This curriculum guide presents career education material in the form of learning stations, which are individualized, independent skill- or content-oriented activities, that can be used by elementary school teachers to provide opportunities for pupils to use a skill or acquire an ability. Objectives, directions for completion, materials required, evaluation procedures, and, when appropriate, answer keys and illustrations are provided at each station. The 42 stations are designed for and grouped under Science and Social Studies (9), Language Arts (7), Mathematics (6), Social Values (7), and Miscellaneous (13). Introductory material indicates that (1) use of stations can stimulate growth in self-direction, self-discipline, responsibility, creativity, ability to follow directions, and social interaction; (2) use of this type of program requires the teacher to have individual weekly conferences with each pupil in order to evaluate the academic progress, plan directions for the pupil to continue learning, and monitor progress by spot-checking, observation, informal conferences and periodic testing; (3) all questions, instructions, and illustrations contained in this guide should be mounted on poster board. An evaluation form for the booklet and a list of references are provided. (TA)

INTRODUCTION

Elementary education is a period of exploration and self-discovery. Emphasis at this time should be on our man-made environment, the impact of technology, understanding the world of work, and the dignity of work.

The dissemination of this process should be done with a team approach if it is to be successful. Therefore, the writer is presenting the following material in the form of learning stations that can be used by the teachers in the elementary school setting. These stations should result in the following for each individual student:

1. Appraisal of oneself in relation to how people differ in skills, interests, and abilities and how these affect an individual's career development.
2. Appreciation of all types of work and the people who do them.
3. Realization of the importance of school to life and work.
4. Understanding the amount of practice and knowledge that is essential to attain "skill" status.
5. Awareness that jobs and job opportunities change and retraining may be required in some jobs.
6. Work is seen as a need for creative expression.
7. Understanding the influences and pressures of economic, cultural, and political aspects of society in life and work.
8. Understanding the effect of attitudes and personality factors such as social, personal, emotional in school as well as job success.
9. Knowledge of a wide variety and number of levels of occupations.
10. Ability to plan and select occupationally oriented experiences and how they contribute to a foundation for career planning suitable to his own individuality.
LEARNING STATIONS

The learning station is a single individualized, independent skill or content-oriented activity; an opportunity to use a skill or acquire an ability. Each station indicates the objective of the activity, directions for completion and some type of evaluation procedure.

Learning particular skills or facts is not the only outgrowth to expect from use of learning stations. Teachers will also notice growth in self-direction, self-discipline, responsibility, creativity, ability to follow directions, social interaction, and emotional stability.

Use of this type of program requires the teacher to have individual weekly conferences with each pupil in order to evaluate the academic progress and plan directions for the pupil to continue learning. The teacher must also monitor progress by spot-checking, observations, informal conferences and periodic testing. Children may keep their own records.

All questions, instructions and illustrations should be mounted on poster board. Also, each finished station should be covered with transparent contact paper for durability.

Although the learning stations included in this booklet have not made use of audio-visual aids such as the record player, cassette recorders and tapes, filmstrip projector, movie projector, and overhead it is highly recommended that these also be implemented either with these stations or with others that you will establish at a future date. There are many materials available dealing with Career Education that can easily be made into a learning station. Such an example might be to allow a child to listen to a record or tape, look at a transparency, a filmstrip, or a movie concerning Career Education. His assignment would be to answer questions dealing with the material (this would be previously prepared by you, the teacher, either in the form of written questions or a mimeographed sheet). His answers could then be checked either with an answer key or during a teacher-pupil conference.

When constructing a learning station one should keep in mind the important materials that can be used. I have found the following supplies to be most helpful in learning stations:

- Oaktag, poster-board -- large, assorted colors (these can always be cut to size)
- File Folders
- Construction paper -- large, assorted colors
- Yarn
- Contact paper -- transparent (to be used on all stations)
- Colored pencils
- Rulers
- Scissors
- Razor Blade
- Glue (rubber cement is great)
- Magic markers -- thick and felt tip
- Scotch/masking tape
- Paper clips
- Brass paper fasteners
- Punch
- Stapler
- Typewriter
Paper

Picture file

Old books/magazines to cut up

Old textbooks/workbooks to cut up

Paper plates

Drapery pin-on hooks

Boxes -- assorted cartons, gift boxes

Again, all of these might not be used in the stations contained in this manuscript, but you will find uses for such materials as well as others you will add to the list as you progress in the program.
1. DEVELOPING A TOOL

Objective:

To become aware that change in industrial materials affects the way we work.

Directions:

1. Read the following paragraph:

Suppose you needed to develop a tool as the men in the early days did. You are to improve it so that the task can be done more quickly. Suppose you had to dig a foundation for a house, how could you improve a stick, which is being used for a tool so that it is more efficient?

2. Look at the illustrations below and read each question carefully.

3. Answer all the questions on the paper provided.

Evaluation:

Teacher-pupil conference.

Materials Required:

Fine-tip pens for the illustrations; paper for the children to answer the questions.

Questions:

1. What would you add to the stick to enable you to move the dirt from the place where the foundation will be to another spot?
2. You have something to hold the dirt, but because it is heavy you have to move slowly. What might you add to speed up the job?

3. What animal might you get so that you wouldn't have to pull, push or lift the tool?

4. As the hole gets deeper, what would you add so that the animal wouldn't have to go to the bottom of the hole each time? Remember you still want to bring the dirt out.

5. If a friend invented an engine, how could you use it for your task?

6. What kind of equipment is used to dig foundations?
2. LET'S JUST PRETEND

Objective:
To consider some of the effects environmental change has on the way people work and play.

Directions:
1. Read the following list of incidents which could happen to you.

   - Your father is transferred by his company to another town.
   - You are told that the street in front of your house is going to be repaired and no one will be able to use the street for two weeks.
   - Your mother has to go out of town to stay with your grandmother who is ill and you don't know how long she'll be gone.
   - The electricity in your town is shut off and cannot be repaired for two weeks.

2. Pick one incident and pretend that it has happened to you. With your imagination write a short story telling how your life would be different if this really did happen to you.

Evaluation:
Share your story with your classmates during sharing time.

Materials Required:
Fine-tip pens for the illustrations; paper for the children's stories.
List should be centered on the poster board.
3. YESTERDAY - TODAY

Objective:

To become aware of how new environments change the ways people spend their leisure time.

Directions:

1. Read the paragraph below the picture (see illustration).
2. Fill in the columns Yesterday and Today.
3. Answer the questions that follow.

Evaluation:

Teacher-pupil evaluation during a class discussion.

Materials Required:

Felt-tip pens for the illustration; contact to cover the mimeographed sheets containing the following information for each student.

The picture on the left shows a place where people used to go on picnics. Today it has been changed by things that you see in the picture on the right. Using your paper list the activities which may have taken place in the "yesterday" column and the kinds of leisure-time activities you could do in the "today" column.

When man changes land, how does this change the way people use it?

Are there any activities that would stay the same?
4. WORK AT HOME WORKSHEET

Objective:

To be aware of the chores and jobs you have at home.

Directions:

1. Read the following questions:
   - Name the jobs and chores you do at home.
   - Name jobs outside the home that are similar and require the same skills.
   - What do you like about these jobs?
   - What don't you like about these jobs?
   - What other jobs at home would you rather do?
   - What jobs does your mother perform during a day?
   - What does your father do where he works?
   - Do your brothers and sisters have chores to do also?

2. Copy the questions on your paper and after each answer then with at least two sentences. Include all that you feel is important.

Evaluation:

Teacher-pupil conference.

Materials Required:

You will need the material mentioned above on a typed sheet that has been placed on a piece of oaktag, and paper for the children's answers.
5. WORKERS IN DIFFERENT LANDS

Objective:

To be aware of jobs that people have in a foreign country and what jobs are available in our community.

Directions:

1. Copy the two charts found below on your paper (see illustration).
2. Follow the instructions found above each. Also those below the second chart.

Evaluation:

Share your responses with the class during social studies discussion time.

Materials Required:

Paper for the children's charts and responses.

Illustration:

In the center circle write the name of a foreign country you have studied and in the surrounding circles write the names of jobs that are performed in that country.
In the center circle write the name of your community and in the circles corresponding to the ones above, write the names of jobs in your community that are similar.

Write a short story that describes what these workers do.
6. WORKERS IN THE SCHOOL

Objective:

To identify workers in the school.

Instructions:

1. Look at the pictures (see illustration).
2. Identify each occupation by writing a title under each.
3. Write a paragraph about each job picture as shown. Be sure to include in each what these people do for you and the school.

Evaluation:

Check your answers to the job titles with the answer key and share your paragraphs during your teacher-pupil conference time.

Materials Required:

Fine-tip pens for the illustrations or a pencil; paper for the children's responses; an answer key.

Answer Key:

Center picture - students
Top picture - principal
Left bottom picture - nurse
Bottom picture - teacher
Right bottom picture - cafeteria worker
Right top picture - custodian
Objective:

To be able to differentiate which jobs are easy to find, which are available, but not many in number, and which are harder to find.

Directions:

1. Read the following job titles.

Athlete  Carpenter
Building Worker  Computer Operator
Butcher  Dental Assistant
Bus Driver  Dentist
Barber  Doctor
Business Executive  Dancer
Bookkeeper  Singer
Bank Officer  Actor and Actress
Auto Salesman  Musician
Assembly Line Worker  Engineer
Appliance Serviceman  Lawyer
Cook  Meteorologist
Nurse  Oceanographer
Police Officer  Plumber
Pharmacist  Programmer
Service Station Attendant  Stewardess
Secretary  Social Worker
Shoe Repairman  Truck Driver
School Counselor  Telephone Operator
Teacher - elementary  Fire Fighter
Economist  Forester
Farm Equipment Mechanic  Jeweler
Geologist  Veterinarian
Trainman  Hotel Manager
Waiter, Waitress

2. Place a green circle next to the jobs that are easy to find, a yellow circle next to those jobs that are available, but not many in number, and a red circle next to ones that are harder to find.
1. Underline the ones that interest you.
2. Look up any job titles you don't know.

Evaluation:

Check your list with the answer key.

Materials Required:

Mimeographed sheets with the job titles listed on them; red, green, and yellow crayons; an answer key (this could be a mimeographed sheet that has the circles already placed where they belong).
ANSWER KEY TO STOP AND GO

athlete - green
carpenter - green
building worker - red

fire fighter - yellow
economist - green
forester - red
farm equipment mechanic - red jeweler - red geologist - green
veternarian - green
business executive - green hotel manager - green
secretary - green

Objective:

To be able to identify different jobs relating to each cluster.

Directions:

1. Read the following list of occupational clusters.

   Manufacturing Occupations
   Construction Occupations
   Distribution and Marketing Occupations
   Environmental Occupations
   Agriculture and Natural Resources Occupations
   Public Service Occupations
   Health Occupations
   Recreation Occupations
   Personnel Service Occupations
   Business and Office Occupations
   Consumer and Homemaking-Related Occupations
   Marine Science Occupations
   Transportation Occupations
   Fine Arts and Humanities Occupations
   Communications and Media Occupations

2. Write the names of these clusters on your paper.

3. Leaving space next to each so that you may write three job titles next to each.

4. Take the job titles from the "job pocket" and hook the three job titles that belong with each occupational cluster on the drapery pin-on hooks.

5. Now write next to each occupational cluster name the jobs that you chose.

6. Remove all the job titles from the drapery pin-on hooks and place them back into the "job pocket."
Check your answers with the answer key.

Materials Required:

- Large poster-board with a hole at the top
- Pieces of oaktag with job titles taped on
- A job pocket made of oaktag
- Paper punch

Abilities Required

- Manufacturing -- baking, textile, and shoe industry
- Construction -- electricians, masons, and custodial services
- Distribution and Marketing -- automotive, real estate, and petroleum
- Environmental -- forest, recreation, and oceanographer
- Agriculture and Natural Resources -- nursery technician, geologist, citrus industry
- Public Service -- policemen, teachers, clergyman
- Health -- chiropractor, psychologist, social worker
- Recreation -- arts and crafts, athletics, winter sports
- Personnel Service -- counselors, psychiatrists, employment agencies
- Business and Office -- accountants, tellers, auditors
- Consumer and Home-making-Related -- baker, cook, food and nutrition
- Marine Science -- aquarist, sea duty technician, seamanship
- Transportation -- railroad engineer, shipping, stevedore
- Fine Arts and Humanities -- commercial artist, printing, pattern maker
- Communication and Media -- telephone, publications, graphic artist
9. JOB REQUIREMENTS

Objective:

To improve student work-study skills and become more aware of job requirements.

Directions:

1. Select five job titles from the Alphabetical Listing of Career Briefs (or a similar pamphlet). You may use the job titles from the previous station.

2. Using the encyclopedia, the dictionary, and other available sources pertaining to jobs write in paragraph form about the requirements needed to attain the positions chosen.

3. Remember to include various requirements such as: ability, location, hours, wages, schooling needed, benefits, etc.

Evaluation:

Pupil-teacher conference.

Materials Required:

Magic markers for the names of the requirements (see illustration); paper.

Purpose:
10. FEELINGS

Objective:

To be able to express one's feelings in a paragraph.

Directions:

Think what things make you angry and write a paragraph about your anger and the different feelings that accompany this anger.*

*Remember -- people get angry, dogs get mad.

Evaluation:

Pupil-teacher conference.

Materials Required:

Magic markers for the illustration; paper for the children's answers.
11. JOB OPPORTUNITIES

Objective:

To be able to list the job opportunities available in our area.

Directions:

1. From the booklets provided (teacher supplies these) and your own knowledge of your area, list the jobs available at the present time.

Evaluation:

Compare your list with a classmate and see if you thought of as many jobs as your friend.* Were the jobs similar in nature?

*Don't shell out share your ideas.

Materials Required:

Magic markers for the illustrations; paper.
12. DOCTOR, LAWYER, INDIAN CHIEF? (Which will you wear?)

Objective:

To be able to write a short story about your future career.

Directions:

1. From what you have read, seen, heard, and experienced, write a short story about what you would like to do when you go into the field of work.

2. Mention why you would choose the job.

Evaluation:

Class sharing time.

Materials Required:

Magic Markers for the illustrations; you may want to use pictures instead of illustrating this station.
13. WHERE AM I GOING?

Objective:

To be able to briefly explain the career decision making procedure.

Directions:

1. Study the picture (as illustrated below and entitled Where Am I going?; the word Careers could be placed at the bottom of the picture).
2. List several steps involved in making a career decision.
3. Keep in mind that there is a difference between ability and interest.

Evaluation:

Pupil-teacher conference (before seeing me have you done what's been asked?).

Materials Required:

A fine tip pen for the illustration; paper for the children's answers.
14. SCRAMBLED EGGS

Objective:

To be able to unscramble the words relating to career education.

Directions:

1. Copy the words (scrambled) found below.

<table>

15. CAREERS CALLING

Objective:

To be able to use the Yellow Pages of a telephone book.

Directions:

1. Answer the questions found below:

Suppose you moved to this city. How could you find out the kinds of jobs people there have?

Look at the Yellow Pages provided.

What if you wanted to repair appliances, or work with motor vehicles, or be a salesperson? Could you find a few places where each of these job skills might be needed?

Suppose you wanted to work helping people with their problems. Can you find several places you might seek a job?

What other kinds of jobs do people work at in your city?

Evaluation:

Check your answers with the answer key (this will vary from classroom to classroom).

Materials Required:

An answer key (one to go with the Yellow Pages you have); the Yellow Pages from a local phone book; paper for the children's answers.
16. MIX AND MATCH

Objective:
To be able to match job titles with different job interests.

Directions:
1. Match the correct titles with the interest by connecting the yarn from one fastener to the other.
2. Copy on your paper the list of interests and next to each the titles you chose to go with that particular interest.
3. Remember to unwrap the yarn when you have completed the exercise.

Evaluation:
Check your answers with the answer key.

Materials Required:
A piece of poster-board with the job interests listed on the left side with a brass fastener next to each and on the right side the list of job titles with one fastener on the left of each group; yarn should be connected to the fasteners on the job interest side; brass fasteners should be placed on the poster-board after the contact has been put on; paper for the children’s answers; an answer key should also be contacted.

17. $500.00 -- FOR WHAT?

Objective:

To assist students in realizing how money can change the way people work and play.

Directions:

1. Read the short story that follows:

   Your father explains that he has just received a refund of $500.00 on last year's income tax. At first he was going to use it for some equipment for his job, but he decided that he could get along without it. He would like you to have some ideas.

   Your brother suggests buying a new lawn mower. It would make the mowing much easier. He also suggested a new TV or a mini-bike for fun.

   Your sister suggested a dishwasher and then a hair dryer.

   Your mother suggested a vacation and your brother would like to go to Disneyland and your sister a big city.

   Father is surprised at all the suggestions. He also adds that perhaps they could think of other things to spend the money on.

   Mother feels that it is important to plan how to spend it, so that all get as much benefit from it as possible. Father agrees and adds that they could put some in a saving account and use it later.

   The final decision at this point is not to make a snap decision before thinking it over. He also mentions that all should think of ways the money benefits the entire family.

2. Answer the following questions in written form.

   What things could the family spend the money for that would improve their work?

   What things could change the family's recreational habits?

   If your father asked you how to spend the $500.00 what would you suggest?
Evaluation:

Teacher-pupil conference.

Materials Required:

The information mentioned above and on the previous page, typed and glued on poster-board, stick-on numbers and letters for the title; paper for the children's answers; if desired, illustrations of one hundred dollar bills (five in number) placed around the station.
I. DINNER DOLLARS

Objective:
To be able to estimate the cost of food per adult based on labor, supplies, and margin.

Directions:
1. Pick your favorite meal, salad, and dessert.
2. List them.
3. Place your estimated price by each one.
4. Total this.
5. Multiply the price by the number of people you will be serving.
6. Estimate the cost to be paid to the cook for preparation.
7. List the actual cost of the food purchased.
8. Add (6) and (7) and subtract from (5).
9. List the profit gained (this is the answer to (8)).

Evaluation:
Find out from a restaurant if this is the procedure that they follow. Be prepared to present your findings to the class.

Materials Required:
A menu, or parts of a menu, glued at various spots on the station; paper for the arithmetic work.
19. MONEY

Objective:

To help students see that money can be used to change the way people work and play.

Directions:

1. Read the introduction that follows:

   The development of the system of money was a slow process. Read the captions below each illustration. On your paper tell how you think each kind of system of money would effect the way you work and play, if it existed today.

A. Long ago people took care of themselves. If they had too much of something they gave it away to friends and relatives.

B. Next a system of Barter developed. This means people exchanged one thing for another.

Remember: Errors are mistakes or letters, punctuation, or numbers that have been copied incorrectly or omitted entirely.
REFERENCES

Objective:

To become acquainted with the type of a format that you may fill out relating to references.

Directions:

1. Most companies will ask for references when you apply for a job. They will ask about your good qualities and especially about your reliability. (A good reference is a priest, minister, or rabbi, or someone who is well known in your neighborhood, also a teacher or school principal, and your previous bosses).

2. Make sure in advance that these people will give you a recommendation.

3. Copy the following form on your paper, in triplicate.

YOUR REFERENCES:

1. Name___________________________________________

   Address__________________________________________

   Telephone Number_________________________________

   Occupation________________________________________

   How long has this person known you?________

   In what capacity has this person known you?____

   ________________________________

   Is this person related to you in any way?____

   (If yes, state relationship). _______________________

   Fill in all the information required. When you have completed the three tell briefly why you chose these people.
Evaluation:

Teacher-pupil conference.

Materials Required:

Paper for the children's responses.
SUMMER JOBS -- HOW TO LOOK FOR THEM

Objective:

To become aware of how you might look for a summer job, when you are of working age.

Directions:

Read the following list of how to go about finding a summer job.

1. Talk to your teacher first (a guidance counselor, if available).
2. Go to your local State Employment Office as soon as possible.
3. Read the "Help Wanted" columns in your local newspaper.
4. Visit all the small businesses in your neighborhood such as factories, stores, theaters, and restaurants.
5. Tell all your friends and relatives, even people you don't know well, that you are looking for a job.
6. Place your own ad in the "Positions Wanted" section of your local newspaper.
7. If you can't find a job that uses your special skills, be willing to try something else.
8. Try going into business for yourself.

Now take four of these and write how you would go about finding a summer job by utilizing these suggestions.

Evaluation:

Discuss your findings with your teacher during your teacher-pupil conference. Also share your thoughts and ideas with your classmates.
Materials Required:

Paper for the children's answers; newspaper clippings of "Want Ads" and various words written with felt tip pens around the border of the station (such as teacher, State Employment Office, businesses, friends, relatives, counselor, etc.) -- optional.
42. SUMMER JOBS -- I CAN'T FIND ONE

Objective:

To be aware that there are alternatives if you are not able to find employment.

Directions:

1. There are still good ways to spend your summer and get valuable experience and skills for the future, even if you haven't procured a job.

2. Be sure to use: Volunteer work, apprenticeship, summer school.

3. Write a paragraph about each of these and how they will give you experience and skills for the future. Remember to mention what type of jobs are available for volunteer work and apprenticeships.

Evaluation:

Share your results with the class during class discussion time.

Materials Required:

Paper for the children's answers.
Following the implementation of the program the following concepts should result:

- Work has dignity.
- People work for different rewards or satisfactions.
- We work to meet personal and social needs.
- Getting along with others is necessary for work.
- Some workers produce goods, others produce services.
- Our work fits into the work others do.
- Watching other people at work helps us find out about jobs.
- There are many different kinds of jobs.
- All jobs belong to one of a number of job families.
- We need special training for most jobs.
- We all need information about jobs.
- School is part of getting ready for a job.
- We all differ in our abilities, interests, attitudes, and values.
- We are qualified to perform in many different occupations.
- What we become may depend on what we can do and what occupations are needed.
- Technological and sociological changes eliminate and create jobs.
-Income determines the kinds of work we can find.
- Activities which we enjoy when we are not working, such as hobbies, affect our career choice.
- How we feel about things affects our career choices.
- Our job selections will direct our total life.

Several other important aspects presented are:

Definite concepts of career education have been established.

Occupational information has been introduced into the curriculum.
Respect for all occupations has been developed.

Guidance in decision-making skills and definite direction has taken place.

Special projects have evolved.

Behavioral objectives produced are:

The classroom atmosphere has been improved.
The teachers were challenged.
Parents have become involved.
Students are excited.
Each student has developed a positive self-image.

The concepts, aspects, and behavioral objectives mentioned are most important, but the culmination of the entire project is that the needs and challenge of today's students have been met.
EVALUATION:

1. Did you feel this booklet was informative?

2. Were you able to use the learning stations in your classroom?

3. Did you find the stations too easy or too difficult for your grade level?

4. Were the instructions explicit enough to enable you to construct the learning stations?

5. Were you able to adapt this type of approach within your program?

6. Did your students enjoy this approach to learning?

7. Did the students enjoy any particular type of station?

8. Did the students enjoy one particular station more than others? If so please specify.

9. Were the suggestions concerning the materials that could be used helpful to you?

10. Were there results that indicated that the behavioral objectives were met?

11. Were the illustrations beneficial?

12. Was the table of contents helpful to you in finding the type of station you desired to reproduce?

13. How would you revise this booklet so that it would be more useful to you and your classroom situation?

14. If you indicated in number 13 that you wouldn't revise the booklet, please state why you feel this way.
