This paper is an outline of a course unit for a writing laboratory, specifically designed for use in teaching English composition to Mexican-Americans. The unit utilizes a multi-media approach to elaborate the necessary organization of a paragraph contrasting two topics. Goals and objectives are included in the unit outline as is a slide/tape scenario for the writing lab unit. An evaluation checklist is attached. (JDS)

PROJECT MEXICO

Project Description: Slide/Cassette tape. 140 slides of Mexico, writing directions, and various stages of a composition. Also a cassette tape with Mexican folk music background and a Chicano student narrating. Slides and tape synchronized.

Project Purpose: To serve as part of Unit Four of Writing Lab, specifically as an audio/visual elaboration of the necessary organization for the student composition.

Project Objectives: (Also see attached)

After viewing and listening to this slide/tape presentation, the student will:

1. Write one paragraph, 170 to 250 words, contrasting two topics:
2. Use a first sentence which will
   a. Name the two topics being contrasted
   b. Bring in ideas both of comparison and contrast
   c. Make it clear that contrast will be emphasized.
3. Use "point to point" method
4. Discuss at least four points of contrast
5. Maintain consistent order of discussion
6. Maintain balance of discussion
7. Describe both topics rather than simply state relationships.

Project Evaluation: Increase in the number of students whose compositions meet the objectives of Unit Four of the Writing Lab.
PROJECT MEXICO

Slide/Tape Scenario for a Writing Lab Unit

I. After identification of Unit number and type of writing organization, screen goes black. Mariachi music in background up and then out.

II. Voice of a Chicano student --
A. He briefly and vaguely goes over the writing assignment.
B. Screen still black with perhaps a couple of non-representational designs to break up monotony for viewer.

III. Mistake #1 - Lack of definite subject -- As student struggles with a subject, slides begin to appear.
A. Slides of Trade-Tech
B. Slides of animals
C. Other slides
D. Mexico slides
1. Order of slides is random, in keeping with student's confusion.
2. Slides of above subjects (A, B, C) keep slipping back in.
3. Speed of slides accelerates - lack of control
4. Total breakdown.
   a. Slides - some out of focus, upside down
   b. Voice shows confusion
   c. Music at wrong speed.

IV. Screen goes black.
A. Student tries to pull assignment together
B. Individual objectives appear on screen
C. Entire assignment appears on screen

V. Mistake #2 - Lack of the proper kind of first sentence to give direction to the rest of paragraph.
A. "Mexico is a beautiful country."

B. Student discovers above sentence without idea of difference.

C. "In Mexico, there are many differences between city life and country life."

D. Above first sentence reviewed for correctness and suitability.

VI. Mistake #3 - (Whole to whole)

A. Student begins to talk in general terms about city life.

B. Slides appear about city life in haphazard order.

C. Student catches his mistake and explains it -- assignment demands point to point contrast.

VII. First Point -- homes

A. Slides - city and country

B. Statement

C. Slide of cumulative written statements

VIII. Second Point -- dress

B. as VII above

C.

IX. Third Point -- transportation

A.

B. as VII and VIII above

C.

X. Mistake #4 -- only one side of points -- monuments

A. Slides of monuments in cities

B. Screen goes black -- student realizes he cannot think of monuments in the countryside.

C. Student discards point
XI. Fourth point -- shopping
   B.
   C. as VII, VIII and IX above

XII. Fifth Point -- density -- Mistake #5 (use of relationship rather than description).
   A. Slides of crowded scenes in city
   B. Statement
   C. Student catches error in above statement
   D. Slides of country scenes
   E. Statement
   F. Slide of cumulative written statements

XIII. Sixth Point -- entertainment
   *A.
   B. as VII, VIII, IX and XI above
   C.

XIV. Review
   A. Student's satisfaction with his own accomplishment
   B. Replay of slides accompanies A above.
   C. Music accompanies A and B above
