ABSTRACT

This articulation instructional objective guide for executive secretary/business education contains summary information on sixteen blocks (courses) of instruction. They are the following: introduction to business, business mathematics, personal development, typing—beginning, records management, business machine—calculating, business machine—reproduction, typing—advanced, shorthand, accounting—basic, office procedures, data processing—concepts and control, machine transcription, word processing, office management, and business law 1. Information for the instructional blocks include these elements: list of job tasks, course description, instructional hours, instructional objectives, skills and related technical information to be taught, performance standards, standardized performance test items, and equipment requirements. Also included are recommended academic subjects for community college/technical institute secretary programs and high school business education programs, and job-task listing for executive secretary. Also available are the Project Report (CE 019 107), Policy and Procedures Guide (CE 019 108), and Instructional Objective Guides (CE 019 110 and 111). (JH)
This articulated instructional objectives guide is designed for use as a reference in the articulation of occupational programs and to foster competency based instruction and evaluation. It is intended primarily for use by instructors at the post-secondary level and teachers at the secondary level conducting like courses in the same occupational program. The guide considers commonalities in like occupational courses between high school and CC/TI (Community Colleges/Technical Institutes) programs in the same occupation and implements three basic concepts.

The commonality exists by virtue of the requirement by law that North Carolina community colleges and technical institutes conduct "Open Door" instruction in occupational programs. Obviously, such instruction must start from the beginning of the total occupational program, often resulting in duplication of instruction conducted in high school. This fact created the requirement for articulation which, if properly conducted, removes the need for the post-secondary student to repeat occupational instruction successfully completed at the secondary level. Such students usually require only the more advanced occupational instruction not received in their high school.

The three basic concepts involved in occupational program articulation between secondary and post-secondary levels of education are:

1. To ensure that occupational instruction conducted at the high school level is transferable for credit to the CC/TI in the same occupational program, it is essential that the occupational instruction components (courses) content be standardized so as to be identifiable with one or more like components at the CC/TI level.

2. To ensure that the student has acquired sufficient skill in job task performance to be given post-secondary credit for high school work, the teachers and instructors must both use the same task performance standards.

3. To ensure that student occupational qualification recognized for employment or course credit is both valid and reliable, it is necessary to standardize test items and procedures in the evaluation of student job task performance.

Instructional content standardization is based upon job tasks considered necessary for job qualification by the employers. The performance standards standardization is based upon the performance standards required by the industry, business or profession for initial job entry qualification. The ability to perform job tasks and meet initial job entry task performance standards recognized and accepted by employers must take precedence over personal opinions regarding standards or articulation cannot be readily accomplished. Test items and evaluation procedures for the same job task should be developed jointly by the instructors and teachers concerned.

THE ARTICULATION RESEARCH PROJECT

Background: The Articulation Research Project was initiated on 1 September 1974 as a State Board of Education approved joint effort by the President of James Sprunt Institute and the Superintendent of the Duplin County Public Schools. It was and is supported by the North Carolina Occupational Research Unit, State Department of Public Education with funding provided jointly by the State Departments of Public Instruction and Community Colleges.

The occupational program instructors of James Sprunt Institute and the teachers from the Duplin County High Schools, assisted by appropriate occupational advisors, acting as a joint area committee were responsible for the development of the instructional material content of the initial articulated instructional objectives guide for this program. That guide was in turn updated, revised, and refined by a state level committee to provide a pilot model for a state articulated instructional objectives guide for this program. This guide will be used by all secondary and post-secondary institutions and teachers who have entered into local area articulation agreements for this program.

The state level committee that developed the revisions and refinements to the Duplin Area Committee produced guide consisted of representatives from each local area joint advisory and program committee for the occupation concerned that is operational in the areas of the state that have entered into local area articulation agreements. Each local area sent both secondary and post-secondary occupational teachers/instructors as representatives for each articulated program, plus at least one advisor for each program, to participate as the state advisory and program committee. Where possible, a state occupational education staff member from both the Department of Public Instruction and the Department of Community Colleges participated in the role of acting executive secretary for each joint state advisory and program committee. This committee acting as a whole performed the actions cited above. The joint state advisory and program committee members participating from the local areas and state staff personnel are listed below:

Articulated instructional objectives guides are expected to serve the following purposes:

1. Serve as the primary vehicle for the articulation of subject matter in like occupational programs between the high schools and the technical institutes/community colleges, through use by instructors at both levels.

2. Provide a listing of the minimum tasks that a worker is expected to perform in the conduct of a specific level job in the occupation of concern.

3. Identify the primary detailed instructional objectives which are based upon the task listing. The tasks are listed in the sequence of complexity, with the least complex tasks being listed first, except where a task must be performed as a prerequisite to performance of another. The sequence of task listing is expected to influence the sequence of instruction. Task listings are internally grouped as duties or blocks of instruction.

4. Identify the skills (Process Objectives) and related technical information which must be taught and learned to accomplish the instructional objective. These represent the minimum skills and related information required for adequate occupational proficiency to task performance.

5. Designate the instructional contact hours considered necessary to conduct the required instruction. This is an estimate by the instructors of the area program and advisory committee as to the time required to teach the average learner to perform the task and, in most cases, to provide the opportunity to the learner to perform more than one practical work exercise to gain occupational proficiency. This time estimate is based upon the assumption that the instructor will have available the essential equipment, facilities, and instructional aids required to conduct the instruction, with the class size limited to the number of students shown on the equipment list.

6. Identify the performance standards to be met for occupational proficiency in the task. Performance standards used are those considered to be minimum business or industry standards such as are found in the professional standards guides issued by occupational associations of the business or industry. The standards are those which the learner must be capable of meeting upon completion of his program or course of instruction, if he is to be considered as qualified to perform at a specific job level or a specific job, in the occupation of the program. The ability to meet the listed standards of performance will also be considered as qualification for advanced instruction in that occupational program.

7. Provide a guide in the conduct of sequential occupational competency instruction by duties or blocks, resulting in qualification by the learner to perform limited skill specialist jobs of progressively higher skills until the program objective is reached, i.e., file clerk to executive secretary; brake technician to automotive mechanic, etc. Unless it is essential that a learner be given instruction in a specific block or duty as a prerequisite for instruction in a subsequent block, the complexity sequence established should be followed. As the learner becomes proficient in the performance of tasks in successive more complex blocks, he gains more marketable competencies that are identifiable as the lower level job qualifications of a specialist, while working towards higher skills. This provides an opportunity for even the slow student to eventually gain sufficient skills to perform adequately as a specialist at some level in the occupation, despite the fact he may lack the ability to complete the program. The same holds true for the learner who has progressed satisfactorily through "several" initial blocks of occupational instruction (depending upon the program) and then for some valid reason is unable to complete the program or must leave school. Such flexibility in a program of instruction permits the maximum number of students to benefit from the instruction. Standardized sequences of instructional-block presentation also ensure that lateral articulation can be practiced between the high schools of a local area and simplifies vertical articulation of subject matter with the local post-secondary institution.

8. Provides a listing of equipment required to conduct the program of instruction. Equipment listed is that considered to be the type and quantity essential for the conduct of instruction leading to job qualification in the occupation, with the class limited to the size stated. If class size exceeds the number for which the equipment is provided, instruction will normally be degraded or take longer. In some cases, expensive items of equipment, that have limited use, can be shared between schools, if adequate transportation and scheduling support is provided by the county school office. In some instances it may be possible to delay teaching of several tasks involving special equipment and then arrange to take the class to the location of such equipment for instruction.

9. Provides a list of standardized performance test items to be used in the determination of occupational proficiency. The test items attached to each block of instruction are for the most part "outline type" test items, showing the test objective, since they lack the specific detailed information which must be provided for use as a performance evaluation vehicle. This would be provided at the time of use. These test items are designed to be valid and reliable means of evaluation of proficiency in the performance of a specific task. Performance standards are provided with each test item. The test items listed cannot be easily compromised, as long as the specifics are not provided, and could be used as study guides.

10. It is recognized that there may be unlisted tasks that some employers may require the worker to do in the occupation, when in their employment. The tasks listed are the minimum requirements for qualification for the job under average circumstances on a regional basis. The tasks are not limited to a specific area employment situation or employer. Instructors may teach more skills and related technical information than is shown in the guides. Such information should be limited to the students who have completed the requirements for the tasks concerned in the instructional objectives guide. Normally the addition of tasks to those in the guide should be based upon local committee agreed area requirements and be taught by all schools teaching the block of instruction.

11. Up-dating and correction of items in the instructional objectives guides: The course instructors are encouraged to view the instructional objectives guides critically, in an effort to ensure that the contents are valid and current with business and industry requirements. Recommendations for change or correction should be submitted to the executive secretary of the committee, who should then assemble and present them to the advisory and program committee as a whole, for review and possible adoption.

12. Instructional Blocks (Duties): Under normal circumstances the instructor/teacher should not plan to conduct instruction in a given articulated block of instruction unless the capability exists to conduct all of the instruction to meet the instructional objectives, with the result that the successful learner is occupationally qualified to perform the tasks identified with the block. This of course means that in several cases the high schools will lack the capability to conduct a full program of instruction owing to lack of resources or instructor time. In such situations, the successful learner, on leaving high school, is certified as qualified as a limited skill specialist or lower level job in the occupation can seek employment at that level or he can go on to the local post-secondary institution and complete the program. The front cover sheet for each block of instruction shows the total instructional contact time allocated for high school instruction and for the post-secondary institution. In most cases, the high schools are allocated more time for the same instructional block owing to the usually large classes, limited physical resources, often less learner maturity, at times less laboratory time, and more administrative interruptions. However, there may be instances where the high schools are allocated less time in a given instructional block. This is caused by the fact that the post-secondary institution covers the block (Automotive Electrical System) in its entirety, for occupational qualification, whereas the high schools will be expected to cover only that part related as a prerequisite or parallel to another block. In this case, conduct of a portion of the block instructional objectives is appropriate. The overall philosophy to be applied in occupational programs is that it is better to ensure that the learner is fully qualified to perform all of the tasks in a limited group of blocks or modules in an occupation and qualify as a specialist, than to be only familiar with a large number of tasks and occupationally qualified to perform none of them.

13. Most occupational programs will contain certain basic blocks of instruction without which a student would not be considered occupationally qualified at any level. Such blocks are normally identified as blocks 0.0 to 1.0 and on occasions blocks 2.0 and 2.5. Such blocks usually are base blocks and should be taught early or first in the program sequence.

To fully conduct the instruction peculiar to this block, an automatic typewriter should be available with priority to instructional classes. The bulk of instruction in this course should be application in nature.
RELATED GENERAL INFORMATION:

Word processing is a concept related to the rapid administration and production of finished written communications from the verbal or written word. This concept has been developed to more efficiently use personnel and equipment engaged in such activity in the modern office. Greater volume and more rapid production of high-quality written material can result from the centralization of word processing personnel and equipment under one supervisor. Word processing centers make maximum use of automatic typewriters and transcription machines. Career patterns as administrative secretaries or production secretaries/stenographers can result from word processing instruction.
