in the forest,
"What is that?" he cried in terror,
"What is that?" he said, "Nokomis?"

And the good Nokomis answered:
“That is but the owl and owlet,
Talking in their native language,
Talking, scolding at each other.”

Then the little Hiawatha
Learned of every bird its language
Learned their names and all their secrets,
How they built their nests in summer,
Where they hid themselves in winter,
Talked with them whene’er he met them,
Called them “Hiawatha’s Chickens.”

Of all beasts he learned the language,
Learned their names and all their secrets,
How the beavers built their lodges,
Where the squirrels hid their acorns.
How the reindeer ran so swiftly,
Why the rabbit was so timid,
Talked with them whene’er he met them,
Called them “Hiawatha’s Brothers.”

FINAL “S, EZ AND Z” SOUNDS

Put a circle around all the “s” endings you find in the following story. Then, read the story aloud in a strong, clear voice.

HOW OUR MAIL BEGAN

When the first man came to our country, there was no way to send letters. There was not much need for mail then because there were so few towns.

As time passed, more and more towns grew up along the shores and waterways of our land. More people began moving to different places. When they did, they wanted to write their friends back home. They wanted to tell about John’s cold, about how the crops were growing, and whether the Indians were friendly.

But it was hard to send letters in those days. The roads were not much more than paths through the woods. And often there were Indians to fight. So most of the mail went by boats to towns along the shore.

Sending mail by boats was alright sometimes. But in bad winds boats often went down. Settlers had to find better ways to send letters.

Soon towns and cities grew up in the West. Then men riding fast horses began to carry mail. This was the great Pony Express.

FINAL “S, EZ, AND Z” SOUNDS

Listen to your endings. Say these words clearly:

/s/maps; tapes, stamps seats, lights checks, headaches, snakes roofs, staffs coughs, Ralph’s helps, stops, wipes wants, fits, rotates works, takes, checks satellites, photographs

/ez/

Ed’s, waves eggs, wives lathes, clothes names, claims songs, kings fans, Anne’s car’s, cars
Say these sentences:

John walks to school.
Mary knits her own sweaters.
The chorus sings well.
Bill wishes he could be here.
You'll find Tom downstairs.
The bank cashes checks on Mondays.
She notices the latest styles.
The judges announced the winner.
He says his head aches.
Eggs are cheaper downtown.
Joe's ties are too loud.
Do servicemen pay taxes?
The raft floats over the waves.
Most garages close on Sundays.
He helps his speech with tapes.
Satellites are taking photographs.

BARBARA FRIETCHIE

by John Greenleaf Whittier

Up from the meadow rich with corn.
Clear in the cool September morn,
The clustered spires of Fredericck stand
Green-walled by the hills of Maryland.
Round about them orchards sweep,
Apple and peach tree fruited deep,
Fair as the garden of the Lord
To the eyes of the famished rebel horde,
On that pleasant morn of the early fall
When Lee marched over the mountain-wall;
Over the mountains winding down,
Horse and foot, into Frederick town.
Forty flags with their silver stars,
Forty flags with their crimson bars,
Flapped in the morning wind: the sun
Of noon looked down, and saw not one.
Up rose'old Barbara Frietchie then,
Bowed with her four score years and ten;
Bravest of all in Frederick town,
She took up the flag the men hauled down;
In her attic window the staff she set,
To show that one heart was loyal-yet.
Up the street came the rebel tread,
Stonewall Jackson riding ahead.
Under his slouched hat left and right
He glanced; the old flag met his sight.

"Halt." — the dust-brown ranks stood fast.
"Fire." — out blazed the rifle blast.
It shivered the window, pane and sash;
It rent the banner with seam and gash.
Quick, as it fell, from the broken staff
Dame Barbara snatched the silken scarf.
She leaned far out on the window-sill,
And shook it forth with a royal will.
"Shoot, if you must, this old gray head,
But spare your country's flag," she said.
A shade of sadness, a blush of shame,
Over the face of the leader came;
The nobler nature within him stirred
To life at that woman's deed and word;
"Who touches a hair of yon gray head
Dies like a dog. March on," he said.
All day long through Frederick street
Sounded the tread of marching feet.
All day long that free flag tossed
Over the heads of the rebel host.
Ever its torn folds rose and fell
On the loyal winds that loved it well;
And through the hill-gaps sunset light
Shone over it with a warm good-night.
Barbara Frietchie's work is o'er,
And the rebel rides on his raids no more.
Honor to her, and let a tear
Fall, for her sake, on Stonewall's bier.
Over Barbara Frietchie's grave,
Flag of Freedom and Union, wave.

Peace and order and beauty draw
Round thy symbols of light and law;
And over the stars above look down
On thy stars below in Frederick town.

Look, look, look, look —
I am the vowel in look.
You could, if you would, find me in pull;
I'm in put, I'm in cook, and I'm even in wool.

Lock, lock, lock, lock —
I am the vowel in lock.
I'm in body, in hop; I'm in bob, I'm in spot;
I should be in lobby, but often I'm not.

Luck, luck, luck, luck —
I am the vowel in luck.
I'm in crush, and in puff, I'm in but, and in rough;
I'm in love, cup and dove; and that is enough.

Week’s Lessons Follow
One of the stories of Aesop, the writer of ancient Greece, concerns a group of animals in the forest who were discussing the popularity of the elephant. They all agreed that the elephant was the most popular animal in the forest, but none of them could give a satisfactory explanation of this fact.

The giraffe said, “If the elephant had a long neck like mine, then it would be easy to understand his popularity. He would be the tallest animal in the forest.”

The peacock said, “If the elephant had a beautiful tail like mine, it would be easy to understand. He would be the most beautiful animal in the forest.”

The rabbit said, “If the elephant could run as fast as I, it would be easy to understand. He would be the fastest animal in the forest.”

The bear said, “If the elephant were as strong as I, it would be easy to understand. He would be the strongest animal in the forest.”

Suddenly, the elephant himself appeared. He was larger and stronger than any of the other animals. He was also superior in many other ways, but he was always quiet and modest about his many accomplishments. This, after all, was the real explanation of his popularity.

Now answer the following questions:

1. Who is the author of the story?
2. What was the group of animals discussing?
3. What did they all agree upon?
4. What did the giraffe say?
5. What did the peacock say?
6. What did the rabbit say?
7. What did the bear say?
8. Who finally appeared?
9. How did the elephant compare with the other animals?
10. What was the real explanation of the elephant’s popularity?

Listen:

- Wait here, please.
- Sit here, please.
- Pass the sugar, please.
- Take this, please.
- Please come back later.
- Hold this, please.
- Close the door, please.
M. Now add the word please to the beginning or end of the command and ask someone to:

F. Wait here.
F. Come back later.
F. Sit there.
F. Hold this.
F. Pass the sugar.
M. Close the door.
M. Take this.
M. Wait for me.
M. Hurry.
M. Sit down.

F. Listen:
M. Close the door.
M. Come back later.
F. Sit down.
F. Pass the sugar.
F. Stand up.
M. Excuse me.
M. Tell me the time.
M. Help me.
M. Open the window.
M. Speak more softly.

F. Listen:
M. Close the door.
M. Leave the room.
M. Make so much noise.
M. Turn on the radio.
F. Please don’t close the door.
F. Please don’t leave the room.
F. Please don’t make so much noise.
F. Please don’t turn on the radio.

M. Now follow the example and ask someone politely not to:

F. Close the door.
F. Leave the room.
F. Make so much noise.
F. Turn on the radio.
M. Forget to telephone.
M. Open the window.
M. Sign it in pencil.
M. Shout so loud.

F. Listen:
M. Shall we go to the movie tonight?  F. No, let's stay home and watch television.
M. Shall we walk home?  F. No, let's take a bus.
M. Shall we do our homework now?  F. No, let's do it later.

M. Now you follow the example. Answer with "no," with another suggestion. Begin your answer with "no, let's."
F. Shall we go to the movie tonight?
F. Shall we walk home?
F. Shall we do our homework now?
M. Shall we eat in town tonight?
M. Shall we wait here for Tom?
M. Shall we have lunch in the cafeteria?

F. Listen:
M. Hand me that book.
F. Would you mind handing me that book, please?
M. Put this on the shelf.
F. Would you mind putting this on the shelf, please.
M. Pass me the sugar.
F. Would you mind passing me the sugar, please?
M. Close that window.
F. Would you mind closing that window, please?

M. Now you change to polite questions. Follow the example. Begin with "Would you mind"; end with please.
F. Hand me that book.
F. Put this on the shelf.
F. Pass me the sugar.
F. Close the window.
F. Hold the door open.
M. Give this to Helen.
M. Send this out right away.
M. Drop this in the mail box.
M. Hand your things over there.
M. Put this away where it belongs.
F. Answer the telephone.
F. Sit in the chair over there.
F. Help me move this table and chair.

M. Listen and repeat:
  F. fear - fair
  F. tear - tear
  F. mere - mare
  F. peer - pear
  F. beer - bear

M. Listen and repeat:
  F. crime - climb
  F. crew - clue
  F. cram - clam
  F. crows - close (v)

F. Listen closely for final sounds. Listen and repeat:
  M. cut - cub
  M. hat - had
  M. pick - pig
  M. rich - ridge
  M. life - live (adj.)
  M. teeth - teethe
  M. rice - rise

M. Now, change the following commands to polite form:
  F. Pass the sugar.
  F. Hand me that book.
  F. Put this on the shelf.
  F. Close the window.
  M. Hold the door open for me.
  M. Hand me that newspaper.
  M. Answer the telephone.

F. This ends the lesson.
IN FLANDERS FIELDS
by John McCrae

In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago.
We lived, felt Dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe;
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

REVIEW OF PRONUNCIATION LISTENING PRACTICE

F. Listen carefully:

LEARNING A FOREIGN LANGUAGE

M. The most difficult thing for a person to accept when he begins to learn a foreign language is that the foreign language is so very different from his own. Of course, he expects to find some differences, but it may sometimes seem to him that some of the differences are completely unnecessary.

F. A person’s native language has a powerful influence on him. After all, he has been speaking his language from before he can remember. His family, his friends, even complete strangers, everyone around him uses that language. Under such circumstances, it is only natural that a person would have the feeling that his language is the most beautiful, the most perfect, the most logical of all languages.

M. Therefore, the first thing that one must learn as he begins to study a foreign language is that each language is the best possible language for the people who use it. We would not expect a person from India to think and act exactly like a person from France, and we should not expect the languages of India to be exactly like the French language. After this fact has been understood and accepted, many of the problems in language learning disappear.

F. There are other attitudes which you will have to develop in order to learn a language successfully. The most important of these is that learning a language requires constant practice. You must not think that because you have seen or heard a word or phrase one time, or five times, or ten times that you really know it and know how to use it.
You must be ready to repeat new lessons again and again until you can really use them, automatically, without having to think about them.

M. Another important thing to remember is that it is not necessary to begin with a lot of reading and writing in the foreign language. Reading and writing present very special problems which may complicate learning for the beginning student.

F. The most important thing of all in learning a language is to have patience. If you keep working steadily, day after day, constantly practicing the language and using it at every opportunity, you will learn to speak a language well.

M. The following is a true-false test. Answer “true” if the statement is correct, and “false” if it is not correct.

F. A person’s native language has a strong influence on him.

F. All languages work in exactly the same way.

F. One repetition is enough to learn anything.

M. Learning to read and write the language should come after learning to speak the language.

M. The most important thing of all in learning a language is to have patience.

F. Review of pronouns:

F. Listen:

M. Mary went for a walk.

M. Bill eats lunch in the cafeteria.

M. Mike and I study alone.

M. The old woman lives there.

F. She went for a walk.

F. He eats lunch in the cafeteria.

F. We study alone.

F. She lives there.

M. Now follow the example and substitute a pronoun for the subject:

F. Bill eats lunch in the cafeteria.

F. Mary went for a walk.

F. Mike and I study alone.

F. The old woman lives there.

M. Jim plans to go to college.

M. The soldier served overseas.

M. The dog chased the rabbit.

F. The clock is fast.

F. The girls held a meeting.

F. Ruth works in an office.

F. The seniors won the game.

F. The airplane flew above the clouds.

M. He

M. She

M. We

M. She

M. It

F. He

F. It

F. It

F. They

M. She

M. They

M. It
M. Listen:
F. I met Mr. Smith yesterday.  M. I met him yesterday.
F. She saw Mary and me at the movie.  M. She saw us at the movie.
F. He left his keys in his car.  M. He left them in his car.
F. I told the boys about it.  M. I told them about it.

F. Now, follow the example and substitute a personal pronoun for the object in each sentence:
M. I met Mr. Smith yesterday.  F. him
M. She saw Mary and me at the movie.  F. us
M. He left his keys in the car.  F. them
M. I told the boys about it.  F. them
F. I saw you and your brother at the ball game.  M. you
F. We rode his bicycle to school.  M. it
F. He told his parents about the accident.  M. them
F. I have my notebook with me.  M. it
M. I enjoyed that movie very much.  F. it
M. He sent Helen some flowers.  F. her
M. I wrote your phone number in my book.  F. it
M. I eat lunch with Henry and Betty everyday.  F. them
M. He told all his friends about it.  F. them

M. Listen:
F. These pencils are my pencils.  M. These pencils are mine.
F. This office is his office.  M. This office is his.
F. This notebook is your notebook.  M. This notebook is yours.

F. Now follow the example and use a possessive pronoun to avoid repeating the noun.
M. This book is her book.  F. hers
M. These pencils are my pencils.  F. mine
M. This office is his office.  F. his
M. This notebook is your notebook.  F. yours
M. This room is our classroom.  F. ours
F. These books are John's and Mary's books.  M. theirs
F. Is this pen your pen?  M. yours
F. Is this letter your letter?  M. yours
F. These magazines are our magazines.  M. ours
F. This newspaper is my newspaper.  M. mine
F. That hat and coat are his hat and coat.  M. his
F. Listen:

M. John shaved.
F. John shaved himself.

M. I'll prepare lunch.
F. I'll prepare lunch myself.

M. She says that she'll return the book.
F. She says that she'll return the book herself.

M. John will conduct the meeting.
F. John will conduct the meeting himself.

M. Now you follow the example and use a reflexive pronoun:

F. John shaved.
F. I'll prepare lunch.

M. She says that she'll return the book.
M. John will conduct the meeting.

F. Listen:

M. I F. myself M. it F. itself
M. you F. yourself M. we F. ourselves
M. he F. himself M. you F. yourselves
M. she F. herself M. they F. themselves

M. Now you give the reflexive pronoun:

F. I
F. she
M. it
M. you (plural)
F. it
F. I
M. you (singular)

F. Listen:

M. He went for a walk alone.
F. He went for a walk by himself.

M. I took the trip alone.
F. I took the trip by myself.

M. Helen prefers to go to the movies alone.
F. Helen prefers to go to the movies by herself.

M. The girls will study alone.
F. The girls will study by themselves.

M. Now you follow the example. In place of the word "alone" substitute "by" and the reflexive pronoun.

F. He went for a walk alone.
F. I took the trip alone.

M. by himself
M. by myself
F. Helen prefers to go to the movies alone. M. by herself ........................................
F. The girls will study alone. M. by themselves ........................................
M. I can finish this work alone. F. by myself ........................................
M. He plans to go to California alone. F. by himself ........................................
M. The girls sat alone during the party. F. by themselves ........................................
M. Do you like to eat alone? F. by yourself ........................................
F. My uncle prefers to live alone. M. by himself ........................................
F. The old woman lives alone. M. by herself ........................................
F. We were alone last night. M. by ourselves ........................................

F. Exchange headphones, please.

F. Listen:

M. Mine. F. The notebook is mine.
M. I wrote my name in it myself. F. This notebook is yours.
M. Yours. F. This notebook is hers.
M. You wrote your name in it yourself. F. This notebook is ours.
M. Hers. M. We wrote our names in it ourselves.
M. She wrote her name in it herself.

F. Now follow the example. The odds begin, the evens answer.

M. mine ........................... F. ours ...........................
M. yours ........................... F. his ...........................
M. hers ........................... F. theirs ...........................

M. Now the evens begin, the odds answer.

F. his ........................... M. theirs ...........................
F. yours ........................... M. mine ...........................
F. ours ........................... M. hers ...........................

F. Exchange headphones, please.

F. This ends the lesson.

Week's Lessons Follow
GOING OUT FOR ENJOYMENT; FINAL SOUNDS

F. Pat, we haven't gone out for over a month. Let's go somewhere today.
M. Fine. Where would you like to go? Look in the newspaper for some information about the movies.
F. I see that there's a western at the Capitol.
M. I heard that it was terrible. What else can we do?
F. We could see that John Wayne movie.
M. I've already seen it.
F. Well, there's a good love story at the Center Theater.
M. You know I don't like love stories. What's at the drive-in?
F. A Civil War movie with Rock Hudson.
M. Good, let's go there. What time does the main feature start?
F. It started fifteen minutes ago. We just missed it.
M. Well, I guess all we can do is stay home and watch television.
F. I was afraid you'd say that. Now it will take me another month to get you interested in going out.

M. Listen:

F. Do you know what time the feature begins?
M. Second feature
F. Do you know what time the second feature begins?
M. Newsreel
F. Do you know what time the newsreel begins?

M. Now you follow the example:

F. Do you know what time the feature begins?
M. Newsreel
F. at 5
M. Cartoon
F. at 8

F. at 7
F. at 7:30
M. How long did the movie last?
F. the show
F. the film
F. the cartoon
F. the newsreel
F. They say the new film is an adventure story.
M. a love story
M. a war picture
M. a comedy
F. a mystery
F. a dull picture
M. A group of us went to the show last night.
F. to the basketball game
F. to the dance
F. to the drive-in movie
F. to the bowling alleys
F. The show was good and everybody enjoyed it.
M. was funny
M. was very amusing
M. was exciting
M. was comical
M. was terrific
F. By the time we got there the newsreel had already begun.

THE BALLAD OF WILLIAM SYCAMORE
(1790-1871)

Stephen Vincent Benet

My father, he was a mountaineer,
His fist was a knotty hammer;
He was quick on his feet as a running deer,
And he spoke with a Yankee stammer.

My mother, she was merry and brave,
And so she came to her labor,
With a tall green fir for her doctor grave
And a stream for her comforting neighbor.
And some are wrapped in the linen fine,
And some like a godling's scion;
But I was cradled on twigs of pine
And the skin of a mountain lion.

And some remember a white starched lap
And an ewer with silver handles;
But I remember a coonskin cap
And the smell of bayberry candles.
The cabin logs with the bark still rough,
And my mother who laughed at trifles,
And the tall, lank visitors, brown as snuff,
With their long, straight squirrel rifles.

I can hear them dance like a foggy song,
Through the deepest one of my slumbers,
The fiddle squeaking the boots along
And my father calling the numbers.

The quick feet shaking the puncheon floor,
And the fiddle squealing and squealing,
Till the dried herbs rattled above the door
And the dust went up to the ceiling.

There are children lucky from dawn till dusk,
But never a child so lucky!
For I cut my teeth on “Money Musk”
In the bloody ground of Kentucky!

When I grew tall as the Indian corn,
My father had little to lend me,
But he gave me his great old powder horn
And his woodsman’s skill to befriend me.

With a leather shirt to cover my back,
And a redskin nose to unravel
Each forest sign, I carried my pack
As far as a scout could travel.

Well I lost my boyhood and found my wife,
A girl like a Salem Clipper!
A woman straight as a hunting knife
With eyes as bright as the Dipper!

We cleared our camp where the buffalo feed,
Unheard of streams were our flagons;
And I sowed my sons like the apple-seed
On the trail of the western wagons.

They were right, tight boys, never sulky or slow
A fruitful, a goodly muster.
The eldest died at the Alamo.
The youngest fell with Custer.

The letter that told it burned my hand.
Yet we smiled and said, “So be it!”
But I could not live when they fenced
my land,
For it broke my heart to see it.

I saddled a red, unbroken colt
And rode him into the day there;
And he threw me down like a thunderbolt
And rolled on me as I lay there.

The hunter’s whistle hummed in my ear
As the city men tried to move me.
And I died in my boots like a pioneer
With the whole wide sky above me.

Now I lie in the heart of the fat,
black soil,
Like the seed of a prairie thistle;
It has washed my bones with honey and oil
And picked them clean as a whistle.

And my youth returns like the rains of Spring,
And my sons, like the wild geese flying;
And I lie and hear the meadow-lark sing
And have much content in my dying.

Go play with the towns you have built with blocks,
The towns where you would have bound me!
I sleep in my earth like a tired fox,
And my buffalo have found me.

M. You’re not overweight. Are you?
M. There isn’t anything wrong. Is there?
M. You don’t have a headache. Do you?
M. You haven’t had your eyes examined. Have you?
F. You haven’t had this rash long. Have you?
F. You don’t smoke. Do you?
F. You didn’t take your medicine. Did you?
F. The dentist wasn’t in. Was he?
F. He doesn’t need a blood transfusion. Does he?

M. Listen and repeat:
F. Anemic  F. The anemic patient was weak.
M. Anemic
F. contagious ............... F. Measles is a contagious disease. ....................

F. contagion ..................

F. flu ......................... F. He had the flu and a high fever. ......................

M. flu ........................

F. infection ................... F. The doctor cleaned the wound to avoid infection. ....

M. infection ....................

F. mild ........................

M. minor ....................... M. Nothing serious. He had minor surgery. ....................

F. minor ........................

M. Listen:

(Mrs. Beckford’s voice very alarmed and concerned.)

M. Well, Mrs. Beckford, I’ve completed my examination and I’m happy to say it’s nothing serious.

F. Don’t you think you should take X-rays?

M. I don’t think X-rays will be necessary for this illness.

F. Will I need a blood transfusion?

M. No, Mrs. Beckford. You won’t need a blood transfusion.

F. It’s a very serious contagious disease, isn’t it?

M. I don’t believe so.

F. Shouldn’t I stay in bed for the rest of the week?

M. No, you should get outdoors more and get plenty of exercise.

F. I’m sure this can’t be cured. Can it?

M. You listen to my advice and I’m sure you’ll be fine.

F. What should I do doctor; kill myself?

M. No, I don’t think so. Put this medicine on your little toe every four hours and by tomorrow it will all be gone. It’s a little blister — there’s nothing to worry about.

F. This ends the lesson.

THE PACKAGE

There's a package,
There's a package,
There's a package in the mail.
It's wrapped in yellow paper
And the twine is like a tail.
Three stamps are in the corner —
One red, the others pale.
There's a package,
There's a package,
There's a package in the mail.

It's for mother,
It's for mother,
It's for mother, I can see.
But that is just about as good
As knowing it's for me,
For mother'll say, "Come, open it,
Untie the string and see!"
There's a package,
There's a package, ...
Oh, what CAN the package be?

THE OLD WOMAN

There was an old woman
And nothing she had;
And so this old woman
Was said to be mad.
She'd nothing to eat,
She'd nothing to wear,
She'd nothing to lose,
She's nothing to fear,
She'd nothing to ask,
And nothing to give,
And when she did die,
She'd nothing to leave.

—Unknown

YOURS AND MINE

The sun, the trees, the grass, the sky,
The silver moon that's sailing by,
The rain and dew and snowflakes white,
The flowers sweet and stars of night!
The songs of birds, wind whispering,
The autumn leaves, the buds of spring —
Such lovely things to hear and see
Belong to you, belong to me!

M. Tape A-5-V

TELLING ABOUT PAST EXPERIENCES
LISTENING PRACTICE WITH THE “FINAL S” SOUNDS

M. Now listen carefully. You will hear some nouns and verbs. Some of them will have a final “s” sound, some of them will have a final “z” sound and some will have a final “iz” sound. Decide which ending you hear, and say, “s,” “z,” or “iz” after you hear the word. For example, listen:

F. changes M. IZ
F. makes M. S
F. pencils M. Z

M. All right, let’s begin:

F. changes (IZ) M. tables (Z)
F. makes (S) M. classes (IZ)
F. pencils (Z) M. understands (Z)
F. nurses (IZ) M. pieces (IZ)
F. tapes (S) M. thanks (S)
F. speaks (S) M. erasers (Z)

F. Now, let’s continue with some more. Listen carefully to endings:

M. uses (IZ) F. seats (S)
M. lights (S) F. cars (Z)
M. kisses (IZ) F. garages (IZ)
M. eggs (Z) F. quizzes (IZ)
M. wants (S) F. downstairs (Z)
M. notices (IZ) F. United States (S)
M. social studies (Z) F. social studies (Z)

F. Now, you will hear one of these words in a sentence. Say “s,” “z,” or “iz” after you hear the sentence:

M. John walks to school. (S)
M. Bill wishes he could be here. (IZ)
M. You’ll find Tom downstairs. (Z)
M. Do servicemen pay taxes? (IZ)
Most garages close on Sunday. (IZ)
I study hard in social studies. (Z)
We're studying United States history. (S)

Listen:

Should they study very hard?
Yes, they ought to study very hard.

Should he buy his ticket early?
Yes, he ought to buy his ticket early.

Should the teacher correct the student?
Yes, the teacher ought to correct the student.

Now, follow the example. Answer with “Yes” and “ought to”:

Should they study very hard?
Yes, they ought to study very hard.

Should he buy tickets early?
Yes, he ought to buy tickets early.

Should the teacher correct the student?
Yes, the teacher ought to correct the student.

Must Bob go to the hospital?

Must we speak English in school?

Must I pay the cashier?

Should I buy a winter coat?

Must all students study two languages?

Should we leave in the morning?

Now, let’s work backwards. I’ll give the statement. You ask the question.

For example:

Yes, they ought to study very hard.

Should they study very hard?

Yes, he ought to buy tickets early.

Should he buy tickets early?

Yes, the teacher ought to correct the student.

Should the teacher correct the student?

Now, you follow the example:

Yes, they ought to study very hard.

Yes, he ought to buy tickets early.
F. Yes, the teacher ought to correct the student.

F. Yes, Bob ought to go to the hospital.

F. Yes, we ought to speak English in school.

M. Yes, you ought to pay the cashier.

M. Yes, you ought to buy a winter coat.

M. Yes, all students ought to study two languages.

M. Yes, we ought to leave early in the morning.

F. Listen closely to the following conversation. You'll be asked questions about it later.

M. An odd thing happened to me last Sunday. It was such a beautiful day, that I decided to go for a leisurely drive in the country.

On the way back home, my motor stopped. I was out of gasoline on a lonely road far from a town. I decided to walk until I found someone who could sell me a gallon or two of gasoline.

I had walked almost a mile before I finally found a big house near the road. I was glad to see it because it was starting to get dark.

I knocked on the door and a little old lady with long white hair answered. She said, "I've been waiting for you for a long time. Come in. Tea is almost ready."

"But I only came for some gasoline." I answered. I couldn't imagine what she was talking about.

"OH! Alfred! Gasoline? You used to prefer tea."

I quickly explained that my car was out of gasoline, but she didn't seem to hear me. She just kept calling me Alfred and talking about how long it had been since she had seen me. She was behaving very strangely and I was anxious to leave. As soon as she went to get the tea I went out of the house as fast as I could.

Fortunately, there was another house down the road, and I was able to buy several gallons of gasoline. When I told the man about my experience, he said, "Oh, that's Miss Emily. She lives by herself in that big house. She's peculiar, but she wouldn't hurt anyone. She's still waiting for the man she was supposed to marry thirty years ago. The day before their wedding he went away and never came back."

F. Now, answer these questions:

F. Why did the man in the story decide to go for a drive?

F. Where was he when his motor stopped?

F. What was wrong with his car?

F. What did he decide to do?

F. What did the old lady say to him?
F. Why did he run out of the house?
F. What did the man tell him about Miss Emily?

M. Listen:
F. A strange thing happened to me this morning.
M. An odd thing
F. An odd thing happened to me this morning.
M. An interesting thing
F. An interesting thing happened to me this morning.

M. Now, you follow the example:
F. A strange thing happened to me this morning.
M. An odd thing
M. An interesting thing
M. A peculiar thing
M. An amazing thing

F. I was crossing the street and was almost hit by a car:
M. an ambulance
M. a fire engine
M. a truck
M. a motorcycle
M. a sports car

F. Fortunately, I jumped back before I was hit.
M. got out of the way
M. realized the danger
M. thought fast

F. It was a terrible experience, and I won’t forget it.
M. terrible shock
M. terrible feeling
M. terrible situation

M. Yesterday was such a beautiful day, we went for a drive.
F. magnificent day
F. glorious day
F. perfect day
F. On the way back home, we had a flat tire.
M. some engine trouble
M. a blowout
M. motor trouble
M. an accident
M. a breakdown

F. Listen:
M. understand
M. tell
M. make

F. Now, you follow the example:
M. understand
M. tell
M. make
M. write
F. eat
F. drink
F. forget

M. Listen:
F. teach
F. catch
F. notice
F. wish
M. use
M. reach
M. change
M. kiss
M. rush
F. Now, pluralize the following nouns:

M. map .......... F. necklace .......... M. horse ..........
M. laugh .......... F. dish .......... M. bus ..........
M. bed .......... F. watch .......... M. dish ..........
M. bag .......... F. change .......... M. watch ..........
M. pen .......... F. garage .......... M. garage ..........
M. ring .......... F. rose .......... M. change ..........

M. Listen:

F. Harry! What's the matter? You look pale. Are you sick?
M. I just had a terrible experience.
F. Sit down. Let me get you a glass of water.
M. No thanks, Ruth. I'll be fine in a minute.
F. Did you have an accident?
M. Not quite, but almost. I was crossing the street just now and was almost hit by a car. Fortunately, I jumped back in time.
F. How awful! I hope you got the license number of the car so you can report this man to the police department.
M. Before I realized what had happened, the car was gone.
F. Drivers like that should have their licenses taken away from them.
M. I agree. I won't forget this for a long time.
F. I'm sure you won't.
M. Yes, from now on I won't cross the street in the middle of the block reading my newspaper. I'll have to watch where I'm going, since there are dangerous drivers like that one on the road.

F. This ends the lesson.

M. Tape A-6

TEST TAPE NO. 1

M. This lesson is a test on some of the speaking practice you've had in the lab. You'll find that you'll have to speak and write at the same time. Think fast, speak clearly and try to keep up.
F. Write your name and class at the top of your paper. (Pause)

F. Now write "Section 1" and number from 1 to 20 on the left of the page. (Pause)

F. This quiz is on pronouns.

F. Listen:
   M. Miss Jones is a good teacher.
   F. She is a good teacher.
   M. William is busy today.
   F. He is busy today.
   M. Fred and Mary are at the movies.
   F. They are at the movies.

M. Now, follow the example and write the one-word pronoun you say next to the number.

F. 1. Miss Jones is a good teacher. .................................................................
F. 2. William is busy today. .................................................................
F. 3. Fred and Mary are at the movies. .................................................................

M. 19. You and I will go together. .................................................................
M. 20. My mother and father are here. .................................................................
F. Now, you'll correct your answers. Put an X after the wrong answers. Here are the pronouns you should have written:

M. 1. She
M. 2. He
M. 3. They
M. 4. We
M. 5. It
M. 6. She
M. 7. They
M. 8. They
M. 9. He
M. 10. He

F. SECTION 2

Listening quiz.

F. Write "Section 2" on your paper and number from 1 to 20. (Pause) If the word is the same put S beside the number. If it is different put the letter D. S for same, D for different. Here we go:

M. 1. cut - cot
M. 2. sit - seat
M. 3. here - here
M. 4. get - gate
M. 5. but - bought
M. 6. top - top

F. 18. boat - vote
F. 19. thick - sick
F. 20. H - age

F. SECTION 3

Irregular verbs.

F. Write "Section 3" on your papers and number from 1-20. (Pause)

F. Listen:

M. bought
M. saw

F. did buy
F. did see

M. drove
F. did drive
Now, follow the example. Write “did” with the correct verb. You will write two words, “did” and the verb. Let's begin:

F. 1. bought ..........................  M. 11. came ..........................
F. 2. saw ...............................  M. 12. lost ..........................
F. 3. drove ............................  M. 13. broke ..........................
F. 4. spoke .............................  M. 14. ran ..........................
F. 5. forgot ............................  M. 15. fell ..........................

M. 6. classes ...........................  F. 13. speaks ........................  M. 20. understands .............
M. 7. understands .....................  F. 14. pencils ........................
F. Here are your answers. Mark X after the ones you missed.

M. SECTION 5  Number from 1-20. (Pause)

F. All of the verbs you will hear end in “ed.” Some sound like a “t,” some like “d” and some “id.” Write “t,” “d,” or “id” after each answer. Let’s begin:

M. 1. stopped .......... M. 8. dressed .......... M. 15. reached ..........
M. 7. repeated .......... M. 14. laughed ..........

M. Here are the answers. Mark X after the ones you missed.

F. 2. D  F. 7. ID  M. 12. ID  M. 17. T

F. SECTION 6  Irregular Verbs. Number from 1-20. (Pause)

F. Listen:

M. I went with Jim.  F. didn’t go
M. I knew your uncle.  F. didn’t know
M. I thought about it.  F. didn’t think

M. Now, you follow the example. Write just two words. Write the word “didn’t” with the verb. Let’s begin:

F. Was the package delivered on Sunday? M. (this morning)
F. Did you end the letter with “Sincerely yours”? M. (“With all my love”)

F. Exchange headphones very carefully, please. (10 seconds)

F. Listen to this dialogue between a post office clerk and a student:

M. May I help you?
F. Yes, I’d like to send this letter to my family in Arizona.
M. Did you write your return address on the envelope?
F. Yes, I did.
M. How do you want to send it?
F. I guess I’ll send it air mail.
M. Does it have anything valuable inside?
F. Yes, I enclosed a check and some photographs.
M. Then you’d better send it by registered mail.
F. That’s a good idea. Will you take care of that for me?
M. I’m sorry. You’ll have to take your letter to the next window.

F. Now, listen carefully again to the same dialogue. You’ll be asked to remember it.
(Repeat Dialogues)

M. Now, I’ll be the clerk. You be the student. We’ll do the same dialogue.
M. May I help you?
M. Did you write your return address on the envelope?
M. How do you want to send it?
M. Does it have anything valuable inside?
M. Then you'd better send it by registered mail.

SEA FEVER
— John Masefield

I must go down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky,
And all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by,
And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking,
And a gray dawn on the sea's face, and a gray dawn breaking:

I must go down to the seas again, for the call of the running tide
Is a wild call and a clear call that may not be denied;
And all I ask is a windy day with the white clouds flying,
And the flung spray and the blown spume, and the sea gulls crying.

I must go down to the seas again, to the vagrant gypsy life,
To the gulls' way and the whale's way where the wind's like a whetted knife;
And all I ask is a merry yarn from a laughing fellow-rover,
And quiet sleep and a sweet dream when the long trick's over.
LANDING OF THE PILGRIM FATHERS
by Felician Hemans
(1793-1835)

The ocean-eagle soared
From his nest by the white wave's
And the rocking pines of the forest-roared:
This was their welcome home!

There were men with hoary hair
Amidst the pilgrim band;
Why have they come to wither them
Away from their childhood's land?

There was woman's fearless eye,
Lit by her deep love's truth;
There was manhood's brow, serene;
And the fiery heart of youth.

What sought they thus afar?
Bright jewels of the mine?
The wealth of seas, the spoils of war?
They sought the faith's pure shrine!

Aye, call it holy ground,
The soil where first they trod!
They have left unstained what they found;
Freedom to worship God.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS
John F. Kennedy
January 20, 1961

In the long history of the world, only a few generations have been granted the role of defending freedom in its hour of maximum danger. I do not shrink from this responsibility. I welcome it. I do not believe that any of us would exchange places with any other people or any other generation. The energy, the faith, the devotion which we bring to this endeavor will light our country and all who serve it — and the glow from that fire can truly light the world.

And so, my fellow Americans: ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country.

My fellow citizens of the world: ask not what America will do for you, but what together we can do for the freedom of man.

Finally, whether you are citizens of America or citizens of the world, ask of us here the same high standards of strength and sacrifice which we ask of you. With a good conscience our only sure reward, with history the final judge of our deeds, let us go forth to lead the land we love, asking His blessings and His help, but knowing that here on earth God's work must truly be our own.
Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening

Whose woods these are I think I know.
His house is in the village though;
He will not see me stopping here
To watch his woods fill up with snow.

My little horse must think it queer
To stop without a farmhouse near
Between the woods and frozen lake
The darkest evening of the year.

He gives his harness bells a shake
To ask if there is some mistake.
The only other sound’s the sweep
Of easy wind and downy flake.

The woods are lovely, dark and deep,
But I have promises to keep,
And miles to go before I sleep,
And miles to go before I sleep.

—Robert Frost

SEVENTH WEEK ENRICHMENT FOR PRACTICE OF (  )

The fire wagon rings a song;
It races down the street.
Clingety, clangety, cling,
Clingety, clangety, cling,
Hear those fire bells ring!

—Ruth Dohr

“The Rock-a-bye Lady from Hush-a-bye Street
Comes stealing, comes creeping,
The poppies they hang from her head to her feet,
And each hath a dream that is tiny and fleet,
She bringeth her poppies to you my sweet
If she findeth you sleeping.”

—Eugene Field

JINGLE FOR THE PRACTICE OF THE THREE NASALS

I hear a bee huming near a flower:
m - m - m; m - m - m.

I hear a clock striking out the hour:
ding-dong; ding-dong.

I hear the spinning of a big red top:
n - n - n; n - n - n.

Keep them all going, don’t let them stop!
m - m; ding-dong; n - n.
m - m; ding-dong; n - n.

—Agnes Curren Hann

From Hansen and Pierce — Speak to Learn, Stockton Unified School District.

MAKING THE SOUND

To make the sound of (  ), put your tongue behind your lower front teeth and hum. The back of the tongue should press against the soft palate to make the sound come through the nose.
SOUND PICTURE—Ringing

REPEAT THE FOLLOWING SPEECH RHYME IN A SWINGING RHYTHM

Swinging
Swinging, (pause) swinging, (pause), swinging high,
Swinging, swinging, swinging low,
Swinging,' till you touch your toe.
Swinging fast, and swinging slow,
Back and forth, to and fro.

HAPPY THOUGHTS

"The world is so full of a number of things,
I'm sure we should all be happy as Kings."
—Robert Louis Stevenson

LOOKING FOR THINGS:

Plan and execute a looking walk, weather permitting. Encourage students to talk about and remember the things they observe. Give them clues as to things which might be hidden underground, etc. Use your own initiative.

When the class returns, have them try to recall the things they saw. A student could chart the observations on the chalkboard. Do this in phrase rather than sentence form because creative writing follows creative oral expression. Don't kill spontaneity of thought with the mechanics of writing at this point.

The “things” may be grouped in many ways: shapes of things, growing things, red things, square things, tall things, short things, etc. Groups could be set up to play the game of “things.” Plan with your students. The following plan may serve as a guide. This plan could also serve for rapid oral practice, individually, in small groups or in chorus.

"THE THINGS WE SAW"

Old papers blowing.
Something moving with the leaves.
Curtains flying.
Cement mixer going’ round.
Two grandmas talking.
Soft bird feathers.
Black-birds flying.
One blue feather.
Yellow flowers on a wall.
Puppy’s wagging tail.
Round hot sun.

White scrappy paper.
Yellow school bus resting.
Bird on a rosebush.
Dragonfly sleeping.
Clouds going by.
Burned ashes.
Tumble-weed rolling.
Trees shaking their leaves.
Flag waving.
Dandelion snow balls.
A kitten on a fence.

GROWING THINGS

Buds on tree limbs.
Ground Ivy.
Dandelions blowing.
Carrot tops in a green row.

Trumpet vines on the porch.
Heavy dark oak trees.
Grass with brown points.
Flower dropping their petals.
Clover among the grass.
RED THINGS

Robin's red breast.
Tomatoes hanging on the vine.
Little red wagon on the walk.

Geraniums in a pot.
Fire truck rushing by.
New books on the rack.

(SUBSTITUTE APPROPRIATE THINGS FROM YOUR SITUATION).

MOVING THINGS

Yellows wasps humming.
Frogs hopping in the pond.
Jets racing in the sky.
Children chasing.

Little flying birds.
White clouds drifting.
Cars following each other.
People going home.
Lawn mowers going back and forth.

THINGS YOU CAN HEAR (AT NIGHT)

Sirens blowing.
Doors banging.
Dogs barking.
Little mice running.
Airplane motors.

Bells ringing.
Horns honking.
Cats calling.
Radios blaring.
Traffic noises.

SOUNDS OF FINAL /s/

PRACTICE WORDS:

sighs cracks matches rolls roots products cries shortages

laughs lunches hides coughs

THE TIDE RISES, THE TIDE FALLS

The tide rises, the tide falls,
The twilight darkens, the curlew calls;
Along the sea-sands damp and brown
The traveller hastens toward the town,
And the tide rises, the tide falls.

Darkness settles on roofs and walls,
But the sea, the sea in the darkness calls;
The little waves, with their soft, white hands
Efface the footprints in the sands,
And the tide rises, the tide falls.

The morning breaks; the steeds in their stalls
Stamp and neigh, as the hostler calls;
The day returns, but nevermore
Returns the traveller to the shore,
And the tide rises, the tide falls.

—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow
THE CATARACT OF LODORE

How does the water come down at Lodore?
From its sources which well
In the tarn on the fell,
From its fountain in the mountain,
Its rills and its gills
Through moss and through brake,
It runs and its creeps
For a while till it sleeps
In its own little lake,
And thence at departing,
Awakening and starting,
It runs through the reeds,
And away it proceeds,
Through meadow and glade,
In sun and in shade,
And through the wood shelter,
Among crags in its flurry,
Helter-skelter — hurry-scurry.

How does the water come down at Lodore?
Here it comes sparkling,
And there it lies darkling,
Here smoking and frothing,
Its tumult and wrath in,
It hastens along, conflicting, and strong,
Now striking and raging,
As if a war waging,
Its caverns and rocks among.

Now falling and crawling and sprawling,
And driving and riving and striving,
And sprinkling and twinkling and wrinkling,
And sounding and bounding and rounding,
And bubbling, and troubling and doubling,
Dividing and gliding and sliding,
And grumbling and rumbling and tumbling,
And clattering and battering and shattering;
And gleaming and steaming and streaming and beaming,
And rushing and flushing and brushing and gushing,
And flapping and rapping and clapping and slapping,
And curling and whirling and purling and twirling,
Retreating and beating and meeting and sheeting,
Delaying and straying and playing and spraying,
Advancing and prancing and glancing and dancing,
Recoiling, turmoiling and toiling and boiling,
The thumping and flumping and bumping and jumping,
And dashing and glashing and splashing and clashing,—
And so never ending, but always descending,
All at once and all o'er, with a mighty uproar—
And this is the way the water comes down at Lodore.

—Robert Southey
SEASONAL MATERIAL

OCTOBER

October! O, October!
I love your sparkling days,
Your gift of brilliant color,
Your soft gray haze.

I love your fiery maples,
I love your chestnut browns,
And all the sumac ladies
In their gay red gowns.

I love the ripe corn standing
In shocks so straight and bold,
I love the brown fields, resting,
And the pumpkins clad in gold.

The orange of the bittersweet,
The lovely gentian's blue,
The russet robes of sleepy ferns,
I love your every hue.

October! O, October!
I love your sparkling days.
Where do you find these wondrous tints
That set the world ablaze?

—J. Evelyn Willoughby

JACK O'LANTERN

The Man in the Moon looked down on the field,
Where the golden pumpkin lay;
He winked at him, and he blinked at him,
In the funniest kind of way.

But on Hallowe'en, when the moon looked down
From the sky, through the shadows dim,
The pumpkin fat on a gatepost sat,
And saucily laughed at him.

CONDITIONAL SENTENCES — INTONATION PRACTICE

M. Listen:

F. If I knew her well, I would speak to her.
F. If he attended class regularly, he would make good progress.
F. If she had more practice, she would speak English better.
F. If we had the money, we would take a trip to California.

M. Now, you finish the sentences. Use "would":

F. If I knew her well
F. If he attended class regularly
F. If she had more practice
F. If we had the money
F. If he went to bed earlier
M. If he drove more carefully
M. If he paid his debts
M. If I knew English better
M. If he prepared his homework
M. If I spoke Spanish

F. Now, let's work backwards.

F. Listen:

M. I would take a trip to California. F. if I owned an automobile
M. She would be a better student. F. if she worked harder
M. I would buy a car. F. if I had the money
M. I would go with you. F. if I had no classes

M. Now, you finish these sentences. Begin with "if":

F. I would take a trip to California
F. She would be a better student
F. I would buy a car
F. I would go with you
M. He would get better grades
M. I would pass my exams
M. I would telephone Bill
M. I would go home for Christmas

   M. If I were you I wouldn’t go.
   M. If today were Saturday, we wouldn’t have to go to class.
   M. If Bill were faster, he would be on the track team.
   M. If I were a millionaire, I would spend all my money.
   M. If he were more ambitious, he would find a better job.

F. Now, you finish these sentences:
   M. If I were you
   M. If today were Saturday
   M. If Bill were faster
   M. If I were a millionaire
   M. If he were more ambitious
   F. If I were not so busy
   F. If I weren’t so tired
   F. If I were you
   F. If I were Bill
   F. If Bill were here

M. Now, we'll work backwards.

M. Listen:
   F. I wouldn’t go
   F. We wouldn’t be in class
   F. Bill would be on the track team
   F. Sam would find a better job

M. if I were you
   M. if today were Saturday
   M. if he were faster
   M. if he were more ambitious

F. Now, you finish the sentence. Begin with “if.” Use “were”:
   M. I wouldn’t go
   M. We wouldn’t be in class
   M. Bill would be on the track team
   M. Sam would find a better job
   F. Ruth would know what to do
   F. I would feel comfortable

   M. I don't like to swim ........................................
M. I haven’t enough money
M. I can’t typewrite well
F. I am not you
F. I cannot speak Navajo well
F. I don’t know how to play the piano
F. I am not a millionaire

M. Listen to this story. You’ll be asked questions about it:

The Farmer and the Apple Tree

F. A poor farmer once had a friend who was famous for the wonderful apples trees which he grew. One day this friend gave the farmer a young tree and told him to take it home and plant it. The farmer was pleased with the gift, but when he got home, he did not know where to plant it. He was afraid that if he planted the tree near the road, strangers would steal the fruit. If he planted the tree in one of his fields, his neighbors would come at night and steal one of the apples. If he planted the tree near his house, his children would take the fruit. Finally, he planted the tree deep in the woods, where no one could see it. But, naturally, without sunlight and proper soil, the tree soon died.

Later, the friend asked the farmer why he had planted the tree in such a poor place. “What’s the difference?” the farmer said angrily. “If I had planted the tree near the road, strangers would have stolen the fruit. If I had planted the tree in one of my fields, my neighbors would have come at night and stolen some of the apples. If I had planted it near my house, my own children would have taken the fruit.”

“Yes,” said the friend. “But at least someone could have enjoyed the fruit. Now, by your foolish action, you have robbed everyone of the fruit and you have also destroyed a good tree.”

M. Now answer these questions:

M. 1. For what was the farmer’s friend famous?
M. 2. What particular kind of fruit tree did the friend grow?
M. 3. What did the friend give the farmer one day?
M. 4. What did he tell him to do with the young tree?
M. 5. Why was the farmer afraid to plant the tree near the road?
M. 6. What did he think would happen if he planted the tree in one of his fields?
M. 7. What would happen if he planted the tree near his house?
M. 8. Where did he finally plant the tree?
M. 9. Why did the tree die?

F. This ends the lesson.

F. Listen:
M. If I knew your number I would have called you.
M. If I saw him I would have given him the message.
M. If I could have afforded it, I would have bought the radio.
M. If you had asked him, he would have played the piano.

F. Now, you finish the sentence; use "would have":

M. If I knew your number
M. If I saw him
M. If I could have afforded it
M. If you had asked him
F. If I had the time
F. If you watered the plants
F. If I wasn't so busy
F. If we finished the assignment

M. Listen:
F. What would have happened if you had come to class very late this morning?
M. The teacher would have been very angry with me.
F. If you had overslept this morning
M. I would have missed breakfast.
F. If you had not studied
M. I would have failed the exam.

F. Now, you answer. Use "would have":

M. What would have happened if you had come to class very late?
M. If you had overslept?
M. If you had not studied?
M. If you never prepared your homework?
M. If you fell and broke your leg?
F. What would have happened
F. If you had found a large sum of money in the street?
F. if you had discovered that you forgot your shoes this morning?
F. if you had forgotten the way to the dining room?
F. if you had missed the bus for school this year?
F. Listen carefully to this reading. You’ll be asked questions about it.

M. You are learning Lincoln’s famous Gettysburg Address. On November 19, 1863, Lincoln went to Gettysburg in Pennsylvania to speak at the National Soldier’s Cemetery. The Civil War was still going on. There was much criticism of Lincoln at the time. He was not at all popular. He had been invited to speak at Gettysburg only out of courtesy. The main speaker was to be Edward Everett, a famous statesman and speaker of the day. Everett was a handsome man, very popular everywhere.

It is said that Lincoln prepared his speech on the train while going to Gettysburg. Late that night, alone in his hotel room and tired-out, he again worked briefly on the speech. The next day Everett spoke first. He spoke for an hour and 57 minutes. His speech was a perfect example of the great speeches of the day. Lincoln rose.

The crowd of 15,000 people at first gave him little attention. He spoke only nine minutes. There was little applause. Lincoln turned to a friend and remarked, “I have failed again.” On the train back to Washington he also said, “That speech was a flat failure, and the people are disappointed.” Some newspapers at first criticized the speech. But little by little, as people read the speech more carefully they began to understand it better. They began to appreciate its simplicity and its deep meaning. It was a speech which only Abraham Lincoln could have given.

Today every American student learns by heart Lincoln’s Gettysburg Address. Everyone thinks of it today as the greatest speech ever given in American history.

M. Now, answer these questions:

F. 1. What speech are we discussing?
F. 2. In what state is Gettysburg located?
F. 3. Why is there a National Cemetery in Gettysburg?
F. 4. In what year did Lincoln go to Gettysburg?
F. 5. Was Lincoln popular or unpopular at this time?
M. 6. Who was to be the main speaker?
M. 7. When did Lincoln prepare his speech?
M. 8. How long did Lincoln speak?
M. 9. Was there much or little applause?
M. 10. What did Lincoln himself say about his speech?

M. This ends the lesson.
STRESS

Stress means loudness.

Here are the four grades of stress we'll use:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>name of stress</th>
<th>dot symbol</th>
<th>examples:</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>weak</td>
<td>.</td>
<td>. after . . . . . . . . .</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>loud</td>
<td>.</td>
<td>. before . . . . . . . . .</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>louder</td>
<td>. .</td>
<td>. . . company . . . . . .</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>loudest</td>
<td>. . .</td>
<td>. . . another . . . . . .</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Here are some words you know. You put the dot symbols (one over each syllable) . . . ; :

usual . consider . experience . understand . disappoint result . America . herself . information . blackbird above . material . already . education . imagine

Now, say the words above with expression, using your own stress symbols.

Say these phrases:

- . . . . . at home . . . . . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . do it . . . . . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . phone call . . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . how much . . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . put on . . . . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . he's here . . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . girl friend . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . ice cream . . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . Marian decided . . . . . .
- . . . . . beautiful woman . . . . .
- . . . . . eat quickly . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . a lot of money . . . . . .
- . . . . . a loaf of bread . . . . . .
- . . . . . boy friend . . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . boy friend . . . . . . . . .
- . . . . . I'm fine, thank you . . . .
- . . . . . What do they cost? . . . .
- . . . . . When do you want to go? . . .
- . . . . . There's a dance Friday night . . . . .

Put stress in your voice and say:

Chicago is called the Windy City.
Billy, your coffee is ready.
Excuse me please.
Can you tell me where it is?

718
INTONATION (stress and pitch)

You remember that "stress" means loudness of a word. Your last Speak-Sheet gave you practice using stress. Now, let's use "pitch." Pitch means how high or low your voice says the word. One way to show pitch is to use four lines, like music:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>pitch</th>
<th>stress</th>
<th>Put them together and you have:</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>higher</td>
<td>weak</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>high</td>
<td>loud</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>low</td>
<td>louder</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lower</td>
<td>loudest</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Intonation is the tune or song that English makes when you speak. You raise or lower your voice while you speak. If you don't, your voice is dull or tiresome to hear, like striking the same note on the piano. People try not to use monotone (one sound) when they speak English.

Loosen your voice. Use stress and pitch. Try saying these sentences:

Good morning. Good afternoon. Good evening. How are you?

Do you speak English? You speak English very well. A little slower please.

Now, you mark the intonation symbols of stress and pitch:

Try saying these sentences:

I'm from California. That's my English book. People call me Bob.

</tbody>
</table>

Now, can you hear the difference?

- tip - dip
- bet - bed
- rot - rod
- tie - die
- town - down

- matter - madder
- wait - wade
- satin - sadden
- wrote - rode
- mate - maid

- two - do
- latter - ladder
- written - ridden
- bit - bid
- plate - played

- bitter - bidder
- height - hide
- late - laid
- light - lied
- dough - toe

Say these sentences. Be careful of your t’s and d’s:

Tell Dot to do it. Try to talk English all the time.
Today is cold, isn’t it? The old roads are in bad condition.
This is a better bottle of pop. You’d better put a little butter on it.
Can you tell me the time? Sixteen times two equals thirty-two.
It was written by Mark Twain. A good doctor wouldn’t do that.
Ted had a good idea, didn’t he? Don’t button the bottom button of your jacket.

NOONDAY SUN

Kathryn & Byron Jackson

Oh, I’ve ridden plenty of horses
And I’ve broken a score in my time,
But there never was one
Like the colt Noonday Sun —
Now there was a horse that was prime!

She’d run up the side of a mountain
Or she’d tackle a wildcat alone.
Oh, she stood twelve hands high
And her proud shining eye
Would soften the heart of a stone.
Oh, yippiippi ai — Oh, yippiippi ay,
Would soften the heart of a stone.

She’d splash through a treach’rous river
Or she’d tease for an apple or sweet,
She’d buck and she’d prance
Or she’d do a square dance
On her four little white little feet.
Oh, yippiippi ai — Oh, yippiippi ay,
On her four little white little feet.

But one night the rustlers stole her,
They stole her and took her away.
Now the sun never shines,
And the wind in the pines
Says, “You’ve lost your colt, lack-a-day!”
Oh, yippiippi ai — Oh, yippiippi ay
Says, “You’ve lost your colt, lack-a-day!”

Someday I’ll pull out my gun,
And I’ll plug him bang - bang! —
And I may even hang —
The outlaw that stole Noonday Sun.
Oh, yippiippi ai — Oh, yippiippi ay,
The outlaw that stole Noonday Sun.

Oh, I still have her bridle and saddle,
And I still have her bare empty stall
But there’ll never be one
Like the colt Noonday Sun,
And she’ll never more come to my call!
Oh, yippiippi ai — Oh, yippiippi ay,
And she’ll never more come to my call!
ABRAHAM LINCOLN (1809-1865)
Rosemary & Stephen Benet

Lincoln was a long man.
He liked out of doors.
He liked the wind blowing
And the talk in country store.

He liked telling stories,
He liked telling jokes.
"Abe's quite a character,"
Said quite a lot of folks.

Lots of folks in Springfield
Saw him every day,
Walking down the street
In his gaunt, long way.

Shawl around his shoulders,
Letters in his hat.
"That's Abe Lincoln."
They thought no more than that.

Knew that he was honest,
Guessed that he was odd,
Knew he had a cross wife
Though she was a Todd.

Knew he had three little boys
Who liked to shout and play,
Knew he had a lot of debts
It took him years to pay.

Knew his clothes and knew his house.
"That's his office, here.
Blow good lawyer, on the whole,
Though he's sort of queer."

"Sure he went to Congress, once,
But he didn't stay.
Can't expect us all to be
Smart as Henry Clay."

"Need a man for troubled times?
Well, I guess we do.
Wonder who we'll ever find?
Yes — I wonder who."

That is how they met and talked,
Knowing and unknowing.
Lincoln was the green pine.
Lincoln kept on growing.

AT THE SAME TIME

AT THE SAME TIME
PLAY you are in a clock store. Think of all the different kinds of clocks you might see and hear. They all make the ticking sound; some loud, some soft, some fast, and some slow.

How does a Grandfather clock sound?
A slow, heavy tick-tock
On the hour it says bong-bong

How does a Cuckoo Clock sound?
A quick, light tick-tock, tick-tock
On the hour it says cuckoo-cuckoo.

How does an Alarm Clock sound?
A sharp, quick tick-tock
When the alarm goes off it rings and rings.

Crashed together in a wreck.

— S. M. H.

Tweedle-dum and Tweedle-dee resolved to have a battle,
For Tweedle-dum said Tweedle-dee had spoiled his nice new rattle.
Just then a monstrous crow flew down
as big as a tar barrel,
Which frightened both the heroes so,
they quite forgot their quarrel.

A fat rat sat upon a mat,
A fat cat sat there too;
The mat couldn't hold both cat and rat
So one had to move—can you guess who?

Look out!

Dark voices:  Here it comes splashing
And hooting, and dashing!
Look out! Look out! Look out!

All: Look out! Look out!
A motor is coming!
Look out! Look out!
A motor is coming!
Look out!

All: Look out! Look out!
A motor is coming!
Look out! Look out!
A motor is coming!
Look out!

HISTORY OF HALLOWEEN

A GHOSTLY LEGEND (by Rose Mary Pedersen, Deseret News Staff Writer)

HALLOWEEN...

That spookiest night of the year is almost here!

The history of Halloween — goes back to the days of the Druids, that ancient order of priests in Gaul and Britain.

The Druids were the first to institute an autumn festival (held sometime around October 31) to celebrate the successful harvest and summer's end.

During the festival, they decorated their dwellings with pumpkins and cornstalks, and paid homage to ghosts, spirits, fairies, ghouls and elves in whom they believed.

And so it was for centuries...

Then in the 700s the Romans followed their lead, and adapted the holiday to suit their own purposes. To them, October 31 became a day to honor all saints and martyrs, and was officially given the title of "All Saints Eve" or "Halloween," meaning holy or hallowed evening. (However, even though it was primarily a Christian holiday, it still was filled with many of the Druids' old superstitious customs).

And filled with superstitious customs "All Saints Eve" remained, when a hundred or so years later the Scottish people began to celebrate it...

To illustrate:

Every October 31 in Scotland, children carved jack o'lanterns to frighten away evil spirits, and told grisly tales of how wicked people changed into witches and flew up chimneys on broomsticks.
At the same time, their parents busied themselves making "Colcannon" — a dish of mashed potatoes, turnips and chopped onions. (Hidden inside the mixture was a golden ring, and finding it meant protection from wicked witches for one whole year!)

But the Scottish were not the only ones celebrating October 31 at this time... The Irish, too, were turning it into a holiday filled with ghosts and goblins — a holiday when peasants dressed in costumes went from house to house collecting all the food needed for a gigantic feast. (From this, say the historians, sprang the American custom of trick-or-treating and dressing in garish outfits on Halloween.)

In fact, from each and every one of these afore mentioned customs, October 31 came to be what it is today in the United States.

SEASONAL MATERIAL — HALLOWEEN

SOMEONE

Someone came knocking
At my wee, small door
Someone came knocking,
I'm sure - sure - sure;
I listened, I opened,
I looked from left to right
But naught there was a-stirring
In the still - dark night.

Only the busy beetle
Tap-tapping in the wall
Only from the forest
The screech owl's call,
Only the cricket whistling
Where the dew-drops fall,
So I know not who came knocking
At all, at all, at all.

LANGUAGE LESSON PLAN FOR LAB II

NINTH WEEK

PURPOSES

- Provide practice asking questions.
- Pronunciation practice: /pt/ /kt/ /ft/

CLASSROOM CORRELATION

- Oral and/or written drills making questions by inverting order; review use of "did" with common irregular verbs; demonstrate use of intonation when asking questions; develop awareness of /pt/ /kt/ and /ft/ endings.
- Refer to Script A-10 for suggested presentation.
- Regents 1, pp. 23, 45, might be an aid, plus S-17-V speak-sheet.

LAB PROCEDURES

- Questions through inverted order; use of "do" and "does": "did with past of common irregular verbs; practice with /pt/ /kt/ /ft/ endings, original questions completions; use of "what," "where" and "how" questions.
- Review Barbara Frietchie for independent practice, also America for Me.

MATERIALS

- Tape A-10: Questions
  - /kt/ pt/ /ft/
- Speak-Sheet S-17-V
- Model tapes of America for Me, Barbara Frietchie

SESSION 1

Continue providing practice asking questions.

- Teach the use of tag endings.
- Pronunciation drills with final consonants.

Continue with whatever method you find most effective providing question practice; tag endings lend themselves to written drills when students just write the tag ending (easily corrected). Develop awareness of final consonant sounds.

- Regents, p. 84, 85, 86 might be helpful.
- Script A-11 might aid you.

MATERIALS

- Tape A-11: Asking Questions
  - Tag Endings
- Pronunciation: Final Consonants
- Speak-Sheet S-17-V
- Model tape of Paul Revere

SESSION 2

Introduce the use of similes in conversation.

- Practice the use of final /sts/ and /sks/ sounds.

Teach and demonstrate the use of similes. Elicit similes from the students; provide common vernacular similes used in everyday conversation.

- Develop awareness of the final /sts/ and /sks/ sounds. Script A-12 has suggestions. Regents have none dealing with this purpose.

Provide speaking practice with common conversational similes (as dry as a bone, as straight as an arrow); allow for original similes; pronunciation drills with the final /sts/ and /sks/ in words and sentences.

- Review the Arrow & the Song.

MATERIALS

- Tape A-12: Similies
- Final /sts/ and /sks/ The Arrow and the Song
- Student choice, review of model tape

Listen for your final T sound. Say these words twice:

stopped swept looked left hoped talked parked telegraphed kept liked laughed sniffed slept walked coughed

Now, try the present and past of these verbs. Can you hear the difference?

pass - passed finish - finished watch - watched dance - danced wish - wished reach - reached notice - noticed rush - rushed touch - touched miss - missed cash - cashed scratch - scratched
Say these sentences. Be careful about the final T's:

They stopped
We checked
We walked
He laughed
They danced
I finished
We watched

They stopped in Chicago.
We checked our suitcases.
We walked around the city.
I wonder why he laughed when he left?
They danced until midnight.
I finished my homework at nine o'clock.
We watched television last night.

THE ARROW AND THE SONG

I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I know not where;
For, so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight.

I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth, I know not where;
For who has sight so keen and strong,
That it can follow the flight of song?

Long, long afterward, in an oak
I found the arrow, still unbroke;
And the song, from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.

— Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

AMERICA FOR ME

’Tis fine to see the Old World, and travel up and down
Among the famous palaces and cities of renown,
To admire the crumbly castles and the statues of the kings —
But now I think I’ve had enough of antiquated things.

So it’s home again, and home again, America for me!
My heart is turning home again, and there I long to be.
In the land of youth and freedom beyond the ocean bars,
Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars.

Oh, London is a man’s town, there’s power in the air;
And Paris is a woman’s town, with flowers in her hair;
And it’s sweet to dream in Venice, and it’s great to study Rome;
But when it comes to living there no place like home.

I like the German fir-woods, in green battalions drilled;
I like the gardens of Versailles* with dashing fountains filled;
But, oh, to take your hand, my dear, and ramble for a day
In the friendly western woodland where Nature has her way!

I know that Europe’s wonderful, yet something seems to lack:
The Past is too much with her, and the people looking back.

*Pronounce: Vair-sie
But the glory of the Present is to make the Future free,—
We love our land for what she is and what she is to be.

Oh, it's home again, and home again, America for me!
I want a ship that's westward bound to plough the rolling sea,
To the blessed Land of Room Enough beyond the ocean bars,
Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars.

An Ojibway Legend

By Henry R. Schoolcraft (Adapted)

Long, long ago, in a beautiful part of this country, there lived an Indian with his wife and children. He was poor and found it hard to provide food enough for his family. But though needy he was kind and contented, and always gave thanks to the Great Spirit for everything that he received. His eldest son, Wunzh, was likewise kind and gentle and thankful of heart, and he longed greatly to do something for his people.

The time came that Wunzh reached the age when every Indian boy fasts so that he may see in a vision the Spirit that is to be his guide through life. Wunzh's father built him a little lodge apart, so that the boy might rest there undisturbed during his days of fasting. Then Wunzh withdrew to begin the solemn rite.

On the first day he walked alone in the woods looking at the flowers and plants, filling his mind with the beautiful images of growing things so that he might see them in his night-dreams. He saw how the flowers and herbs and berries grew, and he knew that some were good for food, and that others healed wounds and cured sickness. And his heart was filled with even a greater longing to do something for his family and his tribe.

"Truly," thought he, "the Great Spirit made all things. To Him we owe our lives. But could He not make it easier for us to get our food than by hunting and catching fish? I must try to find this out in my vision."

So Wunzh returned to his lodge and fasted and slept. On the third day he became weak and faint. Soon he saw in a vision a young brave coming down from the sky and approaching the lodge. He was clad in rich garments of green and yellow colors. On his head was a tuft of nodding green plumes, and all his motions were graceful and swaying.

"I am sent to you, O Wunzh," said the sky-stranger, "by that Great Spirit who made all things in sky and earth. He has seen your fasting and knows how you wish to do good to your people, and that you do not seek for strength in war nor the praise of warriors. I am sent to tell you how you may do good to your kindred. Arise and wrestle with me, for only by overcoming me may you learn the secret."

Wunzh, though he was weak from fasting, felt courage grow in his heart, and he arose and wrestled with the stranger. But soon he became weaker and exhausted, and the stranger, seeing this, smiled gently on him and said: "My friend, this is enough for once, I will come again tomorrow." And he vanished as suddenly as he had appeared.

On the third day the stranger came, and Wunzh felt himself weaker than before; nevertheless he rose and wrestled bravely. Then the stranger spoke a second time. "My friend," he said, "have courage! Tomorrow will be your last trial." And he disappeared from Wunzh's sight.

The next day the stranger came, and Wunzh felt himself weaker than before; nevertheless he rose and wrestled bravely. Then the stranger spoke a second time. "My friend," he said, "have courage! Tomorrow will be your last trial." And he disappeared from Wunzh's sight.

On the third day the stranger came as before, and the struggle was renewed. And Wunzh, though fainter in body, grew strong in mind and will, and he determined to win or perish in the attempt. He exerted all his powers, and, lo! in a while, he prevailed and overcame the stranger.
“O Wunzh, my friend,” said the conquered one, “you have wrestled manfully. You have met your trial well. To-morrow I shall come again and you must wrestle with me for the last time. You will prevail. Do you then strip off my garments, throw me down, clean the earth of roots and weeds, and bury me in that spot. When you have done so, leave my body in the ground. Come often to the place and see whether I have come to life, but be careful not to let weeds or grass grow on my grave. If you do all this well, you will soon discover how to benefit your fellow creatures.” Having said this, the stranger disappeared.

In the morning Wunzh’s father came to him with food. “My son,” he said, “you have fasted long. It is seven days since you have tasted food and you must not sacrifice your life. The Master of Life does not require that.”

“My father,” replied the boy, “wait until the sun goes down tomorrow. For a certain reason I wish to fast until that hour.”

“Very well,” said the old man, “I shall wait until the time arrives when you feel inclined to eat.” And he went away.

The next day, at the usual hour, the sky stranger came again, and though Wunzh had fasted seven days, he felt a new power arise within him. He grasped the stranger with superhuman strength, and threw him down. He took from him his beautiful garments, and, finding him dead, buried him in the softened earth, and did all else as he had been directed.

He then returned to his father’s lodge, and partook sparingly of food. There he abode for some time. But he never forgot the grave of his friend. Daily he visited it, and pulled up the weeds and grass, and kept the earth soft and moist. Very soon, to his great wonder, he saw the tops of green plumes coming through the ground.

Weeks passed by, the summer was drawing to a close. One day Wunzh asked his father to follow him. He led him to a distant meadow. There, in the place where the stranger had been buried, stood a tall and graceful plant, with bright-colored, silken hair, and crowned by nodding green plumes. Its stalk was covered with waving leaves, and there grew from its sides clusters of milk-filled ears of corn, golden and sweet, each ear closely wrapped in its green husks.

“It is my friend!” shouted the boy joyously; “it is Mondawmin, the Indian Corn! We need no longer depend on hunting, so long as this gift is planted and cared for. The Great Spirit has heard my voice and has sent us this food.”

Then the whole family feasted on the ears of corn and thanked the Great Spirit who gave it. So Indian Corn came into the world.

THANKSGIVING

Joy is in the parlor,
Fun in on the stair,
Bustle in the kitchen,
Odors in the air!

Laughter in each dimple,
Smile in every eye!
Happy little maiden,
Can you tell me why?

Oh, ’tis glad Thanksgiving
Joy of all the year,
Nothing half so happy,
Nothing half so dear!

Song and sport and pleasure
Make the moments fly,
Happy hearts are thankful;
That’s the reason why.
THANKSGIVING
As little Jackie Squirrel
Looked out one Autumn day,
He saw old Mrs. Turkey,
Who chanced to pass that way.

"She looks quite fine," said Jackie
"But I believe somehow;
I'd rather be a squirrel
Than any bird just now!"
—Mrs. Cecil Trout Blancke

THANKSGIVING DAY
Upon our fields of corn and grain
Made ripe by earth and wind and rain,
The same sun shines that made them glad,
Each little Pilgrim lass and lad.

Long, long ago the Pilgrims bent
Their heads to thank the God who sent
The harvest ripened by the sun,
The evening rest when day was done.

And they who bowed their heads above
The feast made fair by work and love,
Passed on to us the grace to give
Our thanks to Him who made us live.

THANKSGIVING HYMN
For flowers that bloom about our feet,
For tender grass, so fresh and sweet,
For song of bird and hum of bee,
For all things fair we hear or see . . .
    Father in Heaven, we thank Thee!

For blue of stream and blue of sky,
For pleasant shade of branches high,
For fragrant air and cooling breeze,
For beauty of the blooming trees . . .
    Father in Heaven, we thank Thee!

For mother-love and father-care,
For brothers strong and sisters fair,
For love at home and here each day,
For guidance, lest we go astray,
    Father in Heaven, we thank Thee!

For this new morning with its light,
For rest and shelter of the night.
For health and good, for love and friends,
For ev'rything His goodness sends,
    Father in Heaven, we thank Thee!

THANKSGIVING DAY
Over the river and through the wood,
To Grandfather's house we go;
The horse knows the way
To carry the sleigh.
Through the white and drifted snow.

Over the river and through the wood . . .
Oh, how the wind does blow!
It stings the toes
And bites the nose,
As over the ground we go.

Over the river and through the wood,
To have a first-rate play.
Hear the bells ring,
"Ting-a-ling-ding!"
Hurrah for Thanksgiving Day!

Over the river and through the wood,
Trot fast, my dapple-gray!
Spring over the ground,
Like a hunting hound!
For this is Thanksgiving Day.

Over the river and through the wood,
And straight through the barn-yard gate.
We seem to go
Extremely slow, . . .
It is so hard to wait!

Over the river and through the wood . . .
Now Grandmother's cap I spy!
Hurrah for the fun!
Is the pudding done?
Hurrah for the pumpkin-pie!

COYOTE AND CROW

One day Coyote was out walking. He saw Crow. Crow was holding his hat under his foot.

"What is under your hat?" asked Coyote.

"I have a bluebird under my hat," said Crow. "Will you hold it for me a little while?"
asked Crow. "I will hold it," said Coyote.

"Don't look under it," said Crow. "Don't let the bluebird get away."

"I will hold it," said Coyote. "I will hold it until you get back."

Crow flew away. He flew behind a rock. He could see Coyote, but Coyote could not see him.

He raised the hat carefully. He grabbed — but it wasn't a bluebird. It was a cactus.

"Caw, caw, caw," said Crow from the top of the rock.

Coyote was angry. He sat down to pick the thorns out of his foot. "Caw, caw, caw," said Crow again and flew away.

THE SPIRIT OF THE CORN

An Iroquois Legend

By Harriet M. Converse (Adapted)

There was a time, says the Iroquois grandmother, when it was not needful to plant the cornseed nor to hoe the fields, for the corn sprang up of itself, and filled the broad meadows. Its stalks grew strong and tall, and were covered with leaves like waving banners, and filled with ears of pearly grain wrapped in silken green husks.

In those days Onatah, the Spirit of the Corn, walked upon the earth. The sun lovingly touched her dusky face with the blush of the morning, and her eyes grew soft as the gleam of the stars on dark streams. Her night-black hair was spread before the breeze like a wind-driven cloud.

As she walked through the fields, the corn, the Indian maize, sprang up of itself from the earth, and filled the air with its fringed tassels and whispering leaves. With Onatah walked her two sisters, the Spirits of the Squash and the Bean. As they passed by, squash-vines and bean-plants grew from the corn-hills.

One day Onatah wandered away alone in search of early dew. Then the Evil One of the earth, Hahgwehdaetgah, followed swiftly after: He grasped her by the hair and dragged her beneath the ground down to his gloomy cave. Then, sending out his fire-breathing monsters, he blighted Onatah's grain. And when her sisters, the Spirits of the Squash and the Bean, saw the flame-monsters raging through the fields, they flew far away in terror.

As for poor Onatah, she lay a trembling captive in the dark prison-cave of the Evil One. She mourned the blight of her cornfields, and sorrowed over her runaway sisters.
“O, warm, bright sun!” she cried, “if I may walk once more upon the earth, never again will I leave my corn!”

And the little birds of the air heard her cry, and winging their way upward they carried her vow and gave it to the sun as he wandered through the blue heavens.

The sun, who loved Onatah, sent out many searching beams of light. They pierced through the damp earth, and entering the prison-cave, guided her back again to her fields.

And ever after that she watched her fields alone, for no more did her sisters, the Spirits of the Squash and Bean, watch with her. If her fields thirsted, no longer could she seek the early dew. If the flame-monsters burned her corn, she could not search the skies for cooling winds. And when the great rains fell and injured her harvest, her voice grew so faint that the friendly sun could not hear it.

But ever Onatah tenderly watched her fields and the little birds of the air flocked to her service. They followed her through the rows of corn, and made war on the tiny enemies that gnawed at the roots of the grain.

And at harvest-time the grateful Onatah scattered the first gathered corn over her broad lands, and the little birds, fluttering and singing, joyfully partook of the feast spread for them on the meadow-ground.

HOME

Above the towering lands
Weeds and brush grow for sheep and horses;
Far away, across the desert, the mesa sleeps...
Image of a man with his arms across his body, sleeps.

Below, the canyon trees,
Waving their limbs in the cool breeze.
A ribbon winding through the fields,
And through the Navajo Village.
Along side the ribbon
Flowers are waving before rows of towering trees.

Fields of corn,
Fields of watermelon
Rows and rows of ripe grapes,
Fields of orchard crops;
Navajo hogans scattered
Here and there —
Men busy working here and there,
Children busy at their play
Busy like bees fixing their hive.
This is home, yes,
This is where I was born.

FOOD has always been a very important part of our celebration of Thanksgiving. Have the students make a Thanksgiving menu. After this has been done, discuss the contrasting tastes, colors, textures and smells of a variety of foods.

Some of the descriptive words would be:

sweet - sour
sweet - bitter rough - smooth hard - soft dry - moist, wet tough - tender crispy - soggy fat - lean heavy - light

hot (heated) hot (flavored) stringy slippery grainy chewy sticky

Colors—Flavors
red—cherry, strawberry orange—orange green—lime yellow—lemon
black—licorice brown—chocolate white—vanilla purple—grape
It will be necessary to make sure the students know the meanings of some of the above words. There are other descriptive words which can be added to the list. See how many the students can give to you; add these to the list. They can be reviewed from time to time. You will also find that these words contain many of the sounds we are studying.

ONE extension of this lesson can include such idiomatic expressions as:

- "sticks to your ribs"
- "an apple a day"
- "Bread is the staff of life."
- "sour as a pickle"
- "sweet as honey"
- "My mouth is watering."
- "green as grass"

IF I WERE A PILGRIM CHILD

If I were a Pilgrim child,
Dressed in white or gray
I should catch my turkey wild
For Thanksgiving Day.
I should pick my cranberries
'Fresh from out a bog,
And make a table of a stamp
And sit upon a log.
An Indian would be my guest
And wear a crimson feather,
And we should clasp our hands and say
Thanksgiving grace together.
But I was born in modern times
And shall not have this joy.
My cranberries will be delivered
By the grocery boy.
My turkey will be served upon
A shining silver platter.
It will not taste as wild game tastes
Though it will be much fatter;
And, oh, of all the guests that come
Not one of them will wear
Moccasins upon his feet
Or feathers in his hair!

—Rosena Bennett

BE THANKFUL UNTO HIM

The Bible: Psalm 100
Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands.
Serve the Lord with gladness!
Come before His presence with singing!
Know ye that the Lord He is God:
It is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves;
We are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.
Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into
His courts with praise!
Be thankful unto Him, and bless His name.
For the Lord is good;
His mercy is everlasting;
And His truth endureth to all generations.

TEST TAPE NO. 2

M. Write your name, date and group in upper left corner. (pause 10 seconds)

F. Section I. STRESS

F. Number from 1-10. (pause 10 seconds)

F. Now listen carefully. You will hear ten sentences. Write down the word in each sentence which receives the strongest stress. For example, listen:

M. How many pencils does she have?
F. The word pencils received the strongest stress. You would write the word pencils.

F. Example 2.
M. How well does she speak English?
F. The word English received the strongest stress. You'd write the word English.

F. Now, let's begin:

M. 1. How many pencils does she have?
M. 2. How well does she speak English?
M. 3. How much money do you have?
M. 4. How often do you see him?
M. 5. How much English does she know?
F. 6. How many points did he score?
F. 7. How well can he speak the language?
F. 8. How many years have you been here?
F. 9. How long do you really study every night?
F. 10. How long do you think you need?

F. Now, here are your answers. Put an X on those you missed.

M. 1. pencils  F. 6. score
M. 2. English  F. 7. speak
M. 3. money  F. 8. been
M. 4. see  F. 9. really
M. 5. English  F. 10. need

M. Section 2. Tag endings. Number from 1 to 10. (pause 10 seconds)

Listen carefully. You will hear ten sentences. After the number of each problem on your answer sheet, write a tag question to go with the sentence which you hear.

M. For example, listen:
F. He left by bus.
M. You should write “didn’t he?”

M. Example 2. Listen:
F. They haven’t much money.
M. You would write “have they?”
M. Example 3. Listen:
F. You've never been to Texas.  M. You should write "have you?"

M. Now, let's begin. Write only the tag question:
F. 1. He left by bus.  .................................................. ?
F. 2. They haven't much money.  .................................. ?
F. 3. You've never been to Texas.  .................................. ?
F. 4. He went downtown.  ........................................... ?
F. 5. The mail hasn't arrived yet. .................................. ?
M. 6. He speaks English.  .......................................... ?
M. 7. She can't dance very well.  .................................. ?
M. 8. You never saw them.  ........................................ ?
M. 9. You speak Navajo well.  ..................................... ?
M. 10. You'll be in school Monday. ................................ ?

M. Here are the correct tag endings. Correct your paper. Here's what you should have written:
F. 1. didn't he?  ..................................................... M. 6. doesn't he?
F. 2. have they? ..................................................... M. 7. can she?
F. 3. have you? ....................................................... M. 8. did you?
F. 4. didn't he? ....................................................... M. 9. don't you?
F. 5. has it? .......................................................... M. 10. won't you?

F. Section 3. The "t, d, and id" endings. Number from 1 to 10. Now listen carefully. You will hear ten verbs in the past tense. Some end in the /t/ sound, some in the /d/ sound and others in the /id/ sound. Write "t, d, or id" for each word — whichever you think you hear.

F. For example, listen:
M. wanted
F. This word ended in the /id/ sound. You should write "id."

F. Example 2, listen:
M. changed
F. This word ended in the /d/ sound. You should write "d."

F. Example 3, listen:
M. laughed
F. This word ended in the /t/ sound. You should write "t."
F. Now, let’s begin:

M. 1. wanted .......................... F. 6. called ..........................
M. 2. changed .......................... F. 7. passed ..........................
M. 3. laughed ........................... F. 8. showed ..........................
M. 4. watched ........................... M. 9. liked ..........................
F. 5. waited ............................. M. 10. used ..........................

F. Here are your answers:

F. 1. ID ................................. F. 4. T ............................... M. 7. T ...........................
F. 2. D ................................. F. 5. ID ............................. M. 8. D ..........................

M. Section 4. Telling time. Number from 1 to 10. Listen carefully. You will hear several sentences saying what time it is. Using numbers, not words, you will write the time of day that you hear after the number of the problem.

M. For example, listen:
F. It’s half past three.
M. You should write “3:30” in numbers.

M. Example 2, listen:
F. It’s a quarter to six.
M. You should write “5:45” in numbers.

M. Example 3, listen:
F. It’s nine twenty.
M. You should write “9:20” in figures.

M. Now, let’s begin:

F. 1. It’s half past three. .......................... M. 6. It’s three o’clock. ..........................
F. 2. It’s a quarter to six. .......................... M. 7. It’s quarter past eleven. ..........................
F. 3. It’s nine twenty. .............................. M. 8. It’s a quarter to five. ..........................
F. 4. It’s half past ten. ............................. M. 9. It’s eight forty-five ..........................
F. 5. It’s quarter of nine ........................... M. 10. It’s ten to one. ..........................

F. And here are your answers:

M. 1. 3:30 (three, three, zero) .......................... F. 6. 3:00 ..............................
M. 2. 5:45 ............................... F. 7. 11:15 ..............................
M. 3. 9:20 ............................... F. 8. 4:45 ..............................
M. 4. 10:30 .............................. F. 9. 8:45 ..............................
M. 5. 8:45 ............................... F. 10. 12:50 ..............................

F. Section 5. “S” sendings. Number from 1 to 10. Now listen carefully. You will hear several words with “S” endings. Some have the final /s/, some have the final /z/ and others have the final /iz/. If you think the word ends in /s/ sound, write “s”; if you think the word ends in the /z/ sound, write "z"; if you think the word ends in the /iz/ sound, write "iz" after the number of the problem.

F. Let's begin:

M. 1. feels ........................................
F. 6. wants ........................................
M. 2. hats ...........................................
F. 7. shows ........................................
M. 3. wishes ........................................
F. 8. misses ........................................
M. 4. needs ........................................
F. 9. reaches ........................................
M. 5. talks ........................................
F. 10. let's .........................................

M. Here are your answers:

F. 2. S  M. 7. Z
F. 3. IZ M. 8. IZ
F. 4. Z  M. 9. IZ
F. 5. S  M. 10. S

F. Count up the number wrong in each section. Put the number-wrong in each section in a circle, at the top of each section.

M. This ends the lesson.

F. Tape A-14

DIALOGUES: ON THE BUS; LOOKING FOR AN APARTMENT
"DID" WITH THE PAST TENSE

F. In this lesson, you'll be asked to remember some dialogues. Listen very closely to the first dialogue:

F. A Conversation on the Bus between the Driver and a Passenger.

M. Stand back from the door. Let the passengers off first.
F. How much is the fare please?
M. Twenty cents. Drop your dimes in the box please. There are plenty of seats to the rear.
F. Does this bus go to the City Hall?
M. That's right. Get in please. Move along everybody, right to the rear of the bus.
F. I want to be sure that this is the right bus. Are you sure that this bus goes to the City Hall?
M. It's the last stop. I just told you. All you have to do is get off the bus when we get there. Come on please. Step along. We haven't got all day to wait here.
F. You needn't be so impolite. I only asked you a simple question.
M. I gave you a simple answer. I don't have time to carry on a conversation with every passenger that gets on. Look at the crowd waiting to get in.
F. What terrible manners! It's disgusting!
M. I'm sorry. Keep moving please.
F. You're lucky I'm not your wife. If I were, I'd give you a good dose of poison.
M. And if I were your husband, I'd be glad to take it. Move along please.

F. Now, listen to the dialogue again. After you hear it, you're going to be the passenger. Listen closely:

(Repeat the dialogue)

F. Now, you be the passenger.
M. Stand back from the door. Let the passengers off first.

M. Twenty cents. Drop your dimes in the box, please. There are plenty of seats to the rear.

M. That's right. Get in please. Move along everybody, right to the rear of the bus.

M. It's the last stop. I just told you. All you have to do is get off the bus when we get there. Come on, please. Step along. We haven't got all day to wait here.

M. I gave you a simple answer. I don't have time to carry on a conversation with every passenger that gets on. Look at the crowd waiting to get in.

M. I'm sorry. Keep moving please.

M. And if I were your husband, I'd be glad to take it. Move along please.

F. Dialogue No. 2:

M. Looking for an Apartment

M. Listen closely. You'll be asked to remember this dialogue between an apartment hunter and the owner of the building:
F. Good morning. May I help you?
M. I understand you have an apartment for rent. I saw your advertisement in this morning's paper.
F. The apartment is on the fourth floor. Here's the elevator.
M. I'm glad there's an elevator. That will save me the trouble of walking up and down stairs.
F. Yes, it's a self-service elevator and operates twenty-four hours a day. Here we are.
M. How much does the apartment rent for?
F. This apartment is seventy-five dollars a month. Would you like to look around?
M. May I see the stove and refrigerator?
F. Yes, they're both new and completely modern. Here's the living room.

M. The advertisement mentioned a view of the river from the living room window.

F. Yes, if you look out this window you can see the river.

M. I don't see anything but the next building. Where is the river?

F. Look carefully between those two tall buildings right where I'm pointing. It's some distance away, but you can see it on a clear day.

M. My goodness! You must be kidding! That water must be ten miles away. I'm a Navajo, not an eagle. A person would have to have the eyes of an eagle to see your foolish river. I'm not interested. Thank you. Goodbye.

F. Now, listen to the dialogue again. After you hear it, you're going to be the apartment hunter.

F. Listen closely:

(REPEAT THE DIALOGUE)

M. Now, you be the apartment hunter.

F. Good morning. May I help you?

F. The apartment is on the fourth floor. Here's the elevator.

F. Yes, it's a self-service elevator and operates twenty-four hours a day. Here we are.

F. This apartment is seventy-five dollars a month. Would you like to look around?

F. Yes, they're both new and completely modern. Here's the living room.

F. Yes, if you look out this window you can see the river.

F. Look carefully between those two tall buildings right where I'm pointing. It's some distance away, but you can see it on a clear day.

F. Listen:

M. They left for California on Wednesday.

F. Did they leave for California on Wednesday?

M. I saw them off at the station.

F. Did you see them off at the station?

M. She put all her savings in the bank.

F. Did she put all her savings in the bank?
F. Now, follow the example. Change to questions. Begin with “did.”

M. They left for California on Wednesday.
F. Did they leave?

M. I saw them off at the station.
F. Did you see?

M. She put all her savings in the bank.
F. Did she put?

M. They lost everything they owned.
F. Did they lose?

M. The meeting began on time.
F. Did the meeting begin?

M. Helen drove us in her new car.
F. Did Helen drive?

M. Her father bought it for her.
F. Did her father buy?

F. She had a Ford.
M. Did she have?

F. I ate breakfast in the cafeteria.
M. Did you eat?

F. They met us promptly at 8.
M. Did they meet?

F. The dog slept in the sun all afternoon.
M. Did the dog sleep?

F. I got your message when we got home.
M. Did you get?

M. He thanked me for the present.
F. Did he thank?

M. I sent them a telegram when we arrived.
F. Did you send?

M. He spoke to me about his change of plans.
F. Did he speak?

M. I told him about our agreement.
F. Did you tell?

M. John failed his last examination.
F. Did John fail?

M. The ship sailed at midnight.
F. Did the ship sail?

M. Now, let’s review those verbs:

M. I’ll say, “They left”; you answer, “Did they leave?” For example, listen:

M. They left
F. Did they leave?

M. I saw
F. Did you see?

M. She put
F. Did she put?

M. Now, you follow the example. Begin with “did.”

M. They left
F. The dog slept

M. I saw
M. I got

M. They lost
M. He thanked

M. The meeting began
M. I sent

M. Helen drove
F. He spoke

F. Her father bought
F. I told

F. She had
F. John failed

F. I ate
F. The ship sailed

F. They met

M. This ends the lesson.
A VISIT FROM ST. NICHOLAS
by Clement C. Moore

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;
The children were nestled all snug in their beds
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads;
And Mamma in her kerchief, and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap,
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.
The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow
Gave a lustre of midday to objects below,
When, what to my wondering eyes did appear,
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer,
With a little old driver, so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled, and shouted, and called them by name:
"Now, Dasher! Now, Dancer! Now, Prancer and Vixen!
On Comet, on Cupid, Donder and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch! To the top of the wall!
Now, dash away! dash away! dash away all!"
As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So up to the housetop the coursers they flew,
With the sleigh full of toys, and St. Nicholas too.
And then, in a twinkling, I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head, and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.
He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.
His eyes — how they twinkled, his dimples, how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry!
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow;
The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke, it encircled his head like a wreath;
He had a broad face and a little round belly
That shook, when he laughed, like a bowl fully of jelly.
He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself;
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread;
He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.
He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.

RAY OF CHRISTMAS TO ALL, AND TO ALL A GOOD-NIGHT.”

   M. that lives in that green house
   M. who is painting his house
   F. who works downtown
   F. who is seven feet tall
   F. that is building this house
   F. who is wearing the black hat
M. Isn’t that the office where Bob works?
   F. the restaurant
   F. the theater
   F. the hospital
   F. the library
   F. the drugstore
M. You’ve got to get used to living in the city.
   F. to going to bed earlier
   F. to studying for two hours every evening
   M. to working outdoors once in a while
   M. to being quiet in class
F. Listen:
   M. I bought the magazine. It had a lot of pictures.
   F. I bought the magazine that had a lot of pictures.
M. This is the desk. It is broken.
F. This is the desk that is broken.
M. That's the car. It doesn't run very well.
F. That's the car that doesn't run very well.

F. Now, you follow the example. Make one sentence out of two, using "that":
M. I bought the magazine. It had a lot of pictures.
M. This is the desk. It is broken.
M. That's the car. It doesn't run very well.
M. This is the pen. It won't write.
F. There's the truck. It was in an accident.
F. These are the new dishes. They can't break.
F. That's the typewriter. It won't operate.

M. Listen:
F. The man is over there.
M. The man that I told you about is over there.
F. The woman is Mrs. Smith.
M. The woman that is wearing the blue dress is Mrs. Smith.
F. This is the book.
M. This is the book that I read last week.

M. Now, follow the example. You add your own expression to describe the person or thing. Begin with "that."
F. The man is over there.
F. The woman is Mrs. Smith.
F. This is the book.
F. The girl went home.
F. The boy is Bill Jones.
M. That's the magazine.
M. I know the boy.
M. The hospital is on the hill.
M. I met the man.
M. I congratulated the boy.

F. This ends the lesson.
M. Tape A-16

REVIEW
TAG ENDINGS, CONDITIONAL SENTENCES
SAMPLE DIALOGUE. IRREGULAR VERBS WITH “DID”
PRONUNCIATION DRILLS: FINAL “S” SOUNDS

M. This lesson is a review of some of our speaking practice during the last few weeks. It will be rapid. Try to keep up.

M. Listen:

F. He comes here everyday, doesn’t he?
F. She speaks Navajo well, doesn’t she?
F. They’ll be home early, won’t they?

M. Now, you add the tag ending:

F. He comes here everyday, ………………?             M. doesn’t he?
F. She can speak Navajo well, ………………?          M. can’t she?
F. They’ll be home early, ………………?              M. won’t they
F. He left at two, ………………?                    M. didn’t he?
F. He went home early, ………………?                 M. didn’t he?
M. He has many books, ………………?                 F. hasn’t he?
M. You live downtown, ………………?                 F. don’t you?
M. You studied together, ………………?              F. didn’t you?
M. They look alike, ………………?                   F. don’t they?
M. Fred spoke to you about it, ………………?         F. didn’t he?

M. -Let’s continue:

M. Listen:

F. He doesn’t see you everyday, does he?
F. She isn’t busy now, is she?
F. They didn’t come together, did they?

M. Now, you provide the tag ending. Remember your intonation.

F. He doesn’t see you everyday, ………………? ………………?
F. She isn’t busy now, ………………? ………………?
F. They didn’t come together, ………………? ………………?
F. Your folks don’t live in town, ………………? ………………?
M. They don’t know each other, ………………? ………………?
M. You didn’t have to work yesterday, ………………? ………………?
M. They didn't arrive on time.
M. She won't be able to make it.

F. Let's mix them up. Here are many varied examples. Think, then add the tag ending. For example, listen:

   M. John often walks to the post office, doesn't he?
   M. He never goes in the morning, does he?
   F. He usually buys stamps, doesn't he?
   F. There's no crowd in the morning, is there?

M. Now, you're on your own. Provide the tag ending:

   F. John often walks to the post office, .................................................. ?
   F. He never goes in the morning ............................................................... ?
   F. He usually buys stamps, ................................................................. ?
   F. There's no crowd in the morning, ......................................................... ?
   F. He hates to stand in line, ............................................................... ?
   M. He didn't have to wait yesterday , ......................................................... ?
   M. You go along sometimes, ................................................................. ?
   M. You two don't drive, ................................................................. ?
   M. You take a taxi, ................................................................. ?
   M. It's quite expensive, ................................................................. ?
   M. You don't like to walk, ................................................................. ?

M. Beware of the following sentences. Every sentence has one pronunciation trap set for you. Don't get caught. Listen and repeat:

   M. He's travelled all over the United States.
   M. She notices the latest styles.
   M. The breaking waves dashed high.
   M. Bill wished he could be here.
   M. As time passed, more towns grew up.
   M. They don't know whether they can go in such weather.
   M. The kids resemble their father and their mother.

F. Conditional sentences.

   F. Listen:

      M. If I were you, I would take the trip.
      M. If he had the time, he would help us.
      M. If I knew how to swim, I would go along.
F. Now, you complete the sentences. Use "would."

M. If I were you,
M. If he had the time,
M. If I knew how to swim,
M. If I had the money,
F. If Mary were here,
F. If today were Sunday,
F. If I had a car,
F. If I study harder,

M. Now, let's work backwards, for example:

F. I wouldn't go  M. if I were you.
F. He would help  M. if he had the time.
F. I would go along  M. if I knew how to swim.

M. All right, you're own your own. Begin with "if":

F. I wouldn't go
F. He would help
F. I would go along
F. I'd buy that radio
M. I would telephone my folks
M. I would drive that car
M. I would study Spanish
M. I would like to see the game

F. Now, listen to this dialogue. You'll be asked to remember it. This is a conversation in the fruit and vegetable department between the clerk and the customer. Listen closely. After you hear it twice, you'll be the customer.

Listen:

M. What can I do for you today?
F. I saw your advertisement about a sale on oranges.
M. Yes, which would you like, Florida or California?
F. What's the difference?
M. Florida oranges are juicier with thinner skins.
F. Then pick me out a dozen of the Florida please.
M. Is there anything else? How about some onions? They're on a special today.
F. I never buy onions, Tony. I can't stand their strong odor.
M. But onions are very good for you. Onions are like apples. You know the old saying: "An apple a day keeps the doctor away."
F. Yes, I know; but an onion a day will keep everyone away.
F. Now, listen once more before you become the customer.

(REPEAT THE DIALOGUE)

F. Now, you be the customer:
M. What can I do for you today?

M. Yes, which would you like, Florida or California?

M. Florida oranges are juicier with thinner skins.

M. Is there anything else? How about some onions? They’re on a special today.

M. But onions are very good for you. Onions are like apples. You know the old saying: “An apple a day keeps the doctor away.”

F. Now, once more. Speak with expression.

(REPEAT)

M. Irregular verbs, listen:

F. I went
F. He came

F. Did you go?
F. Did he come?
F. Did they sing?

F. Did I drive?
M. Did she buy it?
M. Did I sleep?
M. Did Bill bring it?
M. Did we tell them?
M. Did I understand?
M. Did Ruth speak?
M. Did I sweep?
M. Did we meet them?

F. go
F. come
F. sing
F. drive
F. buy
F. sleep
F. bring
F. tell
F. understand
F. speak
F. sweep
F. meet
M. I forgot
M. She felt sick

F. She rode with me
F. The bell rang
M. I thought
M. Bill did it
M. We began
M. Ted fought
F. She wore it
F. He threw it
F. I wrote
F. He stole it
F. She said so
M. We won
M. I stood there
M. He knew her
M. She fell
F. The dog bit me
F. I meant it
F. He shot the deer
F. He made it
F. It began already

F. Pluralize the following nouns:
M. map  F. match  M. clan
M. roof  F. necklace  M. song
M. light  F. horse  M. car
M. seat  F. change  M. egg
M. tape  F. garage  M. name

F. Put an "ed" ending on the following verbs:
M. answer  F. receive  M. talk  F. invite
M. arrive  F. ask  M. walk  F. start
M. clean  F. finish  M. add  F. wait
M. enjoy  F. help  M. decide  F. want
M. like  F. paint  M. telephone  F. listen

M. This ends the lesson.
IF I WERE A PILGRIM CHILD

by Rosena Bennett

If I were a Pilgrim child,
Dressed in white or gray,
I should catch my turkey wild
For Thanksgiving Day.
I should pick my cranberries
Fresh from out a bog.
And make a table of a stump
And sit upon a log.
An Indian would be my guest
And wear a crimson feather,
And we should clasp our hands and say
Thanksgiving grace together.

But I was born in modern times
And shall not have this joy.
My cranberries will be delivered
By the grocery boy.
My turkey will be served upon
A shining silver platter.
It will not taste as wild game tastes
Though it will be much fatter;
And, oh, of all the guest the come
Not one of them will wear
Moccasins upon his feet
Or feathers in his hair!

I AM AN AMERICAN

I am an American, listen to my words, listen well, for my country is a strong country, and my message is a strong message. I am an American; I speak for democracy and the dignity of the individual. I am an American, and my ancestors have given their blood for freedom.

On the green at Lexington and the snows at Valley Forge; the walls at Fort Sumter and the fields of Gettysburg, on the waters of the Mond and the shadows of the Argonne and the beachheads of Salerno and Normandy and the sands of Okinawa and the bare bleak hills called Pork Chop and Old Baldy and Heartbreak Ridge. A million and more of my countrymen have died for freedom. I am an American and my country is their eternal monument.

I am an American and my ancestors have bequeathed to me the laughter of a small boy, as he watches a circus clown's antics. The sweet delicious coldness of the first bite of peppermint ice-cream on the Fourth of July. The little tenseness of the baseball crowd as the umpire calls, "Batter-up;" of the high school band's rendition of "Stars and Stripes Forever," in a Memorial Day parade. The clear sharp ring of a school bell on a crisp fall morning. These and many other things "they" fought for and left for me.

I am an American, and the fruits of my thought and labor are mine to enjoy.

I am an American and my happy land is a land of many realms and mansions. For it is the land of Ohio corn and potatoes and pasture. It's the realm of hundreds of acres of golden wheat, stretching across the flat miles of Kansas. It is the land of precision assembly lines in Detroit. It is the realm of milling cattle in the stockyards of Chicago. It is the land of glowing skylines of Pittsburg and Birmingham, of San Francisco and New York. And in my churches and homes are the mansions of heaven.

I am an American and the love of God has made me free.

I am an American, and in my churches and homes, everyone worships God in his own way. The young Jewish boy saying, "Hear oh Israel, the Lord is one...". The Catholic girl praying, "Hail Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee..." The Protestant boy singing, "A mighty fortress is our God." Each one believing and praying as he must and all joining in the universal prayer. “Our Father, who art in heaven . . .”, with the voice and soul of every human being that cries out to be free.

I am an American, and I believe that America has answered that voice.

I am an American and my country offers freedom and opportunity such as no land before her has ever done. Freedom to work as mechanic or truckdriver, freedom to think as chemist or lawyer, as doctor or priest, freedom to love, as child, as parent, sweetheart, husband, wife; freedom to speak, to pray, to read, to argue, to praise, to criticize; freedom to eat and sleep, to work and play without fear; freedom to live one or two hundred million different lives.

I am an American and my heritage is of the land and of the spirit of the heart and of the soul.

Show me now, a country greater than my country, a people happier than my people.

I speak for democracy, and the freedom of the individual.

THE MOON’S
THE NORTH WIND’S COOKY

The Moon’s the North Wind’s cooky.
He bites it day by day,
Until there’s but a rim of scraps
That crumble all away.
The South Wind is a baker.
He kneads clouds in his den,
And bakes a crisp new moon that . . . greedy North . . . Wind . . . eats . . . again!

LAUGHTER HOLDING BOTH HIS SIDES

Jest and youthful jollity,
Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles,
Nods and Becks and Wreathed Smiles . . .
Sport, that wrinkled Care derides,
And Laughter holding both his sides.

THE GOBLIN

A goblin lives in our house, in our house, in our house,
A goblin lives in our house all the year round.

He bumps
And he jumps
And he thumps
And he stumps.
He knocks
And he rocks
And he rattles at the locks.
A goblin lives in our house, in our house, in our house,
A goblin lives in our house all the year round!

Week's Lessons Follow
M. Listen to the following dialogue between a waitress and a customer. You're going to be the customer. Listen:

F. Good morning. May I help you?
M. Good morning. I'd like to order breakfast, please.
F. Certainly. Here's your menu. (pause)
F. Have you decided, yet?
M. Yes, I'd like two fried eggs please.
F. How would you like your eggs, turned over?
M. No, sunny side up please.
F. Anything else?
M. Yes, a small glass of orange juice, toast and milk. Toast comes with that order, doesn't it?
F. Yes, it does. Is that all?
M. Yes, thank you.

M. Now, listen once again.

(REPEAT DIALOGUE)

M. Now, you be the customer:

F. Good morning. May I help you?

F. Certainly. Here's your menu. (pause) Have you decided yet?

F. How would you like your eggs, turned over?

F. Anything else?

F. Yes, it does. Is that all?

M. Let's try that once again. Speak up, clearly.

(REPEAT)

F. Listen:

M. I know the doctor. He took care of you.
F. I know the doctor who took care of you.
M. The woman had on a red hat. She was Mrs. Jones.
F. The woman who had on a red hat was Mrs. Jones.

M. I met the man. He writes for the newspaper.
F. I met the man who writes for the newspaper.

F. Now, you follow the examples. Combine the sentences using “who”:
M. I know the doctor. He took care of you.
M. The woman had on a red hat. She was Mrs. Jones.
M. I met the man. He writes for the newspaper.
M. I met the nurse. She took care of you
F. The man drove the car. His name is Mr. Harris.
F. The boy won the game. His name is Tom White.
F. That boy won the race. He is my brother.
F. That’s the teacher. She gives a quiz everyday.

M. Now, let’s continue. Combine the sentences using “that”:
F. I bought the magazine. It had a lot of pictures.
F. This is the desk. It is broken.
F. That’s the car. It doesn’t run very well.
F. This is the pen. It won’t write.
M. These are the new dishes. They can’t break.
M. That’s the typewriter. It won’t operate.
M. There’s the truck. It was in an accident.
M. That’s the old Chevrolet. It runs beautifully.

F. Now, you complete these sentences with words of your own. Begin with “that.”
F. For example:
M. The man is over there.
F. The man that I told you about is over there.
M. The woman is Mrs. Smith.
F. The woman that is wearing the blue dress is Mrs. Smith.
M. This is the book.
Y. This is the book that I read last week.

F. Now, you add your own expression to describe the person or thing. Begin with “that”:
M. The man is over there.
M. The woman is Mrs. Smith.
M. This is the book.
M. The girl went home.
M. The boy is Bill Jones.
F. That's the magazine.
F. I know the boy.
F. The hospital is on the hill.
F. I met the man.
F. I congratulated the boy.

M. Now, listen to this dialogue in a restaurant. You'll be the customer again. Listen first:

F. May I take your order?
M. I haven't seen a menu. May I have one please?
F. Here you are.
M. Thank you.
F. Are you ready to order?
M. I'll have this special, please, with the roast beef.
F. Soup or juice?
M. I'll have the chicken soup, please.
F. A salad goes with the dinner; Thousand Island or French dressing?
M. I think I'll prefer the French.
F. And what to drink?
M. Milk, please.
F. Would you mind ordering your dessert now, please?
M. What do you have?
F. You may have pie, cake, ice cream or jello.
M. What kind of pie do you have?
F. Apple, peach, pumpkin, lemon and mince.
M. I'll have the apple pie please.
F. Thank you.

M. Now, listen again.

(Repeat dialogue)

M. Now, you be the customer:

F. May I take your order?

F. Here you are.

F. Are you ready to order?
F. Soup or juice?

F. A salad goes with the dinner; Thousand Island or French dressing?

F. And what to drink?

F. Would you mind ordering your dessert now, please?

F. You may have pie, cake, ice cream or jello.

F. Apple, peach, pumpkin, lemon and mince.

F. Thank you.

M. Let's go through that once again. You're the customer.

(Repeat dialogue)

M. Pronunciation review.

M. Listen and repeat:

F. Our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation.

F. We hold these truths to be self evident.

F. The breaking waves dashed high.

F. And the sounding aisles of the dim woods rang.

M. My fellow citizens of the world.

M. With a good conscience our only sure reward.

M. I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead.

M. And mountains of wearisome height.

F. Or pinching times if he went to town.

F. And the rebel rides on his raids no more.

F. And ever the stars above look down.

F. To you from failing hands we throw the torch.

M. Since he kissed them and put them there.

M. Each morning sees some task begun.

M. Thanks, thanks to thee, my worthy friend.

F. This ends the lesson.
M. Tape A-18

DIALOGUE: AT THE BASKETBALL GAME

M. Listen to the following conversation at the gym:

F. Well, here we are. I hope we're on time. What time is the game supposed to start?
M. The paper said 8 o'clock. It's only 7:45. We have plenty of time.
F. I've never seen a game before and don't know the first thing about basketball. Would you mind if I asked you questions during the game?
M. Not at all. I'll be glad to answer them if I can.
F. Where are the teams now?
M. The teams are in the locker room getting dressed for the game. Most likely the coach is giving them some last minute instructions.
F. Oh, the crowd is standing! Here they come! Gosh, I didn't realize this place could get so excited!
M. Basketball is a terrific game. Wait until you see how exciting it gets when the action starts.
F. Well, I guess we can sit down now. Everyone is sitting.
M. The teams are running out on the floor. As soon as the referee blows his whistle they'll get started.

M. Now, listen to the same dialogue. You're going to be the one who explains the game to the visitor.

(REPEAT DIALOGUE)

M. Now, you be the one who explains the game:

F. Well, here we are. I hope we're on time. What time is the game supposed to start?

F. I've never seen a game before and don't know the first thing about basketball. Would you mind if I asked you questions during the game?

F. Where are the teams now?

F. Oh, the crowd is standing! Here they come! Gosh, I didn't realize this place could get so excited!

F. Well, I guess we can sit down now. Everyone is sitting.

M. Let's go through that once again.

(REPEAT)
M. We'll continue with the conversation at the game. Listen:

F. Now, tell me. What should I watch for?
M. Well, you know that the team that gets the ball in the basket more times wins the game.
F. Yes, I understand. Now, how long does the game last?
M. There are four periods. Each period is 12 minutes long. Keep your eye on the scoreboard up there.
F. Say, that's quite a scoreboard!
M. Yes, you see the clock and the score. It's all electrically operated from that table by the side of the court.
F. I see there are five men on a team. Give me a quick description of the positions in the red uniforms, will you?
M. Well that tall fellow in the middle is the center, those two boys up the other end are guards and the two fellows down here are forwards.
F. What do they do?
M. Well, the guards try to guard our basket. The forwards do most of the shooting and the center will usually be under the basket.
F. I hope you don't mind all these questions. You must think I'm awfully stupid.
M. Not at all. You keep asking them. I'll be glad to answer them.

M. Now, listen again. (REPEAT DIALOGUE)

M. This time, you'll continue to explain the game. Here we go:

F. Now, tell me. What should I watch for?

F. Yes, I understand. Now, how long does the game last?

F. Say, that's quite a scoreboard!

F. I see there are five men on a team. Give me a quick description of the positions in the red uniforms, will you?

F. What do they do?

F. I hope you don't mind all these questions. You must think I'm awfully stupid.

M. Let's try that again. (REPEAT.)

M. You're doing fine. Let's go on with the game. Listen:

F. That ball moves around. Is it necessary to keep bouncing it on the floor when they run around?
M. Oh yes. That's what's called dribbling. They've got to bounce the ball everytime they take two steps.

F. I see. There goes the whistle again.

M. Yes, everytime a team makes a mistake the whistle blows.

F. Then what happens?

M. Well, the other team gets the ball or gets a free shot.

F. They do a lot of shooting, don't they?

M. Yes, they have only ten seconds to get the ball over the center line.

F. That's interesting. How many points is a basket?

M. If they get an action shot, that's a field goal and two points. When they throw a free shot, it counts one point.

F. Now that I understand the game, I'll enjoy it more. Thanks for all of the information. Sorry to bother you.

M. I was glad you did. Keep an eye on No. 14, Jim Yazzie. He's terrific.

M. Now, listen again. (REPEAT DIALOGUE)

M. Now, you continue with your conversation and explain the game:

F. That ball moves around. Is it necessary to keep bouncing it on the floor when they run around?

.................................................................

F. I see. There goes the whistle again.

.................................................................

F. Then what happens?

.................................................................

F. They do a lot of shooting, don't they?

.................................................................

F. That's interesting. How many points is a basket?

.................................................................

F. Now that I understand the game, I'll enjoy it more. Thanks for all of the information. Sorry to bother you.

.................................................................

M. We'll end the conversation after you try that last dialogue once again.

(Repeat)

F. This ends the lesson.
THIRTY THOUSAND THOUGHTLESS BOYS

Thirty thousand thoughtless boys
Thought they'd make a thundering noise;
So with thirty thousand thumbs,
They thumped on thirty thousand drums.

JINGLE

Did you ever see together
Sheaves of wheat in windy weather,
Withered leaves in fields of heather
All these growing, all together?

THE CHRISTMAS STORY

according to Saint Luke

Now it came to pass in those days, that a decree went forth from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. This first census took place while Cyrius was governor of Syria. And all were going, each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also went from Galilee out of town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem — because he was of the house of David — to register, together with Mary, his espoused wife, who was with child. And it came to pass they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night. And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the Glory of God shone round about them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David, a Savior has been born to you, who is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign to you: you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger." And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men of good will."

And it came to pass, when the angels had departed from them into heaven, that the shepherds were saying to one another, "Let us go over to Bethlehem and see this thing that has come to pass, which the Lord has made known to us."

So they went with haste, and they found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger. And when they had seen, they understood what had been told them by the shepherds. But Mary kept in mind all these things, pondering them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all that they had heard and seen, even as it was spoken to them.

SOMETHING ABOUT NAVAJO HISTORY

M. Listen to the following dialogue. You'll be asked to remember it.

F. *I've been reading something about Navajo history. Did you know that Navajo legend tells that their people came on earth from underground?

M. Oh yes, the Navajos believe that the first people came up through a hole near the Colorado, New Mexico boundary in the valley of the San Juan River.

F. I didn't know that you knew their history.

M. Oh yes, I'm very interested in Navajo history and I've read quite a bit about it.

F. How interesting! Would you be willing to tell me something about it?

M. I'd be very happy to, if I can.

F. What do the history books say about where the Navajos came from?

M. Well, most scientists think that Navajos came to this continent from Asia over the Bering Strait.

F. Where's that?

M. It's that narrow waterway you can see on the map between Alaska and Asia.

F. How long ago? Do they know?

M. No, nobody has any real history of the Navajo people before about 13 or 1400 A.D.

M. Now, listen again. (REPEAT DIALOGUE)*

M. Now, you'll be the one explaining the history. Here we go:

F. I've been reading something about Navajo history. Did you know that Navajo legend tells that their people came on earth from underground?

F. I didn't know that you knew their history.

F. How interesting! Would you be willing to tell me something about it?

F. What do the history books say about where the Navajos came from?

F. Where's that?

F. How long ago? Do they know?

M. Now, let's try that again. (REPEAT DIALOGUE)

M. We'll go on. Listen:

F. Let's continue, shall we? May I ask you more?

M. Yes, go right ahead.
F. How did the Navajos get their horses and sheep?
M. The Navajos got their horses and sheep from the Spaniards, sometime during the 1600's.
F. I suppose the Spaniards introduced silver, too.
M. That's correct.
F. The Navajo tribe has grown to be the largest in the country, hasn't it?
M. That's right. There are over 100,000 Navajos today and the tribe continues to grow.
F. The people must have had a very difficult beginning during those early days.
M. In those early days, the Navajos moved around their territory. They had no friends among the other tribes. They considered the white settlers as their enemies.
F. There must have been much trouble.
M. There certainly was. The Navajo country was a dangerous place for anyone except a Navajo in those days.

M. Listen again. (REPEAT DIALOGUE)

M. Now, you take part in the conversation:
F. Let's continue, shall we? May I ask you more?
F. How did the Navajos get their horses and sheep?
F. I suppose the Spaniards introduced silver, too.
F. The Navajo tribe has grown to be the largest in the country, hasn't it?
F. The people must have had a very difficult beginning during those early days.
F. There must have been much trouble.

M. We'll try that again. (REPEAT)

F. *Say, this is getting exciting!
M. It was very exciting when the Navajos were a raiding people against the Pueblos, the whites and the army.
F. How long did the trouble go on?
M. Well, they tried to stop it in 1846 with a treaty at Fort Wingate. The Navajos called it Bear Springs.
F. Did they finally get peace?
M. No, the trouble was that the chiefs who signed the treaty didn't represent all the Navajos.
F. And the raids continued?
M. Yes, for about 20 more years until Kit Carson was given the job of rounding up the people.
F. That must have been a tough job.
M. It was very difficult for both sides. Many Navajos hid in places like Canyon de Chelly and would not surrender.
F. What happened?
M. Well, after the army killed their sheep and destroyed their orchards and farms most of the Navajos were starving and had to leave their homes.
F. I've heard about Fort Sumner.
M. Yes, we'll talk about that later.

M. Listen, again. (REPEAT DIALOGUE)*

M. Now, you join the conversation:
F. Say this is getting exciting!

F. How long did the trouble go on?

F. Did they finally get peace?

F. And the raids continued?

F. That must have been a tough job.

F. What happened?

F. I've heard about Fort Sumner.

M. We'll go through that again. (REPEAT) **

F. We haven't much more time to talk, but would you tell me something about Fort Sumner before you leave?
M. Yes, this was a sad period in Navajo history.
F. What made it such a sad experience?
M. They didn't like anything about Fort Sumner. The water was bad. They didn't like to farm. Their enemies, the Comanches, raided them often. They hated everything about the place.
F. How long were they there?
M. After 4 years, from 1864 to 1868, they asked the government to let them return to their old homes.
F. Did the government let them go?
M. Yes, they signed a treaty and walked back to their homeland.
F. Much has happened since Fort Sumner for the Navajo people.
M. Yes, but we'll discuss that later when we have more time.
F. Thank you for such interesting history.
M. We'll continue some other time.

M. List once again. (REPEAT DIALOGUE)*

M. Now, you join in:
F. We haven't much more time to talk, but would you tell me something about Fort Sumner before you leave?

F. What made it such a sad experience?

F. How long were they there?

F. Did the government let them go?

F. Much has happened since Fort Sumner for the Navajo people.

F. Thank you for such interesting history.

M. Try that again. (REPEAT)

F. This ends the lesson.

MORE ABOUT NAVAJO HISTORY

M. Listen closely to the following dialogues. You'll be expected to take part after you hear them:

F. We were talking last time about the early history of the Navajo people. Do you remember what we said about the Navajo beliefs concerning their beginning?
M. Oh yes, we said that the people believe that they came from below the surface of the earth and came up to the present world.
F. Do you remember where that place was?
M. We said that it was a place north of the present reservation.
F. It is interesting that many scientists believe that the Navajos came from the north. But it is a difficult thing to prove. Language gives a clue sometimes, to where people come from.
M. How do you explain that?
F. Well, there are tribes in northwestern Canada that speak a language like the Navajos.
M. What's the name of that language?
F. It is called Athabascan.
M. That's very interesting.
M. Listen again. (REPEAT)

M. Now, you join in:
F.  We were talking last time about the early history of the Navajo people. Do you remember what we said about the Navajo beliefs concerning their beginning?

F. Do you remember where that place was?

F. It is interesting that many scientists believe that the Navajos came from the north. But it is a difficult thing to prove. Language gives a clue sometimes, to where people come from.

F. Well, there are tribes in northwestern Canada that speak a language like the Navajos.

F. It is called Athabascan.

M. We'll try that again. (REPEAT)

M. Let's continue with our history discussion.
F. We've talked about Navajo history before Fort Sumner. Let's talk something about what happened after Fort Sumner.
M. They returned to their homes in 1868, didn't they?
F. Yes, they had to start all over again to make a living and to build up their flocks of sheep.
M. Did the children have any schools?
F. There was a day school at Fort Defiance in 1870, and about twenty years later a boarding school was built there.
M. I understand that many children went to school off the reservation.
F. Yes, there were many off reservation schools like this one, and many schools have been built since that time.

M. Listen again. (REPEAT DIALOGUE)

M. Now, you join in:
M. Let's continue with our history discussion.
M. They returned to their homes in 1868, didn't they?

M. Did the children have any schools?

M. I understand that many children went to school off the reservation.

M. Now, once again. (REPEAT)*
M. *Shall we continue?
F. Yes, let's go on.
M. How successful were they with their sheep in the early days?
F. In 1934 the reservation was in poor condition for grazing and the government bought almost one half million sheep from the Navajo.
M. Did that help the situation?
F. No, the government did a bad job explaining this program to the people and there was much bad feeling.
M. How did they settle the problem?
F. Well, they didn't. World War II broke out in 1940 and everyone had to turn their attention to other things.

M. Listen again. (REPEAT DIALOGUE)*

F. Now, you carry on the conversation:
M. Shall we continue?

M. How successful were they with their sheep in the early days?

M. Did that help the situation?

M. How did they settle the problem?

F. Now, once again. (REPEAT)
M. *Then I suppose many Navajos went to war.
F. Yes, there were about 3600 servicemen.
M. Tell me something about their accomplishments.
F. Navajos were very good soldiers and many were used in the Marine Signal Corps.
M. What did they do?
F. The Marines used them to send messages in Navajo. The enemy didn't know anything about understanding the Navajo language.
M. The war must have changed things on the Reservation.
Yes, very much. About 15,000 Navajos left home to get into defense work all over the West.

And we both know what big changes took place since World War II.

Yes, there are tremendous improvements going on.

Listen again. (REPEAT)*

Now, you carry on:

Then I suppose many Navajos went to war.

Tell me something about their accomplishments.

What did they do?

The war must have changed things on the Reservation.

And we both know what big changes took place since World War II.

Now, once again. (REPEAT)

This ends the lesson.

M. And ever the stars above look down.
F. On thy stars below in Frederick town.

M. This ends the lesson.
Navajo legends tell that the People emerged from underground into the Southwest. However, the generally held belief of anthropologists is that they came across the Bering Strait in early times, though perhaps somewhat later than the other tribes which inhabited the Southwest.

Be that as it may, they first came into the light of history while they were living in an area along the Colorado-New Mexico boundary, between the Chama and upper San Juan Rivers. This was in the late 14th or early 15th century. From there they spread south and west into what is now known as the Navajo Country. In the early 1600’s they were an aggressive and powerful tribe.

Sometime during the 1600’s they acquired horses and sheep from the Spaniards, as well as the use of metal and the knowledge of working wool. The Navajos are famous for their adaptability, and in those early centuries they learned much of the culture that has made them the people they are today. It has been said of them that while they formerly copied a great deal from their neighbors, they improved on everything they copied.

They were increasing in numbers during this time, also. According to legend, there were originally four Navajo clans. They have added to these, in particular from the Pueblos, until today there are more than sixty. Since marriage within the clan is still regarded as incest, it can be understood that the Navajo “population explosion” necessitated the addition of other clans.

Until the advent of white soldiers in their territory, the Navajos were semi-nomadic; although they lived in loosely defined areas, they swarmed all over their country, raiding one day and appearing miles away the next. They had no friends among other tribes, and regarded the oncoming white settlers as enemies. Everyone’s hand was against them and they retaliated with all the strength they could muster, with the result that the Navajo country was a dangerous place for anyone but a Navajo to appear.

The first military expedition against The People was made in the winter of 1846, when Col. Doniphan and 350 soldiers met with them at Bear Springs, later Fort Wingate, and signed a nominal treaty. Since there was no acknowledged Navajo head, any leader of a band who signed a treaty was responsible for his own people only; this fact was not understood by the Army, which held all Navajos responsible for all treaty promises. This led to retaliation, further treaties, increased misunderstandings, and more raids, for the next twenty years. Finally, it was decided to round up The People and send them to Fort Sumner, New Mexico, where they were to settle down, learn the art of farming, and become peaceful citizens, insofar as they were able.

Col. Kit Carson was given the task of locating the Navajos. They hid in such vastnesses a Canyon de Chelly, from which they defied the troops to dislodge them. It became necessary to kill their sheep, destroy their cornfields, and devastate their orchards, literally to starve them into submission. Even then, not all the Navajos surrendered. Bands of people fled into the far western and northern parts of the area, there to hide and elude the troops until they were finally left unmolested.

Those who went to Fort Sumner found little to their liking. The water was bad, their old enemies, such as the Comanches, raided them at every chance; they had no heart to try to make a success of something they so bitterly detested. After four heart-breaking years they petitioned the Peace Commission to be allowed to return to their old homes, and promised that they would cause no more trouble. The Treaty of 1868, which resulted, also recorded the promises made by the white men. Free of their captivity, The People walked back to their homeland.

Even then they found troubles. They were still beset by enemy tribes, and the Army contractors who were to feed them and put them on their feet, often profiteered. But both sides were trying and when in 1868 an issue of sheep and goats was made, the Navajos felt encouraged.

So, less than a hundred years ago, the Navajo people made a new start toward progress. That they had the stamina, the great urge to succeed, the will to work, and the adaptability which has always characterized them, is obvious in the progress the Tribe has made within this century.

Better living conditions now prevail throughout the reservation. The People have schools and hospitals. Paved roads now criss-cross the reservation. A new $8 million saw-mill furnished employment for many Navajos. Tribal parks, civic centers, and other recreational facilities provide pleasure for thousands. With these, and through the valuable oil, uranium, helium, mineral and other holdings of the Tribe as a whole, they have the means to further their ambition to become sharing citizens of the United States.

THE QUEEN OF HEARTS
The Queen of Hearts,
She made some tarts,
All on a summer's day.
The Knave of Hearts,
He stole the tarts,
And took them clean away.
The King of Hearts,
Called for the tarts,
And beat the Knave full sore.
The Knave of Hearts
Brought back the tarts,
and vowed he'd steal no more.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

I am the Christmas spirit!

I enter the home of poverty, causing palefaced children to open their eyes wide, in pleased wonder.

I cause the miser’s clutched hand to relax, and thus paint a bright spot on his soul.

I cause the aged to renew their youth and to laugh in the old, glad way.

I keep romance alive in the heart of childhood, and brighten sleep with dreams woven of magic.

I cause eager feet to climb dark stairways with filled baskets, leaving behind hearts amazed at the goodness of the world.

I cause the prodigal to pause a moment on his wild, wasteful way, and send to anxious love some little token that releases glad tears — tears which wash away the hard lines of sorrow.

I enter dark prison cells, reminding scarred manhood of what might have been, and pointing forward to good days yet to be.

I come softly into the still, white home of pain, and lips that are too weak to speak just tremble in silent, eloquent gratitude.

In a thousand ways I cause the weary world to look up into the face of God, and for a little moment forget the things that are small and wretched.

I am the Christmas spirit!

From BLESSING WAY
A Navajo Rite

One story represents Changing Woman as the first and ideal baby, found under supernatural conditions. First Man reported to his wife that for four days a dark rain cloud had hovered over the Central Sacred Mountain; finally, the mountain was covered with rain, an indication that supernatural events were taking place. Singing a song, he walked to the place and found a baby crying. He discovered the baby in a cradle made of Sky Messengers — two short rainbows under the baby and crosswire at its crest and feet were red sunrays. A curved rainbow arched over the face. Wrapped in a dark cloud, the infant was covered with bark, blue, yellow, and white clouds, held in by side lacings of zigzag lightning with a sunbeam laced through them. First Man did not know what to do with the baby and took it home to First Woman who, with the aid of Mirage Talking God, raised it. The eyes of the baby were black as charcoal and there was no blemish anywhere on its body. First Man and Talking God agreed that it should be fed on collected pollen moistened with game broth and the dew of beautiful flowers. Salt Woman said she wanted the child and some say it was given to her.
CHRISTMAS CARD WEATHER

The card the weather makes
Is sketched with pens of snow,
A host of fine, fast-flying flakes
That greet you as you go . . . .

And blot the fences out and fill
The paths we used to follow,
With sudden peaks, an unknown hill,
An unsuspected hollow.

It scrawls its signature on brooks
And crystals it in ice,
And makes a fairyland of nooks
And boughs. And in a trice

Has framed a wish as wide and clear
As is our wish tonight,
For warm, old-fashioned Christmas cheer
And Christmas crisp and white!

OUR CHRISTMAS PRAYER

For the happiness of Christmas
With its time of friendly giving,

For the star that led the Wise Men
To a joyous way of living,

For the little Baby Jesus
Lifting tiny hands to bless us,

For the tender smile of Mary
Which today may still caress us,

For wondering beasts that quiet stood
In gentle silence listening,

While shepherds followed from afar
The star all gold and glistening,

For angels singing with delight
Upon that holiest, holy night,

May we be kind and gentle too
In all the things we strive to do.

Unto each heart that here today
Impatient waits for Christmas morn,

Make known the meaning of the words
That “Unto us a Child is born.”

Dear Jesus, hear our Christmas prayer,
And bless Thy children, everywhere.

Amen.

AN IRISH LEGEND

Whoever's born on Christmas
Is favored from the start;

Has laughter and good fortune
And a contented heart;

Is loved by noble company,

Has all that should suffice.

THE CHILDREN'S CAROL

Here we come again, again, and here we come again!
Christmas is a single pearl swinging on a chain,
Christmas is a single flower in a barren wood,
Christmas is a single sail on the salty flood,
Christmas is a single star in the empty sky,
Christmas is a single song sung for charity.

Here we come again, again, to sing to you again,
Give a single penny that we may not sing in vain.

—Eleanor Farjeon
SONG

Why do bells for Christmas ring?
Why do little children sing?
Once a lovely shining star,
Seen by shepherds from afar,
Gently moved until its light
Made a manger's cradle bright.
There a darling baby lay,
Pillowed soft upon the hay;
And its mother sang and smiled,
"This is Christ, the holy Child!"
Therefore bells for Christmas ring,
Therefore little children sing.

— Eugene Field

WHEN THE BELLS RING OUT

'Tis Christmas time when the bells ring out,
And the thrill of their fairy chime
Sings to a world of a Babe, newborn,
In that glad old Christmas time;
Sings to the heart, "Look up — look up —
To the skies that bend above,
Look up from the shadows that dim the road
To the star-strewn way of love!"
When the bells peal out on a world of white,
O'er the mountain top and plain,
Then it's holly time, its' happy time,
For it's Christmas time again!

— Walter S. Wheeler

CHRISTMAS BELLS

I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old, familiar carols play
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

And thought how, as the day had come,
The belfries of all Christendom
Had rolled along
The unbroken song
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

Till, ringing, singing on its way,
The world received from night to day
A voice, a chime,
A chant sublime
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

Then from each black, accursed mouth
The cannon thundered in the South,
And with the sound
The carols drowned
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

— Henry Wadsworth Longfellow
CHRISTMAS MORNING

If Bethlehem were here today, Or this were very long ago,
There wouldn't be a winter time Nor any cold or snow.
I'd run out through the garden gate, And down along the pasture walk;
And off beside the cattle barns I'd hear a kind of gentle talk.
I'd move the heavy iron chain And pull away the wooden pin;
I'd push the door a little bit And tiptoe very softly in.
The pigeons and the yellow hens And all the cows would stand away;
Their eyes would open wide to see A lady in the manger hay.

If this were very long ago And Bethlehem were here today.

And Mother held my hand and smiled — I mean the lady would — and she Would take the wooly blankets off Her little boy so I could see.
His shut-up eyes would be asleep, And He would look like our John,
And He would be all crumpled too, And have a pinkish color on.
I'd watch His breath go in and out His little clothes would all be white.
I'd slip my finger in His hand To feel how He could hold it tight.

And she would smile and say, “Take care,” The mother, Mary, would “Take care;”
And I would kiss His little hand And touch His hair.
While Mary put the blankets back The gentle talk would soon begin.
And when I'd tiptoe softly out I'd meet the wise men going in.

— Elizabeth Maddox Roberts

“REJOICE! REJOICE! THE ANGELS SING”

There was cause for rejoicing that night in the stable by the crowded inn in the village of Bethlehem so long ago. In the manger there, a Child was born, to be named Jesus Christ, son of Mary who was the wife of Joseph. Outside in the desert hills the shepherds shivered in their cloaks in the cold, night air, but inside it was warm from the warmth of simple creatures stabled therein.

In the dim, flickering candlelight, among such humble surroundings, the Infant Jesus, who came to be called King of Kings, saw the adoration in His mother's eyes, felt the love to her embrace, and all was well with the world. It was God's will that in this way it should happen. Wondrous night! Wondrous event!

And there was rejoicing in Heaven where the angels sang, and there was rejoicing in the hearts of all men of good will.

All this happened a long, long time ago, but so vivid is the memory of that eventful night in Bethlehem and so profound has its meaning and significance been on generations and generations of mankind since, that it might have happened only yesterday.

And Jesus Christ, the Son of God, went into the world to preach God's Word, and the Word was good, honest and true, proclaiming the Glory of Heaven and the dignity of man.

Millions and millions of people who have lived and died since the birth of Christ have found solace and strength in His message, their lives enriched by its meaningful promise. So it will be for the millions to come, the millions yet unborn.

Rejoice! Rejoice! The angels sing! There is cause for rejoicing now as there was that night so long ago.

— Raymond Carlson
HOW FAR IS IT TO BETHLEHEM?

How far is it to Bethlehem?
    Not very far.
Shall we find the stable-room
    Lit by the star?
Can we see the Little Child,
    Is He within?
If we lift the wooden latch
    May we go in?
May we stroke the creatures there,
    Ox, ass, or sheep?
May we peer like them and see
    Jesus asleep?
If we touch His tiny hand
    Will He awake?
Will He know we've come so far
    Just for His sake?
Great Kings have precious gifts,
    And we have nought;
Little smiles and little tears
    Are all we brought.
For all weary children
    Mary must weep.
Here, on His bed of straw,
    Sleep, children, sleep.
God, in His Mother's arms,
    Babes in the byre,
Sleep, as they sleep who find
    Their heart's desire.

— Frances A. Chesterton

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

God bless the master of this house,
    The mistress also,
And all the little children
    That round the table go.
And all your kin and kinsmen
    That dwell both far and near,
I wish you a Merry Christmas
    And a Happy New Year!

— Old English Carol

CHRISTMAS CAROL

Ring out, ye bells!
    All Nature swells
With gladness of the wondrous story,
    The world was born
But Christ is born
To change our sadness into glory.

    Sing, earthlings, sing!
To-night a King
Hath come from heaven's high throne to bless us.
    The outstretched hand
O'er all the land
Is raised in pity to caress us.

    Come at his call;
Be joyful all;
Away with mourning and sadness!
    The heavenly choir
With holy fire
Their voices raise in songs of gladness.

    The darkness breaks
And Dawn awakes,
Her cheeks suffused with youthful blushes.
    The rocks and stones
In holy tones
Are singing sweeter than the thrushes.

    They why should we
In silence be,
When Nature lends her voice to praises;
    When heaven and earth
Proclaim the truth
Of Him for whom that lone star blazes?

    No, be not still
But with a will
Strike all your harps and set them ringing;
    On hill and heath
Let every breath
Throw all its power into singing!

— Paul Laurence Dunbar
LONG, LONG AGO
Wind through the olive trees
Softly did blow,
Round little Bethlehem
Long, long ago.
Sheep on the hillside lay
Whiter than snow.
Shepherds were watching them
Long, long ago.
Then from the happy sky
Angels bent low,
Singing their songs of joy
Long, long ago.
For in a manger bed
Cradled we know.
Christ came to Bethlehem
Long, long ago.

AN OLD CHRISTMAS GREETING
Sing Hey! Sing Hey!
For Christmas Day,
Twine Mistletoe and holly;
For Friendship grows
In winter snows,
And so let's all be jolly.
— Nursery Rhyme

BEGGAR'S RHYME
Christmas is coming, the geese are getting fat,
Please to put a penny in the old man's hat;
If you haven't got a penny, a ha' penny will do.
If you haven't got a ha' penny,
God bless you!

CHRISTMAS IN THE HEART
The snow lies deep upon the ground,
And winter's brightness all around
Decks bravely out the forest sere,
With jewels of the brave old year.
The coasting crowd upon the hill
With some new spirit seems to thrill;
And all the temple bells achime
Ring out the glee of Christmas time.

Within his chamber, dim and cold,
There sits a grasping miser old.
He has no thought gave one of gain,—
To grind and gather and grasp and drain.
A peal of bells, a merry shout
Assail his ear: he gazes out
Upon a world to him all gray,
And snarls, "Why, this is Christmas Day!"

No, man of ice,—for shame, for shame!
For "Christmas Day" is no mere name.
No, not for you this ringing cheer,
This festal season of the year.
And not for you the chime of bells
From holy temple rolls and swells.
In day and deed he has no part—
Who holds not Christmas in his heart!
— Paul Laurence Dunbar

CHRISTMAS Bells
I heard a bell ring far away
The happy bell of Christmas Day:
Soon other bells took up the chime
To tell the world of Christmas time.
From belfries high and tower tall
The silver notes began to fall,
Till all the world rose glad and gay
To greet another Christmas Day.
— Frances Kirkland
THE FRIENDLY BEASTS

Jesus, our brother, strong and good,
Was humbly born in a stable rude,
And the friendly beasts around His stood.

And every beast, by some good spell,
In the stable dark was able to tell
Of the gift he gave to Immanuel.

“I am the donkey, shaggy and brown,
I carried His mother up hill and down,
I carried her safely to Bethlehem town.”

“I am the cow all white and red,
I gave Him my manger for His bed,
I gave Him my hay to pillow His head.”

“I am the sheep with curly horn,
I gave Him my wool for His blanket warm,
He wore my coat on Christmas morn.”

“I am the dove, from the rafters high
I cooed Him to sleep that He should not cry.
We cooed Him to sleep, my mate and I.”

Thus every beast, by some good spell,
In the stable dark was able to tell
Of the gift he gave to Immanuel.

— Anonymus

THE DONKEY

When fishes flew and forests walked
And figs grew upon thorn,
Some moment when the moon was blood,
Then surely I was born;

With monstrous head and sickening cry
And ears like errant wings,
The devil’s walking parody
On all four-footed things.

The tattered outlaw of the earth,
Of ancient crooked will;
Starve, scourge, deride me: I am dumb,
I keep my secret still.

Fools! For I also had my hour;
One far fierce hour and sweet:
There was a shout about my ears,
And palms before my feet.

— G. K. Chesterton

CHRISTMAS CAROL

Villagers all, this frosty tide,
Let your doors swing open wide,
Though wind may follow and snow betide
Yet draw us in by your fire to bide:
Joy shall be yours in the morning.

Good man Joseph toiled through the snow —
Saw the star o’er the stable low;
Mary she might not further go —
Welcome thatch and litter below!
Joy was hers in the morning.

Here we stand in the cold and the sleet,
Blowing fingers and stamping feet,
Come from far away, you to greet —
You by the fire and we in the street —
Bidding you joy in the morning.

And then they heard the angels tell,
“Who were the first to cry Nowell?
Animals all as it befel,
In the stable where they did dwell!
Joy shall be theirs in the morning.”

— Kenneth Grahame
GATES AND DOORS

There was a gentle hostler
(And blessed be his name!)
He opened up the stable
The night Our Lady came.
Our Lady and Saint Joseph,
He gave them food and bed,
And Jesus Christ has found him
A glory round his head.

So let the gate swing open
However poor the yard,
Lest weary people visit you
And find their passage barred;
Unlatch the door at midnight
And let your lanterns glow
Shine out to guide the traveler's feet
To you across the snow.

There was a courteous hostler
(He is in heaven tonight).
He held Our Lady's bridle
And helped her to alight;
He spread clean straw before her
Whereon she might lie down,
And Jesus Christ has given him
An everlasting crown.

Unlock the door this evening
And let your gate swing wide,
Let all who ask for shelter
Come speedily inside.
What if your yard be narrow?
What if your house be small?
There is a guest is coming
Will glorify it all.

There was a joyous hostler
Who knelt on Christmas morn
Beside the radiant manger
Wherein his Lord was born.
His heart was full of laughter,
His soul was full of bliss
When Jesus, on His Mother's lap,
Gave him His hand to kiss.

Unlock your heart this evening
And keep no stranger out,
Take from your soul's great portal
The barrier of doubt.
To humble folk and weary
Give hearty, welcoming
Your breast shall be tomorrow
The cradle of a King.

—Joyce Kilmer

BALLAD OF THE HOLLY

The holly berry that burns so red
(Raise high the holly!)
Once was whiter than wheaten bread.
(As love is better than folly).
Whiter than shells along the shore
It blooms on its tree by a stable door.
Villagers come there, half-afraid,
Gifts in their hands for Child and Maid.
And one has nothing of note, so he Fetches a branch of the holly tree.
Alas, alas, the little Newborn
Has pricked His finger upon a thorn,
Has left His blood on the spiny leaves.
Heavy of heart the holly grieves,
Sees in a terrible vision how
A crown of holly shall bind His brow
When Child is man.

For sorrow and shame
The berries have blushed as red as flame.
Says Mary the Mother,
"Take no blame.
But be of good cheer as ever you can.
Both foul and fair are the works of man,
Yet unto man has My Son been lent.
And you, dear tree, are the innocent
Who weeps for pity what man might do.
So all your thorns are forgiven you."
Now red, rejoicing, the berries shine
On jubilant doors as a Christmas sign
That desolation to joy makes way.
(Hang high the holly!)
Holly is the symbol of Christ's Birthday.
(When love shall vanquish folly).
THE NIGHT

On the night that Christ was born
The rivers, one hears, ran fine
And sweetly between their banks,
Filled not with water but wine.

And any man who drank
Of that beneficent tide
(Though he had stopped in anger
To drink), grew pacified,
Loving even his foe man
As dearly as his bride;

Wholly at peace with himself,
The world and everything.
While the trees in the forest blossomed
As if the winter were spring.

AS JOSEPH WAS A-WALKING

As Joseph was a-walking
He heard an angel sing,
"This night shall be the birth-time
Of Christ, the Heavenly King.

He neither shall be born
In house nor in hall,
Nor in a place of paradise,
But in an ox's stall.

He shall not be clothed
In purple nor in pall;
But in the fair white linen,
That usen babies all.

He neither shall be rocked
In silver nor in gold,
But in a wooden manger
That resteth on the mold."

As Joseph was a-walking
There did an angel sing,
And Mary's child at midnight
Was born to be our King.

Shall I tell you who will come
To Bethlehem on Christmas morn?
Who will kneel them gently down
Before the Lord new-born?

Shall I tell you who will come
To Bethlehem on Christmas morn?
Who will kneel them gently down
Before the Lord new-born?

Words from an Old Spanish Carol

Shall I tell you who will come
To Bethlehem on Christmas morn?
Who will kneel them gently down
Before the Lord new-born?

One small fish from the river,
With scales of red, red gold,
One wild bee from the heather,
One grey lamb from the fold,

One ox from the high pasture,
One black bull from the herd,
One goatling from the far hills,
One white, white bird.

And many children — God give them grace,
Bringing tall candles to light
Mary's face.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE

Wonder how the Christmas tree feels
As it stands with its trimmings gay?
Is it 'fraid of the lights and noise?
Does it wish it could run away?

Does it like the merry chatter
Of the rapturous boys and girls,
And think they're a curious kind
Of gigantic bunnies and squirrels?

Does it like the pretty presents
On its branches round about,
And wish it could join the noise
As the children laugh and shout?

Does it wish that its woodland friends
Might peep in the window and see
What a wonderful thing it is
To grow into a Christmas tree?

THE TWELVE DAYS OF CHRISTMAS

The first day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
A partridge in a pear tree.

The second day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Two turtle doves, and
And a partridge in a pear tree.

The third day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Three French hens,
Two turtle doves, and
A partridge in a pear tree.

The fourth day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Four colly birds.
Three French hens,
Two turtle doves, and
A partridge in a pear tree.

The fifth day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Five gold rings,
Four colly birds, and
Three French hens.
A partridge in a pear tree.

The sixth day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Six geese a-lying,
Five gold rings
Four colly birds,
Three French hens,
Two turtle doves, and
A partridge in a pear tree.
The seventh day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Seven swans a-swimming,
Six geese a-laying,
Five gold rings,
Four colly birds,
Three French hens,
Two turtle doves, and
A partridge in a pear tree.

The eighth day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Eight maids a-milking,
Seven swans a-swimming,
Six geese a-laying,
Five gold rings,
Four colly birds,
Three French hens,
Two turtle doves, and
A partridge in a pear tree.

The ninth day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Nine drummers drumming,
Eight maids a-milking,
Seven swans a-swimming,
Six geese a-laying,
Five gold rings,
Four colly birds,
Three French hens,
Two turtle doves, and
A partridge in a pear tree.

The tenth day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Ten pipers piping,
Nine drummers drumming,
Eight maids a-milking,
Seven swans a-swimming,
Six geese a-laying,
Five gold rings,
Four colly birds,
Three French hens,
Two turtle doves, and
A partridge in a pear tree.

The eleventh day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Eleven ladies dancing,
Ten pipers piping,
Nine drummers drumming,
Eight maids a-milking,
Seven swans a-swimming,
Six geese a-laying,
Five gold rings,
Four colly birds,
Three French hens,
Two turtle doves, and
A partridge in a pear tree.

The twelfth day of Christmas,
My true love sent to me
Twelve lords a-leaping,
Eleven ladies dancing,
Ten pipers piping,
Nine drummers drumming,
Eight maids a-milking,
Seven swans a-swimming,
Six geese a-laying,
Five gold rings,
Four colly birds,
Three French hens,
Two turtle doves, and
A partridge in a pear tree.
THE WAY TO A MERRY CHRISTMAS

Would you know, my children, the way
To reach a Merry Christmas Day?
'Tis by the Path of Sunny Smiles,
Along the Road of Friendly Cheer,
Then up the Hill of Pleasant Words,
To Carol Crest, where songs ring clear
Through-Lanes of Peace and Good Will,
Across the Bridge of Greetings Gay,
Then by the Road of Kindly Deeds
To Giving Town — and there you stay!

ON CHRISTMAS EVE

On Christmas Eve I turned the spit;
I burnt my fingers, I feel it yet;
The cock sparrow flew over the table,
The pot began to play with the ladle;
The ladle stood up like an angry man,
And vowed he'd fight the frying pan;
The frying pan behind the door
Said he never saw the like before;
And the kitchen clock I was going to wind,
Said he never saw the like behind.

— Nursery Rhyme

THE GIFT

Soon in your hand will be placed a priceless gift. Look at it closely. There is no price mark stamped on it. It cannot be weighed, because no scale can balance its value. A king's ransom in comparison is as nothing, yet it is given to beggar and prince alike. The giver asks only that it be used wisely and well.

This jewel, rare and unique, is not displayed in any shop window. It cannot be purchased, cannot be sold. No other treasure holds the possibilities this gift offers — none can surpass its golden splendor.

Of all gifts this is the most precious. It has been offered many times before; today, from the depths of a boundless love it will be given again. It will be left to you to find the golden thread running through it. Only with great care will the jewel retain its luster. Carelessness, ingratitude, and selfishness will tarnish the brilliancy, break the unspoiled thread, mar the perfection.

Guard it closely, lest through weak fingers it slip from the hand. Look often at its faultless beauty. Accept it as it is offered from the heart of the giver. Consider it the most treasured of possessions, for by all gifts it is by far the greatest.

IT IS THE GIFT OF THE NEW YEAR!

— Loretta B. Buckley
THE CHRISTMAS STORY

according to Saint Luke

Now it came to pass in those days, that a decree went forth from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. The first census took place while Cyri-nus was governor of Syria. And all were going, each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also went from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem — because he was of the house of David — to regis-ter, together with Mary, his espoused wife, who was with child. And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night. And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the Glory of God shone round about them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, who is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign to you: you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger." And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the high-est, and on earth peace to men of good will."

And it came to pass, when the angels departed from them into heaven, that the shepherds were saying to one another, "Let us go over to Bethlehem and see this thing that has come to pass, which the Lord has made known to us."

So they went with haste, and they found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger. And when they had seen, they understood what had been told them by the shep-herds. But Mary kept in mind all these things, pondering them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all that they had heard and seen, even as it was spoken to them.
A VISIT FROM ST. NICHOLAS
by Clement C. Moore
'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;
The children were nestled all snug in their beds
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads;
And Mamma in her kerchief, and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap.
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.
The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow
Gave a lustre of midday to objects below,
When, what to my wondering eyes did appear,
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer,
With a little old driver, so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled, and shouted, and called them by name:
"Now, Dasher! Now, Dancer! Now, Prancer and Vixen!
On Comet, on Cupid, Donder and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch! To the top of the wall!
Now dash away! dash away! dash away, all!"
As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So up to the housetop the coursers they flew,
With the sleigh full of toys, and St. Nicholas too.
And then, in a twinkling, I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head, and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.
He was dressed all in fur from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.
His eyes — how they twinkled, his dimples, how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry!
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow;
The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke, it encircled his head like a wreath;
He had a broad face and a little round belly
That shook when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly.
He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself;
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread;
He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings; then, turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.
He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But I heard his exclaim: ere he drove out of sight,
"MERRY CHISTMAS TO ALL, AND TO ALL A GOOD-NIGHT."

EVERYWHERE, EVERYWHERE, CHRISTMAS TONIGHT

Christmas in land of the fir tree and pine,
Christmas in lands of the palm tree and vine,
Christmas where snow peaks stand solemn and white,
Christmas where cornfields lie sunny and bright!
Christmas where children are hopeful and gay,
Christmas where old men are patient and gray,
Christmas where peace, like a dove in his flight,
Broods o'er brave men in the thick of the fight,
Everywhere, everywhere, Christmas tonight.
For the Christ Child who comes is the Master of all;
No palace too great and no cottage too small.

—Phillips Brooks

CHRISTMAS PINE SONG

Pine trees sing Christmas songs out in the snow,
Songs of the Christ Child who came long ago,
Brave as a little pine out in the night,
Only a star and the snow for a light.

Hush, you may hear as the wind passes through:
Mary is humming a lullaby, too;
Joseph is searching afar... afar...
And shepherds are following again, a Star.

Some people say when the snow whispers there:
The angels are singing a special prayer:
Bless you and guard you and keep you from woe!
Pine trees sing Christmas songs out in the snow.

—Esther Wood

IN EXCELSIS GLORIA!

When Christ was born of Mary free,
In Bethlehem, in that fair city,
Angels sang there with mirth and glee,
IN EXCELSIS GLORIA!

Herdsmen behold these angels bright,
To them appearing with great light,
Who said, "God's Son is born this night,"
IN EXCELSIS GLORIA!

The King is come to save mankind,
As in Scripture truths we find,
Therefore this song have we in mind,
IN EXCELSIS GLORIA!

Then, Dear Lord, for Thy great grace,
Grant us the bliss to see Thy face,
That we may sing to Thy salvation,
IN EXCELSIS GLORIA!

| WEEK'S LESSONS FOLLOW |
FIFTEENTH WEEK ENRICHMENT
Emphasizing of different words in the same sentence

THE WAY THAT YOU SOMETHING IS SOMETIMES MORE IMPORTANT THAN WHAT YOU SAY.

TRY DIFFERENT INTERPRETATIONS OF THIS SENTENCE: THAT IS EXACTLY WHAT SHE SAID.
That is exactly what she said.
That is exactly what she said.
That is exactly what she said.
That is exactly what she said.
That is exactly what she said.

NOW TRY THIS SENTENCE: HE WAS HERE A MINUTE AGO.
He was here a minute ago.
He was here a minute ago.
He was here a minute ago.
He was here a minute ago.

INTERPRET THIS ONE: DID YOU SMELL THAT AWFUL TAR?
Did you smell that awful tar?
Did you smell that awful tar?
Did you smell that awful tar?
Did you smell that awful tar?

INTERPRET THIS SENTENCE: JANE WORE THAT ORANGE MINISKIRT.
Jane wore that orange mini-skirt.
Jane wore that orange mini-skirts.
Jane wore that orange mini-skirt.
Jane wore that orange mini-skirt.

SAY THE FOLLOWING SENTENCES FIRST LAUGHINGLY, THEN SADLY, LAST, ANGRILY.
1. Is he going with you?
2. This is just too big.
3. What on earth did you eat?
4. He told me he was going to ski.
Here are some more conditional sentences of the type known as past-unreal conditions. For further practice with this type of condition, supply the correct form of the verbs in parenthesis.

1. If Henry had studied harder, he ............ (pass) his examinations.
2. If I had had your telephone number, I ............ (call) you.
3. If yesterday had been a holiday, we ............ (go) to the beach.
4. If I had known about this last night, I ............ (act) differently.
5. If he had attended class more regularly, he ............ (get) a better grade.
6. If they had left earlier, they ............ (catch) the train.
7. If I had been in your place, I ............ (refuse) to give him the money.
8. If I had seen her, I ............ (give) her your message.
9. If they had come on time, I ............ (talk) with them.
10. If he had had more experience, he ............ (get) the job.
11. If she had paid more attention in class, she ............ (do) better on her test.
12. If they had invited me, I ............ (go) with them.
13. If I had had the money, I ............ (buy) that car.
14. If she had acted differently, we ............ (take) her along.
15. If I had been in your position, I ............ (go) with them.
16. If you had gone with us, you ............ (meet) her.
17. If I had had a car last summer, I ............ (drive) to California.
18. If it had not rained, we ............ (go) on a picnic yesterday.
19. If you had come earlier, you ............ (have) a fine dinner.
20. If she had told me the truth, I ............ (be) less angry.
21. If I had known it was going to rain, I ............ (take) my umbrella.
22. If we had hurried, we ............ (get) there in time.

Note the (ed) endings that sound like (t).

Talk, talked      Cross, crossed      Mop
Walk, walked      Stop, stopped      Bake
Lock, locked      Dress, dressed      Touch
Hop, hopped       Jump, jumped       Laugh

Listen to the following examples.

Sew, sewed        Call, called        Love, loved

Now you give past tense of these. Use a (d) sound on the end.

Live, lived       Hug, hugged        Move
Grab, grabbed     Rob, robbed        Wag
Please, please    Raise, raised
These next words have an ed ending sound. Listen to these examples: skate- skated part- parted

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>skidded</th>
<th>herd</th>
<th>smart</th>
<th>crowd</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>painted</td>
<td>hand</td>
<td>pleat</td>
<td>land</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Change the verb to the past tense: For example: John weeds the garden. John weeded the garden.

1. Joe beds the horse down.
2. Henry raids the icebox.
4. Joan dials the telephone.

Practice with the st sound:

Which two words are opposite or similar in meaning: most, least, pest?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>most</th>
<th>least</th>
<th>pest</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>first</td>

<td>roast</td>
<td>cost</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>roost</td>
<td>wrist</td>
<td>nest</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Dick tipped the tippet and dripped it.

Final /t/ and /d/ sound:

In the blanks at the right show whether we pronounce the final d of each word as t or as d.

| 1. lived       | 17. saved    |
| 2. picked      | 18. played   |
| 3. jumped      | 19. killed   |
| 4. placed      | 20. showed   |

| 7. smoked      | 23. finished |
| 8. looked      | 24. burned   |
| 9. looked      | 25. filled   |
| 10. cooked     | 26. poured   |
| 11. turned     | 27. excused  |
| 12. crossed    | 28. mailed   |
| 13. entered    | 29. picked   |
| 14. stopped    | 30. liked    |
| 15. earned     | 31. used     |
| 16. knocked    | 32. changed  |
33. worked
34. studied
35. talked
36. spelled
37. thanked
38. washed
39. passed
40. walked

Tag endings: Practice reading those sentences using the tag endings.

1. John left for Chicago last night, ......................? (didn’t he)
2. She is a very pretty girl, .........................?
3. There are many students absent today, ...................
4. You wrote those letters, .........................?

I will buy with you,/ sell with you,/ talk with you,/ walk with you,/ and so following,/ but I will not eat with you,/ drink with you,/ nor pray with you.

The Merchant of Venice, Shakespeare

Studies serve for delight,/ of ornament,/ and for ability.
Reading maketh a full man;/ conference a ready man;/ and writing an exact man.

For practice of the vowels—Prolongation of sounds

Alone, alone, all, all alone,
Alone on a wide, wide, sea.

Blow, wind, and crack your cheeks! rage! blow!

Double, double, toil and trouble;
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.
Macbeth, Shakespeare

A horse! A horse! my kingdom for a horse!

The day is cold, and dark and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;

She left the web, she left the loom,
She made three paces thro' the room
She saw the helmet and the plume,
She look'd down to Camelot.

Week’s Lessons Follow
PAUL REVERE'S RIDE

by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere.
On the eighteenth of April, in seventy-five;
Hardly a man is now alive
Who remembers that famous day and year,
He said to his friend, "If the British march
By land or sea from the town tonight,
Hang a lantern aloft in the belfry arch
Of the North Church tower as a signal light,
One, if by land, and two, if by sea;
And I on the opposite shore will be,
Ready to ride and spread the alarm
Through every Middlesex village and farm,
For the country folk to be up and to arm."

Then he said, "Good Night." and with muffled oar
Silently rowed to the Charleston shore,
Just as the moon rose over the bay,
Where swinging wide at her mooring lay
The Somerset, British man-of-war;
A phantom ship, with each mast and spar
Across the moon like a prison bar,
And a huge black hulk that was magnified
By its own reflection in the tide.

It was two by the village clock,
When he came to the bridge in Concord town.
He heard the bleating of the flock,
And felt the breath of the morning breeze
Blowing over the meadows brown.
And one was safe and asleep in his bed
Who at the bridge would be first to fall,
Who that day would be lying dead,
Pierced by a British musket-ball.

You know the rest. In the books you have read,
How the British Regulars fired and fled,
How the farmers gave them ball for ball,
From behind each fence and farmyard wall,
Chasing the red-coats down the lane,
Then crossing the fields to emerge again
Under the trees at the turn of the road,
And only pausing to fire and load.

So through the night rode Paul Revere:
And so through the night went his cry of alarm
To every Middlesex village and farm,
A cry of defiance and not of fear,
A voice in the darkness, a knock at the door,
And a word that shall echo forevermore.
For, borne on the night-wind of the Past
Through all our history to the last,
In the hour of darkness and peril and need,
The people will waken and listen to hear
The hurrying hoof-beats of that steed,
And the midnight message of Paul Revere.

"NO, SIR"

"Good evening, pretty maiden, with your eyes of heaven's blue,
May I step within your garden gate and spend the time with you?"

"No, sir; no, sir; no, sir; NO.
No, sir; no, sir; no, sir; NO."

"The night is very lovely and the hour is not late,
May I look into your deep blue eyes, across this garden gate?"

"No, sir; no, sir; no, sir; NO.
No, sir; no, sir; no, sir; NO."

"Tell me one thing, tell me truly, tell me why you scorn me so;
Tell me why, when asked a question, you must always answer 'No.'"
"No, sir: no, sir: no, sir: NO.
No, sir: no, sir: no, sir: NO."

"My father was a Spanish merchant, and before he went to sea
He told me I must answer "No" to everything you said to me."

"No, sir: no, sir: no, sir: NO.
No, sir: no, sir: no, sir: NO."

"Well, when walking through your garden, plucking flowers wet with dew Tell me, would you be offended if I walk and talk with you?"

"No, sir: no, sir: no, sir: NO.
No, sir: no, sir: no, sir: NO."

"If when walking in your garden, I should ask you to me mine
And should tell you that I love you, would you then my heart decline?"

"No, sir: no, sir: no, sir: NO.
No, sir: no, sir: no, sir: NO.
No, sir: no, sir: no, sir: NO."

January, The Story of the Month

January, the first month of the year, was named for Janus, the ancient Roman god of beginnings. Janus was also known as the “God of Gates” or “Spirit of Opening.” Because of this, it was very appropriate to choose January as the first or beginning month of the year in our modern calendar.

According to legend, Numa Pompilius added January and February to the end of the ten month Roman calendar about 700 B.C. He gave the month thirty days. In 46 B.C., Julius Caesar added a day and made January the first month.

The garnet is the birthstone; the flower of the month is the snowdrop, one of the earliest flowers of the year. The first day of the month is a holiday, called New Year’s Day. On January 20, every four years, the President of the United States is inaugurated.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS

Millard Fillmore       Joan of Arc          Paul Revere

SEASONAL MATERIAL

AFTER CHRISTMAS

The days that follow Christmas
I like the best of all.
The rushing then is over
As friends drop in to call.
Enjoy fruit cake and cookies
And cups of tea to cheer,
There's time to read the letters
The cards from far and near.

The house is gay and festive
With tree and candlelight,
The crimson decorations
A picture of delight.
The memories of Santa
Are pleasant to recall;
The days that follow Christmas
I like the best of all.

—Hilda Butler Farr

TOMORROW

Tomorrow I'm going to get a gift
(So near to Christmas, too!)
This gift is always fresh and bright
Yet it lasts a whole year through;
It's made in section, and each day
I open one, brand new.

Of all the gifts that come to cheer,
The best one is a brand-new year.
Snow-wrapped and holly decked, it comes
To richest and poorest homes.
Twelve jeweled months all set with days
Of priceless opportunities.

Tomorrow I'll begin it: how Exciting it will be!
Three hundred sixty-five the times
A fresh surprise I'll see;
Tomorrow I'm to get a gift —
A whole New Year — for me!

—Dorothy Brown Thompson

A silver moon and golden sun,
With diamond stars when day is done,
And over all a sapphire sky,
Where pearly clouds go floating by.
Be grateful for the year that brings
So many and such precious things.

—Bertha E. Jacques

THE MODERN HIWATHA

He killed the noble Mudjekewis.
Of the skins he made him mittens,
Made them with the fur-side inside,
Made them with the skin-side outside.
He, to get the warm skin inside
Put the inside skin-side outside;
He, to get the cold side outside,
Put the warm side fur-side inside.
That's why he put the fur-side inside,
Why he put the skin-side outside,
Why he turned them inside outside.

POEMS ABOUT THE DESERT

DESERT TREASURE

This land is so forbidding,
Bleak and severe,
Blazing in the noonday,
Ashen, sere,
Shivering in starlight,
Shelterless, bare—
Only sand and cactus Everywhere.

But here you will find solace,
Silence, peace,
Beauty bone-deep,
And spirit’s release—
Treasure, past price
In those sage-clad drifts,
If you open your eyes
And your heart to its gifts.

—Ethel Jacobson

IN THE DESERT

Both sunrise and sunset are a blaze of glory!
Each in its own way tells a most thrilling story
Of the Master Mind who invented it
all
To fill souls with wonder and hold them in thrall.
The wonderful colors the Desert displays

Make gorgeously beautiful the nights and days;
And over it all is the wonderful peace
That settles upon one, and seems to increase
Till the Heavens above one, down to the earth’s sod,
Proclaim the encompassing Presence of God!

SEASONAL MATERIAL — WINTER

WINTER’S ON THE WAY!

There’s a blustery wild north wind
And a cold and grey-bright sky,
Snowmen stand straight beside each gate,
There’s a pale, pale moon on high.

Who has seen the artist
Who frost paints window panes?
Whose marshmallows whirl makes white clouds swirl,
Snow crystals fall, not rain?

There’s a pumpkin in the cellar,
There’s a barrel of apples hiding.
A buttery drizzle makes our popcorn sizzle,
After sledding, skating, sliding!

Who paints our pale cheeks rosy,
Nips with cold our fingers... toes?
Who turns the trees to skeleton’s knees,
Leaves the branch, but steals the rose?

Time to pack away our swim suits,
Time to wear our scarves and mittens.
A fur-lined shoe will feel good, too...
Furry wraps keep us warm as kittens!

For winter is on the way,
Its chill will hasten spring,
And shorter grow the days that go
Fleet as snowbirds on the wing.

Mother Earth beds down her seedlings,
Saug and warm 'neath blankets of white;
Each cloud a pillow, icy sheets 'neath
the willow...
Nature naps through the winter night!
FALLING SNOW

The snow is beginning to fall at last,
Falling on our window glass,
A little dot, a little splash,
Coming down so very fast.

Oh, snow so fluffy and white,
On the rooftops pretty and bright,
Falling night and day,
We hope that you can stay.

Oh, little flakes of snow,
The winds will soon come and blow.
They may blow you north, south, east or west,
They will separate you from the rest.

Oh, little flakes of snow.
Where will you go?
We will never know,
Oh, little flakes of snow.

— Rodney Merrill

NOTE: This poem was written by Tommy Smith, a Navajo student at the Institute of American Indian Arts, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

All of us cannot be poets or writers but we can experiment and discover our talents. This poem is being given to you to show that IT CAN BE DONE!

In your spare time, try and see if you can write a poem — one that rhymes or one like this poem Tommy wrote. Who knows? Perhaps YOUR poem will be published in a magazine or newsletter. Good luck!

DAWN

Birds pierce the stillness of early dawn,
Crickets chirp to
new-coming day,
Pots and pans begin their clatter
Fires smoulder, hiss,
and spark to life.
Dew, spread over grass by night,
now trickles into thirsty soil.
Teepee shadows, long and narrow,
paint peace signs in striped patterns
On the ground.
The eyes of the camp turn toward the warrior of the sky.
Each day He rises with morning sounds and stretches out his arms to protect his people and their crops
with his almighty caring.

— Tommy Smith

ODE TO THE PIG: HIS TAIL

My tail is not impressive
But it's elegant and neat.
In length it's not excessive —
I can't curl it round my feet —
But it's awfully expressive,
And its weight is not excessive,
And I don't think it's conceit,
Or foolishly possessive
If I state with some aggressiveness
That it's the final master touch
That makes a pig complete.

— Walter R. Brooks
A CENTIPEDE
A centipede was happy quite,
Until a frog in fun
Said, "Pray, which leg comes after which?"
This raised her mind to such a pitch
She lay distracted in the ditch
Considering how to run.

A FLEA AND A FLY
A flea and a fly in a flue
Were imprisoned, so what could they do?
Said the fly, "Let us flee,"
Said the flea, "Let us fly,"
So they flew through a flaw in the flue.

THE GRANDILOQUENT GOAT
A very grandiloquent goat
Sat down to a gay table d'hote;
He ate all the courses
The knives and the forks
Remarking: "On these things
I dote."
Then before his repast he began,
While pausing the menu to scan,
He said: "Corn, if you please,
And tomatoes and peas,
I'd like to have served in the can.

2. February brings the rain.
   Thaws the frozen lake again.
3. March brings breezes loud and shrill,
   Stirs the dancing daffodil.
4. April brings the primrose sweet,
   Scatters daisies at our feet.
5. May brings flocks of pretty lambs,
   Skipping by their fleecy dams.
6. June bring tulips, lilies, roses,
   Fills the children's hands with posies.
7. Hot July brings cooling showers,
   Apricots and gillyflowers.
8. August brings the sheaves of corn;
   Then a harvest home is borne.
9. Warm September brings the fruit:
   Sportsmen then begin to shoot.
10. Fresh October brings the pheasant;
    Then to gather nuts is pleasant.
11. Dull November brings the blast:
    Then the leave are whirling fast.
12. (ALL)
    Chill December bring the sleet,
    Blazing fire and Christmas treat.

A BOY'S PRAYER
Anonymous

O God, on this day which is called the birthday of my country, I come to Thee with joy and thankfulness in my heart. I thank Thee for the courage and patience and faith which have been the possession of the real builders of my nation ever since the first explorers touched her shores. Help me to know that such qualities will always be greater than selfishness and greed and love of power.

I thank Thee that I live in a land where knowledge is counted as a good thing and schools are free to all. May I be an intelligent citizen not only when I am grown to manhood but now as well.

O God, Creator of all beauty, Thou hast made this country very beautiful! Far beyond imposing buildings and the ingenious inventions and conveniences which men have contrived do I prize steep mountains for my feet to climb, running streams to loiter beside, pine-carpeted forests in which dwell beasts and birds in their freedom. Help me to live near the things which Thou hast made.

And because I am so proud of my country and her possibilities, because I am so thrilled to be a part of it all, may I realize that other boys in other countries have the same feelings. All the world is Thine, O Heavenly Father, and Thou wouldst have us all be brothers. Let not pride of race or place of birth have room in my heart today, but let me in thought clasp hands with all boys the world around.

May I thus celebrate in truth my country's birthday.

Amen.

TWENTY-FIRST WEEK ENRICHMENT

FEBRUARY — THE STORY OF THE MONTH

FEBRUARY is the second and the shortest month of the year. It is named from an old Roman word, Februarius, meaning to purify because in this month the people were purified for religious festivals which followed throughout the year.

February was not included as a month when Romulus made the first Roman calendar year. Februarius, as the Romans called the month, was added later by Numa Pompilius. He made it the twelfth month of the year. It was not placed after January until hundreds of years later.
February usually has twenty-eight days. Every fourth year, or leap year, it has one extra day. February had thirty days until the time of Julius Caesar, who took one day off to add to the month of July, which was named after him. The emperor Augustus took another day off to add to August, the month named after him.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS

Victor Herbert
Charles Dickens
Thomas A. Edison

GREAT EVENTS

Florida was ceded by Spain to the United States in 1819.
The Washington Monument was dedicated in 1885.
The American warship, “Maine” was blown up in Havana Harbor in 1898.
U. S. stormed Iwo Jima in 1945.

SEASONAL MATERIAL — FEBRUARY

GROUND-HOG DAY

February second
Is Ground-Hog Day,
A day to be reckoned with,
People say:
For if on that day
Mr. Ground Hog sees
His shadow at all
We’re bound to freeze
For six more weeks,
Till spring appears,
And the good old warmth
Of summer nears.

— Solveig Paulson Russell
GROUND-HOG DAY

Up from his hole with eyes half-shut
A furry ground hog came.
He squinted to the north and east,
And to the west and south, the same.
He sniffed the cold air frolicking
That made his mustache quiver,
And forced his eyes to open wide,
And made his middle shiver.
He looked into the gray-cloud sky
For any sign of the sun;
He looked around for shadows,
But he didn't see a one.
And so he shook his ground-hog self,
And warmed himself with springing,
And turning "summersaults," and such,
And clapping paws and singing.
And this is what he sang about:
"Heigh-ho and happy days!
Though very few can guess it now,
Spring's surely on its way!"

— Solveig Paulson Russell

WASHINGTON

What can we say of Washington?
That he was great and gracious,
A gallant and a hardy soul,
Spirited, sagacious.
What can we say of Washington,
Gentleman and farmer?
That he loved his land and loved his God,
And honor was his armor.
Soldier, statesman, champion, friend
Of freedom, right, and justice,
He won a war and the presidency
And he married Martha Curtis.
What can we say of Washington?
That in victory's shining hour
The people clamored to make him king,
Be he craved no fame or power.
He doffed his sword, his robes of state
(But never his spotless armor),
And he packed his bags, Mt. Vernon bound,
A gentlemen and farmer.

— Ethel Jacobson

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Washington, so staunch and brave,
As a leader always gave:
Self without a thought of cost;
Hope when freedom's cause seemed lost.
Idolized by soldiers, friends he Never worked for his own ends.
Gallant leader, man of God,
Tireless, tiller of the sod, he Obedied duty, country's call —
Now he is revered by all.

— Don Marshall

GEORGE WASHINGTON

George Washington, George Washington,
A soldier true and great;
He fought to make our country free,
His birth we celebrate.
GEORGE WASHINGTON

George Washington, the father of our country,
A brave and very honest man was he,
It's said he told the truth when people asked him
If he cut down his father's cherry tree.
He led his men when they went into battle,
And kept their spirits up when they were sad,
His love for liberty and freedom made him
Among the strongest presidents we've had.

— Helen M. Webster

LINCOLN SPOKE

He sat on a log at noontime.
He heard the sound of a bird.
His thoughts took form within him.
He spoke
And a forest heard.
He stood in the halls of justice
That the cause of right might be served.
He reasoned with homespun humor.
He spoke
And his neighbors heard.
From the pinnacle of high office,
Appearing uncouth and absurd,
He bitterly fought injustice
He spoke
And a nation heard.
He rose on a field of battle
To say a few solemn words.
His great heart torn within him,
He spoke
And mankind heard.

— Hazel M. Thomson

LINCOLN, MARTYRED PRESIDENT

Lincoln was a lonely soul,
    As the great are apt to be,
But his heart was stout as a hickory bole
    And his faith as deep as the sea.
Lincoln was a troubled soul,
    For the times were torn with strife,
Yet to keep our precious Union whole
    Was the great goal of his life.
Lincoln was a merry man,
    For he well knew laughter's part —
A welcome, healing balm that can Relieve the burdened heart.
For Lincoln was a tragic man
    Who knew hate's ugly force,
While he strove prayerfully to plan
    The nation's rightful course.
That nation stands intact today,
    So well he held the reins —
Lincoln, who settled a bloody fray,
    And was martyred for his pains.

VALENTINE LOVE

It's fun to cut out valentines,
And send them on their way.
Because each one I make, you see,
Has something sweet to say.
I put, "I love you dearly,"
On the one that goes to Mother.
And, "From your loving sister,"
On the one I give to Brother.
And Father gets a pretty one,
With lots of words of love,
And my teachers and my playmates,
All the ones I'm thinking of.

--- Enola Chamberlin

A VALENTINE

A valentine's a token,
More than it shows;
More than doves on silver wings,
Or flowers, or satin bows;
More than color—red and white.
Or gold, and blue.
From me to you.

--- Solveig P. Russell

TO YOU

King Winter made a Valentine
To set your heart aglow —
A pretty thing of frosty lace
With crystals in a row.
Then Spring slipped in through icy trees,
Though chilled from head to toe,
And left her special Valentine —
A crocus in the snow.

VALENTINES, VALENTINES...

An armful of valentines,
A lapful of valentines
   With rosebuds and ribbons
   And little pink hearts;
A bushful of valentines,
A barrowful of valentines
   With lace paper scallops
   And shiny gold darts...
For family and friends,
   For classmates by dozens,
For Teacher, the paper boy
   And all my aunts and cousins,
And one for the postman
   Who puts them in his sack
To take to all the houses...
   And bring me others back!

--- Ethel Jacobson

POEMS ABOUT THE NAVAJO

IT IS NOT!

The Navajo Reservation a lonesome place?
   It is not!
The skies are sunny,
   Clear blue,
Or gray with rain.
Each day is gay
   In nature's way.
It is not a lonesome at all.

A Navajo home shabby and small?
   It is not!
Inside there's love,
   Good laughter,
And big talk.

But best . . .
It's home
With an open door
And room for all.

A castle could have no more.
WOULDN'T YOU?

Little Chee, and his brother, Tso,
To their grandma Heda Bah’s
Love to go.

She hasn't any cake
And she hasn't any cookies
Like your grandma makes.

But boiling on the camp-fire,
Is a pot of mutton stew!
Oh, how I'd love to have some!
Wouldn't you?

Heda Bah’s table is a smoothed-off spot
On the bare level ground for the cooking-pot.
At Heda Bah’s table you eat like a mouse,
For there’s not a single dish in Heda Bah’s house!
But a bent tortilla will make a spoon or two.

I’d just love to try it!
Wouldn’t you?

And when the meal is over
There is not a dish to do!
I’d rather be an Indian...
Wouldn’t you?

The Lord Is My Shepherd

The Bible: Psalm 23

The Lord is my shepherd;
I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures;
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul.
He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness
For His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death;
I will fear no evil;
For Thou art with me;
Thy rod and Thy staff,
They comfort me.
Thou preparrest a table before me
In the presence of my enemies;
Thou anointest my head with oil;
My cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
All the days of my life;
And I will dwell in the house of the Lord
Forever. Amen.

NAVAJO HISTORY

Long ago a young Navajo prayed for the things he valued most in life. How do his values compare with yours today?

NAVAJO PRAYER
Anonymous

Lord of the Mountain,
Reared within the Mountain,
Young man, Chieftain,
Hear a young man's prayer.

Hear a prayer for cleanness,
Keeper of the strong rain
Drumming on the mountain,
Lord of the small rain
That restores the earth in newness,
Keeper of the clean rain,
Hear a prayer for wholeness.

Young man, Chieftain,
Hear a prayer for fleetness,
Keeper of the deer's way,
Reared among the eagles,
Clear my feet of slothness.

Keeper of the paths of men,
Hear a prayer for straightness,
Hear a prayer for courage.
Lord of the thin peaks,
Reared among the thunders,
Keeper of the headlands
Holding up the harvest,
Keeper of the strong rocks,
Hear a prayer for staunchness.

Young man, Chieftain,
Spirit of the Mountain.
UNDERSTANDING THE POEM

1. For what qualities is the young Navajo praying?
2. By what titles does the Navajo address the Lord of the Mountain?
3. What is contributed to the total effect by the form and rhythm of the lines? by the dignified language?

NAVAJO HISTORY

NAVAJO DATELINES

EVENTS IN NAVAJO HISTORY — TAKEN FROM THE NAVAJO TIMES, JANUARY 26, 1967.

1754 — The Navajos lived on mesa tops and other locations to defend themselves from the Utes.
1766 — This trouble with the Utes continued and the Navajos welcomed the Spanish coming in.
1773 — Utes invaded Navajo country.
1775 — A period when Navajos and Utes banded together with the plan to destroy a Hopi settlement.
1792 — Navajos again banded together with the Utes against the Comanches.
1804 — Navajos and Utes began fighting each other again.
1818 — Navajos and Utes banded together against the Spaniards.
1828 — Navajos did not band together with the Utes against the Spaniards because they (the Navajos) wanted to keep the peace.
1841 — Navajos and Utes began fighting each other again. This ended in 1863 with the Carson campaign which sent the Navajos to Fort Sumner.
1841 — Occasional war continued between the Navajos and the Utes.
1845 — Chief Narbona and three Navajo warriors went to Santa Fe to see the Comandante General. They told him the Utes had sent them to talk about peace between the Utes and the Spaniards.
1852 — The Navajos and Utes again went to war because of two killings.
1855 — A peace treaty was signed between the Utes and Spaniards. Some Navajos were present at the treaty signing. The Navajos and Utes were then at peace with each other.
1856 — (September) Peace between the Navajos and Utes continued until this date when a Navajo war party attacked some Capote Utes.
1856 — (with a brief break from December, 1858 to August, 1859) War continued between the Navajos and the Utes.
1862 — (Same as 1856)
1863 — Navajo exile to Fort Sumner — the Carson campaign.
1864 — Utes overran the country abandoned by the Navajos.
1865 — Utes attacked Chief Manuelito's band and took much of his stock.
1866 — Major Pfeiffer advised the Utes to make peace with the Navajos. The Utes did not and many Navajos, including the wounded Manuelito, surrendered to the military.
1868 — (June 1) The Navajos returned to a portion of their homeland. The Utes continued to raid them occasionally until a peace treaty between the two tribes was signed on November 30, 1868.

THE NAVAJO RUG

Like pieces of fallen cloud, the sheep are scattered on the hillside.
In the summer's hot wind and the winter's cold, the woman herds them.
To the hills in the day, to the coral at night,
To fresh grass and water she herds them.
The rug begins in strength.

A storm drapes itself around the mountain. The sheep are restless. They scatter.
The woman tries to gather them. She cannot.
She kneels in the dust of the land to pray. The sheep came together.
To the rug is added Faith.

The sheep are sheared. The wool stands in fat bags against the hogan wall.
Now the carding begins. Short, quick strokes. Fibers straight. Dirt combed out.
Now the spinning begins. Turning, turning, turning, turning of the spindle
While knowing fingers pull the wool into a strong, straight thread.
Now the washing begins; now the dying begins.
Into the rug goes Patience.

The rug grows slowly on the loom.
Its design, unwritten, has gathered itself in the mind of one
Who has long looked out upon the land
And seen its ever-changing colors and patterns.
The rug is woven in Beauty.

The way to the trading post is long.
And when the woman gets there, what will she buy?
Lengths of sateen and velvet that shine like shimmering jewels on the shelf?
New dishes, a cooking pot—hers is so old.
No. This and this and—yes—this for her children.
And this and this for her man.
For herself, not a thing.
The rug is finished in Love.

The woman is gone. You come to buy. The price is too much?
No, my friend. Not for this rug. Not for what is in it.
All that the woman is, is in this rug.
All she thinks, all she believes, all her skills, all she dreams of and hopes for...
Have been woven into one in this rug.
And for all this, the price is never too much. Because you see, my friend,
The rug is the Woman.

THE NORTH WIND

The north wind doth blow,
And we shall have snow,
And what will the robin do then,
Poor thing?
He'll sit in the barn
And keep himself warm,
And hide his head under his wing,
Poor thing!

—Mother Goose

ABRAHAM LINCOLN (1809-1865)

Lincoln was a long man.
He liked out of doors.
He liked the wind blowing
And the talk in country store.

He liked telling stories,
He liked telling jokes.
"Abe's quite a character,"
Said quite a lot of folks.

Lots of folks in Springfield
Saw him every day,
Walking down the street
In his gaunt, long way.

Shawl around his shoulders,
Letters in his hat.
"That's Abe Lincoln."
They thought no more than that.

Knew he had three little boys
Who liked to shout and play,
Knew he had a lot of debts
It took him years to pay.

Knew his clothes and knew his house.
"That's his office, here.
Blame good lawyer, on the whole,
Though he's sort of queer."

"Sure he went to Congress, once,
But he didn't stay.
Can't expect us all to be
Smart as Henry Clay."

"Need a man for troubled times?
Well, I guess we do.
Wonder who we'll ever find?
Yes—I wonder who."

That is how they met and talked,
Knowing and unknowing.
Lincoln was the green pine.
Lincoln kept on growing.

VALENTINE'S DAY

VALENTINE SURPRISE

Off to the store ran Jane
To buy her mother a Valentine.
It couldn't be too fancy or plain,
Or have the usual saying, "Be mine."

All of the stores were searched,
But nothing could be found.
So Jane went home and thought
Until a good idea came 'round.

She got out needles and thread,
And decorating tape.
When the sewing got underway
The gift began to take shape.

The package had violets and pretty ribbon,
And cutouts of Cupid's darts.
Mother opened it, and to her surprise,
It was a great big lacy heart.

— Linda Ramball

VALENTINE VILLAGE

If you've ever thought about hearts so red,
Or candy spread out on a table,
Then you must have thought of Valentine Village
Though most people think it's only a fable.

There's a Valentine store,
And a Valentine "Doc,"
A Valentine kitten,
And a Valentine cook.

So if ever you're thinking of hearts so red,
Or candy spread out on a table,
Be sure to think of Valentine Village
Even if it is a fable.

SEASONAL MATERIAL — MARCH

THE WIND
I saw you toss the kites on high
And blow the birds about the sky;
And all around I heard you pass,
Like Ladies’ skirts across the grass,
O wind, a blowing all day long,
O wind, that sings so loud a song!
I saw the different things you did,
But always you yourself you hid.
I felt you push, I heard you call,
I could not see yourself at all—
O wind, a-blowing all day long,
O wind, that sings so loud a song!
O you that are so strong and cold,
O blower, are you young or old?
Are you a beast of field and tree,
Or just a stronger child than me?
O wind, a-blowing all day long,
O wind, that sings so loud a song!
—Robert Louis Stevenson

WHO HAS SEEN THE WIND?
Who has seen the wind?
Neither I nor you;
But when the leaves hang trembling,
The wind is passing through.
Who has seen the wind?
Neither you nor I;
But when the trees
Bow down their heads,
The wind is passing by.
—Christina Rossetti

WIND CAPERS
The wind is out with a leap and a twirl,
Prancing, prancing,
The aspen tree is like a girl,
Dancing, dancing.
The maple tree upon the hill,
She cannot keep her ruffles still.
The swallows blow along the sky,
Glancing, glancing,
O wind, O wind, you tricky elf,
Behave yourself!
—Nancy Byrd Turner
LANGUAGE LESSON PLANS FOR LAB II

PURPOSES

1. Session 1
   - Continue providing practice asking questions.
   - Teach the use of tag endings.
   - Pronunciation drills with final consonants.

2. Session 2
   - Introduce the use of similes in conversation.
   - Practice the use of final /sts/ and /sks/ sounds.

3. Session 3
   - Test and evaluate: recognition of stress; use of tag endings; final /t/ /d/ and /id/ sounds; final /s/ /z/ and /iz/ sounds; telling time with figures.

CLASSROOM CORRELATION

M. This ends the lesson.

OPEN RANGE

Kathryn and Byron Jackson

Prairie goes to th' mountain,
Mountain goes to the sky.
The sky sweeps across to the distant hills
And here, in the middle
Am I.

Hills crowd down to the river,
Rivers run by the tree.
Tree throws its shadow on sunburnt grass
And here, in the shadow,
Is me.

Shadows creep up the mountain,
Mountain goes black on the sky,
The sky bursts out with a million stars
And here, by the campfire,
Am I.

TYPICAL AMERICAN
Nicholas Murray Butler
(1862-1947)

The typical American is he who, whether rich or poor, whether dwelling in the North, South, East or West, whether scholar, professional man, merchant, manufacturer, farmer or skilled worker for wages, lives the life of a good citizen and a good neighbor; who believes loyally and with all his heart in his country's institutions, and in the underlying principles on which these institutions are built; who directs both his private and his public life by sound principles; who cherishes high ideals; and who aims to train his children for a useful life and for their country's service.

SEASONAL MATERIAL FOR READING

THE WIND

Today the wind is just a breeze
That blows the branches of the trees,
And makes a humming sound.
But yesterday,
Oh, what a sight!
The wind sure did put up a fight.
—Jaymes Glenn

STIRRING

In the park today,
Listening, listening.
Only the wind,
Howling, howling.
Not a voice, not a word,
Listening, listening.
—Sharon Vardamis
RIDING THE SKY

Box kites bob
On the bouncing breeze.
Long-tailed skinners
Sail over the trees.
Fish kites swim
Blue oceans of air,
And butterflies flit
With gay wings aflare.

String up and fling up
And run with your kite!
Catch wind and snatch wind
Till it carries just right!
Free string and loose string—
Let it soar free and far!
Let it dance, see it prance
Like at high twinkling star!

—Barbara Bates

SAINT PATRICK (about 389-461)

Saint Patrick is the patron of Ireland and a saint of the Roman Catholic Church. He was born at Bannavem, which may have been in England near the Severn estuary, or in Scotland near the modern city of Dumbarton.

Saint Patrick had a romantic life, full of adventure. He was captured by pirates from Ireland at the age of sixteen. They carried him back there, and set him to tending the flocks of a chieftain in Ulster. Six years of slavery made him a devoted Christian. He escaped to France and became a monk. In 432, a vision led him to return to Ireland as a missionary bishop. He worked very hard in various parts of the island for the rest of his life. His labors were so successful that he came to be known as the one who “found Ireland all heathen and left it all Christian.” Saint Patrick founded over three hundred churches and baptized more than one hundred twenty thousand persons.

Many legends grew up about this popular saint. One of the best known is that he charmed the snakes of the land down to the seashore so that they were driven into the water and drowned. Much else that is told of Saint Patrick is little more than legendary. He left a sort of autobiography in his Confession, written in crude Latin.

Much study has been given to Saint Patrick, but little that goes beyond his own writings can be accepted as certain.

Saint Patrick’s feast day is celebrated throughout the world, wherever there are Irish people. It falls on March 17 of each year.

—World Book Encyclopedia.

SEASONAL MATERIAL: ST. PATRICK

AN OLD IRISH BLESSING

May the blessing of light be on you, light within and light without.

May the blessed sunlight shine upon you and warm your heart till it glows like a great peat fire, so that the stranger may come and warm himself at it, and also a friend.
And may the light shine out of the eyes of you, like a candle set in the windows of a house, bidding the wandered to come in out of the storm.

And may the blessing of the rain be on you — the soft sweet rain. May it fall upon your spirit so that all the little flowers may spring up, and shed their sweetness on the air.
And may the blessing of the great rains be on you,
may they beat upon your spirit and wash it fair and clean, and leave there many a shining pool where the blue of heavens shines, and sometimes a star.

And may the blessing of the earth be on you — the great round earth; may you ever have a kindly greeting for them you as pass as you’re going along the roads. May the earth be soft under you when you rest out upon it, tired at the end of a day, and may it rest easy over you when, at the last, you lie out under it.
May it rest so lightly over you that your soul may be off from under it quickly, and up and off, and on its way to God.

And now may the Lord bless you, and bless you kindly.

M. You're phoning inviting your kid brother to visit you.
M. You're phoning inviting your kid sister to visit you.

F. This ends the lesson.

TWENTY-NINTH WEEK ENRICHMENT
NAVAJO HISTORY – WORLD WAR II ERA

To some peoples, the Second World War meant the end of wealth and power, but to others, like the American Indians, it often meant a beginning. Many of the American Indian tribes, like the Navajos, were at some stage of leaving the primitive life. In this war, America needed every man, and all Indians who could meet qualifications were drafted.

To a white American this might mean harming a career, with a change of living habits and attitudes sharp enough to make him very nervous. But to an Indian, army life seemed satisfactory and even enjoyable. Coarse foods, irregular hours and lack of privacy were no hardship for the Navajos, and the mental attitude of a fighter was the identical one handed down from their ancestors for generations. Before this, it had led only to frustration, but now it was enjoyable. White officers have said that no man in their command took the stress of war with greater calm than the Indian. What was more, the Red Man could now distinguish himself. He could perform the feats required of a soldier as well as any white man, and often better. This losing of the sense of inferiority was a glorious experience. Not only were the Indians not inferiors, but were accepted as comrades. I remember the quiet burning pride which a Navajo marine told me: "Us Marines are buddies. We stick together against everybody." That Indian might never in his life have had the chance to be a buddy to a white man. Now it had happened, and the gulf was bridged. The world was no longer a place of mysterious enemies but a place one might enter.

Navajos volunteered for the armed services even before the draft. When, as citizens, they were drafted, they flocked to their registration boards, even the old men carrying guns and asking to be shown where the enemy was. Altogether, there were 3,600 Navajos in the United States Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, with a dozen Navajo women in the Women's Army Corps. They saw service in every theatre, and won nearly every type of decoration awarded.

Navajos in the United States Marine Corps performed a unique service. Their language, with its forms so utterly different from those of European tongues, was unknown to all enemy nations. It made an ideal code to be used in the signal corps. Two Navajos carrying portable telephones or two-way radio sets could carry messages across enemy lines with perfect knowledge that this code would never be "cracked." Twenty-nine Navajos enlisted for this service and were trained all together as a platoon. They did service in the Pacific, and these youths, who perhaps had never been more than one hundred miles from home came back speaking some Japanese and carrying samurai swords and silken kimonos. There were "code talkers" also in Sicily and Italy, as well as fighting men.

Things were indeed changing. "I stopped in New York and Philadelphia on the way home," one sergeant told me, in the gentle Indian voice which can match the accents of the most cultured white man. "I had buddies there." With his leather gloves, his tailored blouse, and his well polished shoes, this man was returning to an earth-floored hogan. But not for long. Not only he, but his family would soon be wanting more comforts. The People were beginning, at last, to see what the whites worked for and what could be had. For better or worse, the medieval way of life had been damaged beyond repair.

This might not have meant a permanent change in Navajo family life, for men before this had gone off to raid and war and had come back to carry on the ancient family customs. It was money that made the difference. Money in a soldier's allotments meant that he must observe the white man's marriage laws. Up to now there had been little interference with the Navajo custom of frequent marriage and divorce without legal registration. Some men still had more than one wife. Yet the allotment system assumed that a married soldier had one wife and one legitimate family of children. Obviously it was not fair that a Navajo would have two or more families and get support for them all. The People, never blind to a practical problem, began to see why marriages and births should be registered and divorces carried out by a process of law. The government instituted a campaign with moving pictures to show why each Indian should take a "paper name" which he could keep all his life, instead of different names, changed after every important event.

There were now attempts for better planning in Indian work. Two big ordnance plants went up in the desert country near the reservation, and Navajo and Hopi Indians provided most of the working forces. When trucks drove up to the workshops in the morning to disgorge hundreds of young men and women in modern dress, it was plain that change had come to the Navajos, if only an outward one. They worked eight hours a day in the white man's manner (foremen said that they did not want to stop at noon); and when living arrangements had been completed by the employers, they went home to shower baths, wooden floors, and beds. One of the villages at Fort Wingate was given to the Navajo Tribe when the war was over. The neat streets, houses, and government school will afford an opportunity for those Navajos who wish to go out to work and live like white men, without going too far from home.

Money was coming into the reservation, both from wages and from soldiers' allotments. The first items bought, of course, were silver ornaments, that portable wealth which can always be pawned with the trader and which meanwhile, enhances the family status almost as much as horses. Then came clothing which, for the men, meant magnificent cowboy costumes. Plush for the blouses which, for the last forty years, had constituted "native dress" was growing scarce. Some women bought expensive velvet, and one might see whole frocks of it on the streets of Gallup, topping off the sneakers which had taken the place of moccasins. Navajo shredsness finally dictated a change of style, and more and more Navajo women could be seen in the costume of white, farm women.

In some hogans, stoves for wood or kerosene took the place of the earthen hearth in the center of the floor. There were dishes, glasses, and perhaps, a movable cabinet. The building of new houses went on slowly, since the People still clung to the idea that a house must be deserted after a death. Instead of houses, for a time, they bought battery radios and, above all, tenthhand cars. Navajo boys often show a new genius in tinkering with cars which their white brothers would throw on the junk heap. No license was required on the reservation, and a speed of ten miles an hour was at least better than horse and wagon.

Even the ceremonies were changing. Navajo chanters themselves admit that they sometimes change after these have been tried and proved not to bring misfortune. But, it may have been the young people from boarding school was brought the change in the Squaw Dance, the finale of the Enemy Way. This is a purification rite performed for the benefit of those Navajos who have had too much contact with strangers and was in much demand after the war. The public dance, on the last nights, symbolized the return of warriors after a raid, when the women came to greet them and receive their trophies. Maidens now invite youths to dance and receive a gift of money. Within my memory, each maiden modestly held her "warrior" by the belt, circling round him, while he stood with folded arms. Now couples often dance arm in arm, as they may have done at school.

A more sinister novelty was whiskey which sometimes passed among spectators and dances, too. Navajos had always bought whiskey since the first railroad brought it within their reach, and the federal law, passed in 1802 at the request of the Indians themselves, was practically unenforceable. During the war, a Navajo man, especially a soldier, felt very inferior when he was denied service at a bar where his comrades drank freely. The exchange of expensive bottles of bad liquor in dark corners of Gallup streets went on quickly. The liquor difficulty was mounting to an impossible pinnacle which would need attention after the war, like many other Navajo problems.

Even the Navajo attitude toward death began to waver. Many whites had tried to convince The People that the dead body of a loved one need not spread evil and that photographs and memorials to the dead can be beautiful and consoling. The Navajos had kept to the idea that any contact with the dead is dangerous. Yet bodies of white soldiers were being brought home and buried with ceremonies which brought honor to all connected with them. Should the Navajos refuse this honor? The leaders were brought together and asked whether they wished a war cemetery for Navajo heroes. They hesitated, but desire for prestige overcame the ancient taboo. For the war dead, at least, public burial was accepted. The first Navajo killed in a training plane was buried with ceremony, under the American flag.

The Navajos experienced four years of this accelerated life, and then the war was over. Soldiers and war workers all over the country were drifting back to a world which seemed to have nothing for them, but with the Navajos, this emptiness was particularly miserable. Now they wanted money, better housing, more possessions, and particularly, education. War had done what at least a half century of argument had failed to do. The Navajos were ready for school.
But the schools were not ready for them. The poor buildings and the lack of enough seats in schools on the reservation became a scandal, once it was known. There were twenty-one thousand children of school age and less than six thousand enrolled in all schools, federal, mission and public. Hasty work began to make up for some of the lack. Money was appropriated for repairing the old schools and for building new ones wherever the population justified it. This program could never bring schools to all the People before their growing children had passed school age. There were concentrated programs for children over twelve in Indian boarding schools all over the Southwest, and there were special courses for the veterans who could not go to college because of lack of preparation.

Week's Lessons Follow
M. Tape E-1

REVIEW OF TROUBLESOME SOUNDS
PRONUNCIATION: "TH," FINAL "S," FINAL "ED"
"DID" WITH THE PAST

M. This is a rapid review of many of your previous lessons. Try to keep up with a strong, clear voice.

M. Listen and repeat:

F. take this  Take this to mother.
F. thanks  Thanks for everything.
F. mother's brother  Bill is my mother's brother.
F. this one  Their car is better than this one.
M. the north  It is the north, not the south building.
M. this thing  Let's think this thing through.
M. don't bother  Please don't bother.

F. Answer these questions with "yes," followed by a complete sentence.

For example, listen:

M. Have you finished your mathematics?
F. Yes, I've finished my mathematics.

M. Is the bridge north of town?
F. Yes, the bridge is north of town.

M. Is the lesson on page thirty three?
F. Yes, the lesson is on page thirty three.

M. Now you answer:

F. Have you finished your mathematics?
F. Is the bridge north of town?
F. Is the lesson on page thirty three?
M. Can he throw the ball to third base?
M. Is your brother's truck larger than this one?
M. Do you think this is better than that?

F. Listen and repeat:

M. Do you think we can have our picnic Thursday?
F. I think Thursday will be fine.
M. Shall I take anything for lunch?
F. No, thank you, Arthur will take everything.
M. I thought Arthur was in the South.
F. He came back from the South on the third.
M. Are Ruth and Beth going?
F. Yes, it's Ruth birthday.
M. We'll bake a birthday cake for Ruth.

F. Listen and repeat:
M. that boys went down that road.
M. grandmother They went to see their grandmother.
M. father They will meet their father there.
M. together They'll drive home together.
F. brother Ted, the younger brother, stayed with his mother.
F. leather Their father has a pair of leather boots.
F. weather He wears his leather boots in wet weather.

M. Final “ed”; as in “wished” and “watched.”
M. Listen and repeat:
F. wished M. They wished they were here yesterday.
F. watched M. We watched the game yesterday.
F. stopped M. The bus stopped yesterday.
F. helped M. I helped him and he thanked me.
M. decided F. He decided to learn English.
M. telephoned F. I telephoned you, but he answered.
M. liked F. He liked her and asked her name.
M. invited F. I invited her, but she visited you.

M. Now, make sentences of your own. Think fast; this exercise is rapid. Begin with “Beth” and end with “yesterday”:
F. helped
F. watched
F. missed
F. packed
F. stopped
F. liked
M. Now, begin with “Arthur”; end with “last week”:
  F. stayed
  F. lived
  F. learned
  M. used
  M. changed
  M. called

F. Now, begin with “mother”; end with “a few years ago”:
  M. wanted
  M. invited
  M. needed
  F. mended
  F. decided
  F. painted

F. Final “S’s.” Listen and repeat:
  M. books F. doors M. classes
  M. students F. windows M. offices
  M. desks F. names M. pages

F. Three notebooks are in two desks.
F. Five teachers are in four classrooms.
F. The nurses are in these offices.
F. All desks have chairs.
M. Are those students engineers?
M. Are all classes in their classrooms?
M. All sentences have words.
M. The nurses are my friends.

F. Review of the past tense with “did.”
F. Listen:
  M. He left the office early.
  M. He went to Chicago by plane.
  M. The company paid for his trip.
  F. Did he leave the office early?
  F. Did he go to Chicago by plane?
  F. Did the company pay for his trip?

M. Now, you ask the question. Begin with “did.”
  F. He left the office early.
  F. He went to Chicago by plane.
  M. Did he leave?
  M. Did he go?
F. The company paid for his trip.
F. It rained hard last night.
M. They talked for a long time.
M. He arrived late for the lesson.
M. They spoke to him in Spanish.
M. Everyone had a good time at the party.
F. They wrote a letter about it.
F. The telephone rang several times.
F. Helen finally answered it.
F. The teacher became angry.
M. She sent John from the room.
M. Everyone began to laugh.
M. The ball broke the window.
M. The child fell from the tree.
F. The mailman put the mail on Mr. Smith's desk.
F. Ruth passed all her examinations.
F. She took the children to the rodeo.

F. Listen:
M. He left for Chicago last night.
F. When did he leave for Chicago?
M. She saw him on Main Street.
F. Where did she see him?
M. He put the book on the desk.
F. Where did he put the book?
M. They lived in Texas for ten years.
F. How long did they live in Texas?

M. Now, you ask the question:
F. He left for Chicago last night.
M. When ......................................?
F. She saw him on Main Street.
M. Where ......................................?
F. He put the book on the desk.
M. Where ......................................?
F. They lived in Texas for ten years.
M. How long ....................................?
F. They went to California by bus.
F. What time ...................................?
F. Bill left because he was angry.
F. Why .........................................?
M. They ate lunch in the cafeteria.
F. He met her on the corner.
F. He brought his cousin with him.
F. He paid three dollars for the book.
F. Ruth lived there for five years.
M. They drove to Arizona in John's car.
M. She took the kids to the rodeo.
M. They stayed for a long time.
F. She bought that dress downtown.
F. It cost eight dollars.
F. The meeting began at ten.

M. Where ...........................................
M. Where ...........................................
M. Whom ...........................................
M. How much ......................................
M. How long ......................................
F. In whose car .................................
F. Where ...........................................
F. How long ......................................
M. Where ...........................................
M. How much ......................................
M. What time ......................................

M. Now, pluralize the following nouns:
F. stamp ........................................
F. egg ...........................................
F. match ........................................
F. seat ...........................................
F. camera ......................................
F. garage ......................................
F. photograph .................................

M. language ...................................
M. test ..........................................M. pencil ........................................
M. pencil ........................................
M. horse ........................................
M. desk .........................................
M. necklace ....................................

F. Listen and repeat:

M. Up from the meadows rich with corn.
M. The breaking waves dashed high.
F. Behind him lay the gray Azores.
F. We hold these truths to be self-evident.
M. My fellow citizens of the world.
M. Listen, my children, and you shall hear.
F. Whose woods these are I think I know.
F. Thanks, thanks to thee, my worthy friend.
M. Against the earth's sweet flowing breast.
M. Our fortunes must be wrought.
F. And ever the stars above look down.
F. That the road passes on through the long afternoon.
M. And stretches away to the night.
M. For I have promises to keep.
F. And miles to go before I sleep.
M. This ends the lesson.

LISTENING TO DIALOGUE — CONVERSATION ABOUT THE WEATHER
PRONUNCIATION DRILLS /K/, /G/, FINAL "S"
REVIEW PAST TENSE WITH "DID"
QUESTION-ANSWER PATTERNS WITH "DID"

F. Listen closely to the following dialogue. You'll be asked questions about it.
M. GETTING A ROOM AT THE HOTEL
F. May I help you?
M. Yes, please. I'd like a room for tonight.
F. Have you a reservation?
M. No, I haven't.
F. Do you wish a single room or a double room?
M. A single room with bath, if possible.
F. We have a single room with bath on the second floor at four dollars a day.
M. Do you have anything on a higher floor? I'm afraid it may be noisy so near the street.
F. We have one at five dollars on the eighth floor.
M. It's an outside room, I suppose?
F. It's a corner room with windows that face two streets.
M. At what time may I move into the room?
F. The room is available now, sir. Will you sign the register first, please? How long do you plan to remain in Phoenix?
M. I'll be here for two days, at least.
F. Is this your first trip to Phoenix?
M. Yes, it is. By the way, does the hotel have a dining room?
F. Yes, we have a very fine restaurant.
M. At what time do you serve meals?
F. We serve breakfast from 8:00 to 11:00. Lunch is from 12:00 to 3:00 and dinner, from 5:00 to 8:00.
M. Fine, let me have that 5 dollar room on the eighth floor, please.

M. Now you answer:
F. Where does the dialogue you just heard take place?
F. Between what two persons?
F. Does the man want a single or double room?
F. Does he want a room with or without a bath?

APRIL MUSIC

I'd like to spend April
Sitting on a hill,
With a mushroom for a parasol
And violets for a belt.
And the wind for a violin,
To play spring tunes,
And the blossoms in the treetops
For gay balloons.
I'd like to spend April
Watching for the flowers to pop
Out of the ground.
With their green silk stockings
And their new spring clothes,
Trying to look taller
By dancing on their toes!

— Aileen Fisher

LITTLE ROBIN REDBREAST

Little Robin Redbreast sat upon a tree.
Up went pussy cat, down flew he.
Down came pussy cat,
Away Robin ran Says Little Robin Redbreast,
"Catch me if you can."

— Unknown

THE ROBIN'S SONG

Robin is singing, a song of cheer,
Telling us that the spring is here,
High in the top of an old oak tree,
His tiny throat is bursting with glee.
Hark! He is singing, cheerie, cheerie,
Happy springtime is here, cheerie!

— Unknown

SEASONAL MATERIAL — APRIL

BEWARE THE RAIN!

Don't underrated the rain,
It's here to stay.
You may think: at last it's gone!
On a sunny day,
But far beneath the ground
In a creviced hole,
It blindly burrows deep,
Like a silver mole,
Until it finds a river
Underground,
And adds its somber singing
To the rush of sound.
When, surfacing, it crowds
Past brimming banks,
It builds a force for which
Strong men give thanks.
But soon it bursts into
The chafing sea,
Where drop cavorts with drop,
Tempestuous, free.
And one day, as you stand
Beguiled by the sun,
A thousand drops creep upward,
One by one,
Wrap themselves in cloud,
Unseen by man,
Ride the dragon wind
To his lair, and then —
With a sudden, mighty clap
Of rousing thunder,
Leap down upon our banks
To rain us under!

— Lou Ann Welte
BASEBALL

Spring is the time, the only time,
When baseball comes around.
It is the greatest, neatest time,
To give home plate a pound.
And now I'm in the batter's box,
And boy, do I feel great.
The fielders turn their heads as if to say,
"Okay, just wait."
Then the pitcher gets all tense,
The catcher pounds his mitt.
The ball comes sailing through the air.
Oh good, that's great, I've hit!
I run right on to second.
My teammate makes a run.
That finishes the inning.
But wait the score, we've won!

— Hunt Dyar

AN INDIAN PRAYER

"Oh Great Spirit, whose voice I hear in the winds, and Whose breath gives life to all the World, hear me.

"I come before You, one of your many children. I am small and weak. I need Your strength and Wisdom.

"Let me walk in beauty and make my eyes ever behold the red and purple sunset. Make my hands respect the things You have made. my ears sharp to hear Your voice.

"Make me wise, so that I may know the things You have taught my people, the lesson You have hidden in every leaf and rock.

"I seek strength not to be superior to my brothers, but to be able to fight my greatest enemy — myself.

"Make me ever ready to come to You with clean hands and straight eyes, so when life fades as a fading sunset, my spirit may come to You without shame."

YELLOW LARK,
Sioux Indian Chief

THE NAVAJOS

The Navajo Indian Tribe presents one of the puzzles of America in the 20th century. Other Indians have "vanished." Not the Navajo. They now number nearly 97,000 and are increasing three times as fast as the rest of the U.S. population.

Other Indians have lost their native language. Not the Navajo. Most adults speak only a few words of English.
Other Indians have lost all or part of their ancient hunting grounds. Not the Navajo. Since their treaty with the United States in 1868, they have increased the size of their reservation four times, from 3 1/2 million acres to almost 14 million acres.

Other Indians have deserted their loghouses or tepees for more modern housing. But most Navajo families still live several miles from their nearest neighbors in hogan—windowless mud and log huts with earth floors.

But take a look at the isolation of Navajoland and you begin to solve the puzzle of the primitive Navajo.

Civilization has moved along the world's waterways, railroads, highways. Up to now, the Navajos have found themselves bypassed by all of these. Nor have they seen much of other modern miracles; electric power, the telephone, television.

NAVAJO HISTORY.

The Navajos, ethnologists believe, descend from a nomadic people who relied on hunting for their livelihood. They speak a variant of the Athabascan tongue, a language one can still trace through Indian tribes residing in Oregon, British Columbia, and the interior of Alaska.

The Navajos (who call themselves “Dineh”—The People) migrated to the Southwest in possibly the 16th century (though Navajo mythology says the people have always been here). When they settled in what is now northern New Mexico, The People showed themselves progressive and adaptable, adopted the agricultural ways of the Pueblo Indians.

By the late 16th century, early Spanish explorers mistook them for Apaches (indeed, their languages are alike) and called them “Apache de Navahu”—The Apaches of the cultivated fields.

By the beginning of the 17th century, the Navajos had shifted their ways again. They began to acquire horses and sheep and goats from the Spaniards, and by 1860 when the Pueblo Indians revolted and drove out the Spanish, the Navajos had adopted a pastoral culture, had learned to love the sheep that provided them with food and clothing.

The Navajo lived for the next 200 years in their quiet canyons and fertile valleys, left them only for occasional raids on Indian pueblos.

Following the Indian wars, U.S. Army General William Tecumseh Sherman signed a treaty with Navajo leaders at Fort Sumner in 1868. The Navajos agreed to return to some 3 1/2 million acres in the Canyon de Chelly area and keep peace with other Indian tribes. In turn, the United States agreed to give them 30,000 head of sheep and goats.

Successive presidential orders gave the Navajos more area. Even so, under their pastoral economy, the Navajos did not have enough land. Livestock herds steadily devoured range grasses, and heavy rains of the 1880's produced widespread erosion.

But the People kept pretty much to their old ways. They continued to eke out a living from sheep raising, a little melon and squash culture, rug weaving, silversmithing, part-time farm and railroad work off the reservation.
SOCIAL REVOLUTION.

Then came World War II. Railroads and war industries needed manpower and recruited more than 1,500 Navajos. Thirty-five hundred joined the Army, Navy, and Marines. The Navajos made an outstanding contribution to the war effort. Navajo Marines in the South Pacific developed a code in their own Navajo language. The Japanese never cracked it.

But when the People returned to the reservation at war's end, they had seen too much to go back to the life they once knew. They were psychologically ready to span the standstill of centuries in a decade. And a combination of happy circumstances occurred to help them do it.

Big drilling companies discovered oil, paid the Tribe millions for rights to its latent oil reserves, and more millions for royalties on the oil they pumped to New Mexico and the West Coast.

The U.S. Government set up the Indian Claims Commission to settle all American Indian claims against the United States and told the Navajos to hire themselves an attorney to prepare their case.

And Congress, in the midst of big spending for post-war foreign aid, was appraised of the plight of the Navajo at home and voted 88 million in 1950 for Navajo-Hopi rehabilitation.

Oil. Legal rights. Federal funds. This amalgam has created a revolution among The People.

The Tribe, for so many years a loose association of families, has achieved a sense of awareness. With its mineral revenues, it has been able to set up its own government under the leadership of the Chief Executive, Chairman, Navajo Tribe, police, courts, industry, and take over functions long delegated to the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Although the United States committed itself in the 1868 treaty to supply a schoolroom and teacher for every 30 Navajo children, Navajos largely resisted schooling for their children. When the war opened The People's eyes to life outside the reservation and more federal funds were made available, the education explosion began. As late as 1950, only 12,000 children were in school. Now practically all Navajo children (some 30,000) attend schools on the reservation and its periphery.

M. these - seize

F. though - dough

M. those - sews'

F. thank - Dan

M. they've - save

F. Listen and repeat:

M. I didn't know whether he was your father or brother.

M. It was difficult for them to breathe in such cold weather.

F. My brother would rather sleep than eat.

F. You can choose either one or the other.

F. Listen and repeat:

M. A person's own language plays a very strong part in his young life.

M. I know not what course others may take.

M. It is for us, the living, rather —

M. My fellow citizens of the world —

F. The breaking waves dashed high.

F. Blowing over the meadows brown —

F. The British Regulars fired and fled.

F. Our fortunes must be wrought.

F. I have promises to keep.

F. And miles to go before I sleep.

F. And miles to go before I sleep.

F. Up from the meadows rich with corn.

F. You must develop patience with steady practice.

F. Is life so dear or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery?
F. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us.

M. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men.

M. My fellow citizens of the world.

M. The breaking waves dashed high.

M. Crossing the fields to emerge again —

F. The hurrying hoof beats of the steed —

F. And the midnight message of Paul Revere —

F. Against the earth's sweet flowing —

F. It sounds to him like her mother's voice.

M. But I have promises to keep.

M. And miles to go before I sleep.

F. —This ends the lesson.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE
July 4, 1776

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these Rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That,
PREAMBLE TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Quotations from American Indian Chiefs:

HIAMOVI — The Cheyennes

"Long ago, the Great Mystery caused this land to be and made the Indians to live in this land. Well has the Indian fulfilled all the intent of the Great Mystery for him...

Once, only Indians lived in this land. Then came strangers from across the great water. No land had they; we gave them our land. No food had they; we gave them our corn. The strangers are become many and they fill all the country. They dig gold — from my mountains; they rear cities — of my stones and rocks; they make fine garments — from the hides and wool of animals that eat my grass. None of these things that make their riches did they bring with them from beyond the great water; all comes from my land, the land the Great Mystery gave to the Indians.

And when I think of this, I know that it is right even so. In the heart of the Great Mystery, it was meant that stranger — visitors — my friends across the great waters — should come to my land; that I should bid them welcome; that all men should sit down with me and eat together of my corn. It was meant by the Great Mystery that the Indian should give to all people.

But the white man has never known the Indian. It is thus: there are two roads, the white man's road and the Indian's road. Neither traveller knows the road of the other.

A little while, and the old Indians will no longer be and the young will be even as white men. When I think, I know that is in the mind of the Great Mystery that white men and Indians who fought together should now be one people.

There are birds of many colors — red, blue, green, yellow — yet all one bird.

There are horses of many colors — brown, black, yellow, white — yet all one horse.

So cattle — so all living things — animals, flowers, trees.

So men; in this land where once were only Indians, are now men of every color — white, black, yellow, red — yet all one people. That this should come to pass was in the heart of the Great Mystery. It is right thus.

And everywhere there should be peace."

— Hiamovi, A Chief of the Cheyennes
SURRENDER SPEECH

Chief Joseph, Nez Perce to Major General O. O. Howard,
Bear Paw Mountains, Montana

October 5, 1877

"Tell General Howard I know his heart. What he told me before I have in my heart. I am tired of fighting. Our chiefs are killed. Looking Glass is dead. Too-hul-hulsote is dead. The old men are all dead. It is the young men who say yes or no. He who led on the young men is dead. It is cold and we have no blankets. The little children are freezing to death. My people, some of them, have run away to the hills, and have no blankets, no food; no one knows where they are — perhaps freezing to death. I want to have time to look for my children and see how many of them I can find. Maybe I shall find them among the dead. Hear me, my chiefs. I am tired; my heart is sick and sad. From where the sun now stands I will fight no more forever."

THOMAS JEFFERSON
(1743 - 1826)

Rosemary and Stephen Vincent Benet

Thomas Jefferson,
What do you say
Under the gravestone
Hidden away?

"I was a giver,
I was a moulder,
I was a builder
With a strong shoulder."

Six feet and over,
Larged-boned and ruddy.
The eyes grey-hazel
But bright with study.

The big hands clever
With pen and fiddle
And ready, ever,
For any riddle.

From buying empires
To planting 'taters,
From Declarations
To trick dumbwaiters.

"I liked all learning
And wished to share it
Abroad like pollen
For all who merit.

"I liked fine houses
With Greek pilasters
And built them surely,
My touch a master's.

"I liked queer gadgets
And secret shelves,
And helping nations
To rule themselves.

"Jealous of others?
Not always candid?
But huge of vision
And openhanded.

"A wild-goose chaser?
Now and again,
Build Monticello,
You little men!

"Design my plow, sirs,
They use it still,
Or found my college
At Charlottesville."
"And still go questing
New things and thinkers,
And keep as busy
As twenty tinkers.

"While always guarding
The people's freedom
You need more hands, sir;
I didn't need 'em.

"They call you rascal?
They called me worse.
You'd do grand things, sir,
But lack the purse?

"I got my res.
I died a debtor.
I lived free-hearted
And that was better.

"For life was freakish
But life was fervent,
And I was always
Life's willing servant.

"Life, life's too weighty?
Too long a haul, sir?
I lived past eighty.
I liked it all, sir."

BEWARE THE RAIN!
Don't underrate the rain,
It's here to stay.
You may think: at last it's gone!
On a sunny day,
But far beneath the ground
In a creviced hole,
It blindly burrows deep,
Like a silver mole,
Until it finds a river
Underground,
And adds its somber singing
To the rush of sound.
When, surfacing, it crowds
Past brimming banks,
It builds a force for which
Strong men give thanks.
But soon it bursts into
The chafing sea,
Where drop cavorts with drop,
Tempestuous, free.
And one day, as you stand
Beguiled by the sun,
A thousand drops creep upward,
One by one,
Wrap themselves in cloud,
Unseen by man,
Ride the dragon wind
To his lair, and then —
With a sudden, mighty clap
Of rousing thunder,
Leap down upon our banks
To rain us under!

BASEBALL
Spring is the time, the only time,
When baseball comes around.
It is the greatest, neatest time,
To give home plate a pound.
And now I'm in the batter's box,
And boy, do I feel great.
The fielders turn their heads as if to say,
"Okay, just wait."
Then the pitcher gets all tense,
The catcher pounds his mitt,
The ball comes sailing through the air,
Oh good, that's great, I've hit!
I run right on to second,
My teammate makes a run,
That finishes the inning,
But wait, the score, we've won!

M. Tape E 4

REVIEW OF TROUBLESOME SOUNDS; “ED”; “FINALS”;
COMPARATIVE ADVERBS AND ADJECTIVES; OPPOSITES,
THIRD PERSON SINGULAR

M. This is a rapid review of many of your previous lessons. Try to keep up in a strong, clear voice.

M. Listen. You will hear a verb with an “ed” ending. After you hear the word, say, “d,” “t,” or “id,” whichever sound you think you hear. Here we go:

M. ended  F. id  M. showed  F. d
M. filled  F. d  M. seemed  F. d
M. counted  F. id  M. worked  F. t
M. rented  F. id  M. washed  F. t
M. needed  F. id

F. Now, you’re on your own. Let’s continue:

M. wanted  F. pointed  M. picked
M. waited  F. asked  M. looked
M. walked  F. danced  M. boiled
M. stopped  F. crossed  M. burned
M. spelled  F. pulled  M. touched
M. landed  F. earned  F. lived
M. used  F. painted  F. liked
M. mailed  M. talked  F. lasted
M. handed  M. learned  F. closed
F. smoked  M. parted  F. changed
F. rented

F. Now, you sound the past tense with an “ed” ending. For example, listen:

M. end  F. ended
M. fill  F. filled
M. count  F. counted
M. rent  F. rented

F. Now, follow the example:

M. end  M. need  F. wash
M. fill  M. show  F. want
M. count  M. seem  F. wait
M. rent  M. work  F. walk
M. Comparison of adjectives and adverbs.

M. Listen:

F. Chicago is big.

F. New York is bigger.

F. Helen is intelligent.

F. Her sister is more intelligent.

F. Bill arrived early.

F. Jim arrived earlier.

M. Now you follow the example, giving the comparative form of the adjective:

F. Chicago is big.

M. New York

F. Helen is intelligent.

M. her sister

F. Her sister is more intelligent.

M. more intelligent

F. Bill arrived early.

M. Jim

F. Jim arrived earlier.

M. earlier

F. This book is interesting.

M. that one

F. Main Street is wide.

M. State Street

F. This lesson is easy.

M. the last one

F. She sings beautifully.

M. her sister

F. John drives fast.

M. his father

F. Ruth returned soon.

M. Mae

F. Fred speaks clearly.

M. Joe

F. He goes there often.

M. she

M. John’s pronunciation is good.

F. yours

M. Today is cold.

F. yesterday

M. Mary is busy.

F. Lena

M. She prepares her lessons carefully.

F. He

M. Helen works hard.

F. Marion

M. Oranges are sweet.

F. cherries

M. These prices are high.

F. those

F. mail

F. spell

F. smoke

F. rent

M. point

M. ask

M. dance

M. talk

M. learn

M. part

M. hand

M. cross

M. pull

M. earn

M. paint

M. boil

M. burn

M. touch

M. Comparison of adjectives and adverbs.
M. Now, as soon as you hear the word you give the comparative:

M. Reply quickly, try to keep up:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>F. big</th>
<th>M. cold</th>
<th>M. good</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>F. intelligent</td>
<td>M. busy</td>
<td>M. cold</td>

<tr>
<td>F. early</td>
<td>F. hard</td>
<td>M. cold</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F. interesting</td>
<td>F. carefully</td>
<td>M. quickly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F. wide</td>
<td>F. sweet</td>
<td></td>

<td>M. fast</td>
<td>F. expensive</td>
<td>F. beautiful</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M. soon</td>
<td>F. old</td>
<td>F. comfortable</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M. clearly</td>
<td>M. good</td>
<td>F. peacefully</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M. often</td>
<td>M. fast</td>
<td>F. good</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M. good</td>
<td>M. soon</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

F. Third person singular.

F. Listen:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M. I study.</th>
<th>F. He studies.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>M. I like.</td>
<td>F. He likes.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M. I play.</td>
<td>F. He plays.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

F. Now, you change to third person by changing I to be:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M. I study.</th>
<th>F. I carry.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>M. I like.</td>
<td>F. I show.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M. I play.</td>
<td>F. I watch.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M. I go.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

M. Now, we're going to work it a bit differently.

M. Listen:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>F. I study.</th>
<th>M. He studies science.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>F. I like.</td>
<td>M. He likes dancing.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F. I play.</td>
<td>M. He plays basketball.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

M. Now, you follow the example. Change he and put an object after the verb. Let's begin:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>F. I study.</th>
<th>M. I speak.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>F. I like.</td>
<td>M. I notice.</td>

F. This ends the lesson.
LITTLE BOY BLUE

The little toy dog is covered with dust,
But sturdy and staunch he stands;
And the little toy soldier is red with rust,
And his musket moulds in his hands,
Time was when the little toy dog was new,
And the soldier was passing fair;
And that was the time when our Little Boy Blue
Kissed them and put them there.

"Now, don't you go till I come," he said,
"And don't you make any noise!"
So, toddling off to his trundle-bed,
He dreamed of the pretty toys;
And, as he was dreaming, an angel sang
Awakened our Little Boy Blue—
Oh! the years are many, the years are long,
But the little toy friends are true!

Aye, faithful to Little Boy Blue they stand,
Each in the same old place—
Awaiting the touch of a little hand,
The smile of a little face;
And they wonder, as waiting the long years through
In the dust of that little chair,
What has become of our Little Boy Blue,
Since he kissed them and put them there.

NANCY HANKS

If Nancy Hanks
Came back as a ghost
Seeking news
Of what she loved most,
She'd ask first
"Where's my son?
What's happened to Abe?
What's he done?

'Poor little Abe,
Left all alone
Except for Tom,
Who's a rolling stone;
He was only nine
The year I died.
I remember still
How hard he cried.

'Scraping along
In a little shack,
With hardly a shirt
To cover his back,
And a prairie wind
To blow him down
Or pinching times
If he went to town.

'You wouldn't know
About my son?
Did he grow tall?
Did he have fun?
Did he learn to read?
Did he get to town?
Do you know his name?
Did he get on?'

And God stepped out on space,
And He looked around and said:
I'm lonely
I'll make me a world.

And as far as the eye of God could see
Darkness covered everything,
Blacker than a hundred midnights
Down in a cypress swamp.

Then God smiled,
And the light broke,
And the darkness rolled up on one side,
And the light stood shining on the other,
And God said: That's good!

Then God reached out and took the light in His hands
Until He made the sun;
And He set that sun ablazing in the heavens.
And the light that was left from making the sun,
God gathered it up in a shining ball
And flung it against the darkness,
Spangling the night with the moon and stars.
Then down between the darkness and the light
He hurled the world;
And God said: That's good!

Then God himself stepped down
And the sun was on His right hand,
And the moon was on His left;
The stars were clustered about His head,
And the earth was under His feet,
And God walked, and where He trod
His footsteps hollowed the valleys out
And bulged the mountains up.

Then He stopped and saw
That the earth was hot and barren
So God stepped over to the edge of the world
And He spat out the seven seas
He batted His eyes, and the lightning flashed.
He clapped His hands, and the thunders rolled
And the waters above the earth came down.

Then the green grass sprouted
And the little red flowers blossomed,
The pin tree pointed his finger to the sky,
And the oak spread out his arms,
The lakes cuddled down in the hollows of the ground
And the rivers ran down to the sea
And God smiled again.
And the rainbow appeared,
And curled itself around His shoulder.

Then God raised His arm and waved His hand,
Over the seas and over the land,
And He said: Bring forth! Bring forth!
And quicker than God could drop His hand,
Fishes and fowls
And beasts and birds
Swam the rivers and the seas,
Roamed the forests and the woods,
And split the air with their wings.
And God said: That's good!

Then God walked around,
And God looked around
On all that He had made.
He looked at His sun,
And He looked at His moon,
And He looked at His little stars;
He looked on His world
With all its living things,
And God said: I'm lonely still.

Then God sat down
On the side of a hill where he could think;
By a deep, wide river He sat down;
With His head in His hands,
God thought and thought,
Till He thought; I'll make me a man!

Up from the bed of the river
God scooped the clay;
And by the bank of the river
He kneeled Him down;
And there the great God Almighty
Who lit the sun and fixed it in the sky,
Who flung the stars to the most far corner of the night,
Who rounded the earth in the middle of His hand;
This great God,
Like a mammy bending over her baby,
Kneeded down in the dust
Toiling over a lump of clay
Till He shaped it in His own image;

Then into it He blew the breath of life,
And man became a living soul.

Amen, Amen.

<td>Session 2</td>
<td>The lab lesson and its’ content and direction will be carried on by one of the students who volunteered to do it at the last session. It may be worthwhile to try this from now till the end of the school year if it’s effective. Insist on critical standards.</td>
<td>A continuation of the student-directed session of last week. (this is the 3rd one) This new lab procedure will be evaluated for effectiveness this week. After the model tape dialogue, students will use Everyday Dialogues in English Booklets to practice conversation.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Session 3</td>
<td>Consider any previously used drills dealing with dialogue practice using just two people. May be promote the idea of having students make up their own dialogue (two parts only) written or oral.</td>
<td>Dialogues (to be used with book, Using Everyday Dialogues in English). The new program will start on page 33. Contains the following: pairs of students doing a two part dialogue of: elderly lady and taxicab driver, druggist customer, customer and grocer.</td>

F. chalk
F. rain

M. How much do we have?
F. time
F. work
F. fruit
F. food
F. paper

M. There isn’t much time left.
F. food
F. music
F. ink
F. milk
F. snow
F. daylight
F. darkness

M. Listen:
F. coffee
F. snow
F. trouble
M. Did you drink much coffee?
M. Did you have much snow?
M. Did you have much trouble?

M. Now, you follow the example. Use the word “much” and begin your sentence with “did you.”
F. coffee
F. snow
F. trouble
F. food
M. money
M. paper
M. fruit
M. ice cream
F. water
M. music
F. rain
M. bread
F. bad weather
M. time

TREES

I think that I shall never see
A poem as lovely as a tree.
A tree whose hungry mouth is pressed
Against the earth’s sweet flowing breast;
A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;
Upon whose bosom snow has lain;
Who intimately lives with rain.

A nest of robins in her hair;
Who intimately lives with rain.

Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.
