Suggested ideas on conducting a managerial workshop for camp directors are offered in this trainer’s guide. Workshops must be at least one full day of training (6 hours) on each topic to be counted toward the American Camping Association (ACA) Camp Director Certification Program. Suggested topics to be addressed are: (1) basic principles and concepts of the management area; (2) accepted techniques and innovations in the selected area; (3) interrelationships of the support system to the camp goals, program, and other service areas; and (4) government regulations and sources of information. Steps to developing and implementing a managerial workshop include determining needs and interests of participants; contacting the ACA Regional Education Coordinator for resource people and ideas; arranging for a workshop meeting place and establishing fees; organizing an advisory committee to determine workshop schedule and workshop content; and selecting and orienting special resource persons or trainers. Performance objectives are presented along with a suggested program and activities outline for the managerial workshop. Samples of evaluation forms, performance questionnaires, case studies, quizzes, worksheets on budgeting, and three resource sheets pertaining to budgeting, suggested readings and marketing are provided. Foreword

The Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services has for many years recognized the value of camping as an important aspect in the lives of handicapped youth and adults. Since 1971 when the former Bureau of Education for the Handicapped provided funding to help sponsor the National Conference on Training Needs and Strategies in Camping, Outdoor and Environmental Recreation for the Handicapped at San Jose State University, there has been a nationwide movement toward including handicapped children and adults in organized camping programs.

The material contained in this book and other volumes that make up the Camp Director Training Series are the result of a three-year project funded by the Division of Personnel Preparation. In funding this effort, it is our hope that the results of the project will help make camp directors and other persons more aware of the unique and special needs of disabled children and adults; and to provide information and resources to better insure that those needs are met.

The Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services is committed to the goal of equal opportunity and a quality life for every handicapped child in the United States. Opportunity to participate in camping programs on an equal basis with their non-handicapped peers is a right to which all handicapped children are entitled. However, this goal can be achieved only if those responsible for the provision of camping services are likewise committed to this goal.

Preface

Emblazoned across the mantle of the fireplace at its National Headquarters are the words “Better Camping For All.” Nothing more easily sums up the basic purpose of the American Camping Association (ACA) in its 75 years of existence than do these words. From its very beginning, the Association has been concerned about providing “better” camps. That concern has led to a continuing study and research for the most appropriate standards for health, safety, and better programming in the organized camp.

That concern for standards of performance in the operation of the summer camp led to an awareness of the necessity of an adequate preparation and continuing education of the camp director. Various short courses and training events were developed in local ACA Sections and at ACA national conventions. Many institutions of higher learning developed curriculum related to the administration of the organized camp.

By the late 1960s, the American Camping Association began the development of an organized plan of study for the camp director that would insure a common base of knowledge for its participants. Three types of camp director institutes were developed and experimented with in different parts of the country. In 1970, the Association adopted a formalized camp director institute which led to certification by the Association as a certified camp director. Continuing efforts were made to try to expand and improve upon the program.

After the first decade, it was recognized that the program must be greatly expanded if it were to reach camp directors in all parts of the country. Centralized institutes of a specified nature often prevented widespread participation by camp directors. This led the Association to consider the importance of documenting a body of knowledge which needed to be encompassed in the basic education of any camp director and to explore methods by which that information could be best disseminated.

During the years 1976-78, the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped, U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, funded a three-year project to determine the basic competencies required of a camp director who worked with the physically handicapped. Under the leadership of Dr. Dennis Vinton and Dr. Betsy Farley of the University of Kentucky, research was undertaken that led to the documentation of the basic components of such education. It was determined that 95 percent of the information required in education of a director of a camp for the physically handicapped was generic. Only 4 percent or 5 percent related specifically to the population served.

Meanwhile, the American Camping Association had begun to recognize that the word “all” in its motto is an obligation far beyond its extensive efforts over a number of decades to insure organized camping experiences for children of all racial, ethnic, and socio-economic backgrounds. Camps began to expand their services to a variety of special populations to encompass all age ranges and persons with a variety of physical and mental disabilities. The message soon reached the Association that any camp director education program must help all camp directors to understand and explore the needs of the new population the camps were serving. Chief among those new populations were the campers with physical and mental disabilities.

In 1978, the Association approached the Office of Special Education, U.S. Department of Education, and requested funding for a project to expand its education program based on the materials developed by Project REACH, a research project funded by the Department of Education at the University of Kentucky; the intent was to include training for directors working with the handicapped and develop a plan for wider dissemination of camp director education opportunities.

A subsequent grant from the department resulted in Project STRETCH and three years of monitoring camp director education programs, revising and expanding the basic curriculum for such programs, and developing new materials for use in expanded programs.

As we near the end of Project STRETCH, the American Camping Association is pleased to find that the project has helped to greatly heighten the level of awareness of the handicapped and their needs in the camp director community.

This volume is one of several volumes that will insure “Better Camping for All” in the decades ahead.

Acknowledgements

The camp administration series is a result of three years of work by hundreds of individuals in the field of organized camping and therapeutic recreation. A big thank you is extended to all who made this project a reality. While it is impossible to mention all contributors, we extend a special thank you to those individuals who assisted the project for all three years. With their input, the road to this project's completion was much easier to travel.

SECTION I

Introduction

Why Has Managerial Training Become a Part of the Camp Director Education Program?

Operating a camp is big business. It is estimated that there are between 9,000 and 10,000 camps in the United States. These, in turn, account for two billion dollars in annual transactions.

In terms of facilities, camps account for three and one-half billion dollars in property value, 10,000 miles of shoreline, and 2,500,000 acres of land. They employ 375,000 staff annually to help them service 9,000,000 campers.

Camp management requires directors who are competent in management systems. Management of a camp involves more than planning the program, hiring staff, and finding someone to do the maintenance; it involves the ability to design, operate, and continually revise a variety of support systems.

Recognizing the need for directors to have competence in management systems, the American Camping Association included four managerial topics as part of the ACA camp director education curriculum in the late seventies. These four managerial areas are:

- Food Service
- Health and Safety
- Business and Finance
- Site and Facilities

All managerial workshops should be organized to help camp directors analyze and establish the managerial support systems which are consistent with and supportive of the camp philosophy, goals, and objectives. To meet this general goal, each managerial workshop should address:

a. Basic principles and concepts of the management area.

b. Accepted techniques and innovations in the selected area (or field).

c. Interrelationships of the support system to the camp goals, program, and other service areas.

Managerial workshops must be at least one full day of training (six hours) on each topic if the managerial is to be counted toward the ACA Camp Director Certification Program. A workshop may be longer if the managerial coordinator deems necessary. Some sponsors have found it more satisfactory to have three or four one-day workshops on a particular managerial topic over a period of several years.

Why Address the Needs of Special Populations, Such as the Handicapped, in Camp Director Education Programs?

According to reports by the Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services (OSE&RS), approximately 12 percent of the country's population has some kind of handicap. OSE&RS estimates there are eight million handicapped children in the United States.

Historically, the Handicapped have been denied the same level of opportunity and service provided to the nonhandicapped. During recent years, equal opportunities have been growing. This awareness has been translated into a number of federal and state laws which are intended to assure that the rights of the handicapped are protected. These laws have ramifications for many fields, including camps. The ramifications of these laws are especially important for those camps receiving government funding. Moreover, the concept of equal opportunity for the handicapped has implications for all camps.

Among human services professions, there is a widening recognition and acceptance of the significant role that a camping experience (either mainstreaming programs or special populations camps) can play in the lives of handicapped children. (Gibson, Peter M. "Therapeutic Aspects of Wilderness Programs." Therapeutic Recreation Journal Second Quarter, 1979.) However, not all camp directors are aware of the value, nor do they have a positive attitude toward the handicapped.

The attitude of the camp director toward the handicapped will be the most important single force in determining whether or not his/her camp will offer opportunities for campers with special needs. It is, therefore, imperative that training at managers expose camp directors to characteristics and needs of special populations and their implications for camping experiences. Strategies camps can use, and are using to service all special audiences including the handicapped, should be examined.

What Is Your Role as the Managerial Coordinator?

There are basically four functions necessary for the completion of any training event. These are: planning, promoting, implementing and evaluating.

Depending on the qualifications and time of the Section Education Chairperson, he/she may elect to serve as the managerial coordinator or select someone else to handle part or all of the managerial coordinator's responsibilities.
The following list has been developed to help you, the Managerial Coordinator, develop and implement a managerial workshop:

1. Determine the needs and interests of the potential workshop participants.
2. Contact your ACA Regional Education Coordinator for suggestions for resource people and ideas.
3. Arrange for a workshop meeting place and establish fees to cover all expenses of the event, including any resources or books to be distributed to participants. Budgets should be approved by the Section with the Section Treasurer handling all registrations and monies. (See sample in Appendix A.)
4. Organize an advisory committee to help determine schedule and organize the managerial workshop content.
5. Select and orient any special resource persons or trainers to be used to the managerial goals and process.

Promotion may include these two important steps:

1. Prepare a brochure on promotion material and distribute it.
2. Share managerial dates with other Sections, colleges, and the National ACA office.

To implement your managerial, consider these points:

1. Determine what will be required for satisfactory completion of the managerial by participants.
2. The style of the managerial is up to the coordinator. As part of the process, the coordinator may wish to consider how the following items can be handled to facilitate the style selected:
   - Participant groupings
   - Opening and closing sessions
   - Process for evaluation (workshop and participants)
   - Meals and breaks
3. Prepare the final agenda and check on all resources.
4. Hold the workshop.

Evaluation is critical. These steps will help you organize your evaluation:

1. Distribute, collect, and summarize managerial evaluation forms completed by participants at the end of workshop. (See form in Appendix C.)
2. Complete the evaluation summary regarding which participants have satisfactorily completed the workshop. As an option, you may order certificates for those who have successfully completed the training. Certificates are available from ACA publications or Sections may design their own certificates.
3. Complete the Managerial Workshop Report Form as found in Appendix B, and attach the following:
   a. Summary of the managerial evaluation forms.
   b. Criteria used for determining satisfactory completion of the managerial and list of who completed the managerial satisfactorily.
   c. List or copies of resources used (AV materials, books, handouts, promotional materials.)
   d. Agenda/Schedule.
   e. Recommendations to improve the managerial.

Send one copy to National ACA office, to your Regional Education Coordinator, and to the local Section board.

How Important Is the Evaluation Component?

Evaluation should be carried out at the conclusion of each managerial to determine which portions need to be improved, to compare your managerial with others, and to maintain quality control of American Camping Association's professional education programs which are used for certification or recertification purposes.

Evaluation of the training may be carried out in several ways. Some prefer a written evaluation questionnaire. Others prefer a group discussion to evaluate an event. A few have used sub-groups or outside evaluators to observe the entire training and present a summary to the group at the closing session.

How the data for the workshop evaluation will be collected is the responsibility of the coordinator. However, it is necessary to collect information and report it to the national and regional coordinators. This enables them to do comparisons of managerials and share results with other Sections. The evaluation should answer the following questions:

1. Did the managerial meet its goals?
2. Were the needs of the participants met?
3. Was the content and format appropriate?
4. Were the resource leaders and materials helpful?
5. What were the strengths and weaknesses of the training?
6. How can it be improved next time?

A questionnaire that may be used for a written evaluation by participants is included in Appendix C.

Evaluation of participants is just as important as evaluation of the workshop itself. Since managerial workshops may be used to complete one of the prerequisites for ACA Camp Director Certification or counted for recertification credit, it is important to determine whether or not the participant satisfactorily completed the managerial workshop. This means the workshop coordinator needs to set the criteria for satisfactory completion by a participant; notify participants of the criteria; and report to the Section coordinator, regional coordinator, and National ACA office the names of those who have satisfactorily completed the managerial.

In the Managerial Guide that follows, both a list of desired learning outcomes and suggested methods for participant assessment are included. It is required that an evaluation method(s) be incorporated as part of all managerials. However, the coordinator is not limited to those contained herein. These are merely to be used as a starting point.

How Can I Use the Remainder of this Trainer's Guide in Planning My Own Managerial Workshop?

The following material is one managerial coordinator's ideas on how to cover the ACA Core Curriculum performance. It makes up the bulk of this guide. The writer has included many more objectives and activities than you can possibly cover in a six hour period. This has been done to give you many ideas to choose from and to hopefully make your task easier.
What Should Be Included in an ACA Business and Finance Managerial?

The following are ACA objectives for a managerial on business and finance. At the completion of the managerial workshop, each participant should be able to analyze the camp director's role in establishing and supervising the camp's business operation. Specific objectives include:

1. Knowledge of and ability to identify (a) resources for securing appropriate federal, state, and local laws, and (b) ACA Standards relating to camp business management.
2. Knowledge of business management systems, including fiscal operations.
3. Knowledge of office management, record keeping, and reporting procedures.
4. Ability to identify various patterns of ownership and financial arrangements.
5. Knowledge of various types of insurance coverage available to camps and ability to identify professional resources.
6. Ability to establish a system for the camp's business operation.

These are suggested topics for workshop content:

- Standard bookkeeping, accounting principles, and systems
- Legal requirements and insurance coverage for camp operations
- Office management practices to improve camp operations in such areas as budgeting, fiscal year planning, tax reports, Social Security, secretarial aspects, business machines, copy centers, and printing
- Communications methods with parents, purveyors, and the community
- Job descriptions and contracts for employees
- Access to business trends pertinent to camping
- Local tax rates and community relations
- Food cost versus purchasing power (i.e., cooperative buying, discount, inventory controls, comparative budgeting)
- Procedures for evaluation of program costs
- Policies regarding gratuities to personnel
- Projected use of site for year-round programming
- Director's responsibility in camp business matters
- Money management (i.e., short-term, cash flow deposits, investments, capital expense versus rentals, IRS, profit-sharing plans)
- Personnel practices

A suggested resource team might include:

- Attorneys
- Insurance brokers
- Banking personnel
- Accountants
- Public and private business personnel
- Experienced camp directors
- Experienced camp business managers
SECTION II
Business and Finance Managerial

Managerial Trainer Guide

Allen Beavers, CCD
Director, YMCA Camp of Metro-Hartford, Connecticut

The camp director and/or owner is responsible for the legal and financial soundness of the camp operation. Lack of knowledge or ignorance of business law can no longer be accepted as an excuse for one's errors, nor for the failure of the camp to continue in operation. Laws and practices change frequently, and it is the responsibility of the camp administrator to keep abreast of these changes.

The trainer is expected to provide up-to-date information on good, current business practices, management skills of an operation, and means to produce good investment income. However, the trainer should point out that the reason for this is to improve and provide the consumer with a healthy, safe camp environment.

Keeping up to date with business and financial management is necessary for all practicing camp directors. It is imperative that camp directors stay alert and abreast in these fields in order to survive. To do this, the trainer will have to call upon the expertise of local specialists. As the trainer will see, covering all suggested areas of training will only allow for a brief portion of the day to be concerned with "where each director is." Certainly, each participant must have some foundation in business and financial management. At the very best, it is for a camp director with basic knowledge and experience.

As you review the suggested managerial materials, you will find that it is not designed to answer all of your questions, but rather to alert you to the business world in which all camps must operate. Also, it is designed to inform the camp director of whom and where to ask questions and whom to go to for the right answers.

Some of the financial "survival" areas of modern-day businesses are so technical that outside expertise must be brought to this program. But, it is important to keep the camp directors' background in mind. The subject matter should not be dealt with in a way that frightens directors or causes them to feel the information is beyond them. In other words, input must be practical and reasonable and in a lay person's language.

Prior to the workshop, have the participants complete a self-assessment checklist. Then use this information to inform panels, speakers, or discussion leaders of participant's needs. In this way the leaders can provide the participants with current information in these areas and outline a process which will help them to keep abreast in these areas. As the trainer, you should provide opportunities for individual input and for group discussion; in other words, give workshop participants time to share new information.

Finally, the trainer should conclude all managerials with a guide for continued individual growth. It is important for each person to establish future channels of communication between ACA, other camp directors, and the business community.

Performance Objectives

The objectives presented in this section were developed from the ACA-approved objectives for this managerial. The author has reorganized the objectives and added objectives to provide more specific information and detail. As a trainer, you can do the same thing as long as you use the ACA-approved objectives as your sole guideline. Business and finance objectives include the following.

1. Knowledge of and ability to identify (a) resources for securing appropriate federal, state, and local laws, including laws and regulations pertaining to the handicapped, and, (b) ACA Standards relating to camp business management.
2. Knowledge of business management systems, including fiscal operations, and local shared systems available to any camp.
3. Knowledge of office management, record keeping, and reporting procedures, including those that are required by law and those used only for local information.
4. Knowledge of various patterns of ownership and financial arrangements and the ability to secure sound advice as to the best methods to use in one's own operation.
5. Ability to determine, select, and secure appropriate insurance coverage for year-round camp operations.
6. Ability to establish a system of business operations.
7. To become aware of modern technical equipment and services for office operations such as microfiche, bill collecting, in-house computer equipment, bank draft and other devices to deal with cash flow, discounting and investing, and long-term capital investments and benefits.
8. Knowledge of publications, organizations, training programs, and professionals who can provide new information and skill development.
Suggested Program Outline

9:00 AM Registration—Coffee and collection of pre-assigned participant data sheets.
9:30 Overview—Of day’s work.

Priorities

9:45 AM Introduction—Conceptual—The Planning Stage

I. Some Budget Balancing Keys:
1. Your business system must be tailored to your camp goals and objectives.
2. Build statistical reinforcement into your long-range plan.
3. Before you expand your services, do a market survey and review your master plan—consider special populations.
4. How to build a budget.

10:00 Systems—Kinds—why needed? Purposes—legal audits—record keeping—basic accounting to meet the law.

10:50

Insurance* Liability—For whom, its limits, special populations and high risk programs. Agency requirements—private camp recommendations—kinds—health and accident—accreditation—D & O—deductions up front.

11:00 Personnel Management—E.E.O. data—O.S.H.A.—Workman’s Compensation—FICA—records and ratings—open files by law and the whole area of “people management.”

12:15 PM Break for Lunch

1:15 PM Managing Camp Assets—A panel presentation over material from the REACH self-study guide. Use the pre-test for the first 15 minutes.

2:15 PM Money Management—Short term loans—corporation collective liability management—capital expense vs. rentals. The small business association vs. non-profit agency.

2:40 Office Administration—Hand posting vs. computer data processing—costs—promotion (use the article “Fifty Ways of Promoting Your Camp”)—public communications—the media—type of printing.

3:00 Coffee Break

3:10 Keeping Current—Microfiche—microfilming—the bank draft system—computers—cash flow—the money market and investment—word-processing equipment adapted to camping—telephone, PA systems—radio—closed circuit TV—depreciation.

4:00 Where Do We Go from Here?—The next step. Suggested followup. Finally, “where does the camper fit in?”

Have a Safe Trip Home!

Some Basic Assumptions

1. This managerial assumes that the participants have directed a camp and have been involved in its operation. It is not intended to be a basic course on the art of administration.

2. After completing this managerial, the workshop participants should be able to determine the level of their knowledge and competence in business and financial management and know how to become better administrators.

3. The major focus of this managerial is on business and management; however, there will be some reference to subject matter from other managerials.

4. After completing the workshop program; it is assumed that the workshop participants will return to their respective locations and contact suggested sources of information to “tailor” information to individual needs.

5. It is important to stress the positive aspects of computer use and to play down the element of fear. The computer does two things: it gives us fast, accurate information when needed, and secondly, it provides us with accurate verification of information. This enables us to spend more time with our first love—the campers.

6. This training program should serve as a catalyst for learning. Success of this managerial will depend on the participants’ continual pursuit of information when returning home.

7. Remember, the campers we serve and the staff who work for us are growing up in a computerized, technical world. Camp directors must at least keep up with them, and better keep ahead of them.

8. While all sessions will review what people are currently doing in their camp operation, the focus should be on “how to do it better and more efficiently” and “what’s new in the field.”

9. Stress to all managerial participants that this workshop is an opportunity for the future. In other words, this managerial could be and possibly should be “repeated” every few years if camp directors are to keep pace with the times.
Pre-Managerial Preparation for Participants

Each participant should prepare the following information and bring it with them to the managerial.

Answer the following questions.

1. Review your budget and lump line items into the following categories. List the percentages of each group in relation to the total budget.

Percent of Total

- Wages and benefits
- Raw food costs
- Service supplies (kitchen, bath, medical, etc.)
- Program supplies
- Utilities
- Buildings and grounds maintenance
- Insurance
- Depreciation reserves (profit and non-profit)
- Profit (for private-for-profit camps)
- Transportation (primarily day and travel camps)
- Promotion
- Administration

2. What do you do to recover overdue accounts?

3. How do you handle your cash flow? How do you even out cash flow on a monthly basis?

4. What types of insurance do you have?

5. What magazines do you subscribe to at present to keep yourself up-to-date in the business and management fields? Please list:

6. What non-camp services do you use in your operation? (Auditors, cooperative buying programs, time share computer(s), consultants, etc.) Please list:

7. Bring samples of all of your promotional materials (enough copies for other participants, if possible).

8. Bring a master chart of your organizational structure showing lines of authority (solid lines) and lines of responsibility (dotted with arrows).

9. Bring samples of job descriptions and policies of operation.

10. If your camp is a year-round operation, list your fixed costs for summer versus winter months.

11. If you have a long-range plan for development and/or management, bring the outline with you.

12. Bring any other materials you are currently using that you would like to share with other camp directors to help them in their work.
Supplies and Equipment Needed

- Before arrival of participants:

  1. Set up area for workshop.
     - Head table, rostrum, and microphone
     - Table for supplies
     - Chairs, either theater style or around tables for participants
     - Newsprint and easel, and/or blackboard and chalk
     - Separate room for lunch (do not use same room.)

  2. Prepare registration table
     - Registration table outside session room
     - Receipt book
     - Registration forms
     - Notebooks and pencils for participants
     - Name stickers for all
     - Region or Section leadership person to handle registration
     - Cashbox and change
     - Copies of all needed worksheets, schedules, and handouts
     - Any testing materials you plan to use
     - Session evaluation forms as prescribed by ACA

  3. Organize resource table
     - Assorted books such as “Camp Staff Training Series”
     - United Way National Budget Preparation materials
     - Current O.S.H.A. Manual and associated required posting materials (free from suppliers)
     - Bankdraft sample forms
     - Assorted samples of forms, government items, etc.
     - Typical audit reports (may use an ACA annual audit as an example)
     - Sample ACA or David Dabrow’s Camp Staff Job Description.
     - Assorted energy resource materials and publications
     - Government procurement process information and who is eligible
     - Vehicle leasing sample agreements, as well as other lease arrangement forms
     - Sample inventory forms with depreciation column for auditing purposes
     - Sample “marketing” plans

  4. Have media support equipment and supplies available; consider selecting from list.
     - Film projector
     - Tape recorder
     - Video recorder
     - Microfiche reader and assorted microfiche
     - Microfilm and reader
     - Slide projector
     - O.S.H.A. slide set (current set available from A. Beavers for $7.50; however, these may well be changing in near future—current book from local source is all that is needed)
     - Screen
     - Overhead projector, transparencies, grease pencils
     - Magic markers and newsprint
     - Opaque projector
     - Blackboard and chalk

Pre-Assessment Questionnaire
Rate Your Performance

The following assessment tool was adapted from a rating scale by Roger Fritz titled "Rate Yourself as a Manager," and published in Association Management magazine in August, 1980.

The self-assessment rating instrument is divided into four sections: 1) organization and management skills, 2) planning skills and use of time, 3) communication and supervisory skills, and 4) budget and financial management skills.

Using the check sheet that follows, you are to analyze your strengths and weaknesses for each of the four areas. To do this, answer the ten questions for each area using the following rating:

Definite Strength: 10-9
Moderate Strength: 8-7
Average Performance: 6-5
Rarely Effective: 4-3
Definite Weakness: 2-1

If your score is 60 or less for any one section, prepare a plan to help you improve your performance level. Chart your scores on the "Summary Evaluation Checklist" to determine your overall performance.

I. Organization and Management Skills

1. Am I sensitive to the influence my actions have on my employees?
2. Do I understand their reactions to my actions?
3. Do I allow subordinates to express ideas and opinions?
4. Do I effectively motivate my employees?
5. Am I able to resolve conflicts in a constructive way?
6. Have I developed a spirit of teamwork among my staff?
7. Does the day-to-day work in my department run smoothly?
8. Do I give staff the guidance, training, and authority to make decisions independently?
9. Do I regularly assess the quality of my work and that of my staff?
10. Do I have a personal plan for self-improvement?

Total

II. Planning and Time Management

1. Do I appropriately analyze the impact of particular changes on the future of my organization?
2. Do I plan meetings in advance?
3. Do I have a clear vision of direction for my organization?
4. Are these plans in written form to guide me as well as others?
5. Do I avoid reacting to the pressure of the moment?
6. Do key problems and priorities receive proper attention?
7. Do I schedule work at special times of the day or week to take advantage of my own energy and effectiveness levels?
8. Am I in control of the amount of fragmentation and interruption of my work?
9. Do I make use of time-saving devices such as dictating machines and calculators?
10. Do I have my priorities clearly in mind most of the time?

Total

III. Communication and Supervisory Skills

1. Is my information organized so that it is easy to locate and use?
2. Do I balance that collection of information they need when they need it?
3. Does my staff have the information they need when they need it?
4. Do I put it in writing so that my subordinates are not at an informational disadvantage?
5. Do I make the most of meetings for which I am responsible?
6. Do my staff understand our objectives and know what is to be done, when, and by whom?
7. Do I know which tasks I can delegate and which must be done by me?
8. Do I leave the final decision to subordinates often enough?
9. Do I show genuine interest in my staff's work?
10. Am I confident that my staff can handle the work I give them?

Total

IV. Budget and Financial Management Skills

1. Can I prepare a sound budget for my program?
2. Do I have a time line for getting my budget prepared and approved?
3. Do I involve all professional staff in budget preparation?
4. If I am having problems preparing a budget or managing funds, do I know where to go for assistance?
5. Do I use a systematic approach to fiscal management?
6. Do I have sound fiscal management procedures?
7. Do I inform staff of fiscal procedures and enforce them?
8. Do I use my operating budget as a guide for implementing and evaluating program?
9. Do I know how to prepare a proposal for outside funding?
10. Am I familiar with outside funding sources?

If composite score is:

80-100 Strengths should serve you well.
60-80 Unbalanced skills may seriously retard your progress.
Under 50 You may be mismatched as a manager.
Post-Assessment: Case Studies

To the Trainer: This is an optional activity you may wish to use for post-assessment.

Case Study I

The time of day is 4:45 PM; soon dinner will be served. The sky seems to be darkening rapidly. Almost without warning the wind becomes almost violent. The radio newsman announces, tornadoes have been spotted in the spot. Then, all of a sudden you realize that you had better act quickly. Children and staff must be warned; in fact, you must give them orders quickly and correctly.

One hour later, the tornado has ripped down all of your high-tension power lines; some are still alive and sparking. The only road into camp is impassable, with trees down, and part of it is washed away. Three buildings have no roofs. Trees are uprooted all over the camp. But what you still do not know is how that unit you rented to the Campfire Inc. across the lake has survived. Soon you realize that the tornado has destroyed everything in its path. It started near the end of the lake and continued for some 2,000 feet with a path some 200 feet wide, and right through the area where the Camp Fire Camp was! You soon learn that the road into their area is completely destroyed and the only way to find out what is happening is by boat. Later you learn that all but two of the buildings in that unit were totally destroyed, but somehow none of the 40 people had been killed.

1. List all advance preparations one should take prior to such a tragedy.
2. Identify insurance precautions and staff training.
3. In the above case the main switchboard was also out, what kind of preplanning for emergency communication would you design?
4. How do you communicate with parents who on the outside do not really know what is happening? How about the press?
5. How do you handle and verify the condition of all persons and what do you do with situations beyond in-camp personal ability?
6. How do you handle frightened youths?
7. How do you organize after-tragedy leadership and assignments?
8. What are the instructions to all present (i.e., water purity, no electricity, lavatory needs, damaged property—both personal and camp, etc.)?

Case Study II:

The date is August, 1981. You receive a letter from the I.R.S. stating that your records for 1978 are about to be audited.

1. Identify all the records that you will be required to have and those that may assist you in answering questions. The day for the I.R.S. visit arrives, and you are asked for various records and access to the director of your bookkeeping office. Then you are told to leave them alone for a while.
2. What instructions should you give to your employed personnel prior to this time so that they will feel somewhat "at ease" in your absence, and know that they are giving appropriate responses?

Later you are told that you did not pay F.I.C.A. on all the "value received" items, and now, you have to pay back taxes, plus penalties.

3. List possible penalties and what they can mean to you, both financially and legally. Can you recover any costs from former employees?

Case Study III:

You are in a staff training session which is to deal with all aspects of safety and legal liability. This session is to deal with policies regarding: 1) staff bringing cars to camp, and if they can, under what rules they can use them; 2) lost camper drills, both on land and in the water; 3) food poisoning, its medical, legal, and public relations effect; 4) how to handle media during a major camp problem; 5) how to handle communications to parents during a PR problem; 6) protections you provide all employees and under what conditions they can be jeopardized. Organize your lesson plan into various categories and identify outside panelists, if any, you would bring in to talk with the staff.

Case Study IV:

You operate a camp store for campers and staff. Midway through the summer you realize that the income is far less than you think it should be. You do a quick inventory and verify that you are in trouble. Develop a plan to improve the organization of your store or canteen operation. How often would you check to make sure things are going all right? How would you supervise it? What kind of items should not be stocked in a camp store operation, and how would you handle the tax recording, assuming that you are in a state which collects such taxes? What kind of record keeping would you keep to make sure your records are absolutely accurate? How often and in what manner would you inventory? How much of your store sales can you legally charge off to Promotion and not pay tax on?

Case Study V:

Camp tuition refund policies are often the basis for many legal recovery situations. Write a camp policy that will both protect the customer and the camp. Certainly you want to keep all that you can, especially when an unfilled bed is really your profit margin. In order to avoid "after the fact" problems, must you have in print to tell the consumer that are available in case of an unresolved dispute? Cite the PR advantages and disadvantages if such problems are made public.

Case Study VI:

The area of purchasing is often one of the most difficult tasks for many camp directors who are or call themselves "program and people persons." We often find camp directors buying from "friends," friends of previous camp directors, or a persistent salesperson. We find many camp directors paying too much for many items, getting poor quality goods, and entering into unacceptable contracts because they do not know how to buy.

1. List some of the points of good product selection, where product research can be obtained and areas where bidding can be done.
2. Develop a good sample bidding form. In addition to price, include: product viability, content, quality, quantity, delivery, and other areas that positively identify products for proper comparison.
Resource Sheet #1: Some Budget Balancing Keys

Planning

1. Maintain the individuality of your camp.
2. Build statistical reinforcement into your long-range plan.
3. Before you expand your services, do a market survey and review your master plan.
4. Avoid needless competition with other groups.

Funding

5. Maintain a personal financial development program.
6. Develop an annual corporate and/or individual support system, utilizing families of your campers and others as donor-solicitors.
7. Correlate sustaining funds and requests for funds with ability to pay.

Managing

8. Determine service costs and charge so that total return will equal total expenses.
9. Design a balanced budget and monitor it on a monthly basis.
10. Use short-term investment rather than large checking accounts.
11. Prepare an annual budget and depreciation costs (maintenance and repair for major items) using direct accounting procedures.
12. Consider having bids for capital acquisitions and improvements in excess of $500.
15. Never expend endowment principal for operating purposes unless all other alternatives have been exhausted.
16. Maximize endowment benefits on an ongoing basis.

Now, for you and your camp, make your notes in the space below.

Note: Each individual camp must look at all regulations which relate directly to them. The above authorities are some that should be considered by each camp. However, IRS, OSHA, and EEO, among others, should also be consulted.

Remember often various governmental agency retention periods conflict, but yours as an organization must use the longest.

Resource Sheet #3
Concepts of Promotion and Marketing

Allen L. Beavers, Jr.

The following ideas are ways in which camp directors can promote their camps. Some are free. Others require an expenditure of funds and have to be judged according to their productivitY. In any event, each method has been tried and proven successful in at least one camp operation.

1. TV Spot Announcements: Free to nonprofit private and agency camps. Check with your local TV station. Most will accept 16mm color film footage, if it is of good quality, and will loan an announcer to narrate the film. It is easier to get air time for a 28 second spot than for longer ones. Since all commercial stations have to donate a percentage of time to public events, many stations welcome good films from local camps. Certain seasons of the year are better than others, check for this in your community.

2. Radio Spot Announcements: Same as the above, but without video.

3. Newspaper Advertising with AGA Emblem: Stories that are newsworthy can be accepted free, but solicitation must be paid for. Good stories can enhance your program and cost you nothing.

4. Name on Vehicles: Moving billboards—every vehicle you own should have your camp name on it, plus careful additional advertising and phone numbers.

5. Vans in Parades: Dress up your van or other vehicles and enter them in local parades. Keep your name in front of the public.

6. Vans in Shopping Centers: In the springtime, or other times of the year, park the vehicle with name on it in the center of the parking lot. This works best when vehicle is taller than others surrounding it. Have volunteers stand in the general area and pass out literature.

7. Approval Signs in Stores: If you operate a camping program, get the local sporting goods stores which have good reputations to hang a sign in their camping department such as: “Approved Camp Name Supply Center.” Do not accept any payment for this approval as this could cause legal questions.

8. Personal Calendars: In December of one year mail each camper a wallet calendar with reunion dates, camp dates, etc., on it. In alternate years send a desk calendar with a picture of the camp on it.

9. Year Books: It is extremely important that all pictures have the names of campers under them and activities identified. This can be a basis for alumni promotion and in the years ahead be a record of people and programs.

10. Cabin Pictures: Cabin pictures are fine for current use, but again, if they are unlabeled, over the years they become of little value.

11. Post Cards to Campers and Parents: If you have your counselors write to parents, be sure to use picture post cards of your camp.

12. Counselor/Camper Holiday Letter: During the summer have each counselor write a letter, using a guide, to their campers and date it to correspond a few days prior to Christmas or Hannakah. Have them give it to you to mail for them a few days before that holiday so each camper hears from his or her counselor at mid-year.

13. Birthday Card: Print camp birthday cards, sign them individually, and put them in numerical order. Have a secretary mail the cards a few days before each birthday.

14. Orientation Nights: Sponsor orientation nights in local schools, churches, etc. Serve refreshments, show movies, and pass out literature.

15. Trip Training Seminars: Prior to accepting a person for a trip, require at least one parent to attend a training session. Be sure to offer several and allow the attendants to bring a friend. In this way, you educate parents, sell others, and gain many allies.

16. Counter signs with pockets to hold brochures.

17. Direct Brochure Mailings into Selected Towns: Vary towns each year.

18. Reunions: Hold both local and regional reunions. Also for those in the area, hold them at camp during vacation times.

19. Stereo Slides and Viewers: Mail these direct to interested applicants. Be sure to include a mail pack and the postage for return of both. These are interesting, inexpensive, and impressive to prospective applicants. Loss is minor.

20. Home Interview Portfolio: When interviewing in the home, have a pictorial, multipage, plastic viewing device for the child to look at while you talk with the parents. Afterwards, this can be seen by the parents, but it will keep the child occupied while you “parent-talk.”

22. Off-Season Vacation Programs for Campers: Use ski schools, trail caravans, boat trips, or other kinds of experiences that will rally together the clientele in a common interest and setting.

23. National Director Service Books: Some parents check this kind of staff advertising for camp philosophies as well as how they recruit staff.

24. Advertise in Local Shopping Guides: These are inexpensive and well-read.

25. Service Clubs: Local service clubs are always looking for speakers and especially for good positive human interest information. They also have kids that go to camp!

26. Bus Advertising: This works well for agencies in cities with bus service. You may well want to print in various languages and give phone numbers.

27. Cooperative Phone Number for Call-in Information: Use listings in phone books, billboards, radio, etc.

29. Slide Program: This approach is usually more acceptable to clubs and organized school groups. They often look for programs for their meetings.

30. Bumper Stickers: Use few words, a catch phrase. Be sure to include a phone number.

31. Award Stickers: Award patches can be used in camp and in off-season activities.

32. Individual Award Cards.
33. Early Admission Discount: For signing up at the end of one season, give a discount on next year. In today's market it is not wise to "hold" this year's price for next year unless the volume is great enough.

34. Camper of the Year Award: "Camper of the Year Award" can become political, but properly handled, can create a good publicity stature.

35. Color Postcards of Camp Scenes.

36. Camper Letter/Envelope Packet for Sale: Self-printed with a camp scene on it.

37. CombS, etc., with Advertising on Them.

38. The Shirts with Advertising on Them: While not a new idea, they are a part of today's youth society. Be creative.

39. Special Program Certificates: There are many varieties of blank, colorful, and interesting certificates available which you can inexpensively print or photocopy.

40. Group Award Identification: Group awards that carry over from year to year and remain on public display are good tools to use.

41. Staff Promotion News Releases: These have the most impact in the staff member's home town and in a local paper.

42. Camp Committee Announcements: Use announcements for ongoing as well as special event programs. If participants are from various communities, news releases should appear in their local papers.

43. Annual Giving Programs: Be sure to state reasons why they should be supported.

44. Capital Campaigns: And how others may "support youth growth programs."

45. Color Brochures: People often rate an operation as it portrays itself. If we promote ourselves as "first class," others will rate us as first class, as long as we also deliver first class programs.

46. Parents' Guide and Information Packets: A public relations packet designed to tell parents what to look for in a good camp with your by-line on it implies, without saying so yourself, that your camp fits this description. Do not forget to include your phone number for more information.

47. Public Displays: You can often have a booth for little or no cost at many civic shows and public events. However, it is important to use a professional display; otherwise, you can do more harm than good.

48. Shopping Mall Displays: Many shopping malls are looking for good quality displays (better with action) and people in the courtyards to help attract customers. Place emphasis on "service to the local community."

49. Place Mat Advertising: Provide free-of-charge place mats to churches and other public places for their use. You often can get a food supplier to provide you with free placements as well as the printing.

50. Full Service Camping Concept: Use catchy captions to advertise, just like other businesses. Phrases such as: "We're in the People Business," "We're a Full Service Camp," and "Dealing in the Most Precious and Valuable Raw Material in the World—Your Sons and Daughters." The basic concept—MARKETING!!

While there are always additional ideas, these ideas have been used . . . and they worked!

PROJECT REACH SELF-STUDY GUIDE:
Business and Finance

by

Vinton, D. A., and Farley, E. M.

University of Kentucky

1978

This unit has been adapted from a Module written by Ed Andrews from the Camp Director Training Series developed by Project REACH at the University of Kentucky and funded by the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped, now the Office of Special Education.
1. Assemble a list of all governmental agencies that offer special services and resources to land owners, small business operators, and youth serving organizations indicating the nature of the services offered.

2. Prepare a summary of all governmental fees, licenses, and regulations that apply to the management of property and related aspects of site management.

3. Identify all areas of financial risk in the operation of a camp and prepare a list of maximum cost exposure for each risk.

4. Prepare a list of insurance coverages desired from the above risk analysis and submit it to two or more insurance underwriters for quotation.

5. With the assistance of an attorney, select from two or more insurance coverage quotations the policies that provide the most complete coverage at the lowest cost.

6. Prepare a summary of the Workman’s Compensation law and regulations of your state.

7. Conduct a market survey and/or needs assessment of the market your camp serves. Based on the results and your camp’s goals and objectives, make any revisions required in your master plan for site and facility.

8. Prepare a development plan including design, funding methods, projected completion dates, and the extent to which outside consultants will be necessary.

Controlling Business and Finance Operations

9. Describe three basic reasons for budgeting and determine the differences between objective (operational) and functional budgeting and when to use each method.

10. Using the completed needs assessment and/or market analysis and your camp’s historical data, estimate the demand for services (project enrollment) in the various programs of your camp.

11. By completing a cost analysis of the services required by your camp (agency, clientele), prepare an expense projection for each account.

12. Using the expense projections and enrollment estimate, establish an income budget and a unit price for all services your camp has to offer.

13. Using a break-even chart, adjust your budget plan to provide for a reasonable margin of safety.

14. Be familiar with the following terms: voucher, receipt, ledger, journal, expense, cost, income, net income, gross income, trial balance, source document, audit trail, invoice, bill, statement, profit, loss, balance, cash flow, equity, capital, asset, liability and fiscal year.

15. Prepare a list of the policies that pertain to the financial record keeping required of your camp.

16. Prepare a list of all financial documents and reports that must be seen, initiated, and/or signed by the camp director and other members of the camp staff, and which ones are required by law and how long each should be retained.

17. List your camp’s program priorities and show the relationship between the financial records and the record of achievement of the camp’s goals.

18. Design a cash flow chart for your camp.

19. Using daily and weekly cost journals (worksheets), project the relationship between actual expenses and budgeted expenses.

20. Using your payroll journal, prepare a Federal Payroll Tax Report Form 941 and complete an annual IRS Income Tax Report Form 990 (Non-profit) or 1040 (Profit only).

21. Using your general ledger, write a statement of assets and liabilities with balances (balance sheet) at the end of an accounting period; also, prepare a profit or loss statement for each account.

22. Write a financial summary report disclosing all financial activity needed to evaluate the management process.

23. Demonstrate your ability to interpret financial reports and data and make recommendations affecting the financial health of your camp.

24. Demonstrate your ability to detect errors and/or misappropriation of funds and data by reading periodic financial reports and/or by reviewing records and documents requiring management approval.

25. Prepare a trial balance sheet from the general ledger.

26. Prepare your camp’s financial records for external audit.
