Nursery School Teachers
Foreward

MATERIALS FOR NURSERY SCHOOL TEACHERS is exactly what its name suggests - a collection of resources. It does not present a program of educational objectives. Nor does it include a discussion of teaching techniques. Instead, MATERIALS FOR NURSERY SCHOOL TEACHERS is prepared as a resource to help teachers implement programs they have already developed. Teachers who seek assistance in such areas as learning about the nature and needs of the pre-school child or how to prepare an effective lesson will need to consult other sources.

FRIENDS

Wind loves
a kite -
To give
It flight
To fling
To whirl
To dip
To curl;
To tease
And toss
And send
Across
Where clouds
Are thinned...
A kite
Loves wind!

WINTER

"Winter," says Father,
"Means shoveling snow
And slipping on ice
While biting winds blow."

"Winter," says Mother,
"Means mittens are lost
And noses are nipped
In shivery frost."

"Winter," says Grandma,
"Is hard when you're old.
Pile on the blankets -
My, but it's cold!"

"Winter," says Junior,
"Is perfect for me!
Snowballs and snowmen
And sleighriding - wheeee!"

WALKING WEATHER

When it rains, I walk along.
I splash through the puddles
And whistle a song.
When the snow falls on the ground,
I like the way my snow boots sound.
On summer days in noonday heat
I walk along with lazy feet.
On windy days I think it's fun
To take a deep breath and
Run, run, run, run, run, run, run.

TOOTHBRUSHES

Our toothbrushes hang in a neat little line.
We can tell one from another.
The blue one is Dad's, the red one is mine,
And the green one belongs to my mother.

SNOWFLAKES

From dark gray clouds
Up in the sky,
Snowflakes fall gently
Down, down, down.
Then the cold, cold wind
Comes whistling by,
And the snowflakes whirl softly
Round, round, round.
See! I can reach
Almost as high
As those dark gray clouds
Up in the sky.
Then like the snowflakes,
Soft and white,
I float to the earth again,
Down, down, down.

HOW WE GO

Frogs jump
Caterpillars hump
Worms wiggle
Bugs jiggie
Rabbits hop
Horses clop
Snakes slide
Sea gulls glide
Mice creep
Deer leap
Puppies bounce
Kittens pounce
Lions stalk
But I walk.

SPRING RAIN

The rain was like a little mouse,
Quiet, small, and gray.
It pattered all around the house,
And then it went away.
I understand it did not come
Indoors at all until
It found an open window, then
Left tracks upon the sill.

THE POPCORN MAN

The popcorn man gave a popcorn ball.
The popcorn cart was the dancing hall.
The popcorn dancers hopped and hopped
And danced until their hats all popped!

A CHICKEN DRINKS

I think when a little chicken drinks,
He takes the water in his bill;
And then he lifts his head way up
So the water can run down hill.

THE ENDLESS JOURNEY

'Round a circle Johnny walked
With his sister Jenny.
They never came to the end
Because there wasn't any.
GALOSHES

Susie's galoshes
Make splishes and splashes
And slooshes and sloshes,
As Susie steps slowly
Along in the slush.

They stamp and they tramp
On the ice and concrete.
They get stuck in the muck
And the sound will repeat:

The slippery slush
Begin slooshing and sloshing
And splishing and sploshing
As Susie goes galoshing along.

THE GOLDFISH

My funny little goldfish
Hasn't any toes.
He swims around without a sound
And bumps his hungry nose.
He can't get out to play with me
Nor I get in with him.
"Come out and play," I often say,
And he - "Come in and swim."

GROWING

I'm taller today,
But nobody knows.
I looked in the mirror
Way up on my toes.
And saw for the first time
A cute little nose.

MY PUSSY

I have a little pussy,
And her coat is silver gray.
She lives down in the meadow,
And she never runs away.
She'll always be a pussy.
She'll never be a cat,
For she's a pussy willow.
Now, what do you think of that?

THE LITTLE ELF

I met a little elf, once.
Down where the lilies blow.
I asked him why he was so small
And why he did not grow.

He slightly frowned, and with his eye
He looked me through and through.
"I'm quite as big for me," said he,
"As you are big for you."

A CAT'S LIFE

Cats prowl at night
And spend mornings basking.
They visit the neighbors
Without even asking.

They climb over fences
And leap over ditches
And ride on long broomsticks
With Halloween witches.

LITTLE SNAIL

I saw a little snail
Come down the garden walk.
He wagged his head this way -- that way--
Like a clown in a circus.
He looked from side to side
As though he were from a different country.
I have always said he carries his house on his back --
To-day in the rain
I saw that it was his umbrella!

Right up through the ground.

And the children say I laugh and play
As you can plainly see.

And may all your Christmasces be white.

Games

CIRCLE GAMES

HOT POTATO
Children sit in a circle and keep the "hot potato" ball rolling by pushing with their hands or feet.

DROP THE BEAN BAG
Children sit in a circle, head on knees, eyes shut. Group counts to ten while one child carrying bean bag walks around outside of the circle. At "10" child drops bean bag in back of nearest child, who picks up bag and chases other child around circle and back to empty place.

BOY IN THE BARN
Children form a circle. Two are selected, one as the boy and another as the owl. The "boy" lies down in center of circle. All sing (to tune of Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star):

A little boy went into the barn
To lie down on some hay.
An owl came out and flew about
And frightened the little boy away.

Dramatize the verse. Repeat with new couples.

NAME BALL
Children stand in a circle, one child in center. Center child says name of any circle child and bounces ball to him. Circle child says center child's name and bounces ball back to center. Center child may have one or several turns.

GO SHOPPING, PLEASE
Children sit in a circle. In center of circle place articles (tools from workbench, plastic fruit, colored wooden shapes, wooden animals, etc.) or magazine pictures. Using a woven basket with a handle, the teacher directs the first shopper: "_______ (child's name), will you please go shopping for a ________ (name of article) at the store?" The designated child takes the basket, goes to center of circle, picks up requested article and puts it in basket. Then the teacher says, "_______ (child's name), please give the basket to _______ (new shopper) and tell him what to get at the store." Repeat until every child has a turn.

OLD MOTHER WITCH
Children form a circle with one child in center. Circle chants:

Old Mother Witch fell in a ditch,
Picked up a penny and thought she was rich.

At the word "rich" children drop hands and are chased by the witch. The first child caught is the new witch.

EXERCISES

SIMON SAYS
If leader does not precede directions with "Simon says," children must not follow the directions.

HEAD, SHOULDERS, KNEES, AND TOES
Children form circle and do exercises in rhythm as they sing this song to tune of Mulberry Bush:

Head, shoulders, knees, and toes,
Head, shoulders, knees, and toes,
Head, shoulders, knees and toes,
We all clap hands together.

The teacher may repeat the song, changing the order.

Make a nest of excelsior on floor large enough for six children to sit in. Use the action rhyme Six Little Chickadees. Each "chickadee" flies to other end of room.

MAGIC WAND
Wave the magic wand (a sparkling wand with a star or lots of flowers and ribbons on the end) over children, and cast a magic spell. "Abracadabra Zibbity Boo, I now make ___ (lions, snakes, leaves, old men, crying babies, etc.) out of all of you." When the teacher holds up her wand and says, "Stop!" the spell is broken.

HOKUM HUNT, A WAITING GAME
The teacher tells the story and directs the motions.

Let's go on a Hokum Hunt.
You'll have to be brave and strong.
Follow me. Let's go. Hurry, hurry.
Open the door.
Shut the door.
Climb this tree.
Swim the big river.
Now, through tall grass.
Look, there's a scary cave.
Let's sneak up to the opening.
It's very dark inside.
Shhhhhhhhhhh.
HOKUM!
Leave the scary cave.
Back through the tall grass. (fast)
Swim fast across the river.
Climb down the tree.
Open the door.
Shut the door.
WHEW! Safe at home.

STATUE
Play the piano or a record while children go through free motions. When the music stops, children must freeze.

NONSENSE GAME
Roll a ball to a child in the group saying the child's name in rhyme:

Roll the ball to Mary,
Who danced like a fairy.

FOLLOW THE LEADER

PIN THE TAIL ON THE DONKEY

MUSICAL CHAIRS
Play without eliminating a child each time. Instead of using music, teacher may say magic words that mean stop.

CHICKEN AND FOX
Chickens are at one end of room, a fox is in the middle, and Mother Hen is at other end of room. Mother Hen calls, "Chickens, chickens, come home to roost." Chickens answer, "Mother, we can't, the fox will catch us." Mother Hen says, "Please come home anyway." Chicks run across room, and those that are caught become foxes.

SLY OLD PUSSY CAT
Divide children into cats and rats. Each cat is given a rat of his own. The cats follow the rats around the room saying:

Here comes a sly old pussy cat,
You'd better watch out, you bad little rat,
For pussy has come out to play.
Now you'd better run away.

At "run away" each cat chases his rat, catches him, and takes him back to starting line.

OLD WOMAN IN THE SHOE
Children sit on floor with backs to wall. The teacher stands, faces children, and says:

I am the old woman who lives in the shoe.
I have so many children I don't know what to do.
Now you stay here and be very good
While I go to the store and buy some food.

The old woman turns, walks away, and pantomimes buying food at the store. Children tiptoe up behind old woman. If she turns and catches some children, they are "out." If the child taps the old woman before she turns, that child becomes the old woman for the next game.

GUESSING GAMES

WHAT'S MISSING?
Use any four or five familiar toys or objects that can be easily handled. Spread them out on floor or table and ask child to name each item. Then ask a child (or whole group) to close eyes. Remove one item. When he opens his eyes, ask him to tell which item is missing. Gradually add more items. Two or three items may be removed at a time.

FEELING BAG
Place various fruits or vegetables in a bag or old pillow case after children have examined items. Then let a child reach into bag and see if he can identify the first item he touches by its feel. When he guesses, he takes item out to see if he is right. The same game can be played with non-food items, too. The game can teach textures such as sticky, slippery, rough, smooth, soft, prickly, etc.

FRAGRANCE BOTTLE OR SNIFFLES BOX
Prepare empty plastic bottles with substances that have interesting smells. Suggestions are cocoa, vanilla, lemon extract, cloves, vinegar, coffee, cinnamon, peppermint extract, etc. Children can learn to identify substances by their smell.
ANIMAL GUESS
Each child takes a turn imitating an animal. The group guesses what animal it is.

BUTTON, BUTTON
A child is selected to leave the room. Teacher gives large button to child in group. Everyone pretends to hide button in his hands. When the child re-enters the room, group says:

Button, button, who has the button?
The child has three guesses.

LOOK AND SEE
Sets of five-inch painted circles with a nail through the center can be used as an instructional guessing game. Place the circles on a perforated board. After children shut eyes, teacher removes one or more circles, and says, "Look and see." Children guess which circle is missing. Some suggested sets:

Animals:
- lion, whale, monkey, zebra, giraffe, alligator
Shapes and colors:
- orange circle, green cross, yellow diamond, red heart, brown square, gold star, blue triangle
Safety:

FAST ARTIST OR CHALK TALK
Teacher uses blackboard and chalk to sketch pictures. Children try to guess what it is as the drawing progresses.

POLICEMAN, POLICEMAN, MY CHILD IS LOST!
A child selected to be policeman leaves the room. Another child is chosen to be 'lost' and leaves. Policeman is called back and group says:

Policeman, policeman, my child is lost!
Who is it?

Looking over the group, the policeman tries to guess who the lost child is.

DOGGIE, DOGGIE, WHERE'S YOUR BONE?
Children sit in circle with hands closed in lap. A child selected as "doggie" leaves room or sits in center of circle and covers eyes. A small block (the bone) is placed in the hands of a child in the circle. All say:

Doggie, doggie, where's your bone?
The doggie returns or uncovers eyes and has three guesses to find his bone.

UNITS

The abundance of activities presented on these pages should provide ample source material for schools with two-year programs if teachers plan together to avoid duplication.

Asterisks indicate aspects of a program more appropriately reserved for specific age groups.
Read Now it's Fall, Fall Is Here, and Follow the Fall (see Books: Seasons). Collect an assortment of leaves (going on a walk, perhaps).

* Talk about the special chemical in leaves that keeps them green. Some trees lose this chlorophyll each year at the same time and the real color of the leaves appears. Other trees stay "ever-green" all year around.

Read All Falling Down (see Books: Science).

Use Falling Leaves and Leaves (see Finger Plays) first using arms and then entire body to swirl down - down - down.

Pantomime raking leaves to "Waltz of the Flowers" from the Nutcracker Suite (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Music). Gather leaves into big pile and let children sit around pile in big circle. Very carefully pantomime lighting the pretend pile, and when fire has died down let each child toast imaginary marshmallows. Observe safety rules even though it's a pantomime game. It is fun if real marshmallows are produced after leaf fire is safely out.

Let each child paste colored leaf on a shirtboard. The leaf represents a skirt or a skirt, and a child may add head, arms and legs.

Make large bulletin board mural. Start with tree outline pinned onto board. Collect big oak leaves and paint them. Mix a little soap into paint to counteract oil in leaves. Tape leaves to branches. Add leaves of red, brown, yellow and orange construction paper that have been snipped out by children. Pin or tape to branches of tree. Make leaf mobile (see Arts and Crafts: Mobiles). Use leaves for collage. Paint leaf with a roller. Press on clean paper.

* Press leaves between wax paper. Iron with warm iron. These can be used for leaf mobile.
* With sponges paint leaf shapes using fall colors along branches of tree outline.
* Place cardboard leaf shapes under typing paper. Rub with sides of crayon.
* Place a pressed leaf vein side up under wrapping paper. Rub any color of crayon across paper until leaf shape appears. Notice star-like points on maple or saw-edge of elms.
* Match leaves, using flannel board. All children with oak leaves put leaves on board beside the oak leaf already pinned there and run to end of room. Repeat with maple, elm, etc.

* For four-year group only.
Wouldn't it be fun to visit a farm in the fall?

Maybe we would see apples in the orchard.

We usually think of apples as red. But they can be yellow and green, too.

How do you suppose the farmer gets the apples from the tree? The farmer and his helpers must handle the fruit carefully. If the apples are bruised, they will spoil while they are stored.

There is another way we can get apples from a tree.

On the farm we see funny-shaped gourds and every size of pumpkins.

On the farm in fall we may see some turkeys.

Do you suppose a wise old owl told that turkey to run?

Perhaps that owl can tell us if Indians are coming. What would the owl say? Maybe we would hear Indian drums.

Show scenes of farmland in autumn.

Show pictures of an apple orchard.

Show several real apples of varying color and shape.

Read Autumn Harvest (see Books: Science).

Sing Two Little Apples (see Songs with Action). Let children select an apple to eat. Make a mural on bulletin board. Start with outline of large apple tree. Children may cut out and pin or tape red, green or yellow apples to branches. Keep mural up for several days and add to it.

Cut up apples and pears for snack time. Let children add these fruit pieces to Jello, using quick-harden recipe, and eat. Make fruit bowl of apples, blueberries, pears and cranberries to show fall fruit. Make cranberry and orange relish. Bottle in baby food jars. The no-cook recipe is on the cranberry package.

Show assortment of gourds and pumpkins. Several gourds may be "dressed" in tissue paper with funny face put on with dry mark. Cut open pumpkin from top. Let children help clean out seeds. Use some seeds for planting. Salt some seeds and bake in moderate oven to eat. Color seeds by soaking in diluted food coloring. Use colored seeds for collage or string them on fine thread for decorations or jewelry.

Make pumpkins out of paper plates. Color them orange and add black features. Sing Pumpkin Man (see Song Sheets). Using orange and yellow construction paper, make pumpkins and gourds of all sizes and shapes and add to mural with apple tree. Twist green construction paper for vines.

Sing Turkey Gobbler (see Song Sheets). Make apple turkeys (see Arts and Crafts: Seasonal Projects). Make turkey prints (see Arts and Crafts: Seasonal Projects). Sing Turkey (see Song Sheets).

Make owl puppets out of paper bags. Read Sam and the Firefly (see Books: Animals).
Look at the buds on this tree branch. They are ready for winter. See the tight covering over the bud? It will keep out winter's cold winds. You may have seen great numbers of birds in the sky. They are flying south where it will be warmer. Some birds do stay for the winter. Their many feathers will keep them warm. Our animal friends grow warm and wooly coats to keep them warm.

Do you suppose that bear was hunting for a cave to sleep in?

Many of our animal friends who eat seeds have to hustle around to find food before winter comes. Seeds and nuts are pretty hard to find when snow covers the ground. So these little fellows get busy and gather food in the fall to store in their hollow log home or underground burrow. Perhaps we can find some seeds and nuts on a walk or bring some from home.

What a difference in size between an acorn and a coconut!

Use record Little Indian Drums (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music with Directions).
Let each child make a drum (see Arts and Crafts: Musical Instruments).
Sing Big Tall Indian (see Song Sheets).
Read Indian Two Feet and His Horse and Dancing Cloud (see Books: Holidays).
Sing Ten Little Indians.
Show children different Indian symbols. Let them choose several and paint them on a sheet. Throw sheet over a tripod for teepee.
Make Indian headdresses (see Arts and Crafts: Seasonal Projects).
Have Indian powwow. Build a pretend fire with blocks (flashlight inside). Have the Indians circle the fire and sit in Indian fashion. Darken the room. Tell Indian story, such as the Indians who chased the big bear up into the sky. The bear remains there to this day as the Big Dipper. Pass a peace pipe around. Each Indian pretends to smoke. End the powwow with an Indian war dance complete with war whoops and lots of drums.

Read All Ready for Winter (see Books: Science).

Use flannel board, felt animal cut-outs and lay-over cut-outs of coats. This procedure can be expanded for fish-scales, bird-feathers, turtle-shell, etc. (Where do they live? Why do they have a particular kind of covering?)
Sing The Bear Went over the Mountain (see Song Sheets).

Read Ready Bear (see Books: Animals).
Make fuzzy bear heads (see Arts and Crafts: Seasonal Projects).
Read Blueberries for Sal (see Books: Stories).
Enjoy The Four Bears (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music with Narration).

Collect acorns, sunflower seeds, hickory nuts and chestnuts. Bring to school assortment of nuts we enjoy eating. Bring in a coconut.
Luckily these seed eaters have very special pockets to collect food. The pockets are extra big and stretchy. One of these lucky animals is the squirrel. He is a busy fellow when fall arrives. He stuffs his pocket cheeks with nuts so fast you can't see his little paws work.

Make a no-cook candy by mixing twelve ounces of grated coconut, one tablespoon sugar, one can of condensed milk and two three ounce packages of strawberry or orange Jello. Shape mixture into balls and roll in colored decorating sugar. Refrigerate leftovers.

Listen to Tale of Squirrel Nutkin (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music with Narration).
Use The Squirrel (see Action Rhymes) and let the pretend squirrels open real nuts to eat!
Use Five Little Squirrels (see Finger Plays).
Nighttime

What is night? What happens to the sun? Why do the moon and stars "come out" at night?

*Darkness comes slowly as our spot on earth turns away from the sun. The stars are suns. During the daylight we cannot see them twinkle because the light from our sun is too bright. In darkness the stars seem to appear suddenly, but their light shines all the time. The moon is almost invisible in the daytime, but we can see it when darkness comes as our sun lights up its surface.

Does the night seem scary?

While we are all sleeping, what happens in the dark?

What makes us feel sleepy? A bedtime story?

A lullaby song or a lullaby from a record relaxes us, too.

Do you ever dream at night?

* Using globe, show group a rotating earth that orbits around our sun, center of our solar system. Using tennis ball, demonstrate the moon orbiting the earth, while the earth rotates and orbits sun. Tape large black spot onto globe at your location and demonstrate sunrise and sunset.

* For four-year group only.

Read Switch on the Night and Bedtime for Francis (see Books: Night).
Read aloud Robert Louis Stevenson's Bed in Summer.

Listen to record Wait til the Moon Is Full (YPR-4504).
Turn off lights in room and "click" a hand cricket while everything is still. Select a child to make night sounds (owl call, train whistle, cat call, car brakes, fog horn, etc.) across room or out in hall while room is dark and quiet.
Read While Susie Sleeps by Nina Schneider.

Read Goodnight Moon (see Books: Night).

Sing Irish Lullaby (see Songs) or play "Stay Awake" from Mary Poppins.

Read Robert Louis Stevenson's The Land of Nod.
Weather

What kind of weather are we having today? Is it sunny? Are there a few clouds? Or is it raining? Maybe a blanket of snow is covering the ground.

Could you finger paint a rainy day picture? What color would you use?
Sometimes when you wake in the morning fog covers your house. It's hard to see the garage out back, your friend's home across the street, and the corner mailbox. The fog is really a cloud that has settled very low on the ground. It comes very quietly, and we are surprised when we find fog hiding everything from sight.

What happens to water when we freeze it? Snowflakes are tiny pieces of ice. Glaciers are huge pieces of ice. What happens if we melt ice cubes or snow? When we heat water in our tea kettles what makes the whistle blow? The vapor from the tea kettle has to be really cold to change into ice crystals or snow. In winter the water vapor in the clouds freezes and snow falls. Aren't we lucky to live in a part of the world where it becomes cold enough to snow?

Make a simple weather chart from heavy cardboard or wood. Divide a square or circle on board into four sections: rainy, sunny and clear, cloudy, and snowy. Pictures representing four kinds of weather may be posted on board, drawn or painted on. A pointer should be attached as indicator. Let children give a daily weather report.

Read Dan, the Weatherman (see Books: Science).
Read Rain Drop Splash, The Storm Book and A Rainbow of My Own (see Books: Science).
Sing Rain, Rain, Ducky Duddle and It's Raining (see Song Sheets).
Also use Teensie, Weensie Spider (see Songs with Action).
Use The Rain, A Rainy Story and Rain (see Finger Plays) and Stormy Weather (see Action Rhymes).
For poems try Spring Rain and Galoshes (see Poetry).

Rainy Day and Teensie Weensie Spider (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music with Directions) are fun to act out.

Decorate pre-cut umbrellas with crayon or paint.

Read The Fog Is Secret and Hide and Seek Fog (see Books: Science).
Play Fog Boat Story (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music with Narration).
Misty Moisty Fog (see Action Rhymes) can be used to act out fog sneaking up while we sleep.

*What happens to water when we freeze it? Snowflakes are tiny pieces of ice. Glaciers are huge pieces of ice. What happens if we melt ice cubes or snow? When we heat water in our tea kettles what makes the whistle blow? The vapor from the tea kettle has to be really cold to change into ice crystals or snow. In winter the water vapor in the clouds freezes and snow falls. Aren't we lucky to live in a part of the world where it becomes cold enough to snow?

*Read Snowflakes (see Poetry).
*Catch snowflakes on dark velvet and examine under magnifying glass.

* For four-year group only.
What are the sounds of winter? Can you hear the wind, a car on the street, snow shovels, ice skates across the ice, the big snow plow, and melting ice?

When we want to plan a picnic, it's nice to know ahead if the weather will be good. There are many special weather instruments that tell us what is happening in the air and what direction the wind will move. We can make our own weather forecasting instruments.

When it will be rainy, snowy or very damp, bunny's tail will be pink. But the weather will be nice when the tail is blue, and you can go on your picnic! We can make an instrument called a barometer to show us if the weather will change.

* Cut out snowflakes (see Arts and Crafts: Seasonal Projects) and paste on dark paper.
* Collect newly fallen snow in paper cup. Let it melt and see how dirty the newly fallen snow really is.
* Put pan of water outside and let it expand while it freezes.

Sing and act out together I'm So Glad It's Snowing (see Song Sheets).
Listen and participate to record Winter Fun (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music with Directions).
Pantomime to "Waltz of the Flowers" from Nutcracker Suite (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Music) ice skating, shoveling, etc.
Read aloud Winter (see Poetry).

Use Five Little Icicles (see Finger Plays).
Read White Snow, Bright Snow, Katy and the Big Snow and A Snowy Day (see Books: Seasons).
Have a snowball fight with balled-up pieces of newspaper.
Dramatize Frosty the Snowman (see Songs with Action).
Make large winter scene on bulletin board.
Paint a mural. Add snowflakes with Q tips dipped in white paint.
Snowmen may be made of cotton and pasted on heavy blue paper.
Whip soapflakes and use to make snowmen on dark blue paper.
A real "Frosty" snowman can be made from a papier mâché form. Use a balloon as a base.
Play Building a Snowman (see Games: Table Games).
Snowman prints are two size circles of cut potatoes dipped into white paint and printed on dark paper.

Have an outline of the shape of a bunny on a shirtboard, one for each child. Each child may glue a large cotton tail on his bunny. The teacher should saturate each cottontail with solution of cobalt chloride.

Fill glass tumbler about three-fourths full with colored water. Hold an aluminum pot pie tin
If we want to know how hot or cold it is outside, we can use an outdoor thermometer.

Take a deep breath of air. Can you let the air out slowly? All plants and animals must have air to live. Can you see the air? Taste it? Smell it?

Can you feel the air come out in a rush? When air moves quickly we have wind.

How else can the party blowers straighten out?

Demonstrate how red line moves up and down in cups of hot and cold water.

Using empty detergent bottle, thread piece of string through squirter top. Knot both ends of string. Squeeze sides of bottle, and string will go in and out. Place your hand over end of bottle.

Blow up balloons and let air come out like a jet. Use party blowers and let children blow them out.

Blow up a balloon. Fasten end over mouthpiece of the party blower and watch the blower straighten out.

Read Gilberto and the Wind, When the Wind Stops and I See the Wind (see Books: Science). Make kites and fly them outside, or before a fan and watch air blow them. Run with them across the room.

Read Friends (see Poetry). Use Pine Tree (see Action Rhymes) and Falling Leaves (see Finger Plays) for action.

Make streamers from ribbons banded to clothes pins; children can dance like wind to Pines of Rome (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music) or The Skaters Waltz (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Music).

My Playmate, the Wind (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music with Directions) can be used for directed activity.

Use straws and blow sailboats across the water table.

Paste, draw or pin a balloon man on bulletin board. Let children cut out different colored balloons, staple strings to balloons and attach them to board.

Read Curious George and Curious George Flies a Kite (see Books: Animals).
Your Senses

Here is a paper bag. What is inside? Can you guess? Can you see what is inside? Can you hear something when I shake the bag? Guess what it is. Now I'll let someone smell at the opening. Mmmmmm. Now I'll let someone feel inside the bag. Do you know what is in the bag yet? Close your eyes. Everyone may take something out of the bag and taste it. Now you know what was inside, but it took all of your five senses to tell you what it was.

Which senses would you use to tell: the stove is hot, the toast is burned, the ball is red, a bell is ringing, the candy's sweet, the rain is falling, supper is ready, the weather is cold, baby is awake and hungry?

SENSE OF HEARING

What do we hear? How are sounds made?

Sounds can be loud and soft. Let's shout "HEY! HEY!" Let's whisper "shhhhh----." Sounds can be sharp and dull.

Sounds can be near and far. Have you ever heard a parade? First it is soft and far away. Then it comes nearer and gets louder. As it passes by, you almost have to hold your ears. Then as it goes away, it gets softer and softer.

Prepare a bag with cookies inside.

Read Now I Know (see Books: Senses). Use the song Put Your Finger in the Air with special words to identify senses (see Songs with Action).

Use The True Book of Sounds We Hear by Ilia Podendorf.

Use a gong, put elastic over a shoe box, or hold throat. Feel the vibrations. Read The Loudest Noise in the World (see Books: Senses).

Make some instruments that make nice noises: shoebox violins (demonstrate uke or guitar), water glasses filled with water to scale (demonstrate xylophone) and bottles to blow across (demonstrate cornet and harmonica).

Let children hear and feel a tuning fork. Make paper cup telephones and feel vibrations on surface of cup as children talk. Select records that have sound effects (see Recordings: Listening to Sound Effects) and play a guessing game.

Voices sing high, then low. Instruments speak high and then low.

Play an instrument loud, then soft. Slap sticks together; then thump fists on table.

Use "Yankee Doodle" from Hi-fi for Children (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Sounds can be heavy and light.

Sounds can rise and fall.

Music.
Pretend to be horses and gallop to drumbeat from one end of room to other. Use a soft beat as horses are far away, louder as horses approach and turn, and softer as they return "home."

Take heavy steps like a giant. Use strong drum beats.
Take light steps like a fairy or elf to the tinkle of tiny finger cymbals or light taps on triangle.

Voices go up scale, then down. Demonstrate with piano or xylophone.

SENSE OF SIGHT

What do your eyes tell you? What color something is? How big? What shape? We can look outside and see if it's a sunny day or a rainy day. We can look at people and see if they are men or boys. We can also look at people and tell how they feel. Are they happy or sad? Sleepy? Worried?

What happens to your face? Your body? Legs and arms? Did you walk a special way? Hide your face. Use your arms and hands and show something round? Something tiny? How about something very long? Using your whole body, pretend to lift something very heavy. We can see you pull and tug. We can see you brace your back. We can see the muscles strain in your arms. We can see your face become tense. We can see how your whole body feels and we can guess you are picking up something heavy.

Let's see you eat something good, have a tummy ache, a pain in the back, rock a baby, balance a ball on your nose, brush your teeth, and thread a needle.

SENSE OF SMELL

What does your nose tell you? Can you tell if what you smell will be good to eat? Is what you smell near or far?

Play Sniffles (see Games: Guessing Games).
SENSE OF TASTE

Some things taste sweet and some sour. Are these cookies sweet? Are the lemon slices sour? We also call some things salty. Lick the salt off the end of the tongue depressor. Do you like things that are salty? What foods do you salt? Some things taste bitter and we say we don't like their taste.

Prepare bits of cookies, lemon slices, salt on ends of tongue depressors.

Let children taste a bit of alum on end of tongue depressor.

SENSE OF TOUCH

Can you feel hard and soft? Hot and cold? Square and round? Wet and dry?

Use the Feeling Box or Feeling Bag (see Games: Guessing Games).

Make a "touch book" from scrapbook of velvet, silk, wool, metals, leather, sandpaper, rubber, plastic and other scraps.

Let group feel softness of thistledown, milkweed seed, goosedown, peacock feathers, gull feathers, owl feathers and turkey feathers. Then touch cactus thorns, devil's thorn, hawthorne and locust needles for a prickly feel.

Handle shells for rough-smooth contrast. Use conch, scallop, snail, welk, cockle and clam shells.

Sand dollars should be felt with eyes closed to feel pattern.

Feel crab and lobster claws.

Keep collection of stones and rocks of varying textures and weights.

Use fossils to sense patterns.

Let fine beach sand trickle through fingers. Beach stones can illustrate "smooth.") Bark from oak or black walnut tree can illustrate "rough."
Colors

Blue, blue. The sky is blue. Here is the blue paint we use at our easel. Here is the blue paper we cut and paste. Here is a blue car. Janie has blue eyes. John wore blue socks to school today. What else do you see that is the color we call blue?

What colors do you see in the rainbow?

* Our senses play tricks on us when we see and touch colors. Red seems hot, orange and yellow are warm, green is cool, and blue is cold.
* Orange and yellow also seem dry, and blue seems wet. When we look at food, we often decide whether it will taste good or not by its color. Pink, peach and pale green make us think of a sweet taste. Bright red, soft yellow, and clear green foods look good to eat. Gray, olive-green and purple foods do not look so tasty.
* The music we hear often makes us think of colors, too.

* What colors would you choose to paint that story? Now let's listen to a lullaby.

* Choose the colors the music makes you think of and paint with them.

Using nine basic colors (red, orange, yellow, green, blue, purple, brown, black and white), repeat the same sequence. Sing the Color Game (see Songs) and play it together.

Make a color wheel from a five-inch circle of white cardboard which has been sectioned into six wedges and colored in order, red, orange, yellow, green, blue, and purple. Punch hole in center of color wheel and thread double string through hole. By spinning wheel rapidly, colors will appear white, showing that white is a blend of the six colors.

Make a rainbow. Use shallow pan of water and place pocket mirror in water. Tilt pan into light until rainbow shows on ceiling. The light beam is broken (refracted) into its component parts.

* Place large sheets of colored paper of different colors on floor. Attach similar colors of ribbons or scarf to a child's wrist. First each child is to find his matching color. Then he may move to different color as he thinks of something that would be that color (yellow: sun, flowers, butter; blue: sky, water, ink).

Small groups may play Color and Shape Bingo (see Games: Table Games). The group can play Look and See (see Games: Guessing Games) for color and shape identification.

Go Shopping, Please (see Games: Circle Games) can be adapted as children go shopping for required colored items at "store" center.

* Listen to Firebird Suite (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music).

* Play selection from Golden Slumber Lullabies (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Music and Lyrics).
Shapes

Let's all hold hands and make a big circle. Can we make the circle move? First let's go to the right, then to the left. If we move to the center of our circle, we make our circle smaller. When we back up, our circle gets bigger.

Now let's make a line. How straight can it be? All the things we see in the world show us lines, circles, and parts of circles. Even our body has lines, circles, and parts of circles.

Make a circle with your arms. Now straighten your arms to make lines. Make your back round like part of a circle. Then stand with a straight-line back. Point your toes and fingers into lines. If we put circles and lines together, we get many different shapes.

This shape is a box or rectangle.

Our legs have formed a triangle.

Now we have made a cross.

* Let's walk some shapes on the floor. Who can walk a box shape? Don't forget to make straight lines. How many corners does your box have?
Now walk a circle.
Now a heart shape.
How about a triangle?
Then a diamond shape.
Who can make a star?
And now we need two people to make a cross.
Some music makes you want to move in lines.

* Let's make rectangles, squares, diamonds and triangles as we march to the music.
Some music makes you want to move in circles or parts of circles.

* We can twist, twirl and wind as we move in circles.

* What shapes do we see as we go on a walk? The tree trunks are straight, but the branches are parts of circles, or arcs. Flower stems can be straight or arcs. Grass is straight until it gets long and droops in an arc. Houses are many straight lines. Sidewalks and streets, too. But look at the cars and trucks as they go by! The wheels are fine circles; the fenders are arcs. Lines and circles are everywhere.

* For four-year group only.

Bend forward at hip bones so straight back is parallel with floor.

Sit with legs extended straight in front. Bend at knees.

Stand straight with arms extended horizontally.

Use finger play A Drawing Game (see Finger Plays).
Read Shapes, A Kiss Is Round, Are You Square?, and Square as a House (see Books: Senses).
Use the poem Corners (see Poetry).
Play Look and See (see Games: Guessing Games) and Color and Shapes (see Games: Table Games).

* Use John Philip Sousa Marches (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Music).

* Play "Waltz of the Flowers" from The Nutcracker Suite or The Skaters Waltz (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Music).

* In small groups, play game of Shapes (see Games: Table Games) for shape identification.
Movement

Sometimes we move just one small part of our bodies. Sometimes we move every part.

Let’s try a head dance to the music. Move your head from side to side, up and down, and in circles clockwise and counter-clockwise. Shake your head back and forth. Nod slowly and then quickly.

How about a nose dance?
Let’s dance our eyes and then our tongues.
Who can dance just his ears?
Then bunch shoulders forward, back, up, down, around and around.

It is fun to move around on the floor. Let’s run high across the floor and fall. Then we can start crouched down and be very low, get higher and higher, as high as we can be when we’re half way across the floor, and then start back down and end in a crouch at the other end of the room.
Can you move forward? Backward? Side to side?

Now let’s skip and skip and skip and stop... skip and skip and skip and stop. Let’s do it all around the room.
Now run, run, leap... run, run, run, leap.
(Repeat the pattern.)
JUMP UP! Slowly sink to the floor.
JUMP UP! Slowly sink to the floor.
(Repeat the pattern.)
Walk slow and heavy with big steps, then quickly and lightly with small steps. (Repeat the pattern.)
Start small on the floor, grow and grow and grow and fall down. (Repeat the pattern.)

*Sometimes music tells us what to do. There are no words, but we can hear the beat, the loud and the soft, the big bang, and the flowing, swaying melody.

*Sometimes music and words show us how to move.

*Sometimes words tell us how to act. Can you be a dripping faucet? How would you be coffee perking? A dog’s tail wagging? Toast popping up from the toaster? A tube of toothpaste?
Let’s use Mother Goose rhymes and do what they tell us to do.

Use Harry Belafonte’s Calypso record (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Music and Lyrics).

Continue with elbows, wrists, thumbs, fingers, waist, hips, knees, toes. Use recording A Visit to My Little Friend (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music with Directions).

Change tempo. Walk forward fast; walk slowly to the door.
Change step and direction. Skip forward; walk backward.
Change levels. Walk forward on tiptoe; walk backward very low with knees bent.

*Use selection of records for interpretation (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Music).
*Paint or finger-paint to music.
*Use Sunday in the Park or Rhythm is Fun (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Verbal Directions).

*Use "Jack Be Nimble," "Jack and the Beanstalk," "Hickory, Dickory Dock," "Ride-a-Cock-Horse" and "The Queen of Hearts." Use all the group or just part. Recite poem together or sing together.
Electricity

Have you ever counted all the wires that go into your house? Inside the walls of your house are even more wires. They bring electricity into your home. You can’t see the electricity, but it does a lot of work for you.

Electricity can come to us in other ways. Batteries make electricity, and we use them to run toys, portable radios, flashlights, even our doorbells.

One of the wires coming into your home is your telephone line. Electricity carries your voice along the wire to your friend on the other end of the line. We can show how the electricity moves across the telephone wire by making our own telephones.

Magnets can also produce electricity.

If we had to do the work electricity does for us, we’d be pretty tired. What if you had to turn a handle around and around to make the record move on your record player? My, how tired your arms would get! Have you ever used an egg beater to mix a cake batter? Didn’t your arms get weary? Mother uses the electric beater and doesn’t get so tired.

Years ago sewing machines had to be pedaled to run. How tired your legs got with all that work! Now your mother has a pedal to press that switches on electricity that does the work of sewing. Motors on bikes save us from pushing the pedals, too. Electricity does the work instead of your legs.

There are even electric machines that do the work for our brain. They think for us. They are called electric computers. We can make a computer to see how it works, but we’ll have to supply our own energy to run it.

We are doing the work instead of electricity. Wouldn’t it be fun to have an electric computer do our work instead?

Read I Know a Magic House and The Night the Lights Went Out (see Books: Science).

Using a 1 1/2 volt heavy duty dry cell battery, let children take turns wiring up a doorbell.

Use two paper cups, two medium-size nails, and a long piece of cord. Poke hole in bottom of each paper cup. Thread string through holes. On bottom side of cup tie string end onto nail. Stretch cups wide apart until string is taut. Let each child take turns talking and listening into cups. Feel bottom of cup vibrate from voice.

Use bar magnet and copper wire to move a compass needle. Wrap copper wire around bar and move magnet back and forth inside copper coil, and electric current will move compass needle.

Read Mickey’s Magnet (see Books: Science).

Let children saw thirty pieces of heavy cardboard roll eight inches in length. Paint ten rolls red, ten rolls yellow and ten rolls green. String color sets onto three lengthy ropes strung between posts as an abacus. Working from left to right, use the computer to count and compute simple addition and subtraction problems.
Transportation

How Things Go

You can hop, skip and jump when you want to get someplace. What about our animal friends?

Bugs "jiggle," but some fly.

Some of the insects crawled and some flew.

Did you know that plants travel, too? When the wind blows, the plants not only sway, back and forth, but they go places!

Machines go, too.

Some machines go on batteries, some on electric current, some on electric motors and some on water, oil or steam.

All of us can be chugging steam engines.

Can you make a noise like the electric hair clipper in the barber shop? Or a noise like a hair dryer?

Machines certainly "go" with different sounds — some loud, some soft, some fast, some slow.

Read How Do I Go? (see Books: Science).

Use poem How We Go (see Poetry).

Bring in rabbit, frog, worms, caterpillar, etc.

Have children be the various things in the poem.

Use record Little Grey Ponies (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music with Directions).

Play Magic Wand (see Games: Group Games) and Animal Guess (see Games: Guessing Games).

Read Fast Is Not a Ladybug and Lady Bird, Quickly (see Books: Science).

Read Travelers All (see Books: Science).

Use finger play Baby Seeds (see Finger Plays) and act out.

Using collection of milkweed, thistledown, dandelion seed, etc., let children blow like the wind and send seeds off on a trip.

Use The Clock (see Action Rhymes) and swing together.

Sing The Clock (see Songs).

Read Plunkity, Plunk (see Books: Science).

Sing Puffer Bellies (see Songs).
Things may move on the land by car, train, bus, truck, taxicab, motorcycle, elevated train, subway, carriage, streetcar, motor scooter, bicycle, wagon and pipeline. On water things move by boat. Freighters, barges, steamers, ocean liners, ferries, even canoes all move things. Pipelines may go under water, too. What else goes under water?

In the air things go by jet, helicopter and rocket. Some animals are used to move things. Horses, donkeys, camels, elephants and dogs are used as helpers.

From Here to There

Read How Do You Get from Here to There? (see Books: Science). Use flannel board, blackboard, bulletin board or posters to show modes of transportation.

Read The Giant Nursery Book of Things That Go (see Books: Science) and ABC of Cars and Trucks (see Books: Rhymes and Poetry).

Take a walk to observe different kinds of cars and trucks.

Make a train out of large cartons. Use oatmeal cartons for smoke stack and headlights. Paper plates may be used for wheels.

Use Little Train (see Finger Plays).

Sing Puffer-Bellies (see Song Sheets).

Make a never-ending train track with parallel broomstick pieces. Roll blocks over track.

Make a fire engine from refrigerator carton (lying lengthwise). Have group paint it red. Cut a door. Use garden hose pieces for fire hoses and tin can on rope for bell. Place chairs inside and seat a driver behind steering wheel on a base.

Use record Let's Be Firemen (see Recordings: Imagining and Dramatizing a Story from Music with Directions).

Shapes of cars can be drawn on sides of folded cardboard. Children can push a selected car or truck down block streets, into garages, etc. Paste shapes of cars and trucks on paper. Then print wheels, using spools.

Sing and act out The People on the Bus (see Song Sheets) and The Windows of the Car (see Songs with Action).

Make a paper glider by folding a rectangle of paper in half, turning down the corners and folding sides in half.

Use Airplane (see Finger Plays).

Make airplanes of clothespins and tongue depressors. Paint them and add stars on wings.

* For four-year group only.
Use woodworking table to make boats, airplanes, cars, etc. Use spools or bottle caps for wheels. Paint finished product.

Oleo. tubs make fine sailboats. The lids may be used as sails.

Make boats out of walnut halves. A toothpick stuck in clay is the mast. Add paper sail. Float boats in the water table and direct them by blowing against sails through a straw.

Sing Sailing, Sailing (see Songs) and Row, Row, Row Your Boat (see Songs with Action). Read Sailboat (see Poetry).

Make spaceship from empty carton for hot water heater. Paint, if desired. Children can make control panel to tape on inside. Pop bottle caps make good movable buttons. Place chair inside for astronaut. A manually operated timer can be placed inside the capsule for authentic sound effects.

Read You Will Go to the Moon and The Earth Is Your Spaceship (see Books: Science).

Individual rockets can be made from rolls that come inside carpeting (three inches in diameter). Cut tubing into eight-inch lengths. Glue circle to bottom. For nose cone use refills for reusable coffee cups (three inches in diameter). Hinge them to rocket shell with tape. Roll piece of foil around shell and paint or spray-paint nose cone. Add American flag seals to rocket sides.

Read Walking Weather (see Poetry).

We can walk to go places.

Let's all act out the story, and at the very last line let's let the wind push us wherever it wants us to go.
Health

When you "feel great," people say you are healthy. There are many things we do to keep healthy. We need to eat good food, exercise, get enough sleep and wear clothes that suit the weather. A regular visit to your doctor and dentist will keep you feeling good. Keeping clean will help, too.

We have a snack at school. It gives us energy.

What special foods do you feed your pets to keep them healthy? Your dog and cat? Your turtle and fish? Your rabbit? Even plants need special foods to keep them healthy. Haven't you seen someone putting fertilizer on grass?

There are lots of ways to get exercise. Just running, walking and jumping keeps us healthy. But there are lots of exercises we can do to make our muscles strong and keep us limber.

Exercises can be done to music for more fun.

At night when we are tired and have used up our energy we need to sleep. The house is quiet and so is the outdoors. We can relax and let our bodies rest. After we take a bath, brush our teeth and get into our pajamas, we can lie in bed and maybe someone will read us a story before we fall asleep.

Sometimes we are tired during the day. Then we need to find a quiet spot and rest. Soon we'll have our energy back and we'll feel "just great" again.

Use posters made from magazine cut-outs to show classes of good foods. Include milk and milk products, lean meat, fish, poultry, eggs, fresh fruits, vegetables, breads and cereals. Children may want to help select pictures to put on the posters.

Plastic fruit and vegetables can be used for identification game.

Let children make snacks. They can clean celery, scrape carrots, decorate tops of crackers with bits of cheese or squirt cheese (from pressure can) in patterns on crackers. Let them make cinnamon toast, instant pudding, toaster waffles, toaster tarts and any kind of no-bake cookies. They can take pineapple wedges from the can, put toothpicks in them and serve. The same can be done with pickles, olives and assorted cold meats. Don't forget dips. They are fun to make and to taste.

Use the exercises (see Games: Exercises) often, especially when weather prevents outdoor play.

Use songs with action to loosen up, too.

Sing Are You Sleeping? and act out.

Use group of posters with scenes of children, babies and animals asleep.

Play lullaby music from Golden Slumber Lullabies (see Recordings: Dramatizing Rhythms through Music and Lyrics).
When we want to choose clothes to suit the weather, we have to find out what the weather is like. The outdoor thermometer will tell us how hot or cold it is. Our eyes and ears will tell us if it's sunny, snowy or rainy.

Our doctor and dentist keep us healthy, too. The doctor checks us regularly and gives us shots so we won't get certain illnesses. Our dentist keeps our teeth sparkling and free from tooth decay. We have to help, though, by eating good foods and brushing right after eating.

Sometimes we do get sick even though we have followed all the ways to keep healthy. What should we do when we don't feel well?

Use felt board and a "weather boy" to help select clothing. An undressed boy, clothing and weather signs can be cut from felt. Children can take turns placing weather signs (sun, raindrops, clouds, snowflakes, leaves and flowers) on board. Then they can dress boy accordingly (undershirt, long sleeved shirt, leggings, boots, hat, gloves, umbrella, etc.).

Then they can dress boy accordingly (undershirt, long sleeved shirt, leggings, boots, hat, gloves, umbrella, etc.).

Use poem Toothbrushes (see Poetry). Let each child make red, green or blue toothbrush and hold up the right color as poem is read.

Using pantomime, let one child pretend to be sick. The teacher can demonstrate keeping child quiet, taking temperature, calling doctor for advice, giving lots of water and liquids, keeping tissues nearby to catch sneezes, and giving medicine. Children may take turns being sick, but an adult should always treat the patient.
Safety

What does "safe" mean? There are things in our house that aren’t safe. We have to be careful about them. Can you think of some?

There are things outdoors that are not safe. Let’s name some.

We have rules for the street. What are they?

Use a series of posters with selected magazine cut-outs to show: PUT TOYS AWAY, KEEP AWAY FROM HOT THINGS, DON’ TOUCH MATCHES, NEVER TAKE ANYTHING WITHOUT ASKING, DON’T HANDLE THINGS THAT ARE SHARP and WALK, DON’T RUN UP AND DOWN THE STAIRS.

Again, make posters: DON’T PLAY WITH KNIVES OR POINTED STICKS, NEVER PUT ROPE AROUND THE HEAD OR NECK, WATCH OUT FOR SWINGS, BE CAREFUL ON SLIDES, DON’T USE BOWS AND ARROWS and DON’T POINT GUNS AT PEOPLE.

Posters: CROSS ONLY AT CORNERS, NEVER RUN INTO THE STREET, DON’T PLAY NEAR OR IN THE STREET, HAVE AN ADULT HELP YOU CROSS THE STREET and NEVER RIDE WITH STRANGERS.

Use Stop, Look and Listen (see Finger Plays). AAA will supply safety posters that express many of the street safety rules. Local safety officer should be scheduled to visit school.

Use Frank Luther’s Songs of Safety (see Recordings: Singing).

Read cartoon book Safety Can Be Fun (see Books: Safety).

*Introduce traffic light. Read Red Light, Green Light (see Books: Safety).

* Play game of traffic light. Teacher directs traffic, using a green circle for "GO," red circle for "STOP." Children proceed according to signal.

*Sing Twinkle, Twinkle Traffic Light (see Songs with Action) and dramatize.

* Play Look and See game with the safety set (see Games: Guessing Games).

*Children may make traffic signals of black paper; red, yellow and green circles.

*Use safety rhyme:

  Waiting and waiting
  For now the light is red,
  Start the car, here we go,
  Green light overhead.

*Learn safety slogan:

  STOP at the curb
  LOOK both ways
  WAIT until it’s safe
  WALK across the street.

*Set up blocks and use as curbs. Assign one child as traffic light. Let children practice crossing street one at a time. All may help by repeating safety slogan as a child stops at corner.

*Let children use puppets and enact safety rules.

Practice fire drills regularly. Be sure that all assisting personnel as well as children know the signal and procedure to follow.*

Do you know what a fire drill is? It is important that we know what the signal sounds like and exactly what to do when we hear the fire signal.

*For four-year group only.
How do you know you are growing? Did anyone ever measure you to see how tall you are? Did you ever weigh yourself to see how heavy you are? If you were measured and weighed and then waited many days and then were measured and weighed again, it would show you how much you had grown. Let's do that at school and keep a chart to show how much we have grown.

If we could visit a zoo, we might see some baby animals.

Plants grow even faster than animals and they are also exciting to watch.

What care must we give to plants so they will grow?

There are other ways to watch plants grow.

Read When You Were a Little Baby, The Growing Story and All about Eggs and How They Change into Animals (see Books: Science).

Let children cut out magazine pictures of babies, children and adults. Have them paste the pictures in sequence on shirtboards. Use poem Growing (see Poetry) and set out in front of mirror on wall.

Read Animal Babies by Ylla and Baby Farm Animals by Garth Williams. Use felt board and display baby and adult animals on a farm and at a zoo. Read Zoo Babies by William Bridges.

Bring in puppies, kittens or bunnies for very short visit. Let children discover how well these babies get around compared with human babies at same age.

Use "Punch 'n Gro" flats of marigolds and zinnias. Let children follow the directions. Plants will appear within two or three days and can be readily observed. Examine variety of seeds from packets. Include both flower and vegetable seeds. Show popcorn seed and pop some. Use The Popcorn Man (see Poetry). Use variety of seeds for collage.

Pantomime planting seeds. One child plants "seeds" by pushing each child down into the ground. Another child is rain and pantomimes sprinkling the seeds. Finally, a child as sun forms arms into circle and shines and shines. The "seeds" stretch their arms slowly, slowly. Then child who planted the seeds picks a bouquet. Use My Garden and Growing Things (see Finger Plays).

Sing Planting the Seeds (see Songs with Action). Use The Little Plant and My Garden (see Action Rhymes). Use record Carrot Seed (see Recordings: Singing and Dramatizing).

Cut off tops of carrots and keep in shallow pan of water. Tops will soon sprout. Start sweet potato vine by selecting small potato with many eyes. Use jar with opening large enough for root end of potato to rest in water. It takes about five weeks for potato to sprout. Keep a sponge wet in shallow pan. Sprinkle bird seed or grass seed on it and watch it grow.

Plant several narcissus bulbs in heavy foil dish. To watch roots as well as sprouts develop, use plastic bags for viewing. Let each child make a viewing bag to take home. To a folded paper towel tape several varieties of seeds. Insert towel into plastic sandwich bag so that seeds are flat and on display. Pour water to about one-fourth inch into bag and tape bag flat to window.

Fast-growing seeds: four o'clocks, corn, turnips, radishes, beans, morning glory, melon, marigolds, tomatoes, peas.
Slow-growing seeds: carrots, beets, lettuce, snap dragones, grapefruit, oranges.

Let children observe how plants "drink" water by setting a piece of celery cut lengthwise in water colored with food coloring.

Read My Garden Grows, Carrot Seed, The Plant Sitter and Green Is for Growing (see Books: Science).
Show children moss, lichen, mold, ferns and flowering plants.

Work together on large bulletin board mural of flower garden. Use seed catalogs or artificial flowers (see Arts and Crafts: Seasonal Projects). Add to mural each day. Real galls, cocoons, seed pods, paper butterflies, paper bugs and paper birds can be included in scene. Introduce children to the mystery of a chemical garden (see Recipes). Watch a piece of charcoal "grow."
Some plants begin to sprout very early in the spring. Sometimes snow is still on the ground when the buds on the pussy willows begin to open. All the world seems to come alive at springtime. Not only plants begin to pop up out of the ground, but animals, insects, birds, fish and reptiles start to show themselves. They must be glad that the cold days are over.

If you turn over the ground in the spring, you'll probably find lots of worms busily crawling through the dirt loosening it up so that water can reach the roots of plants. Worms are very busy little fellows.

Read The Happy Day, Spring Is Here and The Nicest Time of the Year (see Books: Seasons).

Pass around a pussy willow branch and let each child touch and stroke opened buds. Together learn poem My Pussy (see Poetry). Draw black branches on green paper. Let each child make finger-prints with white paint along the branches. Pantomime raking, spraying, grass sowing, hoeing and digging.

Bring a turtle to school for a while. Let children prepare a place for it to stay. Turtles like raw hamburger and a bit of lettuce. Read Timothy Turtle by Davis and Timothy Turtle by Graham (see Books: Animals). Make turtles (see Arts and Crafts: Seasonal Projects). Use The Little Turtle (see Finger Plays).

Bring in a snake. Let children handle it gently. Let them take care of it for several days. The snake also eats raw hamburger. Compare movement of turtle and snake.

Grow grass in fair-sized flat. Using plastic barn and plastic farm animals, let children set up barnyard. Fences can be made from toothpicks. A plastic lid can be placed in the sod for duck pond. Farm animals can be made from spools with toothpick legs, pipe cleaner tails and paper head, all pasted onto the spools. Use records Train to the Farm (see Recordings: Singing and Dramatizing) and In a Barnyard (see Recordings: Listening to Sound Effects). Read The Little Farm and Wake Up Farm (see Books: Science).

All sing together, with children selecting animals, Old MacDonald Had a Farm.

Bring a goldfish to school. Let children prepare aquarium or fish bowl. Rocks can be picked out, a bit of sand added and some plants included. Let each child have turn giving the fish food. Read Leon Lionni's Swimmy.

Play the game Fish (see Games: Table Games). Add frog eggs to aquarium. Change water often and watch eggs hatch, become tadpoles (polly-wogs) and then frogs. Tadpoles eat hard-boiled egg yolk, finely crumbled.

Buy land snails. Place in jar or aquarium with dirt and some crisp lettuce. They can last over weekends without care.
What does he feel like? How does he move around? Does he make noise? What does he eat?

Where do rabbits live? If the rabbit is a pet, it would probably live in a cage. If the rabbit is free, where do you suppose it would live?

Read Inch by Inch by Leo Lionni.

Play Creepy Crawly Caterpillar (see Recordings: Imagining or Dramatizing a Story from Music with Directions).

Act out Fuzzy Wuzzy Caterpillar (see Action Rhymes).

Read Creepy Caterpillar (see Books: Science).

Make caterpillars (see Arts and Crafts: Seasonal Projects).

Collect some caterpillars. Use an insect book and be sure to locate the larva that will become butterflies. Keep them in a jar with a few leaves and twigs until each forms a chrysalis. The monarch caterpillar forms a particularly spectacular pupa. It is pale green with golden dots. The swallowtail caterpillar's pupa is quite ugly. It looks like a stick. The length of time in the pupal stage varies, but often a butterfly will emerge within ten days. Release the butterflies as soon as possible.
