The goal of this guide is to provide a secondary language arts curriculum which encompasses student centered, relevant learning experiences with equal attention given to reading, writing, thinking, and oral communication. The guide contains curriculum check lists for grades 7-12, reading skills check lists for reading levels A-12, a reading materials list, a library and reference usage guide, a glossary of library terminology, graded literature lists, independent reading book lists, a language arts materials chart, course descriptions for an elective language arts program, and an elective minicourse description for the Gallup high school English department. FOREWORD

Lincoln never stopped, they say, with one achievement ... he immediately began to work toward the next.

Now about us—please continue to study this excellent beginning for re-emphasis and improvement of the language arts program. Many persons have been involved in this process—all are continually needed.

Be sure to remain involved. Write wherever needed in this publication. Suggest deletions, additions, and/or changes as your professional opinion dictates. It is most important that each teacher keep in contact with the faculty representative on the committee.

Thank you for your time, effort, and professional talent directed toward better instructional services for students in this district.

Ralph Drake
Director of Instruction
PREFACE

The Secondary Language Arts Curriculum Committee has prepared the materials in this curriculum guide for the benefit of two groups of very important people -- the students and teachers in the Gallup-McKinley County Public Schools. It was felt there was a need to revise the language arts curriculum to meet the needs of all students in a realistic and relevant manner. It was also deemed necessary that it should be done in such a way that any teacher, whether he was new to our system or had taught here for many years could use this guide to ascertain the goals for each year and to use these goals as the basic structure of his language arts classes.

It is the hope of the Secondary Language Arts Curriculum Committee that the teachers will use this guide and that they will also use their own initiative and creativity in reaching the desired goals.

It is the belief of the committee that the goals for each grade level can be met by adapting activities to meet the needs of each level of student ability.

Deep thanks and appreciation are extended to all of the members of the Secondary Language Arts Curriculum Committee who have given so much of their time, effort, and experience to the work of the Committee. Without their help, this Guide for the Secondary Language Arts would have remained only a thought and a dream.

I. PHILOSOPHY

Education is a continuous part of the life process. It should help each student develop self-confidence, creativity, and productivity; so that being efficient and happy within himself, he will join society as a committed and productive member.

Education must provide rich and varied experience opportunities for all citizens. The curriculum must reflect this goal.

The language arts curriculum should encompass student-centered, relevant, learning experiences with equal attention given to reading, writing, thinking and oral communication.
II. INTRODUCTION: CURRICULUM CHECK LISTS

The Secondary Language Arts Curriculum Committee felt that it was vital to have a workable format for student goals at each grade level. It was decided that a check list format would best meet the teachers' needs. It enables a teacher to see quickly what should be covered at a given grade level, and allows a teacher to check items off as a student meets a desired goal.

Each teacher will be provided with sufficient check lists to keep a record of each individual student's progress. As a student changes grades and/or moves to a different school, the check lists for the grades he has completed and/or the grade he is in, will be sent to his new language arts teacher. This will help the teacher to assess quickly the strengths and weaknesses of each student.

The check list goals are minimal for each grade level. If a teacher feels a student has reached the desired goals for his grade level, that teacher is urged to establish further goals for that student in the areas of listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

Each student should be aware of the goals for each grade level, and he should be actively involved in the marking of the check list so he knows his standing at all times. Check lists may also be used during parent conferences so the parents will have an idea of the student's accomplishment.

Below is a suggested code for marking the check lists:

III. READING SKILLS CHECK LISTS

The farther students progress at the secondary level, the greater the difference becomes among their reading abilities. Therefore, it is the philosophy of this school district that reading instruction should be individualized according to each pupil's abilities. The following objectives are outlined according to reading level rather than grade level: Basic Reading Skills for those pupils reading at fourth grade level or below, Functional Reading Skills for those pupils reading at fifth or sixth grade level, and Advanced Reading Skills for pupils reading at seventh grade level or above. Regardless of a pupil's grade placement, he should be taught at his instructional reading level.

Basic Reading Skills. For students reading at fourth grade level or below, the "Barbe Reading Skills Check List: Fourth Level Reading Skills" will serve as an outline for reading skills to be taught. Materials may be chosen from the Basic Reading Materials list.

Functional Reading Skills. For students reading at fifth or sixth grade level the "Barbe Reading Skills Check List: Fifth Level Reading Skills or Sixth Level Reading Skills" will serve as an outline for reading skills to be taught. Materials may be chosen from the Functional Reading Materials list.

Advanced Reading Skills. For students reading at seventh grade level or above, the appropriate skills for each level have been outlined under Advanced Reading Skills. Curriculum content will consist mainly of literature selections.

II. Word Attack Skills:

A. Structural Analysis
1. Knows rules for syllables
   a. Each syllable must contain a vowel and a single vowel can be a syllable
   b. Suffixes and prefixes are syllables with meanings of their own
   c. The root word is not divided
   d. If the first vowel is followed by two consonants, the first syllable usually ends with the first consonant (example: pen eu)
   e. If the first vowel is followed by a single consonant, the consonant usually begins the second syllable (example: mass, ample)
   f. If a word ends in le preceded by a consonant, that consonant begins the last syllable
   g. The letter x always goes with the preceding vowel to form a syllable (example: exit)

IV. READING MATERIALS LIST

An attempt has been made to list appropriate materials for secondary students reading at various levels. The materials are of high-interest appeal for students reading at the fourth, fifth, and sixth levels.

For students reading at seventh grade and above, materials have been identified to improve reading skills. These are materials which apply to developmental reading as separate and apart from literature selections.

It is hoped the list will be helpful to teachers who are searching for materials to help students develop into independent readers. Please note that materials have been coded as to reading level and interest level. Materials which can be found on the State Textbook List are marked by an asterisk.

V. LIBRARY AND REFERENCE USAGE GUIDE

This guide was developed by the secondary librarians for use by the language arts teachers. Its purpose is to outline necessary library and reference skills to be taught at each grade level. This will insure continuity in the curriculum and will assure each pupil's opportunity to learn the basic research skills. It is hoped that librarians and teachers will work cooperatively in this effort.

VI. A GLOSSARY OF LIBRARY TERMINOLOGY

The following glossary of library terminology is designed to assist in standardizing definitions. The grade designation is correlated with the Library Reference Guide to indicate at which level the student is most likely to use the term. However, this listing of terms and definitions is intended to be most flexible.

Edition

All the impressions of a book or other work printed at about the same time from the same plates or type without additions or changes and having the same size, style or form. When additions, deletions, or other changes in the text or in the format have been made these are called revised editions, enlarged editions, etc. For example, a book may first be published in a hardback edition and then published as a paperback.

Editor

A person who corrects, revises and prepares materials for publication which have been written by other people.

Encyclopedia

A book or series of books containing information on many areas of knowledge or on many aspects of a particular field. The information is usually arranged in alphabetical order.

End paper

The paper which lines the inside front and back covers of a book and also form the flyleaves.

Entry

An item printed in a book, list, etc.

Etymological dictionary

A dictionary which gives the origin and development of a word.

Etymology

The origin and development of a word.

Fiction

Something told or written that is produced by the imagination and is not necessarily based on fact.

Filmstrip

A length of film with related still pictures (photographs, sketches, diagrams, or other graphic material) and usually with explanatory material to be projected or viewed through a special viewer (a previewer). It is usually 35mm. wide.

Fine

Money paid when books and other library materials are overdue.

Flyleaf

The first or last sheet in a book; it is usually blank but may have drawings, maps, etc. on it.

Footnote

An explanation, comment or bibliographic reference placed below the text on a printed page, at the end of a chapter or at the end of the volume.

Format

The physical make-up of a book or other material. This includes the size, shape, binding, arrangement, etc.

Foreword

The introduction to a book or other work which is likely to be of interest but not necessarily essential for the understanding of the text of a book; usually it is written by someone other than the author. It is also called a preface.

Frontispiece

An illustration facing the first page or title page of a book or a division of a book.

Gazetteer

A dictionary of geographical names with information about each entry. Cities, towns, countries, counties, lakes, seas, oceans, etc. are described in a gazetteer.

Geographical

Having to do with or characteristic of a certain area or region.

Globe

A round model of the earth or sky; the earth itself; each planet.
Glossary
A list in the back of a book of the difficult or unusual words found in the text: A dictionary of special terms found in a particular field of study.

Graph
Several lines or diagrams showing comparisons.

Guide card
A card which stands above the catalog cards and has letters, names, words, or numbers which indicate what material is directly behind it in the card catalog.

Guide letters
Letters at the top of a guide card or page of a book or on the spine of a volume of a set of books; they are used as keys to the words behind the guide card, on the page of the book, or within the volume of the set of books. The two types of guide letters are:
(1) Unit letters: Guide letters in which only one letter of the alphabet is used as the first letter, i.e., A, B, C-Ch, Cz-D, D, E, etc.
(2) Split letters: Guide letters in which two different letters may be used as the first letter of each part, i.e., Br-CI, Di-Em, etc.

Guide words
Words at the top of the guide card or page of a book or the spine of a volume of a set of books which are the keys to the words behind the guide card, on the page of the book, or within the volume of the set of books.

Hardback book
A book with firm front and back covers.

Heading
The word or words at the top of a page, chapter, section, or card.

Homonym
A word which sounds like another but has a different meaning and usually a different spelling.

Illustration
A picture, photograph, drawing, design, etc. which is used to help explain or make something clear.

Imprint
The publication information about a book or other work; it includes the publisher, place of publication, and date. It is usually found at the foot of the title page.

Index
An alphabetical list of subjects, names, etc. indicating their place in a book, magazine, etc.

Index volume
A book which contains the index to a set of books.

Introduction
The part of the book that leads up to and explains what will be found in the main part of the book.

Joint author
The second author of a book: A person who works with one or more people to produce a book or other work in which the contribution of each is usually not separable from that of the others.

Library
A place where books, magazines, and other materials are stored, used, and loaned.

Library of Congress
The library located just east of the United States Capitol in Washington, D.C. which was established by Congress in 1800. Its first responsibility is to provide research and reference assistance to Congress but it also serves the general public. It is one of the largest and most valuable research libraries in the world.
The classification system developed for use in the Library of Congress which combines letters and numbers to provide the most minute grouping of subjects. It is designed for libraries with very large collections or with highly specialized collections. A brief outline of a part of this system follows:

A General Works--Polygraphy
B Philosophy--Religion
C History--Auxiliary Sciences
D History and topography (except America)
E-F America
G Geography
H Social sciences
I Political sciences
J Law

*Magazine
A publication appearing regularly but not daily containing stories, articles, etc. by various authors.

*Magazine rack
A cabinet of shelves for magazines.

*Magnetic tape
A ribbon of thin paper or plastic coated material on which sound can be recorded and reproduced.

Main entry
The complete catalog entry in which all of the information needed for the identification of a book or other material is given. Usually this is the author card and it usually has the tracings. Other cards in the set are copies of the main entry card plus the headings.

Main entry card
The card on which the main entry is typed or printed.

*Map
A drawing of a location (country, city, lake, etc.) in relation to other locations.

Media
Channels, methods, or systems of communication, information, or entertainment. Some forms of media are radio, newspapers, films, television.

Multi-media
Various combinations of communication forms, for example, words, pictures, sound, etc. used together as in a sound filmstrip (a filmstrip that has a record or cassette).

Medium
See Media. Medium is singular; media is plural.

*Newbery Medal
An award given every year to the author who has written the best book for children.

*Newspaper
A paper or several sheets of paper with news, the opinions of its editor and columnists, advertisements, comics, etc. It is usually issued daily or weekly.

*Nonfiction
Something that is true or is about something that is true; it is not made up. Folktales are nonfiction because they describe the customs, beliefs, stories, and sayings of a group of people as handed down from generation to generation.

Non-print materials
Materials which are not printed. Some forms of non-print materials are filmstrips, phonograph records, magnetic tapes, etc. For definitions see the separate entries.

Notation
A system of symbols used to represent the divisions of a classification scheme. Usually letters of the alphabet and Arabic numbers are used separately or in combination.

VII. THE GRADED LITERATURE LISTS

In the past, many teachers have found it difficult to choose a full-length literature selection to be taught in class because many of the students had studied the selected book at some earlier grade level. Therefore, in an attempt to alleviate some of these problems, the Secondary Language Arts Curriculum Committee devised the Graded Literature Lists.

A list of books of literary merit has been designated for each grade level. Each list is comprised of books at various reading levels and interest levels so that a teacher may choose a book suitable for the students he has in each of his classes. A teacher may choose any of the books on the list for class study at the appropriate grade level of his students, but he may not choose a book from any of the lists for the other grade levels. This assures each teacher that the book he chooses to teach has not already been covered in some previous language arts class in the Gallup-McKinley County Public Schools.

Most of the books on each list have been marked according to reading level and interest level. Although these markings are arbitrary, they should help the language arts teacher in selecting a book appropriate for his students.

Please keep in mind that this is a temporary list only and is subject to change. Books that are not chosen for class study should be strongly recommended for independent reading at each grade level.

In order to help teachers suggest books for independent reading to their students, the Secondary Language Arts Curriculum Committee conducted a student survey in the Fall of 1972. The students wrote down the titles of their favorite books. From their responses, the following list of books was compiled. This list may be helpful to teachers in suggesting books for independent reading to their students; however, the list is a student list and it does not necessarily mean that all selections are endorsed by the Committee.

Each school faculty has attempted to identify the available language arts materials to be used at each level of each grade. This effort should insure against a repetition of materials for the student. If new materials are introduced, then the faculty of each school should determine the placement of those materials for the maximum benefit for the most students.

Every teacher shall be expected to cooperate in using the materials exactly as outlined by their fellow faculty members. Again, if changes seem necessary, it should be a group decision.

X. COURSE DESCRIPTIONS FOR AN ELECTIVE LANGUAGE ARTS PROGRAM

Gallup High School is initiating an elective program similar to APEX in the spring of 1974. The courses to be offered are designed to meet the needs and interests of the Gallup High School students. This information was obtained from the students' comments on the Student Attitude Questionnaire survey which was conducted in the Spring of 1973. The courses will be revised, or new courses will be added, to meet the changing needs and interests of the students.

Although each student may select all the courses he takes, there are minimum requirements regarding the types of courses he may choose. Out of the twelve units he must successfully complete in three years of high school English, the student must include the following:

- 3 units of literature
- 3 units of composition
- 2 units of speech

This allows the student four elective units in any area of the program.

If this program is successful, other schools may have the option of adopting an elective program.

Following is a tentative list of course descriptions to be offered. Each course description includes a phase designation to indicate the level of difficulty. These range from phase 1 (easiest level) to phase 5 (most difficult level). The phases are to help the student in selecting the courses in which he is interested and those in which he can hope to succeed, according to his English abilities.
Sportsman and Superman
Looking at our sports heroes and how we relate to them, how they relate to us, and how sports are presented in literature.

That Didn't Really Happen!
Readings in Edgar Allen Poe, Fantasy and the Supernatural. Did that really happen? Could it happen? Do we want it to happen?

Tomorrow, Today?
Exploring the themes of science fiction to discover visions of tomorrow's world and how today's man see our future.

Pop Lit!
Survey of themes in popular literature including Mad magazine, comic books, current paperbacks and comic strips.

Who's Laughing (Humor in Literature)
Who's Laughing? Hopefully you! In this course students will read selections by authors who are masters of creating humorous stories. Students will also try to discover what humor is and make an attempt at writing some humorous creations of their own.

Seminar in Mark Twain
This course will be a study of the life and works of Mark Twain.

College Survival Kit
This is a course designed to help students survive freshman English in college. The main emphasis will be on writing various types of compositions.

Research Paper
This course will be a thorough study of the "ins" and "outs" of writing a complete research paper. It will include researching a topic, taking notes, outlining a research paper, setting up footnotes and a bibliography, and writing the research paper itself.

Heroes -- Men, Supermen, or Villains?
What is a hero? Who decides a man is a hero? Can a "bad guy" also be a hero? These are just a few of the questions that this course will seek to answer through studying various people's ideas about heroes and studying heroes present and past. Bring your white hats! (Paired with Mythology and Folklore)

Mythology and Folklore
What is a myth? What is folklore? This course will be a study of the myths of the Greeks and Romans, the British, the Scandinavians, and the folklore of the United States to discover the answers to these questions and to determine the role of mythology and folklore in various cultures.

Grabbing English by the Ears
A course in understanding some basic elements of English as an adopted tongue -- root words, prefixes, suffixes, sounds of phonetic alphabet, etc. Lots of conversational fun such as role playing and telephoning.
"Rite" and Say it "Rite"

Fun with words and their meanings -- root words to synonyms and antonyms.

Phases 3-5

With a Feathered Plume

Trying your hand at writing all types of poetry including cinquains, ballads, rhymed verse, and free verse.

Phases 3-5

Music in Poetry

Study of contemporary poets and songwriters including Rod McKuen, Patcheu, the Beatles, and James Kavanaugh.

Phases 3-5

Games People Play

This course will present literature which illustrates the psychology of human relations -- how people behave and why. The student should develop a greater understanding of human behavior and an insight to the world around him.

Phases 3-5

Teenagers in Literature

Literature which reflects the attitudes and character of young people from past to contemporary times. Stereotypes of the young and their search for identity will be studied.

Exploring Who We Are

How does an older person view the world? What would a baby think of you? How would you spend your time if you were imprisoned? You are a soldier about to face combat. How do you feel? These are some of the questions that you will answer in this course while you discover who you are.

Phases 1-2

Understanding Other People

How do jurors feel at a trial? Why do people gamble? How do people react to prejudice? Why? What makes a punch drunk fighter stay in the ring? These are some of the questions that you should be able to answer after reading and acting some of the plays in this course.

Phases 1-2

Love and Tragedy

Is love tragedy? Is happiness a tragic love affair? Is tragic love? You should have some opinion on these questions after you explore love and tragedy in literature.

Phases 3-5

Shakespeare on Love and Tragedy

Should Othello have strangled Desdemona? What of Romeo and Juliet? Should Petruchio have tamed the shrew? These are some of the questions you will answer as you see what Shakespeare has to say on love and tragedy.

Phases 3-5

Mass Media

A general survey of the major forms of mass communications including newspapers, t.v., films, and magazines with emphasis on critical evaluation.

Levels 2-4

Vocational English

A language skills review for non-college bound students to improve basic reading, writing, speaking, listening, and thinking skills.

Levels 2-4

Yearbook

An elective class for students who will assemble the yearbook.

Newspaper

An elective class for students who will write for and publish the school newspaper.

American Frontier

Western expansion as seen in literature from the early settlements into the last frontier.
Holsters, Horns, and Honchos

A ten gallon hat, spurs, and a faithful horse—i.e., the American cowboy from the 1800's into the present.

You've Come a Long Way, Baby

Yes, Archie Bunker, There are Female Authors

A male chauvinist pig has no place in this class for it is concerned with books, stories, and poems written by women authors from Emily Bronte to Shirley Chisolm.

Grammar and Usage

Phases 3-5

Feeling insecure about grammar, usage, punctuation? Want to sing and play the Grammar Way? This course offers a short, relatively painless opportunity to brush up on your weaknesses.

Modern American Novel

What are people writing now? Does it reflect your life? Find out in this course.

Write On!

Phases 2-5

A composition course for the young at heart and lively of mind. All kinds are covered, from creative writing to formal rhetorical writing.

Other Countries, Other Views

Down with People

Phases 1-5

Other people, people different from ourselves, of course. That's what this unit is all about, prejudice. It raises lots of questions but leaves the answers for us to figure out.

Minority Literature

In this course the class will study the literature of Blacks, Chicanos, and Indians.

Play Reading

Phases 3-5

This course is designed to introduce the student to the joy of reading and acting out a few plays in the classroom. The students will present plays to other classes, using the readers' theater techniques. The students will also write a short play of their own.

Drama 1 and 2

It is the purpose of this course to give the student an appreciation of the theater as an important art form. The student will read, view, and evaluate a wide variety of plays, television shows, and films to become acquainted with worthwhile dramatic literature. The student will also demonstrate his acting ability in pantomime, one-act plays, and play cuttings.

Broadcasting Journalism

or

Mini Course in Microphone (Radio)

This course will introduce the student to the exciting and rewarding field of broadcasting. The student will gain insight into the workings of radio stations, particularly the news departments. The student will work as a newsman in gathering, editing, and presenting news for the radio.

Achievement Level: Should be above-average in reading ability, have an inquisitive mind, and be able to work well with others.
All About Words and Spell it "Rite"

Do you get F's on your compositions because you misspell words? Do you want to insult your friends with aplomb? If you don't know the meaning of "apomb" you need this course!

Speed Reading

Increase both the effectiveness of your reading and your ability to read more rapidly without loss of comprehension.

Whoaunit?

(Suspense, Mystery, Detective)

"Do you feel an uncomfortable heat in the pit of your stomach, sir? And a nasty thump at the top of your head? I call it detective fever." If this quote is your thing--this course is your bag!

Law

"Here come 'de judge! Here come 'de judge!" Sammy Davis said it as a joke, but do you know your basic rights AND responsibilities?
The Language Arts Study Committee was formed as a result of the work of a group of teachers, librarians, students, consultants, and administrators who participated in the Instructional Development Institute (IDI) held in the Spring of 1972. This group set up the Language Arts Study Committee to revise the language arts curriculum--kindergarten through twelfth grade for the entire district. Since October 12, 1972, the Secondary Language Arts Study Committee has been working on this objective and coordinating its efforts with those of the elementary teachers and consultants. In addition to this central committee of secondary and elementary teachers and consultants, there were sub-committees of librarians, students, and principals. The students have worked in close conjunction with the secondary section of the central committee. The sub-committee of librarians has coordinated its work with both sections of the central committee.

The secondary committee has met on the following dates:

- November 2, 1972
- December 1, 1972
- December 12, 1972
- January 24, 1973
- February 27, 1973
- March 13, 1973

At these meetings, the secondary teacher and student representatives worked on revising the language arts curriculum for grades 7 - 12. In an effort to make realistic and relevant revisions, the members devised two student surveys to be taken in all of the secondary schools in the district. The first survey was conducted to gather a list of the students' favorite books. The results were compiled for use in the language arts curriculum guide for grades 7 - 12. The second survey was in the form of a student attitude questionnaire. From the responses on the questionnaire, the secondary committee was able to ascertain the strengths and weaknesses of the present language arts program from the students' point of view. The results of this survey were particularly revealing and beneficial to the work of the committee.

In addition to the regular meetings of the Secondary Committee of the Language Arts Study Committee, there have been several special meetings for all secondary language arts teachers. On January 31, 1973 the Gallup Independent sponsored a seminar on newspapers in the classroom at the Shalimar Inn. Representatives from each of the district's secondary schools attended workshops conducted by Lawana Trout on March 20, 1973. Miss Trout, who was Teacher of the Year in 1965, is one of the editors of Holt, Rinehart, Winston's Impact series. She has also been a guest lecturer at the Conference on Anglo-American English. Miss Maryann Goodrich of Educational Consulting Associates, Inc. conducted an exciting workshop on new and innovative ways to individualize language arts instruction. This workshop was held at the Holiday Inn on March 27, 1973.
Since this is the year for adopting language arts textbooks, meetings with publishers' representatives have also been held for secondary language arts teachers. The following is a list of the dates of these meetings and the publishers' representatives who have explained their company's series in both language and literature:

Members of the central committee met with representatives of the following publishing companies during two regular meetings: Scott - Foresman, American Book Company, Laidlaw, and D.C. Heath.

As a result of the efforts of the language arts consultant there has been a great influx of new and relevant supplementary materials. These include newspapers, magazines, Scholastic literature units, and paperback books. Noma Russell has conducted workshops for the language arts department of each of the secondary schools on a paperback reading program funded by Title II.

This year has been one of hard, yet rewarding, work for the Secondary Committee of the Language Arts Study Committee and for all language arts teachers. Appreciation is due the following representatives to the Committee who have worked so diligently:

- Michael Brimberry
- Harriet Schamberger
- Dani Hall
- Carl Chavez, student
- Tom Kirby
- Genevieve Potts, librarian
- Paulina Watchman
- Ralph Roberts
- Gene Ritch
- Cathy Gasparich
- Norma Ruth Harvey
- Ralph Drake

Nancy Smith, Chairman
Secondary Committee of the Language Arts Study Committee
The secondary section of the Language Arts Curriculum Committee felt that one of its primary concerns should be to meet the needs and interests of the students themselves in our revised curriculum. In order to get the students' assessment of our present program's strengths and weaknesses, the secondary committee conducted a county-wide survey using a Student Attitude Questionnaire. This survey was taken in each secondary school through the English classes. The results of this survey are being used in the development of our new Language Arts Curriculum. The results are as follows:

1. How much have you enjoyed your English classes?

STUDENT COMMENTS FROM STUDENT ATTITUDE QUESTIONNAIRE

Gallup High School

A large number of the Juniors and Seniors (particularly Juniors) dislike their English textbook. Positively, many stressed a desire for the study of modern literature, relevant to their needs and interests. Negatively there were a good many comments to the effect that they were "tired of reading about old, dead men."

There were many requests for a creative writing class, a class to read and put on plays, a special usage class, a speed reading class, and a vocabulary building class.

There were moving pleas (a great many) for paperbacks to read in class, a paper back library, and even for bookshelves to put them in. The students seemed as frustrated as the teachers over the lack of working audio-visual equipment available and suggested often the use of all kinds of audio-visual materials.

They feel in overwhelming numbers, that the periodic English Department movies, based on some phase of understanding of their literature, enriched the program and added to their enjoyment and understanding of their literature classes.

Saddest of all were the many requests for more individual attention from students who know they lack facility in English and feel they need extra help.

Weaknesses

Lack of etiquette courses.
Lack of program on Indian studies.
Lack of modernity, relevance.
Dislike textbooks.
Lack of vocational English classes.
Need for more oral reading.
Lack of creative writing class.
Need more electives.

Find history in literature texts useless.

Strengths

English Department Movies.
The Sophomore Book is O.K.
Prefer Accent to U.S. Lit.
Teachers make the class.
Language Arts District-Wide Student Attitude Questionnaire (continued)

Gallup Junior High School

Weaknesses
Seventh grade particularly commented upon dislike of Roberts’ English and liking for Thrust.
Seventh, Eighth, and Ninth grades objected to grammar as being necessary and thought it should not be concentrated.
Eighth and Ninth grades wanted some audio-visual.

Strengths
No comment from any students.

J.P.K. Junior High School

Weaknesses
Lack of discussions.
Papers aren’t collected on time.
Short on materials (no materials except text)
Need more reading.
Less workbooks.

Strengths
Like Scope magazine.
Like plays.
