The course is directed to manual or machine shorthand students to aid in the further development of the ability to construct outlines under stress of dictation at 80 to 100 words a minute; to increase the student's ability in spelling, punctuation, and using proper grammar. Course content includes: (1) speedbuilding techniques, (2) drills, (3) typing practice, (4) transcription development, and (5) transcription drills. Procedures, strategies, and learning activities are suggested and evaluative instruments described. Resources for students and teachers are presented in detail. An appendix includes suggested test items. (MW)

I. COURSE TITLE—SHORTHAND SPEEDBUILDING

II. COURSE NUMBER—7707.11 (New: 7750.11)

III. COURSE DESCRIPTION

A. Synopsis
   For manual or machine shorthand students to develop further the ability to construct outlines under stress of dictation at 80-100 words a minute; to increase the student's ability in spelling, punctuation, and using proper grammar.

B. Textbook
   The textbook should be the one usually used in the first half of the first semester of second-year shorthand.

C. Occupational Relationships
   Secretary
   Stenographer
   Clerk, general office
   Executive secretary
   Law clerk
   Technical secretary
   Conference recorder
   Public stenographer
   Legal secretary
   Medical secretary

IV. COURSE ENROLLMENT GUIDELINES

A. Prior Experiences Needed
   The student should have attained the objectives of Shorthand
   Basic Transcription prior to enrollment in this course.

B. Pretest
   The pretest can be used as a diagnostic device to determine individual deficiencies in shorthand writing, typing, and in the ability to punctuate, spell, capitalize, and structure sentences and paragraphs. Students will receive individually prescribed assignments to increase their skills. If the pretest includes all of the objectives of this course, and a student can show he has attained them, he should be permitted to enroll in Shorthand Transcription.

V. COURSE OF STUDY PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to—

1. take dictation from unpreviewed material (1.4 syllabic intensity) at a minimum speed of 60 words a minute for 3 minutes and transcribe on a typewriter with 95 percent accuracy;

2. take dictation from previewed material (1.4 syllabic intensity) at a minimum speed of 70 words a minute for 3 minutes and transcribe on a typewriter with 95 percent accuracy;

3. transcribe one manuscript from a shorthand plate (1.4 syllabic intensity), correcting all errors, at the minimum rate of 20 words a minute;
V. COURSE OF STUDY PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES, Continued

4. supply correct punctuation in transcribing material of approximately 300 words with 80 percent accuracy; and

5. transcribe a business letter using one of the basic letter styles and one of the basic types of punctuation, estimating transcription space required in the first draft.

VI. COURSE CONTENT

A. Equipment and Supplies—Same as Shorthand Theory (Introductory) and/or Introduction to Machine Shorthand Theory

B. Speedbuilding Techniques
   1. Teacher-dictation in class
   2. Individualized dictation from tapes—some correlated with lessons; the majority for extra practice
   3. Extra dictation from records—may be used at home for additional practice
   4. Extra practice from outside sources—television, radio, etc.
   5. Office-style dictation

C. Drills (Review)
   1. End-of-sentence punctuation
   2. Commas
   3. Semicolons and colons
   4. Dashes, quotation marks, and hyphens
   5. Numbers and similar words
   6. Spelling and correct syllabication
   7. Word division

D. Typing Practice (Review)
   1. Letter styles and placement
   2. Speed development on straight copy and shorthand notes
   3. Correct placement of addresses, closing lines
   4. Development of skill in correct paragraphing
   5. Carbon paper drills
   6. Correct typing of envelopes and placement of special notations on envelopes
   7. Careful proofreading and correction of errors
   8. Realignment
   9. Crowding vertically and horizontally
   10. Spreading vertically and horizontally

E. Transcription Development (Review)
   1. Transcribe in logical thought units
   2. Use of resources for verification and spelling
   3. Correct placement of notebook and supplies
   4. Correct procedure in handling shorthand notebook and finished transcripts
   5. Procedures to be followed in handling special instructions, dictation changes, and missing words
VI. COURSE CONTENT, Continued

F. Transcription Drills
1. Type from shorthand plates for three to five minutes, keeping the carriage moving
2. Type from direct dictation for three to five minutes; retyp the same material from redicitation
3. Type from the student's shorthand notes for two to five minutes, striving for 100 percent accuracy (dictation given should have been within the reach of the student)
4. Type short business letters from students' shorthand notes of new-matter dictation of average difficulty
5. Type medium business letters from students' shorthand notes of new-matter dictation of average difficulty
6. Compare typing rates on five-minute timed writings from straight copy material with the typing rate on a five-minute timed writing from material in shorthand—both of average difficulty
7. Use speed drills in typing from shorthand (similar to "call-the-throw" drills used in typing)

VII. SUGGESTED PROCEDURES, STRATEGIES, AND LEARNING ACTIVITIES

A. Suggested Teaching Methods

Speedbuilding in shorthand results from persistent drill at speeds slightly faster than the student can write, with frequent decreases in speed to give the student opportunities for success. Few, if any, students take dictation at the same rate with ease. To establish the best possible program for all students, therefore, the teacher needs to plan carefully his instructional strategies.

In speedbuilding, emphasis should be placed on dictation of practiced and new material with previews. Use of county-prepared, commercially-prepared, or teacher-prepared audio materials of this nature should comprise the major portion of the classroom instruction. Three or more rates of speed on different lessons should be used simultaneously. The teacher may counsel individual students while other students are using recorded materials. The remainder of class time may be spent in building transcription skills, taking performance tests, and/or drilling on punctuation, spelling, and sentence structure.

B. Methods of Building Speed Through Dictation

Descriptions of the following methods may be found in Business Education World and Methods of Teaching Shorthand. See the "Resources for Teachers" for specific information on these references.

1. One-minute speed builder
2. 3 x 4 speed building plan
3. Inverted-pyramid speed building plan (or stair-step plan)
VII. SUGGESTED PROCEDURES, STRATEGIES, AND LEARNING ACTIVITIES, Continued

4. Progressive plan
5. Spurt dictation

C. Warmup Dictation

Students are to begin taking dictation from tapes as soon as the bell sounds. The teacher can use this time to check homework and take attendance.

D. Homework

The writing of practice material is extremely important. Repetition of plate materials should be supplemented by writing the sounds of spoken words heard on the radio, on television, or during class lectures. Homework may receive checks for completed pages, but it is recommended that it not be graded.

E. Suggested Typing-Related Activities

1. One-minute drills from straight copy to build speed and accuracy
2. Five- and ten-minute timed writings to measure speed and accuracy and to build sustained productivity
3. "Throw-the-carriage" drills typed from either straight copy or shorthand copy to build speed
4. Letters typed from shorthand plates and/or from students’ notes timed to determine transcription rates
5. Proofreading exercises
6. Direct dictation to students at the typewriter

F. Suggested Spelling-Related Activities

1. The teacher writes the spelling word in shorthand on the board (Gregg, Stenograph, and perhaps Stenoscript). Students type the word in English five times on their papers. The students should be encouraged to refer to a dictionary or word book if they have any doubt about the correct spelling of the word in question.
2. The teacher writes five words frequently misspelled on the board. Students type the word correctly five times and then use it in one sentence correctly.

G. Suggested Language Arts-Related Activities

1. Dictation "loaded" with one or two rules of punctuation that students must insert correctly, giving the correct reason for the punctuation
2. Exercises to help students read for meaning
3. Exercises to develop students' ability to improve and correct sentence structure
4. Constant review of previous punctuation rules whenever new rules are presented
VII. SUGGESTED PROCEDURES, STRATEGIES, AND LEARNING ACTIVITIES, Continued

5. Exercises to develop students' ability to divide words correctly

H. Suggested Transcription Activities

1. Transcription error charts to help students detect their specific areas of difficulty
2. Reference to dictionaries and word books for correct syllabication and spelling
3. Frequent reviews and use of multiple carbon packs
4. Drills for 100 percent accuracy on practiced materials
5. Erasing drills on original and carbon copies—demonstrate to students different methods for different situations
6. Frequent reviews of various letter styles
7. Frequent reviews of special notations and typing of envelopes
8. Frequent reviews of correct folding of letters for different size envelopes

I. Suggested Special Activities

1. Posting achievement—Progress charts could be posted on bulletin boards to indicate students' achievements in shorthand and/or typing
2. Spelling bee—Students are given a list of spelling words frequently used in business correspondence. After study at home, divide the class into two sides. Call out the word; a student is then requested to spell it aloud. If the word is correctly spelled, the student remains standing. If the word is incorrectly spelled, the student must sit down. The best speller in the class may act as judge. "Winners" are those left standing at the end of the allotted time. (The teacher may give bonus points to these students.) The judge for the next "bee" can be picked from the winners, and his name announced at this time.
3. Shorthand bee—The same rules are used as in a spelling bee except the student must write on the board the correct outline of a word, phrase, or brief form called out by the teacher.
4. Discussion—Students and the teacher may bring in letters received from businesses. An opaque projector may be used, or letters may be duplicated. Students may examine these letters and determine points that may be wrong.
5. Realistic dictation—The teacher could dictate a letter that she wishes to mail. Students could take it in shorthand and type the letter, allowing the teacher to "pick" the letter she prefers.

VIII. EVALUATIVE INSTRUMENTS

A. Pretest

It is suggested that the teacher prepare a pretest in order to diagnose problems and to determine individual placement within

Numbers Test

To evaluate students' abilities to type numbers in correct form.

Proofreading Test

To evaluate students' abilities to find errors in typewritten copy. See material listed under Resources for Students.

C. Final Evaluation

The teacher should prepare a comprehensive final evaluation that measures the attainment of all the objectives of this course. It should be noted that the objectives of the course are only minimum requirements; the teacher should expect much higher achievement by many individuals.

SUGGESTED TEST ITEMS

A. Punctuation Test

Directions: Type the following sentences inserting the correct marks of punctuation. Immediately following your sentences, give the reasons for your punctuation.

1. Please fill out the enclosed card and send it to us we will arrange an appointment.

2. As you know your balance was due on October 1 and it is now more than three months past due.

3. Your teacher Mrs. Lowe will be absent Monday Tuesday and Wednesday.

4. We shall of course contact you on Monday June 10.

5. May we hear from you soon Mr. Johnson.

6. These questions in my opinion require immediate answers.

7. My house which is for sale is located at the end of the block.

8. While we are shopping Mary can rest.

9. Joan can go shopping alone but she must not be late for dinner.

10. The pleasant attractive woman walked in the room and everyone stood up.

11. If you cannot go to the meeting please let us know.

12. The out of date textbooks will be discarded.

13. I think frankly your prices are much too high.

14. The television set which is on sale is a good buy.

15. If it is possible, I would like some books that are up to date.

16. My shoes which are new hurt my feet.

17. I would like to see you if possible in Miami.

18. When she arrives send her to my office.

19. I will arrive July 6 but my family will not arrive until July 29.

20. The book My Quest will be shipped to you Wednesday May 22.
SUGGESTED TEST ITEMS, Continued

B. Typing Tests

1. Students will type three five-minute timed writings from straight copy with 1.5 syllabic intensity, 5.6 average word length, and 75 percent high-frequency words. The results of these timed writings will aid the teacher in determining drills to improve weaknesses.

2. Students will type four letters from unarranged copy—one in each assigned style:

   Block with open punctuation
   Modified block with mixed punctuation and without paragraph indentions
   Modified block with paragraph indentions and open punctuation
   Block with mixed punctuation

   The typing of these letter styles will aid the teacher in determining individual weaknesses. If difficulties exist in any phase of setting up the letter, specific drills should be administered to correct the weaknesses.

C. Shorthand Tests

During the first half of this course, the teacher should dictate at a minimum rate of 60 words a minute for 3 minutes using previewed material of approximately 1.4 syllabic intensity. Students should transcribe this material on a typewriter in a maximum time of 40 minutes. In the latter half of this course, dictation of material of the same difficulty and length of time should be raised to a minimum of 70 words a minute. Transcription time should be lowered to a maximum of 35 minutes.
D. Word Division Test and Key

Directions: Note the line under various letters of the words in the first column. Assume the warning bell rings at this point as you are typing the word at the end of a line. In the second column, type the word and show by use of a hyphen the first acceptable division point of the word after the underlined letter. If the word cannot be divided, type the complete word.
