One of two books prepared for high school level correspondence students in Alaska, this collection of lesson plans stresses problem areas in English grammar. Topics covered in the plans are (1) verbs and their subjects; (2) capitalization; (3) end punctuation; (4) adjectives, adverbs, and prepositional phrases; (5) comparative and superlative degrees; (6) commas; (7) quotation marks; (8) complex sentences; (9) spelling; (10) summarizing; (11) outlining; and (12) vocabulary. Each plan in the book contains a statement of objectives, a self-check test, and a worksheet. Instruction for using the plan book and answer keys for the self-check tests are also included. (FL)

INTRODUCTION

This is your lesson plan book for English (A), a course designed to help you overcome problem areas in English grammar and/or comprehension of literature.

The course has been planned so that you learn one idea at a time. You should do each assignment as it is given to you.

As you work through the lesson plans, you will notice copies of Alaska highway signs have been added at various places. These are there for two purposes. They are there:

1. to alert you to a skill or fact on which you should work harder.

2. to familiarize you with Alaska highway signs. If you are not now driving, you will be later. Here, you'll get a head start on being a safe driver.

BEFORE YOU START

You must have a supervisor. This can be your mother, your father or someone you know who is qualified to help you as you study in English (A). He or she has already agreed to this when the application for enrollment was signed. The supervisor will administer your tests and will mail the tests, worksheets and extra credit materials to the Correspondence Study office.

At Correspondence Study there is a certified teacher who will evaluate the worksheets and tests. This teacher will also record your grades and issue a completion certificate when you have finished the course. It is extremely important that you contact the C/S Advisory Teacher if you have problems. She is genuinely interested in helping you learn the material with the least amount of trouble.

SENDING AND RECEIVING MATERIALS

Complete directions on how to work through the lesson plans will be given in the next section "How to Study." However, you know that you are to get your tests from your supervisor, and that that person will mail the tests and worksheets to the Correspondence Study office. You should also know that the advisory teacher will make corrections and suggestions on both the tests and worksheets. You should review these suggestions and corrections carefully. As we said before, the course builds one skill upon the other. You must master each. If you fail a test, the advisory teacher will probably ask you to study the material again and take a second test.
HOW TO STUDY

Materials You'll Need

Check these off to make sure you received everything.

1. English (A) Lesson Plans (this book)
2. Manual for the Supervisor
3. Tape Cassette (If you do not have a cassette player, request one from C/S.)
4. Action Stories of Yesterday and Today
5. Plain English Handbook
6. Webster's New World Dictionary of the American Language
7. 8 pre-stamped envelopes
8. 8 test affidavits

HOW TO START

Before you start this course, schedule your time. It will be so easy to put off doing English for "just one day." However, that one day can throw you behind. So, schedule your time. Use the schedule that has been included here. Allow 45-60 minutes, five days each week. (That's right. You get two days off.) Be sure you include time for chores, for work outside the home, for other subjects and for relaxation.
WEEKLY TIME SCHEDULE

The schedule should have eight hours for sleep, one-half hour of recreation after evening meals, and an hour of study for each subject.

DAILY ASSIGNMENTS

Most daily assignments have tests with them. These are called self-check tests. There is always a Key at the end of the lesson that will allow you to grade yourself and note progress or problems. You are told to take the first self-check test after you complete the reading assignment.

Then you grade your work. If you get a certain number correct, go on to the next assignment. If you miss more than the number stated for that test, you are to review the material and take the second self-check test before going on.

Example

- Self-Check Test (A)
  - (got enough right) → Next Assignment

  BUT

- Self-Check Test (A)
  - (missed more than # stated) → Self-Check Test (B)
    - (got enough right) → Next Assignment

The self-check tests are not to be mailed to Correspondence Study.
WORKSHEETS

At the end of each of the lessons are worksheets. These worksheets are to be completed after you have studied the material for that lesson and have passed the self-check test(s).

All Worksheets are to be mailed to Correspondence Study.

TESTS

After you have completed three lessons, you will be given a day for review. On the following day, you will ask your supervisor to give you the test for that unit. As you take the test you should have the test, two sharp pencils and your ready mind. Do not use your texts, the lesson plans or notes.

There will be parts of English (A) that you do not enjoy. There will be other parts which seem like fun. However, you should keep in mind the fact that every assignment is designed to help you to grow in the use of correct English grammar and in the comprehension of reading materials. Don't "short change" yourself. Take advantage of this opportunity to learn something that will help you for the rest of your life.
UNIT I
LESSON 1

ASSIGNMENTS: 1. Action Verbs and Their Subjects
                2. State of Being Verbs, Verb Phrases and Their Subjects
                3. Compound Subjects and Compound Verbs
                4. IE/EI Rule in Spelling
                5. Worksheet 1

OBJECTIVES: The student will be able to:
1. identify the verbs (including helping verbs) and the subject(s) in sentences containing action verbs.
2. identify the verbs and subject(s) in sentences containing state of being verbs and verb phrases.
3. identify compound subjects and compound verbs.
4. demonstrate the IE/EI rule in spelling.
Lesson 1

Assignment 1: Action Verbs and Their Subjects

Objective: The student will be able to find and label each verb (including helping verbs) and the subject(s) of each verb.

English is not hard. In fact, once you learn a few rules, you'll find that sentences are really puzzles. They are word puzzles. Each part has a place and locks into another part to form a complete sentence picture. If you've ever put a jigsaw puzzle together, you know you don't just pick up pieces and start trying to fit them together. You study the picture on the box and then start trying to recreate a certain part. We're going to do the same with our "English jigsaw." Let's start with a small part and then put the rest of the pieces together a few at a time.

The border of our English puzzle will be verbs and their subjects which can be nouns or pronouns. Work carefully here. The "border" is the most important part.

STOP
verb: shows action
noun: names a person, place or thing pronoun: takes the place of a noun

DETOUR

REMEMBER
A word that tells you what someone or something does or did is called a verb.

Example Frank left the room. (The word left tells you what Frank did. Therefore the word left is a verb.)

KEEP RIGHT
Most verbs express action. Sometimes this action is an action of the body.

Example He threw the ball.
Sometimes the action is an action of the mind.

Example: He thought about the problem.

The subject of a sentence is the person or thing that performs the action.

Example: John opened the door. (The word opened is a verb. The person who opened something is John. John performed the action. Therefore the word John is the subject of the verb opened.)

Take Self-Check Test 1-1(A) which follows.

Self-Check Test 1-1(A)

Directions: Write the letter V above each verb and the letter S above the subject of each verb.

1. The lawyer arrived in Juneau yesterday.
2. His secretary left for Seattle this morning.
3. The truck driver shook his fist at the pedestrian.
4. The airplane landed at exactly three o'clock.
5. Mrs. Simpson goes into town once a week.

Check your answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you correctly identified the subject and verb in at least 4 of the above, start Assignment 2.

-BUT-

If you correctly identified the subject and verb in fewer than 4 sentences, review the material and do Self-Check Test 1-1(B).

Self-Check Test 1-1(B)

Directions: Write the letter V above each verb and the letter S above the subject of each verb.

1. The doctor examined the patient.
2. David needs a haircut.
3. Karen polishes the floor twice a week.
4. She opens her husband's mail.
5. Her parents live in Mexico.

Check your answers with the Key.

Go on to the next assignment.

Assignment 2: State of Being Verbs, Verb Phrases and Their Subjects

Objective: The student will be able to find and label state of being verbs, verb phrases and their subjects.

In Assignment 1, you were introduced to verbs that express action. However, some verbs do not express action.

In this lesson you will be introduced to two very important verbs. One, the verb to be, does not express action; it expresses a state of being. The other, the verb to have, sometimes expresses action, but usually expresses possession.

Examples
(i) Mrs. Williams has two children.
(ii) Mr. Simpson is a fireman.

The following forms of the verb to have will appear in sentences in this lesson: has, have, had.

Examples (subject underlined once; verb underlined twice)
(i) Jack has a cold.
(ii) All the men have application forms.
(iii) Her two daughters had chicken pox last year.

The following forms of the verb to be will appear in sentences in this lesson: am, is, are, was, were.
Examples

(i) I am a member of the stamp club.
(ii) Her brother is a plumber.
(iii) The children are at the library.
(iv) His wife was in Ketchikan.
(v) The tools were in the garage.

Verb: shows state of being or shows possession helping verbs: examples are do, did, be, been, has,

had, have, may, can, could,
must, will, shall, might,
would, should, was

Verb Phrases

A verb phrase consists of a main verb and the helping verb(s) that accompany the main verb.

Examples (verb phrases underlined)

(i) She was waiting for him.
(ii) You could have waited a few minutes longer.
(iii) They should have been finished by now.

Take Self-Check Test 1-2(A) which follows.

Self-Check Test 1-2 (A)

Directions: Write the letter V above each verb and the letter S above the subject of each verb.

1. Fred's brother is the owner of a grocery store.
2. Many people were at the ticket office this morning.
3. We have time for a sandwich and a cup of coffee.
4. They are in the bottom drawer of the desk in your room.
5. She has a birthday present for your sister's husband.

Directions: Underline each verb or verb phrase. Write the letter S above the subject of the verb.
1. The children were watching their favorite program.
2. He must have been thinking of someone else.
3. You should have entered the contest.
4. Charlie's wife had seen the movie three times before.
5. We shall be driving to Palmer tomorrow.

Check your answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you missed only one, start Assignment 3.

-BUT-
If you missed more than one, review the material and take Self-Check Test 1-2(B).

Self-Check Test 1-2(B)

Directions: Write the letter V above each verb and the letter S above the subject of each verb.
(Note: In some of the sentences, the verbs express action.)

1. He is the manager of the camera department at Nordstroms.
2. These shirts have bloodstains on them.
3. A tall young man entered the room.
4. It was on the top shelf of the cupboard in the garage.
5. Three very old women are in the waiting room.

Directions: Underline each verb or verb phrase. Write the letter S above the subject of the verb.

1. The Robertsons are living in an apartment on Behrends Avenue.
2. Your students may use the equipment in Mr. Simpson's office.
3. Sandra might be leaving on the three o'clock train.
4. She could have been spending a pleasant weekend at the lake.
5. Any other firm could have done the job for less money. Check your answers with the Key.

Go on to the next assignment.

Assignment 3: Compound Subjects and Compound Verbs

Objective: The student will be able to find and label compound subjects and compound verbs.

COMPOUND SUBJECTS

In each sentence in the first two assignments, the verb had only one subject.

Example Her father works at Nordstrums. (The subject of the verb works is father.)

In this assignment, some of the sentences will contain more than one subject.

Example Bob and Harry work at Nordstroms. (The subjects of the verb work are the words Bob and Harry.)

When a verb has more than one subject, the subjects are connected by the word and or the word or.

Examples (subjects underlined)

(i) Jim and Frank are in the library.
(ii) Jim or Frank is in the library.
(iii) Mary, Wilma, and Harry are in the library.

A compound subject consists of two or more words connected by the word and or the word or.

SENTENCES CONTAINING MORE THAN ONE VERB OR VERB PHRASE

In the first two assignments, each sentence contained only one verb or verb phrase.
Examples
(i) John rose to his feet. (There is only one verb in this sentence.)
(ii) They have left Anchorage. (There is only one verb phrase in this sentence.)

In this lesson, some of the sentences will contain more than one verb or verb phrase.

Examples
(i) John rose to his feet and left the room.
(ii) They have left Tok and will arrive in Fairbanks this evening.

Compound Subject: Two or more nouns and/or pronouns joined by "and" or "or"
Compound Verbs: Two or more verbs joined by "and" or "or"

Take Self-Check Test 1-3(A) which follows.

Self-Check Test 1-3(A)
Directions: Underline each verb or verb phrase. Write the letter S above the subject(s) of each verb.

1. The books and the magazines fell onto the floor.
2. Old people, women, and children will get into the stadium free of charge.
3. Janet and Jerry are visiting relatives in McKoryuk.
4. She or I would have accepted the invitation to the dance.
5. Sebastian and I will be at the library until quite late this evening.
6. He walked across the room and opened the door.

7. They have arrived in Barrow and will be staying here until the day after tomorrow.

8. A pill dispenser, a rusty old razor, and several empty bottles were on the bottom shelf of the cabinet in the bathroom.

9. She must have risen and left before six o'clock.

10. We searched the area very thoroughly and found nothing.

Check your answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you got at least eight sentences correct, start Assignment 4.

- BUT -

If you did not get at least eight sentences correct, review the material and take Self-Check Test 1-3(B).

Self-Check Test 1-3(B)

Directions: In each of the following sentences, underline each verb or verb phrase. Write the letter S above the subject(s) of each verb.

1. Mrs. Morgan, Miss MacDougall, and Mr. Swan gave speeches at the meeting last night.

2. These cups and saucers are on sale until the end of the week.

3. Harry, Veronica, or you should have been waiting for us at the entrance to the theater.

4. Several young children had been playing with matches behind the garage.

5. You and your friend were sitting in the wrong seats.

Check your answers with the Key.

Go on to Assignment 4.
Assignment 4: Spelling IE or EI

Objective: The student will recognize and use the IE/EI rule in spelling.

We've talked about how words work to make complete sentences. Now you are about to see that letters work together to make complete words. Again, you will have to learn a few rules. But, once you've learned these, you'll find that spelling is not so difficult as you thought.

"I" before "e" except after "c" or when sounded like "ā" as in neighbor and weigh.

Examples

Take Self-Check Test 1-4

Self-Check Test 1-4

If a word is spelled wrong, write it correctly on the line after it. Follow the rule!!!

1. yield
2. review
3. shield
4. weigh
5. thief

Check your work with the Key at the end of this lesson.

There is no second test with spelling assignments. It is very important that you know the rule well before you take the test for the lesson. If you miss more than 2 words, go over the rule again. Figure out why you missed the words. Be ready for the test you will take at the end of UNIT I.

OBJECTIVES: The student will be able to:

1. identify the verbs (including helping verbs) and subject(s) in sentences where verbs and subjects are separated by words or phrases.
2. identify verbs and subjects that are not in what would be considered regular order.
3. answer comprehension questions about a given story.
4. identify word groups that are sentences and those that are not, and be able to change sentence fragments to simple sentences.
Lesson 2

Assignment 1: Separation of Verbs and Subjects

Objective: The student will be able to find and label each verb (including helping verbs) and their subjects.

So far, you've been finding verbs (action or state-of-being) and then finding their subjects. Most of the sentences had subjects that were right next to the verbs.

Example: Her brother lives in Alakaket. (The subject brother is right next to the verb lives.)

However, a subject and verb may have a phrase between them.

Examples

1. The owner of this restaurant lives on Sargent Avenue.
   (The verb is the word lives. To find the subject ask yourself who or what lives. The answer is the owner. In this sentence, the subject owner is separated from the verb lives by the phrase of this restaurant.)

2. The manager of the store interviewed your brother.
   (Subject, manager) (Verb, interviewed) (Phrase, of the store)

3. The girl in the yellow dress works in our office.
   (Subject, girl) (Verb, works) (Phrase, in the yellow dress)

4. Someone from Nome visited the college yesterday.
   (Subject, someone) (Verb, visited) (Phrase, from Nome)

Sometimes, a phrase will come before the subject of the sentence. Look at the following two sentences:

We stayed at home.
Because of the bad weather, we stayed at home.

Don't let a phrase at the beginning of a sentence fool you. In each of the above sentences, the verb is the word stayed. The subject of the verb is the word we.
Now study these examples:

1. Since the end of the war, he has seen Jean only once.
   (Subject, he) (Verb, has seen)

2. During the early hours of the morning, she wrote several letters to members of the family.
   (Subject, she) (Verb, wrote)

3. After breakfast, they went to the airport.
   (Subject, they) (Verb, went)

Take Self-Check Test 2-1(A) which follows.

Self-Check Test 2-1(A)

Directions: Underline each verb or verb phrase. Write the letter S above the subject(s) of each verb.

1. The driver of the truck apologized to the owner of the car.
2. The key to this door is in the top drawer of my desk.
3. The odor of cigar smoke pleases some people but irritates others.
4. A very large parcel arrived at their house early this morning.
5. His former employer wrote a letter of recommendation for him.

Directions: Underline each verb or verb phrase. Write the letter S above the subject(s) of each verb.

1. In the middle of the third act, the author of the play left the auditorium.
2. The doctor will be performing the operation on Mrs. Lambert this evening or tomorrow morning.
3. Early this morning, someone entered the garage and took several sets of tools.
4. From the front balcony of the professor's house, he could see the entrance to the bank.
5. The earthquake destroyed most of the buildings in the town and caused considerable damage to nearby farms.

Check your answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you correctly identified the subjects and verbs in at least seven of the above sentences, start Assignment 2.

- BUT -

If you correctly identified the subjects and verbs in fewer than seven sentences, review the material and take Self-Check Test 2-1(B).

Self-Check Test 2-1(B)

Directions: Underline each verb or verb phrase. Write the letter S above the subject(s) of each verb.

1. The winner of the contest will receive a new car or two thousand dollars in cash.
2. The men are expecting a raise in pay.
3. All of the members of the family have entered the contest.
4. After the first song, he listened.
5. From behind the door, he could hear everything.

Check your answers with the Key.

Go on to Assignment 2.

Assignment 2: Verbs Before the Subject

Objective: The student will be able to recognize verbs and subjects that are not in regular order.

In the sentences in the other assignments, the subject always came before the verb. Sometimes, however, the verb comes before the subject.
Examples

1. There are two pens on the table. (This is the same as saying: Two pens are on the table.)

2. In the middle of the forest was an old cabin. (This is the same as saying: An old cabin was in the middle of the forest.)

3. Here is your hat. (Subject, hat) (Verb, is)

4. In the top drawer of his desk was a photograph of his former wife. (Subject, photograph) (Verb, was)

5. There are some cookies on the table in the kitchen. (Subject, cookies) (Verb, are)

6. Was there any money in his wallet? (Subject, money) (Verb, was)

In sentences that ask questions, the subject will often come between a helping verb and the main verb. It might help if you change the question into a statement. Then, the subject and verb will be easier to find.

Examples

1. Has he finished his work? (The verb is has finished. The subject he comes between the helping verb has and the main verb finished.)

2. Will she be seeing him today? (Subject, she) (Verb, will be seeing)

3. Have her parents sold their house? (Subject, parents) (Verb, have sold)

Here is one last "strange" verb and subject sentence. Find the verb in the following sentence, and try to figure out what the subject is.
Give Mrs. Jenkins a copy of this book.

The verb in the above sentence is the word give. The sentence is an order. The sentence is actually saying: You give Mrs. Jenkins a copy of this book.

However, when we give orders, we leave out the word you. The word you, which is the subject of the sentence, is understood.

Here is another sentence. Find the verb, and figure out what the subject is.

Bring me a cup of coffee.

The verb in the above sentence is the word bring. The subject of the verb bring is you (understood).

Take Self-Check Test 2-2(A) which follows.

Self-Check Test 2-2 (A)

Directions: Write the letter S above each subject and the letter V above each verb (including helping verbs).

1. Will he be running for election this fall?
2. There are two books by this author in the library on William Avenue.
3. Has the manager cancelled his appointment with Dr. Ross?
4. Here are his coat, gloves, and scarf.
5. In the paper bag at the bottom of the trunk was an old revolver.

Directions: Write the letter V above each verb. In the space provided above each sentence, write the subject of the sentence.

Examples

a) You (understood)

Return the book to the library on Monday.
b) information

More information about the equipment will be arriving in next week's mail.

1. Stack the empty cartons by the garbage cans in the back yard.

2. Will he be leaving the state before the end of the month?

3. After dinner, offer the guests coffee.

4. Distribute copies of these letters among the members of all departments.

5. Before the end of the week, remove all signs from the walls of the building.

Check your answers with the Key which is at the end of this lesson.
If you correctly identified the subjects and verbs in at least seven of the ten sentences, start Assignment 3.

- BUT -

If you correctly identified the subject and verbs in fewer than seven sentences, review Assignment 2 and take Self-Check Test 2-2(B).

Self-Check Test 2-2 (B)

Directions: Write the letter S above each subject and the letter V above each verb (including helping verbs).

1. Have you mailed my package?

2. Here is his lunch.

3. In an old trunk was her dress.
4. Will the boy go away?

5. There are three men here now.

Directions: Write the letter V above each verb. In the space provided above each sentence, write the subject of the sentence.

Examples

a) You (understood) ___
   Return the book to the library on Monday.

b) information ___
   More information about the equipment will be arriving in next week's mail.

1. _______________________
   Put all of the money here.

Check your answers with the Key.

Go on to Assignment 3.

Assignment 3 "The Lady or the Tiger?"

Objective: The student will be able to read a given story and answer comprehension questions about the story.

English (A), Unit 1
This course will give you a chance to learn about grammar, to write, to practice what you've learned and to read some good stories. Today we're going to read. After you've read the story, you'll take a Self-Check Test to make sure you understood what you read. On Assignment 5 you'll be asked to answer questions about this story. Read carefully and make sure you do well on the Self-Check Test.

Read: "The Lady or the Tiger" (page 120) from Action Stories of Yesterday and Today

Now take the Self-Check Test. If you do not do well on the test, read the story again. There is no second Self-Check Test for the reading assignments. So, be sure you understand the story.

Self-Check Test

Assignment 4: Simple Sentences and Fragments

Objective: The student will be able to indicate which word groups are sentences and which are not, and be able to change sentence fragments to simple sentences.

Usually, ideas should be written in complete thoughts or sentences. Incomplete sentences are called fragments. In this chapter, you will review the difference between sentences and fragments.

A word group that does not contain both a subject and a verb is a fragment. A fragment does not express a complete thought.

Examples

(i) In a corner of the room next to the book case.
   (This word group does not contain a verb. Therefore it is a fragment.)

(ii) And filled in the form with the necessary information.
   (In this word group, there is a verb filled, but there is not a subject. There is not a word that tells you who filled something. Therefore, the word group is a fragment.)

(iii) Frank filled in the form with the necessary information.
   (This word group contains both a subject Frank and a verb, filled. The word group expresses a complete thought, and it is therefore a sentence.)

(iv) Wash your hands.
   (This word group contains a verb, wash. The subject of the verb is you (understood). The word group expresses a complete thought, and it is therefore a sentence.)
Self-Check Test 2-4 (A)

Directions: Read each of the following word groups carefully. If the word group is a sentence, write the word sentence after it. If the word group is not a sentence, write the word fragment after it.

1. While he was mowing the lawn, his wife weeded the flower bed.
2. Then spent an hour trying to open the safe.
3. Leading a donkey down the path to the river.
4. That is ridiculous.
5. In the large paper bag on the kitchen table.
6. Arrived in Sitka on Tuesday and stayed there until Friday.
7. The death of the President caused much sorrow throughout the land.
8. Brush your teeth.
9. And placed a stamp on the envelope.
10. A coin lying on the ground under the bench.
11. On the front steps, on the lawn, and even in the garage.
12. Looking very angry, he jumped to his feet and walked toward the door.
13. The telephone on the desk in the manager's office.
14. In the middle drawer of the desk was a box of cartridges.
15. Slid down the drainpipe and ran across the yard.

Check your answers with the Key at the end of this lesson. If you get eight or more answers correct, go on to Worksheet 2. BUT - If you miss three or more answers, review the material and take Self-Check Test 2-4 (B).

3. Capitalization
4. Worksheet 3
5. Unit Test IA

OBJECTIVE: The student will be able to use capital letters correctly.
Lesson 3

Assignment 1: Capitalization: First Word of a Sentence
Specific Names
Titles

Objective: The student will be able to use capital letters correctly.

In assignments one, two and three of this lesson, you will be studying capitalization rules. Capital letters point out special people, places or things in a sentence. In other words, when I say that I went with Alice, I want you to know that I went with a particular person.

Capitalization Rule #1:
Always capitalize the first word in a sentence.

Examples
(i) Clouds had appeared in the sky.
(ii) Where did he go?

Capitalization Rule #2:
Always capitalize a person's name and any title that comes before the name.

Examples
(i) I saw Rita and Maurice yesterday.
(ii) Where is Mr. Smith?
(iii) Have you seen Professor Jones?
(iv) She has an appointment with Dr. Brown.
Read the rules below and then study the examples carefully. Can you see a difference? Can you see when you are to capitalize the name or title?

Capitalization Rule #3:
If a word like mother is used in place of her name, capitalize it.

Examples
(i) Have you seen Mother?
(ii) She telephoned Uncle Bob.
(iii) Did Father go with you?

Capitalization Rule #4:
Do not capitalize a word like mother if it is used to show family relationship.

Examples
(i) Have you seen my mother?
(ii) She telephoned her uncle.
(iii) He has an aunt who lives in Sweden.

Capitalization Rule #5:
Capitalize words that show occupation only if it's part of a person's name.

Examples
(i) She is our teacher.
(ii) When Principal Jones came, we left.

Take Self-Check Test 3-1(A) which follows.

Self-Check Test 3-1(A)

Directions: Circle each letter that should be capitalized.

1. has mother spoken to your uncle about aunt jane?
2. did i tell you that your mother has spoken to uncle robert about my aunt?
3. the foreman told mr. harris that he should see a doctor.
4. early in the afternoon, miss jackson told her supervisor that she had an early appointment to see dr. bronstein.
Check your answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you made no more than two mistakes in the above exercise, skip Self-Check Test 3-1(B).

Assignment 2: Capitalization: Races of People and Languages
Days of the Week, Months, Holidays
Parts of the Title of a Book

Objective: The student will be able to use capital letters correctly.

There are some more special words we capitalize. Just remember that the key word is "special." Learn these rules and you should have little trouble as you write.

Capitalization Rule #6:
Capitalize the names of races, nationalities and languages.

English (A), Unit I
REMEMBER

a) Capitalize the names of races, nationalities and languages.

Examples

(i) Her husband is Jewish
(ii) I am an American citizen.
(iii) Do you speak German?

b) Capitalize the names of days of the week, the names of months and the names of holidays.

Examples

(i) I shall see you on Tuesday.
(ii) He will be in Skagway during August.
(iii) She will be here for the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

Capitalization Rule #7:
Capitalize the names of days of the week, the names of months, and names of holidays.

Capitalization Rule #8:
Capitalize the important words in titles of books.

Always underline the words of the title of a book.

Do not capitalize spring, summer, fall or winter unless they come at the first of a sentence or are in the title of a book.

Assignment 3: Capitalization: Specific places Organizations Institutions

Objective: The student will be able to use capital letters correctly.

These rules will help you as you try to decide whether you should capitalize words that name places.

Capitalization Rule #9:
Capitalize names of places in address or geographical names.

REMEMBER

a) Capitalize the names of places in addresses.

Examples
(i) He lives at 126 Smith Street
(ii) They used to live on Logan Avenue.

b) Capitalize geographical names.

Examples
(i) He moved from Fresno, California, to Talkeetna, Alaska.
(ii) While they were in Europe, they spent most of their time in France and Germany.
(iii) They spent the weekend at Lake Louise.
(iv) Have you ever seen the Rocky Mountains?

NOTE: Words like river, lake and mountain are capitalized only when they are used in the names of specific rivers, lakes, and mountains.

Examples
(i) What is the name of this river? It is the Kobuk River.
(ii) Those mountains are beautiful. They are the Rocky Mountains.
c) Capitalize the names of organizations and institutions.

Examples

(i) He is an employee of the Alaska Department of Education.
(ii) She attends James Harrison Junior High School. (NOTE: "She is still at junior high school." In this sentence, the words junior high school do not name a specific school. Therefore they are not capitalized.)

Capitalization Rule #11: Capitalize the names of specific buildings.

d) Capitalize the names of specific buildings.

Examples

(i) Have you been inside the building? It is the Richardson Building.
(ii) What is the name of that hotel? It is the Oxford Hotel.

Self-Check Test 3-3 (B)

1. My aunt and I stayed at the Hotel Fort Garry while we were in Kamloops during our Christmas vacation.
2. From early in the summer until late in the autumn, Uncle Harry stayed with my mother and my father at their cabin near Lake Minchumina.
3. A small river runs through Aunt Angela’s property on Kodiak Island.
4. Next spring, Mr. Wilson’s nephew will be taking a course at Tanana Community College.
5. He hopes to receive an answer from the Alaska Department of Education before the end of June.
6. If Jack could speak French, he would have a better chance of getting a job in this department.
7. Several American journalists attended the game between Seattle and Oakland at the Kingdome on Tuesday night.
8. In addition to their places of business on Portage Avenue and on Broadway, they now have a store in a new building on Smith Street.
9. He works at Payless during the day and attends classes at night school during the evening.
10. Before she was hired by Sears in Anchorage she had spent a year teaching at a junior high school in Nevada.
Assignment 4: Worksheet 3

(All worksheets are to be sent in with the test for the unit. These worksheets will be graded by the teacher at the C/S office.)

The following exercise reviews everything that has been covered in this chapter. Do it very carefully.

Directions: Circle each letter that should be capitalized.

1. Last year mrs. graham spent thanksgiving day with her daughter-in-law in iliamna.

2. Last spring, the principals of three anchorage high schools drafted a letter to the alaska department of education.

3. On thursday evening, your aunt and my mother went to a restaurant that is famous for its mexican cooking.

4. She went to the store to buy a dozen apples, a loaf of wonder bread and a jar of jelly.

5. He will spend the summer in norway and the fall in either france or italy.

6. During the spring, uncle frank spent many hours on the chilkoot trail taking photographs of squirrels and chipmunks.

7. The congo, which flows into the atlantic ocean, is one of the most important rivers in africa.

8. The assistant manager said that the next shipment of english and french novels would be arriving in july.

9. His wife works as a cocktail waitress in the lounge at the anchorage westward hotel, and his sister is a nurse at providence hospital.

10. Someone from the library telephoned dr. dobson to notify him that his copy of east of eden had arrived.

11. Several american dentists have attended the last few meetings held by canadian dental health association at 89 wellinton st., toronto, ontario.

12. Your uncle always received birthday cards, christmas presents, and father's day gifts from his children.

Review

You are almost ready to take the test over Unit I. You should review all of the material assigned for this unit. You might want to take the Self-Check Test (B) for each assignment. This would give you some extra review. Also, read and study your answers to the worksheets very carefully.

Your test will consist of four parts. They will be:

- Part I: Identifying subjects and verbs
- Part II: Identifying sentences and fragments
- Part III: Capitalizing words
- Part IV: Writing answers to questions from "The Lady or the Tiger?"

When you feel you are ready to take the test for Unit I, ask your supervisor to give you Unit I Test.

Preparation for Mailing

When you have completed the assigned work, the worksheets 1, 2, and 3 and Unit I Test, give these to your supervisor who will mail them in for grading.

UNIT II
LESSON 4

ASSIGNMENTS:
1. End Punctuation
2. Tape: "Case of the Speckled Band"
3. Bar and Line Graphs
4. Circle and Picture Graphs
5. Worksheet 4

OBJECTIVES:
The student will be able to:

1. use the period, the question mark or the exclamation point correctly at the end of a sentence.
2. take notes while listening to a taped recording of a story.
3. interpret and construct bar, line, circle and picture graphs.
Lesson 4

Assignment 1: End Punctuation

OBJECTIVE: The student will be able to use the period, the question mark or the exclamation point correctly at the end of a sentence.

Punctuation marks that come at the ends of sentences are your clues to how things are being said.

Punctuation Rule #1: When you tell something or give a command, you put a period at the end of the sentence.

Example
This is a good day. (statement)

Punctuation Rule #2: When you ask a question, you put a question mark at the end of the sentence.

Example
This is a good day? (doubt)

Punctuation Rule #3: When you want to show strong feeling, you put an exclamation mark at the end of the sentence.

Example
This is a good day! (excitement)
Take Self-Check Test 4-1(A) which follows.

Self-Check Test 4-1(A)

Directions: Read the following sentences carefully. Place periods, question marks, and exclamation points where needed:

1. We thought you would arrive this morning
2. Would it be possible to ship this today
3. What a beautiful sight
4. Tom was in Seward last week, wasn't he
5. Would you call me before Saturday
6. What type of work do you like to do

Check your answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you did not miss any of the above sentences, go on to Assignment 1.

- BUT -

If you missed even one sentence, review Assignment 1 and take Self-Check Test 4-1(B).

Self-Check Test 4-1(B)

Directions: Read the following sentences carefully. Place periods, question marks, and exclamation points where needed.

1. That is terrible
2. When will you go home
3. Paul went to Hawaii
4. I had a nice time
5. Have you seen my keys
6. Give me a pen

Check your answers with the Key.

Go on to Assignment 2.

English (A), Unit II
Assignment 2: Take notes while listening to taped recording of "Sherlock Holmes in the Case of the Speckled Band"

Objective: The student will be able to take notes while listening to a taped recording of a story.

Today, you need to listen. You should get the tape that is included with your materials and listen to it. As you listen, have a piece of paper and a pencil handy. Take notes about things that you feel might be worth remembering. If you have trouble keeping up, shut off the cassette recorder, write what you want to write and then turn the recorder on again. As you get further into the tape, you'll find you are able to take notes and listen too. Your notes will come in handy as you do the worksheet for Unit 4.

Taking notes sometimes seems like a waste of time. However, you will probably find that the time spent on taking notes now is very well spent when you start to review for your test. You won't have to go back and "dig" for something you've forgotten.

Today your notes will be taken as though you were listening to someone give a talk. Don't try to copy everything. Don't try to use the person's words. Use your words. Make your notes short. If you don't, you'll find it easier to listen to the tape again. As you listen, don't talk yourself into believing you'll remember something. Jot it down anyway.

After you have listened to the tape and made notes of what was said, read the notes again. Did you put down facts that were important to you? Do your notes make sense to you? Good. They'll be very useful when you work on the worksheet for this lesson.

Now listen to the tape entitled "Sherlock Holmes in the Case of the Speckled Band."
Lesson 4

Assignment 3: Graphs (Bar and Line)

Objective: The student will be able to read and interpret simple graphs.

Below is an example of what is known as a bar graph. This bar graph shows the number of problems each of the six pupils had correct on an arithmetic test.

![Bar Graph Example]

Can you see that Harold had a perfect score of 12? The lowest score was a 6, wasn't it?

In addition to bar graphs, there are graphs that show differences by using lines. The line graph given below shows the average monthly temperature for a city during a six-month period.

![Line Graph Example]

English (A), Unit II
Assignment 4: Graphs (Circle and Picture)

Objective: The student will be able to read and interpret simple graphs.

As promised, today we'll talk about circle graphs and picture graphs. First, look at the circle graph below. The circle would show the total (100%) number of things to be shown. Here we are showing students in a high school sports program. No students participate in more than one sport. There were 195 students who took part in some sport.

A picture graph is one that uses pictures to stand for a specific amount of the thing you want to represent. For example, let's say you want to show how many boats came into a harbor from 10:00 A.M. to 1:00 P.M. on a certain day. You could show this by making a picture graph such as this one.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Boats</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>10:00 to 11:00</td>
<td>🚤舫</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11:00 to 12:00</td>
<td>🚤舫舫舫</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12:00 to 1:00</td>
<td>🚤舫舫舫舫舫</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

LESSON 5

ASSIGNMENTS:
1. Reading Improvement
2. Adjectives
3. Adverbs
4. Prepositional Phrases and Appositives
5. Worksheet 5

OBJECTIVES:
The student will be able to:
1. increase reading rate while maintaining or bettering comprehension.
2. expand simple sentences by using adjectives.
3. expand simple sentences by using adverbs.
4. expand simple sentences by using prepositional phrases and appositives.
Assignment 1: Reading Improvement

Objective: Student will practice improving reading rate while maintaining or bettering comprehension.

Before you read the story for today, study the thirteen reading hints below. Maybe you like to read. It would be a good idea to read the hints anyway. If you think you don’t like to read, study these rules carefully. Then practice them as you read the story for assignment 1.

Read Better

1. Don’t read words one at a time. Read groups of words. Reading one word at a time is very tiring. Force yourself to see more at a glance. You will notice an immediate increase in your reading rate.

2. Look for main ideas in your reading. This will aid in comprehension. Once you know what the main ideas are, you can skim over the little details.

3. Be word wise. A large vocabulary enables us to be a better reader. If you have to ponder over too many words, reading becomes a chore.

4. Force yourself to read faster. You will discover that you like to read.

5. You should move only your eyes when reading. Don’t move your head like a typewriter carriage.

6. Try to keep from going back to read something you didn’t quite get the first time. Also, reading at a faster rate will help. There is less time to daydream.

7. Don’t move your lips when you read. Forcing yourself to read faster will eliminate this. (Moving your lips enables you to read only as fast as you speak—about 125 words per minute.)

8. Don’t use rulers or cards to help you keep your eyes moving straight across the page.

9. In order to force yourself to read faster, set up a time schedule. Force yourself to read so many pages in an hour.
10. If you feel you are becoming tense, read at a slower pace.

11. Avoid pronouncing the words in your throat.

12. Some students "hear" the words they are reading. If you look for main ideas, you will overcome this problem.

13. Do a little thinking when you read. This will help you to enjoy the story.

Now, practice these rules. Read the following story. As you read, be sure that you look for the main idea of the work.

THE NIGHT THE INVADERS CAME

By Saki

In a thick forest in the middle of Europe, a man stood one winter night watching and listening. He seemed to be waiting for some beast of the woods to come in sight of him and his rifle. But the game he watched for so carefully was not the legal kind. Ulrich von Gradwitz patrolled the dark forest in search of human prey.

The Gradwitz forests were large and filled with animals of all kinds. Only the narrow strip of woods that lay on the outskirts of the forest was not very valuable, but it was the most carefully watched of all the owner's possessions.

A famous lawsuit in the days of his grandfather had caused the land to be taken away from his neighbor and given to the von Gradwitz family. The neighbor's family had never gone along with the judgment of the courts, and a long series of fights had destroyed the relationship between the two families for three generations.

The family feud had grown into a personal one since Ulrich had become head of his family. If there was any man in the world he hated it was Georg Znaeym, the neighbor, who stole his animals and raid ed the border forest.

The feud might have died down or been settled if the two men had not enjoyed hating each other. As boys, they had thirsted for one another's blood, and as men each prayed that the other would meet a horrible end.

This bitter and windy night, Ulrich had gathered his men together to patrol the dark forest, not for animals, but to keep a lookout for the thieves he thought must be coming from his enemies across the boundary.

Ulrich left his men and wandered far down the steep slopes into the wild tangle of undergrowth. He kept his eyes alert for any sign of the invaders. If only on this wild night he would come across Georg Znaeym, man to man, with no witnesses—that was his dearest wish. And sure enough, as he stepped around the trunk of a huge tree, he came face to face with the man he was looking for.

The two enemies stood glaring at one another for a long, silent moment. Each had a rifle in his hand, each had hate in his heart and murder on his mind. The chance had come for each to act out the wish of his lifetime. But a man who has been brought up in civilization cannot easily shoot down his neighbor in cold blood, without saying a word. And while the men stood there trying to decide what to do, Nature's own violence took over.

A fierce shriek of the storm had been followed by a splitting crash over their heads, and before they could leap aside, a huge tree had thundered down on them.

Ulrich von Gradwitz found himself stretched on the ground. One arm was under him completely numb. The other was caught in a tangle of branches. Both legs were pinned under the fallen mass. His heavy boots had saved his feet from being crushed to pieces. But if his wounds weren't as bad as they might have been, at least it was clear that he couldn't move until someone came to let him out from under the fallen tree.

The twigs had cut his face, and he had to blink away some drops of blood from his eyelashes before he could look around and see what had happened. At his side, so near that he could have touched him (if he could have touched anything), lay Georg Znaeym. He was alive and struggling, but as unable to move as Ulrich. Georg was nearly blind from the blood that dripped across his eyes, but he stopped struggling for a minute to listen, and then he gave a short, snarling laugh.

"So you're not dead, as you should be, but you're caught anyway," he cried. "What a joke! Ulrich von Gradwitz caught in his stolen forest. There's real justice for you!" And he laughed again.

"I'm caught in my own forest-land," answered Ulrich. "When my men come to release us, you'll wish that you were anywhere but here!"

Georg was silent for a minute. Then he answered quietly. "Are you sure that your men will find anyone to release? I have men in the forest tonight too, close behind me, and they will be here first and do the releasing. When they drag me out from under these branches it won't be surprising if they roll this heavy trunk right over the top of you. Your men will find you dead—supposedly killed by a fallen tree. Just so things look right, I'll send my sympathy to your family."

"That's a good idea," said Ulrich fiercely. "My men had orders to follow in ten minutes, and when they get me out— I'll remember your idea. Only, since you were killing animals on my land, I don't think I have to send any message of sympathy to your family."

"Good," snarled Georg. "Good. We'll fight this out to the death, you and I and our men, with no intruders to come between us. Death to you Ulrich von Gradwitz."
"The same to you, Georg Znaeym, forest-thief, animal-thief."
Each man spoke knowing he might be the loser. Each knew that it might be a long time before his men would look for him and find him.
It was only a matter of luck which group would find them first.
By now each man had stopped struggling to free himself from the mass of wood that held him down. Ulrich tried only to reach the wine flask in his pocket. When he finally reached it, it took him a long time before he could open it, or get any down his throat. But how good it tasted! The wine was warming and refreshing to the wounded man, and he looked across at his enemy with something almost like pity for his groans of pain.
"Could you reach this flask if I threw it over to you?" asked Ulrich suddenly. "There is good wine in it, and we might as well be as comfortable as we can. Let's drink, even if tonight one of us must die."
"But I can't see anything--there is so much blood dried around my eyes," said Georg. "And in any case, I don't drink wine with an enemy."
Ulrich was quiet for a few minutes, and lay listening to the wind.
He had an idea, an idea that grew stronger every time he looked across at the man who was fighting against pain. In his own pain, Ulrich's old hatred seemed to be dying.
"Neighbor," he said, "do as you want if your men come first. It was a fair deal. But as for me, I've changed my mind. If my men are the first to come, you shall be the first to be helped, as though you were a guest in my home. We have quarreled all our lives over this stupid strip of forest, where the trees can't even stand up in a breath of wind."
"Lying here tonight, thinking, I've decided we've been fools.
There are better things in life than winning a fight over a boundary.
Neighbor, if you will help me to bury the old quarrel I--I will ask you to be my friend."
Georg Znaeym was silent for so long that Ulrich thought he had fainted from his injuries. Then he spoke, slowly and painfully.
"How everyone would stare and gossip if we walked into the market square together. No one alive can remember seeing a Znaeym and a von Gradwitz talking to one another as friends. And what peace there would be among our men. And if we choose to make peace among our people, no one can stop us, no intruders from outside...we could have feast days at each other's houses...I would never fire a shot on your land, unless you asked me first. I never thought I would want to do anything else but hate you all my life. But I think I have changed my mind about things too, this last half hour. And you offered me your wine flask...Ulrich von Gradwitz, I will be your friend."
For a time both men were silent, thinking about the wonderful changes that this new friendship would bring about. In the cold, gloomy forest, with the wind tearing and whistling around the trees, they lay and waited for the help that would free both of them. And each one hoped that his men might be the first to come so that he could be the first to show honor to the enemy that was now a friend.
After a while, as the wind dropped for a moment, Ulrich broke the silence.

"Let's shout for help," he said. "Maybe they'll hear us now that it's quiet."

"Our voices won't carry far through the trees," said Georg, "but we can try. Together, then."

The two raised their voices in a shout.

"Together again," said Ulrich a few minutes later, after listening for an answering call that never came.

"I think I heard something that time," said Ulrich.

"I heard nothing but the wind," said Georg hoarsely.

There was silence again for a while, and then Ulrich gave a joyful cry.

"I see something moving through the woods. They're following the way I came down the hillside."

Both men screamed as loud as they could.

"They hear us! They've stopped. Now they see us. They're running down the hill toward us," cried Ulrich.

"How many of them are there?" asked Georg.

"I can't see clearly," said Ulrich, "nine or ten."

"Then they're yours," said Georg. "I only had seven out with me."

"They're coming as quickly as they can, brave boys," said Ulrich gladly.

"Are they your men?" asked Georg. "Are they your men?" he repeated impatiently, as Ulrich did not answer.

"No," said Ulrich with a laugh, the idiotic laugh of a man crazy with fear.

"Who are they?" asked Georg quickly, trying to see what Ulrich tried not to see.

"Wolves."

Assignment 2: Using Adjectives

Objective: The student will be able to expand simple sentences by using adjectives.

So far you've learned about three parts of speech. You learned that a noun or pronoun can be the subject of a sentence. You also learned that there is a verb in a sentence. Now you'll learn about another of the parts of speech, the adjective.

To write a proper sentence, you need only a subject with a verb, and a complete idea. For example, these are sentences:

Dog runs.
Children argued.
Man has eaten.
Girl was swimming.

While these sentences are complete, they are not very interesting. To make each sentence paint a clearer picture, we can add adjectives, words which describe nouns. With a few details, the sentences become more interesting. For example:

The large, black dog runs.
Two small, dirty children argued.
That hungry man has eaten.
The tall, slim, blonde girl was swimming.

Notice that when adjectives are used in a series, they are separated by commas.

Whenever any items are listed in a series, if the sentence would make sense with "and" between the items, use a comma. A comma is not needed, of course, if and, but or or is used.

Adjectives: These are words that describe nouns. They answer the questions Which one? What kind? How many?
Some adjectives will come after the verb in the sentence. Although they are not before the subject, they still describe the subject and are still adjectives. Watch for adjectives after linking verbs such as hear, see, smell, taste, feel, am, are, is, was or were.

Examples
1. She is happy.
2. The candy tastes sweet.
3. The men were poor.

Here are some extra points about adjectives you should know.
1. The, a and an are always adjectives.
2. Proper nouns may be used as adjectives (Florida sunshine)

Directions: Underline the adjectives in these sentences. Then draw an arrow to noun or pronoun that the adjective modifies.

1. We saw the red car.
2. The tall trees cast shadows.
3. He is an American poet.
4. A fluffy, white cloud went by.
5. He is nice.

Check your answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you found ten adjectives, go on to Assignment 3.

Assignment 3: Using Adverbs to Build Sentences

Objective: The student will be able to expand simple sentences by using adverbs.

To add still more to the sentences used as examples in Assignment 2, we can use adverbs to describe the verbs. Adverbs tell how, when, where and how much or how often something happens. Look at our basic sentences now.

The large, black dog runs happily everyday.
Two small, dirty children argued noisily outside.
That hungry man has eaten quickly.
Yesterday, the tall, slim, blonde girl was swimming awkwardly.

Adverbs are also used to describe adjectives or other adverbs. For example,

The extremely large black dog runs happily every day.
The small children argued very noisily.
That hungry man has eaten too quickly.

Yesterday, the tall, slim, blonde girl was swimming rather awkwardly.

Adverbs: These are words that tell about verbs, adjectives or other adverbs. They answer the questions How? When? Where? How much?

Let's look again at the sentences.

1. The (how much?) extremely large, black dog runs (how?) happily (when?) every day.

2. Two small, dirty children argued noisily (where?) outside.

3. The small children argued (how much?) very noisily.

Take Self-Check Test 5-3(A) which follows.

Directions: Add at least 2 adjectives and 2 adverbs to each of the following sentences.

- Rabbits hop.
- Boy played.
- Women are shopping.

You should have sentences something like these:

- Soft, furry, white rabbits hop away quickly.
- The tall, serious boy played very quietly.
- Many hot, tired, elderly women are shopping downtown today.

Cow went.
Mary sang.

Assignment 4: Using Prepositional Phrases and Appositives to Build Sentences.

Objective: The student will be able to expand simple sentences by using prepositional phrases and appositives.

Another way to add interesting details is by using prepositional phrases. These are groups of words, usually three, which begin with a preposition and end with a noun or pronoun. Prepositions are little words like on, under, of, beside, from, to, with and up.

Preposition: A preposition is a little word that connects a noun or a pronoun with another word in a sentence.
Prepositions

to  near  upon  except in  out  until  beyond at  with  across  underneath by  through  along  behind for  into  against  toward from  upon  during  around on  inside  below  of like  outside  above  between down  within  about  beneath off  without  under  beside up  after  over

Look at our original sentences expanded by propositional phrases.

The black dog runs happily in the backyard everyday.

The children from next door argued noisily on the street.

That hungry man at the coffee bar has eaten too quickly.

Yesterday, the blonde girl was swimming in the neighbor’s pool.

Another way to add information to simple sentences is to use appositives. Appositives are groups of words which add information to the word they follow. They are always enclosed by commas. For example:

The dog, a black cocker spaniel, runs fast.

The children, John and Peter, argued noisily.

That man, a logger, has eaten too quickly.

The girl, a smashing blonde, was swimming.

English (A), Unit II
You should have sentences like these:

Rabbits hop through the garden.
The boy in the sandbox played by himself.
Women are shopping with their children.

Directions: Use appositives to add details to the basic sentences you were working with:

Rabbits hop.
Boy played.
Women are shopping.

Your sentences should look like these:

Rabbits, a species of rodent, hop.
The boy, a cripple, played alone quietly.
The women, harried and tired, are shopping.

2. Correctly use commas with adjectives and adverbs in a series.

English (A), Unit II
Lesson 6

Assignments 1 and 2: Comparative and Superlative Forms of Adjectives and Adverbs. (Take two days to do this assignment.)

Objective: The student will select and use correct comparative and superlative forms of adjectives and adverbs.

By now you've learned that adjectives are used to describe nouns. When an adjective or adverb describes a noun by comparing it to one other noun, use rule one and two below. When an adjective or adverb is used in comparing a noun to more than one other noun, use rules three and four.

Study and learn these rules:

1. If an adjective or adverb has one syllable, add _er for the comparative degree.

   Examples

   (adjectives)
   a. Paul is fast.
   b. John is faster than Paul

   (adverbs)
   a. Paul hits hard.
   b. John hits harder.

2. If an adjective or adverb has two or more syllables, use the word _more_ before the adjective for the comparative degree.

   Examples

   a. She is intelligent.
   b. She is more intelligent than Jan.

3. If an adjective or adverb has one syllable add _est_ to form the superlative degree.

   Examples

   a. Tom is the fastest boy on the team.
   b. He is the person nearest the door.

4. If an adjective or adverb has two or more syllables, use the word _most_ before the adjective.

   Examples

   He is the most clumsy of the clowns.
You will have to learn these. Do not follow the rules.

Assignment 3: Commas in a Series

Objective: The student will be able to use commas with adjectives and adverbs in series.

Commas are used to separate words in a sentence. They help make the meaning more clear. You may use them in place of the word and.

Examples

Hank and Mary and Sue went home.
Hank, Mary and Sue went home.

In the second sentence above there is no comma before the word and. You may omit this comma or put it in. (Hank, Mary, and Sue went home.)

Here is another example of how commas help to make the meaning more clear.

I had a strawberry cake and ice cream.

Did you have a strawberry cake or a strawberry and cake? Your sentence may need a comma.

I had a strawberry, cake and ice cream.
Here's another example:

Emma Lou Paul Allen and Jack came.

How many people came?

Emma, Lou, Paul, Allen and Jack came. (Here, five people came.)

Emma Lou, Paul, Allen and Jack came. (Here four people came.)

Words such as yes, no, i well and names of people are followed by a comma.

Examples

Ann, where are you?
Yes, I am happy about that.
Well, I guess I will.

 Commas are important!!

Take Self-Check Test 6-3 (A) which follows.

Self-Check Test 6-3 (A)

Assignment 4: Review

Today you are to go over the material you've learned in the assignments for lessons 4-6. Review each assignment. Did one of them give you trouble? Look at it carefully. Is there anything you still don't understand? If there is, try to solve the problem now. Skim over the things you already know well.

Checklist:

1. I know how to use periods, question marks and exclamation marks correctly.
2. I know how to read a bar graph, a line graph, a circle graph and a picture graph.
3. I know how to use adjectives, adverbs, prepositional phrases and appositives to make better sentences.
4. I know how to use comparative and superlative forms of adjectives and adverbs.
5. I know how to use commas with adjectives and adverbs that are in a series:

Your test will consist of five parts. They will be:

Part I -- Punctuation Marks
Part II -- Bar Graphs
Part III -- Main Ideas in Stories
Part IV -- Modifiers
Part V -- Comparative and Superlative Degree

When you feel you are ready to take the test for Unit II, ask your supervisor for Unit II Test.

               3. answer vocabulary questions about a given story.
Lesson 7

Assignment 1: Contractions

Objective: The student will be able to identify and use contractions correctly.

We use contractions all the time in our speech and writing. Contraction means a shortened form of two words.

Example: did not didn't

As you can see in the contraction "didn't" the apostrophe is put where the letter "o" is left out. The apostrophe is put in to show where letters have been left out. Study these common examples.

A good way to see if you understand contractions is to see if you can write the long forms of words that have been shortened. We use contractions when we speak. We have a tendency to shorten words. For example, we are more likely to say, "I'll go," instead of "I shall go."

If you look carefully at the list of contractions above, you'll see that there are seven ways of showing contracted verbs. They are:

'm........am
'n't..........nct
'll..........will or shall
'Ve.........have
'd............would
's............is
're..........are

Self-Check Test 7-1 (A)

Directions: Write the long form of each of the underlined.

1. Where's he going and what's he doing?

2. Aren't you going to Mary's party?

3. You've time to fix dinner.

4. He's going home and she's staying here.

Directions: Write the contraction for each of the underlined words in the sentence.

5. You will have to wait for your dinner because I am going to the store.

6. Do not hurry back because she is in no hurry to get it.

7. You have got to get going or you are going to be late for the movie.

8. I would go if I knew you would be there.

Check your answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you get at least twelve correct, go on to the next assignment.

If you missed more than two of the contractions, look at page 2 again and take Self-Check Test 7-1 (B).
Self-Check Test 7-1 (B)

Directions: Write the long form of each of the underlined.

1. It's time to go, they're ready.

2. When we're at the hockey game, we've got to have warm clothes.

3. Jim's going to see their mother if she's at home.

4. They've got the money, so they should've bought the tickets.

Directions: Write the contraction for each of the underlined words in the sentence.

5. There is a new couple on our block. They are not very friendly.

6. I have not gone and I will not go anywhere in that car!

7. I am sure you will pass the test.

8. Mary is not coming. We are going on ahead.

Check your answers with the Key.

Go on to Assignment 2.
Assignment 2: Spelling cede, ceed or sede.

Objective: The student will be able to recognize and use the cede, ceed or sede spelling rule.

Learning to spell words that have the "seed" sound at the end is not as hard as you'd think.

Learn these three rules and your problem will be solved:

1. The only word that ends in sede is supersede.
2. There are only three words that end in ceed. They are succeed, exceed, and proceed.
3. Any other word ends in cede.

Stop right now and tell yourself that you're going to be a better speller. It's not going to be hard. Learn these spelling rules that are presented to you, study the prefixes and suffixes that will come later, use your dictionary and practice the following drill.

1. Study your word.
2. Say it aloud.
3. Tell what it means.
4. Spell it aloud.
5. Write the word.

Take Self-Check Test 7-2 which follows.

Self-Check Test 7-2

Directions: Add sede, ceed or cede.

1. con___
2. suc___
3. pre___
4. re___
5. super___
6. pro___
7. inter___
8. ex___
9. se___ ROAD CLOSED

As with all spelling assignments, there is no second test. If you missed even one of these, you should go back, study the rule again and see where you made your mistake. Then, go on to Assignment 3.
Assignment 3: Reading and Vocabulary

Objective: The student will be able to read a given story and complete the vocabulary practice that follows.

Today you're going to read a part of a great tale by Edgar Allan Poe. Poe led a hard life. When he was two, his father had to ask the John Allan family to take care of Edgar. The Allans gave him a good education. However, Poe seemed to look for trouble. He went into debt. He joined the army, but was told to leave. His wife died soon after they were married. He was poor most of his life. Yet, Poe is known as "the father of the modern short story." As a writer, he succeeded. He is famous for his poetry and his short stories.

Now read this passage from "The Tell-Tale Heart." Then, answer the questions that follow it.

"The Tell-Tale Heart"

True!--nervous--very, very dreadfully nervous I had been and am! but why will you say that I am mad? The disease had sharpened my senses not destroyed--not dulled them. Above all was the sense of hearing acute. I heard all things in the heaven and in the earth. I heard many things in hell. How, then, am I mad? Hearken? and observe how healthily--how calmly I can tell you the whole story.

It is impossible to say how first the idea entered my brain: but once conceived, it haunted me day and night. Object there was none. Passion there was none. I loved the old man. He had never wronged me. He had never given me insult. For his gold I had no desire. I think it was his eye! Yes, it was this! One of his eyes resembled that of a vulture--a pale blue eye, with a film over it. Whenever it fell upon me, my blood ran cold; and so by degrees--very gradually--I made up my mind to take the life of the old man, and thus rid myself of the eye forever.

Now this is the point. You fancy me mad. Madmen know nothing. But you should have seen me. You should have seen how wisely I proceeded--with what caution--with what foresight--with what dissimulation I went to work!

I was never kinder to the old man than during the whole week before I killed him. And every night, about midnight, I turned the latch of his door and opened it--oh, so gently! And then, when I had made an opening sufficient for my head, I put in a dark lantern, all closed, closed, so that no light shone out, and then I thrust in my head. Oh you would have laughed to see how cunningly I thrust it in! I moved it slowly—very, very slowly, so that I might not disturb the old man's sleep. It took me an hour to place my whole head within the opening so far that I could see him as he lay upon his bed. Ha!—would a madman have been so wise as this? And then, when my head was well in the room, I undid the lantern cautiously, oh, so cautiously—cautiously (for the hinges creaked)—I undid it just so much that a single thin ray fell upon the vulture eye. And this I did for seven long nights—every night just at midnight—but I found the eye always closed; and so it was impossible to do the work; for it was not the old man who vexed me, but his Evil Eye. And every morning, when the day broke, I went boldly into the chamber, and spoke courageously to him, calling him by name in a hearty tone, and inquiring how he had passed the night. So you see he would have been a very profound old man, indeed, to suspect that every night, just at twelve, I looked in upon him while he slept.

from "The Tell-Tale Heart" (by Edgar Allan Poe)

Directions: In the blank space, write the letter of the choice that best completes the statement.

1. The narrator (the one who tells the story) is _______.
   (A) dreadfully nervous
   (B) mad
   (C) not too talkative

2. The narrator says that he has a very fine sense of _______.
   (A) hearing
   (B) sight
   (C) smell

3. The old man, according to the narrator, _______.
   (A) is a poor sleeper
   (B) has some money
   (C) has insulted the narrator

4. On each of his seven attempts to kill the old man, the narrator finds _______.
   (A) the door locked
   (B) the old man awake
   (C) the eye closed
5. The narrator ________

(A) wishes the old man were alive again
(B) is not capable of constructing and carrying out a detailed plan
(C) wants us to believe that he is perfectly sane

How can you arrive at the right answers to reading questions like those you have just answered? There is one rule: Never guess!!! The proof for each right answer is in the passage. Find it. Here's how.

Question 1: The narrator says he is "very, very dreadfully nervous," but as he continues to talk we realize that his condition is more serious. When he says, "I heard all things in the heaven and in the earth...I heard many things in hell," we know we are dealing with a madman. We are even more certain he is mad when he tells of his weird reason for wanting to kill the old man. We cannot say the narrator is "not too talkative" because he tells us everything. The answer, then, is (B) mad.

Question 2: The narrator says, "Above all was the sense of hearing acute." This proves that the answer is (A) hearing.

Question 3: The comment "For his gold I had no desire" suggests that the old man is not penniless. From what the narrator tells us, we know that the old man sleeps well and that he has not insulted the narrator. The answer, therefore, is (B) has some money.

Question 4: The statement "but I found the eye always closed" proves that the answer is (C) the eye closed.

Question 5: Such remarks as "How then am I mad?" and "would a mad man have been so wise as this?" prove that the answer is (C) wants us to believe that he is perfectly sane. The narrator's strong desire to rid himself of the old man's eye forever shows that answer (A) cannot be right. His detailed plan for the murder, plus the manner in which he proceeds to carry it out, proves that answer (B) is incorrect too.
Assignment 4: Reading and Vocabulary

Today you are on your own. All of the words you'll study were taken from the story that you read yesterday. First, look at the word in the left column. You are given the word, the pronunciation, and the part of speech. In the next column is the meaning of the word. Last, there is an example of how the word might be used in a sentence. All right!! Read and study the list.

The student will be able to:
1. identify and use common abbreviations correctly.
2. identify and write similes and metaphors.
3. identify negatives in sentences and correct sentences that contain double negatives.
Lesson 8

Assignment 1: Abbreviations

Objective: The student will be able to identify and use common abbreviations correctly.

Some words are used so often in daily life and business they have been shortened in spelling. These short cuts are called abbreviations. We see many of them every day. Examples: Dr.--Doctor, Mr.--Mister, yr.--year, in.--inch, hr.--hour.

(Notice that an abbreviation takes a PERIOD after it.)

Remember that all abbreviations take a period. Some, but not all take capitals. There is no rule that will apply to all. The best thing is to learn a list of common abbreviations. One rule to remember is that names of companies, months, days of the week and titles are capitalized. Here is a list of commonly used abbreviations for you to learn.

1. Common abbreviations:

- A.D. in the year of our Lord
- B.C. before Christ
- Co. Company
- C.O.D. Cash on Delivery
- e.g. for example
- Is. Island
- Mr. Mister
- m.p.h. miles per hour
- p.m. or P.M. afternoon
- p. page
- P.S. post script
- R.R. railroad
- Rev. Reverend
- st. street
- Mon. Monday
- Wed. Wednesday
- Sat. Saturday
- Jan. January
- Mar. March
- Aug. August
- Oct. October
- Dec. December
- a.m. or A.M. before noon
- bldg. building
- c/o in care of
- dept. department
- etc. and so forth
- hr. hour
- I.O.U. I owe you
- mo. month
- P.O. Post Office
- pp. pages
- U.S. United States
- U.N. United Nations
- wk. week
- Tues. Tuesday
- Thurs. or Thur. Thursday
- Fri. Friday
- Sun. Sunday
- Feb. February
- Apr. April
- Sept. September
- Nov. November

Assignment 2: Borrowed Words

You may do this assignment if you want to. You do not have to do it. However, if you decide to do it, and if you send it in with your worksheets and tests for this week, you'll get extra credit. How much extra credit? Well, if it's done perfectly, you'll get 5 points added to your Test grade. That's quite a bit. If you miss some, you'll get fewer points.

English (A), Unit III -21-
Assignment 3: Similes and Metaphors

Objective: The student will be able to identify and write similes and metaphors.

"He is a fox." Am I talking about a little four-footed animal? Maybe I'm not. Pretend we are talking about a young man who is very clever, and we are using a metaphor to describe him. A metaphor is a way of making a direct comparison between two things. I might say, "She is a flower." If I'm referring to a bright, happy person, then I have used a metaphor. She is not a rose or a daisy. However, I have compared her to a flower. My comparison lets you get an idea of how I see her.

| Metaphor: A metaphor is a comparison of two things that are different. |

"He is like a fox." Here I have made a comparison too. Every word is the same except for the fact that I've added the word like. If I make a comparison of two different things and use the word like or the word as, then I have written a simile.

| Simile: A simile is a comparison of two things that are different by using like or as. |

Is this a simile or a metaphor? "He acts like a monkey." Yes, it is a simile. I used the word like. "He is a monkey." Now, I've written a metaphor. I did not use like or as.

Take Self-Check Test 8-3 (A) which follows.
Self-Check Test 8-3 (A)

Directions: Write S for simile or M for metaphor before these.

1. The kitchen smelled like a bakery.
2. He is steady as a pump bolt.
3. "O, My Love's Like a Red, Red Rose"
4. She was a bird.
5. "Some men with swords may reap the field."
6. "To the reed is as the oak."
7. "Look like pearls upon a string."
8. "When they, pale captives, creep to death."
9. My love is a rose.
10. "He is like a ship that at anchor rides."

Check your answers with the Key at the end of Lesson 8. Did you miss too many? Did you get them all right? You might want to take Self-Check Test 8-3 (B) just for fun.

Self-Check Test 8-3 (B)

Directions: Write one original simile and one original metaphor.

Assignment 4: Double Negatives

Objective: The student will recognize negatives and will be able to correct sentences that contain double negatives.

A negative in English is a word such as hardly, scarcely, but, no, not, never, none, only, nothing and no one. You should never use two negatives together in a sentence.

Examples

(correct) There is no one at home.
(incorrect) There is not no one at home.

Not and no one are both negatives. Leave out the word not.

Are these correct?

"I haven't got no money," said Dan.
I don't scarcely know how to do it.
I didn't never go.

No, none of these is correct. All have double negatives. They should be written:

I have no money. --or-- I haven't any money.
I scarcely know how to do it.
I never went. --or-- I didn't go.

From time to time, we'll look at the incorrect way of saying things. It's as important that you learn this as it is to learn the correct way.

Negatives: Never use more than one negative in a sentence.
Self-Check Test 8-4 (A)

Directions: If the sentence does not have a double negative, put a + on the line. If it does, put a 0 on the line and rewrite the sentence, correcting the error.

1. I can't hardly see you in this fog.

2. Paula never tried to play before this year.

3. There was no one left at the gate.

4. Aren't you never going with me?

5. There aren't no potatoes on the menu.

Check your answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you got all five correct, go on to Worksheet 8.

- BUT -

If you missed one of these, read page 22 again and take Self-Check Test 8-4 (B).

Self-Check Test 8-4 (B)

Directions: If the sentence does not have a double negative, put a + on the line. If it does, put a 0 on the line and rewrite the sentence, correcting the error.

1. She didn't never say nothing.

2. There is no one better.

3. I can scarcely see you.

4. They know no happiness.

C. Read the short biographical sketch that follows.

    Babe Ruth was a famous baseball player. He was a pitcher and played in the outfield. He was the "Home Run King" until Hank Aaron broke his record of 714 home runs.

    At the 1932 World Series, the fans of the other team started to boo Babe. The players on the other team teased him. Babe had two strikes and two balls on him. He stepped out of the batter's box and pointed to centerfield. Then, he stepped up to the plate. The next pitch came. Babe Ruth did as he said he would. He hit a home run to the centerfield stands.

Directions: Pretend you were the baseball that Babe Ruth hit that day. Write an account of how you felt. Were you glad? Did it hurt? Were you scared? How did you feel? Your story should be at least fifty words long.

D. Write an original simile.

E. Write an original metaphor.

F. Put a + in front of the sentence if there is no double negative. Put an O there if there is a double negative. Rewrite the sentence that contains the double negative.

1. We have neither food nor water in the refrigerator.

2. He hadn't bet a dollar.
3. Never listen to him no more.

4. He never did anything wrong.

1. Story: "The Diamond Necklace"
2. Troublesome Pairs
3. Worksheet 9
4. Review
5. Unit Test III A

OBJECTIVES:
The student will be able to:
1. answer comprehension questions about a given story.
2. use the correct word in expressing an idea as opposed to using a popular expression in error.
Lesson 9

Assignment 1: "The Diamond Necklace"

Objective: The student will be able to read a given story and answer comprehension questions about the story.

As you read "The Diamond Necklace," remember some of the things you learned about better reading in Lesson 5. Practice them now. Yes, it is important that you get the facts from the story. However, it's also important that you force yourself to read faster. Try to avoid the bad habits mentioned earlier. Watch for the main idea of the paragraph.

Now read: "The Diamond Necklace" (page 77) from Action Stories of Yesterday and Today

Notice that "The Diamond Necklace" is in quotation marks. This is because this is a story. Action Stories of Yesterday and Today is underlined because it is the title of a book. There is no second Self-Check Test.

Self-Check Test 9-1

A. Write an expression that would complete each sentence correctly.

1. Matilda was pretty and charming, but she was married to a ____________.

2. Matilda said she had no ____________ to wear with her new dress.

3. Matilda looked through the box quickly. She saw some bracelets, a string of pearls, and then a beautiful necklace of ____________.

4. She was the envy of all women, and many men asked her the ____________ of a dance.

5. "Oh, my poor Matilda! Mine were false. They were not worth more than ____________ francs!"

B. Decide whether each of the following statements is true or false. Write T for true and F for false.

1. Matilda's husband was in business for himself.
2. Matilda's husband had enough money to buy his wife a new dress for the ball.

3. Madame Forestier lent Matilda a pearl necklace.

4. Matilda wore a fur cape over her new dress.

5. Matilda's husband advertised in a newspaper for the lost necklace.

6. Matilda wrote her friend a letter saying that she could not return the necklace immediately because she had broken the clasp.

7. The Loisels had to borrow money at high rates of interest to buy a new necklace.

8. It took the Loisels two years to repay the money they had borrowed.

9. The new necklace was worth far less than the one that was lost.

10. Madame Forestier did not recognize Matilda when they met on the street.

C. Write the letter of the definition in column II that most closely matches each word in column I.

Assignment 2: Troublesome Pairs

Objective: The student will be able to use the correct word in expressing an idea as opposed to using a popular expression in error.

Sometimes we hear words misused so much we begin to think that we are using them correctly when we're not. Below are nine pairs of words that are often confused with each other. Look carefully at the words. Study the differences. Find some "key" to make you remember when you use which word.

A. Leave means "to go away" (ex.) Leave me alone! Let means "to allow" (ex.) Let me work alone.
B. Among with more than two things (ex.) He is among the winners. Between with two things (ex.) He is between Bob and Mary.
C. Can shows ability (ex.) He can kick well. May gives permission (ex.) You may go downtown.
D. Learn means "to get knowledge" (ex.) He will learn the rules. Teach means "to give knowledge" (ex.) She will teach the class.
E. Their shows ownership (ex.) That is their dog. There means "a place" (ex.) Put the box there.
F.Already means "by or before time" (ex.) He has already gone. All ready means "all are prepared" (ex.) They are all ready to meet the president.
G. Accept means "to agree to" (ex.) I accept your invitation. Except means "to leave out" (ex.) All my grades are good except math.
H. Beside means "next to" (ex.) Stand beside me. Besides means "other than" (ex.) Besides you, four will come.
I. Alright: Do not use this spelling. All right means "satisfactory" (ex.) I guess that will be all right.
Self-Check Test 9-2 (A)

Directions: Underline the correct spelling.

1. Is it (alright, all right) to go by bus?
2. He is (between, among) the two players.
3. (Teach, Learn) me to swim.
4. The guests had come (already, all ready)
5. Who will try (beside, besides) me?
6. (May, Can) I go with you?
7. Will you (let, leave) me do this?
8. Do not (accept, except) for me.
9. (There, Their) house is burning!
10. There was a lily (between, among) two roses.

You should have been able to get all of these correct. Check your answers with the Key. If you missed any, take Self-Check Test 9-2 (B). If you got them all right, do Worksheet 9.

Self-Check Test 9-2 (B)

Directions: Write an original sentence for each of these.

1. among: _____________________________________________
2. between: _____________________________________________
3. can: _____________________________________________
4. may: _____________________________________________
5. their: _____________________________________________
6. there: _____________________________________________

Assignment 4: Review

Today you are to review assignments 7-9. You will take your test over these tomorrow. If there is any part that is still confusing or that you've forgotten, read that section again. Go over your Self-Check Tests. Look at your worksheets. Remember, if you've done well all along, you should have no trouble with the test tomorrow.

Your test for Unit III will cover the following:

I. Contractions--Be sure you know the ways you contract words to their shortened form.

II. Abbreviations--You will be tested on your ability to abbreviate words and to expand abbreviations.

III. "Troublesome Pairs"--You should know the meanings of the words you studied in Assignment 2 of Lesson 9.

IV. Double Negatives--Just know the rule about two negatives in a sentence and you'll do fine.

V. The Stories--Study the vocabulary, characters and stories of "The Diamond Necklace" and "The Tell-Tale Heart."

VI. Similes and Metaphors--Know the difference in these two.

When you are ready to take Unit Test III, ask your supervisor to give it to you.

When you have finished everything for this unit, give everything that is to be mailed to your supervisor.

Begin work on Unit IV.

UNIT IV
Lesson 10

ASSIGNMENTS:
1. Building Compound Sentences
2. Subject/Verb Agreement
3. Subject/Verb Agreement
4. Subject/Verb Agreement
5. Worksheet 10

OBJECTIVES:
The student will be able to:
1. join two simple sentences into a compound sentence correctly using
   a. co-ordinated conjunctions with a comma before the conjunction.
   b. a semicolon between the two sentences.
Lesson 10

Assignment 1: Building Compound Sentences

Objective: The student will be able to join two simple sentences into a compound sentence correctly using

a. co-ordinate conjunctions with a comma before the conjunction, or
b. a semicolon between the two sentences.

A CLAUSE is a group of words that contains both a subject and a verb. A clause is a SUBJECT-VERB set. The following is a single clause or subject-verb set.

S
Jack went into the living room.

In this lesson you will be introduced to sentences that contain only one clause. A SENTENCE THAT CONTAINS ONLY ONE CLAUSE IS CALLED A SIMPLE SENTENCE. The following is an example.

S
Harry spread the fertilizer on the front lawn.

Now, we'll add something to the above sentence. Is the resulting sentence still a simple sentence? That is, does it still contain only one subject-verb set?

During the early hours of the morning, Harry spread fertilizer on the front lawn.

The above sentence is a simple sentence. It contains only one subject-verb set. The introductory word group During the early hours of the morning does not contain a subject and a verb.

Here is another sentence. Is this one a simple sentence?

Because of the bad weather, we cancelled the game.

In the above sentence, there is only subject-verb set, (subject: we) (verb: cancelled). Therefore, it is a simple sentence.

COMPOUND SENTENCES

Following are three pairs of clauses or subject-verb sets. Read them carefully. Does each state a complete thought by itself?

English (A), Unit IV
Frank works at Sears. Bob works at Wards.
Harry went to Savoonga. Valerie stayed in Gambell.
Will you go to the movies? Will you stay at home?

The answer is yes. Each of the above subject-verb sets states a complete thought by itself. Each of the six is a simple sentence.

Here are the three pairs again. In your mind, combine each pair of simple sentences into a single sentence, using the conjunction that appears in parentheses.

Frank works at Sears. Bob works at Wards. (and) Harry went to Savoonga. Valerie stayed in Gambell. (but) Will you go to the movies? Will you stay at home? (or)

The words and, but, and or can be used to combine two simple sentences into a single sentence. Here are the three pairs of simple sentences combined into single sentences.

Frank works at Sears, and Bob works at Wards.
Harry went to Savoonga, but Valerie stayed in Gambell.
Will you go to the movies, or will you stay home?

Each of the above sentences is a compound sentence.

REMEmber

A COMPOUND sentence contains two simple sentences joined by a coordinate conjunction (and, but, or).

S V
John glared at his wife, and then he left the room.

(There are two simple sentences in this sentence. The sentence is a compound sentence.)

John glared at his wife and then left the room.

(This sentence is not compound because it consists of only one clause. There are two verbs in the sentence but they both have the same subject. The sentence consists of only one clause, and it is therefore a simple sentence. Study the difference here carefully.

RULE

In a compound sentence, place a comma before the conjunction (and, but, or).
Examples

$S  \overset{V}{\text{He turned off the television set, and then he went to bed.}}$

(This is a compound sentence. Therefore, a comma is needed before the word and.)

$S  \overset{V}{\text{He turned off the television set and then went to bed.}}$

(This is not a compound sentence. Therefore, a comma should not be placed before the word and.)

Sometimes two simple sentences are combined into one compound sentence by using a semicolon (:) instead of using a comma and a conjunction. Usually this is done if the two sentences are of equal importance and deal with the same subject.

Examples

It is wrong to say all pirates did harm; some of them helped the poor.

Many sea robbers stole the treasure from other ships; then they sank the vessel.

REMEMBER: To combine two simple sentences you can use (, and) (, or), or you can use a semicolon (;) between the two.

Take Self-Check Test 10-1(A)

Self-Check Test 10-1(A)

A. Directions: Make good compound sentences by combining the following sentences with either a comma and conjunction or a semicolon.

1. Your niece can go to the movies with my daughter. She can stay at home with me.

2. The youngest member of the team caught his left skate in the net. He fell on his face.
3. One of the men had asked for a raise in pay. He did not receive more money on his next check.

4. The buccaneers of old couldn't enter certain ports. The police would have placed them in irons.

B. Directions: Tell whether these sentences are simple or compound.

1. The foreman had asked for several volunteers, but he did not receive a reply from anyone in the room.

2. You may go by taxi or wait for the bus.

3. He applied for the job but did not get it.

4. Some of the milk has been spilled, and one of the glasses has been broken.

5. Big ravens have been swooping down and frightening children at Auke Bay School.

6. No children have been hurt by the birds, but the principal of the school has made a complaint to the police.

Check your answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you got eight of the sentences right, start Assignment 2.

If you missed more than one sentence, review the material and take Self-Check Test 10-1(B).

Self-Check Test 10-1(B)

A. Directions: Make good compound sentences by combining the following sentences with either a comma and conjunction or a semicolon.

Assignment 2: Subject-Verb Agreement (Is, Are, Was, Were, Has, Have)

Objective: The student will be able to demonstrate understanding that subject and verb must agree in number.

SUBJECT-VERB AGREEMENT

In this assignment, you will be tested on your ability to use correctly the forms of the verb to be (is, are, was, were) and the verb to have (has, have).

REMEMBER:
The word is is used with a singular subject.
The word are is used with a plural subject.

Examples
Mr. Johnson is in Tanana. He is in Tanana.
The bicycles are in the garage. They are in the garage.

REMEMBER:
The word was is used with a singular subject.
The word were is used with a plural subject.

Examples
The coffee was cold. It was cold.
The guests were late. They were late.

REMEMBER:
The word has is used with a singular subject.
The word have is used with a plural subject.

Examples
Mr. Johnson has a pipe. He has a pipe.
The cars have horns. They have horns.

REMEMBER:
When the word you is the subject of the sentence, the plural form of the verb (are, were, have) is used even if the word you refers to only one person.
Examples

(Notice that in the following sentences the word you could refer to one person (John) or to more than one person (John and Harry.)

You are late. (not is)
You were late. (not was)
You have done a good job. (not has)

Take Self-Check Test 10-2(A) which follows.

Self-Check Test 10-2(A)

Assignment 3: Subject-Verb Agreement

Objective: The student will be able to demonstrate understanding that the subject and verb must agree in number.

When you are trying to make a subject agree with a verb, you might remember the following:

A plural noun often ends in s.
A singular verb often ends in s.
The singular noun (with no s) will require a singular verb (with s).
The plural noun (with s) will require a plural verb (with no s).

Examples

The boy looks sad.
The boys look sad.

9. (hunts or hunt) John ______ in the Brooks Range.
10. (likes or like) Dave ______ here.

Check your answers with the Key.

Go on to Assignment 4
Lesson 10

Assignment 4: Subject/Verb Agreement

Objective: The student will be able to demonstrate understanding that the subject and verb must agree in number.

In each sentence in the other lessons, the verb had only one subject.

Example Her parents like living in Tenakee. (The subject of the verb like is parents.)

In this lesson, sentences will contain more than one subject.

Example Frank and Edith like living in Tenakee. (The subject of the verb like are the words Frank and Edith.)

When a verb has more than one subject, the subjects are joined by the word and or the word or.

Examples Mary and Bob are in the waiting room.
Mary or Bob is in the waiting room.

Look at the two sentences again. Notice that the first sentence has a plural subject and plural verb. Then, look at the next sentence. There, the verb (is) is singular. Why? This is because we are talking about Mary or Bob but not both together. One of them is in the waiting room.

Two or more singular subjects joined by the word and require a plural verb.

Example Harry and Sam walk to work every morning. (Both of them walk.)

Two or more singular subjects joined by the word or require a singular verb.

Example Harry or Sam walks with me to the college every morning. (Only one of them walks.)

Two or more plural subjects require a plural verb, no matter which word is used to join the subjects.

Examples My sons and my daughters wash the dishes after supper.
My sons or my daughters wash the dishes after supper.
Sometimes, a phrase comes between the subject and the verb.

Examples

The father of those children owns a hotel. (The verb is the word owns. The person who owns the hotel is the father. Therefore, the subject of the verb owns is the word father.)

The sound of the children's voices makes Harry feel ill. (It is the sound that makes Harry feel ill. The subject sound is singular; therefore the verb must be singular. It would be wrong to use the plural verb make in the above example. Do not be fooled by the phrase of the children's voices.)

PASS WITH CARE

REMEMBER:

Always make the verb agree with the subject. Do not be fooled by a phrase that comes between the subject and the verb.

THE WORDS "ONE" AND "EACH"

The words one and each are always singular. These words are often used as the subjects of sentences. When they are used as subjects, they are often separated from the verbs by phrases.

Examples

(Do not be fooled by the phrases that separate the words one and each from the verbs.)

One of those books is mine. (NOT are)

One of my brothers plays hockey. (NOT play)

Each of those glasses is cracked. (NOT are)

Each of the guests wants more wine. (NOT want)

Now, if you feel you know the material well enough, take Self-Check Test 10-4(A).

SPEED ZONE AHEAD

MORE STUDENTS HAVE TROUBLE WITH THIS AREA THAN ANY OTHER. BE CAREFUL!

UNIT IV
Lesson 11

ASSIGNMENTS:
1. Story ("The Verger")
2. Working with Adjectives
3. Y-to-I Spelling Rule
4. Plurals
5. Worksheet 11

OBJECTIVES:
The student will be able to:
1. answer questions about a given story.
2. use descriptive adjectives correctly.
3. recognize the Y-to-I rule in spelling.
4. write and use singular and plural forms of words.
Lesson 11

Assignment 1: Story "The Verger"

Objective: The student will be able to answer questions about a given story.

Today you'll read another story from Action Stories of Yesterday and Today. The title of this story is "The Verger." It begins on page 57. The story takes place in a different country. Some of the words you read may be unfamiliar. Be sure you use the vocabulary list on pages 62-63. Learn these new words as you read. Don't skip them. You'll be asked to use some of them later.

After you've read "The Verger," take Self-Check Test 11-1. If you miss something on the test, go back to the story and find out why your answer was wrong. As with other stories, there is not a second Self-Check Test. Be very sure that you understand what has happened in the story, and that you know the words listed on pages 62 and 63.

Now read "The Verger" (pages 57-62) of Action Stories of Yesterday and Today.

Assignment 2: Working with Adjectives

Objective: The student will be able to use descriptive adjectives correctly.

Sometime ago you studied adjectives and how they can be used to make sentences more interesting. Adjectives are important and they're fun. Today you'll practice with them. Let your imagination go wild as you work on your assignment. Here's what you're to do. Choose one of the following tasks. Be creative. Have fun with this project. Don't decide to do one until you've really thought about what you might do with the others. If you'd like to get extra credit for this work, send the paper in when you submit your worksheets and test for this unit. Have fun!

Directions: Choose one task.

1. Cut advertisements from magazines that appeal to one or more of the five senses. Glue these to your paper. Find as many as you can.

2. Write an advertisement for a new product you've created.

3. Write a 30-word description of one of these:

   Holiday Dinner
   Spaghetti Sauce
   Sounds in the Woods
   The View from My Window
   The Road to My House

(If you choose to do this assignment, put your work on page 25. If you need more room for your work, use another sheet of paper. Be sure that you put your name, address and Lesson 11 at the top of the page.)

Assignment 3: Y-to-I Spelling Rule

Objective: The student will be able to recognize the Y-to-I rule in spelling.

Spelling rules won't solve all your problems. They will help some as you try to figure out which way you want to try to spell a word. — So, let's learn another rule (or two) (or three).

Rule 1: If the y at the end of a word does not follow a vowel, change the y to i and add the ending.

Examples

- dry → dried
- heavy → heavily
- dry → driest

Rule 2: If the y at the end of the word does follow a vowel, do not change the y to i. Add the ending.

Examples

- play → player
- obey → obeying

Rule 3: If you are adding ing, do not change the y to i.

Example

- cry → crying
- play → playing
Take Self-Check Test 11-3 which follows.

Self-Check Test 11-3

Directions: Add the ending indicated to the words shown below. Change, or don't change the 'y.' Write the correct spelling on the line.

1. satisfy (ed)_________________ 11. difficulty (es)_________________
2. play (er)__________________ 12. heavy (ness)__________________
3. enemy (es)_________________ 13. reply (ing)__________________
4. crazy (est)_________________ 14. hazy (ly)___________________
5. supply (er)_________________ 15. satisfy (ed)_________________
6. obey (ing)_________________ 16. deny (ing)__________________
7. cry (ed)___________________ 17. early (est)__________________
8. ready (ing)________________ 18. busy (ly)__________________
9. fancy (ful)_________________ 19. glory (ous)________________
10. accompany (ed)_____________ 20. carry (ing)________________

Check your answers with the Key. All words should be spelled correctly. If they aren't, try to find out why you missed something. Was it carelessness?

Go on to Assignment 4.
Lesson 11

Assignment 4: Plurals

Objective: The student must be able to write and use singular and plural forms of words.

Most often when you want to indicate more than one of a thing you simply add s. So, when you see more than one dog you see two or several dogs.

Another common way of indicating plurals is to add es. More than one guess becomes guesses.

Plural Rule 1: Most words form their plurals by adding an s.

Examples: hat . . . hats do . . . dogs

Plural Rule 2: Words that end in ch, x, z, or s add es to form the plural.

Examples: mass . . . masses fox . . . foxes church . . . churches buzz . . . buzzes

It may be easier for you to learn these rules in pairs.

Plural Rule 3: If a word ends with o and if a vowel (a, e, i, o, or u) comes before the o, add an s to form the plural.

Examples: studio . . . studios radio . . . radios

BUT

Plural Rule 4: If a word ends with o, and if a consonant comes before the o, add es to form the plural.

Examples: cargo . . . cargoes hero . . . heroes
Plural Rule 5: If a word ends with \( y \) and if a vowel comes before the \( y \), add \( s \) to form the plural.

Examples
- day... days
- key... keys

Plural Rule 7: There are some nouns that form plurals by making a great change.

Examples
- foot... feet
- mouse... mice

BUT

Plural Rule 6: If a word ends with \( y \) and if a consonant comes before the \( y \), change the \( y \) to \( i \) and add \( es \).

Examples
- pony... ponies
- sky... skies

Examples
- deer... deer
- sheep... sheep

Plural Rule 8: There are some nouns that are singular and plural in the same form.

Examples
- deer... deer
- sheep... sheep

Plural Rule 9: Most nouns that end in \( f \) or \( fe \) change the \( f \) to \( v \) and add \( es \) to form the plural.

Examples
- calf... calves
- wife... wives

OBJECTIVES: The student will be able to answer comprehension questions about the story "To Build a Fire."
Assignment 1: Story "To Build a Fire"

Objective: The student will be able to answer comprehension questions about the story "To Build a Fire."

Jack London was born into a very poor family in 1876. He had many jobs during his life. Some of these were connected with the sea. He was a gold worker, a sailor and an oyster pirate. However, when he decided to become a prospector, he started out on something that would give him a wealth of information for his stories. In 1896, Jack London was in the middle of the Klondike Gold Rush. The story you'll read today is based on some experiences London had while prospecting. If you enjoy this story, you might like to read The Call of the Wild.

Read: "To Build a Fire" (pp 12-19) from Action Stories of Yesterday and Today.

When you have finished the story, take Self-Check Test 12-1.
Self-Check Test 12-1

   a. earflaps   b. mittens   c. a face mask

3. When the man started out on his trip, it was ______ degrees below zero.
   a. 50   b. 40   c. 15

4. Old Timer had warned the man ________________.
   a. to take a gun
   b. to carry a compass
   c. never to go alone on the trail when it was very cold

5. The man knew if he got his feet wet he would have to ____________.
   a. run fast to keep warm
   b. send the dog for help
   c. stop and build a fire

English (A), Unit IV
C. Directions. Decide whether each of the following statements is true or false. Write T for true and F for false.

1. The story took place in Alaska.
2. The man wore heavy boots to keep warm.
3. The man walked at a pace of about four miles an hour.
4. After eating his lunch, the man smoked his pipe for a few minutes.
5. The dog did not wish to leave the fire when the man was ready to go.
6. When the man fell through the ice crust, he wet his legs up to his hips.
7. The man carried matches and dried birch bark to start a fire.
8. The dog had no fear of the cold.
9. The man realized that he might lose some of his toes.
10. The dog left his master when it realized he was dead.

Check your answers with the Key at the end of the lesson. If you understood the story, you should have done well on the test.

Go on to Assignment 2.
Assignment 2: Exercise Designed around "To Build a Fire"

Jack London created an interest in these stories by using many good descriptions of things. He developed his major physical "props" to the point you think you can feel as the person in the story did. Read the second paragraph on page 13 again. You feel alone. Your mind sees the vast nothing of the area. Now read the paragraph that begins "He started to untie his moccasins...." on page 17. If London hadn't gone on to tell you about the ice, the frozen socks and the strings that "were like rods of steel," the paragraph would have lost a lot of its power.

London was able to see things in detail. So often, we look at things but not for any purpose. It's there. We saw it. We're finished. Sometime try studying something that's supposed to be plain. You'll find there are many things there you'd have missed if you hadn't looked at it closely.

You will not take a Self-Check Test today. Instead you're to follow the directions below.

Directions: Describe a spot (place) from three observation places. (Example: Go out into an area near your home. Stand in the area. Look around. See what you see. Now, go to another place where your view of the same area is blocked. Study the area from that position. Finally, go back into the house and look out at the area. What do you see? Now, fill out the chart that is on the next page. Use descriptive adjectives that would help someone see your area.)

This assignment is to be mailed in with your worksheet for this unit. Don't forget to send it in.

Assignment 4: Review

Spend at least forty-five minutes today reviewing any problems you've had in this unit. Even if you feel you have done well, go back and test yourself on each assignment. This would be a good time to use Self-Check (B) for each assignment. When you feel comfortable with each topic, you're ready for the unit test. Remember that you are to take the test without a book. Your supervisor will give you Unit Test IVA. Find a place where you can think. Get a pen and sit down knowing you're going to do well. If you've studied the material, taken the Self-Check Tests and reviewed everything, you should have no trouble.

3. Reading
4. Spelling Commonly Misspelled Words
5. Worksheet 13

OBJECTIVES: The student will be able to:
1. find and label each verb (including helping verbs) and the subject(s) of each verb.
2. read a story from the reading book and design a book jacket for the story.
3. spell correctly words that are commonly misspelled.
Lesson 13

Assignment 1: Verbs and Subjects

Objective: The student must be able to find and label each verb (including helping verbs) and the subject(s) of each verb.

SUBJECT-VERB AGREEMENT WITH SENTENCES THAT CONTAIN MORE THAN ONE CLAUSE OR SUBJECT-VERB SET.

The following sentence is a single clause, or a single subject-verb set.

\underline{Harry} \quad \underline{went} \quad \underline{to \quad work}.

Sentences often contain more than one subject-verb set.

\[ S \quad V \quad V \quad S \quad V \]
\underline{After \quad Harry \quad had \quad finished} \quad \underline{breakfast, \quad he} \quad \underline{went} \quad \underline{to \quad work}.

In the example above, the word group after Harry had finished breakfast contains a subject (Harry) and a verb (had finished). The word group he went to work is also a clause or subject-verb set because it contains a subject (he) and a verb (went).

Read the following pair of sentences carefully.

a. One subject-verb set
\[ S \quad V \]
\underline{Harry} \quad \underline{finished} \quad \underline{breakfast} \quad \underline{and} \quad \underline{then} \quad \underline{went} \quad \underline{to \quad work}.
b. Two subject-verb sets
\[ S \quad V \quad S \quad V \]
\underline{Harry} \quad \underline{finished} \quad \underline{breakfast, \quad and} \quad \underline{then} \quad \underline{he} \quad \underline{went} \quad \underline{to \quad work}.

In sentence (a), the word Harry is the subject of the verbs finished and went. In the second part of the sentence (and then went to work), there is a verb (went), but there is not a new subject. Therefore, sentence (a) contains only one complete subject-verb set.

In sentence (b), however, there are two complete sets of subjects and verbs. In the first set, Harry is the subject of finished. In the second set, he is the subject of went.
Before you start Self-Check Test 13-1(A), you might want to study this.

The sentence can have:

a. a verb and its subject. (one clause)
He went.

b. a verb and its compound subject. (one clause)
He and Mack went.

c. a compound verb and its subject. (one clause)
He went and returned.

d. a verb and its subject is another verb and its subject.
(two clauses)
He went, but Mack remained at home.

Take Self-Check Test 13-1(A) which follows.

Self-Check Test 13-1(A)

Directions: Write the letter V above each verb (including helping verbs) and the letter S above the subject(s) of each verb.

1. They waited in the hut until the rain had stopped.

2. Sally and I stayed in Fort Yukon for two days and then returned to Fairbanks.

3. She became a vegetarian because the price of meat had risen so sharply.

4. Although dense fog surrounded the airport, the plane landed safely.

5. From the inside pocket of his jacket, the old man took a faded picture of a beautiful young woman.

6. The company could hire additional staff or pay the regular employees overtime during the Christmas rush.

7. After he had brought the matter to our attention, we did something about it.

8. The car was making a strange noise, therefore Fred took it to the service station.
Check you answers with the Key which is located at the end of this lesson. If you correctly identified the subject and verb in at least seven of the sentences, go on to Assignment 2.

-BUT-

If you missed the subjects and verbs in more than one sentence, review the material and take Self-Check Test 13-1(B).

Self-Check Test 13-1(B)

Directions: Underline each subject once and each complete verb (including helping verbs) twice.

1. Their oldest son works at The Book Cache during the day and attends classes during the evening.
2. Her uncle was driving too fast, and therefore he missed the turnoff.
3. In the trunk of the car was an empty suitcase.
4. We have heard from her only once since she left Seattle.
5. The noise of your children's voices annoys the people who live next door.
6. From early in the summer until late in the autumn, his wife stayed with her parents at their cottage near the lake.
7. Someone must have been using these tools.
8. Has anybody been asking for Mr. Roberts or Miss Woolworth this morning?

Check your answers with the Key.

Lesson 13

Assignment 2: Verbs and Subjects

Objective: The student must be able to find and label each verb (including helping verbs) and the subject(s) of each verb.

SUBJECT-VERB SETS OR CLAUSES THAT START WITH WHO, WHICH, AND THAT

In this lesson you will be introduced to sentences containing subject-verb sets that start with the words who, which, and that.

Example

\[ \text{John has found the pen that he had lost.} \]

(first subject-verb set) (second subject-verb set)

Notice that the second subject-verb set in the above sentence starts with the word that. The verb is had lost, and the subject of the verb is he.

Practice:

Write the letter V above each verb and the letter S above the subject of each verb.

1. Mary liked the hat that you were wearing.
2. John borrowed the dictionary which you gave me.

Answers: 1. Mary (subject); liked (verb); you (subject); were wearing (verb); 2. John (subject); borrowed (verb) you (subject); gave (verb).

The words who, which, and that may be used to introduce subject-verb sets or clauses. Sometimes, one of these words also acts as the subject of the verb. Read the following example carefully.

Example

\[ \text{I met the man who owns this hotel.} \]

English (A), Unit V -5-
Each of the following two sentences contains a subject-verb set which is introduced by the word that. IN WHICH OF THE TWO SENTENCES IS THE WORD THAT THE SUBJECT OF THE VERB?

a. Our landlord is selling the house that we live in.
b. We picked up the apples that had fallen from the tree.

In sentence (b), the word that is the subject of the verb had fallen. In sentence (a), the word that introduces the second clause, but it is not the subject of the verb live. The subject of the verb live is the word we.

Now, take Self-Check Test 13-2(A) which deals with verbs and subjects and clauses containing who, which or that.

Self-Check Test 13-2(A)

Directions: Write the letter V above each verb (including helping verbs) and the letter S above the subject of each verb.

1. Harry was the person who asked so many questions.
2. He has lost the wallet that his uncle gave him last Christmas.
3. She introduced us to the man who owns the dog which attacked the mailman last week. (Hint: This sentence contains 3 subject-verb sets.)
4. The river brings down great quantities of soil, which it deposits at its mouth.
5. The beaver is one of the few animals that grow fat during the winter.

If you got at least four of the five sentences entirely right, go on to the next assignment.

-BUT-

If you missed more than one sentence, review Assignment 13-2 and take Self-Check Test 13-2(B).
Self-Check Test 13-2(B)

Directions: Write the letter V above each verb (including helping verbs) and the letter S above the subject of each verb.

1. She was the girl who ran away from home.
2. He identified the car that hit the garbage truck.
3. He was the one who ate the entire cake.
4. The glacier calved a huge piece of ice which floated out to sea.
5. The man watched the movie that was playing.

Check your answers with the key.
Go on to the next assignment.
Assignment 3: Story

Objective: The student will design a cover for one of the stories in Action Stories of Yesterday and Today.

You have read four of the stories from the book Action Stories of Yesterday and Today: "The Lady or the Tiger?", "The Diamond Necklace", "The Verger" and "To Build a Fire." With each of these there was an artist's drawing of what he thought the person might have looked like. In addition, the artist drew in other things that he hoped would catch your interest. Look again at the pictures on pages 122 and 123 and the picture on page 12. Did these make you wonder what the story was about? The artist hoped they would. After you'd read the story, did you look at it for another reason than when you started reading?

Your assignment today is to become an artist. If you are good at drawing, fine. If you are not, you don't have to worry. Today, you will be an artist who is trying to convince someone to read your story. When you have finished, save this page. You are to send it in with the worksheets and test for Unit V.

Directions: You are an artist who has been hired to draw the cover for the paperback edition of one of the stories from Action Stories of Yesterday and Today. (You must choose a story other than one of the four you have already read.) The publisher has asked that you make this cover as interesting as you can. On the next page draw your cover. Make sure you do both of these:

1. Put the name of the story on the cover.
2. Add enough details to make it interesting.

Do not copy one of the pictures from the book. Again, don't worry about how well you draw. Do the best you can. You may want to practice on scrap paper before putting your work on the next page.

Assignment 4: Spelling

Objective: The student will be able to spell correctly words that are commonly misspelled.

In your earlier spelling assignments you were given rules that would help you decide on the correct spelling of a certain word. Today's assignment will not deal with rules. Today you'll study twenty-five words that are often misspelled when they are written. Some of these may be familiar to you. You probably know how to spell at least half of the words below. Just be sure that you know how to spell all twenty-five correctly before you go on to the worksheet for Assignment 5.

Directions: Look at the word. Say the word. Close your eyes and "see" the word. Spell the word aloud. Write the word.

ASSIGNMENTS: 1. Dictionary
               2. Encyclopedia
               3. Library Card Catalogue
               4. Library Card Catalogue
               5. Worksheet 1

OBJECTIVES: The student will be able to:

1. use alphabetical order and guide words to find kinds of information found in a dictionary.
2. interpret the index of an encyclopedia and be familiar with the arrangement of the encyclopedia.
3. recognize the three types of library catalogue cards and interpret the information on these.
Assignment 1: The Dictionary

Objective: The student will be able to use alphabetical order and guide words to find five kinds of information found in a dictionary.

You have worked with words and their meanings in earlier assignments. However, in those assignments the meanings of the words were given to you. What if you have a word you don't understand and the meaning is not given to you? That's right. You use a dictionary. In fact, you should have a dictionary beside you each time you sit down to do an English assignment.

To get the most use of anything, you should try to understand it as well as you possibly can. This is certainly true of a book such as a dictionary. Many students miss information to be found there just because they don't know how easy it is to read and use this valuable book. Today, let's learn how.

There are many things a dictionary will tell you. Here are five important things you can find out about a word.

1. the correct spelling
2. the pronunciation
3. the part of speech
4. the source
5. the meaning

Look carefully at what a dictionary definition might look like.

\[\text{centipede (sen'ta-ped'), n. [L. centipedi centum, a hundred + pes, pedis, a foot], worm like animals that have a pair of legs for each body segment.}\]

From this dictionary entry we know that:

1. the correct spelling is centipede.
2. the pronunciation is sen'ta-ped'.
3. the word is a noun.
4. centipede comes from two Latin words, centum and pedis.
5. a centipede is a small wormlike animal that has two legs for each body segment.
All words in a dictionary are arranged in alphabetical order. Those words beginning with a are at the beginning of the dictionary. Any words that start with z are at the end. You can tell whether the word you are seeking is on a page in the dictionary by looking at the guide words at the top of the page. Here is an example.

| told 491 top | tore 492 tow |

On page 491 of our dictionary the first word is "told" and the last word is "top." Therefore, any word that started with told but does not have any more letters at the beginning than too will be on that page. (Examples might be tomato, tonsil, etc.) Would the word toss be found on page 491? No, it's on page 492. It comes between tore and tow.

| tore   |
| toss   |
| tow    |

Take Self-Check Test 14-1(A) which follows.

Assignment 2: The Encyclopedia

Objective: The student will be able to interpret the index of an encyclopedia and be familiar with the arrangement of the encyclopedia.

A set of encyclopedias is a group of books, probably 20 to 30 volumes, that provides general information on many subjects. This information is written out in essay or story form. As with the dictionary, the information is in alphabetical order according to the subject. An article on camping would come before one on Colorado. The spine of each book in the set is marked with letters and a volume number. There is a purpose for this marking. Suppose you wanted to write a report on the subject of fire. You decided to use a set of encyclopedias. What you should do next is go to the index, usually the last volume of the set, and look up the word "fire." You might find something like this:

Fire F:116 with pictures
Alchemy A:318
Camping (Campfires) C:82 with diagrams
Chemical Warfare C:315
Chemistry (Early Times) C:318
Combustion C:699
Culture (Technology) C:943
Fire Fighting (Battling the Blaze) F:123
(What to Do in Case of Fire) F:124
Heat (Sources of Heat) H:143
Prehistoric Man (Food, Shelter, and Clothing) P:667

In volume F, on page 116, you will find general information on fire. However, all of the other listings also deal with fire. For example in volume P, on page 667, you can find information on the importance of fire to prehistoric man. The index of an encyclopedia is very helpful. Use it.

Now take Self-Check Test 14-2.
Self-Check Test 14-2

Directions: Using the following index, answer the questions.

Fire F:116 with pictures
Alchemy A: 318
Camping (Campfires) C:82 with diagrams
Chemical Warfare C:315
Chemistry (Early Times) C:318
Combustion C:699
Culture (Technology) C:943
Fire Fighting (Battling the Blaze) F:123
(What to Do in Case of Fire) F:124
Heat (Sources of Heat) H:143
Prehistoric Man (Food, Shelter, and Clothing) P:667

1. What is the main entry?

2. What volume contains basic information about fire?

3. Subentries give you more information about this topic. Underline all the subentries in the index above.

4. In what volume and on what page will you find diagrams about building campfires?

5. In what volume and on what page will you find information about how firemen fight fires?

6. In what volumes and on what pages might you find information about the ancient art of using fire to change common metals into gold?

7. In what volumes and on what pages might you find information on how fire is useful?

8. In what volume and on what page would you find information on how early man depended on fire for survival?

9. How many different volumes contain information about fires?

10. In what volume and on what page would you find information on what you should do if a fire starts in your home?

Rather than take a second test on the encyclopedia, study your answers. If you missed something, go back and figure out why you missed it. Then go on to Assignment 3.

English (A), Unit V
Assignment 3: The Library Card Catalogue

Objective: The student will be able to recognize three types of library catalogue cards and interpret the information on these.

When you visit a library, the first thing you look for is the card catalogue. That is, you look for it first if you know how to use it. Many students today have not taken the time to get to know the card catalogue. Let's take the time.

The card catalogue is a set of drawers that hold 3 x 5 cards. There may be three separate catalogues in a library - the author catalogue, the title catalogue and the subject catalogue. How you use the catalogue depends on what you already know. Do you want to read a poem by Vachel Lindsay? Then go to the author catalogue and look up Lindsay. The cards are arranged in alphabetical order according to the author's last name. Perhaps you want to read a certain book. Look up the title of the book in the title catalogue. (If the title starts with a, an, or the, go to the next word and look for it in alphabetical order.) Finally, you may have a subject you want to read about. The subject catalogue lists its subjects in alphabetical order too. Now you're ready to learn to "read" the catalogue card. Study the cards below.

Here we can find this information:

1. The "call number" (This is the numbers or the letter F and the letters in the upper left-hand corner of the card.)

2. The author's name with the last name first. (This is on the first line.)

3. The title of the book. (This is on the line just below the author's name.)

5. Miscellaneous information:
   a. The number of pages
   b. Whether it's illustrated with pictures
   c. What the book is about

Before stopping for today, let's look at the "call number." If this is a number, the book is true and has been classified according to the Dewey Decimal System. Here is a list of the ten classes and what they include.

DEWEY DECIMAL CLASSIFICATION

000-099 General works: bibliographies, encyclopedias, periodicals
100-199 Philosophy: metaphysics, psychology, logic, ethics
200-299 Religion: Bible, theology, Christian churches
300-399 Social Science: political science, economics, education
400-499 Philology: English language, various languages
500-599 Pure science: mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology
600-699 Applied science: medicine, engineering, agriculture
700-799 Arts and recreation: architecture, sculpture, painting
800-899 Literature: American literature, English literature, other literatures
900-999 History: geography, biography, ancient history, modern history

You will have a Self-Check Test over the card catalogue at the end of Assignment 4. Study the author card and the Dewey Decimal System again.

Review.

2. use quotation marks to indicate articles, chapters, poems, etc.
Lesson 15

Assignment 1: Quotation Marks (Spoken and Written Words)

Objective: The student will be able to use quotation marks to enclose exact words spoken or written.

All exact words that someone says, thinks or writes must be enclosed in quotation marks (" ").

Examples

(i) "The unit tests are in the filing cabinet," she said.
(ii) "I'm going to cry!" she screamed.
(iii) "Can you come back?" she asked.

Punctuation used with quotation marks.

(i) Capitalize the first word of a quotation. He asked, "How far is it?"
(ii) Commas separate the quotation from the rest of the sentence. She wrote, "I will not be able to attend the wedding." "Tomorrow," he said, "will be soon enough."
(iii) Commas and periods are always placed inside quotation marks.
(iv) Put an exclamation point or a question mark in the sentence as it should be. "Can you come back?" she asked.
(Note: "You can come back," she said. In this sentence, a comma follows the word back because this is a statement.)

Note that a sentence needing quotation marks has two parts—one part tells that someone is speaking or writing, and the other part gives the exact words said or written. Never use quotation marks unless you have these two parts:

(i) words telling that someone is saying or writing, and
(ii) the exact words said.

For example, by itself the sentence The unit tests are in the filing cabinet would not need quotation marks because there are no words telling you that someone is speaking.

Sometimes you'll find that the exact words of the speaker are divided. We'll call this a "split quotation." The part of the sentence that is not a part of the quotation is usually a group of words that tell you who's talking.
Examples

(i) "The unit tests," she said, "are in the filing cabinet."
(ii) "If you find John," she said, "tell him to come over tonight."

The exact words spoken are split by the words she said, and so two sets of quotation marks are needed to enclose them.

There is one other sentence we should look at now. That is the indirect quotation.

Indirect quotations, quotations where the exact words spoken or written are not given, do not need quotation marks.

For example: He says that he has two paragraphs to finish this afternoon.

The exact words are not given, and so no quotation marks are needed. If this statement was a direct quotation, it would read He said, "I have two paragraphs to finish this afternoon." In this case quotation marks would be needed.

The following comparison should help you see the differences in regular quotations, split quotations and indirect quotations.

Assignment 2: Quotation Marks (Articles, poems, etc.)

Objective: The student will be able to use quotation marks to indicate articles, chapters, poems, etc.

Here is another rule for when you use quotation marks.

Quotation marks are used to indicate names or titles of chapters of books, articles in magazines, songs, poems, short stories, etc. The general rule is that books, magazines, works which are published on their own, are underlined, and parts of books and magazines (chapters, essays, stories, poems) are enclosed in quotation marks (" ").

A chart may help you to see this more clearly.

Lesson 16

Assignment 1: Complex Sentences

Objective: The student will be able to write complex sentences and to distinguish between simple, compound and complex sentences.

Today we'll review two types of sentences you've already learned and find out about a third type. As you read through this lesson, you should feel comfortable with the first two types of sentences--simple and complex. In Lesson 2 you studied simple sentences. Compound sentences were discussed in Lesson 10. You should go back to these lessons if you don't understand either type of sentence. Be sure you can recognize them before you try working with complex sentences.

Simple, Compound and Complex Sentences

The object of looking at sentences as simple, compound and complex is not so much that you be able to identify simple, compound and complex sentences, but that you be able to use them in your writing. Good writing is made up of a variety of simple, compound and complex sentences.

A simple sentence has one clause or subject-verb set and makes a complete statement.

Examples

- He came through the door.
- Joan is tall.

A simple sentence stands by itself; nothing needs to be added to it.

A compound sentence has two (or more) simple sentences joined by and, but, or, or nor. A comma is used before the joining words (and, but, or, or nor) in a compound sentence.

Examples

- He walked up the stairs, and he unlocked the door.
- Mary has a car, but Paul doesn't have one.
In a compound sentence the two parts, the two subject-verb sets, are of equal weight. They are independent of each other; they can each stand alone as a separate sentence.

He walked up the stairs. He unlocked the door.

A complex sentence, like a compound sentence, has two (or more) clauses or subject-verb sets, but unlike a compound sentence the two sets are not of equal weight. One set is more important than the other; one set can stand on its own but the other is a fragment and can't stand alone.

Example

If the sun comes out, I will go swimming.

In the example, I will go swimming is the main subject-verb set. It can stand on its own. The other set, if the sun comes out, is secondary or dependent. It is a fragment and must be attached to I will go swimming to complete its meaning.
Example

He is the boy who threw the rock.

In the second example He is the boy is the main subject-verb set, and who threw the rock is the dependent set. To complete its meaning, who threw the rock must be attached to He is the boy.

The secondary or dependent subject-verb set in a complex sentence is usually introduced by one of the following words: who, whose, whom, which, that, if, when, although, since, because or as. These words are the signposts to complex sentences.

Comma Rule with Complex Sentences

When the dependent subject-verb set or clause comes first in the sentence, it is separated from the main subject-verb set by a comma.

Examples

When the rain started, everyone ran for cover.
If you know so much, why are you working here?

In both examples the dependent subject-verb sets come first, and so commas follow them.

The following examples are for you to use as practice in distinguishing simple, compound and complex sentences. Use the following abbreviations to indicate the type of sentence.

S = Simple
Cd = Compound
Cx = Complex

1. Slowly and quietly she made her way to the door.
2. You can ski with us if you have your own gear.
3. Although we drove to Portage, we took the train to Whittier.
4. When you've finished that, wash the car.
5. Pat flew to Central; Jane drove the Steese Highway.
6. She smiled sadly and walked away.
7. He wanted to work with animals, and he became a veterinarian.
8. She baked the cake because she liked surprises.
9. Richard and she ate their dinner and went to a show.
10. These sentences were hard, but I could do them.
Let's analyze each sentence and see how well you did.

S 1. We have one subject/verb set. (she made)

Cx 2. We have two subject/verb sets. (You can ski and you have) And, we have the word if introducing a clause.

Cx 3. We have two subject/verb sets. (we drove and we took) We have the word although introducing a clause.

Cx 4. We have two subject/verb sets. (You've finished and (you wash) We have the introduction word when.

Cd 5. We have two subject/verb sets. (Pat flew and Jane drove) We have a semicolon (;) dividing the two independent clauses.

S 6. We have one subject/verb set. (She smiled, walked)

Cd 7. We have two subject/verb sets. (He wanted and he became) We have (, and) which signals a compound sentence.

Cx 8. We have two subject/verb sets. (She baked and she liked)

S 9. We have one subject/verb set. (Richard, she and ate, went)

Notice that this sentence has a compound subject and compound verb and not two separate subject/verb sets.

Cd 10. We have two subject/verb sets. (sentences, were and I could) We have (, but) which signals a compound sentence.

How did you do? Now that you can recognize the different sentence types, you should feel more free to use them in your writing. We'll do that tomorrow.

Go on to Assignment 2.
Assignment 2: Complex sentences

Objective: The student will be able to write complex sentences and to distinguish between simple, compound and complex sentences.

Today you are to practice writing compound and complex sentences. Then, when you're asked to write paragraphs, use these sentences.

We didn't go flying. It snowed all day. We will go Monday.

Wouldn't it have been better to say,

Because of the snow, we didn't go flying; but we will go Monday.

Practice writing compound or complex sentences in your daily work. Put variety in your writing.

Now take Self-Check Test 16-2(A).

Self-Check Test 16-2(A)

A. Directions: The following are secondary or dependent subject-verb sets or clauses. They are not sentences on their own. Attach these fragments to a main subject-verb set, making them into a complex sentence.

1. Although he had other work to do

2. who wears a red raincoat

3. because she has a cold

B. Directions: The following are main subject-verb sets and could stand as sentences on their own. Attach a dependent subject-verb set to them, making them into complex sentences.
1. He is heavy

2. The car has a smashed headlight

3. I don't want to go to the party

C. Directions: Each of the following is a complex sentence having one main subject/verb set and one secondary or dependent subject-verb set. For each sentence separate the sets and state whether they are main or dependent. Remember (i) the main set can stand on its own (ii) the dependent set is a fragment and needs to be attached to the main one to complete its meaning.

1. As you have probably heard, John and his brother came to the party.

Lesson 16

Assignment 3  Spelling

Objective: The student will be able to devise a means for spelling difficult words.

In many subjects we learn to use tricks to remember certain facts we'll be called upon to repeat at a later time. For example, you could be asked to list the seven colors in the rainbow. Is pink one? If you will remember that the colors in the rainbow spell a man's name, Roy G. Biv, you will be able to rattle them off quickly. Here are the seven colors. R (red), o (orange), y (yellow), G. (green), B (blue), i (indigo), v (violet).

You can do this same thing when you are studying spelling words. Look at these 25 words. This is your spelling list for this unit.

| all right | handkerchief | sandwich |
| attendance | hear | secretary |
| criticize | loose | separate |
| dessert | misspelled | similar |
| develop | peculiar | speech |
| embarrass | piece | stationery |
| forty | principal | there |
| grammar | principle | where |

Okay! What can we do with these? Are there any tricks we can come up with that will help us remember which letters to use? Here are some. See if you can think of some others.

all right (all of all has to be there, all alone) attendance (you attend the dance) criticize (critic + his ize) dessert (two s's--two helpings)

develop (top off the e)

embarrass (two r's, two s's)

forty (the fort held for forty days)

You can do this same thing. In fact the "tricks" you come up with will probably help you more than those above. If it helps, use it.
Stop right now and try to create a "trick" for spelling these words.

Self-Check Test 16-3

A. Directions: In the paragraph below there are fifteen misspelled words. Find and circle these. Then spell the words correctly on the lines below.

It's alright for you to go to our next meeting. No one their will criticize your attendance or embarass you. You will be able to here our principal speaker give a talk on the peculear way words are misspelled. Then he will give a simalar speach on grammer. He's really fine. You'll want to be there. After the meeting, our secretaray will serve sandwiches and deserts. We'll try to get lose at about eight-fourty.

B. Directions: Write out four "tricks" for learning to spell these words.

1. separate: ____________________________
2. stationery: __________________________
3. piece: _______________________________
4. where: ______________________________

Check your answers with the Key at the end of the lesson.

               5. Worksheet 17

OBJECTIVES: The student will be able to:

1. use the information presented in the previous lesson to summarize a given paragraph.
2. arrange information in outline form.
3. write a report using information taken from a given outline.
Lesson 17

Assignment 1: Summarizing

Objective: The student will be able to recognize techniques of summary.

In your first assignment for this week you are asked to read and learn. You are going to be learning about how to reduce sentences. When a company produces powdered milk, they remove the liquid. This leaves the dry milk that can later be added to water again. When you tell someone about something that has happened to you, you usually take a lot of the "extra" out. You, like the company, produce a smaller product for the user. Your listener can take your smaller product, add his or her imagination and come up with the whole thing again. What you have done in telling your shortened story is to summarize. In a summary, you choose the most interesting things to tell. You leave out less important things. Just as the milk company would not want to have a powdered milk package as large as a gallon of milk, you want your summary to be smaller than the actual happening. Let's look at summarizing something you've read. Your summary should be about one-fourth as long as the work you read. In other words, if you read a story of about four hundred words, you should try to keep your summary of that story to one hundred words. This formula might help.

\text{number of words in the story} = \frac{\text{number of words in your summary}}{4}

When you are asked to summarize something, prepare for your summary.

1. Take notes.
2. As you read the material, look for main ideas.
3. After you have selected the main ideas, find other things that support the main ideas you've found. Be very "choosy." Leave out everything but very important details.

Now you're ready to write your summary. Look at your notes. Use your main ideas. Write a paragraph giving these main ideas in your words. Don't forget that you have to reduce the material. Don't end up with a rewritten story that is as long as the original.

After you've written your summary, read it again. Cut it some more.

Example (Original Work)

Running does not require a great investment in equipment. Nothing, in fact, is as important as a good pair of running shoes. The shoe is the anchor around which any runner's program gravitates and tennis, basketball or other shoes just don't make the grade. Chances are, in fact, that shoes not built specifically for running could cause unnecessary injuries. And why take that chance? With shoes the only major investment in running equipment, there's no excuse for putting off the purchase for some point farther down the road -- and neither is there an excuse for buying anything second-rate.

from Runner's World

Main Ideas

1. Running is a cheap sport.
2. You need running shoes for running.
3. The wrong shoes can hurt your feet.
4. Buy running shoes to begin with.

First Draft of Paragraph

The only real equipment you need for running is a pair of running shoes. When you buy running shoes, buy good shoes or you may have problems with your feet.

Final Summary

When you start running, buy shoes made for running.

The summary you write is called a précis.
Assignment 2: Summarizing

Objective: The student will be able to use the information presented in the previous lesson to summarize a given paragraph.

Yesterday you probably thought you'd be asked to summarize a paragraph. You were right. The paragraph below was taken from "New Boats Just for Fun" an article in an issue of Popular Mechanics. Review assignment one before you start to make your summary. Then, following the rules for summarizing, write a summary of the paragraph. There are approximately 114 words in this paragraph. Send this summary in with the work for this unit.

All pleasure craft can be fun, but some unique boats can give you an added measure of action, comfort in operation and convenience for getting in and out of the water. Some models will stow in a closet or car trunk, trailer behind a bicycle, strap on below a backpack. Many are small and not very safe in rough water, but offer a new way to get afloat. This selection of recent crafts offers a boating bonus. Prices are less than for bigger hulls and some can be home-built. Most get speed from small engines, the wind or both. All are available in bright colors and several come with size and power options.

Assignment 3: Outlining

Objective: The student will be able to recognize the importance of outlining, and will be able to arrange information in outline form.

Your English skills will help you in all of your other subjects. Writing correctly is terribly important. Being able to read and summarize is always helpful. And, knowing what to say and how to say it will forever come in handy. Today, you are going to study outlining. When you write an essay answer to a question, do you ever just start writing with no thought of what you're writing? You shouldn't. You should stop, take aim and "fire" carefully.

In English courses that you'll take later, and in many other courses, you'll be asked to write long papers or themes. If you start writing without thinking, you'll probably end up with a mess. This assignment on outlining will teach you how to organize your thoughts so that you have a well-written report or an excellent set of notes from which to make an oral report.

In addition to helping you write well, the techniques of outlining can help you to put what others have said in a clear, easy-to-read form. This is especially helpful when you are studying for other courses. Outlining a social studies chapter can save you a lot of time later.

An outline is a skeleton of the theme you want to write. You'll put the meat, muscles and features on later. Right now you're building the frame. Here's what a good outline frame should look like.

Outline Form

English (A), Unit VI
There are a few rules you should remember when outlining.

1. Indent two or three letters for each heading.

   I. Birds
      A. eagle
      B. cardinal
   II. Fish
      A. herring
      B. salmon

2. If you are outlining material for a speech or for a report, you may want to use key words or topical headings. With these you write only a word or two that will cue you as to what goes next.

   Example I. Mammals
      A. wolves
      B. whales

   If you are outlining a chapter for study, you will probably want to use the sentence outline. This will give you more information when you use it for review.

   Example I. Both reading speed and comprehension can be improved in the following ways.
      A. Stop reading to yourself
      B. Read "thought units"
      C. Practice reading faster

3. Don't use a heading numeral or letter unless you have at least two such headings. In other words, if you have Roman numeral I, you have to have a II. If you have an A, you have to have a B.

4. Write legibly. Scrawled notes will cause you time and trouble later.

Practice putting the points below in an outline form. There are main topics that should be written in beside the Roman numerals. Then you'll want to look for the subtopics which belong with each main topic that you have listed beside the Roman numerals. Finally, if you find any words that are divisions of a subtopic, write them under the correct subtopics.
Mammals elephant

black and white coloring

C.

D.

II.

Here is what your outline should look like. The subtopics do not have to be in the same order, but they do have to be under the main topics.

I. Mammals
A. bear
B. monkey
C. elephant
D. deer

II. Birds
A. penguin
1. black and white coloring
2. waddle-type walk
B. cardinal
1. red color
2. topknot
C. ostrich

Look over the outline again. It's very logical. Everything should fit. Make sure you know the mechanics of how it works. Tomorrow you practice with the outline.

Go on to Assignment 4.
Assignment 4: Outlining

Objective: The student will be able to write a report using information taken from a given outline.

Yesterday you practiced putting information into an outline form. Today, you are to do the reverse. Pretend you have researched a subject such as seals. You have read materials from various books. Now you're ready to write your report. Use the outline below and write a short report on seals. Each main heading (Roman numerals) will be contained in a sentence that starts a new paragraph. The subtopics that are under the main headings will be included in that paragraph. Don't try to make your work long or wordy. This assignment is designed to see if you understand outlining. Notice that it is to be sent in with your worksheets.

2. identify and interpret acronyms.
Lesson 18

Assignment 1: Vocabulary (New Words)

Objective: The student will be able to recognize that English is a growing language and will define some words that have been coined in the past few years.

As you saw in Unit IV, Lesson 8, the English language has borrowed words from many languages. However, it has also made up words of its own. When discoveries are made, we must have a means of recording these. So, we choose a word to represent this discovery or act. The more use the word gets, the sooner it becomes an accepted part of the English language. Do you recognize these words? All have come into our language in recent years.

Go on to Assignment 2.
Assignment 2: Acronyms

Objective: The student will be able to recognize and interpret acronyms.

You've learned that the English spoken in the United States is a mixture of languages. True, English is English. However, as you've seen, we've borrowed words from other languages. When English-speaking people in the United States run into something new and that something new already has a name in another language, it's very likely that name will be "adopted" into English. Look at these examples.

The French who settled in the South gave us words such as depot, levee and bayou.

As the cowboy went west, he learned to use the words ranch, canyon and tornado which came from Spanish.

From the American Indian we learned of hominy, skunk and Spokane.

We also kept words from Old English. An example is the word fall or autumn.

As time passes, new words, such as those you studied yesterday, have been added. Some have come from brand names. Others have been coined or made up in other ways. Today's lesson deals with words that are formed by taking the first letters of several words that name something. These are called acronyms. Here are some examples. Look carefully at how they are formed.

radio, detecting and ranging = radar sound navigation ranging = sonar

Medium Orbital Unmanned Satellite of the Earth = MOUSE

Acronyms are fun. Many companies try to use acronyms. It's easier to remember a catchy word than what it stands for. As you do the Self-Check Test today, you'll probably find some acronyms that are familiar to you. However, the longer form of the word may give you more difficulty.
Self-Check Test 18-2

Directions: Match the acronym with the longer form.

1. CARE  A. Strategic Air Command
2. DEW   B. Distant Early Warning
3. NATO  C. Women’s Army Core
4. SAC   D. Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe
5. WAC   E. North Atlantic Treaty Organization

Directions: Write the acronym for the following.
(Each dash stands for a letter.)

   ————
2. National Aeronautics and Space Administration.
   ————
3. Southeast Asia Treaty Organization
   ————
4. United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organizations
   ————
5. Women Appointed for Volunteer Emergency Service
   ————

Check your answers with the Key.
These acronyms probably gave you no trouble. They are not hard. However, they are a part of a growing English language.

Assignment 3: Review A

Your test A for Unit VI will cover several things that you have studied over the past few months. Since each lesson has been a building process, you should not have trouble. By now, you should be writing clear sentences. You should use punctuation and capital letters correctly. You should have mastered spelling techniques that help you as you write.

In Assignments 3 and 4 you will be reviewing materials that will be covered on this last test. If you have studied hard and mastered each assignment, this test will seem as easy as the others.

Review the material today and tomorrow. There is a special key at the end of Assignment 4. Check your review questions. If you have any trouble on any part, go back to the assignment where that skill was presented and taught. Following each set of answers in the Key will be a reference to where you can find that skill taught. In other words (Unit I, Lesson 3, Assignment 1) might follow the answers for a review of capitalization.

Rules
1. Don't worry.
2. Relax.
3. Trust yourself.
4. Try.

Review Questions

A. Directions: Write the letter V above each verb or verb phrase. Write the letter S above the subject(s) of each verb.

1. This new rocket ship has been designed for the earth-moon run.
2. Where did you find your dog?
3. Cards, books and paper are sold here.
4. All of your answers are correct.
5. Are the Johnsons at home?
