ABSTRACT
Community resources, learning activities, teaching tips, field trip suggestions, and other sources available in Carroll County, Maryland, for use by K-12 teachers in developing, planning, and implementing citizenship education programs in the social studies classroom are provided. The first chapter examines procedures to be followed by teachers when working with community resource people. A nine item checklist for use in preplanning classroom visitations is included. The second chapter outlines the school visitation and resource programs which have been developed by the Westminster City Police, the Maryland State Police, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Topics include bicycle safety, behavior toward strangers, bomb detection, riot control, drug abuse, criminal investigations, FBI jurisdiction, and national security. A list of federal and state law enforcement agencies is included. A description of information services and programs offered by the Carroll County Bar Association and a directory of Carroll County attorneys are presented in the third chapter. Auxiliary agencies in the Carroll County area which can serve as information sources are listed in chapter four, followed by suggestions for law-related field trips in chapter five. Tips for planning and conducting field trips are included. Suggested field trips include police ride alongs, courtroom visitations and tours of correctional facilities. (Author/DB)

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to express my appreciation and gratitude to the educators, attorneys and law enforcement officials who assisted in the compilation of this bulletin. LeRoy Day, former chief of the Westminster City Police and Lieutenant John E. Koontz and Sergeant William D. Taylor of the Maryland State Police reviewed the list of topics available for school visitations and documented their support of this program. The past President of the Carroll County Bar Association, James W. Davis, played a valuable role in enlisting the participation of local attorneys in law-related activities in our classroom.

Gerard Paradis, Director of Law-Related Education Program for the Schools of Maryland, reviewed the manuscript and offered support and encouragement during the lengthy time period this bulletin was in preparation.

A special note of appreciation is extended to Mark A. Vigliotti, the catalyst behind this publication. Mark prepared the original draft of this bulletin shortly after his involvement in the Leadership Training Workshop of the Law-Related Education Program. His encouragement and occasional prodding served as stimuli and facilitated the completion of this publication.

Patricia Burke, Linda Smith and Karen Palmer worked diligently on the survey questionnaires and the typing of the several drafts of the manuscript. Their care and competence undoubtedly prevented many errors. For those which do appear, I assume full responsibility. Appreciation is extended to Jean Arbaugh for the painstaking care she used in reproducing this publication.

Donald P. Vetter, Supervisor
Carroll County Public Schools
A major goal of citizenship education in Carroll County is to foster in students a realistic view of the need for rules and authority in society. To attain this objective, our schools must implement programs which present honest and straightforward information regarding the political-legal processes in operation in our local, state and national communities.

To supplement curriculum materials which are available to classroom teachers, we need to provide firsthand learning experiences for our pupils and direct contact with representatives of the judicial system. Through interaction with justice system representatives and participation in field trips to law-related agencies, pupils can develop accurate insights into the problems and promises of the American legal system.

This is an especially valuable publication for the teachers and learners in the Carroll County Public Schools because it fosters the involvement of volunteer lawyers, judges and law enforcement officers and resource persons on points of law and to serve as guides to students' field experiences. As a result, school personnel and legal system practitioners can work cooperatively to build a bridge between theory and reality which should serve not only to improve instruction but also to improve communication between the educational and legal communities.

Carroll County Public Schools
PREFACE

Carroll County had the good fortune in 1975 to become the first county in Maryland to sponsor a comprehensive program of law-related education in its public schools. Almost from the start, it was a project that attracted interest and support in the community. Local and state police, jurists, attorneys, correctional and probation officials and businessmen willingly gave of their time and energies to further an understanding in the classroom of law and justice as it is or should be administered in the Carroll County community.

In the many sessions with teachers in training workshops and students in elementary and secondary classrooms, these volunteers from the community found that they were not only giving of themselves; they discovered that they were themselves being enriched. Moreover, they found that their own interest in discussing the role of law and its agencies in Carroll County was more than matched by the attention and enthusiasm displayed by the students, the teachers and the supervisor.

Perhaps part of this interest could be ascribed to a curiosity about the details of lawyer-client relationships, courtroom procedures, police training and tactics, and the operation of prisons. But there was more than a hint of something larger. There was a sense of a common bond between the teacher participants and the community resource persons which was fostered by activities related to concrete situations. For instance, teachers were introduced, by means of a simulation, to the tensions the police officer faces in any emotionally-charged situation. This clearly conveyed the need for sound police training to produce level-headed officers who bear in mind citizens' rights amid such tensions. High school students engaged in activities which exemplified the right of every citizen to counsel, and the corresponding duty of attorneys to provide that counsel to an accused person in a fair and ethical manner, no matter how heinous the crime. In one school, the students role-played the entire bi-cameral legislative process, replete with lobbyist and a presidential veto! In short, the community participation in the project was a unique opportunity for non-educators to join with school personnel in looking at government through law-related agencies in the community.

There is no reason at all why we should not maintain the tie between school and community that has thus evolved. The Law-Related Education Project, now entering its third year, continues as a vital part of the social studies curriculum in our county schools. School officials intend to seek means of improving, broadening and deepening the law-related education program, hopefully as a joint on-going effort with the same segment of the community that has brought the program to its present stage. The program has been quite successful thus far. With the help of those who have permitted their names to be listed in this booklet as resources, we trust that educators will find all the help they need from the community.

The Law-Related Education Project is slowly spreading, as of this writing, to the school systems of other Maryland counties. It is reasonable to forecast that other counties will be looking at the Carroll County model for years to come for purposes of organizing their programs. Let these observers discover what can be accomplished in a community whose members, both inside and outside the school system, work together with a generous spirit to foster in our youth an appreciation of justice, which, as Daniel Webster remarked, "...is the ligament which holds civilized beings and civilized nations together."

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT IN LAW EDUCATION

INTRODUCTION

As a Carroll County teacher, you have available to you at the present, as in the past, numerous community resource persons in the county who are able to provide many beneficial educational experiences for students studying the different aspects of law education. In an effort to inform you of the displays, demonstrations and types of presentations that are available, this booklet has been compiled.

Your utilization of these resource persons will enable you to provide pupils with current information regarding law-related topics and should be of great value in updating textual materials.

Community resources are of significant value to classroom teachers for many reasons. In particular, they enable the instructor to bring a segment of the legal community into the classroom in order to present information based on first-hand experiences and in-depth study.

Also, the students are provided an opportunity to observe actual proceedings outside of the classroom or to actually participate in some aspect of the topic that they are studying. Such activities encourage pupils to examine more carefully the legal issue under investigation and to reflect at greater length upon their own values and attitudes regarding the topic of study.

The office of social studies recognizes that law enforcement agencies, bar associations, courts and other community persons with a legal background are valuable resources for instruction. It is hoped that teachers will find this booklet helpful in realizing the full potential of community resources and that it will enable them to utilize resource persons more effectively. To insure the probability of a successful classroom visitation, the following checklist is provided.
PROCEDURES FOR WORKING WITH COMMUNITY RESOURCE PEOPLE

This checklist should increase the probability of a successful class visitation by a resource person dealing with a law-related topic. Share the ideas with your guest as far in advance as possible. As in most classroom activities, the success or failure of the classroom visit is usually determined in the preplanning of the appearance.

A. Brief Speaker on the Characteristics of the Class
   1. Grade level, size
   2. Socio-economic background
   3. Legal and political sophistication

B. Purpose of Presentation
   1. What are you currently studying?
   2. Where does presentation fit in?
   3. What are your objectives for presentation?

C. Determine the Amount of Time Needed and/or Available

D. Determine Appropriate Methods of Instruction
   1. Lecture
   2. Mini-lecture with discussion (Socratic dialogue)
   3. Panel discussion/people learning centers
   4. Debate
   5. Role-playing/simulation/mock trial

Choice of methods ultimately rest upon personal preferences and skills of the resource person.

E. Confirm Agreements in a Letter

F. Arrange for Materials and Equipment
   1. Are handouts needed? If so, will you duplicate them?
   2. Any audio-visual equipment necessary?

G. Preparing the Class
   1. Cases should be read and discussed prior to visit.
   2. Have students prepare questions in advance.
   3. In a role-play, discuss procedures with students. Assign and explain roles in advance.

H. Follow-up Activities
   1. Ask resource person for suggested follow-up activities.
   2. Use debriefing techniques to solicit feedback from students.

I. Thank Speaker by Letter and Share the Evaluation Results

STATEWIDE LAW ENFORCEMENT

MARYLAND STATE POLICE

The following demonstrations, films, displays, classroom visitations by State Police personnel and field trips to their facilities are available to all schools in Carroll County. It is asked that two to three weeks lead time be used when requesting any of these resources. This is necessary so that the requests can be fulfilled without interruption of their normal duties, and it allows time to bring films and other displays from across the state to Carroll County.

In a letter in which he offered his support to our efforts, Lt. Koontz stated, "It is suggested that all requests be in letter form, containing a telephone number where the requesting teacher can be contacted, and received here at the Barrack within two to three weeks of the scheduled date. Items of discussion, such as K-9 Patrol and Aviation Medical Evacuation, may take longer to arrange due to having specialized personnel present the program."

Requests for State Police resources should be directed to:

* Special Agent Quinn included the following detailed information regarding tours of facilities in a letter supporting our efforts to involve law enforcement authorities in the classrooms of Carroll County.

"During the current school year we have initiated a program in this office of making our facilities and personnel available for guided tours. These tours are designed to provide students with a firsthand understanding of the FBI's responsibilities to the community and to the law enforcement profession.

"We request that the groups be held to a maximum of 30 students, which we then divide into two groups of 15. The tour is approximately an hour in length. At the conclusion, a film highlighting the work of the FBI is shown. We have a period of questions and answers, and reprint material dealing with the FBI's responsibilities and jurisdiction is distributed to each of the young people on the tour.

"Scheduling arrangements for the tour can be made by contacting Special Agent Perry W. Doran of this office by calling 265-8080, or by correspondence. To insure your needs will be met, I recommend each tour be scheduled at least two weeks in advance. If you have any questions, please feel free to call me or Mr. Doran.

"With respect to tours of FBI Headquarters in Washington, D.C., guided tours are offered Mondays through Fridays, excluding holidays, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and last slightly more than one hour. No appointment is necessary for groups numbering less than 15. In the event you have a larger group, you may wish to call me and we will make arrangements for the tour for you. Entrance to the building for a tour is located on E Street, between 9th and 10th Streets, N.W."

C. STRATEGIES: Check each strategy you would be willing to use as you assist teachers in teaching about the law.

___ 1. Mock Trial: Assist teachers in organizing and conducting trial.

___ 2. Socratic Dialogue: Through the use of probing questions, help students develop reasoning skills as they examine and clarify their views and opinions on a particular issue.

___ 3. People Learning Centers: Discuss a specific topic for 20-30 minutes with a small group (8-12) of students.

___ 4. Case Study: Analysis of the facts, issues and decision of a hypothetical or actual court case.

___ 5. Simulation/Role playing: Activity involving students in hypothetical situation based on a simplified model of the "real world."

___ 6. Panel Discussion: Discussion of an issue or topic by several people.
The responses of the attorneys who volunteered to make presentations to students in Carroll County are shown on the charts which follow. In addition, District Court Judge Donald M. Smith offered to help whenever time permits him to do so. However, please note that he has a very busy schedule and also a calendar which is not very flexible. His telephone numbers are 848-2146 and 876-1033.

The former director of the Legal Aid Bureau in Carroll County also expressed an interest in continuing his involvement in our classrooms. However, the closing of the Westminster office and the subsequent transfer of Andrea Alcarese to Baltimore City limits his availability to special occasions. If you have a particular need for the participation of Mr. Alcarese, you may call him at 539-5340.

Please remember that attorneys are busy people. Call on them for assistance when you need them, but do not waste their time. When you are going to request their involvement in your classroom, contact the attorney two to three weeks prior to the desired date of the presentation. If possible, suggest several dates in order for the attorney to select the one which is most convenient for him. Your cooperation in this matter will enable the attorneys to support our program to the fullest possible extent.

LEGAL QUESTIONS HOTLINE

Members of the Carroll County Bar Association have agreed to provide a "hot line" service as a means of providing an answer to factual student questions regarding the law. This telephone service will enable you to get answers to difficult questions in a brief amount of time. It is an extremely valuable service because it provides teachers almost immediate access to accurate and up-to-date information regarding complex, legal problems.

LAW-RELATED

FIELD

FIELD EXPERIENCE PROGRAMS

While most teachers have never had an opportunity to study law, much can be done in a traditional classroom through the use of community resource persons to make up for this deficiency. However, for a legal education program to achieve maximum improvement in student attitudes and understanding, pupils must have an opportunity to discover how justice is administered in their community. There is no better way to accomplish this than through the use of law-related field trips. You should find the suggestions which follow are helpful to you as you begin to organize an action-oriented field experience for your pupils.
CONDUCTING A FIELD TRIP

The planning of a field trip is often a time-consuming process. However, it is time well-spent because a community experience brings action, interest and excitement to a social studies class. As you are planning for a field trip, be sure to consider the following recommendations.

A. Discuss the trip with your principal and department head.

B. Take the trip yourself to check out important details and to decide what arrangements need to be made.
   1. Meet the contact person and discuss the following:
      a. Purpose of trip
      b. Type of group
      c. Provisions for eating and rest rooms
      d. Fees
   2. Finalize time schedule and confirm with a letter

C. Arrange for permissions
   1. School authorities
   2. Parents

D. Arrange for transportation and the collection of funds

E. Recruit other teachers and parents to help you and ensure safety of pupils

F. Organize the schedule for the trip

G. Establish rules of conduct

H. Brief the students on the trip and review their assignment for the day or prepare an observation sheet such as this.
   1. What did you see?
   2. How did you feel about what you saw?
   3. Is there anything else you would have liked to have seen? If so, what? Why?
   4. What, if anything, did you learn from the experience?
   5. Were you satisfied or dissatisfied with the experience? Why?
   6. What might we conclude about (subject under consideration) as a result of our visit to ____________?
   7. How do our conclusions based on this visit compare or contrast with other information we have studied about (subject under consideration)?
I. Provide for debriefing and follow-up activities.

1. How did you feel about yesterday's visit?

2. Did you agree or disagree with what the (judge, attorney, warden, etc.) said? Why?

3. Did you learn anything new about ______________? What?

4. What can we conclude as a result of the trip? How does the information gained during the visit compare to the ideas we gained from other sources?

Careful planning of a field trip can help to insure the educational value of the activity. Thorough debriefing can clarify misconceptions and enrich the learning experience for all students.

For further assistance in planning a field experience, please refer to the bulletin entitled Guidelines For Instructional Field Trips. A publication of the Carroll County Board of Education, this booklet contains many valuable suggestions for field trip planners and includes sample copies of request forms and permission slips. Please contact your principal if you wish to secure a copy of this nine page publication which was completed in 1975.

LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES

Arrangements can be made for pupils to tour the facilities of local, state and national law enforcement agencies. In addition, it is possible for you to arrange to have some of your students participate in a police patrol ride-a-long program. If you wish to have your pupils take part in a ride-a-long, please carefully review the following guidelines which were developed by the Howard County Police Department.

GUIDELINES FOR RIDE-A-LONG PARTICIPANTS

Members of the Howard County Police Department are pleased when citizens of our community express interest in law enforcement and the Ride-Along Program.
In order to facilitate this program, the guidelines listed below have been established. Please review them carefully, as all are very important.
Police Department shifts begin at 7:00 a.m., 3:00 p.m., and 11:00 p.m., daily.
As a participant, you must decide on what day at which of the designated times you will report. You are requested to ride for at least four hours or for the entire tour of duty, eight hours. Report to the shift supervisor on the date and time you select.
The waiver form and the attached application must be completed and returned to the Howard County Police Department at least ten days prior to the requested Ride-Along date.

As a participant, you are requested to be appropriately attired in such a manner that will in no way reflect negatively upon you, the program, or the Howard County Police Department. The following are examples of types of clothing which are not acceptable: (1) T-shirts, halter tops, sweatshirts;
(2) dungarees, hotpants, shorts; (3) tennis shoes, sandals. You are requested to wear the supplied identification name tag on your outer garment during the Ride-Along.

Arrange for transportation to and from the Police Department. You are encouraged to ask questions about police work. However, keep in mind your police partner cannot conceivably know about every event that has occurred in the county.

In order to comply with the department's policies, you must utilize the safety belts in the police vehicle. Certain police calls are considered inherently dangerous and your police partner may respond to the call after dropping you off at a safe place. Wait for another officer to pick you up at that location.

DO NOT interfere in any way with the officer's handling of a situation.
You may ask questions concerning a specific assignment after it has been completed and you have left the scene. Tape recorders are not permitted in the police vehicle. Cameras may only be used at the discretion of the participating officer.

LAW-RELATED FIELD TRIPS
IN CARROLL COUNTY AND PROXIMITY

LEGAL OFFICES AND COURTROOM VISITATION PROGRAMS

OFFICE VISITATION PROGRAM

Office visits with attorneys during business hours afford students an opportunity to formulate an accurate concept of the dimensions of a legal career. However, a problem for the attorney arises due to the extreme confidentiality required of a lawyer with his clients. It is necessary for an attorney first to secure the client's consent to observe conferences, real estate settlements or discussions affecting the client. Thus, the attorney must arrange his schedule around the proposed student visit.

Accordingly, the details of an office visitation program for several high school students must be mutually arranged by the participating attorney and the teacher. You should refer to the chart of participating members of the Carroll County Bar Association on pages 16-19 as you seek to identify lawyers willing to cooperate in this field experience.

COURTROOM VISITATION PROGRAM

Classroom field trips can be arranged for students to observe actual courtroom techniques. Judges of the Circuit and District Courts are usually most helpful. Students should be given the opportunity to witness a number of different trials or processes of the court and should also have the opportunity to talk with the judge. The teachers and students should know in advance just what part of the process they will see and should be briefed by a lawyer or official of the court prior to their visit to avoid confusion and disappointment after the visit. Whenever possible, a lawyer should act as a guide or lead the debriefing which takes place after the visit. Such a tour program must be related to a classroom unit of study and the objectives of the experience must be clearly established in order to insure that the visit is an educational experience.

Please emphasize to your students that absolute silence is required in the courtroom. The Circuit Court convenes at 10:00 a.m. on days when the judge is sitting. The District Court is usually in session daily. Please call in advance to insure that the cases on the docket are pertinent to your unit of study.

LAW-RELATED FIELD TRIPS
IN CARROLL COUNTY AND PROXIMITY

CORRECTIONAL FACILITIES

While it is unlikely that an entire class will be admitted to a prison, jail or detention facility, it may be possible for a teacher to arrange to participate in a tour with a small group of students. To make this trip most effective, part of such a tour should include a meeting with a group of inmates to discuss the criminal justice and corrections situations. If you and your pupils are to be in close contact with the inmates, you should be forewarned that in the event you are seized and held, most prison officials do not recognize hostages and will not bargain with prisoners. Therefore, utmost care must be taken to insure the safety of all visiting persons.

If the warden or chief prison official cannot offer assurance of a safe tour, you should employ other techniques for learning about the correctional system. For example, there are many excellent films on this topic such as "The Glass House," "Born Innocent," "On Trial: Criminal Justice," "I'm Gonna Be Free" and "I Live in Prison." When funds are available, the Law Education Project plans to purchase these materials for its law library.

In addition, correctional personnel, prisoners and ex-offenders often make interesting and informative classroom speakers. Mr. George Collins, Warden of the Maryland State Penitentiary, and his staff have made many excellent presentations to Carroll County teachers and pupils. Representatives of the Division of Parole and Probation may also be available to serve as guest speakers. They may be contacted at 848-1522 or 876-1777.

You should consider the following topics in your analysis of the correctional system:

1. Is the prevailing philosophy one of punishment, rehabilitation or deterrence?

2. What are the procedures involved in parole, probation and sentencing?

3. What is life in a prison like from the viewpoint of the prisoner and the guard?

4. How effective is today's system?

5. How could the current correctional system be changed to become more effective?
