The Ukrainian Bilingual Program, a three-year pilot project coordinated by Alberta Education, was implemented by the Edmonton Catholic School System in the Fall of 1974. The current evaluation is the second phase of a three-year study and concerns the 1975-76 academic year. Forty-eight first graders in the bilingual program were matched with a control group on the variables of grade level, sex, age, PMA scores, and socioeconomic status. Fifty-one second graders were matched with a control group according to the same variables. Achievement instruments to evaluate academic progress in reading, math, and language skills were administered. Parent, teachers, and principal attitudes were sampled. Results show that: (1) students in the bilingual program achieved as well in English language arts and in mathematics as students not in the program at both the grade one and two levels; (2) students were making significant progress in learning the Ukrainian language at both the grade one and two levels; (3) attitudes of the parents, students, teachers and principals were very positive toward the program; (4) according to the perceptions of both parents and teachers, students acquired an appreciation of the Ukrainian culture and an understanding of the Ukrainian Catholic Rite. ABSTRACT

The Ukrainian Bilingual Program, a three year pilot project coordinated by Alberta Education, was implemented by the Edmonton Catholic School System in the fall of 1974.

A comprehensive evaluation was considered to be a highly significant component of the pilot project. The current evaluation is the second phase of a three year study and concerns grade one and two pupils who attended bilingual classes in the 1975-76 school term. Phase three of the study will involve students enrolled in grades one through three in the 1976-77 school year.

Purpose of the Evaluation

More specifically, the evaluation was designed to answer four basic questions.

1. How does the performance of the Ukrainian Bilingual students in the English Language Arts and in Mathematics compare with other students in the Edmonton Catholic Schools?

2. How effective is the program in teaching the students Ukrainian?

3. What are the attitudes of the parents, students, teachers and principals toward the program?

4. Does the program affect the students' appreciation of the Ukrainian culture, including their understanding of the Ukrainian Catholic Rite?

Forty-eight students in the grade one bilingual program were matched with a control group on the following variables: a) grade level, b) sex, c) age, d) PMA scores, e) socio-economic status. Fifty-one Grade two students were also matched with a control group according to the above criteria.

In order to evaluate academic progress, achievement instruments (individually-administered and group tests) were administered to all students.

1. Gates MacGinitie Reading Survey
2. Science Research Associates (SRA) Arithmetic
3. Ukrainian Language Skills Test
In addition, the "conservation" and "embedded figures" tests were administered to a sample of the grade one students to obtain information about the students' level of logical cognition and type of cognitive style.

Questionnaires were administered to measure the reaction of various significant groups to the program:
1. Parent questionnaire (mail-out form)
2. Teacher questionnaire
3. Principal questionnaire

Major Findings
1. The students in the Ukrainian Bilingual Program, according to test score results, achieved as well in the English Language Arts and in Mathematics as students not in the program at both the grade one and two levels.
2. The Ukrainian Language Skills test results showed that students were making significant progress in learning the Ukrainian language at both the grade one and two levels.
3. The attitudes of the parents, students, teachers and principals were very positive toward the program.
4. According to the perceptions of both parents and teachers, students acquired an appreciation of the Ukrainian culture and an understanding of the Ukrainian Catholic Rite.

Significant Observations
1. The religious component of the program was rated very highly by the parents.
2. Teachers expressed a need for further inservice training.
3. Program objectives, for the most part, were perceived to be appropriate by parents, teachers and principals.
4. No clear consensus was evident on the part of teachers or principals on the extent to which admission requirements should play a role in the selection of students for the program.
5. Parents generally rejected the idea of consolidating Bilingual classes into one or two schools in the system designated as Ukrainian-English Bilingual School(s); instead, parents preferred that Bilingual classes should "continue to be given in several schools in the system (as it is now)."

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Program Description

Introduction
The Ukrainian-English Bilingual Program, implemented in the fall of 1974 as a three year pilot project, is designed to provide students with the opportunity to learn the Ukrainian language as a "language of instruction", along with acquiring English language communication skills. During the time period covered by this report, the program was being offered to Early Childhood, grade one and grade two students. (Of interest the program was extended to grade three in the fall of 1976.)

Long Range Objectives
In addition to the objectives expected of students in all Alberta Schools, the objectives of the bilingual Ukrainian-English program are to help students acquire proficiency in the Ukrainian language and develop an appreciation of the Ukrainian culture. More specifically, they include:

1. To develop a functional use of the Ukrainian language. Students should be able to understand Ukrainian when it is spoken, participate easily in conversation as well as read and write in Ukrainian, within the limits of their experience in the Ukrainian language.

2. To develop an understanding and appreciation of the attitudes, cultural values, customs and traditions of the people of Ukrainian origin and foster a security in one's identity.

3. To facilitate the development of positive attitudes towards the learning of other languages and understanding of other cultures.

For the child of Ukrainian origin, the bilingual Ukrainian-English experience will provide opportunity for personal identification with the Ukrainian language and culture in the Canadian and International context. (Taken from the Draft copy of the "Program of Studies" dated Oct. 7, 1976).
Early Childhood Education (Kindergarten)

The Early Childhood Program consists of developmental activities in social, emotional, physical, spiritual and intellectual aspects. In the Early Childhood Ukrainian-English Bilingual Program children are introduced to the Ukrainian language and culture.

The Grade One and Two Program

In the grade one Program the children take regular English instruction in Arithmetic, Reading, Language Arts and Science using the prescribed texts. Oral Ukrainian is used in Social Studies, Language Arts, Physical Education, Art, Music and Health. The grade one religion text, "Come to the Father" provides for many activities in the Ukrainian Catholic Rite.

In grade two, in addition to the use of English and Ukrainian in the subject areas outlined in grade one, a developmental Reading program is introduced in the Ukrainian language, along with instruction in the writing skills. Moreover, the grade two religion text, "Celebrate God's Mighty Deeds" is used with provision for instruction in the Ukrainian Catholic Rite.

CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT

A Ukrainian Ad Hoc Curriculum Committee was established in the fall of 1975 by the Department of Education to develop criteria and an outline of procedures for the selection and preparation of curricular and instructional materials.

The Ad Hoc Committee, consisting of teachers and consultants from the Catholic and Public School System, Department of Education personnel and a representative from the University met on four occasions during the school term. At the full-day curriculum meetings, recommendations were made for obtaining additional curricular and instructional materials.

A Program of Studies was completed, consisting of the following:

A. Concepts related to the totality of bilingual education, including a definition.
   1. Goals of basic education
   2. Rationale - philosophy
      - definition of "Culture"
   3. Long Range Goals
   4. Guidelines for attaining the Objectives.
B. Subject area concerns, including suggested, content/scope and sequence.
   1. Objectives
   2. Outcomes
   3. Instructional materials

At the time of the writing of this report, the work of the Ad Hoc Committee had already commenced to complete a Curriculum Guide in Ukrainian, "an extended program of studies" containing more details such as vocabulary lists, grammatical structures, integrated program guidelines, suggested teaching strategies, suggestions for evaluation and sample lesson plans. In addition, plans are underway to prepare Handbooks for Language Arts and Social Studies.

Of particular importance, the development and piloting of an effective reading program has been accorded high priority. The titles included in the Language Development Series published by Alberca Education are listed as follows:

1. Tut i Tam.(here and there)
2. Druzi (friends)
3. Shkolá (school)
4. Pryhody (adventures)
5. Kazky (stories)
6. Khodit zi Mnoyu (come with me)
7. Nashi Skarby (our treasures)

To this date, the first three readers along with accompanying workbooks and flashcards have become available. In addition, teacher guidebooks are under preparation.

Inservice Program

As noted in the first year's evaluation report, teachers requested that inservices be scheduled at regular intervals. In this regard, two inservices were held in the past year on the introduction of the pilot Reading Program. Various teaching strategies for using both the readers and the workbooks were closely examined at the inservices involving teachers from both the Edmonton Public and Catholic Schools, as well as Alberta Education personnel.

PARENT ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Parent Advisory Committee, consisting of parents from each of the schools, (St. Matthew, St. Martin and St. Bernadette) and one representative from each of the eight Ukrainian Catholic parishes, met regularly on a monthly basis to deal with a wide variety of issues. In addition, frequent executive meetings and sub-committee meetings were held to carry out specific tasks.

Objectives:

Briefly, the Parent Advisory Committee was established in June of 1975 to meet the following objectives:

1. to become familiar with the Ukrainian-English Bilingual Program.
2. to assist in communicating the content and intent of the program to other parents.
3. to provide recommendations to Curriculum Committees regarding revisions of the existing program.
4. to provide advice regarding the resource materials that are necessary for an effective program.
5. to make certain that one or more Ukrainian organizations assumes the responsibility of raising funds in excess of government grants required to transport children attending Ukrainian Bilingual classes in the Edmonton Catholic Schools.

In addition to maintaining liaison with the community (schools, parishes, Ukrainian Bilingual Association) and advising on transportation policies and fund-raising, the Parent Advisory Committee played a role in making recommendations regarding the further development of the curriculum and assisted in the preparation of resource materials. Numerous parent volunteers worked with teachers in the classroom, on field trip studies and in organizing school activities (concerts, celebrations, picnics).

Evaluation Report

As in the first year of the pilot project, the Edmonton Catholic School System and the Edmonton Public School System have worked together on the evaluation. Numerous meetings and projects, particularly in the development of the Ukrainian language skills tests, have been held to share information and ideas. The Report that follows complies with an agreement and according will be presented to Alberta Education.

The current evaluation as outlined in this paper is the second phase of a three year study. The evaluation concerns Grade one and two pupils who attended bilingual classes in the 1975-76 school term. Phase three of the study will involve students enrolled in grades one through three in the 1976-77 school year.

PART II

PROCEDURE

Purpose

The Edmonton Catholic School's evaluation of the Ukrainian Bilingual Program is designed to answer four basic questions.

1) How does the performance of the Ukrainian Bilingual students in the English Language Arts and Mathematics compare with the performance of students in the regular program?

2) How effective is the program in teaching the students Ukrainian?

3) What are the attitudes of the parents, students, teachers and principals toward the program?

4) Does the program affect the students' appreciation of the Ukrainian culture, including their understanding of the Ukrainian Catholic Rite?

Matching Procedures

The sample of the treatment groups consisted of the grade one and two students in the Ukrainian-English Bilingual Program. All subjects in the grade one program were used in the experimental group ($T_1 = 48$ students). By the same token, all subjects in the grade two program were used in the experimental group ($T_2 = 51$ students).

The experimental group of students, moreover, came from various parts of the city; more specifically, the grade one students came from three of the Edmonton Catholic Schools, while the grade two students came from two of them.

The control group students ($C_1$ and $C_2$), on the other hand, were selected from the population of students in the regular grade one and two classes at the three schools in which the Ukrainian-English Bilingual Program was offered.

In matching the experimental group of students with the control students, five criteria were considered: grade, sex, age, P.M.A. score, and S.E.S. rating.
Matched Samples Grade One

</table>

The five criteria were used in matching the experimental and control group students in order to increase the internal validity of the project design (Fisher, Stanley, and Campbell, 1966). Each criterion was deemed to be an important variable in determining to some extent the students' relative success or failure in achieving the objectives of the school program.

Statistical Procedures

The data for the study were gathered at the school level, then tabulated and key punched on computer cards at the Edmonton Catholic Schools' Informational Systems. Subsequently, a one way analysis of variance design (ANOVA) was carried out at the Computing Services, University of Alberta.

Achievement Tests

In June of 1976 the Gates-MacGinitie reading tests and the Science Research Association (S.R.A.) arithmetic tests were administered to forty-eight children in the grade one Bilingual program (T₁), fifty-one children in the grade two program (T₂), and to an equal number of pupils in two control groups. The first control group (C₁) consisted of forty-eight students in the regular grade one program, while the second control group (C₂) consisted of fifty-one children in the regular grade two program.
In order to assess achievement in Ukrainian, the Ukrainian Language Skills Tests (grade one and two) were administered to the experimental groups in the fall of 1975 as pre-tests and again in June of 1976 as post-tests.

Gates MacGinitie Reading Primary A,B Forms 1,2

(Vocabulary and Comprehension)

The Gates MacGinitie tests are administered at large in the school system to grades one and two students at the completion of the school term. School System norms are available for both the vocabulary and comprehension sub-tests, which are group administered. To be specific, the vocabulary sub-test provides a measure of the pupil's ability to recognize or analyze isolated words. The comprehension sub-test, on the other hand, provides information about the extent to which a pupil understands what he or she is reading, the latter requiring many skills not involved in the mere ability to recognize words.

SRA Arithmetic Test

The S.R.A. instrument is a criterion measure test administered system-wide. It provides both information about the degree of a pupil's conceptual understanding of mathematics, as well as his or her mastery of computational skills.

Ukrainian Language Skills Tests

Considerable attention has been given to the development of the Ukrainian Language Skills Tests. The grade one test has undergone two thorough revisions while the grade two test has passed through one revision phase. Both instruments consist of parts that are group and individually administered; the grade one test focuses on the listening and speaking skills, while the grade two test, in addition, measures initial reading and writing skills.

9. Oral reading
10. Writing
11. Silent reading

The maximum possible score on the grade two test is 125 marks (group administered 50 individual 75).

Questionnaires

Very extensive work was carried out in the revision of the parent, teacher and principal questionnaires used in the previous year. The revision was undertaken to gather more precise information about the attitudes of parents, teachers and principals toward the program. In short, the questionnaires were designed to obtain information about the students' appreciation of the Ukrainian culture, including the students' understanding of the Ukrainian Catholic Rite, the appropriateness of program objectives, instructional materials, teaching methods and school organization.

Parent Questionnaires

Two separate questionnaires were developed: one for the parents of grade one pupils, another for the parents of grade two pupils. Each instrument consisted of three types of questions: those answered on a rating scale, multiple choice questions, and open-ended or space for "comment" responses. Some of the major areas examined were as follows:

1) Parental rating of the appropriateness and achievement of stated program objectives
2) Parental rating of the appropriateness and achievement of specific Ukrainian language arts and cultural objectives
3) Perception and attitudes toward the program
4) Parental involvement in the program
5) Family Background

The grade one and two questionnaires were very similar, although the grade two questionnaire contained questions about the Ukrainian reading and writing skills development that were not found in the grade one instrument. In both instruments, however, a five point rating scale was used. (Appendix B)

Teacher Questionnaire

Not unlike the parent questionnaire, the teacher questionnaire was developed to obtain a rating of the appropriateness and achievement of stated program objectives, as well as specific Ukrainian language arts' and cultural objectives. Moreover, the questionnaire was designed to obtain an assessment of teacher perception and attitudes about the overall effectiveness of the program, the adequacy of school organization, in-services, teaching strategies, curricular and instructional materials. In addition, questions were asked about the appropriateness of admission criteria for the program. (Appendix C)

Principal Questionnaire

Less detailed than the teacher questionnaire, the principal questionnaire did not ask for an assessment of the degree of achievement on the part of students of the stated program objectives and specific Ukrainian language arts' and cultural objectives. Rather, the questionnaire was designed to provide information about the appropriateness of objectives and, particularly, information about school organization matters, such as staffing, the need for special facilities and materials, timetabling or scheduling arrangements, as well as an indication of major problems, parental attitudes, degree of parental involvement and the appropriateness of admission criteria. (Appendix D)
Cognitive Testing Project

In addition to the administration of achievement tests, the cognitive testing project was carried out. Directed by Dr. B. Jain of the University of Alberta, the project involved the administration of the "conservation" and "embedded figures" tests. The tests were administered to thirty grade one students enrolled in the Ukrainian-English Bilingual Program and to thirty "control group" students in the regular program. Briefly, the "conservation" test purports to measure a child's level of logical cognition as proposed by the theories of Piaget, while the "embedded figures" test provides valuable information about type of cognitive style. For further information, the complete report on the cognitive testing project, including the results, conclusions, and bibliography is found in Appendix A of this report.
PART III
RESULTS OF THE STUDY

A Brief Review of the Literature

One thing emerges clearly from a review of the literature on the evaluation of instructional programs: the necessity of stating clear objectives is emphasized by nearly every writer in the field. From the pioneering work of Tyler (Smith and Tyler, 1942) who proposed that behaviours be observed to see how well they match stated objectives, to the work of Scriven, Stake, Stufflebeam and Provus, objectives, "standards", "intents", or "outcomes" are a common unifying thread.

Scriven noted that whatever the role of evaluation, in decision making or course improvement, the goals are always the same - "to estimate the merit, worth, or value of the thing being evaluated" (MacKay and Maguire 1971). He also proposed the useful distinction between "formative" and "summative" kinds of evaluation. Stake, on the other hand, pointed out the necessity of classifying data as "descriptive" and "judgemental" or as "outcomes". In contrast, Stufflebeam defines evaluation as the "process of acquiring and using information for making decisions associated with planning, programming, implementing and recycling program activities" (MacKay and Maguire 1971). Provus' view of evaluation, not unlike Stake's model, is that "the process of evaluation consists of moving through the four stages (Definition, Installation, Process and Product) and through three major content categories: Inputs, Processes, and Outcomes."

In conclusion, whether a model focuses on the learning process (Tyler and Associates), provides the framework for data gathering, as suggested by Stake's model, or is based on a decision-making rationale (Stufflebeam), the purpose of an evaluation surely must be clearly in mind if the evaluation is to have any effect on the development or continuation of a particular program.
Achievement Test Findings

The first question the evaluation attempted to answer concerned student achievement:

I. HOW DOES THE PERFORMANCE OF THE UKRAINIAN BILINGUAL STUDENTS IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE ARTS AND MATHEMATICS COMPARE WITH THE PERFORMANCE OF STUDENTS IN THE REGULAR PROGRAM?

For the purpose of comparing the scores of both groups, the experimental and control groups, results on four achievement tests were examined, using a one way analysis of variance design (ANOVA). The Scheffe Multiple Comparison of Means Test was performed where significance was indicated.

Summary of Achievement Test Findings (Stream 1. Grade Two)

The achievement test score results clearly indicate that the grade two students in the Ukrainian Bilingual Program achieved as well in the English Language Arts and Mathematics as other students not in the program. No significant difference between the two groups was evident on the test score results. In addition, the students in the Ukrainian Bilingual Program acquired Ukrainian language skills to a large extent, according to the comparison of the pre and post-test results, indicating a mean gain of 50.84. (Average of 33.4% on the pre-test and 74.1% on the post-test)

The direct comparison of pre and post-test results, however, is somewhat tentative as seven students entered the program at one of the schools in mid-year. The pre-test results were unavailable for those students.

Summary of Achievement Test Findings (Stream 2 Grade One)

The evidence is clear on achievement test score results that the grade one students in the Ukrainian Bilingual Program achieved as well in the English Language Arts and Mathematics as other students not in the program. No significant difference between the two groups was evident on the test score results. Moreover, the students in the Ukrainian Bilingual Program acquired Ukrainian language skills to a large extent, according to the comparison of the pre and post-test results, indicating a mean gain of 34.82 (average of 33.6% on the pre-test and 72.3% on the post-test).

Although a significant difference was evident between the mean scores on the pre-test of two of the classroom sub-groups, no significant difference was evident on the post-test. Thus the classroom that performed at a significantly lower level on the pre-test, performed at a level comparable to the other two classrooms on the post-test. Of interest, three of the grade one treatment students entered the program in mid-year.

Discussion

Overall, the achievement test findings are remarkably consistent with the first phase of the evaluation carried out during the first year of the pilot project. In the first year study no significant difference, for the most, was found between the achievement test score results of the treatment and control groups.

Although a significant difference in Spelling achievement between the treatment group and one of the two control groups was noted in the previous year's report, no apparent difference was evident in the current test results. The current evidence, therefore, seems to suggest that the slight lag in Spelling of the treatment group as compared with one control group, in the first-year study, was only temporary. Of interest, though, the WRAT Spelling achievement test was used in the 1974-75 grade one study while the System Spelling Test was used in the current study of grade two achievement. As a result, a direct comparison between the first year and second year studies is a very tentative one at best. Since Spelling is not taught as a separate subject area until grade two, however, the additional emphasis given to Spelling in the second year may have been a factor in overcoming the slight initial lag that test score results seemed to indicate at the completion of grade one.

With respect to the Ukrainian language skills test results, the complete revision of the grade one test after the first year study seems to have been worthwhile. The "ceiling effect" that was in evidence in the first-year results was not in evidence in the current study. The revised test is much more comprehensive than the original test and appears to be statistically much more reliable (see Appendix E). The grade two test, as well, that was developed prior to the 1975-76 school term shows promise as a useful test instrument.

Questionnaire Findings

The third major question the evaluation attempted to answer concerned perceptions and attitudes.

II. WHAT ARE THE ATTITUDES OF THE PARENTS, STUDENTS, TEACHERS AND PRINCIPALS TOWARD THE PROGRAM?

Parents, teachers and principals were asked to evaluate the appropriateness of program objectives. In addition, parents were asked to rate the degree to which they felt their child was achieving the objectives of the program (see Appendix B). Teachers, also, were asked to rate the degree to which they felt their classes were achieving the program objectives. (see Appendix C)

Thirty-five families responded to the grade one questionnaire (72%), while thirty-four families responded to the grade two questionnaire (67%). Three grade one, and three grade two teachers responded to the teacher questionnaire, while three principals responded to the principal questionnaire.

Objective I

THE PUPILS WILL FOLLOW THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE CURRICULUM IN LANGUAGE ARTS, MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE, AND WILL ACHIEVE AT OR ABOVE AN AVERAGE LEVEL IN EACH OF THESE AREAS.

Summary No. 1.1 to No. 1.3

- 3 rating 66.6%

Discussion

It might be noted that the majority of the parents and teachers rated the appropriateness of the objective very highly: 97% of the parents gave a rating of 4 and 5 while 83.2% of the teachers gave a rating of 4 and 5. Although one principal gave a rating of 4, the other two gave a rating of 3.

For comparison, 96.8% of the parents of the previous year's study rated the objective as appropriate:

- 5 rating 42.5%
- 4 rating 54.28%

Discussion

Again, a very high degree of congruence is evident between the ratings of parents and teachers, with over 90% of the parents and teachers giving a rating of 4 or 5. Teachers in particular, tended to rate the achievement of the objective very highly, with 83.3% giving a rating of 5.

IV. DOES THE PROGRAM AFFECT THE STUDENTS' APPRECIATION OF THE UKRAINIAN CULTURE, INCLUDING THEIR UNDERSTANDING OF THE UKRAINIAN CATHOLIC RITE?

The last major question of the evaluation was answered, by the responses of the parents, teachers and principals to the third objective on the grade one, the teacher and the principal questionnaires (see Objective 4 on the grade two parent questionnaire).

teachers, while principals were unanimous in their rating. For comparison, 97% of the parents of the previous year's students rated the objective very positively.

Appreciation of Ukrainian Culture: Parental Attitudes

The next fifteen questions on the questionnaires were designed to get specific information about the cultural program as stated in the following question: "To what extent do you feel that cultural appreciation is appropriate to and being achieved by means of the following subject areas?" (music, art, religion, social studies, and literature).

Perhaps the most interesting finding concerned the subject of Religion. Ninety-seven per cent of the grade one parents felt that cultural appreciation in the area of Religion (traditions, celebrations at Christmas and Easter) was highly appropriate. Eighty-eight per cent of the parents felt that cultural appreciation was being achieved in the Religion program. The grade two parents, unanimously felt that cultural appreciation was both highly appropriate and being achieved very successfully.

Over 90% of the grade one parents felt that Music and Art were highly appropriate for study. About 82% felt the goals were being achieved. Over 75% of the grade one parents felt that Social Studies and Literature were very appropriate for study. A lesser number of parents (between 55% and 65%) felt that the goals were being achieved. Of interest, between 21% and 33% of the parents were undecided whether or not cultural appreciation was being achieved in Social Studies and Literature.

The grade two parental responses were fairly consistent with the grade one responses. Of the grade two parents, over 88% felt that Music and Art were highly appropriate for study. Over 81% felt that the goals were being achieved in Music while only 65% felt the goals were being achieved in Art. Thirty-one per cent were undecided about Art.

Over 84% of the grade two parents felt that the goals of the Social Studies and Literature programs were highly appropriate. Between 51% and 68% of the parents felt that the goals were being achieved.

Of particular interest, the ratings in Social Studies in both the study of early Ukrainian settlers in Canada and of references to Ukraine as the country of origin of Ukrainian people (customs, traditions, language) were quite high on appropriateness (between 76% and 82% on the grade one questionnaire and between 84% and 91% on the grade two questionnaire).

Numerous suggestions were made by parents for further developing cultural appreciation, including the following: visits to the Ukrainian Museum, study of traditional foods and clothing, study of drama, acting in plays, and study of the geography of Ukraine.

Appreciation of Ukrainian Culture: Teacher and Principal Attitudes

Teachers were unanimous in rating Religion very highly on appropriateness and achievement. Also consistent with parental rating, teachers rated Music and Art very highly on appropriateness. In contrast, however, teacher ratings of achievement in Music and Art were considerably higher. (100% versus 55% to 81%). Also in sharp contrast to parental ratings, only 40% to 50% of the teachers rated the Social Studies objectives as highly appropriate. Sixty per cent of the teachers considered the study of early Ukrainian settlers in Canada inappropriate and unachieved while 33% felt references to Ukraine as the country of the origin of Ukrainian people (customs, traditions, language) were inappropriate and unachieved. A probable explanation for the discrepancy in the parental and teacher perceptions is that the study of pioneer families and various cultural groups is recommended in the program outline for grade three. Literature, on the other hand, was rated highly by teachers on both appropriateness and achievement.

Principals tended to consistently rate the subject areas of Religion, Music, Art, Social Studies and Literature as appropriate for study.

Discussion

Parents, teachers, and principals were unanimous in stating that positive feelings about the program on the part of pupils and parents are an important objective of the program. Moreover, a very high percentage of parents (over 82% gave a rating of 5) were very happy with their child's participation in the Bilingual Program. A clear majority of the parents also felt their children were very happy to participate in the program.

A sampling of the comments made by grade one parents to question #23 are as follows:

"This is the most unbelievably progressive, encouraging and fantastic program any child and his parents could get involved in."

"We feel our child has done well in grade one in the Ukrainian Bilingual Program; she has learned quite a bit - especially in music and culture."

"Our child is more willing to speak and participate in Ukrainian activities than many other children who were not in the Bilingual Program."

Teachers and principals, too, were consistently positive about the attitudes of parents and pupils toward the program.

Ukrainian Language Communication Skills (Objectives 5, 6, 7)

In large measure, parents felt that the development of the listening comprehension and speaking skills in Ukrainian was highly important. Over 82% of both the grade one and two parents gave a rating of 5 to each of the three stated objectives. A smaller number of the grade one parents (between 60% and 75% gave ratings of 4 and 5) felt that the listening and speaking skills were being achieved. A large number of the grade two parents (between 75% and 90% gave ratings of 4 and 5) felt skills were being achieved.

Almost unanimously, grade two parents felt that the development of the pupils' listening and speaking skills along with the introduction of reading and writing skills, was a highly appropriate objective. (Objective 3 - questions 5 and 6). The majority of parents felt the four components of listening, speaking, reading and writing were being achieved. With reference to questions 42, 43 and 45 on the grade two questionnaire, the majority of parents felt very satisfied with the introduction of their children to the reading and writing skills in Ukrainian (over 93% gave ratings of 4 and 5). In addition, the majority of parents reported that their children were very enthusiastic about the Tut i Tam reader.

Of significance, teachers and principals also rated the development of Ukrainian language communication skills very highly. Teachers tended to rate the achievement of the skill objectives very highly as well (Questions 30, 32 rated 5 by all of the teachers).

Summary of the Cognitive Testing Results

1. Both the experimental and control groups performed at comparable levels of logical cognition and type of cognitive style; no significant differences were evident between them.

2. Comparisons between the Norm and Control group on the Embedded Figures and Conservation tests indicated no significant differences. A comparison between the Norm and the Experimental group results on the Embedded Figures test also indicated no significant difference; however, a significant difference was evident in a comparison between the Norm and the Experimental group on the Conservation test; the Experimental group performed beyond the Norm on logical cognition. (See Appendix A)
Summary: Parental Perceptions and Attitudes

1. Ukrainian Materials

A high percentage of parents (between 80% and 91%) felt that an appropriate number of Ukrainian materials were available. Of interest, 20% of the grade one parents felt there were too few materials while about 5% of the grade two parents felt there were too few materials. In addition, 8% of the grade one parents and 19% of the grade two parents reported that they had materials at home that would probably be useful to teachers in the program.

2. Special Activities (field trips, community resource persons)

The majority of parents (between 76% and 80%) felt that the right amount of special activities were arranged so that children could be exposed to Ukrainian culture. Between 20% and 23% of the parents felt there were too few special activities. Most parents, however, expressed a high satisfaction with the kinds of field trips and special activities that were arranged. Numerous suggestions were made by parents for field trip activities, including visits to Churches containing special cultural motifs, responding to the liturgy, visiting museums and exchanging visits with other Bilin- gual Schools (French and Ukrainian).

3. Parental Involvement

Between 78% and 87% of the parents were satisfied with their involvement in the school program.

A sampling of parental comments is as follows:

"Whenever possible I assist in class activities and help prepare class projects."

"I'm involved in projects every second week or so."

"Quite difficult because I am out of town two weeks out of four and my wife works."

"Participation has been through the Ukrainian Bilingual Association since the program's inception."
4. Adequacy of School Facilities (classroom, equipment, library)

Between 58% and 61% of the parents felt that school facilities were adequate; however, between 14% and 23% did not know if facilities were adequate or not.

5. Reporting on Pupil Progress

A majority of the parents preferred parent-teacher interviews and report cards as methods of reporting on pupil progress. Most grade two parents (88%) felt the school reporting methods were adequate while 25% of the grade one parents felt that the school reporting methods were somewhat inadequate.

6. Equal Division of Instructional Time (approximately 50% in Ukrainian and 50% in English)

Over 85% of the grade one parents felt satisfied with the equal division of instructional time between the use of Ukrainian and English in the classroom.

7. Continuation of the Program

A clear majority of parents (between 79% and 88%) wanted the program to continue as it is. Eight percent of the grade one parents and 17% of the grade two parents wanted the program to continue with minor modifications. None of the parents wanted the program discontinued.

A sampling of parental comments follows:

"Satisfied with all phases of the program".

"I would like to express my thanks as a parent to the teachers and administration of the program in the School System for the way they have worked so hard in making the Ukrainian Bilingual Program such a success to date."

"I have found my child can write in Ukrainian, but is not doing so well in English even though he is among the top of the class. I feel writing in English is more important to him than writing in Ukrainian. Therefore, more English please. Otherwise I am very satisfied with the program."

"I would like to see the children and teachers speak Ukrainian as much as possible during class hours. More time spent on oral speaking than on reading and writing Ukrainian."

"We are very pleased with this program. We are only sorry that this program was not started sooner so that our three older children could have taken it also."
"Would like to see the program continue to Grades 4, 5, 6."

"Transportation. The new boundary limit is one and a half miles. We feel that is too far for a small child to walk."

"We are pleased with our child’s progress. Because I do not speak Ukrainian it is difficult to evaluate some areas. I am pleased that learning to read English has been accomplished as well."

"Special recognition must be given by senior governments and school boards to assist towards convenient transportation if the program is to serve the whole city equitably. The standard transportation programs do not meet the requirements of special schools/programs."

8. Consolidation of the Bilingual Classes

An overwhelming majority of parents (between 81% and 90%) felt that Bilingual classes should "continue to be given in several schools in the system (as it is now)." Only 6% of the grade one parents and 18% of the grade two parents preferred to have the Bilingual classes "consolidated into one or two schools in the system designated as a Ukrainian-English Bilingual School(s)."

Some Parental comments are as follows:

"Schools would have to be very centrally located to facilitate transportation by city buses."

"Special programs or back-up programs to all the bilingual programs could be further advanced by the use of mobile facilities. A mobile trailer containing special displays, and equipment could be used and moved from school to school participating in the program."

9. Parents' Bulletin (Trembita)

Most parents felt the "Trembita" provided useful information and wanted the bulletin continued with approximately equal emphasis on information about Ukrainian Culture and information about the Ukrainian-English Bilingual Program.

10. Conversational Ukrainian Classes For Parents

Forty seven percent of the grade one parents and 46% of the grade two parents were interested in taking a course in the Ukrainian language, with most preferring a course that included development of conversational, reading and writing skills as well as emphasis on Ukrainian culture.
Summary: Teacher and Principal Perceptions and Attitudes

Principals tended to consider admission criteria as inappropriate, although a total of six responses were neutral (rating of 3). Teachers were divided almost equally in rating admission criteria: eighteen responses were inappropriate (rating of 1 and 2) while an equal number were appropriate (rating of 4 and 5). A total of five teacher responses were neutral. Thus, no clear consensus on the part of principals and teachers was evident on the matter of admission criteria.

Principals generally noted that no special facilities nor any special timetabling or scheduling arrangements were necessary. Furthermore, there was unanimous agreement among the principals that the Bilingual classes were well integrated within the school.

Staffing was mentioned in three responses as being vital to the success of the program, while low enrolment was identified as a problem by one principal.

The majority of teachers felt that they gave equal emphasis to both Ukrainian language and culture in the classroom. Moreover, all of the grade two teachers responded that they introduced their students to the written Ukrainian script (cursive).

Teachers unanimously felt that more inservices are needed and suggested the following topics: sharing of ideas and development of games for use in Language Arts, Reading and Social Studies (game's workshop); teaching techniques; and methods of teaching Social Studies, Music, Physical Education and Language Arts.
CONCLUSIONS

Major Findings

1. There was no significant difference between the achievement test score results of the experimental and control groups at both the grade one and two levels in the English Language Arts and Mathematics. The students in the Ukrainian Bilingual Program achieved as well as other students not in the program.

2. A large overall mean gain was evident in a comparison of the pre and post test results on the Ukrainian Language Skills Test at both the grade one and two levels, indicating that students made considerable progress in learning Ukrainian.

3. Questionnaire findings indicated that a large majority of the parents, students, teachers and principals were very positive toward the objectives of the program and felt that the objectives of the program were being achieved to a large extent.

4. Parents, teachers and principals felt that Ukrainian cultural objectives were highly appropriate. Moreover, parents and teachers felt that students acquired an appreciation of the Ukrainian culture and an understanding of the Ukrainian Catholic Rite.

Significant Observations

1. Almost unanimously, parents, teachers and principals felt that religious objectives were highly appropriate. Parents and teachers, moreover, rated the achievement of the objectives very highly.

2. All teachers expressed a need for further inservice training in the following: development of resource materials (game workshops), and examination of teaching techniques or methodology of providing instruction in Ukrainian in a variety of subject areas – Social Studies, Music, Physical Education and Language Arts.

3. Program objectives, for the most part, were perceived to be appropriate by parents, teachers and principals. Ukrainian language communication skills and appreciation of the Ukrainian culture were equally highly rated as significant components of the program.
4. There was lack of agreement among teachers and principals on the extent to which admission requirements should play a role in the selection of students for the program. Opinion was relatively divided or neutral on the appropriateness or inappropriateness of the selection criteria; no clear consensus was evident on any single criterion listed.

5. Only six percent of the grade one parents and eighteen percent of the grade two parents felt that Bilingual classes should be "consolidated into one or two schools in the system designated as a Ukrainian-English Bilingual School(s)." An overwhelming majority of parents felt that the Bilingual classes should "continue to be given in several schools in the system (as it is now)."

PREAMBLE

I. Two dimensions of contemplative cognition were evaluated. The two testing procedures used were (1) Conservation, that is, level of logical cognition; (2) Embedded Figures, that is, type of cognitive style. A brief description of each procedure follows.

The most complete and systematic developmental theory of contemplative cognitive structure to date is that proposed by Piaget. Psychologists and educators (e.g., Hunt, 1961; Flavell, 1963; Almy, 1966; Bain, 1973, 1975) have found that Piaget's theory, which is increasingly supported by empirical evidence, may serve as a conceptual framework for assessing a child's mental development, in general, and his ability to comprehend and utilize abstract concepts, in particular. Especially useful is Piaget's attempt to demonstrate the developmental, stage-by-stage progression of the child's thinking, in view of its implications for the assessment of cognitive growth. Traditional measures of intellectual functioning, such as IQ tests, are not based on developmental conceptions, nor even on a specific theory of intelligence. They simply represent an agglomeration of tasks which empirically have been shown to correlate with school achievement and other indices of intelligent behavior.

One of the most important phases in a child's development is the transition from a prelogical to a logical mode of thought. In Piaget's theory, the concept of conservation not only signals this cognitive change, but also represents a crucial contemplative attribute in and of itself. When a child is able to conserve, he recognizes that certain properties, such as substance, weight, volume, or number, remain unchanged in the face of certain transformations, such as changes in the object's form, shape, color, or position. In the conservation of number task, for example, two parallel lines of six chips are placed in front of a child. After the child agrees that each row contains the same number of chips, the chips are spread out in one row and bunched together in the other. The child is then asked whether the number of chips is the same in the two rows. Similarly, in the conservation of continuous quantity task, two standard glasses filled with the same amount of water are shown to the child. The water from the glasses is then poured into a tall thin glass and the child is asked whether the tall glass contains the same amount of water as the standard glass. Children who understand the conservation principle realize, in both tasks, that the quantity remains the same despite the transformations.
Witkins' Theory and the Concept of Cognitive Style: a brief overview.

The EFT is a contemplative, perceptual test. The subject's task on each trial is to locate a previously seen simple figure within a larger complex figure which has been so organized as to obscure or embed the sought-after simple figure. In the strictest interpretation, therefore, scores on the EFT reflect extent of competence at perceptual disembedding. Individual differences in EFT performance, however, appear to relate to more than differences in perceptual functioning. Numerous studies, reviewed below, have shown that the ability to "keep things separate in experience" in the EFT, signifying in effect greater differentiation in perceptual functioning, manifests itself in congruent form in other areas of the person's psychological activity, signifying greater differentiation in these other areas as well.

The concept that perceptual and intellectual (that is, cognitive) tasks may serve in the assessment of broad, salient dimensions of personal functioning is a long-standing one in the history of psychological testing. Ever since the introduction of intelligence tests, patterns of abilities revealed in test performance have been used in clinical appraisals of ego functioning. Similarly, perceptual tests like the Rorschach, in use for many years in clinical assessment, have also followed the rationale that from the way in which an individual perceives particular stimuli, inferences may be drawn about his personality.

The specific rationale for using the EFT to assess broad dimensions of personal functioning comes from cognitive-style theory and the evidence accumulated in the course of its extensive research application. In brief, cognitive styles are the characteristic, self-consistent modes of functioning which individuals show in their perceptual and intellectual activities. These cognitive styles are manifestations in the cognitive sphere of still broader dimensions of personal functioning which cut across diverse psychological areas. The emphasis in research on cognitive style has been on the adaptive functions served by cognitive processes in the psychological economy of the individual. This emphasis has led to a search (Witkin, 1958; Witkin, Dyk, Faterson, Goodenough and Karp, 1962; Bain, 1973) for connections and consistencies from one psychological area to another, and to the finding of formal stylistic similarities across many psychological areas. The result is a more integrated, holistic view of personality.

2a. The results are presented in two parts (1) Overall, that is, all schools (2) Individual, that is, each pupil by school. The overall results are best interpreted in terms of general curriculum planning. The individual results are best interpreted in terms of individual pupil within a particular school.
When interpreting the results, especially individual performances, remember that two different albeit interdependent attributes of cognition are being seen. Conservation refers to the level of logical cognition. Embedded Figures refers to the type of cognitive style.

HIGHLIGHTS OF RESULTS

1. Overall: there were no significant differences between Experimental and Control groups on either task, that is, both groups are performing at comparable levels of logical cognition and type of cognitive style.

2. Overall: there were no significant differences between Norm and Control on Embedded Figures and Conservation; nor between Norm and Experimental Figures; there was a significant difference between Norm and Experimental on Conservation. That is, the Control group is performing within the normative parameters for this age group; while the Experimental group is performing within the norm on cognitive style and beyond the norm on logical cognition.

3. Overall: the consistency of performance was higher for the Experimental group \((r = .35)\) than for the Control group \((r = .21)\), that is, there is a tendency for the Experimental pupil to perform both tasks at the same level of efficiency, while it is somewhat less so with the Control group. However the correlations for both groups were low.

4. Overall: the statistical trend was for the Experimental group to perform slightly better than the Control group on both tasks under all auspices.

5. Individual: the order of consistency of performance for Experimental pupils was St. Bernadette \((r = .61)\) St. Matthew \((r = .51)\) St. Martin's \((r = .09)\):

6. Individual: the order of consistency of performance for Control pupils was St. Martin's \((r = .44)\) St. Matthew \((r = .09)\) St. Bernadette \((r = -.10)\).

7. Individual: the largest trend difference between Experimental and Control pupils was found at St. Matthew's.

8. Individual: individual findings (points 5, 6, 7) usually are the result of sampling procedures, that is, randomly select another sample and a different profile would likely emerge. Hence, overall results tend to be more reliable.
CONCLUSIONS

1. The results suggest a guarded optimism. It would be premature to state that, with reference to cognitive consequences, the program is a success. The most which can be said is that the program is not having detrimental cognitive consequences.

2. The trend of findings is for the Experimental pupils to do slightly but not significantly better than the Control pupils. This type of finding is not unusual in the first few years of these programs. They are roughly equivalent to what has been found in other studies at this stage of program development.

To the examiner:
Have a copy of the Ukrainian Survey Test (Grade 1) to use for demonstration purposes during administration of the test.

Before beginning, pupils' desks should be cleared and each pupil should have two soft lead pencils or a black crayon.

Pupils should be seated in such a way as to make copying impossible.

Read the directions below clearly and distinctly. Note that instructions to the examiner are in regular type and that directions to be read aloud to the pupils are in script.

PART 1
Clusters One and Two: Listening With Comprehension

Begin by saying:

Today we are going to play a game in Ukrainian using this picture book. Do not open your book until I tell you what to do.

Distribute the test booklets to all pupils. Make certain that each pupil prints his name on his test booklet.

Then say:

Now open your book to the first page and fold the cover back like this so that you can see a big letter A near the top of the page.

Demonstrate by using a copy of the test booklet. Make certain that the pupils are at page 1 of the booklet. Point to the first row in the test booklet.

Then say: (Sample A)

Look at the row of pictures next to the letter A. I am going to say the name of one of these pictures twice in Ukrainian. I want you to draw a circle around the picture I will name. Are you ready? Listen carefully.

KIT .... KIT

Which picture do you have to circle?

Pause for pupils to circle the picture.

That's right. You have to circle the picture of the cat here.

Demonstrate by drawing a bold line around the picture, making certain that all pupils understand what has been done.

Then say: (Sample B)

Now find the letter B at the beginning of the next row, and look at the pictures in this row. I am going to tell you the name of one of these pictures in Ukrainian and I want you to draw a circle around the picture I name. Listen carefully.

What picture do you circle?
Pause for pupils to respond.

Yes, you circle the picture of the tree.

Demonstrate on your test booklet.

Then say:

Do not spend too much time drawing your circle. Remember that your circle goes around the picture.

Check to make certain that all pupils understand the marking procedure before going on.

Then say:

If you draw a circle around a picture and then want to change it, make a big cross on it. Then draw a circle around the right picture. Only one picture in each row should have a circle since there is only one right answer.

Demonstrate on blackboard.

Then say: (Sample C)

Now find the letter C at the beginning of the next row, and look at the pictures in this row. I am going to say the name of one of these pictures twice in Ukrainian. Listen carefully, and draw a circle around the picture that shows what I am saying. Are you ready?

Here it is:

\[ \text{СТІЛ} \quad \ldots \quad \text{СТІЛ} \]

What picture do you circle?

Pause for pupils to respond.

That's right. You circle picture number 3 because it shows a table.

Check once again that all pupils understand the task and how they should mark their answers. Beyond this point, pupils should receive no help answering any question.

For each question, read the directions distinctly in a normal speaking voice.

Allow a maximum of fifteen seconds for pupils to complete each item.

Read the number for each question aloud, and make sure all pupils are working at the same number.

Then say:

Now turn over the page like this. You should see a number one near the top of the page.
Demonstrate and check that all pupils are on the correct page.

Then say the following for each item, filling in the blanks from the list given.

Now look at the row of pictures next to the number one. Draw a circle around the picture that I say in Ukrainian. (Read ‘stimulus’ twice.)

PART 2
Cluster 3: Stories

Then say:

Now turn the page. You should see the letter D near the top of the page.

PAGE 9

Check that all pupils are on the correct page.
Demonstrate by using a copy of the test booklet. Make certain the pupils are at the correct page.

Then say: (Sample D)

Now I am going to read you a short story in Ukrainian. I want you to put down your pencils and listen very carefully. When I am finished, I will read it one more time so that you understand it very well. Then I will ask you questions about it. Now listen carefully to the story. I will read it twice.

Я йду в школу.

XTO Z MOJ CIESTP?

Now I will read the story again. Keep your pencils on the desk. Listen carefully. Try to remember the story. (Reread story.)

Then say: (Sample D)

Now pick up your pencils and look at the row of pictures next to the letter D. I am going to ask a question about the story I just told you. Find the picture that shows the answer, and draw a circle around it. Here is the first question. Listen carefully.

Я її бачу.

XTO Z MOJ CIESTP?

Which picture do you have to circle?

Pause for pupils to respond.
