ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $2,450. Room and board: $1,200 (varies). Other expenses: $500.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants, jobs, NSL, SEOG, CWS. 183 accepted freshman applicants were judged to have need; 137 of these were offered aid; 27 of these were offered the full amounts they were estimated to need. Basis for selection: Need as determined by careful analysis of PCS. Those with the greatest need are given aid first. Ordinarily, if a student is accepted, it is assumed she will succeed in her studies; therefore academic achievement is not given great consideration. Special attention is given to minority and disadvantaged students and a considerable number receive the full amount of aid they are estimated to need. Application procedures: No closing date for applications, applicants notified of decisions in early spring and then on a rolling basis, recipients of aid offers must reply within 1 month. PCS required. Transfer students: Basically the same aid is available to transfer students and freshmen alike.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 520 women. 13% from Indiana,
100% live on campus, 5% from minority backgrounds. Middle 50% of enrolled freshmen have SAT-verbal scores between 420 and 536 and SAT-mathematical scores between 400 and 550. Programs undergraduates choose: Liberal arts 100%. Postgraduate studies: 92% of graduates enter graduate or professional programs. Student activities: Student government (voice in college affairs through College Student Union with committees on academics, student life, spiritual formation, representation on college administrative council and most faculty committees), student newspaper, yearbook, religious organizations (Christian Formation Committee), drama, social service organizations (Cooperative Action for Community Development, Inc., involving 70% of students several hours weekly in off-campus programs in areas of physically and mentally handicapped, aged and aging, recreation, remedial teaching, Boy Scouts and Job Corps). Athletic: Basketball, bowling, football, golf, gymnastics, handball, ice hockey, soccer, softball, swimming and diving, tennis, track and field. Student services: Counseling, health services, student employment service for undergraduates. Regulations: Students may have automobiles on campus; students participate in formulating and enforcing regulations; review board with some student members handles certain infractions. Additional information: Because of the college's purposes, the spiritual formation program is very important. Spiritual counsel, daily participation at Mass, occasional recollection days, annual retreat are required of all students. Students share responsibility for organizing these programs.

ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $1,200. Room and board: $1,200. Other expenses: $300.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Jobs, scholarships including three $1,000 and six $500 freshman scholarships each year which are renewable under certain conditions. NDSL, SEOG, CSS. 27 accepted freshman applicants were judged to have need. 15 of these were offered aid; 2 of these were offered the full amounts they were estimated to need. Basis for selection: Freshman scholarships awarded on academic achievement and potential, Christian leadership qualities, interest in priestly vocation; financial need considered when applicants are otherwise equally qualified. For other scholarships, CSS, NDSL, and SEOG, financial need given primary consideration.

Application procedures: Closing date for applications July 1, applicants notified of decisions by August 1, recipients of aid offers must reply within 10 days. PCS required. Transfer students: Eligibility similar to other students. Additional information: College-administered aid is considered supplementary to what a student, his family, and his religious sponsors are able to supply.

Maharishi International University, Fairfield, Iowa

Four-year private, nonsectarian university for men and women. Undergraduates: 330 men, 139 women. Calendar: Quarter, summer session. Location: Small town 110 miles southeast of Des Moines, Iowa. Special features: Undergraduate study begins with the science of creativity, a course which offers instruction in transcendent meditation, a mental technique for developing the student's full potential. On the theoretical level, the course provides knowledge of the source, course, and goal of creative intelligence. This course provides the foundation for all subsequent study.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Bachelor. Field of study: Art (studio art), biological sciences (biology), business and commerce (business management and administration), education, English and literature (literature), mathematics, music (composition and theory, instrumental music, music history), philosophy and religion (philosophy), physical sciences (astronomy, chemistry, physics), psychology, social sciences (political science), other interdisciplinary studies. Special programs: Cooperative education, honors program, independent study, study abroad (teacher-training for transcendent meditation). Programs for students from minority or low-income families: Special counseling, tutoring, remedial instruction, reduced course load. Required freshman courses: 24 core courses consisting of most of the traditional disciplines.

APPLICATIONS. Applications in 1974: 302 men applied and were accepted; 160 women applied and were accepted. Admissions requirements: SAT by June of senior year. ACT in mathematics and science used for advanced placement (but not mandatory). Interview required. Basis for selection: Open admissions policy. Application fee: $15. Application procedures: Closing date for applications July 15, applicants notified of decisions by August 1. Transfer applicants: About 400 apply annually and are accepted. Apply by July 15 for fall term.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 700 men, 300 women, 4% from Iowa, 98% live on campus, 2% commute, 1% from minority backgrounds. Student activities: Student government (student council, faculty-student affairs committee), radio, religious organizations (Jewish, Episcopal, Catholic, Protestant), dance, chapel choir, concert choir, social service organizations (World Plan Congress). Athletics: Basketball-M, softball-M, tennis, volleyball. Student services: Counseling, health services, student employment service for undergraduates, placement service for graduates and alumni. Regulations: All unmarried students must live on campus.

ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $1,825. Room and board: $1,800. Other expenses: $600.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Loans, jobs, SEOG, CWSF. 50% accepted freshman applicants were judged to have need. Basis for selection: Comparative basic need after all resources are considered. Grades and test scores usually not considered. Because expenses are so high, students with very low resources have some difficulty due to restrictions on work time caused by course scheduling. Application procedures: Closing date for applications March 15, applicant notified of decisions by May 15, recipients of aid offers must reply by June 15. Residence required. Transfer students: Same requirements and procedures as for freshmen.

Location: Metropolitan area of large city. Special features: Spalding's downtown location places students within walking distance of social, cultural, and religious activities in which the college participates. College is member of the Kentucky Council of Independent Colleges and Universities. Spalding-students are also students of any of the other schools and free to use their facilities, borrow their books, and attend their classes, concerts, plays, and films.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Bachelor. Fields of study: Art (art history, studio art), biological sciences (biology), communications, education (child development and nursery, elementary), English (speech and hearing), English and literature (English), foreign languages (Classical languages, French, Spanish), health and medical professions (medical technology, nursing, registered), history and cultures, home economics (clothing and textile, food and nutrition), mathematics, philosophy and religion, physical sciences (chemistry), psychology (general), social sciences (social work, sociology). Special programs: Independent study, study abroad (open to any eligible student), interdisciplinary program, general education, remedial instruction (available in learning laboratory on an individual basis), remedial courses (English composition, foreign languages), etc. Placement examinations. Credit will generally be given on basis of Advanced Placement Examinations. Credit will generally be given on basis of CLEP General and Subject Examinations. Variable number of semester hours of credit may be counted toward degree. Academic regulations: Maintenance of a cumulative grade-point index of 2.00 on a 4.0 scale. 95% of freshmen complete year in good academic standing. Graduate programs: Education, library science, psychology (counseling and guidance, criminal justice, religion).

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 120 men and women applied, 93 were accepted. Admissions requirements: High school diploma or equivalent. ACT or SAT preferably by January of senior year. Wechsler Adult Intelligence Scale (used as measure of potential for applicants away from school at least 5 years; also used with some applicants who finished high school with high school equivalency diploma). Required specific high school-units or courses, but a desirable preparation would include: English 4 units; social studies 2, foreign language 2, mathematics 2, science 1, 1 unit of chemistry is required by the nursing department. Interview recommended. Basis for selection: Student's total record considered in admissions decision. Important factors in evaluation are high school record, rank in class, test scores, and recommendations. Some students who seem to have college potential but fail to meet a portion of the admissions standards are singled out for individual testing at the college. If ultimately admitted, such students are given special counseling and work in the learning laboratory. Middle 50% of applicants accepted for admission had SAT-verbal scores between 400 and 549 and SAT-mathematical scores between 400 and 549. Application fee: $10, may be waived for applicants with financial need. Application procedures: Closing date for applications 1 month before registration, applicants notified of decisions on rolling basis, accepted applicants must reply no later than 1 month before opening of semester planning to begin study. Transfer applicants: About 125 apply annually, and 110 are accepted. Apply by 1 month before registration for fall term. 2 official copies of work from each college attended required; all other requirements same as for freshmen. Transfer students may apply for any term; credit given for grades of C or better and courses which fit into chosen program.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 71 men and women. 85% from Kentucky, 15% live on campus, 85% commute, 12% from minority backgrounds. Middle 50% of enrolled freshmen have SAT-verbal scores between 400 and 549 and SAT-mathematical scores between 400 and 549. Programs undergraduates choose: Liberal arts 18.3%, education 34.6%, home economics 4.0%, fine arts 1.3%, health services 33.3%, social work 8.1%. Postgraduate studies: 46% of graduates enter graduate or professional programs. Student activities: Metrovrsity student affairs council, dormitory council (students sit on faculty and administrative committees), student newspaper, magazine, Campus Ministry Association, drama, Young Democrats, Young Republicans, Black Student Union, social service organizations (student nurses, student education, speech and hearing). Athletics: Basketball, bowling, tennis, volleyball. Student services: Counseling, health services, psychological clinic. Regualtions: Due to limited facilities, boarding freshmen may not have cars on campus. Students under 21 and not living at home must live in dormitory. With written parental consent, no-curfew privileges after freshman year. No compulsory chapel attendance.

ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $40 per semester hour. Room and board: $1,100. Other expenses: $500.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants, loans, jobs, NSL, SEOG, CWSF, Law Enforcement Education Program, Nursing Scholarships, Nursing Student Loan Program, social work traineeships. All accepted freshman applicants judged to have need were offered aid. Tuition waiver program for veterans in return for on-campus work. Basis for selection: First consideration given students accepted for admission who have completed the application process for financial aid by the March 15 priority date. From this body of applicants, those demonstrating financial need are assisted to the extent of their need, generally with a combination of types of assistance. Applicants who file after March 15 are assisted to the extent possible from funds available in programs for which the students are eligible. Applicants from poverty-level income families considered carefully, with an eye to helping them in their early college years with as little loan aid as possible. If such students are local residents, an attempt is made to help them in the pre-freshman summer through placement in a college work-study position. Application procedures: Priority date for applications is March 15, applicants notified of decisions on rolling basis, recipients of aid offers must reply no earlier than May 1. FCS and college's own financial aid form required. Transfer students: Same procedures as freshmen, except that renewal SEOG prospects given first priority.

Kentucky: University of Louisville, Western Kentucky University
plied; 3,426 were accepted. Admissions requirements: ACT by July 15. Out-of-state beginning freshman applicants should obtain a composite score of 20 on the ACT. Transfer students are not required to take entrance examination. Applicants must be graduates of an accredited high school. Basis for selection: Graduates of an accredited Kentucky high school may be admitted unconditionally to the freshman class if an average of C has been earned in combined units of English, science, mathematics, and social studies and if an average of C has been earned in all work attempted. Applicants who have slightly less than a C average in the combined units will be admitted on a conditional basis for the first semester in which they enroll. Applicants whose high school average is considerably less than a C in the combined units will be required to enroll for a special summer session for 6 or 7 semester hours of credit or defer their enrollment until the spring semester. Other factors which will be taken into account are scores obtained on ACT, rank in high school class, recommendations from principal, guidance counselor, or other interested persons, and personal qualifications and citizenship. Graduates of accredited high schools from states other than Kentucky should rank in the top half of their graduating class, have a 2.5 grade average (using a 4-point system) in all high school work including the combined units of English, mathematics, science and social studies, and obtain a composite score of 20 on ACT. Applications received from states other than Kentucky will be reviewed on a competitive basis. The above minimum requirements for consideration of an out-of-state applicant do not guarantee admission to the university. Application procedures: Closing date for applications May 1 (out-of-state), August 1 (in-state), applicants notified of decisions immediately. Transfer applicants: About 783 apply annually, and 733 are accepted. Students wanting to transfer from another accredited college should submit an application for admission and two official transcripts from each college attended. In order to receive favorable consideration, transfer students must have a minimum grade-point average of C for the last semester or term of full-time work, a cumulative grade-point average of C, and be in good standing at the institution from which they are transferring. Transfer students from states other than Kentucky will be considered on a competitive basis and the above minimum requirements for consideration of a transfer application do not guarantee admission to the university. Under no conditions will the applicant be permitted to ignore previous college work.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 2,500 men and women. 86% from Kentucky, 95% live on campus, 5% from minority backgrounds. Middle 50% of enrolled freshmen have ACT composite scores between 17 and 23. Special features: The college takes full advantage of Brunswick's coastline location in both academic and extracurricular programs.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Bachelor. Fields of study: Architecture, art (art history, visual arts), biological sciences (biochemistry, biology), business and commerce (accounting, finance), computer science and systems analysis (computer science), education (general, secondary), engineering, English and literature (creative writing, literature, speech), ethnic studies (black or Afro-American), foreign languages (Classical languages, Eastern languages, French, German, Italian, Russian, Spanish), health and medical professions (premedical studies), history and cultures (American, ancient, area and regional, European), mathematics (statistics), military science (military science-army), music (composition and theory, instrumental music, music history, voice), philosophy and religion (philosophy, religion), physical sciences (chemistry, geology, physics), psychology (child, experimental, general, social), social sciences (anthropology, economics, international relations, political science, public administration, sociology), theater arts (drama). Special programs: Accelerated program, honors program, independent study, study abroad (Institute of European Studies and individually arranged), 3-2 liberal arts and engineering combination, Twelve-College Exchange Program with Amherst, Connecticut, Dartmouth, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Trinity, Vassar, Wellesley, Wesleyan, Wheaton, and Williams. Programs for students from minorities or low-income families: Special counselor, tutoring, remedial instruction, reduced course load. Afro-American Association with seminars, lectures, forums, and an academic major. Military training: Army ROTC. Required freshman courses: No distributional course requirements. Tests used for counseling, placement, or credit: Placement, credit, or both will generally be given for grades of 3 and higher in Advanced Placement Examinations. Academic regulations: A student who fails 3 or more courses (out of 4 or 5) at the end of the first semester of the freshman year, or who fails 2 or more courses at the end of any other semester, is dropped from college for 1 semester. A student is permanently dropped if dismissed a second time for failure in 2 or more courses. 98% of the freshmen complete their year in good academic standing. Additional information: Faculty-student ratio of 1 to 11 allows emphasis on seminar and independent study.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 2,479 men applied. 469 were accepted; 1,586 women applied, 202 were accepted. Admissions requirements: ACT or SAT, SAT (either optional). High school English units, social studies, 2 foreign language, 3 mathematics, 3 science, 2-4 additional units in any of the above. High school units are preferred but not required. Flexibility is permitted but should embrace a demanding course selection. Interview recommended. Basis for selection: The college is interested in the student who is intellectually inclined and who is putting his talents to good use. Bowdoin attempts to evaluate each candidate in terms of where he has been, and at what pace and with what resolve he is going. Performance and potential are judged as much on description as on statistics. The college selects a class of students who share certain characteristics: drive, academic aptitude, and a genuine desire to learn. On the other hand, it seeks a class of differences: students with different talents, of differing backgrounds, from different places, and with different points of view. Application fee: $20, may be waived for applicants with financial need greater than tuition costs. Application procedures: Closing date for applications February 1, applicants notified of decisions by April 15. CROA, EDP, Transfer applicants: About 250 apply annually, and 25 are accepted. Apply by April 1 for fall term. In general, applicants should have B+ or better average at the previous institution. Each application is individually reviewed for placement and credit.

Fields of study: Agriculture (horticulture), architecture (city planning), biological sciences (ecology, marine biology), English and literature (literature), forestry and conservation, history and cultures (area and regional), philosophy and religion (philosophy), physical sciences (oceanography), psychology (social), social sciences (anthropology). Special programs: Accelerated program, cooperative education, independent study, internships, group workshops. Tests used for counseling, placement, or credit: Placement, credit, or both will generally be given for grades of 3 and higher in Advanced Placement Examinations. Credit will generally be given on basis of CLEP Subject Examinations. Minimum of 32 semester hours of credit by examination may be counted toward degree. Academic regulations: Satisfactory completion of all work undertaken is necessary to re-enroll. 90% of freshmen complete the year in good standing. Additional information: The main thrust of the college's unique curriculum in human ecology is to explore the various relationships and dependencies existing between man and his natural and created environment. 30% of the courses are interdisciplinary in nature and all are designed to relate to others in the curriculum. Skill and disciplinary courses alternate with problem-oriented courses and workshops with the purpose of relating abstract theories to public problems. Several sequences of courses are unified by programs in environmental science, environmental design and planning, and studies in human nature and perspectives. Pre-architecture and law sequences are also possible.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 31 men applied, 20 were accepted; 43 women applied, 30 were accepted. Admissions requirements: SAT by January of senior year. Johns Hopkins University: School of Health Services Baltimore, Maryland

Two-year upper-division private nonsectarian school of health services for men and women. Undergraduates: 35 men, 89 women. Calendar: Semester, 1 required 10-week summer session. Location: Metropolitan area in a large city. Special features: The newest of the Johns Hopkins schools, the School of Health Services was established to educate mid-level health practitioners. First class was admitted in September 1973 and will receive bachelor degrees in May 1975. The school will offer new upper-division basic nursing program in September 1975, also at the baccalaureate level. Programs in environmental health services and clinical laboratory sciences are in planning stages.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Bachelor. Fields of study: Health and medical professions (nursing-registered, health associate program). Special programs: Nursing education programs, physician’s assistant program in coordination with Essex Community College. Basis for selection: Financial aids will generally be given toward prerequisite courses for programs on basis of CLEP General and Subject Examinations. Maximum of 60 semester hours of credit by examination may be counted toward degree. Academic regulations: Students must maintain a minimum C average and must earn grades indicating competence in each of the practicum courses, clinical rotation, field experience, and clinical skills. 100% of the first class preparing to be health associates completed the junior year in good standing. Additional information: The curriculum of the basic nursing program, to which students will be admitted for September 1975, is under development. The curriculum of the health associate program combines studies in human biology, social sciences, and humanities in sequential modules which reflect stages of life and common health care problems related to these respective phases. Clinical rotation begins early in first term and is coordinated with didactic learning in disciplines and with clinical skills and family and patient care.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 57 men applied, 12 were accepted; 58 women applied, 24 were accepted. Admissions requirements: 60 semester hours of college work required with a 2.0 grade-point average (on 4.0 scale). Of these 60 semester hours, 18 are required in natural science (6 in biology and 6 in chemistry), 18 in social science and humanities (3 in psychology and 3 in a basic social science), and 3 in college mathematics. Students must have a grade of C or better in prerequisite courses. Interview required. Basis for selection: Academic record, interview, personal statement, personal references and work (including volunteer) experience are all taken into consideration. Applicants must have overall C average with grade of C in all prerequisite courses. Application fee: $20. Application procedures: Closing date for applications April 15; applicants notified of decisions beginning April 15, accepted applicants must reply within 2 weeks after notification. Transfer applicants: About 120 apply annually, and 36 are accepted. Completed applications by April 15 for full term. All applicants are transfer students or already have degree and must have completed 60 credits of college work.

STUDENT LIFE. Junior class: 66 men and women. 30% from Maryland, 3% live on campus, 97% commute, 6% from minority backgrounds. Credit will generally be given on basis of CLEP Subject Examinations. Maximum of 45 semester hours of credit by examination and transfer credits from other institutions may be counted toward degree. Academic regulations: Grade-point average of 1.70 required for freshmen to continue in good standing. Additional information: Most courses taught in classes of fewer than 20 students.

ADMISSIONS. Applications In 1974: 7,009 men and women applied. Admissions requirements: ACT. Matriculated students encouraged to take ACT and submit scores and profiles at time of application. This information will be used to assist in academic advisory program planning, counseling, and demographic studies, but is not used to determine eligibility for admission. High school English 4 units, social studies 2, mathematics 3, science 2, history 1. Interview recommended. Basis for selection: It is the policy of Board of Trustees that all who can benefit from programs and services should be admitted. Students seek admission for many reasons, and their backgrounds represent a diversity of educational and life experience. In order to accommodate the various interests and goals of persons requesting admission, applicants, depending on their objectives and educational background, are admitted in 1 of 3 basic categories—special, matriculated, or community service. Applicants not admitted or wishing to be admitted to a different category from that to which they are admitted shall be given the appropriate appeal procedure. College is committed to a policy of equal opportunity in student admissions, financial assistance, and other policies and procedures without regard to age, sex, race, color, religious belief or national origin. Application fee: $10. Application procedures: Closing date for applications August 19, applicants notified of decisions as soon as application and supporting data received, accepted applicants must reply by July 5 to be permitted to register before the regular registration period. This ensures sufficient time for applicant to receive pre-registration counseling and academic advising. Transfer applicants: About 275 apply annually, and all are accepted. Apply by August 19 for fall term. All previous college transcripts required. Credit given for C or better for equivalent courses. Dis accepted if overall grade-point average is at least C. Correspondence courses accepted from students who have served in Armed Forces on basis of recommendations issued by American Council on Education. Additional information: Well-qualified and mature students may be admitted after junior year of high school.

Two-year; public; for men and women. Enrollment 4,400. Zip code 20870.

St. John's College, Annapolis, Maryland

Four-year private nonsectarian liberal arts college for men and women. Undergraduates: 205 men, 163 women. Calendar: Semester, summer session (12 weeks, second-semester freshmen only). Location: Large town 30 miles from Washington, D.C., 26 miles from Baltimore, Maryland. Special features: The college seeks to develop free and rational men and women committed to the pursuit of knowledge in its fundamental unity, intelligently appreciative of their common cultural heritage, and conscious of their social and moral obligations. Teaching faculty-student ratio: 1 to 8.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Bachelor. Fields of study: The common course of study is dedicated to the ideal of liberal learning achieved through study (from original sources) and discussion. The interrelated program includes philosophy, language, mathematics, science, music, literature, history, and political theory. Required freshman courses: Seminar (philosophy, theology, literature, history, drama, political science), language (Greek), mathematics (ancient geometry and astronomy), laboratory (theory of measurement, chemistry). A single, unified program is required for all students. Academic regulations: At the end of each semester, oral examinations are held. The student is questioned on the texts he has read and on his critical and interpretative opinions. He is encouraged to consider different parts of his study in relation to each other and to problems that may not have been treated in any of his classes. At the end of each semester the student meets all his tutors in the "don rag." Each tutor reports on the student's work during the semester; the student is then invited to report on himself and to judge his own work. Advice may be requested and given; difficulties may be aired. Grades are recorded but are neither distributed nor discussed. Additional information: In 1937 the college eliminated academic majors, electives, lecture classes, textbooks, fraternities, intercollegiate athletics, and the gap between teacher and student. In their place, the college gave its students a curriculum based on rigorous study of language, science, mathematics, and music; thoughtful examination and discussion of the "Great Books," and an active role in their own education.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 118 men applied, 97 were accepted; 89 women applied, 78 were accepted. Admissions requirements: High school foreign language 2 units (1 language), mathematics 3 (algebra 2, geometry 1), natural sciences recommended. Requirements vary for students accepted for early entrance. Interview required for early entrance. Campus visit recommended for all applicants. Basis for selection: Applicants submit a lengthy essay which is given primary consideration. Academic record and 2 letters of reference also considered. New students enter in January as well as September. No special consideration given to any applicant. Application fee: None. Application procedures: No closing date for applications, applicants notified of decisions on a rolling admissions basis. Transfer applicants: Applications for fall term are on a rolling admissions basis. All transfer students must enroll as freshmen; approximately 25% of each entering class consists of students with 1-3 years of previous college work. Additional information: The application form asks for no irrelevant information. Students write (usually in 6 to 10 pages, sometimes in 20 or more) their answers to a list of questions designed to let them express themselves and to show the quality of their minds.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 62 men, 43 women. 17% from Maryland, 98% live on campus, 2% commute. Enrolled freshmen have a median SAT-verbal score of 650 and median SAT-mathematical score of 620. In last year's freshman class 60% ranked in the top fifth of their class in secondary school, 88% in the top two-fifths.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 1,604 men applied, 1,100 were accepted; 385 women applied, 300 were accepted. Admissions requirements: AC for SAT by July of senior year. Some students were allowed entrance with limited courses: special laboratory work in mathematics and/or English. High school English 3-4 units, social studies 1-2, mathematics 2-3, science 1-2. A college preparatory curriculum and graduation from high school required. Interview recommended. Basis for selection: Bentley College employs selective admissions. The Office of Admissions offers regular admissions and conditional admissions but also denies admissions. The Admissions Committee measures several factors in its evaluation of applicants: the potential for success in the particular degree program selected; past performance as evidenced by high school and postgraduate transcripts, guidance counselor or principal recommendation, and whenever possible, personal on-campus interviews. Board scores are not used as the principal factor in admissions, but only as a minor part of several more important variables. More meaningful indices are past academic performance and present motivation or interest. Application fee: $15. Application procedures: Closing date for applications August 15. Applicants notified of decisions on a rolling admissions basis, accepted applicants must usually reply within 30 days. Transfer applicants: About 500 apply annually, and 400 are accepted. Apply by August 30 for fall term. Transfer students are accepted based on their official college transcripts. The high school record is used for counseling and placement purposes, not for general admission. The transcripts should indicate honorable dismissal, courses attempted, credits and grades received. Additional information: There are many high school students who have completed their junior year, do not want to attend their senior year and are ready to begin college. Such students are accepted for early admission to Bentley College. Before applicants may be considered, they must submit recommendations from guidance counselor and high school principal, approval of parents or legal guardians, application and fee and ACT or SAT scores. The college encourages qualified high school students to attend its summer sessions. Students may enroll for any of the freshman-level courses and receive regular academic credit. These students return to high school for their senior year.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 613 men, 131 women. 60% from Massachusetts, 53% live on campus, 47% commute, 4% from minority backgrounds. More than 60% of the freshmen were in the top two-fifths of their high school class. Less than 12% came from the bottom two-fifths of their high school graduating class. A number of students came from families of strong business backgrounds. Programs: undergraduates choose: Liberal arts 10%, education 3%, business 87%. Postgraduate studies: 80% of students of 2-year programs enter 4-year programs. 30% of graduates of 4-year programs enter graduate or professional programs. Student activities: Student government, student newspaper, magazine, yearbook, photography, religious organizations (Catholic, Protestant, Jewish), on-campus ministry, campus ministry, political organizations, ethnic organizations, social service organizations, fraternities, sororities. examinations for counseling, placement, or credit. Academic regulations: To meet the minimum academic requirements, a student must have at least 1 satisfactory grade and cannot have more than 1 failing grade in any term. About 98% of the freshmen continue into their sophomore year. Graduate programs: Architecture, biological sciences, business and commerce, city planning, computer science and systems analysis, education, engineering, English and journalism, fine and applied arts, folklore, foreign language and literature, geography, health professions, law, mathematics, philosophy, physical sciences, psychology, religion, social sciences.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 7,900 men applied, 1,350 were accepted. Admissions requirements: SAT and ACT by January. At least 3 ACT preferred but no specific ones required. No rigidly prescribed high school subject matter, course, or unit prerequisites for admission, but the most rigorous academic background available is encouraged. Interview recommended. Basis for selection: Factors such as strength of character, creative ability in some field, leadership, intellectual curiosity, and a demonstrated concern for public good are very important. Every applicant has an advocate in the admissions process who highlights his special strengths and explains individual circumstances. The college seeks applicants from every conceivable background. Most of those admitted are honor students in high school and score between 500 and 800 on the SAT. Application procedures: Normal closing date for applications January 1, applicants notified of decisions approximately April 15, accepted applicants must reply by May 1. Transfer applicants: About 1,000 apply annually, and 10-25 are accepted. Apply by February 1 for fall term. STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 1,175 men. 20% from Massachusetts, 99% live on campus, less than 1% commute, 11% from minority backgrounds. The freshman class reflects the effort of the committee on admissions to bring to the college community the best possible mix of intellectual ability and broad cultural representation.

Programs: Undergraduates choose: Liberal arts 92%, engineering 4%, undeclared 4%. Postgraduate studies: 80% of graduates enter graduate or professional programs. Student activities: Student government (a decentralized system revolving around living units), student newspaper, yearbook, radio, film, art review, journal on current events, 2 honor magazines, religious organizations of all sects, drama, musical theater, dance, Symphony orchestra, marching band, concert band; political organizations (Young Americans for Freedom, Students for a Democratic Society, Harvard Students for Israel), Young Socialist Alliance, Young Democrats, Republican Club), ethnic organizations (Association of African and Afro-American Students, Latin American Association), social service organizations (Phillips Brooks House is largest undergraduate organization).

Athletics: Baseball, basketball, boxing, cross-country, fencing, football, golf, gymnastics, handball, ice hockey, lacrosse, rifle, rowing, rugby, sailing, skiing, soccer, softball, squash, swimming and diving, tennis, track and field, volleyball, water polo, wrestling. Student services: Counseling, health services, student employment services for undergraduates, placement service for graduates and alumni, academic tutoring and advising. Additional information: Every freshman has an academic advisor, either a resident proctor or a faculty member. Every upperclassman has a tutor—a faculty member in the student's field of concentration.

ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $3,400. Room and board: $1,950. Other expenses: $700.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants, loans, jobs. NSL, SEOG, CWSF, 566 accepted freshman applicants were judged to have need; all of these were offered the full amounts they were estimated to need (usually in some combination of grant, loan, and job). Basis for selection: Scholarship stipends are determined by estimating financial need. They are reviewed each year for changes in students' financial need. Any student who enters with a scholarship is assured of continuing support for his 4 years of college provided that he is making a good effort and his academic record and conduct are satisfactory. Application procedures: Closing date for applications January 1. Applicants notified of decisions approximately April 15. Acceptances for aid offers must reply by May 1. PCademy and the college's scholarship form are required. Transfer students: Same rules and requirements apply as for freshmen. Additional information: Upon application to the comptroller's office, a student and his family will be permitted to pay college bills in 8 monthly payments. Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Massachusetts

Four-year private nonsectarian liberal arts college for women. Undergraduates: 1,750 women. Calendar: Semester, summer session. Location: Metropolitan area 4 miles from Boston. Special features: Radcliffe is the women's undergraduate college associated with Harvard. The college has no faculty of its own; the Harvard faculty is also Radcliffe's and the students are granted a Harvard degree on completion of their undergraduate studies.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Bachelor. Fields of study: Art (art history, graphic arts), biological sciences (biochemistry, biology, botany, physiology, zoology), education (general), engineering (engineering sciences), English and literature (English), ethnic studies (black or Afro-American), foreign languages (Classical languages, Eastern languages, French, German, Italian, linguistics, Russian, Spanish), history and cultures (American, ancient, area and regional, European), mathematics (statistics), music (composition and theory, music history), philosophy and religion (philosophy, scholastic philosophy), physical sciences (astronomy, chemistry, geology, physical sciences, physics), psychology, social sciences (anthropology, economics, political science, sociology), visual and environmental studies. Special programs: Accelerated program, honors program, independent study, 3-2 liberal arts and engineering combination. Required freshman courses: English composition. Tests used for counseling, placement, or credit: Placement, credit, or both will sometimes be given on basis of Advanced Placement Examinations. Academic regulations: The requirements for a satisfactory record are no more than one D grade in any term and passing grades in all courses. 95% or better of freshmen complete the year in good academic standing.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 3,388 women applied, 600 were accepted. Admissions requirements: SAT by January of senior year. Any 3 ACH. No specific high school course or unit requirements for admission. Interview recommended. SAT scores range between 500 and 800. Basis for selection: Although Radcliffe assumes a high degree of intellectual ability and promise in its candidates, other qualities are considered of major importance in determining the final choices. Personal integrity, a good sense of social responsibility, the ability to work independently, and the stamina to carry out a demanding college program are major factors in deciding a candidate's eligibility. Also important are other qualities, more difficult to define, such as liveliness of mind, breadth of interests, and flexibility of temperament; these suggest the applicant's potential effectiveness as a social being. Stability and maturity are essential qualities in a complex university environment where considerable freedom is given to students, and where a great deal of responsibility for making wise decisions is expected of them. Beyond these criteria, Radcliffe hopes that the freshman class each year will be sufficiently diverse in background and interests to provide a stimulating and intellectual environment; for this reason, the college encourages applications from a wide range of well-qualified students. Application fee: $15, may be waived for applicants with financial need. Application procedures: Closing date for applications January 15, applicants notified of decisions by mid-April, accepted applicants must reply by May 1. Fee required: Pine Manor financial aid application required. Transfer students: Same procedures as for freshmen. Additional information: College encourages students to apply for guaranteed loans (through applicant's bank, in state) and state scholarships.

for undergraduates, placement service for graduates and alumni. Regulations: All Radcliffe houses and those at Harvard are co-residential. Students may request to live in all-female areas within the houses. Freshmen are assigned to one of the 3 houses in the Radcliffe Quadrangle or to dormitories in the Harvard Yard. By the sophomore year they choose a house for the next 3 years at either Radcliffe or Harvard.

ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $3,400. Room and board: $1,950. Other expenses: $700.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants, loans, jobs. NSL, SEOG, CWSIP. 188 accepted freshman applicants were judged to have need; all of these were offered aid in the full amounts they were estimated to need. Basis for selection: Awards are based solely on financial need, defined as the difference between the average resident student budget and the student's total resources. A student's resources could include an amount expected from summer and part-time earnings, a portion of her savings, and her parents' contribution. The parents' contribution is estimated upon a review of the total family situation. Application procedures: Closing date for applications January 15, applicants notified of decisions by mid-April, recipients of aid must reply by May 1. PCS required. Transfer students: Financial assistance is offered to transfer students. Awards are based on financial need. Requirements and procedures are similar to those for freshman applicants. Transfer students must file a PCS and a college financial aid application before their award can be determined. Additional information: Each student is offered a long-term loan as a portion of her award. The student also bears some financial responsibility for her education through summer and part-time employment.

It is an "early" college for young adults who have successfully completed the tenth, eleventh, or twelfth year of secondary school. A 4-year curriculum in liberal arts following the tenth grade leads to a BA degree; an AA degree may be earned 3 years after the tenth grade. All courses are open to qualified students in either degree program.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Associate, bachelor. Fields of study: Agriculture (horticulture), art (art history, design, graphic arts, photography, printing, studio art, ceramics, sculpture), biological sciences (biology, ecology, environmental studies), communications (film, journalism), computer science and systems analysis (computer science, systems analysis), English and literature (creative writing, English, literature), ethnic studies (American Indian or native American, black or Afro-American), foreign languages (French, German, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish), history and cultures (American, Asian, European, Latin American), mathematics (statistics), music (composition and theory, instrumental music, music history, voice), philosophy, physical sciences (chemistry, physics), psychology, social sciences (anthropology, political science, sociology), theater arts (dance, drama). Special programs: Honors program, independent study, extended campus, study abroad. Programs for students from minorities or low-income families: Special programs. Required freshman courses: English composition. At least 1 of 14 special transition-year courses selected from among the humanities, natural sciences, and social studies divisions. Tests used for counseling, placement, or credit: Placement sometimes given on basis of Advanced Placement Examinations. Academic regulations: To be in good academic standing at the end of a given term a student must pass at least 9 credits and maintain the following minimum grade-point averages (on a 4-point scale): Class I—first semester 1.8, second semester 1.8; all other classes—1.8 and cumulative average of at least 2.0. Approximately 88% of Class I complete year in good standing.

ADMISSIONS. Applications: In 1974: 89 men applied, 34 were accepted; 80 women applied, 61 were accepted. Admissions requirements: SAT or ACT. Interview required. Basis for selection: Students selected on basis of strong academic record, test scores, interview, essays, and recommendations. Social and intellectual maturity of $1,505.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants, loans, jobs, NSL, SEOG, CWSP, Nursing Scholarships, Nursing Student Loans. Physical Therapy Traineeships. 480 accepted freshman applicants were judged to have need; 145 of these were offered aid; all of these were offered the full amounts they were estimated to need. Basis for selection: Scholarships recipients are chosen on the basis of financial need, academic achievement and promise, and personal qualifications, with special emphasis placed on equality of access to higher education. great importance because of unique nature of program. Application fee: $25, may be waived for applicants with financial need.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 27 men, 26 women. 20% from Massachusetts, 99% live on campus, 1% commute, 5% from minority backgrounds. Students have demonstrated ability to do college-level work. Programs undergraduate students choose: Liberal arts 100%. Postgraduate studies: 85% of graduates enter 4-year programs. Student activities: Student government, film, drama, dance, chorus, chamber music, community volunteer work. Athletics: Archery, baseball, basketball, cross-country, skiing, soccer, softball, swimming and diving, tennis. Student services: Counseling, health services, student employment service for undergraduates, placement service for graduates and alumni. Regulations: Community Council makes resident regulations; students may own and operate cars subject to state and campus regulations; fourth year students may live off campus on parents' responsibility. Additional Information: The college program permits young men and women to begin their college education 2 years earlier than was possible heretofore. It takes account of the growing desire of young adults for active and responsible participation in the adult world at an earlier age. By completing their liberal studies two years ahead of the time permitted by the traditional high school and college sequences, students can sooner decide whether to go into specialized training or graduate studies.

ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $3,200. Room and board: $1,300.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants, jobs, NSL, SEOG, CWSP. 19 accepted freshman applicants were judged to have need; all of these were offered aid and in the full amounts they were estimated to need. Basis for selection: While the award is given primarily on the basis of financial need, the past record of the student, both academic and nonacademic, is taken into consideration. The award of a grant need not be based upon outstanding scholarship, but the record of the student should indicate that he or she is willing and able to make some sort of contribution to the college community. In addition, the Financial Aid Committee is looking for students who will increase the diversity of the student body at the college. No limit on credit, but all students are required to make some sort of contribution to the college community. Additional Information: Some campus jobs are available.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Bachelor. Fields of study: Art (design, history, studio art), biological sciences (biology, marine biology), business and commerce (accounting, business management and administration, finance, industrial management, marketing), education (art, elementary, secondary), engineering (civil, electrical, mechanical), English and literature (English), foreign languages (French, German, Portuguese, Spanish), health and medical professions (medical technology, nursing-registered), history and cultures (American, European), mathematics, philosophy and religion (philosophy), physical sciences (chemistry, physics), psychology (general), social sciences (economics, political science, sociology), textile chemistry: textile technology, textile design, engineering technology (civil, electrical, industrial, mechanical), ocean engineering. Special programs: Accelerated-programs in chemistry, honors program (within specific departments), multidisciplinary studies program. Programs for students from minorities or low-income families: Special counseling, tutoring, remedial instruction, reduced course load. Required freshman courses: English composition. Tests used for counseling, placement, or credit: Placement, credit, or both will generally be given for grades of 3 and higher in Advanced Placement Examinations. Credit will generally be given on basis of CLEP General and Subject Examinations. Maximum of 60 semester hours of credit by examination may be counted toward degree. Academic regulations: Grade-point average of 2.00 required for freshmen to continue in good standing. 75% of freshmen complete year in good standing. Graduate programs: Biological sciences, electrical engineering, fine and applied arts, mathematics, physical sciences, bilingual-bicultural education, textile chemistry, textile technology.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 4,670 men and women applied, 2,685 were accepted. Admissions requirements: SAT by April of senior year. Various ACT tests recommended, depending on program applied for, also by April of senior year. High school English 4, units, social studies 2, foreign language 2, mathematics 2, science 1. Mathematics, science, and foreign language requirements vary with programs. Basis for selection: Applicants are assessed on the following factors: secondary school record, rank in class, endorsement of teachers and counselors, and SAT and ACT scores. Class rank is reviewed carefully and compared with an applicant's record and courses included in his program. Special consideration is given to those whose rank has been affected by enriched or accelerated programs. The school record is the single most reliable factor in predicting a student's future academic success. Emphasis is placed upon the school's recommendations. It is expected that an applicant's test results will be commensurate with his school record; experience dictates that students with good test results but poor records are generally poor academic risks. Disadvantaged students are admitted even with some deficiencies in preparation. Middle 50% of applicants accepted for admission had SAT-verbal scores between 420 and 536 and SAT-mathematical scores between 465 and 580. Application fee: None. Application procedures: No formal deadline for application. Applications accepted on a rolling admissions basis until all spaces are allocated. Applicants notified of decisions soon after completion of application. Applicants must reply within 15 days, but deposit is refundable until June 1. Transfer applicants: About 1,300 apply annually, and 780 are accepted. Apply by early spring for fall term. Procedure similar to that for freshmen. Official SAT reports, transcripts, and recommendations required. Qualified candidates are accepted for advanced standing from approved institutions. In general up to 90 semester hours of credit may be transferred.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 517 men, 375 women. 90% from Massachusetts. 18% live on campus, 82% commute, 7% from minority backgrounds. Middle 50% of enrolled freshmen have SAT-verbal scores between 415 and 530 and SAT-mathematical scores between 460 and 570. Programs undergraduates choose: Liberal arts 44%, engineering 9%, business 17%, fine arts 8%, health services 5%, biology 7%. Postgraduate studies: 10% of graduates enter graduate or professional programs. Student activities: Student government, student newspaper, magazine, yearbook, radio, religious organizations, drama, symphony orchestra, concert band, social service organizations, fraternities, sororities. Athletics: Baseball, basketball, cross-country, fencing, field hockey, tennis, volleyball.
football, golf, ice hockey, soccer, softball, swimming and diving, tennis, track and field, volleyball, water polo. Student services: Counseling, health services, student employment service for undergraduates, placement service for graduates and alumni.

ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $4,280, for students from out-of-state $8,200. Room and board: $1,900.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants, loans, jobs, NDSL, SEOG, CSSW, Nursing Student Loan Program, Nursing Student Scholarship Program. 420 accepted freshman applicants were judged to have need; all of these were offered aid: 400 of these were offered the full amounts they were estimated to need. Basis for selection: Awards are based on applicant's need. Special consideration for poverty-level families. Application procedures: No formal closing date for applications, applicants notified of decisions soon after completion of application; recipients of aid offers must reply within 2 weeks of award but no earlier than May 1. PCS required. Transfer students: Eligible for all types of aid. Same procedures as for freshmen.

Stonehill College, North Easton, Massachusetts

Four-year Roman Catholic liberal arts college for men and women. Undergraduates: 769 men, 862 women. Calendar: Semester. Location: Small town 20 miles from Boston. Special features: The campus, with 550 acres of landscaped grounds and woodlands, has three small ponds that add to the quiet beauty of the setting. Georgian architectures dominates the campus including the new administrative wing which provides individual offices for each full-time faculty member, easily accessible to students. The new Colonnade Center is a multipurpose structure which provides 2,500-seat gymnasium, music rooms, art rooms, student publication offices, student government offices, and lounge areas. Dormitories are supplemented by "Towne Houses," for upperclassmen, which house 12 students each in a personalized approach to living on campus.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Bachelor; Fields of study: Biological sciences (biology), business and commerce (accounting, finance, marketing), education (child development and nursery), English and literature (English), foreign languages (French, Spanish), health and medical professions (medical technology), history and cultures, mathematics, philosophy and religion (philosophy, religion, scholastic philosophy), physical sciences (chemistry, physical sciences), psychology (child, social sciences) (economics, law enforcement, political science, sociology). Special programs: Honors program, independent study, study abroad (junior year), pass-fail courses, seminar classes, study at other colleges, an overall graduation requirement which does not include freshmen grades, education (fulfills certification requirements) (elementary and secondary teaching), and special education. Programs for students from minorities or low-income families: Reduced course load. Required freshman courses: In the area of liberal arts, there are five group areas from which a student must select one course each. Every option area contains several courses to appeal to a variety of interests. The curriculum is designed to provide each student with the opportunity to tailor his education within the confines of what is best in liberal arts education. In the upper-level years, the student will abandon the option approach and adhere only to his own particular departmental requirements. Beyond these requirements a student has wide latitude in programming his courses in accordance with his interests.

In the area of business administration, the freshman program includes an accounting course and a business mathematics course, along with three electives. In the area of science, the program varies according to departmental needs. Tests used for counseling, placement, or credit: ACT for placement, Placement, credit, or both will generally be given for grades of 3 and higher in Advanced Placement Examinations. Credit will generally be given on basis of CEEB General Examinations. Maximum of 30 semester hours of credit by examination may be counted toward degree. Academic regulations: A freshman will be placed on academic probation if his grade point average falls below 1.75 at the end of the second semester. Only 2% of all freshmen do not complete freshman year because of academic difficulty.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 4,444 men applied, 627 were accepted; 1,019 women applied, 741 were accepted. Admissions requirements: SAT by March of senior year. ACT tests are used for placement purposes in the freshman class, not as part of the admissions requirements. They are particularly helpful for those students who intend to pursue language or mathematics courses in their freshman year. Other ACT tests may be taken in subject areas of particular interest to the student who may wish to submit these results for consideration by departments of the college. High school English 4 units, social studies 1 (history); foreign language 2, mathematics 2, science 1. Interview recommended. Basis for selection: The candidate's class rank and high school achievement are the most significant factors in the admissions decision; thus the applicant who possesses a high school grade average of B and a score of approximately 500 in both the SAT-verbal and SAT-mathematical, and whose class rank is in the top third has a good chance of acceptance. Special attention is being given to recruitment and aid to the disadvantaged. Geographic distribution is sought. Middle 50% of applicants accepted for admission had SAT-verbal scores between 510 and 530 and SAT-mathematical scores between 520 and 540. Application fee: $15. may be waived for applicants with financial need. Application procedures: Closing date for applications February 1 for residents, May 1 for commuters. Applicants notified of decisions on rolling admission basis beginning December 1. All candidates accepted prior to February 8 must reply by March 1, all others have 3 weeks to reply. Transfer applicants: About 170 apply annually, and 85 are accepted. Apply by June 1 for fall term. Grade-point average of C or better required in college courses plus letter of recommendation from Dean of college previously attended. Candidates should submit SAT scores and high school transcript Notification as soon as credentials completed. Additional Information: There is an Early Decision Plan with a closing date of November 1. Applications must be post third of class, and have a minimum score of 550 on the SAT-verbal and SAT-mathematical.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 233 men, 239 women. 60% from Massachusetts, 65% live on campus, 35% commute, 1% from minority backgrounds. Middle 50% of enrolled freshmen have SAT-verbal scores between 510 and 530 and SAT-mathematical scores between 520 and 535. Programs undergraduates choose: Liberal arts 67%, business 19%, science 14%. Postgraduate studies: 30% of graduates enter graduate or professional programs. Student activities: Student government (students have voice in academic policy of the college through membership on college council, academic committees and various other official and administrative councils), student newspaper, magazine, yearbook, radio, religious organizations (the Community Service for the Retarded works specifically with retarded children, and Young Christian Students seek to influence Christian life and culture on campus), drama, social service organizations (R.F.K. Society wishes to carry out the concern that Robert F. Kennedy had for disadvantaged children, Purple Key Society, Donataire Society, Crosier Club, Athlete Baseball-M, basketball, cross-country, field hockey-W, football-M, golf-M, ice hockey-M, horseback riding, sailing, skiing, soccer-M, softball, swimming and diving, tennis, volleyball, Student services: Counseling, health services, career planning service, student employment service for undergraduates, placement service for graduates and alumni. Regulations: All students may have automobiles on campus. Upperclassmen may live off campus. Religious obligations are personal responsibility of student. Most students feel that the rules and regulations governing student behavior on campus are sensible. The vast majority of students feel the faculty is genuinely interested in teaching, available for out-of-class consultation, and interested in students as individuals. As a rule they believe college's greatest asset is the contact students have with each other and the teaching faculty.

ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $2,185. Room and board: $1,295. Other expenses: $300.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants, loans, jobs, OSLS, CSSSP. 400 accepted freshmen applicants were judged to have need; 200 of these were offered aid; 90 of these were offered the full amounts they were estimated to need. Basis for selection: All acceptable students are considered for aid based on need; scholarships are competitive based on ability. Stronger candidates with financial need will receive prior consideration. Special scholarship funds are available to needy and deserving minority students. Admissions decisions not affected by application for financial aid. Application procedures: Closing date for applications December 15, applicants notified of decisions by April 1. No student is asked to make a deposit without first knowing financial aid decision. No extended offer. Transfer students: Transfer students may apply for all types of aid. Scholarship and work-study programs are available after 1 semester. Additional Information: The Higher Education Loan Plan, the Tuition Assistance Program, a student loan program, Federal Work Study, and Work Study programs available.

Special programs: Combined law program in which a student receives both an undergraduate and a law degree in 6 years. Programs for students from minorities or low-income families: Special counseling, remedial instruction. Required freshman courses: English composition, history or social studies, science, humanities or social studies. Tests used for counseling, placement, or credit: Placement, credit, or both will sometimes be given on basis of Advanced Placement Examinations. Credit will generally be given on basis of CLEP General and Subject Examinations. Maximum of 60 semester hours of credit by examination may be counted toward degree. Academic regulations: 1.8 cumulative grade-point average required at end of freshman year. Graduate programs: Business and commerce, education, law, public administration.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 1,269 men and women applied, 907 were accepted. Admissions requirements: SAT and ACT (English Composition). High school English 4 units, social studies 2, mathematics 2, science 1, other areas 7. A successful record in a college preparatory program is important: No good list of courses required. Basis for selection: The admissions committee selects students primarily on basis of a successful academic record (in the top 60% of class). Recommendations and test scores are used for decisions. Middle 50% of applicants accepted for admission had SAT verbal scores between 430 and 545 and SAT- mathematical scores between 600 and 700. Application fee: $10. Application procedures: Closing date for applications March 1, applicants notified of decisions within 2 weeks of interview.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants, loans, jobs, NSL, SEOG, CWSF. Law Enforcement Education Program. 220 accepted freshman applicants were judged to have need; 180 of these were offered aid; 30 of these were offered the full amounts they were estimated to need. Basis for selection: Prime criterion is need, type of award based on ability of student to sustain academic success. Freshmen not awarded employment until after first semester. Emphasis on nonrepeyable types of assistance for minority-group students. Application procedures: Closing date for applications March 1, applicants notified of decisions on rolling basis, recipients of aid offers must reply within 30 days (or immediately). Wentworth College of Technology
Boston, Massachusetts

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Bachelor. Fields of study: Engineering technology (architectural, civil, electronic, management, mechanical). Additional information: This is an upper-division college of engineering technology granting a Bachelor of Science degree and preparing students for careers in applied engineering rather than engineering science. The practical approach is emphasized over theoretical.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 130 men applied, 109 were accepted. Admissions requirements: The Wentworth College of Technology program of study is based on, and is an extension of, the 2-year engineering technology advanced program of study offered by Wentworth Institute. Applicants who have undertaken a Wentworth Institute engineering technology advanced course of study after the second year of study are eligible to be transferred with full credit to Wentworth College of Technology and can complete the requirements for graduation in 2 years of study. The same transfer arrangement is extended to those who at other schools have completed successfully a course of study in engineering technology comparable to one of the Wentworth Institutes' engineering technology advanced courses of study. Applicants who have undertaken a Wentworth Institute engineering technology standard course of study are eligible to be transferred to Wentworth College of Technology, and generally can complete the requirements for graduation in 2 years plus an additional semester of study. Application fee: $10. Application procedures: Closing date for applications September 15, applicants notified of decisions immediately, accepted applicants must reply by May 5 or 2 weeks after acceptance, whichever is later. CRDA. Transfer applicants: About 200 apply annually, and 185 are accepted. Apply by August 15 for... full term. Applicants who have been enrolled at other colleges, technical institutes, junior colleges or community colleges are eligible to apply for transfer to the baccalaureate program of study offered by Wentworth College of Technology. An evaluation of their final college record will be made in relation to the requirements for graduation from Wentworth College of Technology. The advanced standing that can be extended, and the requirements which must be satisfied to be graduated from Wentworth College of Technology will be determined and made known to such applicants.

STUDENT LIFE. Junior class: 159 men, 90% from Massachusetts, 30% live on campus, 70% commute, 2% from minority backgrounds. Programs undergraduates choose: Engineering technology, 100%. Student activities: Student government, student newspaper, yearbook. Athletics: Archery, basketball, gymnastics, handball, softball, ping pong, touch football, volleyball. Student services: Counseling, health services, student employment service for undergraduates, placement service for graduates and alumni.

ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $1,730. Room and board: $1,520. Other expenses: $750.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants. NDSL, SEOG, NSP. 45 accepted junior applicants were judged to need the aid. 34 of these were offered aid. Basis for selection: Financial aid decisions based on financial priority given to most needy students. Application procedures: Closing date for applications July 15. Applicants notified of decisions by August 1. Recipients of aid offers must reply by August 15. PCS required. Transfer students: All of our students are transfer students; therefore, the same requirements and procedures apply as if they were freshmen. PCS required, as well as application to college. Decisions based on financial need with greatest need cases receiving top priority.

CORRESPONDENCE. Charles P. Uppwall, Dean of Admissions, Wentworth College of Technology, 550 Huntington Avenue, Boston, MA 02115.

Wentworth Institute of Technology
Boston, Massachusetts

Two-year private nonsectarian technical institute for men and women. Undergraduates: 1,523 men, 27 women. Calendar: Semester. Location: Metropolitan area. Special features: The objective of Wentworth Institute is to provide collegiate programs in which young men will obtain knowledge, skill, and understanding necessary to enable them to render competent and worthwhile service to society as engineering technicians or industrial technicians. The educational programs are 2-year full-time college-level programs in engineering technology and industrial technology. Graduation can lead to a lifetime career, or be the basis for transferring with full credit to Wentworth College of Technology or with advanced standing to other senior colleges.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Associate. Fields of study: Engineering technology-advanced (aeronautical and space, architectural, civil, computer, electrical, electronic, environmental, mechanical design, mechanical power, nuclear, production), engineering technology-standard (aeronautical, building construction, electronic, machine processes, mechanical design), industrial technology (aircraft maintenance, architectural, drafting, civil construction, electronic maintenance, mechanical drafting). Special programs: Graduates of engineering technology advanced and standard courses are eligible to transfer directly into the junior year at the Wentworth College of Technology. Required freshman courses: English composition, social studies, literature, mathematics, science; other required courses in appropriate technical specialties to be taken in laboratories, drafting rooms, shops or field laboratories. Tests used for counseling, placement, or credit: Engineering and Physical Science Aptitude Test, SAT. Academic regulations: To be in good scholastic standing a student must have a grade-point average of 2.0 or better. Graduation requires a cumulative grade-point average of 2.0 or better. Students whose academic record indicates below-standard work may be given scholastic warning, placed on probation, or suspended from the institute. 72% of freshmen complete the year in good academic standing. Additional Information: The courses and conditions of study at Wentworth College have been planned for secondary school graduates who have demonstrated satisfactory achievement in English, mathematics and science, and whose interests and plans for the future encompass the world of science, engineering, and technology. Programs of study are offered in those fields of engineering designated as engineering technology and industrial technology. Engineering fundamentals that have been learned through classroom study are combined with appropriate laboratory, field, and drafting room experience. Students apply engineering theory to practical engineering problems and acquire skills and techniques by using, operating, and controlling equipment and instruments peculiar to their technology.

ADMISSION. Applications in 1974: 1,545 men applied, 1,070 were accepted. 30 women applied, 30 were accepted. Admissions requirements: SAT recommended for counseling purposes but not required. High school English 4 units, mathematics at least 2, science 1. In advanced engineering technology 4 years mathematics and 1 year physics required. In standard engineering technology 3 years mathematics and 1 year physics required. Basis for selection: Primary consideration is given to secondary school preparation and achievement. In general, applicants should have completed a college preparatory program of study in which English, mathematics, and science were stressed with C grade or better achievement. Such preparation and achievement are evaluated in relation to the specific entrance requirements of engineering technology (advanced), engineering technology (standard), and industrial technology courses.

No special consideration is given to applicants who are children of alumni, foreign born, or from out-of-state. Application fee: $10. Application procedures: No closing date for applications, applicants notified of decisions on a rolling admissions basis. Transfer applicants: Applicants who have successfully completed work in accredited colleges or technical institutes will be considered for admissions with advanced standing, on request for credit for such work. An official transcript of record from the college or technical institute must be submitted with the application for admission. Request for credit must be made for both first- and second-year subjects. Subsequent requests for credit will not be accepted. Credit will be granted only for work comparable to that offered at Wentworth if C grade or better was achieved.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 852 men, 18 women. 35% live on campus, 65% commute. Enrolled freshmen in advanced engineering technology, standard engineering technology, and industrial technology have median SAT-verbal scores of 429, 374, and 353, respectively. Students in the 3 courses of study listed above have median SAT-mathematical scores of 445, 391, and 351, respectively. Programs undergraduates choose: Engineering technology-advanced 45%, engineering technology-standard 35%, industrial technology 20%. Postgraduate studies: 40% of graduates enter 4-year programs. Student activities: Student council, national honor society, student newspaper, yearbook, radio. Athletics: Baseball, basketball, billiards, bowling, touch football, handball, karate, rifle, softball, table tennis, volleyball. Student services: Counseling, health services, student employment service for undergraduates, placement service for graduates and alumni.
ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $1,730. Room and board:
$1,520. Other expenses: $750.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Loans, jobs, institute scholarships.
NDSE, SEOG, CWSP, 329 accepted freshman applicants were judged to have need; 89 of these were offered aid. Basis for selection: Decisions made for those applicants accepted for admission solely on the basis of financial need. Decisions are not qualified by considerations such as rank in class, grades, or test scores. No differentiation is made between in-state and out-of-state students. Application procedures: Closing date for applications April 1; applicants notified of decisions by June 30; recipients of aid offers must reply by July 15. PSC required. Students: The same policies governing financial aid apply to all students. Additional information: In addition to sources of financial aid available at Wentworth Institute, students and applicants accepted for admission are counseled about the general availability of other sources of financial aid (loan programs available through local banks) and the possible availability of local scholarships and grants through schools, service groups, veterans organizations.

CORRESPONDENCE. Director of Admissions, or Director of Financial Aid, Wheaton College, Norton, Massachusetts 02766.

Wheelock College, Boston, Massachusetts

Four-year private nonsectarian teachers college for men and women.

Undergraduates: 25 men, 630 women. Graduates: 18 men, 169 women. Calendar: 3 terms of 12 weeks, 6 weeks, 12 weeks (4 courses, 2 courses, 4 courses). Location: Metropolitan area.

CURRICULUM. Undergraduate degrees offered: Associate, bachelor. Fields of study: Education (early childhood and development).

Programs for students from minorities or low-income families: Special counselor. Required freshman courses: English composition. Most required courses may be taken at any point in the 4 years. Tests used for counseling, placement, or credit: Placement, credit, or both will sometimes be given on basis of Advanced Placement Examinations. Academic regulations: A student may be dismissed at the end of the first term of the freshman year unless he or she has attained a cumulative grade-point average of D (1.0), or at the end of the freshman year unless he or she has achieved a grade-point average of 1.5 for the year. The number of students who do not meet this requirement is exceedingly small. Graduate programs: Early childhood education.

Additional information: The Wheelock curriculum is a combined liberal arts and professional program with a major in early childhood education, preparing students to teach and work in nursery schools, kindergartens, primary grades, day care, special education, and early childhood research. The program includes field work with children throughout all 4 years and also includes 24 weeks of student teaching in the last 2 years. Interested students may select an emphasis in urban teaching. Students may choose a minor in 1 or 2 of 9 liberal arts areas.

ADMISSIONS. Applications in 1974: 8 men applied, 3 were accepted; 344 women applied, 305 were accepted. Admissions requirements: SAT and ACH in English composition plus 1 or 2 other areas by January of senior year. Accept ACT (by January, senior year). Foreign-language ACH recommended for those planning to continue studying that language. High school English 4 units, social studies, foreign language, mathematics, science. Applicants are expected to have 16 units in the areas listed above. The distribution is not strictly outlined. Interview strongly recommended. Basis for selection: Wheelock attempts to develop an understanding of the total student in making admissions decisions. Academic potential as evidenced in the secondary school record and motivation and personal appropriateness for entering the field of early childhood education are considered important. The interview, recommendations, and evidence of effective involvement with children are the ingredients that help define personal appropriateness. There are no specific cutoffs on class rank or test scores. Special attention is given to educationally disadvantaged students. Middle 50% of applicants accepted for admission had SAT-verbal scores between 430 and 550 and SAT-mathematical scores between 425 and 525. Application fee: $15, may be waived for applicants with financial need. Application procedures: Closing date for applications February 1, applicants notified of decisions by the end of March, accepted applicants must reply by May 1. CRDA: EDP-F. Transfer applicants: About 145 apply annually, and 125 are accepted. Apply by April 1 for fall term. Requirements used for freshman admission generally expected of transfer students as well. Transfer students may apply for admission at either the sophomore or junior level and are expected to have, respectively, 30-60 semester hours of liberal arts work and grades of C or better. Proven interest in and potential for effective work in early childhood education are considered in addition to previous academic performance.

STUDENT LIFE. Freshman class: 2 men, 140 women. 41% from Massachusetts, 80% live on campus, 20% commute, 12% from minority backgrounds. Middle 50% of enrolled freshmen have SAT-verbal scores between 430 and 550 and SAT-mathematical scores between 425 and 525. Programs undergraduate choose: Education 100%. Postgraduate studies: 6% of graduates enter graduate or professional programs. Student activities: Student government, student newspaper, yearbook, drama, glee club, black student organization, social service organizations (tutoring and volunteer work—often with children). Student services: Counseling, health services, student employment service for undergraduates, placement service for graduates and alumni. Regulations: Students must live in college housing unless residing with family. Automobiles are permitted on campus during student-teaching terms. Additional information: Wheelock's small size and urban location are important to the overall atmosphere. Resident students make their own rules to govern themselves. Students are held responsible for their academic and personal lives.

ANNUAL EXPENSES. Tuition and fees: $2,610. Room and board: $1,300. Other expenses: $530.

FINANCIAL AID. Aid offered: Grants, loans, jobs, NSDL, SEOG, CWS. 48 students who applied for financial aid were judged to have need: 45 of these were offered aid; 16 of these were offered the full amounts they were estimated to need. Basis for selection: Financial aid decisions are made solely on the basis of need. If a candidate is acceptable for admission, he or she is eligible for financial assistance. Special consideration is given to students from low-income families. Application procedures: Closing date for applications March 1, applicants notified of decisions by the end of March, recipients of aid offers must reply by May 1. CRDA: EDP-F. Transfer applicants: Eligible for all types of aid. Same procedures as freshmen. Additional information: Insured tuition payment plan available if desired.
