Intended to encourage the appropriate and informed use of resource sharing mechanisms and services through the establishment of common policies and procedures throughout Indiana, this manual brings together in one document a description of current resource sharing activities in the state, codifies general practices, and provides guidelines based on existing interlibrary loan patterns. In order to facilitate review, use, and revision, it is organized so that each major aspect of resource sharing is dealt with in a separate part. These aspects include interlibrary loan guidelines, reciprocal borrowing, document delivery, and distribution and revision policy and procedure. Within each part the material is arranged so that the policy governing an operation is presented before the procedure by which it is carried out. Policies are printed on white paper and procedures on yellow to facilitate use. Fourteen appendices present additional reference material including a user comment sheet. (RAA)

PART I. INTRODUCTION
A. FOREWORD

This manual results from the efforts of many Indiana librarians. Specifically, the Network Coordinating Committee (NCC) of the Indiana State Library Advisory Committee (ISLAC) appointed a Task Force to review interlibrary loan in Indiana. The specific charge to the task force was:

"To gather, review and analyze pertinent statistics in order to recommend a new phased-in statewide ILL plan for all Indiana libraries. Suggested topics for study and review include among others: TWX, OCLC, the present ILL code, communications, and standards for statistics."

The results of the Task Force deliberations are presented in this report.

The composition of the Task Force changed over a period of time. Former members of the Task Force are: Harold Baker, Indiana State University Library; Dan Fast, Stone Hills Area Library Services Authority; Sharon Wiseman, Indiana State Library; and Larry Griffin and Jim Self, Indiana University Libraries. The Task Force was appointed by Earl Tannenbaum, Indiana State University Library, who served as Chairperson of the Network Coordinating Committee. The support given to the Task Force by Mr. Tannenbaum was vital in getting its work underway and he is hereby acknowledged. Mr. Ray Ewick, Director of the Indiana State Library, in addition to encouraging this effort, made available the resources necessary to issue and distribute this publication.

We also wish to acknowledge assistance provided to us by the staff of the Extension Division of the Indiana State Library, ALSAs, INCOLSA, and the many librarians who helped throughout the study.

And finally, special mention is due Debra Renbarger of INCOLSA who formatted and typed this manual. Comments about this report should be sent to the attention of the Network Coordinating Committee in care of the Indiana State Library.

A long-range objective of the Network Coordinating Committee of the Indiana State Library Advisory Council is improved services to users through effective interlibrary cooperation. Traditionally, resource sharing has been a focal point of interlibrary cooperation. Network technology, the information explosion, and economic pressures have stimulated increased resource sharing activity. It seemed useful, therefore, to try to bring together in one document a description of current resource sharing activities in Indiana.

This manual reflects our current state of resource sharing. The section on interlibrary loan is quite detailed; in contrast there is at present little to say about document delivery as a statewide service.

Both the Indiana Governor's Conference on Library and Information Services and the White House Conference on Library and Information Services emphasized the need for improved interlibrary networking to meet the information needs of our citizens. This manual is an effort toward this larger goal.
C. USE OF THIS MANUAL

This manual concentrates on resource sharing from a statewide perspective. Its objective is to encourage appropriate and informed use of resource sharing mechanisms and services. As each library adopts and follows common policies and procedures, more efficient sharing should result and user services should improve.

Since no statewide resource sharing or ILL Code now exists, this manual codifies general practices and provides guidelines based on existing interlibrary loan patterns. The intent of this manual is not to impose rigid guidelines, but to offer several options as described along with recommended procedures for each.

To facilitate review, use, and revision, this manual is organized so that each major aspect of resource sharing is dealt with in a separate part. Within each part, the material is arranged so that the policy governing an operation is presented before the procedure by which it is carried out.

To facilitate use of the manual, policies and procedures are interleaved but printed on paper of different color. The Appendix presents additional reference material which either could not be readily accommodated in the text or which might be of interest to the majority of users.

Plans are to issue revisions and updates to this manual on an annual basis. A comment sheet is provided in Appendix M. Please duplicate this sheet and forward your suggestions so that this manual can be improved each year.

This manual may be duplicated for wider dissemination within each library as required. Questions or interpretation of the manual should be referred to the Extension Division of the Indiana State Library.
PART II: INTERLIBRARY LOAN GUIDELINES

Section A: Introduction
Section B: Borrowing Policy and Procedures
Section C: Lending Policies and Procedures
Section D: Interlibrary Loan Reporting and Statistics
Section E: Interlibrary Loan Glossary
Background Information

Library users have the right to pursue all possible avenues in seeking information. To help them overcome the information limits inherent in any given local collection, libraries have negotiated over the years various interlibrary arrangements to open other collections to their users. These arrangements include: visiting privileges, reciprocal borrowing, deposit and revolving collections and interlibrary loan. This section focuses on the interlibrary loan method of user access.

To help prevent possible abuses of this cooperative service, it is common to negotiate certain protocols, policies, and procedures. Thus, the National Interlibrary Loan Code describes those arrangements that have been negotiated at the broadest, i.e., nationwide, level. This code, in general, restricts interlibrary loan privileges to users needing material for "serious study" and "research." (The National Interlibrary Loan Code is presented in Appendix A of this manual.)

To supplement this code, many states have adopted codes that are more liberal. These codes allow users to seek materials on interlibrary loan for educational, recreational, and cultural purposes in addition to serious study and research. As well, these state codes have tended to be more liberal in the types of materials that may be borrowed.

Thus, the tradition has been established that the state responsibility for meeting user information needs through interlibrary loan is broader than the national responsibility. Among factors contributing to this tradition are:

1) the idea that the user should be given as rapid service as possible and that document delivery is distance dependent,

2) the belief that resources should be accessed in a hierarchical fashion - e.g., local area, state, regional, national, and international, both to distribute the load and to improve delivery as noted above,

3) the fact that, when information about holdings was limited, a few large research libraries bore the brunt of national interlibrary loan, and

4) Federal funding for interlibrary services (e.g., LSCA) was distributed at the state level, whereas no national funding is made available for inter-state interlibrary loan services.

Over the past several decades, then, interlibrary loan has become an essential service for libraries of all types that want to help their users obtain information without being limited by the budget and scope of the local collection. However, it is a strong tenet of librarianship that interlibrary loan is an adjunct to, and not a substitute for, collection development at the local library. Each library must maintain a collection adequate to meet most of the information needs of its primary clientele.

Users are best served when interlibrary loan operates efficiently, with as few restrictions as possible. Both users and libraries share responsibility if the interlibrary system is to work well. While interlibrary loan is one of the best examples of public and private resource sharing, it rests basically on the assumption of equity. When all is said and done, no library is funded to serve another library's users and interlibrary loan is inherently far more expensive than a local loan. In general, interlibrary loan has not been recognized as a library function requiring a line item in the budget - it has been supported from "good will." As users make more sophisticated demands on local collections, interlibrary loan has increased and the need for more consistency and standardization of procedure has become apparent. (This manual recommends actions needed and practices to be followed to promote an increasingly effective interlibrary loan service for Indiana library users.

If your library should choose to participate in interlibrary loan, several maxims should guide your provision of an ILL service.

1. Each library should inform its users of the purpose of interlibrary loan and of the library's interlibrary borrowing policy.
2. The interlibrary loan staff of each library should be familiar with, and use, relevant interlibrary loan policy and procedural documents and aids.
3. Since interlibrary loan costs time and money, policies and procedures need to be planned carefully to increase efficiency.
4. Keep the users' needs in mind because they are the ultimate beneficiaries of interlibrary loan services.

Before initiating each interlibrary loan request each library should consider four other alternatives:

1. Has there been a reference interview which uncovered the fact that the prospective interlibrary loan borrower did not use your own library effectively and that your collection can actually meet the user's needs?
2. Is there a continuing demand for the requested material so that your library should buy it rather than borrow it?

3. Is reciprocal borrowing a better solution for the user than interlibrary loan?

4. Would it be more efficient, in the case of requests for periodical and serial articles, to purchase the needed article or issue from a reprint supplier?

A consideration of these alternatives can reduce the expense and increase the effectiveness of interlibrary loan service.

There are two general sets of circumstances leading to an ILL request: The librarian may independently determine that ILL is necessary to satisfy user needs; or a patron may specifically request such service. Local policies and procedures are needed for both situations. This manual is designed to aid the library in dealing with both of these approaches to ILL.
Part II, Interlibrary Loan Guidelines, is divided into sections by the borrowing and lending function, and their two related concerns of statistical record keeping and financial support. The borrowing and lending sections are divided into subsections by individual steps. Within each subsection, the material is divided into policy statements and procedures to be followed. The policy statements are printed first on white paper. Immediately following each policy are specific procedures relating to the policy. The procedures are printed on a different color paper to enable the reader of this manual to readily distinguish policy from procedure. It is hoped that this arrangement will facilitate the use of the manual in staff training by allowing a staff member to easily find the correct procedure to follow for each policy.
Section B: BORROWING POLICY

1. BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities of Borrowing Libraries

1. A. General (BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities)

1) Interlibrary borrowing does not relieve any library of the responsibility of developing its own collection and providing reference service so that the collection may be used effectively. Each library is expected to provide the resources to meet the usual needs of its users.

2) Borrowing libraries are responsible for defining users eligible for interlibrary loans but are encouraged to make interlibrary loans as broadly accessible as possible to every user.

3) Unless permitted by local or regional agreements, borrowing libraries will not ordinarily request:
   a) Items in recurring demand in their own libraries;
   b) Rare materials;
   c) A large number of items and/or copies for one person at any one time from any single library;
   d) Duplicates of titles already owned, unless the local copy is missing;
   e) Unique materials that would be difficult or impossible to replace.
Section B: BORROWING PROCEDURE

1. BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities of Borrowing Libraries

1. A. General (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

Each library shall establish local procedures to ensure compliance with the policies articulated in Section B:1.A.
1. B. ILL Interview (BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities)

Borrowing libraries are responsible for interviewing prospective interlibrary loan users to be sure that they have used their local library effectively and that their requests are directly relevant to their needs.
1. B. ILL Interview (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

An interview is an important first step when a user asks for an interlibrary loan. Goals of this interview are to determine whether the local library has been used effectively and whether the material requested is likely to satisfy the user’s needs. Both of these goals can be met if the interviewer asks questions to elicit the following information:

1) Any deadline for the receipt of material.
2) The extent to which local resources have been utilized.
3) The specific purpose for which material is requested.
4) Source of cited publications

Depending on the answers to these questions, the library may recommend ILL or other modes of resource sharing. (Sample ILL interviews are included in Appendix B.)
1. C. Item Identification and Verification (BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities)

The borrowing library should use standard bibliographic techniques to provide as complete a bibliographic verification as possible of requested materials. This will enable the lending library to determine quickly and easily if it has the item requested.
1. C. Item Identification and Verification (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

1) General guidelines for citations.
   If possible do not use initials or abbreviations unless these initials or abbreviations are the actual title of the item. Abbreviated citations, when the borrowing library is unable to interpret the abbreviation, must be cited exactly as given in the original reference. There will be times when all the information needed on a request will not be available, however requests should contain as much information as possible.

2) Item Verification
   Verification means to establish the existence of a particular item and to supply a complete bibliographical citation. If a request cannot be verified, indicate this fact on the ILL request form with a notation of the sources checked, and if possible the specific source of reference from which the user learned about the item.

   When an item is located in one of the verification tools, give the standard abbreviation or name of the source and as much information as necessary to verify the citation.

3) Suggested Tools and Sources
   Below is a list of suggested tools and sources for bibliographic verification. Libraries having access to computer data bases will generally make this their first priority in searching.

1. D. Location-Identification (BORROWING POLICY – Responsibilities)

1) The borrowing library agrees to make every effort to locate material requested using locally available sources.

2) To make ILL work effectively, the borrowing library will normally follow a hierarchical order in its quest for materials: i.e., local, ALTA area, state, regional, national and international sources.

3) The State Resource Center libraries will not normally handle an ILL request for which location has not been verified.
1. D. Location Identification (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

1) The borrowing library or ALSA Center is expected to use all sources available to it to determine the location of the material being requested.

2) When a specific location of a requested item is found, identify the holding library clearly and cite the source where the location information was found. When a location for a request has not been found indicate specifically on the request form: "Location not verified."

3) Some sources of location information are the following:

1. E. Copyright law (BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities)

The borrowing library is responsible for complying with the Copyright Law (Title 17, U.S. Code), and its accompanying guidelines. Further references on copyright are provided in the bibliography in Appendix N.

Current compliance policy requires that:

1) The borrowing library must indicate CCG or CCL on every request.

2) The borrowing library must maintain records of all requests for copies. These records must be retained for three calendar years.

3) Libraries are responsible for displaying copyright notices as required by the Copyright Law.
1. E. Copyright law (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

1) Compliance with Copyright Law and Guidelines (CCG/GGL) - When making an interlibrary loan request, the requesting library must indicate either CCG (Conforms to Copyright Guidelines) or CCL (Conforms to Copyright Law) on the request.

   a. CCG: Conforms to Copyright Guidelines - CCG will indicate that the request is in conformity to the "Guidelines for the Proviso of Subsection 108(g)(2)." These guidelines were developed by the National Commission on New Technological Uses of Copyrighted Works (CONTU), have become known as the CONTU Guidelines, and relate directly to interlibrary loan.

   CCG is checked on the interlibrary loan request form, or the code CCG transmitted, when the request is in conformity with the CONTU Guidelines. Keep in mind that these Guidelines apply only to two general categories of materials: Copyrighted periodicals published within five years prior to the date of request, and excerpts from other printed works under copyright protection. CCG should be checked when:

   i. A copyrighted periodical article less than five years old is requested. A library may receive from another library or archives up to five copies per calendar year of articles published in a given periodical within the last five calendar years. Only five may be received from that five year run. If the demand is greater than five per year, the borrowing library should consider a subscription.

ii. A copyrighted article or excerpts from a book which the requesting library owns or has on order but which the borrowing library is unable to supply promptly. CCG is checked on the box of the form, but these requests are not charged against the five per year limitation.

iii. Excerpt from a copyrighted book. Every year for as long as that book is copyrighted, a library may receive five interlibrary loan photocopies of excerpts. If demand is beyond five per year, the requesting library should try to purchase the full work.

b. CCL: Conforms to Copyright Law - Use of the code CCL will mean that the request is legitimate because it is authorized elsewhere in the copyright law. CCL is checked on the interlibrary loan request form, or the code CCL transmitted, when the request is legitimate because it is authorized by parts of the Copyright Law other than the CONTU Guidelines. CCL is transmitted under the following circumstances:

i. The request is for periodical material older than five years. A library might need and could receive more than five copies a year, according to the needs of the local users.
E. Copyright law (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

iii. Use of Records

Before making a request, the borrowing library must check its records.

If the number of previous requests filled does not exceed the CONTU Guidelines, the request may be made.

If the request exceeds CONTU Guidelines, at least three courses of action are possible.

a) The library may borrow the original work.
b) The library may request permission from the copyright holder to make copies, with or without payment of a royalty.
c) The library may obtain the copy and pay the royalty through the Copyright Clearance Center.

(See Appendix C.)

iv. Retention of Records

The copyright request file and the master file of interlibrary loan requests must be kept until the end of the third complete calendar year after the end of the calendar year in which a request shall have been made. Thus, for a request made on any date in 1978, the record must be retained until December 31, 1981.

Information contained in the records should be statistically summarized before records are destroyed. The summary may be useful for the five year review mandated by Subsection 108 (i) of the Copyright Law as well as for internal management purposes.
E. Copyright law (BORROWING PROCEDURE – Responsibilities)

2) Copyright Notices and Warnings

The Copyright Revision Act of 1976 requires four (4) warnings and notices for libraries and archives in the reproduction or distribution of photocopied works. In instances a. and b. below, the suggested language was developed by the American Library Association/Reference and Adult Services Division/Interlibrary Loan Committee and approved by ALA. In instances c. and d. below, the language is a final regulation from the Copyright Office, Library of Congress, published in the Federal Register, November 16, 1977, p. 59264-5.

a. A notice of copyright must be included on the reproduction of any copyrighted work according to Subsection 108 (a) (3). The suggested wording is:

Notice: This material may be protected by copyright law (Title 17 U.S. Code).

A library may choose to stamp this sentence on the first piece of each item photocopied, to attach it to the glass on the photocopying equipment so that it is automatically transferred to each sheet, to attach a sticker bearing this notice to each item photocopied, or to use some other method whereby this message is affixed to all reproductions. This notice does not apply, however, for reproduction on unsupervised reproducing equipment, but only when the library or one of its employees is reproducing or distributing. (See b below)
E. Copyright law (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

iii. Use of Records

Before making a request, the borrowing library must check its records.

If the number of previous requests filled does not exceed the CONTU Guidelines, the request may be made.

If the request exceeds CONTU Guidelines, at least three courses of action are possible.

a) The library may borrow the original work.
b) The library may request permission from the copyright holder to make copies, with or without payment of a royalty.
c) The library may obtain the copy and pay the royalty through the Copyright Clearance Center.

(See Appendix C.)

iv. Retention of Records

The copyright request file and the master file of interlibrary loan requests must be kept until the end of the third complete calendar year after the end of the calendar year in which a request shall have been made. Thus, for a request made on any date in 1978, the record must be retained until December 31, 1981. Information contained in the records should be statistically summarized before records are destroyed. The summary may be useful for the five year review mandated by Subsection 108 (i) of the Copyright Law as well as for internal management purposes.
2) Copyright Notices and Warnings

The Copyright Revision Act of 1976 requires four (4) warnings and notices for libraries and archives in the reproduction or distribution of photocopied works. In instances a. and b. below, the suggested language was developed by the American Library Association/Reference and Adult Services Division/Interlibrary Loan Committee and approved by ALA. In instances c. and d. below, the language is a final regulation from the Copyright Office, Library of Congress, published in the Federal Register, November 16, 1977, p. 59264-5.

a. A notice of copyright must be included on the reproduction of any copyrighted work according to Subsection 108 (a) (3): The suggested wording is:

Notice: This material may be protected by copyright law (Title 17 U.S. Code).

A library may choose to stamp this sentence on the first piece of each item photocopied, to attach it to the glass on the photocopying equipment so that it is automatically transferred to each sheet, to attach a sticker bearing this notice to each item photocopied, or to use some other method whereby this message is affixed to all reproductions. This notice does not apply, however, for reproduction on unsupervised reproducing equipment, but only when the library or one of its employees is reproducing or distributing. (See b below)
E. Copyright law (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

b. A copyright warning notice must be displayed on unsupervised reproducing equipment located in a library or archives as required in Subsection 108 (f) (1).

Notice: The copyright law of the United States (Title 17 U.S. Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material. The person using this equipment is liable for any infringement.

This does not mean that the above notice must be displayed in or on departmental reproducing machines which are unsupervised, but only those which are located in a library or archives.

c. A "Display Warning of Copyright" is to be displayed at the place where orders for copies or phonorecords are accepted, e.g., interlibrary loan departments, copy centers where library staff accept orders from users, etc.

NOTICE
Warning Concerning Copyright Restrictions

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be "used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research." If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement.

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgement, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of copyright law.
E. Copyright law (BORROWING PROCEDURES - Responsibilities)

The warning shall consist of a verbatim reproduction of the above notice, printed on heavy paper or other durable material in type at least 18 points in size, and shall be displayed prominently, in such manner and location as to be clearly visible, legible, and comprehensible to a casual observer within the immediate vicinity of the place where orders are accepted.

d. For the "Order Warning of Copyright" required by Subsections 103(d) (2) and 108(e) (2):

The identical language in c. above, the "Order Warning of Copyright" is to be included on printed forms supplied by certain libraries and archives and used by their patrons for ordering copies or phonorecords. The warning shall be printed within a box located prominently on the order form itself, either on the front side of the form or immediately adjacent to the space calling for the name or signature of the person using the form. The notice shall be printed in type size no smaller than that used predominantly throughout the form, and in no case shall the type size be smaller than 8 points. The notice shall be printed in such manner to be clearly legible, comprehensible, and readily apparent to a casual reader of the form.
1. F. Form of requests (BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities)

Requests may be made by mail on the standard American Library Association (ALA) form or on other printed forms used within local cooperative arrangements; by teletype (TWX); by OCLC; by telephone, when the lending library agrees; or by any other method agreed upon by borrowing and lending libraries for use within local cooperative arrangements.
1. F. Form of requests (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

2. A. Subject requests, which are outside the scope of the national ILL code, are appropriate interlibrary loan requests only when there is an existing agreement for such services between the borrowing and lending library. This service is provided to member libraries by Area Library Service Authorities/ILL Reference and Referral Centers and to all libraries by the Indiana State Library. The borrowing library should make the subject request as specific as possible.
2. SUBJECT REQUESTS (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

2. A. Because the processing of a subject request at the lending library is an atypical ILL routine, it generally will require referral to a reference librarian. To facilitate the efficient selection of appropriate material, the borrowing library should provide the following information:

   Subject area of request with as much specificity as possible.

   Appropriate user information, e.g. level of expertise, juvenile or adult.

   Type of material required:
   i. Beginning, general or advanced
   ii. Popular or technical
   iii. Format

   Intended use of material.

   Sources already used by requesting library or patron.

   Deadline for receipt of material.

   Maximum cost.

   Number of items desired.
3. REQUEST TRANSMISSION (BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities)

3. A. The borrowing library should follow policies set forth in Section B:1.D.2) above in seeking prospective lenders. In selecting a prospective lender the borrower should avoid placing an undue burden on any library that is not designated as an interlibrary loan resource center. In addition, ALSA members should familiarize themselves with transmission procedures and resource libraries within their own area.

3. B. For libraries transmitting requests through their ALSA center the following general policies apply.

The Area Library Services Authority Interlibrary Loan/Reference Referral Centers (ALSA ILL/RR Centers) will search both specific item requests and subject requests. These requests will be accepted from member libraries of all types and from non-member public libraries. The Centers are not required to search further than the contracting library collections for non-member public libraries, but will forward unfilled requests to the State Library. Non-member school, special, and academic libraries within the area should submit their requests to other channels or directly to the Indiana State Library.

3. C. The Indiana State Library will search its own collection for any request received.

1) For author/title requests referred to it by an ALSA Center, the Indiana State Library will also attempt to locate a holding library if the material is not found in its own collection. The State Library will refer requests to other State Resource Centers when an ALSA Center does not have access to an OCLC terminal for ILL purposes.
2) For subject requests, the Indiana State Library will search only its own collection.

3. D. The State Resource Centers will function as statewide resource collections for interlibrary loan item requests. The State Resource Centers will accept only verified author/title requests; subject requests will not be accepted. Such requests must meet the following conditions.

1) The request must be channeled through an ALSA, except that libraries with CCLC terminals may transmit requests directly.

2) The State Resource Center must be verified as holding the title in its collection.

4. E. Health Science Libraries

1) The major resource in Indiana for medical literature is the Indiana University School of Medicine Library. Because of its special responsibility as the Indiana resource library in the Midwest Health Science Library Network, it has established policies and procedures to cover ILL services. These are spelled out in Appendix F.

2) For individuals and institutions lying outside the scope of the Indiana University School of Medicine Library service, access to medical literature is available through regular ILL channels from larger public and academic libraries and libraries affiliated with health care institutions. Information on local special arrangements can be obtained through ALSA offices.

3. REQUEST TRANSMISSION (BORROWING PROCEDURES)

The steps outlined below describe normal request transmission patterns. A library should follow the steps appropriate to its situation in the order in which the steps are listed.

3. A. Public Libraries (BORROWING PROCEDURES - Responsibilities)

1) Local level
   a) All ILL requests should be checked for compliance with all appropriate policies.
   b) Branch libraries should follow policies of the main library for request transmission.
   c) If material is available in another library in your local area, refer the request to that library if local agreements allow.

2) Area level
   a) Requests which cannot be filled at the local level should be referred to the Area Library Services Authority (ALSA) in your area. For members, ALSAs will follow procedures outlined in 2 below for non-members, procedures in 3 below. (see Appendix G for list of ALSA centers)
   b) For members, the ALSA ILL/RR Centers will search the contracting library as well as other libraries for the items requested. The ALSA Center will follow this procedure for member public library requests that are not filled at the contracting library.
   i. For a title request for which a location is verified, the request should be referred in the following order:

3. REQUEST TRANSMISSION (BORROWING PROCEDURES)

E. Health Science Libraries

1) For procedures governing use of the Indiana University School of Medicine Library for ILL, see Appendix F.

2) For ILL requests for medical and health science literature handled through regular channels, the procedures outlined in these Guidelines should be utilized.
4 CONDITIONS OF LOANS (BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities)

4. A. The borrowing library agrees to honor any limitations on use placed by the lending library.

4. B. Unless specifically forbidden by the lending library, it is assumed that copying of materials by the borrowing library is permitted, providing that it is in accordance with the copyright laws of the United States and no damage to the original material will result.

4. C. The borrowing library will make an effort to anticipate charges and authorize them on the initial request and should be prepared to assume any costs charged.

4. D. The safety of borrowed materials is the responsibility of the borrowing library from the time the material leaves the lending library until it is received back at the lending library.

4. E. The borrowing library agrees to meet costs of repair or replacement in accordance with the preferences of the lending library, if the material is damaged or lost.

4. F. The duration of loan, unless otherwise specified by the lending library, is the period of time the item may remain with the borrowing library disregarding the time spent in transit.

4. G. No acknowledgement of receipt of ILL items is necessary except in the case of very valuable shipments and the automated OCLC-ILL subsystem which requires acknowledgement.

4. H. If there is undue delay in receipt of a shipment, the borrowing library shall notify the lending library so that a search may be initiated.
4. CONDITIONS OF LOANS (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)
The borrowing library should adopt policies for materials received on interlibrary loan consistent with policies articulated in II.A.

4. Upon receipt of loan materials, the borrowing library should note and apply any restrictions placed by the lending library. The loan period specified by the lending library should be honored.
5. RESPONSE TO USERS (BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities)

A. The borrowing library is responsible for keeping a record of all loans, informing the user of the status of the request, circulating the borrowed item to the user and retrieving the borrowed item from the user.

B. Each local library is encouraged to develop its own policies regarding ILL for its users and to publicize these widely.

These policies should be as liberal and as unrestrictive as practical to ensure that ILL borrowing for its users is as accessible as possible.
5. RESPONSE TO USERS (BORROWING PROCEDURE - Responsibilities)

   A. The borrowing library should establish control procedures for materials received on ILL to ensure that the user receives the requested material and returns the material by the due date designated by the lender.

   B. Each local library is encouraged to develop and document its own internal procedures regarding ILL for its users. An ILL user procedure should include the following information:

   1) A definition of the interlibrary loan clientele if different from the library's borrowing clientele.

   2) The fees charged the user, if any, and how the fees will be assessed and collected.

   3) A procedure for informing the user as to the status of the request.

   4) A circulation and overdue procedure specifically for ILL items.

   5) A procedure for handling lost or damaged ILL items.
6. RENEWALS (BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities)

6. A. Renewal requests for ILL materials shall be kept to a minimum.

Renewal requests should reach the lending library before the original due date.

If no response is received from the lending library within an appropriate length of time, the borrowing library can assume that the renewal is granted for the same period of time as the original loan.

6. B. Renewal requests should provide sufficient information to allow rapid processing.
6. RENEWAL REQUESTS (PROCEDURE)

6. A.

1) The borrowing library should establish control procedures for materials received on ILL to ensure return by the due date designated by the lender. If a renewal must be requested, it should be sent in time to reach the lending library not later than the original due date.

2) The general procedure is to request the renewal from the lending library. However, if the original loan has been requested through a referral center, (e.g. ALSA), the library should follow the ILL renewal procedure established by the center.

6. B. Renewal requests should include the following information:

Name of borrowing library

Author and title of item

Call number or other identification

Original date due
7. RETURN OF MATERIALS (BORROWING POLICY - Responsibilities)

2) All material should be packed well and returned in an appropriate shipping container.

3) All correspondence and shipments should be conspicuously labeled "Interlibrary Loan."

4) The material should be insured if requested by the lending library.

5) The Notice of Return, when required, should be sent under separate cover, not in the parcel with the item, at the time the item is returned.

6) The general procedure is to return the item to the lending library. However, if the loan has been requested through a referral center, (e.g. ALSA), the library should follow the procedure established by the center.
PART II. INTERLIBRARY GUIDELINES

Section C: LENDING POLICY

1. RESPONSIBILITY OF LENDING LIBRARIES (LENDING POLICY)

A. Indiana Libraries are encouraged to establish a liberal and unrestrictive interlibrary loan policy.

B. Each library should formulate an official policy regarding interlibrary lending. Libraries are encouraged to keep restricted items to a minimum. The following guidelines are suggested.

1) The library may not ordinarily wish to lend:
   a) Rare or valuable material, including manuscripts;
   b) Bulky or fragile items that are difficult or expensive to ship;
   c) Material in high demand at the lending library;
   d) Material with local circulation restrictions;
   e) Unique material that would be difficult or impossible to replace.

2) The library should make its policy known to its staff and to interlibrary loan units with which it works. (A recommended ILL policy report form is provided in Appendix D.)
Section C: LENDING PROCEDURES

1. RESPONSIBILITIES OF LENDING LIBRARIES (LENDING PROCEDURES)
   At present no state wide procedure exists.
2. FILLING REQUESTS (LENDING POLICY)

2. A. Lending libraries should fill requests without regard to the status of the individual for whom the request is made. Exceptions to this policy should be made only where a clear legal restriction exists.

2. B. Unless a prior agreement exists, the lending library has the right to return subject requests unanswered.

2. C. The library is not obligated to make a special effort to identify requested items where the borrowing library has failed to follow bibliographic and verification procedures. The request may be returned.
2. FILLING REQUESTS (LENDING PROCEDURE)

At present no state wide procedure exists.
3. RESPONSE TO BORROWERS (LENDING POLICY)

3. A. To promote fair use of the ILL privilege, lending libraries are encouraged to inform borrowing libraries of any failure to follow the provisions outlined in this manual.

3. B. The lending library should establish a reasonable loan period. The duration of loan, unless otherwise specified by the lending library, is the period of time the item may remain with the borrowing library disregarding the time spent in transit.
3. RESPONSE TO BORROWERS (LENDING PROCEDURE)

3. A. Prompt attention to ILL requests is encouraged. The lending library shall notify the borrowing library as soon as possible concerning the action to be taken on its request. This response should be made for materials that can be provided and for requests which cannot be filled. If the requested material cannot be supplied, the lending library should state the reason. Most ILL request formats allow notes to be added by the lending library.

3. B. Information about the loan period, renewals, cost, restrictions and shipping should be enclosed with the item shipped.
4. CHARGES (LENDING POLICY)

4. A. If charges are necessary, the lending library is encouraged to keep them to a minimum.
4. CHARGES (LENDING PROCEDURE)

4. A. If there are any charges, the invoice should itemize all charges and include enough information to properly identify the item.

4. B. If the lending library charges, other than for insurance and postage, exceed the authorization on the request form, the lending library should notify the borrowing library and obtain a new authorization before proceeding with the transaction.
5. RENEWALS (LENDING POLICY)

5. A. The lending library should establish a reasonable renewal policy.
5. RENEWALS (LENDING PROCEDURE)

5. A. Libraries are encouraged to respond to renewal requests. If a response is not made, the borrowing library may assume that the renewal is for the same period of time as the original loan. The automated OCLC-ILL subsystem requires an explicit response to a renewal request.
6. RESPONSIBILITIES FOR MATERIALS (LENDING POLICY)

6. A. The safety of borrowed materials is the responsibility of the borrowing library from the time the material leaves the lending library until it is received by the lending library.

borrower's responsibility

Lender

borrower's responsibility

Borrower
6. RESPONSIBILITIES FOR MATERIALS (LENDING PROCEDURE)

At present no state wide procedure exists.
Section D: ILL REPORTING & STATISTICS

The ILL Task Force has begun to study the requirements for a state-wide ILL reporting and statistical standard. However, it was not possible to develop, test, and recommend a standard to coincide with the issuance of this manual. Work will continue and, should a recommended standard result, it will be submitted to ISLAC for future promulgation in this manual.

In the meantime, Indiana libraries are encouraged to report interlibrary loan statistics as accurately as possible following the standards that currently are in force in their library systems or ALSA regions.

PART III: RECIPROCAL BORROWING

Section A: Introduction
Section B: Reciprocal Borrowing Policies and Procedures
Section C: Reciprocal Borrowing Glossary
PART III - RECIPROCAL BORROWING

Section A: INTRODUCTION & DEFINITIONS.

Introduction

The statewide Reciprocal Borrowing Program began October 1, 1979. It is designed to allow borrowing of materials from a participating public library by persons holding a valid resident borrower's card of another participating public library. The program was begun to provide a method for library users to obtain materials directly from a public library when it is desirable or feasible. This program does not replace interlibrary loan, but should be viewed as a separate possibility for obtaining materials for patrons when travel between libraries is convenient.

The statewide Reciprocal Borrowing Program is administered by the Indiana State Library. As of January, 1982, 50% of the public libraries in Indiana have joined the program.

The following section is organized with policy first and procedure second. There is not necessarily a written procedure for every policy statement.
Section B: POLICY

1. POLICY

A. The intent of the reciprocal borrowing program is to provide a vehicle through which public libraries may offer to their patrons the additional service of access to the materials of other participating public libraries. The program is designed as a benefit only for resident card holders of participating libraries; therefore patrons residing in contracting townships or those who pay a fee to use the library are defined as non-resident card holders and are not eligible for the service.

B. Public libraries who wish to participate in reciprocal borrowing must be a member of an ALSA and sign the Reciprocal Borrowing Covenant.

C. The Reciprocal Borrowing covenant requires only that the participating library circulate materials to eligible patrons. Other library services such as the reserving of materials, interlibrary loan, reference assistance and availability of special programs or services may be offered to reciprocal borrowing patrons, but these are not required.
1. RECIPROCAL BORROWING - POLICY

D. Reciprocal borrowing users are expected to:

1) conform to the rules and regulations of the institution from which they borrow.
2) present a valid resident borrower's card or other identification issued by their local library as evidence of their eligibility for this service.
3) pay promptly all delinquency charges which may accrue against them.
4) return materials borrowed through this program to the lending library.

E. Participating libraries should assist each other, if necessary (on request), in recovering materials.

F. Participating libraries are required to keep statistics of the number of items loaned through reciprocal borrowing and report them to the Indiana State Library.
Section B: PROCEDURE

1. PROCEDURE

1. A. Each public library should check with their ALSA to see if any specific ALSA procedures, cards and support service forms and items are available to facilitate reciprocal borrowing.

B. The Reciprocal Borrowing Covenant (see Appendix K) is available on request from the Extension Division, Indiana State Library. It is signed by the Librarian and President of the Board of Trustees of a Public Library wishing to participate in the program. The Covenant remains in force until either the Indiana State Library or the public library wished it modified or cancelled, in which case ninety days written notice must be given. A copy of the Covenant must be filed with the Indiana State Library.

C. Each library joining reciprocal borrowing is responsible for setting a local policy defining the types of materials that will be loaned, the services of the library available to reciprocal borrowing patrons, and the identification patrons of the library will carry to allow them to use other member library's services.

A member library must complete and return to the Extension Division, Indiana State Library, a Reciprocal Borrowing Restrictions form (see Appendix K) listing the types of materials that will be loaned under the reciprocal borrowing program. Any changes in this policy should be reported to the Extension Division immediately.
1. RECIPROCAL BORROWING - PROCEDURE

D. Public library members issuing cards to non-resident patrons or persons in contracting townships must mark patron cards clearly to indicate those users with non-resident status, and therefore ineligible to use reciprocal borrowing services.

The user is expected to show identification indicating his status and library when using the reciprocal borrowing service.

E. Users who flagrantly abuse the reciprocal borrowing service by accumulating $100 or more in fines or losses should be reported to the Extension Division, Indiana State Library.

Users of materials through reciprocal borrowing should return borrowed materials directly to the library from which the obtained the materials, except in cases in which the participating libraries in an area agree to another method to facilitate return of materials.

F. Participating libraries must record the number of items loaned through reciprocal borrowing during the year. If possible, these statistics should be kept by the "home" library of the patron so that, at the end of the reporting cycle, data are available on the number of items and the libraries whose patrons make use of the service. These statistics will be collected once a year by the Extension Division and used as basis for reimbursing libraries when funds are available for that purpose.
1. RECIPROCAL BORROWING - PROCEDURE

G. The Extension Division of the Indiana State Library will mail to all public libraries, at least once per year, a complete listing of all reciprocal borrowing participants, including use restrictions and borrower's card requirements of each. A monthly update to the list will also be sent when needed.

National, International, and Other
Interlibrary Loan Codes

Introduction: The American Library Association has promulgated information about three ILL codes. The first is a national code, the text of which is printed in full in this appendix. The second is a statement of principles and guidelines for international interlibrary loans. The third is a model code for use at the local, state, or regional level. These codes were used as sources in These documents were printed in RL, Vol. 20, no. 1, Fall 1980; and are available in a pamphlet from AIA. Purchase information follows:

National Interlibrary Loan Code; 1980

Adopted by Reference and Adult Services Division
Board of Directors, New York, 1980.1

INTRODUCTION

Interlibrary loan is essential to the vitality of libraries of all types and sizes and is a means by which a wide range of material can be made available to users. This code is designed primarily to regulate lending relations between research libraries and between libraries operating outside networks or consortia. It is recognized that through specific agreements, libraries organized geographically, by mutual subject interest, or other bases will have developed codes of their own. It is not the intent of this code to prescribe the nature of interlibrary lending under such arrangements. (See "Model Interlibrary Loan Code for Regional, State, Local, or Other Special Groups of Libraries.")

The effectiveness of a national system of interlibrary lending is directly related to the equitable distribution of costs among all the libraries involved. Interlibrary loan is an adjunct to, not a substitute for, collection development in individual libraries. Requests to national and research libraries or requests beyond networks and consortia should only be made after local, state, and regional sources have been exhausted. It is understood that every library must maintain an appropriate balance between resource sharing and responsibility to its primary clientele.

This national code contains general guidelines for the borrowing and lending of library material. Details of procedures to be used in implementing the code will be found in the Interlibrary Loan Procedure Manual published by the American Library Association. All libraries participating in interlibrary loan should have copies of this publication and should follow these recommendations. The manual also provides information on international interlibrary loan.

The Reference and Adult Services Division, acting for the American Library Association in its adoption of this code, recognizes that the exchange of material between libraries is an important element in the provision of library service and believes it to be in the public interest to encourage such an exchange.

I. Definition

An interlibrary loan is a transaction in which library material, or a copy of the material, is made available by one library to another upon request.

II. Purpose

The purpose of interlibrary loan as defined in this code is to obtain, for research and serious study, library material not available through local, state, or regional libraries.

III. Scope

A. A loan or a copy of any material may be requested from another library in accordance with the published lending policy of that library. The lending library will decide in each case whether a particular item can be provided.

B. Most libraries will not ordinarily lend the following types of materials:

1. Rare or valuable material, including manuscripts;
2. Bulky or fragile items that are difficult or expensive to ship;

1. Endorsed by the boards of directors of the Association for Library Service to Children and of the Young Adult Services Division, both divisions of the American Library Association, June 1980, New York, and by the membership of the Association of Research Libraries, May 15, 1980, Salt Lake City.

10 NATIONAL INTERLIBRARY LOAN CODE, 1980

III. Material in high demand at the lending library;
IV. Material with local circulation restrictions;
V. Unique material that would be difficult or impossible to replace.

IV. Responsibilities of Borrowing Libraries

A. Each library should provide the resources to meet the study, instructional, informational, and normal research needs of its primary clientele. This can be accomplished through its own collection or through local, state, or regional cooperative resource-sharing agreements.

B. Material requested from another library under this code should generally be limited to those items that do not conform to the library's collection development policy and for which there is no recurring demand.

C. The interlibrary loan staff of each library should be familiar with, and use, relevant interlibrary loan documents and aids. These include this code, the Interlibrary Loan Procedure Manual, lending policies of the major research libraries, and standard bibliographic tools and services.

D. Each library should inform its users of the purpose of interlibrary loan and of the library's interlibrary borrowing policy.

E. Requested material must be described completely and accurately following accepted bibliographic practice as outlined in the current Interlibrary Loan Procedure Manual. If the item cannot be verified, the statement "cannot verify" should be included along with complete information as to the original source of the citation.

F. The borrowing library should carefully screen all requests for loans and reject any that do not conform to this code.

G. Standard bibliographic tools, such as union catalogs, computerized data bases, and other listing services, should be used in determining the location of material. Care should be taken to avoid concentrating the burden of requests on a few libraries.

H. Standard interlibrary loan formats should be used for all requests, regardless of the means of transmission.

I. The safety of borrowed material is the responsibility of the borrowing library from the time the material leaves the lending library until it is received by the lending library. The borrowing library is responsible for packaging the material so as to ensure its return in good condition. If damage or loss occurs, the borrowing library must meet all costs of repair or replacement, in accordance with the preference of the lending library.

J. The borrowing library and its users must comply with the conditions of loan established by the lending library. Unless specifically forbidden by the lending library, copying by the borrowing library is permitted provided that it is in accordance with the copyright law and no damage to the original material will result.

K. The borrowing library should encourage library users to travel to other libraries for on-site access to material when extensive use of a collection is required or the nature of the material requires special handling. The borrowing library should assist the user in making the necessary arrangements.

V. Responsibilities of Lending Libraries.
A. The decision to loan material is at the discretion of the lending library. Each library is encouraged, however, to interpret as generously as possible its own lending policy with due consideration to the interests of its primary clientele.
B. A statement of interlibrary loan policy and charges should be made available upon request.
C. The lending library should process requests promptly. Conditions of loan should be stated clearly and material should be packaged carefully. The lending library should notify the borrowing library when unable to fill a request; stating the reason for not filling the request.
D. A lending library is responsible for informing any borrowing library of its apparent failure to follow the provisions of this code.

VI. Expenses
A. The borrowing library assumes responsibility for all costs charged by the lending library, including transportation, insurance, copying, and any service charges. The borrowing library should try to anticipate charges and authorize them on the original request.
B. It is recommended that nominal costs, such as postage, be absorbed by the lending library.
C. If the charges are more than nominal and not authorized by the borrowing library, the lending library should inform the requesting library and ask for authorization to proceed.

VII. Duration of Loan
A. The duration of loan, unless otherwise specified by the lending library, is the period of time the item may remain with the borrowing library disregarding the time spent in transit.
B. Interlibrary loan material should be returned promptly.
C. The borrowing library should ask for renewals only in unusual circumstances. The renewal request should be sent in time to reach the lending library no later than the date due. If the lending library does not respond, it will be assumed that renewal, for the same period as the original loan, is granted.
D. All material on loan is subject to immediate recall, and the borrowing library should comply promptly.

VIII. Violation of Code
Continued disregard of any provision of this code is sufficient reason for suspension of borrowing privileges.
APPENDIX B

THREE SAMPLE INTERLIBRARY LOAN INTERVIEWS

The First Interview

User A: I understand the library can get me books that aren't in the library.

Librarian A: That's right. We can also get photocopies from periodicals that the library doesn't own. Tell me what you need.

Librarian A: This library has several books on American art. May I ask why you need this particular book?

User A: It was mentioned in the encyclopedia we have at home. But I was hoping the library had something more recent. Cheney's book was published in 1936. Did you say the library had lots of books on American art? I couldn't find any of them in the card catalog.

Librarian A: Did you look under the subject heading "Art, comma, American"?

User A: No, I looked under "American art". I noticed lots of books on "American drama", so I figured the library mustn't have any books on American art.

Librarian A: I wonder if we don't have a cross reference card to lead you from "American art" to "Art, American". Tell me, what exactly do you want from a book on American art?

User A: Actually, I'm wanting to write a term paper on Grandma Moses, the self-taught painter.

Librarian A: Let me show you how to find what books and articles we have on Grandma Moses.

Note the following points:

1) This apparently legitimate interlibrary loan request led to a reference interview in which the librarian discovered that the user's real question was quite different from the first question asked.

2) The librarian helped the user find materials in her own library which she did not know how to find for herself.

The Second Interview

User B: I hope you can help me. I'd like to see some periodical articles that aren't in this library.

Librarian B: I'll try to help you. What topic are you working on?

User B: The Holy War.

Librarian B: The "Holy War" is an interesting idea. Is your topic any narrower than this? Is it for an assignment?

User B: My Old Testament professor let the class choose from a list of term paper topics. I chose "The Concept of the Holy War in Deuteronomy".

Librarian B: Tell me where you've looked.

User B: Well, I've been using the list of basic reference sources that one of the other librarians handed out in class. You know, he demonstrated how to use the library for our assignment. Let's see. I started with The Interpreter's Dictionary of the Bible.
Then I tried the card catalog under "Bible. Old Testament, Deuteronomy-Commentaries". Finally, I looked in Religion Index
One: Periodicals.

Librarian B: It sounds like you are making effective use of this library. Are you finding enough materials on the shelves?

User B: Yes. So far, my only problem in finding stuff is that we don't own some of the periodicals that have the most relevant articles.

Librarian B: Have you checked the bibliographies and footnotes attached to the books and articles we have that are on your topic?

User B: Yes, and they added some stuff I didn't find elsewhere.

Librarian B: I'm wondering if you haven't found as much as you can use in this library. Maybe you don't need those other articles after all. It takes a good deal of time and money to get photocopies from other libraries.

User B: Well, there is one of the articles I really want to see. All the writers on the Holy War in Deuteronomy refer to von Rad as the leading authority on this topic and this article, according to the abstract, "asks whether the Holy War as defined by him ever existed!"

Librarian B: That sounds like an important article, all right. Tell me how soon you need it.

User B: Well, the term paper is due in a month, so I should have it within the next three weeks.

Librarian B: That should give us enough time. But sometimes we miss people's deadlines because of the quantity of interlibrary requests and the slowness of the mails. Would you please fill out this form. It has a place for your deadline and it also asks the volume and page where you found the article cited.

User B: Why do I need to tell where I found it?

Librarian B: If the article isn't on the page you say, a librarian can go back to the source and see if there is an error in transmission.

User B: Is there any charge?

Librarian B: No. The library absorbs the cost as part of its service. Notice that the form has a warning about copyright restriction.

User B: (after filling out the form) I hope this is okay.

Librarian B: Let me read through it and see if I notice anything that needs changing. . . . Oh yes, you report the periodical title as Vet Test, but I think you didn't look up its full title in the front of Religion Index One. The correct title is Vetus Testamentum. Everything else looks fine. We'll send the photocopy to your box when it arrives.

User B: Many thanks for your help.

Note that the following points were covered in the interview:

1) The precise topic on which the patron was working.

2) The purpose for which the material was wanted.

3) The reference sources already used.

4) Other reference sources that might be consulted.

5) The list of requests reduced to the most significant titles.

6) The time and cost involved in processing an interlibrary request.

7) The patron's deadline and the possibility that the deadline will not be met.

8) The source in which the book or article was cited.
9) Copyright restrictions.

10) Errors on the completed form.

11) The method of notifying the patron when the material arrives.

The Third Interview

Librarian C: (Approaching User C who was wandering around the Reference Area.) May I help you find something?

User C: This is only the second time I've been to the public library. Would you please help me find Armies of the Red Night, by William Manchester?

Librarian C: Let's see if we can find it listed in the card catalog. We have cards in our catalog for authors, titles and subjects. (The librarian and the patron look in the card catalog together.) Well, we aren't finding an author card or a title card. Is this a new publication?

User C: I don't know. My friend was telling me about it and I thought I would enjoy reading it. Maybe I don't have the title quite right.

Librarian C: Can you tell me what it's about?

User C: It's about public opinion on the Vietnam War.

Librarian C: Let's see if we can find it in Books in Print, which lists all books currently available for purchase from U.S. publishers. (The librarian and patron look at Books in Print together.) I don't see Armies of the Red Night in the list of titles, but I do see Armies of the Night, by Norman Mailer. Do you suppose that could be the book you want?

User C: Maybe. How can we tell it's about the Vietnam War?

Librarian C: The American Book Publishing Record will tell what subject headings have been assigned to the book. Books in Print tells us it was published in 1968, so we'll look in the 1968 volume of the American Book Publishing Record. Okay, here it is — and the subject heading is "Vietnamese Conflict, 1961—Public opinion."

User C: That's the book then. Sorry I gave you the wrong title. Sometimes my mind is like a sieve. I sure hope the library has that book.

Librarian C: If we don't have it, we can get it for you from another library.

User C: Really? How much would that cost?

Librarian C: Nothing. Interlibrary loans are part of our regular service. But let's see whether Armies of the Night is in our card catalog.

(After looking..) Sorry, it's not here. If you want us to borrow it for you just fill out this interlibrary loan slip. Where it says "verified in," write "American Book Publishing Record, 1968, page 760." We'll give you a call or send you a card when it arrives. Meanwhile, would you like me to help you find other things to read that deal with public opinion on the Vietnam War?

User C: Yes I would. I've got 30 minutes before my mother picks me up to go to the Girl Scout meeting.

Note the following points:

1) The librarian took the initiative in offering help to a patron who appeared to be confused.

2) The patron needed reference assistance even to discover that the library did not own the desired book.

3) The librarian, not the user, suggested the interlibrary loan service.

4) The librarian offered to find other readings on the patron's topic and the patron accepted.

5) The patron was a junior high school girl.

INTRODUCTION

The need for timely information in today's rapidly changing high-technology society is of paramount importance to both businesses and individuals. The myriad forms that information takes--scholarly journals, scientific papers, patents, trade and business magazines and newsletters, as well as other non-print materials--make it difficult for information users to oftentimes possess that piece of data which is needed.

Organizations have evolved in both the public and private sector which satisfy this need. Called information brokers, document retrieval sources, or document delivery services, these organizations provide the information-user with particular items "on demand", often in the form of photocopied documents.

More often than not, the material provided is protected by copyright. Under the Copyright Act of 1976, permission must be obtained by the document supplier from the copyright owner for material provided in this manner.

The Copyright Clearance Center was incorporated in 1977 as a non-profit organization. It acts as an intermediary between copyright owners and photocopy users, such as corporations, information brokers, academic and public libraries and government agencies. Facilitating the flow of information from creator to user, CCC is a single source for conveying photocopy authorizations from thousands of copyright owners.

PURPOSE

Many end-users of photocopied material have expressed concern to CCC as to whether documents they request from document delivery services are lawfully provided. They want to know that copyright owners are receiving the appropriate share of the fees they pay for supplied documents. Thus was this publication, the Guide to CCC-Participating Document Delivery Services, born.

SCOPE

The Guide is meant to be a single, convenient source of information on services which provide authorized copies. Document suppliers who have accounts with CCC and provide authorized copies through either direct photocopy-license agreements with publishers, or the CCC Photocopy Permissions Service, are given free space in each issue to advertise and promote their businesses.

Each document delivery service provides CCC with information for its own listing. CCC assumes no responsibility for the accuracy of the information, nor does the listing imply any endorsement by CCC.

FREQUENCY

This Guide to document delivery services which participate in the CCC Photocopy Permissions Service is updated and distributed quarterly.

INDIANA UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE LIBRARY

Interlibrary Loan Policy

The Indiana University School of Medicine Library is the Indiana resource library in the six-state Midwest Health Science Library Network. As Region 7 of the National Library of Medicine's Regional Medical Library Program this region supports health science library services to health personnel in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Wisconsin.

The School of Medicine Library's mission is to support medical research, education, and patient care at the Indiana University Medical Center and in the State of Indiana. Primary patrons include faculty, staff, and students at the Medical Center, faculty and students at the School’s eight Centers for Medical Education, all Indiana physicians and practicing health professionals, and college and university faculties in the State.

The Library supplies interlibrary loans (books in the original, serial articles by photocopy) to all health science libraries, academic libraries, and health-related corporation libraries in Indiana. As a resource library for the Midwest Network this library will refer requests for material it does not own to one of the other 12 resource libraries in the Region or to the National Library of Medicine. If the request is to be referred, the request must be so stamped.

Serials in the original do not circulate outside the Indianapolis metropolitan area. Race items, reference materials, and other unique materials are not available on interlibrary loan. Interlibrary loans will not be supplied for non-qualified borrowers. Non-qualified patrons are welcome to use the Library in person during certain specified hours.

A complete bibliographic citation is required for all requests. Complete verification is also required. Verification is not a listing in a locator tool, but proof the material exists as requested. All requests will be returned if citations are incomplete or abbreviated and/or verifications are incomplete.

Verification sources include:

- Biological Abstracts
- Chemical Abstracts
- Current Contents
- Hospital Literature Index
- Index Medicus
- Medline computer printouts
- National Library of Medicine Current Catalog
- Nursing Literature Index
- OCLC

Borrowing libraries are responsible for determining that the School of Medicine Library has the material before requesting. HESSI (Health Science Serials in Indianapolis) or OCLC should be used. Repeated requests for materials not in the Library may be charged as if they were a filled request.
Borrowing libraries are responsible for complying with copyright laws and either CCG or OCLC of the copyright statement is to be marked on all requests.

Requests may be made by standard ALA forms directly to the School of Medicine Library, by TWX, or by OCLC. The School of Medicine Library does not require interlibrary loan requests to be channeled through the ALSA network or the Indiana State Library. Phone requests are not accepted unless a hospital has an emergency patient care situation. Letters from individuals or institutions without libraries are not accepted.

All elements of an ALA request form must be included on all forms of request. The patron, and his/her status, for whom the request is made must be identified and the School of Medicine Library reserves the right not to supply the material if the individual is not qualified. The date after which the material is no longer needed must be noted.

No subject requests are accepted. Computer search requests should not be submitted on interlibrary loan request forms.

No interlibrary loan materials can be renewed. The due date indicated means the date the item is due in the School of Medicine Library. The borrowing library is responsible for enforcing this policy.

Replacement costs for all lost materials are to be paid by the borrowing library.

If the Library specifies that material may not leave the borrowing library or is too fragile to photocopied, it is the responsibility of the borrowing library to enforce the restrictions.

There is a $4 charge for each interlibrary loan transaction (original or photocopy limited to 50 pages) supplied by the School of Medicine Library. The School of Medicine Library has no control over charges made by other resource libraries for requests referred to them. The School of Medicine Library bills monthly.

INTERLIBRARY LOAN SERVICES

The Library of Congress is a research library that makes its resources available through 16 reading rooms and other study facilities on Capitol Hill and elsewhere in the Washington, D.C. area. It also extends the use of its collections outside the area through an interlibrary loan service provided by the Loan Division.

Under the system of interlibrary loan the Library of Congress will lend certain materials to other libraries for use by investigators in serious research. Requests for such loans must come from the library concerned.

The interlibrary loan service is intended to aid scholarly research by making available unusual materials not readily accessible elsewhere. It is intended to supplement the resources of other libraries, but not to provide the major part of items needed for extended research. Consequently, the scope of the service does not include lending large numbers of items for a single investigation. Local, state, and regional libraries are expected to serve as the primary sources of research materials, while the Library of Congress serves as a library of last resort. If a researcher must have access to many items available only in the Library of Congress, he is welcome to make use of them in the Washington, D.C. facility.

Eligibility of Out-of-Town Borrowers

The interlibrary loan service is available to research workers through any academic, public, or special library in the United States or any major library in the world. Junior college libraries and media centers are included in the definition of "academic" for loan purposes, other school libraries and media centers below that level are excluded.

Academic libraries are expected to originate requests for materials needed by faculty members in their academic work. They may request materials for graduate students pursuing master's or doctoral programs only when the material is not available elsewhere in North America. Materials ordinarily will not be provided to support undergraduate study.

Public libraries are expected to request materials only for patrons pursuing serious research. Federal agency libraries may borrow materials for use in official work. Special libraries may request items for use in serious research at the institution. All libraries are expected to seek the material from local sources, however, before they apply to the Library of Congress.
Materials Not Available for Loan

Because of internal needs, including its primary service obligation to the Congress, and for other reasons, the Library does not lend certain materials. These include:

1. Books that are in print and procurable through ordinary trade channels.
2. Books and other materials frequently needed by Congress, local Federal agencies, or readers in the Library. Many official documents, books in various reference collections, language dictionaries, genealogies and local history materials are ordinarily excluded on this basis.
3. Newspapers, periodicals, and collected sets. Exceptions may be made when microfilm is available.
4. Materials of unusual value or rarity including manuscripts (unless on microfilm) and items assigned to the rare book collection, materials in poor physical condition, or materials which by reason of size or other characteristic require expensive packing.
5. Sheet music, librettos, motion picture films, and dissertations on microfilm.

Some exceptions to these rules are made for Federal libraries in the Washington, D.C. area.

Submission of Requests

Requests for loans may be submitted on standard American Library Association forms* in accordance with the Interlibrary Loan Code. Forms should be addressed to: Library of Congress, Loan Division, Washington, D.C. 20540.

Requests also may be submitted by teletype (710-822-0185) or, in cases of special urgency, by telephone (202-287-5444). If a teletype reply is desired, libraries should indicate on the message “Please reply TWX collect.” All requests will be handled as quickly as possible; those showing reply deadlines will be given special attention by the Loan Division whenever possible.

Loan Period

Interlibrary loans are made for a period of two weeks, from the date of issue in the metropolitan Washington area and from the date of receipt outside the area. One extension for an additional two weeks is granted upon request whenever feasible. All materials on loan are subject to immediate recall if required for Congressional use.

Lost and Damaged Items

The borrowing library must assume complete responsibility for the safety and prompt return of all borrowed material. It is expected to apply to the borrowed materials the same safeguards it would apply to materials of its own. The responsibility of the borrowing library extends from the time the material is charged out until it is returned safely to the Library of Congress. In cases of loss or damage, the borrowing library is expected to attend to the details of making replacements. Any item not returned within six months after the expiration date of the loan period will be deemed to have been lost. If the borrowing library cannot obtain a copy of the lost edition, it may reimburse the Library by check or money order for the value of the lost item, or the Chief of the Loan Division may recommend a substitute title as a replacement.

Photoreproduction Services

The Library of Congress does not ordinarily lend materials for the purpose of photocopying. Photoreproductions of most materials in the Library's collections, however, are available from the Photoduplication Service at moderate cost. In this manner libraries can obtain for their patrons much of the material unavailable on interlibrary loan. Requests for photocopies may be sent with complete bibliographic data to: Library of Congress, Chief, Photoduplication Service, Washington, D.C. 20540, or the appropriate annotation can be made on the interlibrary loan form and the Loan Division will transfer the request to the Photoduplication Service if the item requested cannot be provided on loan.

Hours and Location

The Loan Division, Room G155, Library of Congress Building, is open for business from 8 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. every weekday, except holidays. The telephone number is 202-287-5441.

*Standard ALA interlibrary loan forms are available from library supply houses. Government libraries may order forms from the General Services Administration. (Form SF-162, GSA Stock No. 7540-143-01-69)

APPENDIX J
THE OCLC ILL SYSTEM

The Indiana Cooperative Library Services Authority is the contracting network for provision of OCLC services in Indiana. Among these services is an online computer-based ILL system. A brief description of this system follows.

As each library user of the OCLC system catalogs an item, its ID code (called a holding code) is retained in the database linked to the catalog record. For example "JUL" is the holding code for the Indiana University Libraries. There are over 100 million holding codes in the database of some 8 million titles of books, serials, phonorecords, maps, etc.

A library can search for a specific title and can ask for a holdings display. This display is organized by state to facilitate rapid location of material in nearby libraries. A borrowing library can command the computer to generate an ILL workform automatically from the catalog record for a specific title. The library then inputs data similar to that required on a printed ILL request. However, the library can also enter a "string" of up to five potential lenders and the OCLC computer system will automatically route the request to the second library in the string if the first can't supply and so on.

The ILL request stays in the online file, accessible to lender and borrower until the transaction is complete. A fee is charged for use of the system on a transaction basis.

Training in the use of the online ILL system is provided by INCOFLS staff. Inquiries may be directed to them.

Following is a series of printouts illustrating various aspects of the online OCLC ILL system. (In actual use, these data appear first on a TV-like screen and are printed out as required.)

The OCLC system provides other valuable aids to ILL. For example, the Indiana Union List of Serials is online via the OCLC system. This constantly updated file aids in identification of libraries owning specific volumes of a periodical or serial.

Another useful file is the Name Address Directory (NAD) which provides online information about libraries including address, telephone number, and departments.
