Developed during a project designed to provide a continuous, competency-based line of vocational training in business and office education programs at the secondary and postsecondary levels, this package consists of an instructor's guide and learning module for a course on office procedures. Various aspects of implementing and articulating secondary and postsecondary office-procedures courses are covered including course content, performance standards, student-teacher agreements, suggested instructional times, tasks addressed in the courses, outcome-referenced measures, equipment needed, and references. Among those topics addressed in the 49 task sheets included in the module are dress/grooming, human relations skills, positive work attitudes, establishing priorities, appropriate office furniture, letter styles, typing correspondence and reports, business composition, business communications, reprographics, filing, using various office machines, performing various bookkeeping and accounting procedures, making travel arrangements, taking inventory, preparing resumes, completing job applications, and handling job interviews. The task sheets include some or all of the following: performance objectives, performance actions, performance outcomes, suggested instruction times, performance standards, and related technical information. ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This articulated, performance-based instruction objectives guide is the product of the work of all the Business and Office Education Task Force Committee participants. Special thanks, however, are given to the following teachers who developed the initial drafts for Office Practices: Gladys Perrin and Creola Campbell.

The Task Force (writing) Committee for Office Procedures is indebted to the State Supervisor, Business and Office Education Consultant, Office of Vocational Education, South Carolina State Department of Education, for permitting the Committee to review a 1981 draft of the curriculum guide being developed for Office Procedures and incorporate that information in this articulated, performance-based instruction guide.

The professional interest of Miss Joanne Montague of The School District of Greenville County in editing this guide is appreciated.

OFFICE PROCEDURES

LEVEL: Secondary
TITLE: Office Procedures
DESIGNATION: OFFICE PROC
COMPUTER NUMBER: 604

DESCRIPTION: Office Procedures is designed to improve office skills already learned, to present new knowledge and skills, and to integrate skills, knowledge, traits, and attitudes to help students prepare for employment and advancement in office work. Emphasis is placed on problem-solving and logical-thinking skills. Course content involves bridging the gap between the school and the office. Personal traits and business ethics are stressed. Activities and studies are planned and implemented in an on-the-job atmosphere. Students may choose not to take Office Procedures if they enroll in a second year of Cooperative Office Education or in the Senior Intensified Program as much duplication occurs in the three programs.

OBJECTIVES: Given a simulated office environment with equipment and supplies, the student will set up and organize the work station, analyze tasks and establishing priorities concerning work that must be done, process incoming and outgoing mail, demonstrate effective telephone techniques handling incoming and outgoing calls, send electronic messages (telegrams, etc.), replace and store supplies, inventory equipment, file and retrieve information, type mailable copies and material, recommend appropriate types of office furniture and equipment, demonstrate acceptable oral business communications and human relations characteristics, and a critical attitude toward the finished product.

PERFORMANCE EVALUATION: Upon completing Office Procedures, the student should possess the ability to set up a clerical work station; organize and plan work; compose and type various types of office communications; perform reprographic functions; perform receptionist duties including handling telephone and personal contact responsibilities; establish and operate a filing system; conduct mail activities of the office; conduct the accounting functions typical of a small business office; and be familiar with word processing and data processing terminology and operations. In addition, the graduate of Office Procedures should possess the knowledge, skills, and traits, personal and professional, to qualify for initial employment in office work and should be able to locate employment opportunities and secure initial employment. Primary evaluation will be by performance and knowledge tests, checklist completed by the instructor, and the instructor's satisfaction that the graduate of the course has mastered the necessary competency to perform satisfactorily in an initial employment situation.

JOB QUALIFICATIONS: Successful completion of the objectives of Office Procedures prepares the student for entry level employment in clerical office work or for advance standing in a similar post-secondary level training program.

WORKING CONDITIONS: Typically, there are regular hours in professional or business surroundings. Some businesses may require occasional overtime. Work usually is routine and work in small offices may be varied.

SIMILAR PROGRAMS POST-SECONDARY LEVEL: There are no equivalent courses at the post-secondary level at Greenville Technical College for which a student may receive advanced standing.

SSC 119, Filing, and SSC 172, Machine Transcription, courses at Greenville TEC are similar in subject matter and a student who successfully completes the exemption requirements for those courses may be awarded advanced standing for secondary level mastery in Office Procedures.

At the present time, Greenville TEC does not exempt the course, SSC 166, Office Practices, because it requires specific activities which Greenville TEC prefers to teach for students completing the Associate Degree program.

STANDARDS FOR STROKING AND MANIPULATIVE CONTROL

STROKING

When typing, the student will demonstrate the following technique rules:

1. Make quick, sharp, even strokes
2. Make low, direct reaches to the keys
3. Keep the fingers well curved
4. Snap the fingers back for quick getaway keystrokes

MANIPULATIVE CONTROL

When typing, the student will demonstrate the following technique rules:

1. Return the carriage quickly and smoothly
2. Use an efficient down-and-in motion on the space bar and not hesitate before or after the space bar stroke
3. Operate the shift keys skillfully
4. Operate the tabulator bar or key skillfully and without hesitation
5. Insert and remove paper from the machine briskly
6. Operate the margin release, backspace key and other "touch" mechanisms skillfully and without looking up
STANDARDS FOR CAPITALIZATION

1. Capitalize the first word of a sentence or a group of words that is used as a sentence.

2. Capitalize a direct quotation that is a complete sentence. Do not capitalize indirect quotations and direct quotations that are not sentences.

3. The first word following a colon may be capitalized if it is the first word of a rule or of a sentence.

4. Capitalize all proper nouns, including the names of persons, days of the week, months, holidays, geographic localities, races, buildings, government bodies, political parties, historical events, organizations, and so on.

5. Capitalize words like river, lake, street, avenue, building, ocean, school, mountain, park, city, state, company, and hotel when they are part of a specific proper noun.

6. Capitalize adjectives derived from proper nouns.

7. Do not capitalize words that were originally proper nouns but are no longer associated with the person, place, or thing whose name they carry. (Consult an up-to-date dictionary when in doubt.)

8. Do not capitalize the seasons—spring, summer, autumn, fall, winter—unless they are represented as a person.

9. Capitalize the points of the compass and nouns and adjectives derived from them when they refer to regions of the country. Do not capitalize such words when they merely indicate direction or general location.

10. Capitalize a common noun when it replaces the complete proper name only if the common-noun form warrants the special distinction that capitalization gives it. For example, the U.S. Constitution, but constitution.

11. Capitalize company referring to your own employer only if office policy requires it. In any case, do not capitalize company in such phrases as our company and this company.

12. Capitalize the names of specific courses of study, but do not capitalize the names of subjects, with the exception of any words that are derived from proper nouns. For example: I plan to take English in the fall.

13. Capitalize such terms as no., chapter, division, section, model, article, exhibit, lists, room, volume, policy. Do not capitalize page, line, paragraph, note, size, and verse.
14. Capitalize the names of specific departments, divisions, committees, and similar units within your own organization and also the short forms of such names. Do not capitalize these terms when they are preceded by a word other than the. When the word our or your precedes the terms, they are usually not capitalized.

15. Capitalize trade names but not the name of the product itself.

16. Capitalize the principal words in the titles of books, articles, plays, reports, paintings, and so on. Do not capitalize the, an, or a unless one of these words is the first word of a title, and do not capitalize conjunctions or prepositions of fewer than four letters.

17. Capitalize titles when they precede a name unless the name is used in apposition and is set off by commas. Do not capitalize titles when they follow a name unless they refer to high-ranking government officials on the state, national, or international level. This rule does not apply to titles in the inside address of a letter or to titles typed in an address on an envelope.

18. Capitalize titles used in direct address. Also capitalize titles such as Father, Mother, Uncle, and Aunt and titles of high government officials when they are used in place of a specific proper name. Do not capitalize such titles when they are introduced by words like a, an, my, his, or our.
STANDARDS FOR PUNCTUATION

COMMA

Rules

(1) In citing a date within a sentence, set off the year with commas.
   Ex. On May 24, 1975, we transferred our account to a bank in Phoenix.

(2) When two or more adjectives modify a noun, separate them by commas if they bear equal relationship to the noun.
   Ex. A brilliant young lecturer gave an interesting, informative talk.

(3) Separate by commas a series of words or a series of phrases.
   Ex. They like to receive letters that are short, clear, and friendly.

(4) Use a comma after a dependent clause that precedes a principal clause. (Do not set off a clause used as a subject or predicate.)
   Ex. When we are angry, what we say may not be precisely what we mean.

(5) Use commas to set off a nonrestrictive appositive, but do not set off a restrictive appositive.
   Ex. Mr. Poe, our professor of English, reviewed the book Autumn Wind.

(6) Separate with a comma two consecutive, unrelated numbers.
   Ex. In 1969, 135 firms used this plan. During 1974, 32 discarded it.

(7) Use commas to set off a nonrestrictive clause.
   Ex. This trip, which is recommended in all guide books, costs little.

(8) Use a comma to separate coordinate (independent) clauses joined by one of the coordinating conjunctions (and, but, for, nor, or, and sometimes so and yet).
   Ex. A position is open, but I cannot interview anyone to fill it.

(9) Use a comma to set off an introductory phrase containing a verb.
   Ex. To qualify for this job, applicants must write effective letters.

    Ex. Thank you, Mr. Cole, for sending the portraits to me so promptly.
(12) Use a comma to separate a city and a state name.
   Ex. Our annual meeting will be held in Cleveland, Ohio, on August 21.

TERMINAL PUNCTUATION

Rules

(1) A complete declarative or imperative sentence has a period for terminal punctuation.
   Ex. The mastery of an art requires insight and technical proficiency.

(2) A request in the form of a question is usually punctuated with a period.
   Ex. Will you please have Mr. Johns sign the six copies of the report.

(3) Use a question mark after a direct question—not after an indirect question.
   Ex. He asked how long she has worked for you. When did you hire her?

(4) Use an exclamation point after a word, a phrase, or a sentence to indicate strong emotion or to carry sharp emphasis.
   Ex. Your sales met your quota! Congratulations! You earned a bonus.

SEMICOLON AND COLON

Rules

(1) Use a semicolon between independent clauses of a compound sentence when no conjunction is used.
   Ex. The statements did not come with his letter; they may come today.

(2) Use a semicolon between independent clauses of a compound sentence that are joined by a conjunctive adverb (however, therefore, etc.).
   Ex. We had engine trouble; consequently, we could not arrive in time.

(3) Use a semicolon to separate independent clauses of a compound sentence if any of the clauses are punctuated with commas.
   Ex. You can take Fay, Helen, and John; and the others will go by bus.

(4) Use a colon to introduce an enumeration or listing.
   Ex. Please ship us the following parts: fuse box, light, and switch.
COLON AND HYPHEN

Rules

(1) Use a colon to introduce a question or long quotation.
   Ex. The question is this: What experience is necessary for the jobs?

(2) Two spaces follow a colon except when used between sets of reference initials in a letter or to separate hours and minutes. As a rule, use figures with a.m. and p.m.
    Ex. We finished the tour at 12:45 p.m. and left the city at 5:26 p.m.

(3) Use a hyphen in compound numbers from twenty-one to ninety-nine.
    Ex. Approximately thirty-seven of the forty-eight delegates attended.

(4) Retain the hyphen in a series of compounds with the same ending or beginning; this is called suspended hyphenation.
    Ex. Each 2- and 3-day tour is taken in a school-owned or -leased bus.

HYPHEN AND DASH

Rules

(1) Use a hyphen to join compound adjectives preceding a noun.
    Ex. The well-known statesman has been appointed for a four-year term.

(2) Use a dash (--) to indicate a sudden change in thought.
    Ex. The best way--perhaps the only way--to have friends is to be one.

(3) Use a dash (--) for emphasis to set off an appositive.
    Ex. Your stars--freedom, opportunity, faith--are bright and constant.

(4) Use a dash (--) to introduce the name of an author when it follows a direct quotation.
    Ex. "The road to freedom, while narrow, is a two-way street."
    --Gross.

PARENTHESES

Rules

(1) Use parentheses to set off parenthetical or explanatory matter.
    Ex. Ralph (my cousin) lives in the capital city of Arizona (Phoenix).

(2) Use parentheses when an amount expressed in words is followed by the same amount in figures.
    Ex. I can sell my home to them for thirty thousand dollars ($30,000).
Parentheses may be used to enclose enumerations.
Ex. We should all work for (1) speed, (2) control, and (3) good form.

A punctuation mark is placed inside the closing parenthesis if it applies to the parenthetical material.
Ex. Bring the late report with you. (We have a copy of the old one.)

A punctuation mark follows the closing parenthesis if it punctuates the sentence itself.
Ex. I shall call him (the clerk, I mean), but I shall call you first.

A reference in parentheses at the end of a sentence is placed before the period. If the reference is a complete sentence, it is written as a complete sentence and enclosed in parentheses.
Ex. You will find the pictures you desire in the new book (page 137).

APOSTROPHE

Rules

1. The singular possessive is usually formed by adding 's; but for words having more than one syllable and ending in s, only the apostrophe is added.
   Ex. The Countess' son (my boss's uncle) financed his brother's trips.

2. When plural nouns do not end in s, add 's to form the possessive.
   Ex. Children's shoes and women's robes are on sale at the local shop.

3. Add only the apostrophe to form the possessive of plural nouns ending in s.
   Ex. The girls' shoes and boys' coats will be shipped by fast express.

4. The possessive of initials, abbreviations, etc., is formed with 's.
   Ex. William Wright, Jr.'s signature must appear on the YMCA's checks.

5. When common possession is to be shown for two or more persons, use 's with the last name only.
   Ex. Van and Bert's mother is here; Jan's and Pat's mothers have left.

6. Possessive pronouns do not take an apostrophe. (It's is the contraction if it is and thus requires an apostrophe.)
   Ex. The book is hers. Its cover is torn, so wrap it with great care.
(7) When a one-syllable proper name ends in s, add 's for possession.
Ex. Bess's talk on current events was better than Mr. Nance's report.

(8) Add only an apostrophe to show possession with a multisyllable proper name ending in s.
Ex. Carl Williams' store is only one block from Vince Marques' house.

(9) Company and organization names sometimes omit the apostrophe.
Ex. She walked from Wilson's Department Store to Citizens State Bank.

(10) It is better not to use the possessive form for inanimate objects; but business sanctions the possessive with day, month, year, etc.
Ex. It's true that eight years' work was destroyed in one day's time.

(11) Use 'd to form the past and past participle of coined words.
Ex. The office manager X'd out the last line; then he OK'd the cable.

QUOTATION MARKS

Rules

(1) Enclose a direct quotation with quotation marks.
Ex. This man wrote, "Happiness is not the end of life; character is."

(2) When a quotation is broken by such expression as he said, enclose both parts of the quotation marks.
Ex. "Great minds," Irving wrote, "have purposes; others have wishes."

(3) Place periods or commas inside the closing quotation mark.
Ex. "What we need," Harry said, "is dirtier hands and cleaner minds."

(4) Place semicolons or colons outside the closing quotation mark.
Ex. She said, "I listen for facts"; I know she concentrates on ideas.

(5) Place question marks or exclamation points inside closing quotation marks when they are part of the quotation; place them outside when they refer to the entire sentence, of which the quotation is but a part.
Ex. Did he read "A New Asia"? I called, "Strike while others sleep!"

(6) Enclose in quotation marks the titles of magazine articles, reports, lectures, subdivisions of printed works, and theses. (Underline or type in all capitals titles of books, magazines, and newspapers.)
Ex. Chapter 3 of Management Today is entitled "Model Office Systems."
STANDARDS FOR NUMBER USAGE

1. Spell numbers from one to ten except when used with numbers above ten.

2. Always spell a number beginning a sentence even though figures are used later in the sentence.

3. As a general rule, spell the shorter of two numbers used together.

4. Spell isolated fractions in a sentence, but type a series of fractions in figures. Use the diagonal (/) for fractions you make.

5. Numbers preceded by nouns are usually expressed in figures.

6. Express measures, weights, and dimensions in figures without commas.

7. Use the percent sign (%) with definite numbers typed in figures. Use percent (spelled) with approximations and in formal writing.

8. Spell names of small-numbered avenues and streets (ten and under). Type house numbers in figures except for house number One.

9. Use a comma to separate (a) unrelated groups of figures which come together and (b) whole numbers into groups of three digits each (however, Policy, year, page, room, telephone and most serial numbers are typed without commas).

10. Use a colon to separate hours and minutes expressed in figures.

11. Use a hyphen to join compound numbers from twenty-one to ninety-nine.

12. Use parentheses to enclose figures that follow spelled-out amounts.

13. Use an apostrophe as a symbol for feet in billings or tabulations or as a symbol for minutes. The quotation mark may be used as a symbol for inches or seconds.

14. Use apostrophe and s to form the plural of most figures. In market quotations, form the plural of figures by the addition of s only.

15. Type dates and time in figures, except in very formal writing.
STANDARDS FOR WORD DIVISION

1. You may divide words at the ends of lines to keep the right margin as even as possible. Excessive division should, however, be avoided.

2. Divide words between syllables only, as fore-noon and bom-bard. When in doubt, use the dictionary to help solve word-division problems.

3. Do not divide words of only one syllable, such as friend, thought, or trained. Do not separate a syllable without a vowel; as; didn't.

4. Do not divide a word of seven or fewer letters, such as also, duty, or going.

5. Do not separate a one-letter syllable at the end of a word; as enough.

6. Do not separate a one- or two-letter syllable at the end of a word; as ready, largely, higher.

7. You may usually divide a word between double consonants; as cor-rect, mil-lion, mes-sage.

g. Each employee should have access to aisle.
h. There should be enough space between desks and other furniture to prevent crowding and disruption.
i. All personnel should have access to outside light.
j. All personnel should have adequate light.
k. Equipment should be arranged so that majority of work would flow with minimum backings.

4. Letter each piece of furniture and equipment with corresponding letter on reference sheet.

5. Recommended: Use three pages of Graph Paper representing room sizes and scale outlines of office furnishings and equipment. (See V-TEC Catalog for Legal Secretary and Court Reporter.)
OUTCOME-REFERENCED MEASURES (7.1502-7.1505):

"Practice saying the following sentences aloud to improve your speech habits. Pronounce every word clearly and distinctly. Then have a classmate listen to you, and ask him to make a note of the words that he feels need your special attention.

(b) Think of the mouth chamber as a mold in which the correct form must be given to every sound.

(c) Move your lips noticeably.

(d) Your teeth should never be kept closed while you are talking.

(e) As your voice is the most direct expression of your innermost self, you should do full justice to yourself and use your voice to its fullest advantage.

FINDING OUT FACTS IN business

A Report to Mr. Sutton
By Sara Jane Brown

No one in the world of business is expected to know everything. However, everyone is expected to know something about where to get information when it is needed.

WHERE AND HOW TO FIND INFORMATION

In order to find all types of facts, simply pay a visit to the reference section of a public, business, or professional library. Those materials that are referred to rather frequently should either be subscribed to or purchased.

Point 1. Always write your instructions down carefully. Don't hesitate to ask questions of your supervisor in order to clarify an assignment.

Point 2. Learn quickly the organization of each reference work used, for example, tables of contents, page headings, indexes, and so forth.

From Today's Secretary, January, 1973

Attention Mr. Gary Crane

Ladies and Gentlemen:

SUBJECT: Our Order No. 1483

The china that we ordered from you on March 15 arrived today by United Parcel Service. Our Receiving Clerk, signed for the merchandise although she said she could hear the rattling of broken pieces even before opening the package.

Of the six place settings that we had ordered for one of our customers, only one place setting was intact. The merchandise we have ordered from you in the past always had special cardboard forms protecting the individual pieces. This package had only loose pieces of paper around the china.

Since our customer wishes to have the six place settings for a special occasion, might we have a rush order placed on the replacement of the five place setting which were broken? The pattern is Autumn Leaves and is described in detail on our Order No. 1483.

Very truly yours,

THE MODERN GIFT SHOPPE
