PATTERNS OF BEHAVIOR

Students will:

know how to apply objective techniques in guiding the behavior of children.

know how to set appropriate behavioral guidelines based on children's stages of development.

know how to help children maintain a sense of self-worth.

know how to foster the development of independence and self-discipline in children.

know how to apply appropriate guidance techniques with exceptional children.
COURSE GOAL

Students will know how to apply objective techniques in guiding the behavior of children.

ACTIVITIES

Present students with a hypothetical situation in which a child exhibits a behavioral problem. As a class, discuss various approaches to investigating possible causes. Approaches might include observation, parent conferences, group discussion, or interaction with the child. Using the overhead projector, list the possible causes of the problem behavior.

Simulate handling a behavioral problem. Ask students to discuss how they feel about the approach used, and any other approaches they might have attempted and why.

COURSE GOAL

Students will know how to set appropriate behavioral guidelines based on children's stages of development.

ACTIVITIES

As a class, discuss how labeling children might affect success or failure in handling problem behavior.

Show the filmstrip "Your Child and Discipline" (268). Discuss as a class.

Have students research and report in class on a variety of guidance techniques. References might include:

Dreikurs, Children the Challenge (44)
Patterson and Gullion, Living With Children: New Methods for Parents and Teachers (100)
Dobson, Dare to Discipline (39)

Ask child care personnel to class to discuss methods for guiding problem behavior. Which techniques seem to yield the best results?

Discuss adult-child interactions in the following situations:

Behavioral limits set by an adult. Why does the adult set the limits? How are they defined and maintained? How might the child respond?
An adult fails to define behavioral limits clearly. How might the child react?

After defining behavioral limits, an adult fails to take any action to maintain it. How might the child react?

As a class, discuss and list acceptable and unacceptable behavior patterns in children. How was this behavior treated when the students were children, and have approaches changed? What makes certain types of behavior "right" and other types "wrong"? How do we learn what is right and wrong? Does everyone have the same perspective? How might personal beliefs affect the handling of behavioral situations in an objective manner?

Compile slips of paper on which behavioral situations are written. In small groups, consider how children would act at different stages of development given a specific situation. How might a child’s stage of development determine the method used for handling the situation? Discuss results as a class.

COURSE GOAL

Students will know how to help children maintain a sense of self-worth.

ACTIVITIES

Talk about various guidance techniques—positive suggestion, alternative suggestion, love and acceptance. How might the technique used depend upon the specific circumstance?

Discuss positive and negative suggestions. How might each have its specific results?

Simulate positive and negative suggestions in handling behavior. Which approach is preferred? Which proved the more successful?

List situations where making alternative suggestions may be the best approach. Discuss how providing choices assists children in developing decision-making skills and feelings of self-worth.

COURSE GOAL

Students will know how to foster the development of independence and self-discipline in children.
ACTIVITIES

As a class, discuss stressful situations which children may encounter. How might a child deal with each?

Discuss how atmospheres can be established which are conducive to expression as well as acceptance.

ASSESSMENT

Why assess? Assessment is critical to sound instructional planning. Once a school and its community reach a mutual understanding of what schooling is to accomplish (once goals and graduation requirements are set), there is a need to know whether such outcomes are being reached.

In the Goal-Based Planning for Child Care Programs section of this guide, four sets of desired outcomes were identified: state goals, district goals, program goals and course goals.

Once instructional plans are implemented, the instructor must pose the question: Are students attaining desired outcomes, and is the child care program helping them to reach those outcomes? The quality of the answers to these questions depends on how well assessment activities are designed and carried out.

Assessment activities involve both group and individual approaches: how well students do in the program as a group helps determine the course of the program; how well students do individually helps instructors map out teaching strategies.

The interrelationship is shown below. Assessment of each of the elements shown in the figure will provide answers to particular kinds of questions.

ASSESSMENTS OF GROUP AND INDIVIDUAL PERFORMANCES

- GROUP PERFORMANCES related to...
  - District Goals
  - Program Goals
  - Course Goals

  to identify GROUP NEEDS...

  to IMPROVE PROGRAMS by...
  - adjusting plans, goals, course major activities

- INDIVIDUAL PERFORMANCES related to...
  - Competencies
  - Personal Goals
  - Learning Strengths & Weaknesses

  to identify INDIVIDUAL NEEDS...

  to IMPROVE INSTRUCTION by...
  - adapting strategies, practice materials, performance requirements

District goal assessment answers the question: To what extent are students attaining the outcomes of schooling the community and its schools desire?

Program goal assessment answers the question: To what extent are students attaining the outcomes child care teachers and curriculum planners desire?

Course goal assessment answers the question: To what extent are students attaining the outcomes child care teachers desire as acceptable entry-level employment skills?

Assessment of personal goals answers the question: To what extent is a student attaining those outcomes designated as of greatest personal importance, need, or interest?

Assessment of learning strengths and weaknesses answers the question: What characteristics reflected by a student’s performance can be seen as enhancing or inhibiting attainment of desired outcomes?

In seeking answers to these questions, student performances which can be accepted as indicators of attainment of desired outcomes must be clear. These performance indicators serve to guide the assessment activity in producing the most needed information.

Assessment might involve several of the following approaches:

- Third party assessment (teachers, parents, educators, advisory committees)
- Administrative assessment
- Student assessment of the program and instruction, as well as the level of personal satisfaction
- Use of student monitoring data
- Student pretest and post-test to determine student growth
- Student follow-up study
- Survey questionnaires
- A child care assessment/planning guide

APPENDIX C

STATUTES GOVERNING CHILD CARE IN OREGON

In this section, the statutes governing standards for facilities for children in Oregon are presented. Licensing regulations pamphlets are available through the Children's Services Division; and, as these regulations as well as legislation are constantly changing, teachers need to amend this information periodically.

DAY CARE FACILITIES

418.805 Definitions for ORS 418.805 to 418.885. As used in ORS 418.805 to 418.885, unless the context requires otherwise:

1) "Babysitter" means a person who provides day care services for children if the compensation therefor is paid directly by the parent or legal guardian or if the service is provided without any compensation in either of the following:

(a) The home of the parent or guardian; or
(b) The home of the babysitter:

(A) If the service is provided for not more than five children for eight or more hours in a 24-hour period; and
(B) If the service is provided for not more than four other children for not more than three consecutive hours and not more than six total hours in a 24-hour period but for not more than a total of nine children including the babysitter's children at any one time.

2) "Child" means a child under 15 years of age.

3) "Day care" means care provided to a child during a part of the 24 hours of the day, with or without compensation. "Day care" does not include care provided:

(a) In the home of the child;
(b) By the child's parent, guardian, or person acting in loco parentis;
(c) By a person related to the child by blood or marriage within the fourth degree as determined by civil law;
(d) On an occasional basis by a person not ordinarily engaged in providing day care;
(e) By providers of medical services; or
(f) By a babysitter.

4) "Day care facility" means any facility that provides day care to three or more children, including a day nursery, nursery school group, family day care home or similar unit operating under any name, but not including any:

(a) Facility providing care that is primarily educational, unless provided to a preschool child for more than four hours a day.
(b) Facility providing care that is primarily supervised training in a specific subject, including but not limited to dancing, drama, music, or religion.
(c) Facility providing care that is primarily an incident of group athletic or social activities sponsored by or under the supervision of an organized club or hobby group.
(d) Facility operated by a school district, political subdivision of this state or a governmental agency.
(e) Residential facility licensed under ORS 443.400 to 443.455 and subsection (2) of 443.991.
(f) Facility operated by a babysitter. [1969 c.641 §1; 1977 c.717 §20; 1979 c.745 §1]

A pamphlet entitled Rules Governing Standards for Day Care Facilities, (revised 12/79) from Children's Services has been used to provide the following information:
Any day care facility where six or more children are in care must meet the regulations according to the kind of facility, and hold a valid state certificate of approval.

In addition to the certificate of approval the facility must meet the standards set by the State Fire Marshal and by the Health Department. Attendance regulations and personnel requirements vary somewhat, depending on the ages of the children and the number of children in a facility. Qualifications for personnel are based on educational background or experience, and age. The director requires the most education or experience, and the assistants and aides the least. Other personnel are: child care supervisor and child care workers (school age day care facilities), head teacher and teachers (day care facilities), group parent (infant and toddler day care facilities) and operator (day care family group home facilities).

Younger children require a higher adult to child ratio with the ratio decreasing slightly as the age of the children increases. In addition, each facility is required to have a daily program and the children's immunizations must be kept up to date. Medical policies, such as arranging for a licensed physician or hospital in case of an emergency, available first aid supplies, and notifying parents in case of injuries or accidents, are included. In addition, standards are set for sanitation, safety, the physical plant, transportation, nutritional needs and record keeping.

As stated in the Children's Services Division regulations, centers receiving federal funds must have a certificate of compliance with the Federal Day Care Requirements. Additional requirements must be met to obtain this certificate.

Child care services programs in the high schools are not covered under specific state legislation, because they provide care that is primarily educational and less than four hours a day. Teachers should use the day care licensing and basic elementary program guidelines, however, as a basis for meeting the needs of the preschool and high school students. A certificated teacher and an aide are appropriate staffing for a maximum of 24 children. The room should be safe, clean, well-lighted, and close to a restroom. The food provided should be within the guidelines of the food services program of the school district.
ADDITIONAL PROGRAMS

238.068 (Repealed by 1986 c.100 §484) Definitions for ORS 338.068 and 338.068. As used in ORS 338.062 and 338.068, unless the context requires otherwise:

(2) If the Superintendent of Public Instruction approves the application for reimbursement, he shall cause the district to be reimbursed in the amount claimed. If the moneys specifically appropriated for payment of such claims are insufficient to pay the full reimbursable amount of all approved claims for the school year, the reimbursement to each district shall be prorated according to the ratio that the total amount of funds available bears to the total amount that would be required to pay in full all approved claims for the school year. INTRODUCTION

ASSESSMENT OF A CHILD CARE SERVICES PROGRAM

The following assessment instrument is designed for use by school districts to determine the status and needs of a child care services program. It can provide an overview of the program in a short period of time.

This tool may be used in several different ways: as a guideline for setting up a program; it can be used by staff members or a district to evaluate their own program and it can be used by an outside evaluation team or consultant to recommend further program development.

Assessment is defined as a measurement of progress at any point of development. How far the program has progressed, what stage of development has been achieved—these are the kinds of questions to be answered. Assessment of a program can be made without evaluation, but a program can rarely be evaluated without assessment. Evaluation allows judgment of how well goals have been accomplished. Assessment provides information on how well goals are being accomplished.

Directions for completing the assessment:

Criteria are rated on a scale of zero to three. Circle the appropriate number. Zero indicates nonexistence; one, poor; two, average; and three, excellent. Space for comment is provided following individual criteria. A page for summarizing the comments into commendations and recommendations is the final step in the assessment.
