Compiled January 1973, revised December 1973
Introduction

This list is a selection of 16mm films available for use in family planning programmes. All films marked with an asterisk (*) can be viewed by appointment at the IPPF Central Office.

Purchases

In most cases the producer’s or distributor’s name and address is given so that purchases and requests for further information may be made direct.

The IPPF Audio Visual Library at Central Office offers a purchasing service to its regional offices and member associations and assists others in cases of special difficulty.

When ordering films through the IPPF, please cite the name and address of a local importation agency to whom the freight can be delivered. Countries requiring an import licence are advised that goods cannot be despatched until the licence number has been forwarded to the IPPF. Please indicate also, when ordering, whether goods are to be sent by air or surface mail.

Loans

Films marked with an asterisk (*) are available on loan from the IPPF Audio Visual Library for a period not exceeding six weeks from the date of despatch. Except for postal charges, this service is free if the films are returned within the stated loan period. After this, however, a hire charge of US $5.00 per week will be charged for each additional week that a film is not returned. Films cannot be sent out to those with outstanding loans.

Films sent out on loan will be despatched by air and borrowers are asked to ensure that they are also returned by air. Please cite a local importation agency to whom the freight can be sent.

Borrowers within the UK should apply to the Concord Films Council for films marked with a cross (†).

ABORTO
This film tells the story of a young mother who is rushed to hospital for an emergency operation following an illegal abortion. In a series of flashbacks she remembers the sequence of events. Pregnant for the fourth time, the family’s poverty-stricken situation seems impossible; she decides to seek the aid of an abortionist whose name she received from a friend; after the abortion she becomes increasingly ill and is taken to hospital. On returning home she learns that her friend has died from the effects of an illegal abortion. She then decides to take advice given to her in hospital and visits a family planning clinic where she receives advice.

20 mins: black and white: Spanish
Price: $95.00 approx

ABOUT ABORTION
This film deals with the Abortion Act of 1968. The different sections of the Act are illustrated by reference to representative case histories. The conditions under which legal abortion may now be performed are clearly shown. A scene involving a criminal abortion is included to point out the dangers of such an abortion. The fact that family planning is preferable to abortion is made clear and the availability of advice on contraception is emphasised. There are no operational medical details, thus making the film suitable for lay audiences.

22 mins: colour: 1970: English
Price: $144.50

ABOUT CONCEPTION AND CONTRACEPTION
Animated diagrams illustrate the act of sexual intercourse and fertilization, followed by explanations of contraceptive methods—condom, diaphragm, vasectomy, IUD, tubectomy and pill. Apart from labelling each contraceptive method in English, the film contains no language, and relies upon the visual presentation for articulation. Due to the highly abstract nature of the illustrations, and the confused sequence of contraceptive methods, the film requires a sophisticated audience and/or simultaneous accompaniment by a lecturer.

16mm: 12 mins: colour: 1972: silent
Price: $100.00

Producer/Distributor: National Film Board of Canada, Commercial Division, PO Box 6100, Montreal 101, Quebec, Canada.

Purchase: Asociacion Chilena de Proteccion de la Familia, Pedro Leon Ugalde 96, Depto 95, Santiago, Chile, S. America.
ABOUT SEX
The film opens with a teenage group discussion, led by Youth Programs consultant, Angel Martinez. Various topics of human sexuality are discussed frankly and casually, from conception and contraception to masturbation, homosexuality, aphrodisiacs, and venereal disease. Following the free discussion, the Youth Consultant provides formal views on the normality of sexuality, of sexual fantasy, and of individual rates of development. He also explains the various methods of contraception, and how to get contraceptive advice. A film intended 'for young men and women ... and the people who are interested in them'.

23 mins: colour; 1972: English study guide
Price: $220.00 upon request

Producer: Herman J. Engel for Planned Parenthood Center of Syracuse
Distributor: Texture Films Inc., 1600 Broadway, New York, NY, 10019, USA.

ALL GOD'S CHILDREN
The need for family planning is dramatically explained by showing the effects of unplanned parenthood. The necessity of family planning in the context of India's national welfare is emphasised.

ASPIRATION ABORTION WITHOUT CERVICAL DILATATION*†
A film for medical personnel. For abortions not later than 10 weeks after the last menstruation. Local anaesthesia is used, and details of the procedure are explained to the patient during the operation. Pre-abortion counselling is emphasised, as well as post-abortion follow-up. The advantages of this technique are also outlined. 12½ mins: colour: 1971: English

Price: $150.00

Producer: W. A. Palmer Films Inc., 611 Howard Street, San Francisco, USA.

Purchase: C.O.R.T. Motion Pictures, University of California, 532A Parnassus Avenue, San Francisco, California 94122, USA.

Free Preview: The Lalor Foundation, 4400 Lancaster Pike, Wilmington, Del., USA.

AVE YOU GOT A MALE ASSISTANT, PLEASE, MISS?*
A young couple making love under a blanket are interrupted by the narrator who reminds them of the high abortion rate in the UK and the need for contraception. The young man leaps out of bed and hurries to the chemist. The female assistant, recognizing his inhibition in asking for contraceptive supplies, summons a male assistant to his aid. The young man, greatly relieved, hurries home with his purchases to continue his love-making. The amusing theme is presented in a style reminiscent of the old silent comedy films. Suitable for the general public.

16mm: 3 mins: colour: 1972: English narration

Price $37.50

Producer: Students at Oxford Polytechnic.

Concord Films Council, Nacton, Ipswich, S0 0JZ, UK.
AVENUES TO CHANGE
The film shows how one social worker tries to motivate several rural families to practise family planning. Village couples are invited to form a discussion group at the rural centre. Once recruited, members are expected to attend all sessions, of which there are three. Throughout the film cultural inhibitions are an obvious challenge to the social worker. The first two sessions in particular reveal the group’s reserve. However, various questions of acceptability including safety, male/female responsibility, and religious attitudes are raised along with arguments for family planning. At the decision of the group, a doctor is invited to the next session to explain methods of contraception. The film ends with an emphasis on the need for the social worker to follow up with home visits. A good training film for family planning and other social workers.

16mm: 30 mins: black and white: Tagalog with occasional English explanations: Price: $130.00

Producer: Department of Social Welfare, Bureau of Training, Research and Special Projects, Manila.
Distributor: Image Films, Inc., LVN Studios, Cubao, Quezon City, Philippines.

BARNET (The Child)
This is a Swedish film covering the whole story of conception, pregnancy and birth using the story of a young couple having their first baby. There are some sequences which are particularly characteristic of the Swedish way of delivery. Suitable for all antenatal groups and student midwives.

60 mins: 3 reels: colour: 1968: English. Price: $384.00 approx

Distributor: Boulton Hawker Films Inc., Hadleigh, Ipswich, Suffolk IP7 5BG, UK.

BARRIER METHODS OF CONTRACEPTION
The film describes in detail condoms and caps, comparing the different kinds, and explaining the correct methods of application and removal. Spermicides are discussed in connection with barrier methods. The film could be used in clinic situations for patient instruction, or for the instruction of paramedical staff.

Producer/Distributor: Camera Talks Ltd, 31 North Row. London W1R 2EN, UK.

THE BEGINNING OF LIFE
Through high-quality microscopic photography this film examines ovulation, fertilization, cell division, and implantation. Suitable for senior students, medical and other adult audiences interested in human reproduction.

35mm or 16mm: colour: 1970: Japanese, English. $450.00

Distributor: Cine-Science Company Ltd, Mikasa No. 20-2, Nishi-Ikebukuro, 5-Chome, Toshimaku, Tokyo.
BEYOND CONCEPTION

Designed particularly for use with students, the film covers population growth, its causes and effects, contraceptive methods, human reproduction, and the responsibility of parenthood and of the individual in society. The two-child family is held to be the only way to limit overcrowding, destruction of the environment, famine, poverty, disease, war and many other social problems. The film attempts to cover a great deal of ground sometimes resulting in an imbalance in the treatment of important points.

35 mins: colour: 1968: English
Price: $275.00
accompanying notes

Distributor: Population Dynamics, 3829 Aurora Avenue N.,
Seattle, Washington 98103, USA.

BIRTHDAY

A child from a large family goes to a birthday party for a child from a small family. He has no gift to give and sadly returns home. The two mothers talk and the mother of the large family is told that luck or fate need not determine the number of her children and is directed to the family planning clinic. In this film the consequences of uncontrolled fertility are put forward as poor health, poverty and delinquency.

13 mins: black and white: 1966: Hindi, Gujarati,
Price: $74.75
accompanying notes in English

Producer/Distributor: National Education & Information Films Ltd, National House, Tulloch Road, Apollo Bunder, Bombay-1. India.

A BRIGHT TOMORROW

The film compares a happy three-child family with a neighbouring family suffering the burdens of too many children. The wife of the latter is rushed to hospital, near death with a still birth. After recovery, she and her husband are persuaded by their neighbours to visit a health centre where they both attend a class on the advantages and methods of family planning. With the use of an Ortho pelvic model, the nurse explains the IUD, diaphragm, foam, suppositories, as well as the pill and condom. The film ends with the song ‘A Bright Tomorrow’ and shows people all over Jamaica seeking advice from doctors and clinics.

25 mins: colour: 1967: English
Price: $120.50
accompanying notes

Distributor: Jamaica Family Planning Association,
Information Office, 65 Earl Street, Kingston, Jamaica.

A BRIGHTER FUTURE

An amusing cartoon film set in an Indonesian village. A couple are shown with their two young children in simple but happy circumstances. Being fond of children, the couple dream of having a larger family and envisage a multitude of children playing in the sun. Life is not all sunshine however and very soon the burdens of a large family turn their dream into a nightmare. They awake, relieved to find that they still have only two children, and they go to the clinic to learn about family planning. The Indonesian Planned Parenthood Association is advertised. Intended for motivation in rural Indonesia. Visual effects are fairly sophisticated however.

11 mins: Colour: 1973: English (also available in Indonesian)
Price: $155.00
Producer/Distributor: A-S Informasjonsfilm, Akersgaten 64, Oslo 1, Norway.

BROOK ADVISORY CENTRES*
A young couple walking arm in arm through a wood pause against a tree. The voice of a young man says: 'When you care about each other a lot, and want to show each other how you feel, it's natural to worry about what might happen if you're not careful. Don't keep your questions to yourself. Talk to each other, and talk to somebody at the Brook Advisory Centres'. Never alluding to sex or family planning, this commercial may be considered too subtle to be very effective, but it is the first of its kind to be passed by the British Censor. The film is to be distributed to five major cities – Edinburgh, Bristol, Birmingham, Coventry and London – for viewing on cinema and television screens during advertising time.

30 secs: colour: 1972: English
Price: $12.25
Distributor: Brook Advisory Centres, 233 Tottenham Court Road, London W1, UK.

THE CASE FOR POPULATION CONTROL*
A film made for US doctors to convince them of the importance of offering family planning advice to patients. It consists of informal discussions and interviews with demographers and doctors such as Paul Ehrlich and Malcolm Potts. A diversity of opinion is expressed in an unstructured presentation. The emphasis is on both family well-being and population problems.

25 mins: colour: 1970: English:
accompanying notes
Price: $200.00
Distributor: G. D. Searle & Co., Box 5110, Chicago, Illinois 60680, USA.

CAUGHT FOR A BABY†
A Granada News programme which attempts to investigate public attitude to contraceptives and sex before marriage. Some of the activities of the UK Family Planning Association and the Brook clinics in the Manchester and Birmingham areas are discussed through interviews with the public. Opinions vary widely. Suitable for starting discussions among young people in particular.

25 mins: black and white: 1968: English
accompanying notes
$147.00

Distributor: Granada Television Overseas, 36 Golden Square, London W1, UK.

CES DAMES DE CAMELIA
This film shows the use of television as an educational medium. In Dakar (Senegal) an interesting experiment has been carried out and this film shows the effect of educational television on the community of the women of Camelia, a new suburb of Dakar.

35 mins: black and white: 1971: French
$110.00

Distributor: Radio and Visual Information Division, Office of Public Information, UNESCO, Place de Fontenoy, 75 Paris 7e, France.

A CHILD IS BORN*
This film takes a young couple through the whole process of pregnancy and childbirth and is adapted from the Swedish film Barnet (The Child).

23 mins: colour: English
$295.00

Distributor: Ealing Films, 225 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, Massachusetts 02140, USA.

CHILDREN OF THE NEW AFRICA*
A film that compares the lives of two schoolgirls. One from an overcrowded family is frustrated in her ambitions; her school friend comes from a smaller family and achieves her ambition to become a teacher.

15 mins: black and white: English
$61.25

Distributor: Family Planning Association of Salisbury, 216 Cecil House, 96 Stanley Avenue, Salisbury, Rhodesia.

THE CHOICE IS OURS*
A film concerned with the rapid population increase in the Philippines. It describes the work of the Family Planning Organization of the Philippines, partly by interviews with prominent people, and then discusses some of the problems encountered especially those due to the geography of the islands which makes outreach difficult. The idea that the decision to support family planning must be made at all levels of society is carried throughout the film.

20 mins: colour: 1971: English
$120.00

accompanying notes

Distributor: IPPF, 18/20 Lower Regent Street, London SW1Y 4PW, UK.
THE CHOICE IS YOURS*
Motivational film shot on location in the surrounding areas of Bangkok. The film shows in a simple way the life of two farming families and also deals with their problems. One family has a lot of children—the other, knowing about family planning, has just two children. In the story, the mother of the small family is 'speaking' for family planning motivation.

18 mins; colour: 1971: English, Thai
Price: $234.00

Producer/Distributor: A/S Informasjonsfilm, Akersgaten 64, Oslo 1, Norway.

8 mins: black and white: Spanish: English notes. Price: $62.00
Distributor: Colombia University, Colombia, South America.

CYCLE OF LIFE†
This film shows human birth through a series of drawings. Male and female differences in growth are linked to the function of the pituitary. Male and female reproductive organs are well explained, as are intercourse, fertilization, cell division and development of the embryo. The cycle starts again with genital differentiation of the embryo. A film particularly suitable for showing to student groups.

Producer: Netherlands Society for Sexual Reform.
Distributor: Stitching Film en Wetenschap, Catharynesingel 56, Utrecht, Holland.

THE DANGER SIGNAL
This film shows the problems of providing enough food for India's people today and presents the challenge of the future in the light of uncontrolled population growth. Already thieving and fighting occur as people struggle to acquire a share of the available resources. Hungry school children line up for their rations. Hundreds of babies lie waiting to be fed. The audience is urged to plan their families. A film designed for use with decision-making and influential groups.

DO-YA-TEEN BACHE
To the accompaniment of the song ‘Do-ya-Teen Bache’ the film compares a happy two child family with a large family. The former allows for affection as well as prosperity. The latter lives in squalor and envies more prosperous neighbours. Crowd shots show India’s large starving population, refugees, juvenile delinquency and the concern of politicians such as Nehru and Indira Ghandi. Crowds file into family planning clinics for help in response to billboard advertising.

10 mins: black and white: 1967: Hindi

Price: $16.00

Producer: Family Planning Association of India, 1 Jeevan Udyog, Dadabhai Naoroji Road, Bombay-1, India.

EACH CHILD LOVED†
The film begins by showing a girl undergoing an illegal abortion. This is followed by the story of a young college couple of middle/upper-middle social background who are seeking an abortion because a second child would be inconvenient while the husband is at graduate school. They are referred to a clinic in New York for the abortion. The process of the operation is first explained to the girl in detail to remove fears. Her reactions on the operating table are also designed to show the ease and safety of a legal abortion. After the operation she receives advice on contraceptive methods. A group discussion with girls in the same situation covers the relative advantages and disadvantages of different methods. A film mainly suitable for North American and European audiences.

THE ENGAGEMENT RING*
(La Sortija de Compromiso)
Pedro and Isabel are a young Puerto Rican couple in New York, full of dreams for the future—theirs will be an ideal marriage. A friend tells Isabel about the importance of family planning and takes her to a clinic where a wide range of services are explained. However, Pedro refuses to discuss the matter. Isabel sadly returns her engagement ring. A friend persuades Pedro of the need for family planning—a large number of children is not a measure of manhood. The film, by contrasting the bustle of city life with the more traditional agrarian life, provides an examination of several attitudes toward family planning and conveys the message in many subtle ways. Fine acting and fast pace make this an informative as well as a highly entertaining film.

THE EUROPEAN EXPERIENCE
(see THE POPULATION PROBLEM SERIES)

EVERY BABY A WANTED BABY*
The film is based on a staged lecture at a family planning clinic, opening with flashbacks of individuals in the audience. The lecturer outlines (diagrammatically) male and female reproductive systems and fertilization, as well as the following types of contraception: cap, spermicides, pill, IUD, rhythm, withdrawal, sterilization, sheath. This is followed by a more detailed evaluation of each method with emphasis on individual preference. Combinations of diagrammatic and photographic presentation. Section on factory production of condoms. Suitable for adolescents, couples and staff in training.

EVIDENCE: POPULATION*
Part I—Population in Britain
The introduction to the film highlights some aspects of the environment: destruction associated with a technological society. This is followed by discussion of the effects of increased wealth, the changes associated with urbanization, and the influence of the demographic situation in Britain past and present. Associated with these discussions are some ways in which farmers, planners and politicians have attempted to solve the problems of modern Britain.

Part II—Population In a World-wide Context
Statistics of world population growth are presented together with predicted consequences. Birth control programmes in Hong Kong and Japan are shown to have been comparatively effective. Other solutions to the problems caused by population are examined: better methods of farming land and sea, and the conservation of diminishing resources by, for example, the recycling of timber. Politicians express their views on ways of coping with these problems.

In neither programme is a definite conclusion reached, but a wide range of facts, suggestions and viewpoints is presented to stimulate the viewer to consider the situation and form his/her own opinion.

The Evidence series of television programmes was intended for 16-18 year olds but is suitable for adults.

THE EYE OF THE BEHEHOLDER*
A film intended to show variations in perception. Well-known visual tests such as ambiguous cubes and the ink blot illustrate optical illusions. Perception is based on personal biases. This is illustrated by the dramatization of a movie still showing an artist (played by Richard Conte) standing in his studio amidst a disarray of spilled paints, a knife, and an apparently lifeless woman lying on a couch. Flashbacks to preceding events through the eyes of five people who met the artist portray him as guilty of a crime. However, flashbacks to the same events through his own eyes show him to be quite innocent. Useful for any audiences concerned with the problem of communication.

THE FACTS WE FACE
A family planning lecturer talks to a class of school girls about the population problem in Indonesia. Using maps and charts, he shows how rapid population growth is frustrating economic development. The National Family Planning Board is described as a private organization exerting pressure on the government to control population. Health, finance and personal development are given as reasons for family planning. Two to three children are considered sufficient. The students are advised not to have children until they are ready to provide proper parental support.

FAIR CHANCE
The film presents the idea of responsible parenthood through a discussion between two expectant fathers who meet in a maternity waiting room. Joe, unemployed father of three, nervously awaits his wife’s fourth and difficult delivery. Charles, father of two, explains how he suffered in his youth from being one of a large family and how he learned about the Planned Parenthood Centre when he got married. A motivational film suitable for men, but somewhat dated in presentation.

FAMILY PLANNING IN COMMUNITY MEDICINE*
Overcrowding in Britain presents not only physical, but also moral and social problems. Family planning programmes are advocated in order to achieve a balanced community. A domiciliary service shows a family planning sister visiting individual homes. A general practitioner discusses the problem of motivation in contraceptive practice—despite the wide variety of methods available, many people lack motivation as a result of side effects, inconvenience, or fear. A clinic doctor describes briefly the advantages and disadvantages of contraceptive methods available. Doctors are urged to become more active in helping to solve the population problem through family planning services. Suitable for doctors, family planning workers, social workers, government officials, and other community workers.

A FAMILY QUESTION
The film shows a comparison of Thai families: one too large, poor and undernourished; the other better-off because they were wise enough to plan their children. The eldest son of the poor family is bribed into stealing from the wealthier family, in order to make some money for his mother. The father of the wealthier family catches him in the act, but is compassionate and offers the boy work and shelter. In the meantime, the Planned Parenthood Association is notified and sends a nurse to discuss family planning with the boy’s mother. Suitable film for patient motivation in both rural and urban areas.

FOR ALL OF US*
A Norwegian camera crew filming in an Indonesian village draw the attention of a local crowd. What is there of interest to film in the village? It is the difference between Indonesian and Norwegian life styles. Would the crowd like to see a film about Norway? Yes, they would. The film emphasizes small families and a high standard of living. An Indonesian member of the camera crew seizes upon this comparison to promote family planning. If Indonesians had smaller families, their children would also enjoy a good education, and better standard of living. This is shown by a film flashback of an Indonesian farmer and his wife who enjoy a better standard of living than their neighbours because they have planned their family (significantly their two children are both girls). The crowd is persuaded that family planning is a good thing.

LESSER THE MERRIER
This film draws an analogy between the benefits of enough water and the catastrophe of a flood and the bearing of one or two children and uncontrolled fertility. The growth of problems is shown to parallel the growth of a family, resulting in hunger, poor health and delinquency. A visit to the family planning clinic is presented as the solution.

LITTLE MAN – BIG CITY
This animated cartoon film has as a central figure a little man who lives in a flat in a large city. He is subjected to overcrowding, noise, lack of light and air, water pollution, and other health hazards of city life. The film, however, ends on a hopeful note and suggests that by co-operation of health workers, city planners, architects and the citizens themselves, a lot can be done to make city life pleasant and healthy.

LOVE IS A PLANNED FAMILY*
The film begins with dramatic and unnerving scenes of childbirth, followed by interviews with parents of unplanned children. The need for family planning having been established, various contraceptive methods are outlined. The pill and IUD are recommended as effective. Methods that are not recommended include rhythm, foam, diaphragm, condom, withdrawal, and abortion. The advantages of child spacing are emphasized in terms of family welfare and happiness. Modern filming techniques including zooming, flashing, repetition and echo are employed. Intended for senior school and college students or general adult public. However, scenery and sound effects reflect a strong American bias.
Producer: Richard Tyson, M.D.
Distributor: Oxford Films Inc., 1136 N. Las Palmas Avenue, Hollywood, California 90038, USA.

THE MAN WHO PLANNED*
Set in rural Rhodesia, this film follows the development of two boys who leave school on the same day. One plans carefully for the future and prospers; the other does not plan and becomes impoverished. This film emphasises the responsibility of the male in family planning.

LA MAQUINA DE COSER (see Miguel Suave Series)

MARGARET SANGER††
Made to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the first birth control clinic opened in the U.S.A. in 1916. This documentary film portrays the life of Margaret Sanger and her fight to make birth control information and services freely available to American women. It is an excellent dramatic summary of the birth control movement, past and present. Narrated by Katharine Hepburn, whose mother pioneered with Margaret Sanger.
15 mins: black and white: 1965: English Price: $75.00
Distributor: Planned Parenthood-World Population, 810 Seventh Avenue, New York, NY 10019, USA.

MARRIAGE AND AFTER
Though it is said that after marriage 'they lived happily ever after' it is not always true in actual life. The happiness of the married couple is quite often marred when the family grows into unmanageable proportions.
14 mins: black and white: English Price: $51.00 (16mm) $71.00 (35mm)
MAURITIUS*†
Shown on the British television programme ‘This Week’, the film demonstrates how an unrestricted population growth could wreck the social and economic fabric of this small island. It shows Mauritius before independence but is still a useful film.

THE MECHANISM OF ACTION OF THE ORAL CONTRACEPTIVES
The pharmacology of oral contraceptives is discussed by three doctors, covering the process of evaluation, the cyclic changes in the endometrium and changes in the cervical mucous. Oral contraceptives, both combined and sequential, affect the reproductive cycle at all three points. The changes are discussed and compared through the use of anatomical drawings, graphs and clinical tests. As the contra-indications of oral contraceptives are not discussed, the prescribing physician is urged to consult the literature accompanying the drugs and advised to see the patient every six months. The film is suitable for professional audiences only.

MIGUEL SUAVE SERIES
Each of the three films in the series—'El Angel', 'El Cochino' and 'La Maquina de Coser'—is a humorous episode in the life of Miguel Suave, an industrious young Peruvian who leaves his home in the country and goes to Lima with his family to work. In each of the episodes, Miguel's friend the taxi driver delivers a speech on the problems of the population explosion, unplanned families and other difficulties found in Latin American cities today. The characters are lively and well portrayed. The films are better shown together to make an entertaining introduction to the idea of family planning.

MORE THAN WORDS*
A film on the problems of communications; in particular non-verbal communication—effects of facial expressions, body movement, tone of voice, and speaking distance. Also illustrates how the meaning of messages are affected by status differences, feelings, mood and self-concept. Stresses the necessity for sensitivity to these effects when selecting both medium and message in all interactions.

MOUSLM (T.V. Spot)*
A respected Mouslim speaks about overpopulation in Indonesia. There are too many neglected children, and God does not want this. The burden of a large family creates weak and foolish descendants – God prefers quality to quantity. In order to secure health and prosperity, the audience is urged to try family planning. The Government has arranged clinics for this purpose free of charge. The Indonesian Planned Parenthood Association is advertised.

MY BROTHER'S CHILDREN*
The film introduces the idea of family planning through a story about a man who has taken care to plan his family and is asked to take some of his brother's many children into his home. His struggle with his conscience touches on some of the problems facing many families in modern day Africa. The story is in the style of a Yoruba 'opera', a traditional means of story telling in Nigeria. Groups of actors tour the country putting on plays and operas which dramatize the everyday events and problems of the Yoruba people.

THE NAILS*
An animated design of nails on an oval pegboard, intended to symbolise the rapid growth, congestion, and decline of the world's human population. As with vegetation, intolerable congestion causes the nails to lose their grey-green, and turn to a rust colour. Symbolism in the film is so vague, however, that unless one is acquainted with the intentions of the film, its meaning may be difficult to ascertain.

NOT ENOUGH*
A film which examines the attitudes of people in the 'rich countries' to foreign aid. Street interviews show confused sympathies. The film then shows the need for economic development in a 'poor country' such as India. Efforts at irrigation and food production are not keeping pace with the population growth. Efforts of the FPA of India include publicity campaigns, clinic and fieldworker services. Comparison is drawn with Thailand. A thought-provoking film.

PEOPLES AND PROBLEMS*
A film concerning the population problem in South-East Asia, produced for the IPPF 21st Anniversary Year by the South-East Asia and Oceania Region of IPPF. Statistics show trends in population growth and the consequent pressures on food production, natural resources, education, and employment. A brief history and description of the IPPF is presented and several leading personalities interviewed. Aspects covered include information and education programmes, clinic services, fieldwork and mobile units, research, and training. Co-operation between IPPF and government programmes shows the relationship between private and government efforts on both national and international levels. Suitable for fund-raising and general orientation regarding IPPF activities.

PLANNING FOR HAPPINESS
Chun, a young factory girl, is in love, but feels that she cannot be married while she must work to help support her brothers and sisters. She meets a girlfriend, Kun, who is to be married shortly. Chun invites Kun to her home but is ashamed by the poverty and chaos. In a restaurant, later, the girls discuss the problems of a large family. Kun then invites Chun to her home which is smaller and more prosperous. Family planning is discussed as the key to family happiness. The story ends happily as Chun discovers how she can get married and still support her brothers and sisters, so long as she practises family planning and postpones pregnancy for a while.

PLANNING YOUR FAMILY†
Three Ghanaian women go together to the village health center for family planning advice. They are each referred to the family planning clinic in a nearby town and the film shows what happens in a clinic including instruction on different methods of contraception. In addition to good humour, the lively ‘high life’ musical theme makes the film entertaining as well as informative.

Planned Parenthood Association of Ghana.
The film commences with the title presented in five different languages. The world’s population from 1AD to 2000AD is represented by a white dot for every million people on a world map. Simultaneously a time bar shows the rate of population growth accompanied by a soundtrack of heartbeats. After 1900AD the increase of white dots and the speed of the time bar and heartbeats dramatically increase till the map appears encrusted with a white mass and the heartbeats reach panic pitch. A paragraph at the end of the film challenges each individual with the responsibility of over-population. A useful film to give impact to a talk or discussion on population problems.

A film intended to create awareness of population problems in developing countries and the programmes to solve them. Sequences from El Salvador stress maternal and child health, showing the effects of illegal abortion, as well as female sterilization (laparoscopy) and field work programmes. In the Philippines, sequences depict agricultural production, the slums of Manila, overcrowding in schools, and the work of volunteer couples in fieldwork programmes to explain the rhythm method. Scenes from Liberia show home visitors at a family planning clinic, and courses in population and family planning communication. In India, a vasectomy camp is featured. In Tunisia, a Muslim confirms that family planning is ideologically acceptable, and fieldworkers visit post-partum wards and rural districts. South Korea’s programme is considered successful, and features fieldworkers, and the manufacture of condoms. Throughout the film, emphasis is made of aid from such organizations as USAID, the Pathfinder Fund, and the Peace Corps. Technically, the film is well made. Suitable for the orientation and training of staff in family planning and population programmes, as well as for fundraising, or for use with adult audiences concerned with population problems, and the developing countries. This is the first of a series of orientation/training films and related materials being produced.

Producer: Dick Young Productions Ltd., New York, for

POPULATION AND POLLUTION
The film documents today's environmental crisis and urges corrective action. Focusing on N. America, it shows that the problems of pollution are caused by both misuse of the environment and by the great demands of a constantly growing population. Sewage, detergent waste and poisonous chemicals collect in rivers and streams; industry, aeroplanes and motor vehicles pollute the air; abandoned cars and rubbish litter the landscape. The film emphasises the need for changes in attitude and a commitment to finding both short-range and long-range solutions to problems of air, water and land pollution. It stresses the need for personal involvement and action by adults and students with specific suggestions for what the individual might do.

POPULATION EXPLOSION
The film presents in a sophisticated cartoon style the problems of over-population. In the past, the balance between birth and death was maintained by emigration, war, famine and epidemic. Recently, medical advances have produced an imbalance particularly in the poorer countries where inefficient food production has not been able to provide for the increased population. Population control measures, education, agricultural advances and industrialization are suggested as ways of attaining a new equilibrium. Rich countries are called on to step up aid. The cultural values inherent in the film make it possibly more suitable for North American and Western European audiences.

THE POPULATION PROBLEM† (known as 'Population, Ecology' in the USA)
Malthus theories of population growth are demonstrated by an experiment with fruit-flies. The balance of nature, through the ecological interdependence of predator and prey, is presented on a series of graphs. Man's success in shaping the environment to meet his needs has destroyed the ecological balance limiting the growth of animal and plant population. Of particular interest to student groups.

SAVE THIS ONE!*
A film on the population problem in Britain. The film examines some current attitudes to family size and birth control, and places them side by side with the potential problem of overpopulation. The professional opinions are presented in monochrome sequences: the more personal aspects emerge in a fantasy, In colour, which takes the form of a football match. The opposing teams are two families, the parents on each side having already had many children, but for different reasons. The professional speakers also appear in the game in their fantasy roles and have individual influence on the course of play and on the attitudes of the parents.

SCIENCE REPORT
This film explores population growth and family planning from the angle of man's instinct for survival. Most species exert some control over their own fertility when their rate of production threatens to surpass the available territory or food. Family planning must be the human species' effort at self-regulation. Newsreel footage (much of it used in the film 'Fertility Control and the Physician') shows squalid slums, starving children and belching smoke stacks. Science provides a solution in the manufacture of contraceptives. Limited information on contraceptive methods.

SINGAPORE FAMILY PLANNING EXHIBITION 1967
The film is a record of the exhibition held by the Singapore Family Planning and Population Board in 1967. Population growth, its causes and effects, were examined through the graphs, posters, and film. The problem of community development in Singapore makes population a government problem as well as a private concern. Human sexuality and reproduction are described through film, charts, models; the dangers of abortion are emphasized and the methods of contraception described through diagrams. Family planning clinics in Singapore are located on a map and their services outlined. The public is urged to take advantage of them.

WARGA BINANGUN (Family Planning)‡
The film opens with a colourful procession escorting a boy to his Mosliming (circumcision) ceremony which traditionally accompanies marriage in Indonesia. The crowd stops at a house where the stage is set for a puppet show (wayang golek). The theme of the play is the struggle between virtue and evil. The plot deals with a feud between the noble and peace-loving men of the Kingdom of Amarta against the villainous and overpopulated giants of the Kingdom of Gilling Wesi. The giants have often tried unsuccessfully to attack Amarta. The giants’ King holds council to discover why the attacks fail. The Queen Mother explains that the King of Amarta and his brothers are noble and blessed. They spread magic formulas named "Warga Binangun" amongst their subjects to make them healthy and prosperous. In order to conquer Amarta, a narcotic antidote is necessary to weaken them. The second sequence shows members of a rural family named Semar, discussing the rumoured 'Warga Binangun', which they understand is a state welfare project designed to reduce the number of offspring in order to promote the health of mothers and children. Sequence three shows the giants trying to persuade Semar's family to take the evil narcotic. However, by intuition, they refuse. They fight the giants and are rescued by an Amarta hero. In the fourth sequence a prince and advisor arrive to seek the exact of the Warga Binangun message in Amarta. Semar asks how the Warga Binangun message can be carried out. He is told that there are three ways: by taking remedies; by wearing de rice; by the calendar system. He is advised to seek further information from the Warga Binangun clinic. The film ends with a family planning song.
