This bulletin prepared by the Media and Library Advisory Committee to the State Board of Education of Illinois provides descriptions of task competencies and responsibilities for library and media staff members. The first of three sections delineates the professional responsibilities of media specialists in areas of administrative and curricular concern. The second section outlines the responsibilities of library technical assistants or technicians who function under the supervision of the media specialists. Those responsibilities are detailed under the categories of patron services, cataloging duties, processing duties, record keeping, and evaluation duties. The final section specifies the circulation, record keeping, supportive, and secretarial duties of the clerical media staff. (MER)
Staffing Your Library/Media Center

Jack Witkowsky, Chairman
State Board of Education

Joseph M. Cronin
State Superintendent of Education

Department of Local Educational Agency Services
OVERVIEW

A good library/media program supports all curricular areas. Such a program must include staff, resources, and facilities.

The use and the role of the library/media center must be emphasized in every teacher training institution. Courses qualifying teachers to use and to instruct students in the use of the information available in all types of media must be included as well. It is only by utilizing adequate and qualified staff that a curriculum can, whether innovative of traditional, enjoy success. The media specialist, trained to acquire, organize, and evaluate resources, is the professional team member especially prepared to effect curricular successes in their most cost-effective manner through the library/media center.

The Media and Library Advisory Committee to the State Board of Education of the Illinois Office of Education offers the following suggestions for task competencies and responsibilities of library/media staff members.

A complete understanding of the broad scope of job responsibilities for the varying levels of library/media staff members will assist school administrators in facilitating cost-effective staffing patterns at appropriate compensation levels. It can also help identify components of quality library/media programs.
