The filmography on American Indian education lists existing films in current distribution. The introduction explains the purpose of the guide, the procedure used to compile it, samples of questionnaires used, films as audiovisual classroom aids, the classification of films for classroom use, the relation of film use to individual curricula, some points that might be useful, the necessity for feedback on the value of the films and additional material that might be included in the guide. The document gives approximately 550 alphabetical listings of films on American Indians in the western hemisphere. There are also 24 entries that were too late for cataloging and 10 Bureau of Indian Affairs films. Each entry gives the title of the film, an abstract, distributor (by acronym), cost, time, color or black and white, sound, and film size. Most films are 16 mm. Additionally, distributors, their addresses, and acronyms are listed, along with a title index. (RM)

Introduction

I. STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

When asked to consider taking on the task of compiling a filmography of existing films, in current distribution, of American Indian subject matter, I hesitated because I knew so many of the films and wondered, "Is this a resource for American Indian education?" I discussed my question with colleagues and friends and had to come to the conclusion that yes, of course it is a resource but that much thought would be required to see how to implement the value of these films in the light of so many of them being negative results — negative results in the light of the time the film was made, the style, learning theory and practice, historical inaccuracies, cultural misrepresentations, and cultural differences; the elements that go into a film make it vulnerable to negative criticism, usually justifiably. In spite of all that, a list of such films is an asset if we think about how we use them constructively. This is how we began this filmography, which is the result of hundreds of people getting together and looking at the films, talking about the films and writing about the films.

II. THE PROCEDURE WE USED TO COMPILE THE FILMOGRAPHY

A. All films distributors in the U.S. were sent requests for catalogues and any additional information they might have on films of native Americans in the New World.

B. All institutions engaged in Indian education were sent information request forms.

C. From the BIA files, all those outside the BIA interested in Indian education were sent questionnaires. This included Indian and non-Indian leaders from education, anthropology, educational film, sociology, psychology, etc. This resulted in a mailing of over 2300 pieces in various forms, the returns collated and evaluated.

D. The catalogues were gleaned for possible films. Almost all possible films were requested for preview screening.

E. Almost all of those were screened and most of them by an Indian audience for criticism and review. Over 300 reviews were written and collected.

F. Consultations with Indians and non-Indians, educators, teachers and students, were conducted in an attempt to uncover ideas, approaches, evaluations and attitudes about Indian-subject-matter film use in the learning situation. It is hoped that at a future date the information collected in the filmography at this stage plus the feedback that we request, along with additional conferences, will result in a companion teacher's guide to film use for American Indian education.

G. Then, of course, there have been the mechanics of organizing so many bits of data for access through the filmography.
III. SAMPLES OF THE QUESTIONNAIRES AS SENT

A. QUESTIONNAIRE FOR PRODUCERS AND DISTRIBUTORS

This questionnaire is to help us in compiling a filmography for American Indian education. The filmography is being produced through a contract for the Cultural Studies Resource Section, Bureau of Indian Affairs and will be published in the spring of 1972 and distributed free to all BIA schools. We will include films on all native peoples of the Western Hemisphere from the prehistoric period to modern times. We hope to assemble a complete listing of films in this area and would appreciate your prompt reply if you have or know about films that should be included.

The filmography will be cross-indexed by title, author, subject and distributor. Revised editions will follow so your continuing help in updating as new films appear is requested.

Information we would like for each film listed:

- title
- running time
- color-b&w
- sound-silent
- 8mm
- super-8
- 16mm
- distributor
- film maker-director
- producer
- other personnel involved in production
- rental price
- purchase price
- year released
- description
- correlated material
- correspondent’s name
- address

B. This questionnaire is to be answered by an individual or group who use or would like to use motion pictures in Indian education.

The purpose of this questionnaire is to collect information that will help design film usage and better films for Indian education. The filmography is one of the first steps in a film in Indian education project.

Your replies will help us put together the Filmography For American Indian Education to be published in 1974.

1. Would you be willing to write reviews of films you have seen or used in relation to Indian education? Yes No
2. About how many films do you use in a year?
3. What kinds of films made by Indian film makers would you like to see?
4. Would you list the films you use or have seen and underline the ones you consider notable. (Use the back of this page if you run out of space.)

Name and Address (please print)
IV. FILMS AS AN AUDIO-VISUAL AID IN THE CLASSROOM

In recent years, there have been many publications or films for classroom use. Most of the users of this filmography are familiar with these publications and have probably had some formal training as well. This filmography does not attempt to do such a job.

V. CLASSIFICATION OF FILMS

As another way of looking at film use in the classroom, I have divided films into four groups. All assume “understanding” is a desirable goal.

A. A traditional type of educational film which presents ordered factual information in a very direct way (on a silver platter) for the viewer to accept as information you are expected to remember. We will continue to need this kind of film for certain educational goals seem best achieved through such a process.

B. Films where the factual information is felt to be well understood by the film-maker-authority but where the presentation of that information requires the audience to “dig” for it. It’s all there, clean-cut and correct, but “work” is required to pull it out during the screen experience and perhaps with guided discussion following screening. This type of learning experience results in improved retention and usually expands retrieval possibilities.

C. Films where information is felt to be correct, but where exploratory process of data in film has taken precedence over imparting known factual data. Used frequently to learn the practice of a discipline rather than the process resulting from a discipline. Examples: history, anthropology, psychology, education.

I described these four groups of types of film simply to help us look at some very practical problems that I feel help toward a better use of the filmography.

VI. FILM CLASSROOM USE

In relation to the educational goals of a system’s curriculum, the syllabi and finally each individual course as actually presented to the student, film use in a class must be rationalized in terms of value gained for the time spent. Now, only a few films within the filmography will mesh with a given course so perfectly as to require no special effort on the part of teacher or student for the goals to be achieved. The use of most films requires some planning to take advantage of what the film might offer that would make it do a better job than some alternate teaching approach. Some examples: We have a nice 30 minute film but much of the film is not really giving us the “meat” we are after, so let’s resist the entertainment value and look for that part of the film which shows us what we need to see to get into the area of interest — to illustrate visually what with words might have been very difficult to say or could never have been said so efficiently. We looked at a pre-chosen seven minutes of the thirty minute film and it left us with plenty of class time that period for whatever else we felt was a better way to use those precious minutes.

Another example: We chose a film that has the subject matter the class is to deal with but the film’s presentation of the subject matter is, in our opinion, incorrect historically and factually, and the very form of presentation disallows the values imparted from communicating even the spirit of the events portrayed. This is a common problem caused by cultural difference, the year the film was originally made, or perhaps simply the filmmaker’s set of goals don’t coincide with the teacher-class need in a given teaching situation since no film can contain every detail that may be associated with an event. This “negative result” film can often be a very positive teaching tool if handled by the teacher appropriately. When showing such a film the class will respond to it by thinking or commenting during the screening, raising objections at various levels about parts that offend or distort. Take that as a starting point and work it into constructive discussion by having the class work at correcting factual errors and omissions. Often you can go further by having them discuss how they might have done a good film to cover the same information. Once in a while the film may cause such a negative response that the students don't even want to engage in such a discussion. In that case I work on how to have the experience discussed by the class in a way that clarifies for them why it has no merit on any level.

Another example: Film is screened, some students say, “Well, if the sound track was turned off it would be better.” What would be a better sound track, what could be said on the narration that would upgrade the film?

To pick another example: Where the film is pleasant enough, inoffensive to values and aesthetics, but really without much meat, you can take off from the audience’s response and develop an emotional response discussion as a way of uncovering attitudes and values, leading toward awareness discovery and self discovery; then move with that energy into a more structured ordering of those values, in relation to the chosen educational goals.

Perhaps the point to be made at this stage is that the screen experience usually allows engagement on the part of the audience. This means that, whatever the response, it can be built on through the teacher’s role toward the needs of the program.

VII. SOME POINTS THAT MIGHT BE USEFUL

A. Short films three minutes to 12 minutes seem to be increasing in popularity because they allow time within a class to take advantage of what the film experience has started.

B. A few, and I feel very few, films are helped by an introduction by the teacher, i.e., priming for what to look and how to look for it.

C. After the film has been shown and the lights are turned on, don’t rush right into the discussion. Keep the group quiet and orderly, fold the screen, shuffle papers, anything, because the group is moving from the screen experience into the classroom experience with many things in their minds — inferences, emotional responses, new intellectual arrangements, thought-provoking experiences — and some time for sorting, adjusting, digesting is required. Often a very good discussion possibility is killed by jumping into discussion too quickly.

D. Because a film is many things — the film as film, the film as intended communication, the film as text, as data, as experience — the teacher’s role is helped when using film to keep those separate aspects of film clearly in mind. A film is usually an attempt at a structured and shaped communication. The communication system employed (cinematographic style, chosen audience, subject matter, core idea, etc.) is shaped through the filmmaker’s competence into some form of “language”. The degree of success or failure of the film in terms of the filmmaker’s goals is quite dependent on his skill in handling this “language”. This “language skill” is the end result of many skills, and cultural difference can play a major role in how he “sees” this original source material and then translates it into cinema language. Of all the things that appear in the film, often the points being made or events being shown are only selected pieces and are parts of the principal signal being sent.

The filmmaker hopes the audience will “read” his presentation, but no two people will see anything exactly the same way — that is, all the shades of meaning, relationships, context, etc. are sorted, sifted, combined, and stored by each individual dependent on many variables. Culture is one of those variables shared by a group both in the filmmaking and audience viewing experience. Certain kinds of films need to be more culturally specific, some seem to be more pan-cultural. Knowing the above allows you to deal with the film in teaching with cultural awareness.

E. Remind yourself that there are dozens of different types of films for dozens of different purposes. As we have educational film, theatrical film, documentary film, newsfilm, industrial film, commercial film, story line or complete lack of story is not a yardstick by itself. This kind of categorization is often a poor way to start in choosing a film for a teaching task as the category frequently has more to do with the funding source and graphic technique than with the communication.

F. Learning process, understanding, retention all seem dependent on a film experience which requires thinking; hence a well organized “silver platter” presentation of facts may result in a class getting those facts stored in the mind for a time for test passing, but falls short of the mark in the long range needs to which the educational system has directed itself.

G. Looking at a film the second time (another argument for the shorter film) sometimes has tremendous value. As with print communication, a second reading can pay off.

H. From my findings, attention span generalities about age and social group of the screen audience in relation to film are frequently wrong. Do your own classroom observation and testing of films, and you will probably discover the same.

I. Don’t let film criticism (upper grades) take over the valuable class time. You seldom have the necessary facts at hand to discuss constructively and critically the film as a film. Think of the film being dealt with as a learning experience first and as a subject for film criticism last, if at all. Developing film literacy for the purposes of parallels to criticism of literature is hardly essential. The “reading” of film for learning requires another set of understandings, and critical evaluation of appropriate inferences leading to comprehension is dependent upon students’ age and eventually awareness of film as a symbol system. The illusion of reality which is one of film’s principal strengths is also the weakest point. We can be tricked, misinformed, cajoled, etc. It becomes the teacher’s role to have the students question the film, test it, so that “the pictures don’t lie.”

J. Always, whenever possible, preview the films before screening if not familiar with them. Keep notes on how you used a film, both what worked and what didn’t. If you feel you have worked out a good way of using a film, pass it on to your colleagues. The filmography in subsequent editions include all such comments if you will send them to us.

K. Don’t learn how to be tolerant of poor films or filmmaking. However, our intolerance of poor films and filmmaking must be used in a positive, constructive way — not a negative, destructive way.

VIII. THE NECESSITY FOR FEEDBACK

If the filmography is to fulfill its intended role, it depends on you to send in:

A. Evaluations of films in some frame of reference, not just “I liked it” or “It was terrible”, but constructive criticism or description of how you use it.

B. Additional films you think should be in the filmography, with rationalizations as to why.
C. Corrections of errors you may find.

D. Suggestions, descriptions of films you feel you need that don't exist, films that should be made.

E. Anything else that you would like to submit that you feel would help teachers, educators or filmmakers to do a better job with film, with particular attention to self-discovery, self-determination and cultural difference in film communication.

I will conclude this introduction with what I believe to be the most important aspect of film in Indian education — the cultural difference aspects of film. Each culture has its own systems for living in the world around us and inside us: Value systems, life styles, rhythms of life, observation-perception systems, spoken language and its relation to non-verbal language, space and distance, color, time, frame, scale — on and on the list grows. These differences in our daily lives are ways of looking at and living in the world, and when we translate those things into motion pictures, we need to be very careful, very aware of this translation process, so that the films are of and for the culture of the audience. Simply put, Indians should be making films for Indians, in whatever way they feel most closely reflects their culture through their own film language systems. This is the only way to maximize film's potential in the learning experience.

In conclusion, once again let me remind and encourage you to give us feedback of any kind to update this filmography with new films you may discover, corrections, or comments of any kind for constructive improvement for the second revised edition.

I would like to thank all those who put in so much time and effort on this project, and pay special tribute to Mrs. Gloria Bird, whose concerted interest and persistent effort contributed greatly to the project.

ACORNS
28 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: EMC (Rental $17.50; Sale $280.00)

Description: Although at least half of the Indians in the U.S. used acorns as food, the California Indians made greater use of acorns in their diet than any other people. Acorns became a staple food for three-fourths of the California Indian population. In this film, Pomo tribe members demonstrate the traditional acorn harvesting, storing and processing methods which have evolved over the generations to a high degree of proficiency. The leaching process shown in this film was used by the aboriginal Indian to remove the poisonous tannic acid from the acorn meal and ultimately accounted for the great quantities of acorn bread, mush and soup consumed by the California Indian.

ADOBE CITY
15 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: CF/McH (Rental $12.50; Sale $175.00)

Description: Santa Fe, capital city of the state of New Mexico, is a city of three cultures: Indian, Spanish and Anglo. Since 1910, its narrow streets have witnessed the making of history. Its adobe buildings possess an Old World Charm unique among American cities. Many historical landmarks made of mud remain to give testimony to the lasting quality of adobe architecture. In the cosmopolitan atmosphere of this historic city, we see a family build an adobe structure. We learn how adobe is made today and how it was made by the Indians in Pre-Spanish days.

AGE OF THE BUFFALO
14 min. Color 16mm

Distributor: EMC (Rental $12.00) UMINN ($4.70)

Description: Boundless herds of buffalo thunder across plains which have yet to feel the white man’s plow. We see how the Indians relied on buffalo for food, clothing and shelter. Animation techniques give an exciting picture of two buffalo hunts. A rare view of a frontier, a species and a culture now vanished.
AGE OF THE MOUNTAIN MAN
16 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: USCAL (Rental $7.00)

Description: Re-enacts the hardships and dangers in the lives of two trappers and their Indian scout in the American West of 1840. Shows fur trapping and trading and explores the trappers' relation with the Indians.

AI-YE (MANKIND)
28 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: RADIM (Rental $25.00; Sale $350.00)

Description: An experimental film composed of sequences dealing with many aspects of the daily lives of the native people of Central and South America. Ai-ye is a Nigerian word . . . . drumming and chanting accompaniment is especially composed.

AKI’NAME (i.e. ON THE WALL)
22 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: CF/McH

Description: About two of the best soapstone carvers from the Eskimo art colony at Cape Dorset, who decorated a wall of the Canadian pavilion at Expo 67 with their special designs. Their work is shown and their views are heard concerning the hustle and bustle life of Montreal.

ALASKA: AMERICA'S NORTHERN FRONTIER
20 min. Color and B&W Sound 16mm

Distributor: CF/McH and Kent (Rental $8.00) color

Description: Points out the different regions of the state; shows how they vary in climate, resources, etc; presents Indians hunting and fishing; emphasizes the importance of Alaska and its potential.

ALASKA: THE 49th STATE

58 min.  Color  Sound  16mm
Distributors:  INDU (Rental $20.50; Sale $550.00)
Description:  The American Indians of Menominee County, Wisconsin, the only Indian governed county in the Nation, are losing in their struggle for self-sufficiency. During the 1950's the Menominees acquired $10.5 million in their treasury and the government decided that they were ready to be "terminated" as a tribe under the supervision of the BIA. They now have to pay taxes and purchase land they have lived on for generations. Public services are disappearing and 70% of the people are under the $3,000 poverty level. Most importantly, the Menominees are being forced to sell their land to outsiders in order to raise the county tax base and could lose control to new white residents.

Most importantly, it enables them to enter into communication with the hekura, the spirits of animals and plants, whose voices and counsel they hear while in the trance.

ECUADOR

16 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: CF/McH (Rental $15.00; Sale $215.00)

Description: Embracing both the equator and the towering Andes, Ecuador is a land of vivid contrasts. We see the effects of a variety of climates; the Galapagos Archipelago, the humid coastal lowlands, the cool altiplano, the snow-covered Cordilleras, the steaming jungles of the Amazon lowlands. Vast differences in the cultural and economic life of the people are shown; Quito, the modern progressive capital, primitive Indian villages and rural farms. The economic life (products, markets and agriculture) is vividly illustrated. Through our visit we become aware of the definitive roles which culture, economics and racial background play in the lives of the people.

ECUADOR: LAND OF THE EQUATOR

Distributor: CF/McGraw-Hill (Rental $40.00; Sale $610.00)

University of Michigan (Rental $15.00)

University of Missouri-Columbia (Rental $7.50)
By 1898, the settlers had fought their last Indian and could concentrate on developing their land. The continent, now connected by rail, was creating booming cities and industrial giants. This energetic new nation, previously concerned only with internal matters, now looked outward. The film begins by exploring reasons for, and the results of, the Spanish American War which saw the U.S. emerging as a world power. The Nation's contrasting wealth and poverty; the clash of "imperialists" and "anti-imperialists"; the poignance of immigrants at Ellis Island; the last battle; and the joining of the East and West by railroad. All are recalled in stirring film, photographs, contemporary newspapers and paintings.

EXCAVATIONS AT LA VENTA, THE
29 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: EMC (Rental $28.50; Sale $300.00)

Description: The archaeological excavation at LaVenta helped substantiate the theory that high civilization of Mesoamerica made its earliest appearance in the lowland Gulf Coast region located in the southern part of the state of Veracruz and the northern part of the state of Tabasco. La Venta exhibited the familiar Mesoamerican pattern of pyramids, sone sculpture and carved jade. However, the singular characteristics of the monolithic flat-topped altars, the sculptured monuments and the jade figurines could not be classified as Maya, Zapotec, Toltec or Aztec. The culture represented by the newly discovered art style was given the name "Olmec." This film reviews, through the use of color still photographs, motion picture film and detailed animation, the evolution of the large scale excavation in 1955 of Olmec site at La Venta, Tabasco, Mexico. Results of earlier investigation in 1942 and 1943 are included. The film summarizes the history of the site from 800 B.C. and shows examples of construction, sculptures and jade.

EXILES, THE

FAMILY CUSTOMS
17 min.  Color  Sound  16mm
Distributor: UMinn
Description: The pictographic drawings made by the Kiowa and Cheyenne young men imprisoned in Fort Marion, Florida in 1875 are used by the Kiowa men and boys as they describe segments of daily life of the Indian. Training of children, boys' and girls' chores, visiting and camp life are seen as through Indian eyes.

FAMILY LIFE OF THE NAVAJO INDIANS
31 min.  B&W  Silent  16mm
Distributor: Unknown.
Description: Taken in western New Mexico among Indians who have retained much of their original culture, this film highlights some of the ways in which the Navaho child develops into a typical Navaho adult. The use of a culture so different from our own serves to focus attention on the basic fact that how one learns follows universal laws while what one learns is determined by the specific culture.

FAMILY OF THE VALLEY: THE FAMILY COFFEE FARM
11 min.  Color  Sound  16mm
Distributor: CF/McH (Rental $16.00; Sale $160.00)
Description: Blanca, a ten year old Columbian girl, is shown helping her parents on their small coffee farm. We see her helping her father pick the ripe beans, preparing them, and

FEAST, THE
29 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: USNAC
UMICH (Rental $5.75)
PYF (Rental $20.00)

Description: Filmed in February, 1966, near the headwaters of the Orinoco River, THE FEAST illustrates the feasting practices of the Yanomamo Indians of Northern Brazil and Southern Venezuela, which proved a means of forming alliances between independent sovereign villages. The film is the collaboration of an anthropologist and an ethnographic filmmaker and attempts to show the type of cinema record that can be made among a primitive people if the anthropologist knows the language and the society well, can predict the basic pattern of social interaction that will occur, and has a conceptual framework in which to organizer the action taking place. The film illustrates a chapter of N. Chagnon's ethnography, The Fierce People, and also other writings on the subject of alliance, reciprocity economy, and gift exchange.

Distributor:  CCM (Rental $20.00; Sale $375.00)

Description:  When young Juan Diego’s brother, with the other village children, becomes ill, the Wise Woman blames the “Bitter airs” and prescribes chants and lotions, turning the people against the teacher, who insists it is a disease from the well water. Juan’s brother dies, and his mother suffers a premature birth brought on by anxiety. Though the villagers resist modern medicine and cling to superstition, gradually a new trend develops toward the ideas that young Juan and the teacher call for.

4-BUTTE-1: A LESSON IN ARCHAEOLOGY

Distributor:  EMC (Rental $21.50; Sale $360.00)

Description:  “For those who want an archaeological film to be witless, dull, matter-of-fact, presentation of minutiae and who assume that the goals of art and science are diametrically opposed, 4-BUTTE-1 will offend. It is for people who want a film that will capture the attention of their students through its superb visualness and cause them to think about archaeology in anthropological terms.” Jay Ruby, Temple University.

FREE GROWTH

37 min.  B&W  Sound  16mm

Distributor:  EMC (Rental $14.00; Sale $215.00)

Description:  A documentary essay extolling freedom for children and other growing things. It is composed of significant fragments of life in a Hopi Indian community, in an urban ghetto, among the middle class and in the hip counter-culture; these examples vividly contrast free growth and alternate education with the painful effects of regimentation and structure imposed by parents, school and society. A Hopi grandfather, a black youth, a white girl discuss the ways traditional education seems to have prevented them from growing naturally and learning enthusiastically.

Distributor:  LCA (Rental $7.00)
UMICH (Rental $7.00)
Description:  Story of Geronimo Jones, a Papago Indian boy living on a reservation in Arizona. His grandfather, a descendant of the Apache chief Geronimo, tells him of past greatness and gives him a treasured medallion. Geronimo is persuaded by a storekeeper to trade in the medallion for a television set for his grandfather. The gift brings pain as the man and boy watch an old western showing the “Bad” Indians being mowed down by the U.S. Cavalry in the name of civilization.

GLIMPSE OF THE PAST, A (Prehistoric American Indians)
10 min.  Color  Sound  B&W  16mm
Distributor:  INDU (Rental $2.75 B&W, $4.00 Color; Sale $50.00 B&W $100.00 Color)
            UMICH (Rental $2.25)
Description:  This beautiful and technically accurate film is first of all an aesthetic experience, portraying rare Indian artifacts in natural color and drawing upon the results of years of work by archaeologists interested in the culture of the American Indian. The setting of most of the film is the Angel Mound Site on the bank of the Ohio River near Newburgh, Indiana. This middle Mississippi culture of the Temple Mound Period was a culture much less complex than ours, yet one devoted to the satisfying of the same basic needs with which the world is concerned today. Here there is ample evidence of the interaction between man and his environment, and man’s adjustment to and his adaptation of the forces of nature about him. The film brings about a realization of the extent to which our ways of living have changed and contributes to an appreciation of the relation of other cultures to ours.

Distributor:  FINC (Rental $14.00. Sale $210.00)

Description:  Raises the question, "Is the Highland Indian of Peru better off in the highland than he would be in Lima, the capital?" Views of modern Lima followed by documentation of life in the highlands where the Indians labor as farmers and herdsmen on land owned by absentee landlords. How they work with primitive tools on arid land, for long hours in return for which they receive small plots of land on which they barely subsist. Why they chew on the coca leaf; prevailing illiteracy; religious festivals.

HIGHLANDS OF THE ANDES (Peru)
20 min.  B&W  Sound  16mm

Distributor:  UMISCOL (Rental $3.00)

Description:  This film lesson is based on the geographic principle that the highest settlements in mountain regions are usually associated with mining, but where groups of people living at high altitudes depend only upon agriculture, they lead a barren and difficult life. We see the kind of life led by the Peruvian Indian doing his best to eke out a bare subsistence from meager crops and a few domestic animals, and the Indians who work in the operations of the mines.

HOPI KACHINAS

10 min.  Color  Sound  16mm

Distributor:  ACI (Rental $15.00/3days; Sale $130.00)
UMICH (Rental $4.00)
UMINN (Rental $3.25)

Description:  A study in depth of an Indian tribe’s religion with interwoven cultural overtones. The rituals are expressed through spiritual dances. Kachina dolls, little wooden images of the dancers, are made for Hopi children as representative of various supernatural spirits, other Indians, or creatures from mythology. They serve as instructional aids for perpetuating a religion whose origins are rooted in the beginnings of Hopi tribalism. Originally, the dolls were shaped with crude carving tools and painted with dyes made from roots, fruit juices, ashes, and paint fibers.

HOW INDIANS BUILD CANOES

INCIDENT IN THE MATTO GROSSO

25 min.  Color  Sound  16mm

Distributor: TIMELI (Rental $25.00; Sale $300.00)

Description: The daily conflicts and ceremonies of the tribes of Central Brazil. How the Villa Boas brothers give help and comfort to a primitive people threatened by warring Indian neighbors and ruthless rubber trappers.

INDIAN AMERICA — I, II, III

80 min.  Color  Sound  16mm

Distributor: UMINN (Rental $25.00) and TRIPOD (Sale — Inquire)

Description: This film documents the Indian experience — unhonored treaties, the destruction of the land that is sacred to him, resentment of “termination” and economic exploitation, the problems of alcoholism and disease, the need for education and, above all, dignity, men caught between their need for the land, for tradition, and their recognition of the need to become a part (on their own terms) of American white society.

INDIAN AMERICAN

40 min.  B&W

Distributor: CAFM (Rental and Purchase — Inquire)

Description: This film centers on the exploitation of the American Indian by unscrupulous operators in the real estate sector. He buys Indian lands and then sells them at a fair profit — to himself — not the Indian.

INDIAN ARTISTS OF THE SOUTHWEST

20 min.  B&W  Sound  16mm

Distributor: CF/McH (Rental $15.00; Sale $225.00)

INDIAN MEMENTO
18 min.  Color  Sound  16mm
Distributor:  C/F/MrH (Rental $15.00; Sale $235.00)
Description: A visit to the Indians of Canadian pavilion at Expo 67, Montreal. Inside there are Indian artifacts; but even more arresting are the printed placards that tell the story of the Indian in North America, written without rancor but recalling what contact with European settlers cost in freedom of movement, loss of land, loss of health of body and spirit. The guide for this tour is a young Indian hostess who is first seen at her home.

INDIAN PAINT
91 min.  Color  Sound  16mm
Distributor: TWYMAN (Rental $37.50)

Description: It is the story of a small tribe of Indians living in the far West long before the white man set foot in America. The hero is the young son of a chief who raises and trains a pony with kindness rather than by the usual harsh methods. Aside from the adventures of the two, the film has a real sense of authenticity to Indian life that makes it especially worthwhile.

INDIAN POW WOW
12½ min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: MLA (Rental – request from MLA; Sale $125.00)

INDIAN RELOCATION: ELLIOT LAKE — A REPORT
29 min. B&W Sound 16mm

Distributor: CF/McH (Rental $14.00; Sale $180.00)

Description: An experiment to prepare Indians for city life, through a program of vocational and academic education carried out with families who were moved to the town of Elliot Lake in Northern Ontario from neighboring reserves. The film listens in on classes and discussions, and interviews with some families who stayed, some who went back. It offers insights into the kind of adjustments Indians face in this kind of "programmed" integration.

THE INDIAN SPEAKS (Parts I & II)
41 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: CF/McGraw-Hill (Rental $19.00; Sale $460.00)
UMINN (Rental $1.70 or $5.35 each part)

Description: A film about Indians in many parts of Canada who are concerned about preserving what is left of their own culture and restoring what is gone. It is the consciousness of the Indian tradition slipping away, with nothing equally satisfying or significant to take its place, that this film discovers wherever it goes. One of the speakers is an artist who for a time lived in Toronto but returned to his reserve to devote his efforts to his own people; another is business girl in Vancouver.

LAND OF THE LONG DAY — PARTS I AND II
32 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: IFB (Rental $10.00 each part; Sale $195.00 each part)

Description: During the short Arctic summer on Baffin Island, the native Eskimo enjoys four months of continuous daylight. But it is no time for relaxation, for provision must be made for the long, cold winter night ahead. In this film Idlouk, an Eskimo hunter, tells of his life in this northern land. We watch as he stalks the seal, so vital to his existence, and as he and other hunters set out in kayaks to harpoon the white whale and the narwhal. At the camp we meet his wife, children and aged parents, each of whom has work to do in the unceasing struggle for survival in this harsh land where the night is one hundred days.
Part I — 19 min. Sun comes up, see campsite, and seal hunt.
Part II — 19 min. Women make clothes, prepare seal skins, and boys look after fish nets. Daylight fades, preparing for winter.

THE LAND OF THE PINK SNOW
24 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: UMISSCOL (Rental $5.00)

Description: A colorful Crow Indian tells us of a legendary lake, deep set in the rugged Beartooth Mountains, that has fish as long as a man's arm. To reach it one must go back far into the mountains, beyond the land of the Pink Snow, past the glacier with the frozen grasshoppers, where the waters fall from the heavens and cover the side of the mountain. We follow his advice and see all of these breath-taking wonders; we even find the legendary lake and catch fish as long as a man's arm.

MAGICAL DEATH
30 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: UMICH
A large faction of adult Yanomamo males are adept at manipulating scores of tiny humanoid spirits for the purpose of causing sickness and death among their enemies. They do this while intoxicated on hallucinogenic snuffs of various types. This film depicts a group of shamans who, for two days in July, 1970, magically "attacked and killed" the children in a village they had never seen before. They are directed in this activity by an older shaman who was attempting to demonstrate his friendship to the village of origin of a visitor to his group.

MAGUEY, PLANT OF A THOUSAND USES

13 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: EMC (Rental $9.50)

Description: The scene of this story of the maguey plant and the Aztec Indians of Mexico is laid in the shadow of the pyramids of Teotihuacan. The film shows how the Indians use the plant in many ways — for fences, paper, pulque, needle and thread, rope, made in the old ways of their forefathers; ways used long before the Spaniards came to the New World.

MAHNOMEN — HARVEST OF THE NORTH

17 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: FCO (Rental $10.00; Sale $170.00)
UMINN (Rental $6.65) and FRC and BiA

Description: The Chippewa harvest of wild rice is the subject of this documentary film. Wild rice is introduced as (1) the gift of "Manitou" in an old Indian legend, (2) a colorful native American harvest which has prevented famine and caused many Indian Wars, (3) a unique biological "water" plant, (4) an important economic factor in the transition from the old to the modern way of life for the Indians of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ontario, and Manitoba, and (5) a growing food industry in the American market place. Indian people in Minnesota, who have viewed this film, regretfully noted that the film shows a number of non-Indians involved in the wild ricing operations.

MAYA HERITAGE, THE
18 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: HP (Rental $30.00; Sale $225.00)
Description: Vivid color photography of the major Maya cities in Mexico, Guatemala and Honduras . . . Copan, Tikal, Palenque, Tulum, Bonampak, Uxmal and Chichen-Itza. John F. Scott adapted the narration from an original text by Joseph Campbell. Narration by John Walsh. Music by Mexico’s composer, Carlos Chavez.

MAYA THROUGH THE AGES
45 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: EMC (Rental $18.50)
Description: The brilliant achievements of the ancient Maya civilization of Southern Mexico, Guatemala, and Honduras are reviewed in contrast to the state of its modern descendents, including an almost extinct tribe, the Lacandons, who in 1946 were discovered living in the jungle under very primitive conditions by photographer-anthropologist Giles Healey. After Healey had filmed their agriculture, hunting and worship, a Lacandon offered to lead him to a lost Mayan city of Bonampak in Mexico’s southernmost state of Chiapas. Here Healey found the magnificent and now famous frescoes of the Mayan temples, where some of the Lacandons still return to worship.
MAYA OF YUCATAN, THE

MAYAN MYSTERY, THE
17½, min.  Color  Sound  16mm

Distributor:  HP (Rental $30.00; Sale $225.00)

Description:  We see the great ruins in Copan, Tikal, Palenque, Bonampak, Tulum, Uxmal and Chichen-Itza, all abandoned by their inhabitants at approximately the same time. The extent and detail of the vast structures in these silent cities increase our wonder as to what happened to the early Americans who built them with such skill and vision. In spite of all we know about the Mayans, there is no definite conclusion among scholars as to what caused their decline.

MAYAPAN – THE BEGINNING AND THE END

Distributor:  RMI (Rental $15.00)

Description:  In the final stages of the Maya culture most of the ceremonial centers were abruptly abandoned and the population began to disappear. Toward the end of this period one of their last cities, Mayapan, was built. Here the Maya made a futile stand against extinction.

15 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: USCAL (Rental $7.00)

Description: Contrasts early Indian civilization with present cultures, and ancient pyramids and old villages with modern cities, such as Mexico City and Acapulco.

MEXICO, Part I NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN REGIONS
17 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: CF/Mch (Rental $15.00; Sale $225.00)

Description: This film illustrates the basic differences between northern and southern Mexico – in such areas as natural setting and ways of living. Shows the Indian and Spanish influences on present-day life in the two parts of Mexico and the United States. Deals with the great economic and social changes taking place within Mexico.

MIDDLE AMERICA — LAND AND THE PEOPLE
22 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: UMINN (Rental $9.35)

Description: The purpose of this film is to acquaint the student with different parts of Middle America. To help students understand why people of Middle America live and make a living as they do; to develop an appreciation for the cultural background. A major portion of the film deals with the people and cultural groups from which they have descended.
THE MIGHTY WARRIORS

30 min. B&W Sound 16mm

Distributor: INDU (Rental $6.75; Sale $125.00) UM1NN (Rental $3.60) EMC (Rental $10.50)

Description: During the big push westward, the white man encountered the craft and cunning of his most formidable foe — the Plains Indian. Adept at the art of war and torture, the Indian provided continual harassment throughout the winning of the West. Although the Indian lost out to the white settler, this film shows victory over the Indian as bloody, savage, and costly. Familiar battles, such as the Little Big Horn, the Sand Creek Massacre, and the Fetterman Massacre, are depicted in light of the true facts and not the highly romanticized versions of Hollywood. The film points out that although conflicts existed between the white man and the Indians, Americans are indebted to the Indian for a great amount of agricultural, military, and political knowledge.

MINERS OF BOLIVIA

15 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: FI (Rental $12.00) and UMICH (Rental $5.75)

Description: Life of a group of Indians living in the highlands of Bolivia who eke out a sub-marginal existence working in the mine and along the creeks and rivers digging tin ore. The hardships of their daily lives in ghetto-like conditions represented as common in many countries. The splendid beauty of the locale shown in sharp contrast to the squalor of their lives.

MINORITY YOUTH — ADAM

10 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: BFA (Rental $8.00; Sale $140.00)

Description: Adam is an American Indian. In the film, he speaks candidly about his cultural heritage and his place in today’s society. He feels that there are misconceptions and stereotypes have been fostered by school textbooks. Adam values the traditions of his people, and much of his culture, by spending his summers at a reservation. But in the final analysis, Adam is an American with the wants, abilities and interests of his Anglo peers.

MISSION LIFE

20 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: EMC (Rental $15.00)
Description: Dramatization of life in a California mission before the gold rush, and the work done by the Indians who were converted to Christianity. We see them making adobe brick and candles, curing hides, threshing wheat by primitive means, and pounding grain for bread and gruel.

MISSION OF FEAR

MODERN MAYAN
14 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: HP (Rental $25.00; Sale $175.00)

Description: Salvador Sanchez is a school teacher who loves teaching. We see him teaching in his classroom; and at the close of the day, we see him in the midst of his family, correcting school papers in his small house.

MONUMENT VALLEY – LAND OF THE NAVAJOS
17 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: BFA (Rental $10.00; Sale $170.00)
Description: Presents a brief look at the life of a Navaho who lives in the four-corner country of Arizona, Colorado, Utah, and New Mexico. Shows a rather romanticized picture of the hard life of the present day Navaho people. Statements such as "this is the tribe least influenced by the modern world" would need further elaboration. A poor film.

MOSORI MONIKA
20 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: CF/McH (Rental $24.00; Sale $275.00)
Description: Filmed at the Franciscan Mission at Guayo, in the Orinoco Delta of Venezuela and in the Warao village adjacent to the mission, it shows the missionaries' deep influence on Indian life style and the dilemma of acculturation. Narrated by a nun and an old Warao woman, the film explores the thinking of both societies and the ways in which changes in material culture have changed Indian attitudes.

NANOOK OF THE NORTH
55 min. B&W Sound 16mm

Distributor:  CCM (Rental $12.50; Sale $175.00)
Description:  Deep in the heart of the Grand Canyon is the ancient home of the Navahos. Here, the camera seeks out and records the remnants of a matriarchal society that is trying to eke out an existence that goes from the searing summer heat to frigid winter cold.

NAVAJO, Part I
29 min.  B&W  16mm
Distributor:  INDU (Rental $6.75; Sale $125.00)
Description:  Presents a visit to a Navaho reservation to discover the values held by this indigenous community. Questions are put to an Indian family to find out each member’s duties, responsibilities, and privileges. Compares Navaho and modern medical practices and religious rituals and beliefs. Concludes by discussing the problems of reconciling traditional Navaho ways with modern technology.

NAVAJO, Part II
29 min.  B&W  Sound  16mm
Distributor:  INDU (Rental $6.75; Sale $125.00)
Description:  Presents a visit to Window Rock, Arizona, to interview members of the Navaho Tribal Council. Discuss the problems of working within the tribal organizational patterns and of the continuing force of tradition. Questions are answered concerning education, agriculture, religion, and the adaptations to be made in the light of modern science and new social values.

NAVAJOS FILM THEMSELVES (Series of seven silent films)

Varied   B&W   Silent   16mm

Distributor: Center for Mass Communication  [Rental $50.00 (3 programs/10 days)
Sale No. S513 purchased all together]

Description:

Program No. 1
A Navajo Weaver, Second Weaver, and Old Antelope Lake

Program No. 2
The Navajo Silversmith and The Shallow Well Project

Program No. 3
Intrepid Shadow and The Spirit of the Navajo

Six Navaho bilinguals and one mono-lingual, all of whom have previously been differentially exposed to film, were taught to conceive, photograph and edit 16mm silent films under the instruction of Sol Worth and John Adair. The purpose of the project was to see if a people such as the Navaho, would reveal aspects of cognition and values that may be inhibited, not observable or analyzable when the means of investigation is dependent on verbal exchange and particularly when it is done in the language of the investigator.

A NAVAJO WEAVER (See "Navajos Film Themselves") 22 min. $154.00

Description: Miss Susie Benally, a young Navaho, depicts her mother weaving at the loom and includes all of the necessary steps prior to the actual weaving.

THE SPIRIT OF THE NAVAJO (See "Navajos Film Themselves") 21 min. $147.00

Description: The film begins with an old medicine man looking for roots to use in a ceremony. He prepares for a sand painting and part of the actual curing ceremony is featured in which the patient appears.

THE SHALLOW WELL PROJECT (See "Navajos Film Themselves") 14 min. $98.00

Description: This film by Johnny Nelson is very different in style and approach from NAVAJO SILVERSMITH. It illustrates the building of a shallow well to replace an open pond once used for water supply.

SECOND WEAVER (See "Navajos Film Themselves") 9 min. $154.00

Description: This film is the result of Miss Susie Benally teaching her mother to use a camera. Similar to the daughter's film in theme, it depicts the daughter weaving a belt.

OLD ANTELOPE LAKE (See "Navajos Film Themselves") 11 min. $77.00

Description: This film begins at the source of the lake, then moves around the lake showing the unity between natural things and human beings in the environment.
THE NAVAJO SILVERSMITH (See “Navajos Film Themselves”)  20 min. $140.00

Description: Similar to the weaver films in structure, this film traces the creation in silver of some small Yeibachai figures from the mining of silver to the finished figure.

INTREPID SHADOW (See “Navajos Film Themselves”)  18 min. $126.00

Description: One of the most complex and least understood by the other Navahos. It has been called by Margaret Mead “one of the finest examples of animism shown on film.” Contrary to the other films, this film deals with subjective rather than objective aspects of Navaho life. In the film, Al Clah attempts to reconcile the Western notion of God with his traditional Navaho notion of Gods.

THE NAVAHO INDIAN

NETSILIK ESKIMOS (Series of 21 films)
30 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: MLA
UEVA (Rental $9.00/3days; Sale $270.00 per film)
Description: These films are for all who wish to see how life used to be among the Netsilik Eskimos when they still lived apart and depended entirely on the land and their own ingenuity to sustain life through the rigors of the Arctic year. These are sound films without commentary; accordingly, language imposes no restrictions on their use.
AT THE CARIBOU CROSSING PLACE, Part I (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: The time is early autumn. The woman wakes and dresses the boy. He practices with his sling shot while she spreads a caribou skin to dry. The boy picks berries and then the men come in their kayaks with another caribou. This is skinned and soon night falls. In the morning a weasel runs through the camp. One man leaves with his bow while the other makes a fishing mannic, and bait of caribou meat. The woman works at the skins this time cleaning sinews and hanging them to dry. The man repairs his arrows and then sets a snare for a gull.

AT THE CARIBOU CROSSING PLACE, Part II (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: Two men arrive at the camp and the four build from stones a long row of man-like figures, inukshuit, down toward the water. They wait for the caribou and then chase them toward the stone figures and so into the water where other men in kayaks spear them. The dead animals are floated ashore and skinned. The boy plays with the visitors, the woman cooks meat, the men crack the bones and eat the marrow and then feast on the plentiful meat.

AT THE AUTUMN RIVER CAMP, Part I (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: Now it is late autumn and the Eskimos travel through soft snow and build karmaks in the river valley. Karmaks are shelters with snow walls and a roof of skins. The geese are gone but some musk-ox are seen. Two karmaks are built from snow and one from ice. The man makes a toy sleigh from the jawbones of a caribou and hitches it to a puppy. Next day the woman gathers stocks of moss for the lamp and the fire. The men fish through the ice with spears. The woman readies a fire outside and cooks fish while the men cache the surplus. Then the family eats in the karmak.

AT THE AUTUMN RIVER CAMP, Part II (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: The men build an igloo and the household goods are moved in. They begin the task of making a sleigh, using the skins from the tent, frozen fish, caribou antlers and seal skin thongs. Woman works at a parka, using more caribou skin, and the children play. Now the sled is ready to load and soon the family is heading downriver to the coast.

AT THE WINTER SEA-ICE CAMP, Part I (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: In late winter when the cold is severe, the people and dogs are forced to stop their trek and make camp. In the blue dusk the men probe the snow and then cut building blocks while the women shovel a site. In the light of day the men test and refurbish their spears, harness dogs to the sled and strike out on the sea ice. Each man, with a dog or two, explores the white waste, seeking scent of a seal’s breathing hole. When a dog noses the snow, the man probes for the hole and, when he finds it, suspends a single looped hair to signal when the seal rises to breathe. Then he waits, motionless, to make his strike.
AT THE WINTER SEA ICE CAMP, Part II (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: In the morning, the women spread the furs over the igloos to air. The children play, striking a ball of fur with a bone bat. The men still wait patiently for sign of seals and the women play with the babies, sew, repair the igloos, nurse a child. A woman shows an older girl how to shape and cut fur for clothing. Then the seals begin to arrive-towed by the hunters. The women dress the seals, eating between times, passing the knife along as needed. The men come in with their catch.

AT THE WINTER SEA ICE CAMP, Part III (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: Work begins on a big community igloo, and all share in the building of it: one cuts, one carries, one builds and so on. Women pile snow on the igloo, tossing it up from shovel to shovel. Ice sheets are installed for light. The men return to their sealing and the women to duties or play. In the large living space of the igloo, activities are easy to see. An infant uses the sharp ulu as confidently as any adult to cut bite-size meat or fish.

AT THE WINTER SEA ICE CAMP, Part IV (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: A bitter wind blows and the dogs huddle in the snow. In the igloo the children scratch in the rime on the ice window. A man takes out his tool-pouch and drills the stone trough he is making, using bow and spindle. A woman presses blubber in the lamp to free the oil, and a child carries the sharpening rock to the man who saws at his stonework. Some men are still at the seal hunt, beards rimmed by the cold. Day ends with a drum performance to which the women sing. The next day the big igloo is deserted and the people are again trekking over the broad expanse of the ice.

GROUP HUNTING ON THE SPRING ICE, Part I (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: Late June, and much of the land is bare. There are sounds of running water, and melt pools shine everywhere. The woman carries heather and moss to camp and the man makes a whirling bulroarer for the boy. Another child pretends to drive a dog sled.

GROUP HUNTING ON THE SPRING ICE, Part II (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: The men are out on the sea ice and the women work at the tasks of care. Seal skins are pegged to dry in the sun and a woman, baby on her back, picks over a pile of gulls. The birds are skinned and then go into the pot with water from a melt pond. A baby sucks on a bone. The people eat, then the women visit an old man in his tent. Now the women are out gathering moss for the fires and we see the birds and flowers common to the area. A woman skins a seal pup while another sews skins for a tent. The children play at making camp, and some of the older girls pretend to nurse the fat pups. Then the adults join the fun, playing at juggling.
GROUP HUNTING ON THE SPRING ICE, Part III (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: The men are moving about on the sea ice, probing for unsafe ice and watching for seals. The snow cover is nearly gone now, and the breathing holes have widened. The men sit and wait. One makes a strike with his harpoon and others come to watch. They are ready to eat and relish the good warm blood. Another hunter succeeds, and then another, but this one loses his catch when his thong breaks and the seal slides back into the water. But the party has three seals in tow when they return to camp, and soon the women have the meat exposed and all eat. Then the blubber is packed into the seal-skin bags and then men haul it away to the cache.

JIGGING FOR LAKE TROUT (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: More signs of winter's end as more wildlife returns. The family makes an excursion for fresh fish from a lake. They build a karmak and move in the furs, cooking troughs, etc. The woman sets up her lamp, spreads the furs and attends to the children. There are signs of returning wildlife. The man moves out on the lake ice and chips a hole for fishing. He baits his hook and lowers it, jigging the line to attract the fish. Crouched by the hole, he persists with his purpose and takes some fish, as does his wife who has joined him. Both remain at the hole through a severe blizzard.

AT THE SPRING SEA ICE CAMP, Part I (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: Two Eskimo families travel across the wide sea ice. Before night falls they build small igloos and we see the construction in detail. The next day they see a polar bear basking in the warming sun. A woman lights her seal oil lamp, carefully forming the wick from moss. The man repairs his snow goggles. Another man arrives dragging a polar bear skin. The boy has made a bear-shaped figure from snow and practices throwing his spear. Then he tries his bow. Now, with her teeth, the woman crimps the sole of a sealskin boot she is making.

AT THE SPRING SEA ICE CAMP, Part II (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: The men are hunting seal through the sea ice in the bleak windy weather. The wind disturbs the "tell-tales", made of eiderdown or hair loop on a bone, that signals when a seal rises to breathe. A hunter strikes, kills and drags his catch up and away. At the igloo the woman scrapes the polar bear skin and a man repairs a sled. In the warming weather the igloo is topped with furs and a snow shelter is built to hide the sled from the sun. Now a seal is skinned, the polar bear skin pegged out to dry, and the people stop for a snack of good red fish from the cache.

AT THE SPRING SEA ICE CAMP, Part III (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: The hunter is traveling alone with sled and dogs. There is a sharp sound and he sees a ground squirrel, sets his snare and soon catches it. He kills it by crushing the skull with his foot, leaving the skin undamaged. Skirting bare ground, he comes to a fish cache, feeding the dogs some morsels. The sled appears to drag, even on the harder snow of the sea ice. In camp a woman sews, a girl hangs fish on a line, and all stop to eat. Now the disintegrating skin sled is dismantled and the polar bear skin serves for conveyance. They break camp, moving ashore to put up their tents for the summer.

STALKING SEAL ON THE SPRING ICE, Part I (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: The family is on the shore of Pelly Bay in May-June. A seal basks beside its hole under a warming sun. The hunter stalks the seal, kills it and drags it to the family camp on shore. Man and wife skin the seal, cutting the hide into rings that girdle the body. Stripped of blubber, the rings are then cut spirally into long thongs. The boy plays on the shingle imitating the circling gulls, while the man stretches his thongs between rocks and scrapes away the fur. The woman dresses the seal, wasting nothing, braiding the intestines.

STALKING SEAL ON THE SPRING ICE, Part II (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: A seal is seen nosing from a snow melt pool. The hunter sits at the door of his tent shaping a new bone tip for his harpoon. When he finishes his harpoon he sets out after seal. After a long imitative stalk, the hunter moves too soon, alerting the seal, and his harpoon misses. He prepares for a night vigil at the breathing hole. Next morning the hunter still waits for the seal. When again he fails, he turns to egg collecting on the cliff where the gulls’ nests are. Finally the family packs its belongings on a bear skin and shifts along the coast to another area.

BUILDING A KAYAK, Part I (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: Now it is July — summer. The runoff is in full spate and open water shows offshore. Ice cakes melt on the shingle. On the bay are ducks. It is time to build a kayak, a task shared by two men. They gather materials; valuable scraps of wood, bone, seal skins and sinews. Now there is much cutting, fitting, joining and binding. The woman helps by cutting additional thongs, scraping skins, providing food. She must also amuse the child, who seems left out by the single-minded work of the men. Then the work breaks and a man harpoons a fish in a tide pool and all share the pleasure of fresh food.

BUILDING A KAYAK, Part II (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: As the kayak takes shape there are more ribs to be split and shaped to fit, more soaking, bending and binding, more skins to soak and scrape and soak, soak again before stretching them tightly on the frame and sewing them in place. Now the outer rim is put in position and, while the ice floats in the bay, the men launch and test their new kayak with evident pleasure in its able performance.
FISHING AT THE STONE WEIR, Part I (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: Full summer, and the tundra is bare; the skin tents are up and it is time to attend to the fishing as the fish move upstream. The men are in the river lifting stones and putting them in place to form enclosures to trap the fish. A woman skins a duck and then braids her hair in the old way, stiffly around sticks. From the bladder she makes a balloon for the child. The men are fishing with the three-pronged leisters, spearing the fish and stringing them on a thong, one after the other until it is as much as a man can do to drag his catch from the water. The woman works quickly, cleaning the fish, and then all enjoy bits of the fresh raw fish.

FISHING AT THE STONE WEIR, Part II (Netsilik Eskimo Series)

Description: There are many men fishing now and even the children on shore imitate the motions of the men. Rain sweeps over the tundra but the work goes on, with the men splashing through the weir, furs hitched high, seemingly little affected by the cold water. The haul is large. A man makes fire with a bow drill and soon there is a blaze under the stone cooking pot. Fish are stewed and eaten, the men staying in their own group. There is a little play at cat’s cradle while stories are told and then the women return to cleaning fish and the men to building stone caches to store and protect this plentiful harvest for the leaner days to come.

NOW THAT THE BUFFALO’S GONE

7 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: CFS (Rental $10.00; Sale $85.00)
PYF (Rental — inquire; Sale $100.00)
Description: As quoted from "Media for Christian Formation" Vol 2: “This beautiful little film uses fast-moving, positive-negative color images to recall how the American Indian was displaced from the land. From the colorful past of the buffalo hunt to the less than perfect life of present-day reservations, this sympathetic protest film shows why even Indians on television can never really win. This film is recommended for discussion with the junior high school through adults and for worship services built around a theme of concern for the American Indian.”

A powerful comment on the decline of the American Indian, using quasi-three dimensional color techniques as part of its overall structure.

OTHER SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN, THE

30 min. B&W Sound 16mm

Distributor: INDU (Rental $6.75; Sale $125.00)

Description: In the early days of the settling of America, the land west of the Alleghenies was considered by many to be stark wilderness — uninhabitable for anyone save the savage redskin. But to a few hardy men, this territory held promise of adventure, glory, fame, and even fortune. Among the stores of the early explorers documented in the film are those of such figures as the Spanish explorers Juan Ponce de Leon and Hernando Cortez Lewis and Clark, Lieutenant Z. M. Pike, Major Stephen H. Long, John Charles Fremont, Capt. R. B. Marcy, the fabled mountain man, Jim Bridger, Colonel Philip St. George Cooks, Josiah Greff, John Colter, and John W. Powell.

PADDLE-TO-THE-SEA

28 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: CF/McH (Rental $17.00) and NFBC (Sale $325.00)

Description: Paddle-to-the-sea came from north of Lake Superior, carved from cedar in the blue winter night by an Indian boy who whittled and dreamed in the yellow light of a cabin's lamp. Under the canoe he put the words, "I am Paddle-to-the-sea, please put me back in the water." He poured a strip of melted lead in a groove along the bottom to keep the canoe upright in the water, then left it on a frozen stream for the spring to launch.

Distributor: CF/McH (Rental $10.00)
Description: On this Indian reserve in northern Ontario, John Gould, a young Toronto artist, drew sketches of life as he witnessed it while living in the community. Many of the scenes are bleak—one of winter hunger, sickness and cold— but there is enthusiasm in the faces of children in the classroom, and strength in other faces of a people rich in spirit, brotherliness, and endurance.

PINE NUTS
13 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: EMC (Rental $10.00; Sale $130.00)
Description: In the Great Basin area, a dry semi-desert region between the Rocky Mountains and the Sierra Nevada, the Paviotso, Washo, and other Indian tribes of western Nevada developed a hunting and gathering culture. In adapting themselves to this barren region, the Indians came to depend upon the pine nut or pinon tree as an essential source of food. In this film, members of the Paviotso and Paiute tribes demonstrate the manner in which the pine nuts were harvested and prepared as food. The techniques demonstrated have been in practice since pre-Columbian times.

RED MAN AND THE RED CEDAR
12 min.  Color  Sound  16mm

Distributor: MMP (Sale $135.00)
            UILL (Rental $4.95)
            OREU (Rental $4.50)

Description: Scholars have said that without the cedar tree the Indian culture which developed along the northwest coast of the North American Continent would not have been possible. The purpose of this film is to show how the coastal Indians used the western red cedar as part of their environment for food, clothing, shelter, transportation and art. The relationship of present day Indians to the old culture is portrayed through demonstrations of how things were done in the old culture. Through these scenes, the student gains an appreciation for the high degree of skill which the early Indians had in using the cedar tree, and how many ways that we use the tree today were not originated by the white man, but the red man equalled and even surpassed our modern culture in ingenious and creative use of their environment.

REPORT FROM WOUNDED KNEE

Distributor: CF/McH (Rental $11.00; Sale $150.00)
USCAL (Rental $7.50)
PENN (Rental $5.60)
EMC (Rental $11.50)

Description: Filmed in the Callejon de Huaylas region of Peru, "So That Men Are Free" tells how the descendants of the Incas, called Viconinos after their hacienda, were passed from owner to owner, together with the land they tilled, for 400 years. Dr. Allan R. Holmberg, a Cornell University anthropologist, recalls how, through a university grant, he bought the 30,000-acre hacienda in cooperation with the Peruvian government in 1952, becoming in effect the new patron of 300 Indian families. At first so suspicious of their new patron that they ran and hid, the Indians were gradually changed from the 16th century serfs to 20th century free men, capable of running their own affairs. From the profits of improved agricultural methods, they build their own schools and clinics. Finally, they bought Vicos, becoming the first Indians in the history of Peru to buy their own land. The Vicos experiment, used as a model by the Peace Corps, the United Nations and the Peruvian government.

TUKTU AND THE BIG KAYAK

Description: Tuktu impatiently watches his father and the kayak man build a kayak. He longs to cut wood and use the bow drill but he is told to watch and learn. In the end the kayak is finished and Tuktu goes for a ride in it with his father.

TUKTU AND THE BIG SEAL

Description: A big seal gets away after being harpooned by Tuktu's father. Perhaps it is the same seal that has, in the past, escaped the harpoons of other hunters. But Tuktu's father does bring home a seal in the end.

TUKTU AND THE CARIBOU HUNT

Description: When the caribou cross the small lakes to reach new grazing ground the Eskimos hunt the animals from their kayaks. Tuktu's father has bad luck with his hunting and a caribou escapes his spear. But we see him bringing one home and the film ends with an outdoor fire and everyone enjoying a feast.

TUKTU AND THE CLEVER HANDS

Description: A general look at some of the things made by Eskimos and a commentary on the clever use that Eskimos make of the few materials that are available in their harsh environment. We come to the conclusion that the Eskimo is highly skilled and highly intelligent and that he has overcome problems that to us would seem almost unsolvable.

TUKTU AND THE INDOOR GAMES

Description: A happy, joyous look at Eskimos and the games they play in an igloo. Outside the wind and blizzard howl but Tuktu's family and friends ignore the weather. They juggle stones, skip and play with delightful Eskimo children. Finally Tuktu falls asleep and dreams about the good time he had.

TUKTU AND THE MAGIC BOW

Description: Eskimos in far-off times used the bow and arrow for hunting. We see a bow being made and how the Eskimos practice their shooting skill by aiming arrows at snow men and snow bears. Tuktu’s father proves himself the best at this test of hunting skill.

TUKTU AND THE MAGIC SPEAR

Description: Tuktu accompanies his family when fishing is done through the ice during the long cold winter. He also sees his father catch fish with a spear during the summer, and he longs to grow up and spear fish, too.

TUKTU AND THE SNOW PALACE

Description: After going on a trek to new hunting grounds, Tuktu’s family and friends build igloos, in particular, a giant igloo where feasting, dancing and games are held.

TUKTU AND THE TEN THOUSAND FISHES

Description: Tuktu is taken on a fishing trip to the ancient stone weir. He sees his father and other hunters spear fish in great numbers, and also watches his father and his uncle make fire with an Eskimo fire drill.

TUKTU AND THE TRIALS OF STRENGTH

Description: Strong and hardy Eskimo hunters demonstrate and test their strength in Eskimo boxing, tug-of-war and other strenuous activities. We see and hear the drum dance, a demonstration of Eskimo poetry and rhythm.

TUKTU AND HIS ANIMAL FRIENDS

Description: A look at the smaller animals that live in the Arctic, including lemmings, weasels, ducks and kittiwakes. Also includes materials on flowers. Tuktu’s father climbs the high cliffs in search of gulls’ eggs.

TUKTU AND HIS ESKIMO DOGS

Description: How dogs are used by the Eskimos in winter and in summer. We see puppies, sled dogs, and dogs being used as pack animals. Eskimo dogs are also used for hunting purposes and we see how an Eskimo dog sniffs out the seal blow-holes when deep snow covers the winter sea ice.
TUKTU AND HIS NICE NEW CLOTHES

Description: Tuktu and other children are shown being dressed and fitted for warm winter clothes, beautifully made by the Eskimo women. We see the cutting, stitching and use of Arctic clothing, and we learn how important it is for an Eskimo wife to be clever with her needle.

Distributor:  HRAW (Sale $365.00)
Description:  The cultivation of maize provides a seasonal structure for a sensitive filming of daily activities of Tepoztecs, from the planting of seed after the first rains to harvest time and the long dry season. Ancient methods are carefully documented; hand crop cultivation, grinding maize on a metate for tortillas, building a charcoal kiln, making adobe.

TEPOZTLAN IN TRANSITION
30 min.  Color  Sound  16mm
Distributor:  HRAW (Sale $365.00)
Description:  An automatic tortilla-maker symbolizes the changes taking place in Tepoztlán as the village emerges from its traditional isolation. A rapid sequence of change is introduced with the building of a road link with Cuernavaca and Mexico City bringing Tepoztecs into contact with the larger world. Other significant factors for village change include the establishment of a modern school and hospital as well as the industry, international art colony and tourists attracted by the evolving Tepoztlán.

TEPOZTON

Distributor:  HRAW (Sale $150.00)
Description:  Mexican legend of the mischievous boy who is half Aztec god and half human.

THANK YOU MASK MAN
8 min.  Color  Sound  16mm
Distributor:  GROVE (Rental $35.00; Sale $95.00)
Description:  The Lone Ranger and Tonto are as American as apple pie; they are as much a part of our mythology as Paul Bunyan or Jesse James. In this animated color film, Lenny Bruce and Jeffery Hall have parodied our folk heroes in order to reveal the essence of our popular culture. The film is an exploration of the identity behind the myth. Is the masked man's relationship with Tonto homosexual? Is he brave, modest and kind — or cowardly, arrogant and grasping?

THESE ARE MY PEOPLE
14 min.  B&W  Sound  16mm
Distributor:  CF/McH (Rental $12.00) and NFBC (Sale $90.00)
This is the first film by the Challenge for Change Program's Indian film crew, who shot their first footage at the Akwesasne Mohawk Reserve and have edited it into a sincere homage to the People of the Longhouse. The film presents the Indian's views of Indian religion and culture, the effect of the coming of the white man, and the revival of the Longhouse culture.

THIS LAND

57 min.  B&W  Sound  16mm
Distributor:  CF/McH (Rental $25.00) and NFBC (Sale $300.00)
Description:  According to the Nishga Indians of northern British Columbia, white people have no right to sing, "This Land is Our Land." How and why that right is being challenged is well documented in this film. Champion of the Nishga's claim to their ancestral land is Frank Calder and president of the tribal council. There are other spokesmen as well, and many impressions of life in Nass River Valley communities.

THIS WAS THE TIME

15 min.  Color  Sound  16mm
Distributor:  CF/McH (Rental $15.00) and NFBC (Sale $195.00)
Description:  When Masset, a Haida Indian village in the Queen Charlotte Islands, held a potlatch, it seemed that the past grandeur of the people had returned. This is a colorful recreation of Indian life that faded more than two generations ago when the great totems were toppled by the missionaries and the costly potlatch was forbidden by law. It shows how the village lived again the old glory, with singing, dancing, feasting and raising a towering totem as a lasting reminder of what once was.

THREE STONE BLADES

15½ min.  Color  Sound  16mm
Distributor:  IFB (Rental $12.50; Sale $195.00)
Description:  Filmed in Point Hope, Alaska in 1970, the story accurately depicts an Eskimo legend of the Bering Straits region. Reconstructing arctic customs prior to white contact; the film emphasizes aboriginal Eskimo values toward family, Reciprocal sharing, shamanism and transmigration of souls.

TOTEM POLE, THE

27 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: EMC (Rental $17.00)

Description: The Northwest Pacific coast between Puget Sound and Alaska was inhabited by many Indian tribes, with complex social systems and distinctive arts and mythologies. One of their most remarkable achievements was a bizarre and highly sophisticated woodcarving art that found its highest expression in the great carved cedar column, the totem pole. The unique development of the seven types of totem poles and house posts is lyrically presented in this film. Each is discussed in terms of social system and mythology that laid great stress on kinship, rank and ostentatious display of wealth.

TOTEMS

14 min. Color Sound 16mm

Distributor: NOF (Rental $7.00; Sale $170.00) and UMICH (Rental $4.00)

Description: What is a totem: monument, idol or what? This film poses the question, then answers it by showing how totems developed as a form of art and communication among the natives of the Northwest Coast in the shapes of pole, screen headdress, blanket, rattle and ceremonial dance—all treasured by our culture.

TOTEMS

TRAIL OF TEARS

100 min. B&W Sound 16mm

Distributor: INDU (Rental $79.00; Sale none)

Description: Johnny Cash, as Chief John Ross, and Jack Palance, as President Andrew Jackson, star in this dramatization of the historical events surrounding the exploitation and oppression of the Cherokee Indian Nation in the 1830's. The state of Georgia in seeking all Cherokee land, nullifies all Cherokee laws and further decrees that Indians are neither entitled to a trial nor may testify in court. The Cherokees appeal to President Jackson because of earlier treaties but Jackson refuses their pleas. After much harrassment, the Cherokee Nation moves on a death-filled journey to Oklahoma. But again, in 1907, all schools, hospitals, etc. are appropriated from them. Narrated by Joseph Cotton.

Description:  VISION QUEST tells of Cherum, a fourteen year old Indian boy, his life in the mountains and prairies of the Mission Mountains of Western Montana, and of his quest for a guardian spirit. Re-enacted by Montana Indians, the film uses authentic clothing and artifacts throughout, and offers a unique glimpse into such phases of Western Indian life as tanning, cooking, ceremonial smoking, sweating and tipi life.
WARRIORS AT PEACE

12 min.  Color  Sound  16mm

Distributor:  EMC (Rental $10.50)
MLA (Rental – inquire; Sale $125.00)

Description:  This film contrasts the peaceful modern-day life of the Apache tribe with their warlike past. Their homes hug close to the streams, with modern cottages standing beside the wickiup of earlier times. The pollen blessing ceremony and the devil dancers are shown.

WASHOE

56 min.  B&W  Sound  16mm

Distributor:  CF/McH (Rental $25.00; Sale $325.00)

Description:  The Washoe Indians were one of America's earliest settlers. Their culture is a timeless one, deriving its rhythm from the vastness and the cycles of nature. Nature has been, and still is, the dominant force in their lives. Dresserville, Nevada – at the foot of the Sierra Mountains – is the largest community of the Washoe Reservation. In this small town of only 29 families, the traditions of the Washoe are being retained in the midst of an invasion by the surrounding "modern" world. Depicting everyday activities, (rather than special events) this film gives a deep insight into the Washoe society, and shows why their philosophy and traditions are important to them and to us. Highlights include the pine nut ceremony and the girl's puberty ceremony.

WATER IS SO CLEAR THAT A BLIND MAN COULD SEE

Distributor: CORONET (only Color), UMICH, UMISSCOL
(Rental $2.25 B&W, $4.00 Color; Sale $55.00 B&W, $130.00 Color)

Description: Daily life of a Chippewa family; hunting wild turkey; harvesting staple food of wild rice; fishing. How this life was related to the environment. The film does give a good idea of how the Chippewa lived at this time, but the reconstruction is not believable and the film talks down to students. Not recommended.

WORKING THE SUGARBUSH  "The Maple Sugar Story"
22 min.  Color  Sound  16mm
Distributor:  UMINN (Rental – none; Sale $185.00)
Description:  This film tells the story of maple syrup production in Minnesota. Most of the scenes were taken around Mille Lacs Lake and in the east central part of Minnesota. The purpose of the film is to show opportunities for profit that still remain for those who do a good job making maple syrup. The opening scenes show Chippewa Indians boiling sap in crude open buckets. Later sequences explain how to select the tap trees, how to prepare gathering equipment, and how to boil down the sap.

YOU ARE ON INDIAN LAND
37 min.  B&W  Sound  16mm
Distributor:  CF/McH (Rental $16.00; Sale $250.00)
Description:  A film report of a protest demonstration by Mohawk Indians of the St. Regis Reserve on the international bridge between Canada and the U.S. near Cornwall, Ontario. By blocking the bridge, which is on their reserve, and causing considerable tie-up of motor traffic, the Indians drew public attention to their grievance that they were prohibited by Canadian authorities from duty-free passage of goods across the border – a right established by the Jay Treaty of 1794. The film shows the confrontation with the police, and ensuing action. Blue Ribbon Award, American Film Festival.
YOU CAN'T GET THERE FROM HERE

30 min. B&W Sound 16mm

Distributor: INDU (Rental $6.75; Sale $125.00)

Description: Instead of high-flying jets, speeding trains, and racing automobiles, transportation for the early settlers depended on slow but powerful horses, oxen, mules, burros, and even camels. These animals of burden provided the power that pulled the bulky Conestogas and dusty back-breaking stagecoaches. They supplied power for mining operations and carried letters and messages across the vast plains. The Pony Express carried mail from the east to the west until the emergence of the transcontinental telegraphy and the rapid development of the railroad. Included among these tales of transportation is the fascinating account of the Camel Brigade and their strange adventures in the “Great American Desert”.

NORTH AMERICAN INDIAN SERIES
22 8mm Cartridged Films

Distributor: Thorne Films, Inc., Dept. NR-26, 1229 University Avenue, Boulder, Colo. 80302.
Description: Depicts aspects of various Indian cultures of North America. The films present reconstructions of cultural traditions and techniques pertaining to Indian economy, technology and ritual. Utilizing memories and oral traditions of contemporary Indians, as well as anthropological records, cultural elements which have nearly disappeared from daily Indian life have been preserved.

OLD CHIEF'S DANCE
9 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: UOKLA
Description: A dramatic and sensitive dance presentation from a vanishing culture. Authentic, dignified and stately, as befits the recounting of a chieftain's deeds of valor to set a pattern of courage and achievement for young men of the tribe to follow. Authentic costumes and music make this an authoritative film for the preservation and interpretation of unwritten history.
From the "Plains Indians Culture Series."

ONE SPECIAL DOG
Color 17 min.
Description: An appealing little story of a brother's tamed dog which protects sister Mollie White Horse's lamb and earns a place in this southwestern Navaho family.

PUEBLO BOY
Color 22 min.
Distributor: Ford Motor Co.
Description: The Eagle Dance, Buffalo Dance and Bow and Arrow Dance are featured in this view of pueblo life.

STORY OF THE PEACE PIPE (Ceremonial Pipes)
16 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: UOKLA
Description: The rich symbolism and traditions of the sacred ceremonial pipe are brought out in the sensitive interpretation. Opening with a presentation and discussion of the fine specimen historic and prehistoric pipes from the University of Oklahoma Museum, the white buffalo maiden according to tradition brings the sacred pipe to the altar where the buffalo skull represents the source of food, clothing and shelter. The ceremony is shown.
From the "Plains Indian Culture Series."
TALKING HANDS
20 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: UOKLA
Description: The famous universal sign language of the Plains Indians, so complete and clear that it was possible for members of one tribe to understand other tribes speaking an entirely different language. Clearly explained and demonstrated by Gladys and Reginald Laubin. From the "Plains Indian Culture Series."

UNTouched LAND: PRE-COLUMBIAN, THE Producer: NBC
Distributor: Graphic Curriculum, P.O. Box 565, Lenox Hill Station, N.Y., N.Y., 10021

WAR DANCE
12 min. Color Sound 16mm
Distributor: UOKLA
Description: A demonstration of the "Grass Dance" which was brought long ago by the Sioux from the Omaha Indians. A "Good time dance" of the Grass Dance Society made up of warriors of experience and proven bravery. They had the right to wear the crow-belt, so-called because the keen-scented Crow was the first to reach the battlefield. Different ways of dancing are shown; the slow ritualistic dance of the women, circling the sun-path in their beautiful heavily-beaded costumes contrasted with the spirited, vigorous stepping of the warriors, each following his own individual style.

WAY OF OUR FATHERS, THE
33 min. Color
Distributor: EMC
Description: Members of several Northern California Indian tribes depict unique elements of a way of life as it flourished before the imposition of a foreign culture. The consequences of becoming a conquered and victimized people in one's own land are explored, such as the destruction of self-concepts and the loss of cultural heritage and identity by conventional white-oriented educational programs. Several Native American teachers discuss historical methods of Indian education and ways in which both methods and content might be incorporated in the mainstream of American education to benefit not only Indians but all children.

WINDOW ON THE SKY
28 min. Color Sound 16mm
A Navaho tribesman returns to his home in Arizona to find his wife has been influenced by the Good Shepherd Mission. The Mission hospital cares for his daughter and he begins to understand his wife's faith.
