This guide to preschool curriculum planning presents a unit approach to preschool education and outlines 44 curriculum units. A discussion of methods and principles involved in the development of this curriculum stresses that it is the child, not the teacher, who determines curriculum. Four principles for good teaching are examined: preparing instructional objectives, task analysis, error-free learning, and the use of positive reinforcement. The objective of the curriculum is to help the teacher teach the basic facts and skills each child should know. The guide is divided into six areas of skill development: (1) fine motor, (2) gross motor, (3) social, (4) self-help, (5) language, and (6) cognitive. The sample units included in the guide contain activities in all the curriculum areas. A list of suggested books for young children and a music bibliography are also included. (SDH)
Grateful appreciation is expressed to Cathy Ellsworth, Nannie Leake, Joyce Crawford, Donna Baither, and Jacquelyn Matthews, for their patience and assistance in the long hours of typing and editing and to the children and teachers who contributed to the development of this guide.

INTRODUCTION TO CURRICULUM

As teachers create more developmental programs for children, their needs for an organized guide to their planning increases. A guide to curriculum material and activities which provide for individual developmental differences in children helps teachers meet the needs of all students. Some say that normal children learn in spite of the teacher. Unfortunately traditional early childhood teacher training can lead a beginner to think that all children are self-motivated and learn from "discovery" experiences. However, these children and especially those with learning problems now being mainstreamed in Head Start, day care and public schools require a well planned program. A curriculum guide assists teachers in setting up a sound program.

Such an early childhood program provides the child with individual:

1) Learning Objectives
2) Direct Teaching
3) Styles of Learning
4) Environmental Structure (surroundings)
5) Reinforcement
6) Use of Learning Material
7) Meaningful Curriculum

A sound program provides for prescriptive teaching starting from the existing skills which a teacher has observed and continuing with a program of small steps insuring success for the child.

WHO DETERMINES THE CURRICULUM?

The child, not the teacher, determines the curriculum. Identification of a child's strengths and weaknesses, based on normative data, offers educational direction to the teacher. Normative data refers to the ages at which the average child achieves essential skills. Instruments, such as the Learning Accomplishment Profile (Anne R. Sanford), enable the teacher to look at the child - at what he can and cannot do in all areas of development - and to program instruction based on his existing skills in these areas. Normative data on child development, sequenced in a hierarchy which moves from simplest skills to most difficult ones, provides the structure for teaching. Instructional objectives are developed for the skills to be taught. Instructional objectives state a new skill or behavior which will be demonstrated by the child after he has been taught. These skills are observed and recorded by the teacher.
INTRODUCTION TO CURRICULUM

WHAT IS THE CURRICULUM?

The curriculum consists of the programmed arrangement of time, materials and tasks. The school environment is structured to meet the individual needs and developmental levels of the child. In addition to the unique characteristics of each child, there are common characteristics among children related to their environment, or their world outside of school. The curriculum may be developed entirely around these unique characteristics and individual needs; or, through a unit topic approach, it may incorporate both individual and common characteristics of children.

The approach to curriculum activities suggested in this guide requires the teacher to design tasks and materials which focus on individual needs within the unit structure. While teaching the unit concept Winter, for instance, the teacher presents tasks for the children which differ from one child to the next, and expects each child to respond at his own level of development. Curriculum design for young children can take several forms:

(1) individual lessons with all instructional objectives, teaching materials and daily work for the child being stored in a separate box for each child.

(2) the unit approach, which focuses on the common characteristics and needs of children in teaching units of work such as Pets or Halloween.

(3) and perhaps best - a combination of both the unit approach for a portion of the day and time allotted for individual lessons during another portion of the day.

Whatever approach is chosen, a good curriculum is one which individualizes activities and is designed to get active responses from children.

WHAT IS THE PROCESS FOR DEVELOPING A SYSTEMATIC CURRICULUM?

The teacher begins by finding out what the child can do through the use of normative data on child development. Two or three weeks may be set aside for this purpose at the start of the year. This assessment will determine the outcome of the teaching which goes on in that classroom. Individual long-range instructional objectives will be written by the teacher based on what the child can and cannot do in each area of development. These long-range objectives will be broken down into sub-objectives or skills which must be achieved before reaching the long-range objectives. The sub-objectives will then be sequenced in order of difficulty. This process is known as task analysis. Beginning where the child is now, the teacher moves toward the long-range objective by teaching one step at a time. Progressing step by step, one skill built upon the other, ensures success for the child.
WHAT ABOUT CURRICULUM EVALUATION?

The systematic curriculum has a continuous, built-in evaluation of both the teacher and the child. Teaching daily toward specific objectives enables the teacher to measure the child's progress and to determine the appropriateness of tasks and materials. Daily evaluation defines more clearly what should be taught the next day.

The teacher interested in a systematic approach to the curriculum should answer these questions:

1. Have you assessed each child in the different areas of development?
2. Have you written long-range and short-range objectives based on this assessment?
3. Have you planned for the child's success in each activity or lesson by expecting responses based on individual objectives?
4. Is the child reaching daily objectives set for him?
5. If not, have you evaluated your tasks, materials and teaching techniques, and revised the activity according to this evaluation?

AND WHAT ABOUT SUCCESS?

In a systematized learning situation the child succeeds more than he fails. How does the teacher ensure success?

1. Know the child, his level of functioning, before giving him a task. Begin on his individual level and stop just before he becomes frustrated.
2. Set appropriate learning objectives and task analyze them (break them down into a teachable order.)
3. Teach small steps each day.
4. Reward each success (food, hug, smile, star -- depending on the level of the child).
5. Evaluate the child's progress each day.
6. Work with parents in planning successful home activities.

Our purpose is to challenge the pre-school teacher to develop a curriculum in which both LEARNING and TEACHING will take place. This type of curriculum ensures success and growth for both the teacher and the child. On the following pages you will find a general diagram for the process of developing a systematic curriculum.
INTRODUCTION TO CURRICULUM

PROCESS FOR CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT

Assess Entry Behaviors
What are his skills in each area of development when he comes to you?

2

Determine Long-Range Objectives
What will he be able to do after you teach him in each area of development?

Task Analysis for Immediate Instructional Objectives
What skills must he learn before reaching the long-range objectives?

Sequence Instructional Objectives
Are you ensuring success by moving from his entry behavior to the next step in order of difficulty? Have you planned to teach the easiest first?

Program Materials, Tasks, and Responses
Have you gathered essential materials? Have you individualized the tasks? Do tasks require active responses from child? How will you know when he has met your objective?

Teach
1. Present material after getting attention by giving signal for attending.
2. For all new material have tasks which require active responses. Present material, test it out.
3. Help child make correct response by prompting, cueing, modeling when necessary.
4. Reward appropriate responses immediately.
5. Correct inappropriate responses immediately; re-test.
7. Evaluate

- Did child meet the objectives set for him today?
- Were the objectives appropriate?
- How many trials did he require?
- Did your materials influence the learning?
- Was attending behavior maintained? How?
- Did you respond in a way to encourage child's appropriate action on other days?

8. Revise or Proceed

- Do you need to change the teaching routine and materials but stick to present objectives?
- If child is now doing or saying something new, he is learning. Build on these new skills by setting new objectives for the child.
METHODS
AND PRINCIPLES
INTRODUCTION TO METHODS AND PRINCIPLES

This section of the curriculum guide contains some of the principles on which good teaching is based. The principles included are:

Instructional Objectives
Task Analysis
Error-free Learning
Positive Reinforcement

Each principle is explained and examples are provided for specific classroom applications. It is hoped that the examples illustrate more fully the use of these principles. All of the examples included are classroom tested and have been found to be successful with many different children.
PREPARING INSTRUCTIONAL OBJECTIVES (Source: Robert F. Mayer)

In writing educational objectives three questions must be answered:

1. What is it that we must teach?
2. How will we know when we have taught it?
3. What materials and procedures will work best to teach what we wish to teach?

Terms:

Behavior - refers to any visible activity displayed by a learner (student).

Terminal behavior - refers to the behavior you would like your learner to be able to demonstrate at the time your influence over him ends, or when you have finished teaching him.

Criterion - is a standard or test by which terminal behavior is evaluated.

Objective - an intent communicated by a statement describing a proposed change in a learner; a statement of what the learner is to be like when he has successfully completed a learning experience; a description of a pattern of behavior we want the learner to be able to demonstrate.

Steps in writing instructional objectives:

First, identify the behavior specifically by name; specify the behavior which will be accepted as evidence that the learner has achieved the objective. What will the learner be doing and what will the teacher be observing when the student has achieved the objective?

Second, try to further define the desired behavior by describing the important conditions under which the behavior will be expected to occur. State the conditions you will impose upon the learner when he is demonstrating his mastery of the objectives. Ask these questions:

1. What will the learner be provided? Example: Given the A.A.M.D., definition . . .
2. What will the learner be denied? Example: Without looking at the book . . .
3. Are there any skills which you are specifically not trying to develop? Does the objective exclude such skills? Example: Given the following job application, print, (do not write) . . .

Third, specify the criteria of acceptable performance by describing how well (or how much, or in what time) the learner must perform to be considered acceptable. Example: Given the following list of 25 words the student must be able to correctly read 20 of the words.
Assuming that learning represents a process of change in the learner's behavior, an examination of teacher procedures for effecting change seems appropriate. No longer can the teacher be a combination of educational philosopher and social worker. The role of instructor calls for a highly trained technician who is responsible for a unique contribution to the child's welfare—that of teaching him essential concepts and skills (Engelmann, 1969).

Task analysis represents a logical educational technique for effecting change in conceptual and skill development. The process of Task Analysis involves several basic steps:

1. Identification of appropriate behavioral objectives.
2. The break-down of objectives into constituent concepts.
3. Sequential development of tasks.
4. Manipulation of variables.
5. Evaluation.

Identification of Appropriate Learning Objectives.

Mager (1962) defines an objective as "an intent communicated by a statement describing a proposed change in a learner—a statement of what the learner is to be like when he has successfully completed a learning experience".

Since the teacher becomes the formulator of appropriate objectives, the first prerequisite involves sophistication in knowledge of subject matter. In the preschool for handicapped children, the normative data supplied by experts of child development (Gesell, 1940) provide a hierarchy of tasks which may become possible objectives for the individual student. The appropriateness of these tasks is determined by the child's developmental level, the task's meaningful relationship to the learner's environment, and the likelihood of reinforcement in daily life. For instance, the communication "hi" may be expressed in several developmental levels (gesture, utterance and gesture, or verbalization). This task is relevant to all environmental situations, and certainly will be reinforced by those about him.

A necessary component of the formulation of objectives involves the pre-test. The pre-evaluation may necessitate adjustment of instructional objectives—deleting some, adding some, or modifying criteria. Without pre-assessment, a teacher may run several risks. He may attempt to teach competencies already possessed by his learner, or assume pre-requisite skills or entry behaviors not in his student's pre-instruction repertoire (Popham, 1970).

The identification of the specific learner behaviors that will indicate the attainment of certain skills aids the teacher in: (1) efficient evaluation of her strategies; (2) a sound basis for selecting appropriate materials; (3) effective instructional methodology; (4) the reduction of incorrect or ambiguous interpretation of objectives; and (5) evaluation of pupil progress. The statement of precise behavioral objectives is essential to an effective teaching program. Illusive, broad, vague objectives hamper specific instructional planning. As Mager points out, "the machinist does not select a tool until he knows what operation he intends to perform."

Breakdown of Objectives into Constituent Concepts.

A behavioral analysis of the task to be taught demands the breakdown of objectives into specific sub-components. A rigorous analysis of each task includes the identification of the prerequisites to performance. What behaviors will demonstrate the attainment of this concept? These behaviors usually will depend upon the successful mastery of one or more sub-objectives. Task analysis prompts examination of the child's existing skills which can be utilized. The teacher must consider how isolation of the task can be achieved to insure the prevention of assumptions and conceptual leaps; what sub-components of this task are appropriate for this individual child?

Sequential Development of Tasks.

Once the specific behaviors comprising the sub-objectives of the task have been identified, the curriculum designer must decide on the order of presentation. The teacher must determine the "planned sequence of experiences leading to proficiency in terms of stimulus-response relationships". The term "planned sequence" implies that the teacher arbitrarily determines "not only what experiences the student should have—but also in what order they should occur". (Espech and Williams, 1967).

Gagne (1967) suggests that complex cognitive behaviors are invariably composed of simpler tasks, and that attainment of these tasks is necessary before the complex behavior can be demonstrated. Gagne has analyzed behavior into a hierarchy proceeding from the simplest kind of learning through the most complex. He hypothesizes that for learning any given task a structure exists. This structure includes the critical subtasks that a learner masters on his way to criterion performance. It is instructionally wise to attempt to identify subtasks for any instructional objective in order to avoid failures in mastery. (Popham, 1970).

Determination of the hierarchy of these subtasks is the critical issue of sequencing, and it is in this area where teachers frequently err. The development of a logical, orderly, analytical and systematic sequence of instruction requires a methodical approach to design.

Manipulation of Variables.

A variable is a behavior or feature of the environment that is subject to change. The teacher's challenge is the scientific manipulation of variables affecting learning to increase the probability of evoking the correct response. In teaching the retarded preschooler, the variables of size, texture, position, color, novelty, shape, brightness, material, function, symmetry or number may be used in cueing. Obviously the use of the order and number of variables is crucial in determining sequential development or ability to focus on the relevant task.

A stimulus is anything that elicits, or results in, a reaction from an organism; a response is, quite simply, the reaction to the stimulus. (Epech, 1967). The teacher's responsibility is to manipulate the variables of the stimuli to evoke the desired response. This requires an analysis of the strength and type of responses elicited by various stimuli.

The preschool handicapped child may have to be taught to attend to the relevant stimulus dimensions. To accomplish this, it is essential to keep the relevant dimension constant from task to task. The manipulation of variables can be used to aid in this focus. For instance, in teaching a color to the handicapped preschooler, the isolation of the task is achieved by teaching only one color at a time. Red may be presented in various forms of size, number, texture, shape, etc., but the variable which remains constant and to which the child ultimately attends is color.

Since the handicapped preschooler utilizes the visual discrimination modality in many of his learning experiences, the studies of Zeaman (1960) on visual discrimination learning of the retarded provides significant insight for consideration in the manipulation of variables. A summary of his conclusions states that:

1. The retardate's discrimination learning is mediated, not by verbal behavior, but by attention to relevant stimulus dimensions.
2. Retardates prefer to attend to position.
3. Their attention focuses (when it does) on broad classes of stimuli, on whole dimensions, not specific cues. They attend to color, not red and green, to form, not square and triangle.
4. Approach tendencies to positive cues are formed more rapidly early in learning than avoidance of negative cues.
5. The nature of stimuli provides a powerful determinant of retardate visual discrimination learning:
   a. Stimulus novelty is a discriminable aspect of stimuli that can facilitate discrimination.
   b. The absolute size of stimuli and figure-to-ground relationship controls discrimination learning of colors and forms. The bigger the better.
   c. Form is a stronger dimension than color.
   d. Some aspects of form, such as symmetry, make for good discrimination.
   e. Three-dimensional figures are more easily discriminated than otherwise equivalent two-dimensional figures.
   f. Relational cues (such as oddity and similarity) are exceedingly difficult.
   g. Redundancy facilitates. The greater the number of relevant dimensions, the greater the likelihood of learning.
h. The greater the number of variable, irrelevant dimensions, the poorer the performance.

6. Transfer operations, such as reversal and intra- and extra-dimensional shifts, are sensitive determinants of retardate visual discrimination learning.

7. Pairing the discriminative stimulus with a junk stimulus (multidimensionally different) strengthens the attention to the relevant cue.

This summary of Zeaman's findings can provide a basis for structuring the manipulative variables of the learning task in a hierarchy of steps. With this knowledge the teacher analyzes the relative strength of each stimulus in evoking the desired response and sequences her lesson accordingly.

Evaluation.

A complete analysis of each learning task includes evaluative procedures which measure the effectiveness of the instructional design. Evaluation considers the following questions:

Was the behavioral objective appropriate for this child?

Did the child exhibit an observable change in behavior?

Did he meet the criteria for acceptable performance?

Did the learning materials facilitate focus on the task, or were they too stimulating?

An example of the task-analysis process in the preschool for the handicapped may be seen in the hypothetical objective of teaching the concept square. The behavioral objective states: "When presented with five pairs of stimuli, the learner can visually discriminate and touch the square in response to the verbal direction, 'touch square'. Criteria of performance are four correct responses in five trials."

The teacher's first objective is to elicit attending behavior in the learner. No verbal direction is given until the child maintains eye contact with the teacher.

The learning task is then isolated, as the teacher states, "This is square." Superfluous verbalizations are avoided. Any further comment, such as "big, red square", becomes "verbal garbage" (Lawler, 1970), which inhibits focus on the task.

The teacher then models the response as she directs "Touch square." Already an assumption is made that the child possesses the touching response. If touching behavior is not present in his repertoire of skills, then it becomes a sub-objective.

Attention to the relevant dimension of "square" must now be developed.
Initially, multidimensional cues are utilized in developing a hierarchy of responses which insure positive, successful experiences for the child.

A design for the process of discrimination must now be developed by the teacher. Use of three-dimensional, large, colored, novel, carefully-positioned, redundant cues tends to elicit a positive response. Analytical manipulation of the cues will maintain attention to "square". The initial pairing of "square" with a position-cued multi-dimensional junk stimulus represents a low-level task. As the similarity of relevant dimensions increases, the difficulty of the discriminative task increases.

For instance, the discrimination hierarchy may begin with the pairing of a large, red, wooden, textured square, placed near the child, with a small uncolored picture of a line, away from the learner. A higher level of discrimination would present a pair of identically placed pictures—a pencil-drawn square with a pencil-drawn pentagon. Removed are the cues of color, form, texture, size and position. The child must focus on the shape square.

Summary.

With this concept of the teacher as an engineer of instructional design, the responsibility for student learning rests with her ability to: set appropriate behavioral objectives; break down these objectives into prerequisite subcomponents; sequence the subobjectives in a hierarchy of tasks; effectively manipulate the variables to insure a positive response; and objectively evaluate the effectiveness of her lesson.

It is in the task analysis process that the true logic, skill, knowledge, ingenuity, creativity and excitement of teaching the handicapped preschooler expresses itself.

Task Analysis

Assumption: That the child is physically able to control the muscles involved.

In shaping the toileting behavior we break the task down in order to insure success for the child and opportunity for reward. This task breakdown moves from the last step in the sequence to the next-to-last, and so on. The following is a step by step routine for training. It should be noted that the untrained child should be taken to the bathroom frequently; especially after certain activities such as eating times, long walks, play time, nap time, and any other times when success is likely.

Step 1. Some children may need a reward for going into the bathroom or approaching the toilet without resistance.

Step 2. Once in the bathroom, assist the child in sitting on the toilet and reward him for sitting a few minutes, whether or not he performs. If, indeed, he does perform, reward him with praise or food or a combination as soon as evacuation occurs so that he becomes aware of the desired behavior. This, of course, means that you do not leave the child sitting on the toilet, because close observation and immediate reinforcement are vital in the training. While sitting opposite the child you may need to offer the child a reward such as a book or toy to establish sitting response.

Step 3. Now you want the child to seat himself. Accompany him to toilet and say, "Sit on the toilet, Mary." This will also be programmed so that the child understands your request and seats himself. In the early training sessions you will remain near, ready to reward performance of sitting quietly, and evacuation.

Step 4. The child is now aware of the desired behavior, is able to sit and performs successfully at least part of the time. You walk the child to the bathroom and begin programming for pulling down pants by decreasing your assistance as the child acquires skills of pulling down part way to completely. Unsnapping, unzipping or unbuckling are all skills which may need a great deal of training. Don’t assume that because the child knows how to sit and what is required after sitting, that he can manipulate his clothing. He could wet his pants while trying frantically to unbuckle his belt.

Step 5. The child is able to pull down his pants, seat himself, perform; and now you program for manipulating the clothing after toileting. The closures of buttoning, zipping and buckling should be taught at other times during the day also, every day until the child acquires these skills. Reward all newly acquired skills as well as those just previously acquired. Note: To achieve the target toileting behavior more quickly, you may want a particular child to wear pants with elasticized waistbands only. This should only be necessary for the child with severe fine motor deficits.
Step 6. Go to the bathroom door with the child and wait. Reward his behavior; make a big deal out of his independent efforts. The child may still need immediate reinforcement as you approvingly observe these new skills. Flushing the toilet may become a reward.

Step 7. Program now for taking the child to the bathroom and leaving him with or without the door closed. Be observant and careful to praise the child on leaving the bathroom. You have gradually increased the distance between you and the child.

Step 8. The child should now be ready to indicate his need to you and to go unassisted to the bathroom. Reward him for initiating the toileting behavior.

Eventually the child will express his need to go to the bathroom when you are outside the school environment, and he should be rewarded for this behavior. Should the child have an accident, change him as soon as you become aware of it so that he becomes accustomed to dry pants and uncomfortable with wet ones. The family should be working with you in this training and should be informed in writing of the precise skill being programmed and the precise techniques and language being used to keep the consistency between home and school.

Keep accurate records on the daily routine, the number of successes and the accidents; and if possible chart the success/accident behaviors. This will give you an accurate and graphic evaluation of your toileting program. Individual charts on the children being trained may be kept on a wall in the bathroom or some other location convenient for immediate recording.
CUTTING WITH SCISSORS

(Prior knowledge skills: Use of towel, pinching clothespins together)

Use of double scissors - to help child get the idea of "how to cut".

1. Take long strip of construction paper and partially cut through it.

Take double scissors, teacher’s fingers in outer holes, child’s fingers in inner holes. Make one cut (1 closure of double scissors) and piece falls off strip. Tell child he cut paper and praise him!

Do this many times, so child gets lots of practice in cutting motion.

2. When child can do this consistently, have him make 2 cuts (2 closures of double scissors) and then pieces fall off strip.

Again, reinforce his learning how to cut. Teacher should begin to give less assistance in cutting motion so child learns to do it independently.

3. After lots of practice on step 2, increase to three cuts or closures of scissors to make piece fall off strip. Move to primary scissors when you think child has mastered the cutting stroke and can make cuts consistently.

4. Go through Steps 1 - 3 again, using primary scissors. Child does the cutting independently. Teacher may help by holding the strip of paper for child while he makes the cuts.

5. Then, have child learn to hold paper in one hand and cut with other.

6. Increase length of cuts till child can cut through whole piece of paper on his own.

7. Draw a straight wide line with a magic marker to indicate where to cut. Show the child how to cut on the line. Then child has a turn to cut "on the line".

8. Decrease width of line slowly till child can cut approximately on a thick primary pencil line.

9. Now have child cut on very thick curved line drawn with a magic marker. Show him how to turn the paper around with the free hand.
10. Decrease widths of curved lines gradually.

Give lots of practice cutting out magazine pictures.

P.S.: Have child put his "cuttings" in a plastic bag and take them home to show.

2. Give child the flower like the flower above. The teacher has one too. The teacher labels the child's flower and says, "Put Mary on Mary." (Model how to do if child does not understand.)

Teacher—"Yes, you did it! This says Mary and you read Mary." Give lots of practice here.

Same as above but using 2, then 3 other names and symbols.

This enables the child to pick out his name because of his symbol. We have paired the name and the symbol. (This step may be broken down further by (1) Teacher labeling and modeling: "This says Mary." "Put Mary on Mary." (2) Matching the symbol.)

4. Use another shape--circle, triangle, or puzzle-piece shape. Keep the color of the flower the same, red in this case.

This enables the child to pick out his name because of his symbol. We have paired the name and the symbol. (This step may be broken down further by (1) Teacher labeling and modeling: "This says Mary." "Put Mary on Mary." (2) Matching the symbol.)

5. Use another shape--5" X 7" index card. Color cue the child's name by outlining the black letters with red. The flower remains red.
Task Analysis of "Name Reading"

1. Begin to fade out the red outline cues, starting with the last letter of the name. Continue to use the flower symbol but decrease its size gradually.

2. Then, have only the capital letter of the name cued with red and omit the flower or other symbol.
Task Analysis of "Name Reading"

6. Fade out the color cue of the first capital letter and have name in black.

7. Have child discriminate his own printed name from printed names of other children without cues.

Use this method and apply the index cards on the following, which child sees and uses each day:

a. Place where child hangs coat.
b. Chair and/or desk.
c. Glasses used for snack and lunch (plastic).
d. Can which holds child's toothbrush and toothpaste.
e. Crayon box.
"Error-free learning" is a unique method for learning and teaching. It is appropriate for all children, but most appropriate for children who are behind in acquiring appropriate age-level skills. The child in a day care center for handicapped children or the child who has been held back in Head Start for the second year, can profit most from "error-free learning".

Acquisition of skills for teaching in the "Error-free Learning" method requires planning and practice and evaluation. However, anyone can learn how!

Basic Principles

1. Isolate the concept.
2. Concrete -> Abstract.
3. Positive Reinforcement
4. Repetition
5. Short Learning Sessions
6. Get attention before present task
7. Teacher's responsibility to have child succeed.

Four Specific Techniques:

- MODELING
- PROMPTING
- CUEING
- POSITIVE REINFORCEMENT

Unit: Body Parts

Today's Concept: "Nose"

Task #1: "Touch nose"

1. MODELING
   Teacher demonstrates what she wants child to do.

   Example of modeling: Teacher would touch her own nose.

   The teacher is a model and demonstrates exactly what the child is expected to do.
2. PROMPTING
Teacher gives physical assistance in discriminating the appropriate response.

Task "touch nose"

Child doesn't know what to do. He sits there. Or, child starts to touch his eyes.

Example of prompting: Teacher takes child's hand and fingers and puts finger on child's nose.

The teacher supplies the child with the answer by physically moving his hand and fingers to touch his nose.

3. CUEING
Teacher gives clue or hint to child as to the correct response. Some cues are: size, shape, position, number, proximity, junk stimuli, pointing with finger.

Task "touch nose"

Example of cueing: Teacher makes a mask of construction paper and puts it over her face. The only cut out part of the mask is the hole for the nose.

Cues given by the teacher in this instance would be: position (of nose through mask over face); shape (of nose); size (of nose); color (of nose) and no other distracting drawing or holes in the mask.

4. POSITIVE REINFORCEMENT
That reward which follows a behavior and makes that behavior more likely to happen again.

Two types of positive reinforcement that all teachers can use:

Verbal
"Wow - great work!"
"That's the way."
"Good working."
"Just right!"
"I like the way you did that."
"What a smart girl!"
"You're really getting big now."
"I like the way you're sitting."
(name appropriate behavior)
"Good writing."

Non-Verbal smile hug handshake clapping nodding of head pat on back, shoulder, hand wink

Every day the classroom teacher faces a wide variety of behavior, from disruptive horseplay to outstanding work. In recent years, psychologists have studied the effects of teacher responses on pupil behavior. The results indicate that each teacher has a potent means of obtaining the behavior he desires. Most encouraging, the results have confirmed that to succeed in obtaining desirable behaviors from their students, most teachers need not learn any new responses, gimmicks, or tricks of the trade. They need learn only to alter systematically the timing of their usual basic response, attention, or "social reinforcement."

In various classroom settings, the social reinforcement technique has effectively modified the behavior of students ranging in age from three to eleven. Specifically, the technique has been used to increase such things as cooperative play, attention span, and studying and to reduce regressive crawling, crybaby outbursts, sulking, pestering other children, inappropriate talking, blurtist out, making noises, and so on.

The initial step of the social reinforcement technique is to define the behavior to be modified. The term behavior indicates the focus of the technique: the procedure is designed to modify directly what people do that can be observed and measured. As behavior changes, attitudes and feelings probably will change also, but we cannot directly measure such internalized responses. The behavior must be defined in terms of observable overt responses and must be stated unambiguously.

To illustrate, if a teacher is concerned with general inappropriate behavior, he should list the different responses he considers inappropriate, such as "out of seat", defined perhaps as "cease to touch chair." Then he is no longer concerned with a "bad child", but with reducing "number of times out of seat." Finally, he should adhere to the original definition at all times so that any change in recorded behavior will not be due to a change in definition.

Defined by what is observable, a behavior is easily measured. The most frequently used measure is a count of the number of times the behavior occurs in a specified length of time. For some behavior, the most appropriate measure is its duration in seconds within a specified time period. Graphs give the most meaningful representations of the measures.

Such objective measurement procedures are necessary and worth every bit of the time and energy they consume. Without them, the teacher is too easily influenced by his own feelings and moods or by an outstanding response or series of responses by a student. In short, objective measurements greatly reduce the subjective error in evaluating a child's behavior.
Daily measurements also afford the teacher frequent feedback on his application of the technique. If an observation session yields results substantially disparate from previous observations of that experimental stage, the teacher is alerted to the possibility of his misapplication of the technique or of the interference of some other factor with the results.

Once the teacher has defined the behavior and selected the method of measurement, he can obtain the current rate of the behavior. This rate is called the baseline. During the baseline stage, the teacher makes no change in his own behavior other than to record student behavior. He measures the target behavior by the predetermined method and compares its rate to that of all subsequent measurements. A baseline should contain enough observations to help the teacher decide whether or not changes of behavior during reinforcement are due to random fluctuations.

Giving attention to desired behaviors and ignoring undesired behaviors are the main elements of the social reinforcement technique. The teacher should select the attention to make the child feel praised, competent, or appreciated. A positive physical contact, like a pat on the back; friendly verbal interaction; and praise, such as "Very good," and "You're doing fine," are effective forms of attention. If these responses are awkward or disruptive in a situation, friendly facial expressions and hand gestures are the best alternatives. Smiling and giving the OK sign are examples of such responses.

Whatever its form, the positive attention should be given the child while he is still engaged in the desired behavior or immediately after he completes it. The teacher should place emphasis on "catching the child being good" (as researchers Madsen, Becker, and Thomas have expressed it). Even if the child has just previously misbehaved, any present appropriate behavior should be reinforced. The teacher who uses a variety of attentive behaviors in a spontaneous and warm manner will increase the effectiveness of the technique.

All schools of education support positive approaches to teaching, and most teachers practice them somewhat, but far from enough. Thus, in applying the social reinforcement technique, the first change in timing involves a large increase in the frequency and immediacy of positive teacher attention. The second involves the teacher's ignoring (directing his attention away from) "bad" behavior.

The idea of ignoring inappropriate behavior may seem inconsistent with common sense. However, recent studies indicate that reinforcements maintain or even increase the rates of the very behaviors they are intended to eliminate. Further, a substantial body of evidence shows that physical punishment as applied in the school is an ineffective technique for controlling behavior. Hence the teacher's only practical alternative response to inappropriate behavior is to ignore it—not punitively and as if by deliberation—but by acting as if he is involved with other matters. The idea is to appear unaware of the presence of the misbehaving child. This is easy for the teacher who is occupied with praising other children's good behavior.

Initially, ignoring may lead to an increase in the "bad" behavior as the child tests the teacher. But, especially when others are being praised for doing as the teacher wishes, most children soon join in the race for teacher attention on the teacher's terms.

In summary, attending to and ignoring are used together. The teacher gives attention to the desired behaviors and ignores the undesired. The golden moment for reinforcement occurs whenever one child is indulging in a particular misbehavior at the same instant that his neighbor is indulging in its opposite.

Sometimes a student never or almost never gives the desired response. In such a case, the teacher must shape the behavior by successive approximations. This procedure calls for his initially giving attention to any first sign of the appropriate behavior. He then reinforces only those behaviors that are closer and closer approximations of the desired behavior. By this method the teacher moves the student from a weak starting point to the desired behavior. For example, to reinforce in-seat behavior in a child who is always up, first praise his being near the seat.

For a variety of reasons, when shaping a response to a broad class of stimuli, it may be best to reinforce responses to just one stimulus. After the response to this stimulus increases to the desired level, the teacher can generalize the response to other stimuli by introducing them as he continues to reinforce.

To illustrate, suppose that the desired behavior were an increase in cooperative play for a boy of a minority group. If the boy felt less shy toward members of his own sex group, the teacher initially would increase his responses to these members by praising his approaches until he acquired the cooperative play response. Once this response was well-established, the teacher would generalize it to the other groups in the class by gradually introducing members from those groups into the group the boy approached.

In shaping behavior, it is usually desirable to begin by reinforcing as many of the child's appropriate behaviors as possible. Because the teacher has so many other demands on his attention, he probably will not be able to reinforce every appropriate response. Nonetheless, during behavior shaping, the child is likely to receive an undue share of attention temporarily.

To maintain the behavior, the teacher can decrease the frequency of reinforcement or, in technical terms, make it more intermittent. There is nothing fancy about this procedure; the crucial point is simply to decrease the frequency very gradually. If you have been praising a child every time he has done an arithmetic problem, as soon as he works steadily, you should drop first to praising four out of five instances, then to three out of five, and so on, watching your graph to be sure that the number of correct problems does not decline markedly. Continue to decrease the frequency of reinforcement until the child works throughout the period. Perhaps your sole reinforcement would be to stand with your hand on the child's shoulder once or twice while you survey the class and check his work. Intermittent reinforcement not only results in a response that is more easily controlled, but also in one that is much more durable.

In several studies, the social reinforcement technique has been successfully applied to an entire class. This implies that the technique could be used as a general way of handling classes—praise and attention for desired behavior and none for the undesired. Indications are that, generally, the more praise the better, as long as it follows appropriate behavior.

For a general, everyday group approach, the teacher would not have to collect data. With an individual or a group that continued to misbehave or failed to perform well in some respect, the teacher could apply the technique more systematically.

The above experimentally verified principles go against much of the lore of the teacher's lounge. Their application also requires some faith and some patience. Reprimanding a child stops his misbehavior promptly, even if only for a little while. That is obvious, and reinforcing to the teacher. Ignoring the child's bad behavior and, above all, praising behavior that our culture says he "should" produce without thanks have effects that are not so obvious and that with some children might appear impossible.

As procedures, praise and ignoring take longer. This can cause impatience. But in the long run, the positive social reinforcement technique can turn the teacher's original dream of motivation into reality.
THE UNIT APPROACH
A curriculum guide is a tool designed for the teacher to use in planning meaningful activities for learning. It is just that -- a guide; not a recipe book containing all the steps in the cooking (teaching) process. To use the curriculum guide as it is intended, it is necessary that individualization and adaptation of activities, breakdown of learning tasks and correlation of activities be provided by the teacher, based upon the skills of the children. Specific techniques such as modeling, prompting, and cueing are essential in planning and carrying out the teaching activities suggested. However, your creativity and knowledge of the children with whom you work will complete the framework contained in this guide.

In addition to individual lessons, a unit approach is advocated, because all children need to learn certain information about themselves and their world. The objective of the unit approach is to help the teacher teach these basic facts, skills and abilities.

This curriculum guide is divided into six areas of skill development: (1) fine motor; (2) gross motor; (3) social; (4) self-help; (5) language; and (6) cognitive. Every teacher will want her curriculum to include each area. However, inclusion of each area is not enough. Through transfer and adapted teaching, these six areas can be included in any educational program. What a good teacher wants is a systematic and thorough procedure for teaching specific skills in each area according to her assessment of each child and his level of functioning.

How is this done? Through the use of the Learning Accomplishment Profile, informal observation, parental reports, and preschool tests, such as the Cooperative Preschool Inventory, each child's existing skills... can be determined. From there, individual goals for learning should be formulated and written in each of the six areas of development for each child. (Refer to the LAP - Assessment section.) These goals or instructional objectives might look something like Susan's:

Objectives for Susan - March - 1972

1. To be able to demonstrate an understanding of the words stop, up, down, fast, slow.
2. To understand the idea of taking a trip by telling what is involved: packing clothes, traveling to place and returning home.

2. To keep fingers out of mouth.
3. To say "thank you" when given something, without prompting.
4. To not put things found on floor into mouth.

The functional levels of the children and the specific instructional objectives set will determine the choice of activities within this guide. The teacher is provided with several options within each activity time. Therefore, the teacher's selectivity lies in the understanding of individual differences so that she may plan for adaptation of equipment, materials and teaching procedures, based upon the knowledge and assessment of her children's skills.

As you will discover, the Unit Group Lessons are based on the topic for the week. For example, when studying a unit on Garden Tools, Monday's Unit Group Lesson might be on "Hoe". Also note the way in which all activities during the day center around "hoe". Research data shows that repetition and a variety of experiences with a concept or object influence learning. The correlation of all activities around the concept in the group lesson is a major emphasis within the curriculum guide.
Within the Unit Group Lesson children respond on their individual levels. One child may be on the "touch" level while another may be on the "picture discrimination" level. The objective for each child is to move sequentially from his entering response level to the next higher skill level. He will continue to proceed to the next higher level task or skill in each developmental area. (Refer to the curriculum section of the LAP.)

The following Hierarchy of Basic Skills to be Learned in the Group Lesson is suggested in planning meaningful, individualized lessons. The children will not all enter at the same level, nor will they proceed at the same rate to higher levels. They will not all reach the same level of achievement in the end.

A Hierarchy of Basic Skills to be Learned in the Group Lesson

Unit on Musical Instruments.

Monday - Unit Group Lesson "Drum"

(1) Oral Language Response: "This is a drum," says the teacher. Child responds
a. Sounds approximating word.
b. One word - "drum".
c. Two words - "a drum"; "see drum".
d. Three words - "See a drum."
e. Whole sentence - "I see a drum."

Emphasize language responses within each step below. Ask every chance you get, "What did you touch?" "Tell me what you found."

(2) Touch Response; "Touch the drum."
(3) Matching Responses - Using concrete objects and pictures:
"Put the drum on the drum."
(Use concrete objects first and later progress to flannel board cut-outs, pictures and abstract representations.)

(4) Concrete Object Discrimination: Show five real objects (including a drum) child is asked, "Show me the drum." "Where is the drum?"

(5) Picture Discrimination: Show five pictures, including a drum, child is asked to "Find the picture of drum."

(6) Tactile Discrimination: Using a "feely box" or bag, child reaches in with hand and touches each object and finds the drum. He is not allowed to use his eyes in discriminating the "drum" from other objects. "Try and find the drum using your hands."

(7) Sound Discrimination: Play the drum; then have child listen to musical sounds and be able to discriminate drum sound from other sounds. "When you hear the drum, raise your hand." "Then you hear the drum, clap your hands."

(8) Closure (to be able to see a whole, when shown only a part): Shown a partially covered picture of a drum, children tell you what it is. "Look carefully; guess what this is."

(9) Object Function: "Show me what we do with the drum." "Tell me what we do with the drum."

(10) Association Skills: Things that go with the drum. Given a spoon, two wooden sticks, a napkin, etc., say "Show me what goes with the drum."

(11) Classification Skills: To what category or class of things does drum belong. "Is the drum a tool, musical instrument, or something we clean with?" Shown flannel board cutouts of toys, clothes or musical instruments, put the drum (cut out) with the right family.

(12) Abstract Reasoning: Cause and effect relationships. "What would happen if?" "What do you think might happen next?"
Example: "If I hit the top of the drum as hard as I could with my hand, what might happen?"

Language skills should be emphasized at each and every step.

Remember to:

(1) Expect verbal responses always. Accept approximations to the word or words and later build whole words and sentences.

(2) Ask a question which requires a response on the child's individual level and which requires more than a "yes" or "no" answer.

(3) Model the desired response when necessary.
(4) Build sentences by further describing the concept. For example:
Concept: ball
After the one word "ball" is clearly established in the child's repertoire of words, add
"a ball"
"is a ball"
"This is a ball."
"I see a ball."
"I see a ________ (big, red or green, etc.) ball."

(5) Gradually, add a little more to your expectations for each child's responses.

One child may need to move sequentially from imitating a one-word response to being able to answer "What is this?" Another child may enter the process at a higher level: being able to say phrases, and proceed from there to responding with complex sentences.

There are many more similarities than differences between educating the normal and the handicapped child. We have not dwelt much on the differences, because we believe that the educational goals should be the same. Although the educational needs of the normal and handicapped child may differ in terms of equipment, teaching techniques and teaching strategies, the overall goal of developing and increasing each child's potential is common to both.

UNIT - BODY PARTS

The LAP normative data (Section I) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

MONDAY - HEAD

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 67.

(Locate Own) 1. Children will touch their own head upon teacher's request. "Touch (child's) head."

(Associate) 6. Children will choose from two, then three articles of clothing, the appropriate article for a head. Example: children choose from a hat and a sweater. They will then choose from a hat, a sweater, and a shoe. Alternate hat with scarf, ski hat, rain bonnet, etc. Teacher will ask "what do you wear on your head?" Child will respond, "hat" or "a hat."

(Closure) 7. Upon teacher's question, "what is missing?" and teacher's presentation of a picture of a child's body without a head, children will either gesture or verbalize "head" or "a head."

(Verbalize "What is This?") 8. Children will be asked to verbalize or approximate verbalizations on each task.

UNIT - FALL

2. Child pretends to be a squirrel (use props of paper ears and busy tail) and is instructed to put "one acorn in tree", "two acorns in tree", etc. Make a tree with a hole in it from brown bark.

3. Children paint three small acorns (felt or construction paper). Paint dark brown and light brown acorns.

E. Fine Motor

2. Have children draw lines from one acorn to all other acorns.

F. Storytelling and Dramatization

1. Tell a story about "The Acorn Hunt". The squirrels look all over the forest for acorns. They can't find the acorns although the acorns are under a tree. The squirrels look under trees, under rocks, and in the river. They even ask a bear. Finally they ask the children, "where are the acorns?" Children have seen them all along under the tree. Use pictures, a flannel board, or puppets to illustrate. Make sure the children see the acorns under the tree.

2. Take the children on a walk around school or visit a park. Children should have paper bags for the items they find. For B. - page #1 and C. - page #1.

REFERENCES - MATERIALS

1. The Gruffalo - see 197, page 71.

BOOK SUGGESTIONS FOR THIS UNIT

1. Fruncroft, Henrietta, Down Come the Leaves, (Crowell: Let's Read and Find Out Science Book Series)
2. Crockett-Johnson, The Carrot Seed, (Harper and Row)
3. Sepp, Charles and Martha, Let's Find Out About Fall, (Franklin Watts)
The IAP normative data (Section 1) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child’s task may be different.

Monday - Hat

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 72.

(Match Objects) 1. Children will match hats by holding up a hat next to the teacher's hat. The child will verbalize or approximate verbalization of "hat" to teacher's request and model. Teacher may ask, "what is this?" Child will respond, "hat", "a hat", or "it is a hat".

(Discriminate Objects) 2. Children will discriminate a hat from another article of clothing and then from two other articles of clothing. Teacher will request, "find the hat" or "touch the hat". "What did you find?"

(Discriminate Own from Others) 3. On a table will be a child's hat. That child will hold up the hat when the teacher requests, "find your hat, _____________." Proceed to have the child "find" his hat from two hats, then three. If appropriate, put all of children's hats on table. Ask child to find his hat from all of the hats.

(Discriminate Pictures) 4. Children will discriminate picture of a hat from another picture and then from two other pictures. Teacher will request, "find the hat" or "touch the hat". "What did you find?"

(Associate With Body Parts) 5. Have a poster with one, two, three, four, or more body parts illustrated. Child is given a picture of hat. Teacher asks "where does the hat go?" Teacher helps child, if help is needed, put picture of hat on picture of head. Child will respond "head", "on (the) head", or "the hat goes on the head". Teacher may also ask "do you wear a hat on your head?" or "what do you wear on your head?"

(Associate With Other Clothing) 6. Have a box of clothing within reach of the children. Present a situation, e.g. it is snowing outside. Teacher asks, "what would you wear with this hat to go outside and play?" Child will get appropriate article of clothing (coat, gloves, scarf) from the box.

(Associate With Boy or Girl) 7. Have two hats available—a boy's hat and a girl's hat. A boy and a girl stand up in front of the group. The teacher gives a hat to another child and requests "put the hat where it belongs". Child will put the boy's hat on the boy and the girl's hat on the girl. Teacher may hold up a hat and ask "who wears this hat, a boy or a girl?" Children answer "a boy" or "a boy wears that hat".

b. Have a poster with a picture of a boy and a girl. Give the child a picture of a boy's hat or a girl's hat. Ask, "Who wears this hat?"

Use three large pictures depicting warm, sunny weather, rainy weather, and snowy weather. Teacher holds up a rain hat. Teacher asks, "when do you wear this hat?" Child may respond by pointing to correct picture or saying "rain", "in the rain" or "when it rains". Hold up a second hat—a knit hat. Repeat question. Pointing to picture of a warm day, "do you wear a hat when it is hot?" Child responds, "no". Pointing to picture of rainy day, "do you wear a hat when it rains?" "Yes." "Do you wear a hat when it snows?" "Yes."

On a poster (blackboard, bulletin board, etc.) the teacher has three pictures of groups of objects (clothing, toys, food). Each child is given a picture of a hat. The teacher asks, "where does the hat belong, with the toys, with the food, or with the clothing?" Child will place his picture with the clothing picture and say "clothing".

Children make ghost cookies. Teacher cuts out ghost shapes and bakes. Children ice with white frosting and supply black gumdrop or jelly bean eyes.

FRIDAY - MASK

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAI, page 73.
Refer to group lesson on pumpkin for model of tasks and responses.
Require verbalization from each child on his particular level.
For tasks #1 and #2 use actual Halloween masks. For task #5 see C. art #1. For task #6, see D. games #1.

F. Music
1. Song: "Oh, Do You Have a Mask?" sung to tune of "Oh, Do You Know the Muffin Man?"
Oh, do you have a mask, a mask, a mask?

3. Make trick or treat bags. Paste on Halloween decals (pumpkin, black cat, witch, ghost). Use for trick or treating.

D. Games

1. Feely Box. See Monday - D. games #1.

3. Children pretend they are trick or treating. Child goes out of room and closes door. Child knocks on door, says, "Trick or treat" or "Boo!" Teacher puts candy in child's sack and looks under mask, "Oh, it's ____ (child) ___!"

E. Fine Motor

1. Make a noise maker. Use two individual foil pie tins. Punch holes in both tins. Children sew tins together with open sides facing each other. Put dry beans or kernels of rice or corn inside. Teacher will need to help. Teacher ties a loop of yarn at top for handle. Circles of orange construction paper are cut to fit bottoms of pie tins. Children paste a pumpkin face on the orange cutouts. Use noise maker with mask for trick or treating.

UNIT - PETS

The LAP normative data (Section I) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

MONDAY - CAT

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 72.

* Present live animal for identification and examination before lesson.

(Match Objects) 1. Children will match cat by holding up a cat (toy stuffed animal) next to the teacher's cat. The child will verbalize or approximate verbalization of "cat" to teacher's request and model. Teacher may ask, "what is this?" Child will respond, "cat", "a cat", or "it is a cat".

(Discriminate Object) 2. Children will discriminate a cat from another animal (pet) and then from two other animals. Teacher will request, "find the cat" or "touch the cat". "What did you find?"

(Match Picture) 3. Children will match a picture of a cat by holding up the picture next to the teacher's picture of a cat. The child will verbalize or approximate verbalization of "cat" to teacher's request and model. Teacher may ask "What is this?" Child will respond, "cat", "a cat", or "it is a cat".

Present two kinds of pet food, including cat food, then three kinds. Teacher requests, "find the cat food" or "touch the cat food". "What did you find?" Teacher presents cat food and asks, "who eats this food?"

(Classification as Pet) 8. On a poster the teacher has two pictures—one is a picture of a group of pets; the other is a group of people (children). Each child is given a picture of a cat. The teacher asks, "where does the cat belong, with the pets or with the people?" Child will place his picture with the pet picture and say "pets".
Unit - Pets

(Associate Sounds with Pet)

9. See D. games #2.

(Vocalize Sound of Pet)

    Teacher requests child to imitate sound.
    Teacher asks child, "what does the cat sound like?"
    Child vocalizes cat sound.

(Imitate--What Animal is This?)

11. Children will be asked to vocalize or approximate vocalizations on each task.

B. Music

1. Song: "I Love My Kitten"--sung to tune of "Down in the Valley"
   Verse 1--I love my kitten (cat), my kitten loves me.
   I love my kitten, my kitten loves me.
   I love my kitten, meow-meow-meow-meow.
   I love my kitten, meow-meow-meow-meow.

2. Song: "Old MacDonald"
   Verse 1--Old MacDonald had a farm,
   E-I-E-I-O
   And on this farm he had a cat,
   E-I-E-I-O
   With a meow-meow here, meow-meow there,
   Here meow, there meow
   Everywhere a meow.
   Old MacDonald had a farm,
   E-I-E-I-O.

Children hold pictures of the various pets. A child stands when his pet is named. All children sing. Conclude song with a last verse of "Old MacDonald had some pets. . . ."

3. Song: "Where Can the Cat Be?"--sung to tune of "Oh, Dear What Can the Matter Be?"
   Oh, dear, where can the cat be?
   Oh, dear, where can the cat be?
   Oh, dear, where can the cat be?
   She's in her basket (bed) asleep.
   Show a picture of a cat asleep in a basket or bed.

C. Art

   of "pet" pictures. Children choose cat pictures and paste on paper.

2. Children paste fake fur scraps on an outline of a cat.

3. Children "paint" the entire picture (simple) of a cat with glue.
   They sprinkle sand, bird gravel, or colored grits over the cat.
   The children shake off excess. Let the cat dry. Display or allow children to take home their pictures.

D. Games

1. Present cat and cat bed or cat basket (as cat's home). Have child put a picture of a cat in a picture of a cat's bed. "Put the cat in his basket (bed)" Have three pictures of pet homes (basket, bed) doghouse, birdcage, goldfish bowl, or turtle dish.
   Give child a picture of a cat. "Where does the cat live?" Child will put cat in his basket (bed) and say, "basket (bed)".

1. (b) Use a pocket chart for matching animal pictures and associating an animal with his home. On a poster board, tag board, etc., arrange two rows of 5 pockets each. One row beneath the other. In the top row put an animal card in each row. The children put cards in the bottom row. If they are matching animals they put a cat under a cat, a dog under a dog, etc. If they are associating homes they would put basket under cat, doghouse under dog, etc. Because other pets have not been introduced, the teacher may want to use two sets of pockets—one with a cat picture and the other with a child's picture. The children can then associate cat with basket and child with house. Make more than one set of cards (a set containing one card each of the different animals, homes, etc.). By making four or five sets the children can mix up the cards like a deck of cards and more than one child can play at a time.

3. Rhythm Game—children stand in a circle. Teacher uses a rhythm record to play appropriate music so the children can "jump like a cat, run like a dog, fly like a bird, swim like a fish, and walk like a turtle". To vary the game have a child stand in the middle of the circle and hold up picture to cue the children on how they should move (without music).

E. Fine Motor
1. Children draw whiskers on a picture of a cat.
2. See Appendix II—path tracing
   Take the cat to its food.
   Take the cat to her kittens.
3. See Appendix III—cue sheets.
   Use animal stamps to make cue sheet. Vary the cue sheet. The first one can have the same kind of cat pictured. The next one can have different breeds of cats pictured.

F. Storytelling and Fingerplays
1. Find a good picture showing children at play or taking care of their pet. Tell a short story of what the children are doing. Ask the children, "find the cat (kittens)".
   (b) After reading a good book to the children, show them all the pictures again from the beginning. Teacher asks the children, "find the cat food," "find the cat's bed" etc.
2. Flannel Board: Teacher places a cat on the flannel board with a part missing. Teacher asks, "what is missing?" Children name the part missing and place correct part on board.

G. Field Trip
1. Visit a pet shop. Take pictures of the trip. Make a sequence story. "What happened first?" (Polaroid pictures would enable immediate reinforcement of trip.)

Children are asked to "find the turkey". When they feel in the box and pull the turkey out, the teacher may respond, "good!" "What did you find?" Child may respond, "turkey", "a turkey" or "I found a turkey".

7. (Closure)

8. (Mark Cue Sheet)
   Child will mark an "X" on, encircle, or color every turkey on a page with pictures of other Thanksgiving objects. A "turkey" clue will be at the top of the page. The number of turkeys and objects on a page depends upon the level of the child. 2. A large paper turkey with tail missing is constructed by the teacher. Red, yellow, blue, and green paper tail feathers are assembled. Teacher gives directions to children as to color and number of feathers to put on turkey, e.g., "put on red tail feather". "Find a tail feather this color." (holding up a specific color feather.)

   Require verbalizations from each child on his particular level.
2. For task #5 ask children to "find the Indian" and "find the pilgrim".

B. Music
1. Song: "Ten Little Indians"--have the children wearing their Indian headdresses and carrying their drums. Each child stands up as teacher motions to him. The children can play their drums to the beat of the music. Sing about Indian boys and Indian girls.
2. Song: "If You're An Indian"--to the tune of "If You're Happy and You Know It".
   If you're an Indian and you know it,
   beat your drum, rum, tum tum,
   If you're an Indian and you know it,
   beat your drum, rum, tum tum.
   Rum tum-tum, rum tum-tum,
   Rum tum-tum, rum tum-tum,
   Rum tum-tum.

C. Art
1. Make an Indian drum. Use old shortening cans with the plastic top taped down, empty oatmeal boxes, etc. Teacher covers the outside with construction paper. Have children decorate the outside. Use in music activities where appropriate.
2. Make an Indian feather headband. Children paste feathers on strips of stiff construction paper. Teacher fastens paper around child's head with staples or paper clips.

D. Games
1. Bean Bag Toss--children throw a bean bag in the Indian box.
   Teachers decorate a box with Indian pictures to make the Indian box.
2. Children dance like Indians. One child plays the drum. Teacher dances like an Indian and the children imitate. Teacher models Indian war whoop (pat mouth while yelling). Children take turns playing drum.
3. Obstacle Course--have children one at a time move through an obstacle course either inside or outside. At the end of the course is a teepee for the children to rest. Examples of obstacles are crawling through a tunnel, walking a balance beam, walking between taped lines on the floor, climbing up and over an indoor jungle gym, etc.
Unit - Thanksgiving

E. Fine Motor
1. For examples of path tracing see Appendix II.
   Take the Indian to his teepee.
2. Teach children an Indian war whoop. Children will pat their mouth with their hand as they yell.

F. Storytelling and Fingerplays
1. Tell a simple story of Thanksgiving. Tell how the pilgrims and Indians were friends. Explain how they shared their food. Use pictures to illustrate.
2. Fingerplay: "Ten Little Indians". Hold fingers up when appropriate.
   Only sing about "five Indians", if ten is not appropriate. Refer to Indian boys and Indian girls.

G. Field Trip
1. Have an Indian visit. Try to have him or her dress in authentic Indian dress.

THURSDAY - PUMPKIN

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 74.
1. Refer to group lesson on turkey for model of tasks and responses.
   Require verbalizations from each child on his particular level.
2. For task #5 see Appendix I on figure ground.
   Take the pilgrim to the pumpkin

B. Music
1. Song: "Pumpkin Pie"--sung to the tune of the "Campbell's Soup Song".
   Pumpkin Pie,
   Pumpkin Pie,
   Yum, yum, yum,
   I like pumpkin pie.
2. Song: "Taste a Pumpkin"--sung to tune of "Did You Ever See A Lassie?"
   Did you ever taste a pumpkin, a pumpkin, a pumpkin;
   Did you ever taste a pumpkin, a pumpkin pie?
   It's tasty, it's sweet;
   It's good to eat.
   Did you ever taste a pumpkin, a pumpkin pie?

C. Art
1. Children paste a pumpkin pie puzzle onto a paper plate. (The puzzle pieces should be in pie wedge shapes.)
2. Children paint a pumpkin orange and its stem green.
3. Children cut out or tear out a pumpkin from orange construction paper. Teacher has pumpkin outlined in black magic marker on the paper. (fine motor)

D. Games
1. Find the Pumpkin--teacher hides a small, plastic pumpkin in the room. Children try to find it. Initially the teacher may need to put the pumpkin in a very conspicuous place, gradually making it harder to find. Let children hide the pumpkin. "Find the pumpkin." "What did you find?"
Unit - Thanksgiving

2. Pumpkin Toss--using a medium sized plastic pumpkin have the children toss a pumpkin back and forth. Have the children face each other and throw it. Make sure they are not too far away from each other. "Catch the pumpkin." "What did you catch?"

E. Fine Motor
1. Children make a pumpkin (a ball) out of orange play dough. Add green play dough at the top for the stem.
2. Children help scoop out pumpkin using hands and a spoon. Teacher keeps pumpkin for making a pumpkin pie or pumpkin cookies.
3. Children sew a pumpkin sewing card.

F. Storytelling and Fingerplays
1. Fingerplay: "Five Little Pumpkins" (hold hand up and move each finger as it talks)
   Five little pumpkins sitting on a gate,
   The 1st one said, "Oh, my it's getting late".
   The 2nd one said, "There's a storm in the air".
   The 3rd one said, "But we don't care".
   The 4th one said, "Let's run and run and run".
   The 5th one said, "I'm ready for some fun".
   Whoo000 went the wind, and out went the lights. (close hand) and the five little pumpkins rolled out of sight.
   Use a bulletin board to illustrate.

G. Snack
1. Prepare pumpkin cookies (either regular sugar cookies in a pumpkin shape or actual pumpkin cookies) or pumpkin pie. If a pumpkin pie is made, use the pumpkin carved from the fresh one used in the fine motor activity. (See E. fine motor #2)

FRIDAY - TEEPEE

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 74.
   1. Refer to group lesson on turkey for model of tasks and responses. Require verbalizations from each child on his particular level.
   2. For task #5 see examples of figure ground, Appendix I.

B. Music
   1. Song: "Where Does the Indian Live?"--sung to the tune of "Mulberry Bush".
      Where, oh where, does the Indian live?
      Where, oh where, does the Indian live?
      Where, oh where, does the Indian live?
      He lives in a teepee.
   2. Song: "The Big Teepee"--sung to the tune of "Mary Had A Little Lamb".
      The Indian has a big teepee, a big teepee, a big teepee,
      The Indian has a big teepee and that's where he lives.

Unit - Thanksgiving

C. Art
1. For examples of figure ground, see Appendix 1. Vary the size of teepees matched.
2. Children make a teepee with teacher's help. Teacher cuts out paper for a teepee. Children decorate it with crayons or felt tip pens. Teacher twists paper into a cone shape and staples. Teacher or child tears or cuts out space for door. Give each child a plastic toy Indian to put in his teepee.

D. Games
1. Make a teepee inside in the block area or outside. Use a blanket thrown over a climbing toy for the teepee. Have children wear their Indian headbands and carry their drums. Pretend the children are Indians and they live in their teepee. Do an Indian dance outside the teepee using the war whoop ("Indian call"). Have the children run, hop, dance in a circle.
2. Lotto Game—make lotto cards picturing different colors and different designs of teepees. Children match teepees. Example:

!Red Teepee !Blue Teepee
!Yellow Teepee !Green Teepee

E. Fine Motor
2. Children sew a teepee sewing card.
3. Children are given a paper with a picture of a house and a teepee, and two pictures of a child and an Indian. Teacher asks, "where does the Indian live?" Children paste picture of Indian next to teepee. Teacher asks, "where does the boy (or girl) live?" Children paste picture of child next to house.

F. Storytelling and Fingerplays
1. Tell a story about a little Indian girl and a little Indian boy. They are neighbors. Use pictures to illustrate. Show where the children live.
2. Fingerplay: "Teepee"
   Once there was an Indian girl, (hold up one index finger)
   And a little Indian boy. (hold up other index finger)
   They were very, very happy. (use index fingers to point to smile on face)
   Living in their Indian teepee. (use all fingers to make a teepee shape)
UNIT - BUILDINGS

The LAP normative data (Section I) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

MONDAY - SCHOOL

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 74.

(Match) 1. Children will match pictures of the school by putting one picture on picture held by teacher and verbalizing or approximating verbalization of "school" to teacher's request and model. "What is this?" "School," child responds.

(Associate with Objects - school bus) 4. Children will associate picture of school with objects (school bus) by finding "what goes with" school.

(Classify as Building) 5. Children will classify school as a building by finding "buildings" in group of pictures of buildings and other objects.

(Imitation "What is This?") 6. Children will be asked to verbalize or approximate verbalizations on each task.

B. Music

1. Song: "Come to School" (tune of Campbell's Soup commercial)

Come to school
Come to school
You and I
Will come to school.

2. Song: "The People on the Bus Go Up and Down" (Line chairs up to make a school bus. Children act out song.)

(1.) The people on the bus go up and down.
Up and down
Up and down
The people on the bus go up and down.

(2.) The wipers on the bus go swish, swish, swish.

(3.) The horn on the bus goes beep, beep, beep.
(Children act out honking horn)

(4.) Add other appropriate verses.
C. Art
1. Paste pieces of a bus on outline of bus to make complete picture. (visual perception, hand-eye coordination)
2. Teacher makes sew cards by reinforcing picture of school with cardboard and punching holes through which children sew colorful yarn and take home.

D. Games
1. Children hold hands and go through obstacle course (chairs lined as path, under or over ropes, through tunnel, etc.) singing "Here we go to School" to tune of Mulberry Bush, with picture of school at end of obstacle course.
2. Play school with children taking turns being teacher directing other children in activity.
3. In block area build school, bring toy children and buses to school. (Fisher-Price type.)

E. Fine Motor
1. Path Tracing—Take "child" to "school". See Appendix II for example of path tracing.
2. Draw large map with each child's house pictured and named. Make roads (straight and curved) and have each child begin at starting point and drive toy car to own house.

F. Storytelling

G. Field Trip
1. Take walk around school naming various points of interest. Walk inside and outside school.
2. Ride to other schools. This points out how schools can look different yet all be schools.

TUESDAY - CHURCH

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 74. Refer to group lesson on school for model of tasks and responses. Expect verbalizations from each child on his particular level. Point out that we are quiet in church, contrast with loud outside.

B. Music and Fingerplays
1. Using hands and fingers clasped together, child places index fingers straight up and touching, then turn hands over, open and wiggle fingers still clasped together.

Here is the church
Here is the steeple
Open the door
And see all the people.
To tune of "Are you Sleeping, Brother John":
Church bells ringing
Church bells ringing
Ding, Ding, Dong
Ding, Ding, Dong
Church bells ringing
Church bells ringing
Ding, Ding, Dong
Ding, Ding, Dong
Ding, Ding, Dong.
(Children can play small bells.)

C. Art
1. Figure ground—paste cut-out of church on partially hidden outline of church. Start with one picture to be matched and increase number and difficulty with increased skill by children. See Appendix I for example of figure ground.

2. Put together simple puzzle of church—teacher cuts pieces and draws outline on sheet of construction paper. The place for each puzzle piece may be outlined and color coded if children need additional cues or help.

D. Games
1. Walk on straight or curved road, made with strips of masking tape placed two feet apart, to church at the end of the road. "Stay on the road, let's go to the church." Teacher will demonstrate.

E. Fine Motor
1. Make sewing cards of cardboard cut-outs of a church. Teacher punches holes through which children sew brightly colored yarn.

2. Child puts glue on outline of church, then sprinkles with fingers sand or grits, colored with dry tempera paint. Shake off remaining bits and take home a picture of a church. (good tactile stimulation also)

F. Field Trip
1. Go to one or more churches. Emphasize "quiet", sitting still in pews or chairs. Act out these concepts with teacher as model.

WEDNESDAY - GROCERY STORE

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 74.
1. Refer to group lesson for school for similar tasks and responses.

2. Have children find food items from concrete objects (clothing, tools, food, animals). Do this only after a thorough explanation and demonstration of items found in a grocery store and after naming them food. Children put concrete food objects in a box painted to look like grocery store.

3. Verbalization from each child on his level.

B. Music and Fingerplays
1. Use the same box that was used in the group lesson. Give each child two or three common foods (milk, apple, banana, meat, corn).
Children may all have same item. Teacher holds up one item at a time (example: meat). All sing to tune of Campbell's Soup commercial:

Grocery Store
Put the meat (apple, corn, banana, etc.)
In the Grocery Store.
The child or children holding that item will come to box "Grocery Store" and put it in.

C. Art
1. Given a large picture of a grocery store and many magazine pictures of items such as furniture, flowers, tools, animals, and food, the children will find the food and paste it on the picture of the grocery store. Teacher: "Let's put food on the grocery store." Ask children to name "grocery store". Teacher demonstrates task, assists, and praises success.
2. Figure ground--pasting grocery store on outline partially hidden. See Appendix I for examples of figure ground.

D. Games
1. Set up grocery store in classroom. Find real grocery cart or use wagon, stroller or carriage. Give children play money (but do not teach the value of money--just use it as exchange for food). Bring in real cans, boxes, pictures, or real food for children to "buy". Children take turns playing the cashier, or grocery man/woman. Teacher will model (demonstrate) selecting food, putting it in cart, and paying for it.

E. Fine Motor
1. Path Tracing--take pictured food to grocery store. As mentioned in school lesson, begin with 1 1/2 inch wide horizontal path and then go to narrower paths. Some children may be ready for curved half inch paths. Large crayons, magic markers, or pieces of sponge nailed to thread spool (for child with less finger/hand control) can be used. See Appendix II for example of path tracing.

F. Reasoning
1. Flannel board--cut-outs of store with areas for meat, vegetables, fruit, etc.; cut-outs of various foods. After teacher puts one of each kind of food in appropriate place in store, children come up and place their fruits, meat, vegetables, etc. (Classification activity.)

G. Field Trip
1. Go to grocery store to buy snacks for the next week. Let each child put an item in the cart and pay at the cashier with money the teacher gives him. A child may receive change which he returns to the teacher. Activity includes selecting food, pushing cart, paying, and receiving change. Every child should participate in some way. Praise is given for participation.

THURSDAY - SERVICE (GAS) STATION

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 74.
1. Refer to session on school for examples of tasks and responses. NOTE: Field trip to service station to get gas in car, have oil checked, windows washed, etc. might precede group lesson and strengthen concept.

B. Music
1. To tune of "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush".
   This is the way we pump the gas
   Pump the gas
   Pump the gas
   This is the way we pump the gas
   Right in your car.

Materials: toy car, garden hose--also to be used in free play during the day.

C. Art
1. Given a picture of a service station the children will choose from various pictures of related and unrelated objects the objects related to a service station (gas pump, car, gas hose) and paste them on the picture of the station. Teacher will model task with one related picture.

2. Children will paste pictures of cars beside gas pumps on picture of service station.

D. Games
1. In block area set up service station. Children pretend driving cars to station, "I want gas", "Fill it up", "Regular, please". Child plays station attendant, puts gas in car, receives money, car driven away. Teacher will demonstrate by driving the first "car".

2. Outside--draw large road in dirt (straight or curved) and designate place for service station (with box, blocks, tire, etc.). Children drive tricycles on road, stopping for gas, car wash, tire check, or other automotive work.

E. Fine Motor
1. Draw sewing card with several cars around edge. Yarn is the gas hose and the hole is punched at the gas tank. Sewing is pumping gas! NOTE: Preposition "in" is emphasized also.

F. Field trip
As mentioned before, the field trip may prove most beneficial as the first activity of the day.

FRIDAY - HOUSE

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 74.
   1. Refer to lesson on school.
   2. Use doll house as concrete representation, then go to pictures.

B. Music
1. To tune of "Mulberry Bush"
Unit - Buildings

I give my friend a little house.
Little house
Little house
I give my friend a little house.
Little house.

Procedure: Child walks around group holding small toy model of a house. He picks a "friend" and gives him the house. That child then takes a turn.

2. Children have brought in snapshots of their homes and teacher has made a bulletin board displaying them with the child's name underneath. At music time children sit in a group near bulletin board. To tune of "Oh, Tannenbaum" ("Oh, Christmas Tree") all sing and clap:
   Go find your house
   Go find your house
   Oh, Tommy.
   Go find your house.
   Child go to bulletin board and touches his own home.

C. Art
1. Given a piece of construction paper with outline of house, children will paste on cut-out shapes in appropriate place. This can be simplified to two or three pieces or made more difficult according to level of child.

2. Build house from scraps of wood. Glue together.
3. Figure ground--paste cut-out of houses on partially hidden houses. See Appendix I for example of figure ground.

D. Games:
1. Play house in housekeeping area. Children role-play family members.
2. Outside: form circle, join hands, each child takes turns going in and out of circle through joined arms. Sing:
   Go in and out the window
   Go in and out the window
   Go in and out the window
   As we have done before.
3. Build house with large blocks.

E. Fine Motor
1. Teacher models building a house with small blocks, then child builds same house. Example:

   ![3 blocks]

   3 blocks
   or more.

2. Path tracing--from child to house. See Appendix II for example of path tracing.
3. Paste beans one at a time within outline of house. Use different colored beans for different parts of the house.
UNIT - MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

The LAP normative data (Section 1) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

MONDAY - DRUM

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 75.

1. Show real drum. "This is a drum."
2. Play the drum.
3. Ask each child "what is this?" Teacher may need to model the desired response: "this is a drum". For children with a one word response, "drum". Expect the response appropriate for each child.
4. Children play the drum or pantomime playing in imitation of teacher.
5. Teacher to child "put the drum on the drum". Two objects drum, shoe—child puts drum on drum.
6. Child finds drum when paired with other objects (shoe, glass, maracas, bells). "Touch the drum" or "show me the drum". "What is it?"
7. When paired with a picture of another object, the picture of a drum is to be matched with another picture of a drum.
8. Start with only one other picture, then two, then three, etc. "Find the drum." "What is it?"
9. Feely Box—place drum in a box with one other very different object. Box has hole for child's hand. "Find the drum." Child pulls it out of the box if possible. If not, teacher checks to see if response is correct.
10. Find drum in a busy picture and/or do figure ground in art, lesson #2.
11. Hide part of the drum (picture or object). Pair with other partially hidden picture—"find the drum".
12. Do in music #1.
13. Do in music #2.

B. Music
1. Auditory discrimination of sound of drum. Behind a screen, play various instruments one at a time. Child tells which is drum to teacher's question "is this a drum?" Begin with only two or three instruments, the non-drum sounds being very different from the drum sound.

3. Rent to names of children. "Ma-ry", "Jon-n-than"

C. Art
1. Make drums: oatmeal boxen, coffee cans, masking tape, paint, sticks—balls on end of stick may be made by wrapping tape or from wooden knobs found at lumber company
2. Figure ground—see Appendix I for example of figure ground.
   This is a good activity for those children who need a more structured art activity.

D. Games (Gross Motor)
1. Follow the Leader—leader plays drum while marching, walking, jumping or any body movement and other children imitate.
2. Hide drum in room or on playground. Children find it.
3. Who's Playing the Drum?—three children sit with backs to group. Two children imitate playing drum, one actually plays, other children guess who is really playing.

E. Fine Motor
1. Lacing cards with drum cut out. Vary size and number of holes with ability of children. Use shoe strings or dip ends of string in Elmer's glue and let dry.
2. Path Tracing—pre-writing skills. Use magic markers, large crayons, or large paint brushes before using pencils. See Appendix II for example of path tracing.
3. Make drums out of clay.

F. Storytelling

TUESDAY - HORN

A. Group unit lesson—See LAF, page 75.
1. Refer to suggested activities and tasks for drum. (If possible, use a real brass trumpet or other brass horn.)

B. Music
1. Auditory discrimination—refer to drum music #1.
2. Review name and function of drum; model use of horn. Children play drum and horn while marching.
3. Play a cassette tape on which you have recorded sounds of the drum and the horn and one or two non-musical sounds. The drum and horn are in the middle of the table. When the sound of the drum is heard, the children touch the drum and say "drum". Say directions for the horn. Teacher: "Now listen carefully, children. When you hear the horn (play horn), or the drum (play drum), show me which one you hear."

C. Art
1. Paste pieces of horn together on outline of horn. Pieces can be of various colors and child can choose the colors. Model the task by actually pasting a horn together as the children observe. "What is this?" "What do we do with it?"
2. Figure ground—find hidden shapes of horn and paste on cut-outs of horn. Vary number and size of shapes with ability of child.

D. Games
1. Find the horns—paste many pictures of horns around the room, some in obvious places, some not so obvious. All children look for horns and collect the pictures they find or call out when they find a picture.
2. Follow the Leader—buy plastic horns for children. Take turns outside being "leader" for a parade. All play horns and march imitating the leader.

E. Fine Motor
1. Puzzles—paste simple picture of a horn on cardboard and cut into pieces. Sequence the difficulty by cutting puzzles into two, three, four, and five pieces. One child may work the puzzle of two pieces while another may have the one of five pieces.
2. Practice manipulating the valves of a real trumpet.
3. Path tracing—see Appendix II for examples of path tracing.

F. Storytelling
1. Puppets—one character can't play a horn, others show him how.

WEDNESDAY - TAMBOURINE

A. Unit group lesson—See LAP, page 75.
   1. Refer to group lesson for drum for model tasks and responses.

B. Music
   1. Auditory Discrimination—refer to auditory discrimination lesson for drum (music #1)
   2. Review names and use of drum and horn, and add tambourine to group of instruments. Have a few children model use of each, then have a parade with each child choosing his instrument. March and play with or without accompanying record.
   3. Play tape on which you have recorded the sounds of the drum, the horn, and the tambourine. Place all three instruments on the table and have the children identify by touching or naming (or both) the instrument they hear.

C. Art
   1. Make tambourines—use aluminum pie plates, bottle tops, and string. Punch holes around the rims of the pie plates, and through the bottle tops. Loop a short piece of string through hole in pie plate and through bottle tops and tie. The more bottle tops you have the better the tambourine!
NOTE: If aluminum pie plates are unavailable, strong paper plates may be used.

2. A more structured activity—children paste cut-outs of tambourines on piece of construction paper on which have been drawn outlines of tambourines. Use two or three sizes as a size discrimination task.

3. Shape discrimination—children paste cut-outs of drum, horn, and tambourine on construction paper on which the three outlines have been drawn. Strengthen the follow-up on drum and horn by having children re-name those instruments and pantomime the playing of each.

D. Games
1. Relay Race—passing off the tambourine. Run, playing the tambourine. Child must say "tambourine" before he passes it on to next child.
2. Give out cards with pictures of drums, horns, and tambourines, give five to each child. Shuffle and deal so that each child has varying number of instruments. Teacher calls out a name of an instrument "drum", and children with pictures of drums throw them in a pile in the center of the table. Teacher calls names of all three instruments until one child throws in all his cards and becomes the "winner". This game works better with a small group of 3-5 children.
3. Feely Box—place one of the three instruments studied (horn, drum, tambourine) in a box with a hole in one side large enough for the child's hand. Child reaches in, feels the instrument, and tries to name it. If he can not, show him the instrument, put it back in the box and let him feel it again. Give him another turn at the same instrument later.

E. Fine Motor
1. Path Tracing—see Appendix II for examples of path tracing.
2. Making the tambourine in the art lesson is an excellent fine motor activity.

F. Reasoning
1. Place the drum, tambourine, and horn on a table with other objects (shoes, fruit, clothing, cars, etc.). Ask child to find the "things that make music" (or "things that are musical instruments" for those children on that level in language).
A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 75.
   1. Refer to group lesson on drum for model tasks and responses.

B. Music
   1. Auditory discrimination--see music #1 for drum.
   2. Review other three instruments (drum, horn, tambourine) names and how to play. Add bells and have a rhythm band.

C. Art
   1. Nail Bells--use many nails, big, medium, small, fat, thin--tie heads of nails with one end of two inch string and other end to a stick. Strike the various sized nails with a very large nail or screw to hear "bell" tones. Use at least five or six nails per child's stick.
   2. Paste cut-outs of drum, horn, tambourine, and bells onto pre-outlined shapes on sheet of paper. Have each child name the shapes.

D. Games
   1. Child is named "it" for first turn. He closes his eyes. Another child plays bells in some area of the room. "It" points to the area in which he hears the bells. Those two children choose two others to take their places.
   2. See drum, games #3 (Who's Playing the Drum?)

E. Fine Motor
   1. See art #1 (play, if not able to tie) and #2.

F. Storytelling
   1. Experience story--putting the art activity into words, the children tell what they did first, next, and so on in making the nail bells.
      The teacher writes it down in story form as the children tell it, then reads it back to the children. Follow reading with questions:
      "Now what did we do first?" "Then what did we do?"
      NOTE: For non-verbal children who are able to express ideas through gestures this will also be appropriate.

FRIDAY - CYMBAL

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 75.
   1. Refer to group lesson on drum.
   2. Try to use child-size cymbals usually found in rhythm instrument collection.

B. Music
   1. Auditory discrimination--see music #1 for drum.
   7. Review other instruments, name and use, add cymbals and have rhythm band. If there are not enough cymbals to go around, use lids to pots or something similar.

C. Art
   1. Making cymbals:
      a. Aluminum pie plates--attach piece of elastic to center for fingers.
      b. Finger cymbals--bottle caps and elastic for fingers.
2. Size discrimination—paste different sizes of round cut-outs (cymbals) on pre-outlined sheet of paper. Match to appropriate size.
3. Shape discrimination—paste cut-outs of all five instruments on pre-outlined shapes on sheet of paper.

D. Games
1. See bell games #1.
2. Rhythm Game—one child clings the cymbals at different paces: slow, faster, very fast. All other children move to the beat: walk, slide, run, jump, etc. Give each child a turn at being the leader. Teacher may need to model responses to the beat.

E. Fine Motor
1. Sewing Cards—see drum fine motor #1.
2. Fine motor skills in art #2 and #3.

F. Storytelling
1. Flannel board—have cut-outs for the "Cymbal Family". Big cymbal, middle-sized cymbal, and little tiny cymbal—and cut-outs for drum, horn, tambourine, and bells. The cymbal family was travelling along when they met a drum (children name drum when teacher shows cut-out). "What do you do?", they ask the drum. Children say, "I say boom, boom". "Maybe we could play together," said the cymbals. "Clang, clang," (children and teacher pantomime playing cymbals and say "clang, clang") "Boom, boom," (pantomime and say). The drum joins the cymbal family and they walk along. They meet the horn, (toot, toot), the tambourine (shake, shake), and the bell (ding, ding), and go through same routine for each. At end, all play together and are happy. Hold each cut-out up, pantomime playing and saying the different sounds one after the other.

G. Field Trip
1. Plan to visit a high school band practice. Let children point out the instruments they have studied. If arrangements are made in advance, they may be able to touch or hold some of the instruments in the band.
UNIT - TOYS

The LAP normative data (Section I) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

MONDAY - BALL

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 76.
   (Match Object) 1. Child will "put the ball on the ball" (use real balls) to verbal request from teacher.
   (Discriminate Object) 2. Child will "touch the ball" on verbal request from teacher when the ball is paired with a shoe, a book, or other different object. "What did you touch?" "Ball, very good talking."
   (Tactile Discrimination) 4. Give a box with a hole cut large enough for a child's hand on one side, the child will discriminate ball by touch when a ball and another object have been placed in the box.
   (Closure) 6. When part of a picture of a ball is hidden and parts of other pictures are hidden, the child will be able to "find the ball". "What is it?" "A ball." "Good work."
   (Classify As A Toy) 7. When a group of objects, toys and non-toys are placed on a table, the child will "find all the toys". Included will be a ball.
   (Indicate Function) 8. When teacher asks, "what do you do with a ball?", the child will pantomime bouncing or throwing or kicking a ball.
   (Verbalize Label) 9. To teacher's question "what is this?" Child will say either: "ball", "a ball" or "this is a ball".

B. Snack
   1. Small "balls" of fruit or candy or homemade peanut butter balls. Children name "ball", talk about big, little balls.

C. Music
   1. Song: "I Give My Friend A Big, Red Ball"--to tune of "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush". Other words may be substituted for big (little) and red (other color). Children sit in circle, one child begins with the ball and at end of song gives the ball to his "friend". All name the friend, and he then carries ball to give to another friend while all sing the song.

Unit - Toys

2. Bounce balls to rhythm of music. "What are we doing?" "Bouncing the ball." "Good."

D. Art
1. Size discrimination--paste cut out balls of different sizes on matching outlines of different sizes.
2. With large brush and choice of colors children paint big balls on large paper.

E. Games
1. Children stand in circle with one child (or teacher at first) in center. Person in middle turns slowly, calls a child's name and tosses the ball to that child who catches it. He then takes a turn in the center and first child rejoins the circle.
2. Relay race with balls. Running relay or "over-under" relay.
3. Toss a large ball into a box or large wastebasket. Good hand-eye and gross motor activity.

F. Fine Motor
1. See D. art #1.
2. Sewing Cards--teacher makes colorful cardboard cut outs of balls, punch holes the size and number to meet child's need. Sew with shoe strings, or string with ends hardened from dipping in white glue.
3. Decorate large cut out cardboard balls (circle) by glueing on small objects such as beans, cotton balls, bits of junk jewelry, colored pop corn, etc. (A good art activity also).

G. Storytelling
1. Experience Story--"what did we do today with a ball?" As children tell what the activities were, the teacher writes what they say (in their words) on large paper.
2. Teacher holds a large ball of string one end dangling. "Once there was a big ball of string. Some children and a teacher wanted to use it. The teacher wanted to use it to tie a balloon (teacher pulls some string). And the ball got smaller, and smaller." Teacher now gives end of string to a child and he tells why he wants to use it, pulls the string more and more. All say together "and the ball got smaller and smaller". Each child has a turn to tell how he will use the string, to pull off more. Repeat together each time "and the ball got smaller and smaller". Make an ending to the story: ball was happy to be used by the children, now a tiny ball.

Tuesday - Doll

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 76.
1. Refer to Monday's lesson for ball.

B. Music
1. Have three or four dolls for children to use. Children manipulate Unit - Toys

dolls, have them "dance" to record. "Who is dancing?" "What are the dolls doing?"
2. Teacher holds a large doll, moving its legs, arms, body to music. Children do what the doll does. Use slower music at first then faster.

C. Art
1. Paste cut-outs of doll's body parts together to make a doll. Paste on pre-drawn outline or if parts are large paste together and put rubber band through head. This enables child to make the doll walk, dance or bounce. Teacher models the pasting, naming the body parts as she pastes hers together.
2. On pre-drawn outline of a large doll, children choose from bits of fabric, colored paper, beans, sequins, yarn, etc. to dress the doll and make its hair.

D. Games
1. All eyes closed. One child hides a doll in the room or on playground. Children open their eyes, and teacher asks, "who can find the doll?"
2. Have dolls in housekeeping area for family play. Use dolls that can be dressed, undressed, and bathed with water.
3. Present three dolls to group. Dolls are very different in size, color, sex, clothing, etc. Talk about the outstanding features of each, have children talk about each. Then children close their eyes, teacher hides one doll. "Which one is missing?"

E. Fine Motor
1. Dressing and undressing dolls.
2. See C. art #1 and #2.

F. Storytelling
1. Teacher uses classroom dolls to "act out" story. This provides a good model for children for pretend play with dolls on other days.
2. Show a Raggedy Ann doll. Read a story about Raggedy Ann. Be familiar enough with the story to adapt the words to the language level of the children.

WEDNESDAY - BLOCKS

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 76.
1. Refer to Monday's lesson for fall.

B. Music
2. Introduce sand blocks--(glue sandpaper to some blocks)--model how to use by scraping together. Children play to music.
3. March around (or between) the blocks--place large blocks a few feet apart or in two rows. By following the leader the children march to music either around or between. Introduce the prepositions by saying march around or march between the blocks. Repeat directions often.

-1h6-
C. Art
1. Small group of children sit at a table. Teacher gives each child ten or fifteen small one inch wooden cubes. Teacher models different ways to build with small blocks, then children build whatever they like.
2. Get small block-like scraps of wood at a lumber company. Children build their own imaginative structures using glue or nails. These may be painted on another day.

D. Games
1. Have many blocks of different shapes and sizes in a conspicuous place (in middle of the floor) for the children to build houses, trains, cars, etc.
2. Sorting by shape, size, or color into containers.
3. Using large cardboard building blocks have a contest to see who can build the highest tower before it topples over. Give each child a turn. This can be played outside as well as inside.

E. Fine Motor
1. See C. art #1 and #2.

F. Storytelling
1. Show children a real brick. Pass it around the group pointing out: heavy, rough, very strong, hard to break. Emphasize that "a brick is a block also and houses can be made of bricks". Read the story of the Three Little Pigs or use flannel board characters. At end of story pass the brick around again, repeat heavy, strong characteristics and let children tell why the wolf could not blow down the house of bricks.

THURSDAY – TEA SET

A. Unit Group Lesson – See LAP, page 76.
1. Refer to Monday's lesson on ball.

B. Music
1. Use real tea set or children can imitate teacher who uses real tea set. Sing to tune of "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush".
   a. This is the way we drink our ______.
   b. This is the way we eat our ______.
   c. This is the way we cut our ______.
   d. This is the way we pour our ______.
2. Show children a real tea pot or toy tea pot. Label handle and spout and have children name handle and spout. Children show function by pouring from tea pot. Sing song:
   I'm a little tea pot
   Short and stout (or fat)
   Here is my handle. (arm makes handle)
   Here is my spout. (arm out to side)
   When I get all steamed up,
   Then I shout. (blow or whistle)
   Just tip me over, (bend body to side)
   Pour me out.
C. Art
1. Have three or four parts of a tea set (cup, plate, glass, fork, knife, pot) outlined on paper. Children match cut outs to appropriate outline and paste on.
2. Children mold plates, cups, bowls and other parts of a tea set from natural clay or play dough which will harden. In a few days they may want to paint the pieces.

D. Games
1. Give one or two pieces of a tea set to each child in a small group. "Who has a cup?" (or plate, or fork, or pitcher, etc.) "Hold it up high." "What is it?" Child verbalizes. "Show us what you do with a cup." Each child has at least one turn.
2. Have tea set on a table when the children come in that morning and encourage them in the dramatic play of eating together, serving each other, and talking about what they are eating.

E. Fine Motor
1. See C. art #1 and #2.

F. Storytelling
1. For language and following directions--give a piece of the tea set to each child (small group of children). Have a small table in front of the children. Teacher holding a comical puppet: "Oh dear, oh dear, where is my tea set? I'm so hungry. Hi, boys and girls. Do you have my tea set?" Children answer. "Who has my cup?" Child holding cup says, "I have your cup" (non-verbal children hold up cup and say "c" or "cu" or "cup"). Puppet: "Please put it on the table for me." Repeat actions and verbalizations for each piece. "Oh, now I have my tea set. I can eat. Thank you boys and girls. Good bye." He begins to eat.

FRIDAY - JUMP ROPE

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 76.
1. Refer to group lesson for ball.

B. Music
1. Pantomime jumping rope to rhythm record. Teacher models action by actually jumping rope.

C. Art
1. Make jump ropes--cut rope to fit child's height. Children wrap tape round and round the ends to make hand grips.

D. Games
1. Two children, each holding one end of a rope. Starting with rope lying on ground each child in line jumps over. When all children have had a turn the rope is raised one or two inches. Call out directions "jump" and "over", have children say these words as they complete the action.
2. Two children, each holding one end of rope, slowly bring rope up and over head of child. Everyone calls out "jump". This represents a beginning step in learning to jump rope.

E. Fine Motor
1. See C. art #1.

F. Field Trip
1. Go to a toy store. Help the children find and touch the toys you have learned about. Try to have enough money to purchase one toy from the toy store.
The LAP normative data (Section 1) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child’s task may be different.

B. Music

1. Sing "Oh, Christmas Tree". Children walk around real tree singing. Change the words for children who cannot process original version to something like:
   Oh, Christmas tree
   Oh, Christmas tree
   Oh, pretty, green Christmas tree.
C. Snack
1. Serve cookies shaped like Christmas tree, use toy Christmas tree as centerpiece. Talk about shape of cookies, color of toy tree and allow children to express Christmas tree ideas.
2. Use Christmas tree cookie cutter and make cookies, decorating with tiny candy "sprinkles". Children put on pan, go to oven with teacher.
3. Cookie cutters—cut hole in center of shape, drop in one colored Life-Saver—when baking, Life-Saver melts, gives stained glass window effect.

D. Art
2. Make Christmas tree decorations for class tree:
   a. paper chains
   b. styrofoam balls—stick with toothpicks, spray paint, add glitter
   c. gum balls (from tree)—paint, add glitter
   d. egg cups from egg carton—make bells by painting, gluing on colored salt, glitter, yarn through top for hanging—attach small bell to end of yarn inside egg cup
   e. glue popsicle sticks together in various shapes, add paint, glitter, yarn for hanging
   f. see snack #3. "Stained glass" cookies may be hung on tree.
   g. make Christmas tree hats

E. Games
1. Place toy Christmas tree (or small tree) in center of floor or outside. Run, walk, crawl, jump, gallop around the tree. Emphasize action words as well as preposition around.
2. Hide toy trees around room or outside. Have Christmas tree hunt.

F. Fine Motor
1. See snack #2 and #3.
2. See art #1 and #2.

G. Storytelling
1. Flannel board—flannel cut-out of a large (12 inch) Christmas tree, small flannel cut-outs of decorations mixed with things that are not decorations (stove, clothes, food, furniture) placed on flannel board—Teacher: "Hello, boys and girls, I am a Christmas tree." (holds up tree, and moves it around group) "I need some decorations. Can you help me?" Children and teacher: "Yes, we can help you." (Teacher puts tree on flannel board). Each child comes to flannel board, finds a decoration and places it on the tree. "Oh, thank you, Tony." Tree thanks each child and when all decorations are on the tree is very happy.

H. Reasoning
1. Cue Sheet—at top of paper have an outline of a Christmas tree tree. Have other identical tree outlines on the paper, mixed with different objects. "Find all the Christmas trees and mark them with your crayon." Teacher may need to teach children how to mark by modeling on chalkboard or paper. Vary the number of objects different from tree according to skill level of each child.

TUESDAY - DECORATION

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 76.
   1. Refer to group lesson for Christmas tree.

B. Art
   1. See art for Christmas tree for tree decoration ideas.

C. Fine Motor
   1. Path tracing -- see Appendix II for examples of path tracing.

D. Games
   1. Pin the decoration on the tree -- large tree on wall, blindfold each child, point him in the direction of the tree -- pin or tape colorful decoration on tree.

E. Reasoning
   1. Classification task -- place many objects on a table, some Christmas decorations, some not decorations. "Find all the decorations and put them in the box."

WEDNESDAY - SANTA CLAUS

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 76.
   1. Teacher begins by dressing up as Santa or have someone come in dressed as Santa. See group lesson on Christmas tree for other tasks.

B. Music
   1. "Santa Claus Is Coming To Town" -- emphasize actions in song by acting out words like "better watch out", "better not pout", "cry", use toy Santa and sleigh to act out Santa's coming to town. Sing only first verse with most pre-school children.

   2. For children with little language sing to the tune of "Where is Thumbkin?":
      Santa Claus
      Santa Claus
      Ho, Ho, Ho,
      Ho, Ho, Ho
      Santa Claus
      Santa Claus
      Ho, Ho, Ho,
      Ho, Ho, Ho.
      (Modify all songs to fit the children's language ability.)
Unit - Christmas

C. Art
1. On pre-drawn outline of Santa have children paste cotton on for beard, mustache, and hat trim.
2. Children paste parts of Santa's face or whole body together. Allow children to paste as they choose after modeling of task by teacher.
3. Giant poster of Santa--pre-drawn outline--children paint with large paint brushes (red, black, and colors for face). Glue on cotton for beard, mustache, hat and suit trim.

D. Games
1. On poster paper draw a large "map". Draw a house for each child with his name on it, and roads (some straight, some very curvy depending on skill). Child starts at beginning point and drives toy plastic Santa and sleigh (5 & 10¢ store) on a three inch wide road to his house.
2. Paint or draw large picture of Santa on cardboard. Cut out a large hole at the top of his bag. Children throw bean bags or ball "into Santa's bag".
3. Language activity for small groups--large grocery bag or fabric bag filled with little presents, one for each child. Teacher pretends to be Santa, calls each child up, asks him to feel the present, shake it, and guess what is in it. Child tells whole group, puts present back in bag. When each child has told what he thinks his present is, all open their own.

E. Fine Motor
1. See art #1, #2, and #3.
2. Path tracing--Santa to house. See Appendix II for examples of path tracing.
3. Figure ground--see Appendix I for examples of figure ground.

F. Storytelling
1. "Twas the Night Before Christmas"--change words unfamiliar to children. Put a lot of expression--body, facial, and vocal--into the reading.
2. Flannel board--cut-outs of Santa without a hat, Santa's hat, a boot, a box, a ball, a baby, a banana, a boy. Santa has lost his hat and is very worried. He asks the children if they have seen it. He begins to look. Children name the object as he gets to each.
   a. Is it in the boot? No-o-o
   b. Is it in the box? No-o-o
   c. Is it on the baby? No-o-o
   d. Is it under the banana? No-o-o
   e. Is it under the ball? No-o-o
   Oh dear, where is my hat? Boy is placed on flannel board:
   "Santa, is this your hat?" He puts it on Santa. "No, no, no. Thank you little boy. Now I have my hat."
THURSDAY - REINDEER

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 76.
   1. Refer to group lesson for tree.

B. Music
   1. Show pictures of reindeer, one with a red nose. Ask children:
      "which one is different?" "How is it different?" "Red nose, right." Let's sing a song about a reindeer who had a red nose: "Rudolph, the Red Nose Reindeer". If children know the song, have them play bells to rhythm of the song.
      For children with little language, shorten the song.
   2. Put toy reindeer in center of circle of children. Play
      "Ring Around the Reindeer, Ring Around the Reindeer, Reindeer, Reindeer, All Fall Down."

C. Art
   1. On pre-drawn outline of reindeer's head, child will sprinkle sand or white glue which he has spread on antlers. For fuzzy reindeer skin child will glue on fuzzy fabric. Have children verbally label antlers and other features of the head.
   2. On pre-drawn head of a reindeer children will glue twigs for antlers. Verbally label antlers.

D. Games
   1. Put rope through front of large box (sleigh). Two or three children pretend to be reindeer (headbands with paper antlers) and pull another child (Santa, with cotton beard) in box.

E. Fine Motor
   1. See art #1 and #2.
   2. Path tracing--see Appendix II for examples of path tracing.

F. Storytelling
   1. Flannel board--story of Rudolph. Reduce length of story and adapt language for your group.

G. Reasoning
   1. Cue sheet--see appendix for examples of cue sheets. (Appendix III)
   2. Classification task--place group of objects on a table, some reindeer and some non-reindeer. Have reindeer (toys) differ in size, color, position of body. Child finds "all the reindeer" and puts them in a container.

FRIDAY - STOCKING

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 76.
   1. Use several different types of Christmas stockings. Refer to group lesson on tree for model tasks.

B. Music
   1. To tune of "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush":

-155
I give my friend a stocking,
Stocking, stocking
I give my friend a stocking.
Christmas stocking.
Child carries stocking around circle, at end of song gives it to another child who then carries stocking as others sing.

2. Each child has a small stocking, hides it behind his back. To tune of "Where Is Thumbkin?" Sing:
   Where is a stocking?
   Where is a stocking?
   Here it is. (each child holds stocking up)
   Here it is,
   I have a stocking.
   I have a stocking.
   Here it is.
   Here it is.
This is a good language builder with focus on pronouns it and I.

C. Art
1. Make Christmas stockings—materials: two 12 inch long felt pieces cut in simple stocking shape for each child, hole puncher, colorful yarn, white glue, felt cut-outs for decoration, glitter, and sequins. Punch holes through both pieces of felt 1/2 inch apart. The day before you use it, dip one end of measured yarn in white glue to harden for sewing. Children sew pieces together in any style and decorate.

D. Games
1. Relay races—hopping, skipping, jumping, running, or walking carrying a bean to a stocking. Put bean in and run back. Must put bean in or go back to get another. Teacher holds stocking.
2. Hide stockings in room or outside. All find the stockings.

E. Fine Motor
1. See art #1 and #2.
2. Make sewing cards in shape of a stocking. Sew with yarn or string which has had ends dipped in white glue the day before, or use shoe strings.

F. Field Trip
1. Trip to department store to visit Santa. Have children identify the concepts learned this week: Christmas tree, decorations, Santa Claus, reindeer, and stockings.
UNIT - WINTER

The IAM normative data (Section I) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

MONDAY - SNOW

This concept will be best taught while snow is on the ground or just after a snow.

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 77.
(Match Concrete) 1. Child will "put snow on the snow" when shown snow and one or two other objects. Verbalize "snow".

(Discriminate Concrete) 2. Child will "touch the snow" when snow is paired with a shoe, or a book, then with harder discrimination, ice or cotton.

(Discriminate Picture) 4. Child will "touch (find) the snow" when shown one other non-snow picture then two other, and three other. "What did you find?"

(Associate with Season) 6. When shown a winter picture and a summer picture (swimming, little clothing, bright sun) child will touch and label the winter picture to teacher's question: "do we have snow in the summer or in the winter?" (points to each picture) Act out cold feeling for winter, hot feeling for summer.

B. Music
1. Song to the tune of "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush":
   The white snow falls down, down, down,
   Down, down, down (arms and hands move down, fingers wiggle)
   Down, down, down
   The white snow falls down, down, down
   All on the ground (move whole body to floor)

2. Song to the tune of "Are You Sleeping, Brother John":
   Make a snowball (hand motions)
   Make a snowball
   Throw it now (throwing motion)
   Throw it now
   Make a snowball
   Make a snowball
   Throw it now, throw it now.
Unit - Winter

3. Creative Rhythm/Body Movement—to soft instrumental music, children get out snow falling, drifting, blowing, coming to the ground.

Teacher models movement.

C. Art

1. Whip ivory flakes with a little water added using egg beater to make "snow". Children feel, squeeze, mold into shapes or use like finger paint.

2. Cut snowflakes from folded white paper (construction paper, napkins). Hang in room.

3. Mural for whole week, to be added to each day—large paper, leafless trees drawn on by teacher. Children glue cotton on ground to make snow.

D. Games

1. If snow is on ground, go outside, make snowballs, play in snow.

2. Snowball Relay--child carries "snowball" (styrofoam ball) to point, returns, hands off to next child.

3. Snowball fight with large cotton balls.

E. Fine Motor

1. Sewing Cards—white snowball shape—punch holes, use white string or yarn.

2. Path Tracing—for examples of path tracing see Appendix-II.

F. Snack

1. If there is plenty of snow on the ground make snow cream. Add milk, sugar, and vanilla to snow. Let children do the stirring and serving.

G. Storytelling

1. Flannel board—snow coming down (small paper snow flakes), covering the ground (cotton), children playing (snowballs, snowman).

TUESDAY - SNOWMAN

A. Unit Group Lesson—See LAP, page 77.

1. Refer to Monday's lesson on snow for model tasks.

B. Art

1. Children make snowman faces from paper plates, black construction paper for facial features and hats, and a stick taped to bottom for holding. Teacher models pasting tasks, then children make their own. Cut holes for the eyes, face will be held as a snowman mask.

2. Spread glue on outline of a snowman, sprinkle grits on glue.

3. Glue bits of cotton on outline of a snowman.

C. Music

1. See art #1 (for Tuesday). Use snowman masks made in art. Children hold masks behind them and sing to tune of "Where Is Thumbkin?".

Where is snowman?
Where is snowman?
Here I am! (hold masks in front of face)
Here I am!
I am a snowman
I am a snowman
Here I am!
Here I am!

2. See music #2 for Monday.

D. Snack
1. Teacher models then children make marshmallow snowmen. Add raisins for eyes, nose, mouth, buttons—then eat. Teacher may need to make these the day before.
2. Make or buy snowman cookies.

E. Games
1. Make snowman outside.
2. Two pictures of snowmen placed on floor first a foot apart then further. Child jumps from one snowman to the next.
3. See games for Monday.

F. Fine Motor
1. See art #1, #2, and #3.
2. Path Tracing—for examples of path tracing see Appendix II.

G. Storytelling
1. Repeat flannel board story from Monday. Have children tell more of story this time.
2. Flannel board sequencing story.
   a. snow falls

   And sit just right
   And down the hill we go
   We-e-e-e-e!
Unit - Winter

Try to have a real sled for the children to sit on. Teacher will use a small toy plastic sled to show children how sled moves down hill (draw hill on chalkboard). Teacher models singing of song as she demonstrates sled in motion.

2. For children with little language a good receptive language activity.

THURSDAY - WINTER TREES

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 77.
   1. Refer to group lesson on snow.

B. Music
   1. To instrumental record that might suggest calm then windy weather:
      a. children hold leaves (paper or real) with arms stretched upward, swaying to music
      b. teacher is the wind, goes to trees and blows hard, children sway and blow
      c. children (trees) drop leaves when wind blows, still swaying to music

After telling the tree story, mix up the four pictures, let children put them in sequence. Then have child tell story and show the cards.

FRIDAY - COLD AND COLD WEATHER CLOTHING

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 77.
1. Refer to group lesson on snow.

B. Music

   Winter time is here.
2. To music with fast tempo teacher says "I'm cold (acts cold). Let's get warm." Lead children in jumping, running, galloping to music.

C. Art
1. Add to mural started on Monday. Teacher has drawn simple figures of boys and girls standing in the snow. Children paint, color or paste on winter clothing (hats, mittens, coats, boots). Teacher: "Look at these boys and girls, they are cold. What do they need?" Children tell what they need and come to mural to show where that particular article of clothing goes. Then children dress the figures.
2. On pre-drawn outline of boy or girl, children paste paper or fabric winter clothes. Teacher may need to have these pre-cut.

2. Classification task--place pictures of clothing on a table, some winter clothing some summer clothing. Child will find all the winter clothing and put it in a box.
The LA perspective (section 1) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

MONDAY - SOFA

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAL, page 77.

1. (Match Concrete) - Child puts toy sofa on another toy sofa when shown a sofa paired with another object.
   "This is a sofa. What is this?"

2. (Discriminate Concrete) - Child "finds the sofa" when a toy sofa is paired with another object. "What did you find?"
   "Good work."

3. (Match Picture) - When shown a picture of a sofa and another object, the child will match his picture of sofa to the other. Try to use sofas that are different colors and sizes. "What is this?"
   "Good, this is a sofa."

5. (Figure Ground) - Child will "find the sofa" when shown a picture of a fully furnished living room.

6. (Indicate Use) - "We sit on a sofa. What do we do with a sofa?"
   "Tell me."

   I walk to find the sofa
   Hi-ho the dairy go,
   I walk to find the sofa.
UNIT - LIVING ROOM

C. Art

   - Teacher draws on large paper, one for each child, single line drawings of a furnished living room (outlined furniture).
   - Child pastes sofa on the appropriate outlined space. Hang on display in the classroom. Each day of the week the child will paste another piece of living room furniture in the proper place.
2. On a large outline of a sofa the child will paste bits of fabric.

D. Games
1. Fish for the sofa - tie a magnet on the end of a string which is attached to a yard stick. On pictures of various objects, including some sofas, place a paper clip. Pictures are spread out and the child "fishes" for the sofa pictures.
2. Drop the Sofa - derivative of "Drop the Handkerchief". Child drops toy sofa behind another child in circle, child picks it up, and chooses first child.

E. Fine Motor

   - Blue beans or rice on outline of a sofa.

F. Storytelling
1. Illustrated - cut out pictures of various rooms in the house, and a flannel cut-out of a sofa. Tell a story about the little girl looking for a place to live. The sofa interacts with the children and asks them: "Is this my room?" "Why not?" "Why?"

WEDNESDAY - CHAIR

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAI, page 77.
1. See Unit Group Lesson on sofa for similar tasks and responses.

B. Music
1. Musical Chairs - Before playing game instruct the children in listening for the stop cue:
   b. Children walk around chairs, teacher pairs her verbal signal "stop" with the stopping of music.
   c. When the children have learned to stop on the verbal command paired with the stopping of music, fade the verbal cue, teach them to listen for the stopping of the music only.
2. To tune of "Farmer in the Dell":
   The chair is behind the teacher,
   Hi-ho the deery-o,
   The chair is behind the teacher.
   Substitute under the table, in the hall, beside Sally.
   Procedure: Teacher or child places the chair in a new location for each verse. This reinforces learning of prepositions.

C. Art
1. See Monday, art #2. Add chair to the room.

D. Games
1. Child sits in a chair with his back to the group. Teacher points to a child who walks up behind the child in the chair, disguises his voice, and says, "I see you in the chair." He then returns to his seat and the child in front guesses who spoke to him. If he guesses correctly he gains another turn, if not the child who spoke gets the turn.
E. Reasoning
1. Flannel board—use cutouts of various objects including some chairs. The chairs should be different in size, shape, and color. Place a group of cutouts on the flannel board. Teacher: "Some of these are chairs and some are not chairs. Find all the chairs."
2. Cue sheets—see Appendix III for examples of cue sheets.

THURSDAY - T.V.

A. Unit Group Lesson. See LAI, page 77.
See Unit Group Lesson for Monday for similar tasks and responses.

B. Art
1. Have each child bring in a shoe box. Help child cut out one side for a T.V. screen.

Child wraps pre-cut paper around index finger and tapes together to form a cylinder. Draw face on cylinder, add string or yarn to top for hair. You have finger puppets which perform in the shoe box T.V.

C. Games
1. Get a large box from an appliance store such as one in which a stove or refrigerator is packed. Cut out a rectangular area for a T.V. screen. Paint knobs on outside. Children stand inside and perform on T.V. Later this same box may be used as a store front, a puppet stage, a house, or any other large structure.

   Teacher demonstrates by assembling a real lamp, then by modeling the gluing task. Show the bulb under the shade.

D. Games
1. Fishing game - see Monday - games #1.
2. What's Missing? - use a real lamp as a prop. Children close their eyes, teacher hides a part of the lamp: shade, switch, bulb, base, or leaves it unplugged. Children open eyes, guess what is missing.

E. Fine Motor
1. Path Tracing - See Appendix II for path tracing examples.
2. Turning a lamp on and off is a good fine motor activity.

F. Field Trip
1. Go to a furniture store. Have the children find all the living room furniture studied this week, label them verbally and/or talk about the different kinds seen.
The LAP normative data (Section I) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

MONDAY - STOVE

(Discriminate Object) 2. When shown a toy stove and another object the child will "find the stove". Teacher pairs the toy stove with first one, then two other objects which are very different. Then pair the toy stove with a similar object such as a toy sink or refrigerator. "What did you find?"
(Match Picture) 3. Child will match picture of stoves. First only one choice is shown, then child puts the stove on the stove when shown two or three pictures one of which is a stove. Child labels the stove with a word or whole sentence, depending on ability. When shown a picture of a stove paired with one, two, then three other pictures, the child will "find the stove". "What did you find?" Child who is able will answer "I found a stove".
(Figure Ground) 5. "What do we do with the stove?" One child may gesture cooking while another will answer, "we cook on a stove", or a similar sentence.
(Indicate Use-- Verbal or Non-Verbal) 6. "Where does the stove go?" Teacher holds up pictures of rooms of the house, with the stove blocked out or not shown in the kitchen. Child points to and names the room.
(Associate with Proper Room) 7. Child will "find all the stoves" when shown a group of objects including some stoves of different colors, shapes, and styles.

   Each day teacher has cut-out shapes of daily concept to be pasted on.
   Children take home a completed kitchen on Friday. Today children paste stove on appropriate outline.
2. Cutting and pasting—children find pictures of stoves in magazines, cut them out, with help when necessary, and paste them on paper.
3. Assemble stove from cut out shapes (basic shape of a stove and four "eyes") and paste on paper.

D. Games
1. Set out several toy stoves, pots and pans, clay or play dough, and spoons—for free play or dramatic play.

D. Field Trip
   1. Take a trip to the appliance store and find the stove, refrigerator and dishwasher. Children name each one. Point out different colors and styles of each appliance studied.
The Imitative data (Section 4) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

Monday - Bed

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 73.

- Present "bed." Have children examine and manipulate the dollhouse bed before the group lesson.

Children paint the dresser, cut the aluminum foil on the cardboard backing, and string the yarn through the hole in the "dresser drawer." Teacher knots the yarn after it is string and fastens "mirror" to back of box.

Some children may be limited to painting or gluing only. Teacher may want to cut the G-tip box in half to make it look more like dresser dimensions.

Children will verbalize or approximate verbalization of "toilet" to teacher's request and model. Teacher may ask, "what is this?" Child will respond, "toilet", "a toilet", or "it is a toilet".

   (Discriminate Object) 2. Using dollhouse furniture, the children will discriminate a toilet from other bathroom items (tub, sink, mirror).    (Discriminate Picture) 4. Children will discriminate a picture of a toilet from other pictures of bathroom items. First, the children will choose between two pictures; then among three and four pictures. Teacher will direct the child, "find the toilet", "touch the toilet", or "give me the toilet".

Child will respond, "bathroom," "in the bathroom," or "the toilet belongs in the bathroom." Child will put the picture with the bathroom picture.

For example, a grouping of toilets would include old and new toilets, different colored toilets, different shaped toilets, and toilets with coverings on them. Children are each given a picture of a toilet. Teacher asks each child individually, "put it where it belongs." Teacher points to the five groups. Child places his picture with the grouping of toilet pictures.

UNIT - MAILMAN

The LAP narrative data (Section 1) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. MONDAY - LETTER AND ENVELOPE

A. Unit Group Lesson - See LAP, page 79.

(Batch Object) 1. Hold up a letter and say, "this is a letter." Have each of the children find a letter from among two objects. Say, "I found a letter. What did you find?" Accept any response appropriate for each child but encourage complete sentences. "Put your letter on my letter." "What is this?"

(Distinguish Object) 2. Place a magazine, book, newspaper, piece of construction paper and a letter in front of the child and have him find the letter. Ask, "What did you find?" To make this lesson simpler, use only the letter and one other object which is grossly different from the letter.

3. Make flowers by punching hole in center of one egg section (pre-cut) and inserting different colored pipe cleaners.
Put these flowers in vase or tall glass.

F. Storytelling
1. Use flannel board to tell story. (Adapted from Creative Movement for the Developing Child by Cherry.)
   All the little flower seeds sleep in the ground
   Sleeping so quietly all around
   They sleep all the cold through
   There really wasn't much else for them to do.
   Then they started to grow right up through the ground
   They grew very slowly, so at first were very small
   But, their leaves unfolded and waved at us all.
   Then the sun shone down and made the flowers smile
   And they grew and grew up tall for a long, long while.
   Then the little boy Paul came and picked them all.

      Put rocks in parts of the terrarium: bottom layer.
   2. Later, as terrarium develops, put rocks on top of soil.
      Have children come and show you where the rocks are, or let children put rocks in terrarium.
   3. Start a rock collection: take a field trip and hunt for different kinds of rocks. Take rocks back to class and put in big, open box, where children can re-examine rocks.

E. Fine Motor

   and tempera to take vacuum cleaner to carpet. First through wide straight tunnel, then through narrow curved tunnels. See Appendix III for example of path tracing.

D. Games
1. Dramatization—children can pretend to be vacuum cleaners at work making the sucking and whirring sounds. They can move around in the room cleaning floors, chairs, blinds, etc.

2. Auditory Discrimination—ask small group to close their eyes while one child hides with vacuum cleaner and turns it on for a few seconds. Children in small group open eyes and point or tell teacher where the sound came from ("behind the piano", "out of bathroom", "under the table", "behind the book shelf", etc.)

E. Fine Motor
1. Flannel Board—cut vacuum cleaner parts from flannel material of different colors and have children assemble vacuum cleaner

C. Art
1. Make mop-- give children short piece of old broom handle (or large dowel pen, tongue depressor or popsicle stick) and short pieces of colorful yarn. Have children put several pieces of yarn together and staple bunch to piece of broom handle, tongue depressor, popsicle stick or dowel pen to make a miniature mop.
2. Give each child a drawn shape of a mop. Ask each one to outline shape with glue and to squeeze glue on inside of shape. Child may sprinkle sand on or fill in with colored popcorn, cereal, beans, etc.

D. Games

D. Games
1. Dust pan and paper relay—form two lines with three children in each. Give dust pan to each child at front of line. Put three crumpled up balls of newspaper in front of each line. The leaders use dust pan to pick up one ball of paper without help of other hand. Take it to waste basket ten feet away, dump it in, and bring dust pan back to person in front of line. First person goes to back of line while second person repeats the process. Team that finishes first is winner. If paper ball is dropped on way to waste basket the child must pick it up again with dust pan only and get it to the waste basket.

E. Fine Motor

   2. Add sand or wood shavings to #1 for more texture.
   3. See Monday C. art #2.

D. Games
   1. Place a small box of dishpowder on table or floor. See if child can get it up without using hands may use mouth, elbows, feet, legs, etc.

E. Fine Motor
   1. Mix a little dish powder with water and use as bubble blow. This helps to develop breathing skills for later pronunciation of certain words. Ask children to catch bubbles to help develop eye-hand coordination.
   2. Use soap sud mixture to frost a cardboard box cake or cover a milk carton house with snow.
   3. Use soap sud mixture to cover small tree branches brought in from woods to make a winter scene.

UNIT - THE FIREMAN

The LAP normative data (Section 1) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

MONDAY - FIREMAN

Teacher may need to model words for some children. Teacher will give child a model fireman, "what is this?" then hold another identical model fireman and one other object (stick, shoe) near child and say "put fireman on fireman". Teacher may increase non-fireman objects as lesson progresses.

2. Present rubber object model of fireman and one other object grossly different from fireman (block, pot) to each child. Ask child to "touch" or "show me" fireman. "What did you touch?" For children on higher level you may present more objects with fireman and use objects more similar to fireman (mailman) for finer discrimination.

3. Give child a large picture of fireman. Show child large picture of fireman and another large picture of non-fireman (tree). Ask child to put fireman on fireman. What did you do?

4. Show each child large picture of fireman and large pictures of other helpers. Ask child to "touch" or "show me" or "tell me" which one is a fireman. Don't let child touch wrong picture and change position of the pictures so that child won't pick up on other cues.

5. Draw shape of two or three people in burning house. Partially cover people with smoke. Help fireman save people by having children find the people and outline with magic marker.

6. Auditory--have children find missing part of word when you say fire____ or ______man. Grammatic--have children repeat a model sentence (example) "This is a fireman". Visual--show picture of fireman with a body part missing (arm, leg and foot, nose, eye). Ask child to find part that is missing.

UNIT - THINGS WE EAT WITH

The LAI normative data (Section I) will be useful in determining which child will be able to begin the lesson on a matching level and which child on a picture discrimination level. In language, one child may be expected to make a one word response while another child may be expected to make a complete sentence. Each child's task may be different.

MONDAY - SPOON

(Match) 1. Bring in real spoons. Present spoon to child and say "this is a spoon". Allow each child to hold spoon and respond on his level, "spoon", "a spoon" or "this is a spoon". Teacher may need to model words for some children. Teacher will give child a spoon, then hold another identical spoon and one other object (glove) near child and say, "put spoon on spoon". Teacher may increase non spoon objects as lesson progresses.

(Visually Discriminate Object) 2. Present spoon and one other object grossly different from spoon to each child. Ask child to "touch" or "show me" spoon. For children on higher level you may present more objects with spoon and use objects with more likeness to spoon (shovel).

(Tactility Discriminate Object) 3. Place spoon in feely box. Ask child to reach hand in and get spoon. "What did you find?" Then, put spoon and other object very different from spoon (block) into box; ask child to get spoon. Then, put in spoon and other things we eat with and ask child to get spoon.

Make the task even harder by presenting sounds that are similar, e.g., dinner bell, school bell, church bells, jingle bells, etc.

(Pantomime Use of Telephone) Teacher pantomimes use of telephone by "calling" a child in the group. Teacher picks up the receiver, dials a number, waits for the phone to ring, and says, "Hello, (child)." Child picks up his "receiver" and talks to the teacher. Child may need help in the pantomiming. Teacher picks up child's hand and puts it to his ear. Teacher then asks a child to make a call, either to the teacher or another child. See C. music #1.

   color cue "banana", fade
   after a few successes

Procedure:
Teacher - Look carefully at the picture.
Find the banana (bananas).
Put your finger on it (them).
Very good! (assist when necessary)

Here is a banana (cutout).
Put the paste on the back and paste
it right on the banana.
Note: Watch the children to see if they are able to paste cutouts on the object picture in its rotated position.
APPENDIX II.
Examples of Path Tracing:

This task requires the child to follow a guide from one point to another. It is an important pre-writing skill because it involves the drawing of lines required in writing the alphabet. These lines are the following:

1. — (horizontal) 2.  | (vertical)
3. ~ (curved) 4. $Z$ (angular)

Other reasons for Using Path Tracing Activities:

1. To develop eye-hand coordination.
2. To develop the left to right and top to bottom progression.
3. To develop attending skills.

Sequence: Path Tracing Activities in order of Difficulty:

1. Horizontal and Vertical Paths - Make a large newsprint 'map' with a straight road about 18" long and 3" wide. Put a picture of a house (or green spot) at one end and a picture of a school (or a red spot) at the other. Have the children drive the toy car from the house to the school without going off the road. Always start at the left side of the paper with horizontal roads. Teach the commands "Go" and "Stop", "Top" and "Bottom".

As child masters 3" paths decrease the width to 2 inches, 1 inch, then 1/2 inch. Use felt pens or crayons, finally pencils on 1/4 inch paths.

Curved Paths -- After children have mastered horizontal and vertical paths, use another large 'map' and have the car go on a curved road to the school. This lesson introduces the curved line. As child's skill increases, decrease the width of the curved paths to 2", 1", 1/2", 1/4".
Again, begin with pen, then use felt pens, crayons, and finally pencils on \( \frac{1}{4} \) inch paths.

A dotted, colored line may be used as a cue.

Angular and/or Change of Direction Paths -- Use the same process as with horizontal, vertical and curved paths, moving from \( \frac{3}{8} \) inch paths to \( \frac{1}{4} \) inch paths.

Always remind the child to "stay on the road".

1. Dotted Path (with the dots close together) and Primary Pencil --
   a. Make a straight line from left to right. Use color cues by having child always start at a green dot and stop at a red dot.
   b. Make line from top to bottom.
   c. Make a curved line.
   d. Make a change of direction line.
   e. Make two changes of direction.
   f. Make a dotted path (dots farther apart).

2. Make a straight line from left to right.

Then use the same process for vertical, curved, and angular lines.

6. Make a dot at each picture and have the children connect them.
a. Straight line

b. Vertical line

c. Curved line

d. Angular line

Use color cues by having child always start on a green dot and stop on a red dot.
APPENDIX III.
Examples of Cue Sheets

The sheets train the child to identify identical shapes, figures and symbols. The symbol at the top of the page is the "cue". The task is to find all those symbols on the page which are identical to the "cue" symbol. Design cue sheets to fit the levels of the children. Your cue may be the same for all the children, but the levels of difficulty may be different. Therefore, the worksheets will look somewhat different.

I. Beginning Level --

A. Teach the child the meaning of "mark" by demonstration on the chalkboard. Teacher makes a mark ( / or X ). Have the children come to the board and make the "mark".

B. Give children a picture and ask them to mark the picture as they did on the board.

C. Give children a piece of paper with two or three pictures (dog, house, girl). "Mark the girl." "Mark the house." "Mark the dog."

II. Level Two --

Give children a cue sheet such as this. Point to the circle. "Find the shape that is the same as this one and mark it."

III. Level Three --

Add a few more symbols which are different.

IV. Level Four --

Now add to the number of symbols on the paper.
V. Level Five --

More difficult because the symbols more similar to the cue.
Appendix IV.
Art Activities for Young Children

The following list of activities are listed in sequence beginning with gross motor activities, which involve many parts of the body, and ending with the fine motor tasks, such as using primary pencils.

1. Sand play
2. Fingerpainting
3. Water play
4. Clay or playdough
5. Tempera painting
6. Crayons and Magic Markers
7. Tearing, cutting, pasting, and fastening

1. Sand
   - Provide a sand box inside and outside the room for daily use. If a commercial sand box is not available, you may use a child's small inflatable swimming pool, aluminum or plastic dishpan or sturdy cardboard box. Later on you may add sand toys and especially containers for pouring sand from one into the other.
   - Sand painting — Add dry tempera to sifted dry sand. Place the colored sand in a salt shaker with holes made larger by driving a nail through them. The children may draw a picture or use a plain piece of paper. Let them cover the picture with paste and sift sand over it. They may cover various areas with different colors of sand. Salt, grits or sand-dust may be substituted for the sand.
   - Sand numbers and alphabets — Have large squares of cardboard pre-cut with large blocked numbers or alphabets printed on. (You may use a cardboard from laundered shirts.) Allow each child to choose a number or alphabet and fill in with glue or rubber cement then cover with colored sand. This makes good tactile materials for teaching numbers and alphabets.

![B A C]

2. Shoe-box sand — Shoe boxes make excellent individual sand boxes for a child to draw or write in using his fingers.

II. Fingerpainting

1. Recipes
   - An excellent fingerpaint may be made using about 2 teaspoons polyvcell (or any cellulose wallpaper adhesive) to a pint of water. Put a spoonful of this on slick shelf paper and let child sprinkle color tempera desired from a salt shaker over this and mix as he spreads paint with his hands.
b. Fingerpaint (flour)

1 cup flour
1 t. salt
2 cups cold water
2 cups hot water
wintergreen (a few drops)

Mix the flour with the two cups of cold water to form a paste. This can be done with the hands to be sure that all lumps are dissolved. Add hot water and cook until mixture has changed from white color to darker color. Add food coloring or powder color. A few drops of wintergreen takes away the flour smell.

2. Activities

a. Mono-Print—Let the children fingerpaint on a tray or table. Then lay a clean sheet of paper on the fingerpaint and press. When you remove the paper there will be a reverse design on it.

b. Texture Painting—Add some materials such as sand, sand-dust, or coffee grounds to the fingerpaint before using it.

c. Mixing Colors—Allow children to paint with one and two primary colors using free, rhythmic movements and noticing the creation of a new color when the two primaries are mixed.

d. Soapsuds Painting—

1 cup of hot water in a pan soap flakes
Gradually add soap flakes while beating the mixture with an eggbeater until it is the consistency of whipped cream. Place mixture on the table. The children use their hands to make designs with it. Food coloring or tempera may be added for color.

e. Automatic Fingerpainting—Make an arrangement of strings, dried leaves, etc. on a table top. Lay them out flat. Cover the fingerpaint paper with fingerpaint and lay it on top of the arrangement of string, dried leaves, etc. Hold the paper by an edge to keep it from slipping and pull the squeegee (piece of cardboard) over the painted surface. The paint will be picked up where the underlying shapes press against the squeegee but will remain undisturbed in other places.

III. Water

1. Provide a water area inside and outside the room for daily use. If a commercial water table is not available you may use child’s small inflatable swimming pool or aluminum or plastic dishpan. Put out water accessories for pouring, weighing, measuring, soaking, coloring, brushes for painting with water, etc.

2. Chalk and water—Give the child large pieces of chalk, a small container of water, and a large piece of construction paper. Child should tip one end of chalk in water then make a design or picture on the paper.
3. Provide many sizes of brushes and a pail of water for the children to use to paint pieces of wood, rocks, trees, and walls outside and even their tricycle or wagon. Remember this will be clear water that will dry quickly. For some handicapped children you may need a styrofoam cylinder or top of a Clorox bottle to make the handle more convenient for the child.

4. Mixing Colors

Water is an excellent medium for showing how two colors can produce a third color. Just add food coloring or Easter egg dye.

IV. Chalk
1. Draw with white or colored chalk on blackboard.
2. Dip chalk in milk (plain or buttermilk) and draw designs or pictures.
3. Use several colors of chalk to draw on wet paper. Chalk will smear if not "fixed." A fixture may be sprayed or brushed on. Equal parts of liquid starch (Sta-Flo) and water sprayed on with atomizer or pump type spray. A thin mixture of powdered milk sprayed on will act as a fixture. There are also commercial fixtures.

V. Clay and Playdough
1. Amaco clay is a commercial potter clay that is mixed with water and kept indefinitely in a covered container or plastic bag.
2. Commercial playdough can be bought in small cans for about 29¢ or large cans for about $1.50.
3. Uncooked playdough—Mix 1/2 cup salt, 1 cup flour (sifted), 1 1/2 T. salad oil, 1/3 cup plus 2 T. water, 2 t. food coloring. Add food coloring to water, if tempera paint is used it can be added to the water. Add oil last.
4. Encourage children to manipulate clay or playdough by pressing, squeezing, pounding, rolling and other exploratory actions.
5. Make stabiles by squeezing a small lump of clay or old playdough into a shape and choosing some things to stick into it. (Either things child brings from home or he finds, or other things the teacher may provide like, popsicle sticks, pipe cleaners, straws, bottle caps, shells, buttons, beads, etc.)

VI. Tempera Paint
1. Blob Painting—Prefold paper, drop thick paint onto paper from tongue depressors, spoons, or brushes. Refold paper, press and open. Several colors may be used.
2. String Painting Magic—Dip short lengths of string in bowl of paint. (String may be tied to large stick for easier holding.) Let dipped string fall on one side of pre-folded paper. Cover string with other side of paper. Hold one hand on paper and pull string out from between the open ends. Very interesting designs will appear.

3. Object Printing—Collect such items as thread spools, sponges, potato mashers, hair curlers, tooth brushes and such vegetables as white potatoes, apples, bowl peppers, celery, carrots. Cut interesting designs on vegetables. Dip any of these objects or vegetables into various colors of tempera paints set up in muffin tins or small containers. Blot on paper towel or newspaper. Press on paper. This idea is especially good for making wrapping paper for celebrations and for just plain fun of watching the shapes appear.

4. Roller Painting (Gross Motor)—Purchase small sash rollers at the paint store, roll in tempera and let children paint large boxes, newspaper, large murals, etc.

5. Roll On Painting—Use deodorant bottles with roll-on tops. Remove tops and fill bottles with paint. Several colors may be used and paint stored in the bottle by putting on the top.

6. Try painting on many surfaces. Some suggestions:
   - Paper Towels
   - Sea Shells
   - Wall paper
   - Woodwork products
   - Fingerpaint paper
   - Colored Construction paper
   - Stones
   - Paper bags
   - Cardboard boxes

VII. Crayons and Magic Markers
1. Allow children to use crayons at the easel. It provides more space, creativity, and excitement.

2. Crayon Textures—Place objects under paper and with the side of crayon go back and forth on top of paper to get the impression. Be sure to remove paper from around crayons. Suitable objects would be cut-outs made from plastic lids, screen wire, corrugated cardboard, linoleum, burlap, keys, string, plastic doilies and cut up stove top protectors.

3. Draw with Magic Markers on various textures of paper.
4. Crayon Resist—Draw heavy design on paper with crayons. Paint over this with a very thin tempera. Paint should not adhere to crayon markings.

VIII. Tearing, Cutting, Pasting, and Fastening, Etc.
1. Allow children to freely tear paper of many textures.
2. How to cut (a handout on this subject is available.)
3. Cereal Mosaic--Beautiful pictures may be made using different types of dry cereal. Draw picture and glue on different types of dry cereal to form mosaic or just glue cereal in any design desired.

4. Sock Horse--1. Stuff sock full of cotton batting or old nylon stockings. 2. Push a yard length of broomstick well up through the stuffing. Tie opening at cuff of sock and tack to broomstick. 3. From an old glove, cut off two fingers. Stuff and sew into place for the ears. 4. Sew on buttons for eyes and fasten strips of leather, shoestrings, or 1/2" ribbon in place for bridle and reins. Paint on nostrils and teeth. (McCall's)

5. Handkerchief Parachute--Cut four lengths of string about 12" long. Tie one piece of string to each corner of handkerchief. For man who jumps, paint design on wooden clothespin, using poster paints. Then tie the loose ends of all four strings to the top of the clothespin. Roll up parachute and throw as high as you can. (McCall's)

6. Body Parts Mobile--Materials--paper large enough to trace a child's body; construction paper for face parts; string; a piece of coat-hanger. Trace a child's body. Have the children help assemble parts to make a person. Have them find their own and find parts of a friend's (e.g., "Mary, show me Joe's hair.") Talk about the relation of body parts to one another.
Art Activities for Young Children
Appendix IV

1. Papier-Mâché Eggs—Divide a newspaper page into fourths; then strips of newspaper about 1" wide are cut. Three or four strips are needed for each egg. The child is given a piece of the divided newspaper, and he crumples it into an egg shape. Then the strips of newspaper are wrapped around the egg. Continue this process until the egg is as large as the child wants it.

2. Christmas Bells—Cut egg cartons into 12 cups. The children trim them in holiday colors, and if they wish, add glitter. A hole is punched in the top and yarn drawn through to form a hanger. (Wylie)

3. Hand Puzzles—Materials—heavy cardboard; exacto-blade; enamel paints; glue. Glue 2 cardboards together to create backing. Cut out hands and fingers. Paint hands with enamel and contrast the background. Use for counting, one to one correspondence, right-left identification.

Listed here are some books which would be excellent if you want to build a library for children's art. Your local book store would probably order most of these for you or you can write the company which publishes the book and they will invoice you or send the book C.O.D. The books cost between $5.00 and $10.00.

   This is an excellent book on art for the 3 to 6 year old. Hoover lists helpful hints to the parent and teacher, describes about 15 art activities, and points out several activities for the special occasions.

   Rhoda Kellogg is a leading nursery-school educator and internationally known authority on children's art. She has collected more than a million samples of art, the largest known collection of child art in the world. She has selected 250 of these for this book. It is beautiful.

   This well illustrated (pictures of many of the activities) book has chapters on painting, drawing, collage, construction, modeling, and mounting and displaying pictures. It also has 25 pages of holiday projects.

   A beautifully illustrated pamphlet book which all teachers of
Art Activities for Young Children

Kindergarten age children should have to refer to. Horn describes the 5 year old kindergarten child then suggests an art program with purpose.

This is a thorough study of Kellogg's analysis of children's art with detailed descriptions of stages of art development, placement patterns, etc. Something for the person who is interested to know more about how Kellogg sees child art.

This is one of those "icing on the cake" books. It is a beautiful book devoted to use of the crayon by young children through the intermediate grades. Many new ideas which could be adapted for other children.

Activities in this booklet have been compiled from materials supplied by Anne Sanford, Randall Crump, Annie Pegram, and Mrs. Sarah Hoffman. Additional sources are Engel; Mary E. APPENDIX V
SAMPLE HOME FOLLOW-UP SHEETS

PROGRAM FOR HOME FOLLOW-UP

This week Emily has been working on the concepts (1) path tracing; (2) writing; (3) numbers 1, 2; (4) jumping, kicking.

Your child can exhibit the following behaviors:

(1) If she is paying attention to task, Emily can follow V-shape paths without crossing line.
(2) Emily can trace letters Emi.
(3) She can recognize number 1, and associate number with object. She is beginning number 2.

Suggested activities which may be carried out at home to reinforce these concepts are:

(1) Make 90° V-shape paths - 1 inch in width. Ask Emily to go from "green" to "red". "Stay on path, don't cross the line."

(2) Make letters Emi "high" for her to trace.

(3) Ask Emily to point out 1 object or give you 1 object. (ex: 1 book, 1 cup).
(4) Have her step up on stool or other object close to floor (10 to 12") and jump down unassisted. Roll a large ball toward her and ask her to kick it.

PROGRAM FOR HOME FOLLOW-UP

This week Emily has been working on the concepts (1) self-help skills; (2) saying her name with three syllables.

Your child can exhibit the following behaviors:

(1) Emily is learning to sew and thread a large needle. She is able to sew on lines when shown where to put the needle using your finger.
(2) Emily is practicing her cutting skills using a knife and fork.
(3) Emily can mop, sweep, and vacuum.
(4) Emily can say her name with three syllables when modeled for her.

Suggested activities which may be carried out at home to reinforce these concepts are:

(1) Emily is just beginning to sew with yarn on burlap. She likes it a lot. You may want to use this activity at home on weekends! She can really stay with this task a long time.
(2) Using playdough, which you and Emily could make together, Emily could use a knife and fork and practice her skills in cutting at home. She loves this and is doing well independently! (Playdough recipe: 2 C Flour: 1 C salt: 1 T oil and 1/2 C water.) Roll play dough around into shape of a donut and put it on a plate to use.

(3) Let Emily help you mop, sweep and vacuum. She's as good at these, I know she's had some good training here at home.

(4) Work with Emily on saying her name. Let her watch your mouth as you say "Emily". Do not accept a two syllable response.

PROGRAM FOR HOME FOLLOW-UP

This week Emily has been working on the concepts (1) clothing; (2) big-little.

Your child can exhibit the following behaviors:

(1) Emily has been working on pants, shirt, dress and skirt. She can consistently touch a named item of clothing and can imitate its name. She has just begun to work on parts of clothing - sleeve and collar.

(2) Emily can consistently touch "big" objects and pictures and say "big" when so requested.

Suggested activities which may be carried out at home to reinforce these concepts are:

(1) As she dresses or undresses, show her the sleeve and collar. Tell her its label. Then ask her to "find the sleeve" or "find the collar" on her clothes, your clothes, or brothers' and sisters' clothes. A game to reinforce the concept of big can be played by you and other members of the family - brothers and sisters. It goes like this: Say "Look, look and see, find the big one and give it to me!" Use blocks of the same color, or pictures from Sears catalogs on cards of the same thing. For example: a big red dress and a little red dress; a big black suitcase and a little black suitcase.
