This course outline is intended to assist the instructor in the development of a curriculum for a homemaker program by specifying one component of the curriculum—the objectives. These objectives, or competencies expected as outcomes for student performance on completion of the program, describe the capabilities an individual must demonstrate in order to meet the expectations for a homemaker working for both non-profit and proprietary agencies in British Columbia. Introductory material describes the role of the homemaker and the goal of homemaker training. The course outline is organized into seven major competency groups or tracks: prepare and serve nutritious meals; promote household safety and cleanliness; provide assistance in activities of daily living; communicate with clients, family, and others; work responsibly; handle emergency situations; and promote activity and positive mental health and help meet human needs. Each track is then organized into many different skills. The following information is provided for each skill: objective, criteria (basic standards or indicators of acceptable performance of the objective) and learning tasks (knowledge, skills, and attitudes that help the learner to meet the objective). A skill profile chart is appended. (YLB)

HOMEMAKER TRAINING PROGRAM

PROVINCIAL HOMEMAKER TRAINING PROGRAM

Role of the Homemaker:

A trained Homemaker helps people maintain their maximum independence in their own homes through a combination of performing and demonstrating practical home management and personal assistance skills.

The Homemaker should appreciate the importance of this helping role and exhibit pride and dignity in working with clients and with other members of the community care team.

Goal of Homemaker Training

The goal of the Homemaker Program is to prepare a graduate who will be competent and confident in performing specified skills* and who will have a background knowledge at the level of an "informed consumer."

The background knowledge necessary to care for clients and families and perform the designated skills will include:

- individual and family growth and development patterns and expectations for all age groups
- basic needs
- human body structure and functions
- an introduction to the health and social service systems, to relevant government and voluntary agencies, and to workers/professionals
- an introduction to health problems commonly encountered by the Homemaker

Clients with whom the Homemaker graduate will be prepared to work on initial employment may include:

- clients ranging in age from infancy to advanced age;
- clients requiring minimal personal assistance; or, clients requiring more assistance with personal functions, only after individual instruction and direction from an appropriate professional involved with the individual receiving care.
- clients who have common health problems and disabilities and whose health status is slowly deteriorating, stable, or improving.

A graduate of this program, while having basic skills, will require experience, and possibly specialized training, to be competent in home situations where the client or family has complicated physical, social, psychological problems or other special needs.

The skills are specified on a Skill Profile Chart. They were discussed with Homemaker Agencies and Associations, community colleges, and representatives of the Ministries of Health, Education and Human Resources and revised in November 1982.
INTRODUCTION

Background

A Provincial Homemaker Upgrading Course was developed by the Provincial Homemaker Training Committee, a multi-disciplinary group meeting under the Ministry of Human Resources from 1973 - 1978. Responsibility for this program was transferred to the Long Term Care Program, Ministry of Health, in July, 1978. The upgrading course consisted of 5 - 6 weeks of training, including both classroom work and practicum in the homemaker agency.

Extensive curriculum revisions were undertaken in 1979 at the request of the Ministry of Health, Ministry of Human Resources and Provincial Homemaker Training Committee with the aim of transferring homemaker training courses to community colleges throughout the province. It was intended that one provincial curriculum would serve both pre-employment and upgrading students. A Skill Profile Chart and a Provincial Homemaker Training Program Guide (October 1980) were developed from input by homemaker agencies, former course instructors, and students, and validated by representatives of Employing Agencies and Educational Institutions in August, 1980.

Further revision to the Skill Profile Chart to better reflect Ministry of Human Resources concerns for emphasis on the family, children's needs and the young handicapped adult took place in August, 1982. Suggestions and comments from Homemaker Agencies throughout the province were incorporated into the final Skill Profile Chart.

In February, 1983, Cariboo College contracted with the Ministry of Education to compile the final Course Outline for Homemakers.

This document is based on the Skill Profile Chart (validated August 1982), "The Framework of Objectives", and the "Homemaker Competencies" draft developed by Subcommittees of the Long Term Care/Homemaker Articulation Committee. The Course Outline for Homemakers has been reviewed and endorsed by the Articulation Committee in May, 1983.

(It should be noted that core, or common, competencies are not distinguished in this document, but are included in both this and the Long Term Care Outline. For combined programs, these should be easy to correlate.)

Purpose

The purpose of this document is to outline the competencies expected as outcomes for student performance on completion of a Homemaker program. The competency or skill statements, in the form of objectives, describe the capabilities an individual must demonstrate in order to meet the expectations for a Homemaker working for both non-profit and proprietary agencies in the province.

This Course Outline is intended to assist the instructor in the development of a curriculum by specifying one component of the curriculum - the objectives. Each objective has specifications and these specifications are intended to provide the reader with clear definitions of what is included by stating:

- what is to be done
- under what conditions
- what standards of performance (criteria)
- suggested learning tasks to achieve these objectives

However, the objectives listed in this Course Outline are not listed in the order or sequence in which they are to be taught/learned. There are many suitable ways in which these objectives may be sequenced in planned learning. Individual instructors may have individual preferences and this will be expressed in the complete curriculum developed by an instructor.

Format of Course Outline

This Course Outline is organized into seven major competency groups, or tracks, and they are:

A. PREPARE AND SERVE NUTRITIOUS MEALS
B. PROMOTE HOUSEHOLD SAFETY AND CLEANLINESS
C. PROVIDE ASSISTANCE IN ACTIVITIES OF DAILY LIVING
D. COMMUNICATE WITH CLIENT, FAMILY AND OTHERS
E. WORK RESPONSIBLY
F. HANDLE EMERGENCY SITUATIONS
G. PROMOTE ACTIVITY AND POSITIVE MENTAL HEALTH AND HELP MEET HUMAN NEEDS

and corresponds to one major division (arrow) of the Skill Profile Chart (Appendix).
Each track is then organized into many different skills, corresponding to each 'box' on the Skill Profile Chart.

The specifications for each skill form the basis for planning what is to be taught and for student evaluation.

Each skill on the skill profile chart has been expanded into an objective, criteria and learning tasks. The following information is provided under each of these headings:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Skills</th>
<th>A task assigned to, or a critical behaviour expected of the learner. When the skill involves providing assistance to clients, the level of assistance may vary from minimal help to total care.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Objective</td>
<td>A general statement of what the learner must be able to do at the end of the instruction. Particular conditions under which the learner may perform assigned tasks are specified. At all times, the learner will perform under supervision or direction of an appropriate individual.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Criteria</td>
<td>The basic standards or indicators of acceptable performance of the objective. The basic standards of performance are specified in the agency policy and procedure manuals provided by agencies and training institutions. A list of performance indicators is provided for each objective in this Course Outline; these indicators refer to specific critical steps to be taken when performing a skill. The criteria are intended to be used as a basis for evaluating a student's performance.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Learning Tasks</td>

PROVINCIAL HOMEMAKER TRAINING PROGRAM

Role of the Homemaker:

A trained Homemaker helps people maintain their maximum independence in their own homes through a combination of performing and demonstrating practical home management and personal assistance skills. The Homemaker should appreciate the importance of this helping role and exhibit pride and dignity in working with clients and with other members of the community care team.

Goal of Homemaker Training:

The goal of the Homemaker Program is to prepare a graduate who will be competent and confident in performing specified skills* and who will have a background knowledge at the level of an "informed consumer."

The background knowledge necessary to care for clients and families and perform the designated skills will include:

- individual and family growth and development patterns and expectations for all age groups
- basic needs
- human body structure and functions
- an introduction to the health and social service systems, to relevant government and voluntary agencies, and to workers/professionals
- an introduction to health problems commonly encountered by the Homemaker

Clients with whom the Homemaker graduate will be prepared to work on initial employment may include:

- clients ranging in age from infancy to advanced age;
- clients requiring minimal personal assistance; or, clients requiring more assistance with personal functions, only after individual instruction and direction from an appropriate professional involved with the individual receiving care;
- clients who have common health problems and disabilities and whose health status is slowly deteriorating, stable, or improving

A graduate of this program, while having basic skills, will require experience, and possibly specialized training, to be competent in home situations where the client or family has complicated physical, social, psychological problems or other special needs.

*The skills are specified on the Skill Profile Chart on the reverse. These skills were discussed with Homemaker Agencies and Associations, community colleges, and representatives of the Ministry of Health, Education and Human Resources and revised in November 1982.
THE DACUM APPROACH

DACUM is a systematic model of program development used in designing career, technical and vocational training programs. The first step in the process is to establish the skills expected of a graduate entering employment. These skills are generally specified by a representative employer group in a workshop conducted by program development specialists. The product of this activity is a skill profile chart. This chart is then circulated both to the participants and to a number of other employers for review prior to further development.

The next step is to specify learner-centred performance objectives. These include not only the skills a learner must demonstrate but also the conditions under which the skill is to be performed and the criteria used to determine the acceptable standard of performance.

Once the performance objectives have been set, there are three important steps to complete the development process. These are generally undertaken by an instructor or group of instructors, in the following order:

1) Appropriate evaluation instruments are chosen or created to assess student capability in relation to the specific objectives of the program.

2) A variety of suitable instructional techniques and learning experiences are chosen to facilitate learning of the skills and knowledge required to meet the objectives.

3) Instructional resources (texts, films, models, and other learning aids) are selected or created.
READING THE SKILL PROFILE CHART

A skill profile chart (often referred to as a DACUM Chart), is a graphic representation of the essential skills expected of a student graduating from a specific career, vocational or technical program.

Broad areas of employee responsibility are shown in the boxes on the left of the chart. These are called "general areas of competence." The tasks or skills related to each are sequenced along the horizontal track to the right of the general area of competence.
