A learning module, one in a series of competency-based guidance program training packages focusing upon professional and paraprofessional competencies of guidance personnel, deals with assisting clients with equity rights and responsibilities. Addressed in the module are the following topics: defining various terms related to equality of employment opportunity, analyzing major federal law and executive orders related to equality of employment opportunity, and understanding major federal guidelines related to equality of employment opportunity. The module consists of readings and learning experiences covering these three topics. Each learning experience contains some or all of the following: an overview, a competency statement, a learning objective, one or more individual learning activities, an individual feedback exercise, one or more group activities, and a facilitator's outline for use in directing the group activities. Concluding the module are a participant self-assessment questionnaire, a trainer's assessment questionnaire, a checklist of performance indicators, a list of references, and an annotated list of suggested additional resources. Appendices to the module include a list of state and regional offices of various enforcement and compliance agencies and the texts of nine laws and executive orders dealing with equal employment opportunity. FOREWORD

This counseling and guidance program series is patterned after the Performance-Based Teacher Education modules designed and developed at the National Center for Research in Vocational Education under Federal Number NEC00-3-77. Because this model has been successively and enthusiastically received nationally and internationally, this series of modules follows the same basic format.

This module is one of a series of competency-based guidance program training packages focusing upon specific professional and paraprofessional competencies of guidance personnel. The competencies upon which these modules are based were identified and verified through a project study as being those of critical importance for the planning, supporting, implementing, operating, and evaluating of guidance programs. These modules are addressed to professional and paraprofessional guidance program staff in a wide variety of educational and community settings and agencies.

Each module provides learning experiences that integrate theory and application. Each culminates with competency referenced evaluation suggestions. The materials are designed for use by individuals or groups of guidance personnel who are involved in planning. Resource persons should be skilled in the guidance program competency being developed and should be thoroughly oriented to the concepts and procedures used in the total training package.

The design of the materials provides considerable flexibility for planning and conducting competency-based preservice and in-service programs to meet a wide variety of individual needs and interests. The materials are intended for use by universities, state departments of education, postsecondary institutions, intermediate educational service agencies, JTPA agencies, employment security agencies, and other community agencies that are responsible for the employment and professional development of guidance personnel.

The competency-based guidance program training packages are products of a research effort by the National Center's Career Development Program. Many individuals, institutions, and agencies participated with the National Center and have made contributions to the systematic development, testing, and refinement of the materials.

National consultants provided substantial writing and review assistance in development of the initial module versions. Over 1300 guidance personnel used the materials in early stages of their development and provided feedback to the National Center for revision and refinement. The materials have been or are being used by 57 pilot community implementation sites across the country.

Special recognition for major roles in the direction, development, coordination of development, testing, and revision of these materials and the coordination of pilot implementation sites is extended to the following project staff: Harry N Drier, Consortium Director; Robert E Campbell, Linda Pfister, Directors; Robert Blanner, Research Specialist; Karen Kimmel, Boyle, Fred Williams, Program Associate, and Jane B. Connell, Graduate Research Associate.

Appreciation also is extended to the subcontractors who assisted the National Center in this effort: Drs. Brian Jones and Linda Phillips-Jones of the American Institutes for Research, developed the competency base for the total package, managed project evaluation, and developed the modules addressing special needs. Gratitude is expressed to Dr. Norman Gysbers of the University of Missouri-Columbia for his work on the module on individual career development. Both of these agencies provided coordination and monitoring assistance for the pilot implementation sites.

Appreciation is also extended to the American Vocational Association and the American Association for Counseling and Development for their leadership in directing extremely important subcontractors associated with the first phase of this effort.

The National Center is grateful to the U.S. Department of Education Office of Vocational and Adult Education (DVAE) for sponsorship of three contracts related to this competency-based guidance program training package. In particular, we appreciate the leadership and support offered project staff by David H. Pinchard who served as the project officer for the contracts. We feel the investment of the DVAE in this training package is sound and will have lasting effects in the field of guidance in the years to come.

ABOUT USING THE CBCG MODULES

CBCG Module Organization

The training modules cover the knowledge, skills, and attitudes needed to plan, support, implement, operate, and evaluate a comprehensive career guidance program. They are designed to provide career guidance program implementers with a systematic means to improve their career guidance programs. They are competency-based and contain specific information that is intended to assist users to develop at least part of the critical competencies necessary for overall program improvement.

These modules provide information and learning activities that are useful for both school-based and nonschool-based career guidance programs.

The modules are divided into five categories.

The GUIDANCE PROGRAM PLANNING category assists guidance personnel in outlining in advance what is to be done.

The SUPPORTING category assists personnel in knowing how to provide resources or means that make it possible for planned program activities to occur.

The IMPLEMENTING category suggests how to conduct, accomplish, or carry out selected career guidance program activities.

The OPERATING category provides information on how to continue the program on a day-to-day basis once it has been initiated.

The EVALUATING category assists guidance personnel in judging the quality and impact of the program and either making appropriate modifications based on findings or making decisions to terminate it.

Module Format

A standard format is used in all of the program's competency-based modules. Each module contains (1) an introduction, (2) a module focus, (3) a reading, (4) learning experiences, (5) evaluation techniques, and (6) resources.

Introduction. The introduction gives you, the module user, an overview of the purpose and content of the module. It provides enough information for you to determine if the module addresses an area in which you need more competence.

About This Module. This section presents the following information:

- Module Goal: A statement of what one can accomplish by completing the module.
- Competencies: A listing of the competency statements that relate to the module's area of concern. These statements represent the competencies thought to be most critical in terms of difficulty for inexperienced implementers, and they are not an exhaustive list.
- This section also serves as the table of contents for the reading and learning experiences.
- Reading. Each module contains a section in which cognitive information on each one of the competencies is presented.
- Use it as a textbook by starting at the first page and reading through until the end. You could then complete the learning experiences that relate to specific competencies. This approach is good if you would like to give an overview of some competencies and a more in-depth study of others.

1. Turn directly to the learning experiences(s) that relate to the needed competency (competencies). Within each learning experience a reading is listed. This approach allows for a more experiential approach prior to the reading activity.

Learning Experiences. The learning experiences are designed to help users in the achievement of specific learning objectives. One learning experience exists for each competency (or a cluster of like competencies), and each learning experience is designed to stand on its own. Each learning experience is preceded by an overview sheet which describes what is to be covered in the learning experience.

Within the body of the learning experience, the following components appear.

Individual Activity: This is an activity which a person can complete without any outside assistance. All of the information needed for its completion is contained in the module.

Individual Feedback: After each individual activity there is a feedback section. This is to provide users with immediate feedback or evaluation regarding their progress before continuing. The concept of feedback is also intended with the group activities, but it is built right into the activity and does not appear as a separate section.

Group Activity: This activity is designed to be facilitated by a trainer, within a group training session.

The group activity is formatted along the lines of a facilitator's outline. The outline details suggested activities and information for you to use. A blend of presentation and "hands-on" participant activities such as games and role playing is included. A Notes column appears on each page of the facilitator's outline. This space is provided so trainers can add their own comments and suggestions to the cues that are provided.

Following the outline is a list of materials that will be needed by workshop facilitator. This section can serve as a duplication master for mimeographed handouts or transparencies you may want to prepare.

Evaluation Techniques. This section of each module contains information and instruments that can be used to measure what workshop participants need prior to training and what they have accomplished as a result of training. Included in this section are a Pre- and Post-Participant Assessment Questionnaire and a Trainer's Assessment Questionnaire. The latter contains a set of performance indicators which are designed to determine the degree of success the participants had with the activity.

References. All major sources that were used to develop the module are listed in this section. Also, major materials resources that relate to the competencies presented in the module are described and characterized.
In order to redress historical practices of discrimination, the Congress provided for equal employment opportunity (EEO) legislation and related compensatory justice measures. Such legislation and concomitant guidelines provide the bedrock for addressing present employment opportunity inequities.

While there has been substantial progress in eliminating many forms of inequity, there are still substantial issues that must be addressed. A survey cited in the World of Work Report (December 1981), from Work in America Institute, Inc., reported that 75 percent of the 2,000 women surveyed indicated that without government enforcement, employers would do little to comply with equal opportunity laws. Perhaps more significantly, less than half of those responding reported that their employers currently had voluntary fair employment policies, such as job posting, career paths, grievance procedures, and structured salary systems.

Although equal employment opportunity has been the law for years, compliance is still a problem and it is apparent that legislation alone cannot solve the inequities that exist in the work place today. Of strategic importance is the need to effect change in people's attitudes, beliefs, and values, notably among (1) those who have power to influence directly implementation of equal employment opportunity and (2) those who, because of past role socialization, would not avail themselves of such "opportunities" without advocacy support.

Changing attitudes, beliefs, and value systems, however, takes time. Legislation, and related compensatory justice measures might mandate changes in the work place, but it is one thing to introduce those changes and it is another to implement them and to maintain them over time. With regard to affirmative action, for example, what exists today is a situation whereby the rapid growth of legislative and compensatory justice of one decade, the 1970s, is in juxtaposition with a new decade of economic turmoil. As unemployment soars, employers are prone to use the "last hired-first fired" principle, which may result in a retrenchment of many EEO gains that were achieved in the 1970s.

In effect, there are no easy avenues of implementation for equal employment opportunity, particularly during today's economic times. Realistically, for every person hired today, many with equally good qualifications are being turned away. Clearly this is a critical time for the continued development and implementation of equity strategies for promoting EEO in the work place. For example, it is important for significant groups such as employers and counselors, to--

1. examine their own attitudes, beliefs, and values with regard to EEO biases they may have;

2. understand the characteristics and needs of all classes, and the protected and affected classes in particular;

3. increase their knowledge of the current status of equality of employment and educational opportunity; and

4. become effective implementers of the spirit and intent of EEO laws and guidelines.

For counselors and guidance personnel, a basic competency is to be knowledgeable of EEO laws and their application to clients served. Imparting this competency to users is the major goal of this module. Because this module is one of a series of competency-based guidance modules, it is noteworthy that several others are somewhat related to this topic: CG C-13 Provide Career Guidance to Girls and Women, CG C-17 Promote Equity and Client Advocacy, CG C-19 Develop Ethical and Legal Standards, and CG B-1 Influence Legislation.
Given today's depressed economic times, it is more important than ever that career guidance workers and the job seekers they assist are able to recognize employment opportunity inequities, because for each person hired, many with the necessary qualifications are turned away. In addition, many employers honestly believe that they do not discriminate.

What is equality of employment opportunity and why do we need it? Given a history of discriminatory practices in our society, there is ample evidence regarding need. Quite simply, equal employment opportunity means not discriminating. It is the right of all persons to be hired, to work, and to advance on the basis of individual merit, ability, and potential. To safeguard this right, EEO laws have been enacted to combat discrimination in the workplace. Discrimination in the workplace, however, is quite complex. Almost 20 years ago, most people thought of discrimination in the workplace as overt, conscious acts of ill will that restricted the employment of individuals or groups based, perhaps, upon a variable such as sex, race, color, religion, or national origin. In other words, from the onset, it was the employer's intent to discriminate.

Based upon almost 20 years of administering such laws in the workplace, it is now known that discrimination can take many forms, the most pervasive of which are basic employment systems which almost can appear benign in intent, but the effects of which perpetuate past discriminatory practices. For example, employment requirements (education, height, age, or test scores) that do not relate to the actual requirements of the job opening have such an effect and, for years, persons were systematically excluded from many employment opportunities by the entry-level requirement of a high school diploma.

Today, then, EEO discrimination is judged not only by the intent of the employer, but also by the consequences or effects of employment practices. Therefore, elimination of discrimination involves not only the removal of overt discriminatory practices, but also an ending of "artificial . . . and unnecessary barriers to employment when (such) barriers operate invidiously to discriminate on the basis of racial or other impermissible classification" (Griggs v. Duke Power Co., 401 U.S. 424 [1971]).

Note: In overt cases, discrimination by the employer is intentional. In systemic cases, discrimination may or may not be intentional. Some employers honestly believe that their practices and policies do not discriminate. Regardless of intent, the effects are the same: employment discrimination.

Often, entire groups or classes of persons are affected by discrimination practices and, thus, the term affected class has been coined to describe groups who, by virtue of past discrimination, continue to suffer the effects of such discrimination. An affected class can be determined by a court decision or by analyzing an employment practice, policy, or procedure to determine if it has a negative effect on a particular group of people.

Protected classes are those groups who have been legally identified and are protected by statute against employment discrimination— for example, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act protects those persons between 40 and 70. Besides age, the other legally defined categories are sex, race, color, religion, national origin, and handicap. Finally, the term adverse effect or disparate effect is used, overall, to indicate employment standards or practices that operate to exclude such individuals and groups from equal employment opportunity. If an employment standard or practice has an adverse effect on a particular group, but the employer can demonstrate that all alternatives have been exhausted and that the requirement is job related and necessary, the courts have ruled that such a practice or standard is legal for business/operational necessity. Examples are hiring a man for an actor's role or hiring a woman for a female restroom attendant's position.

Discriminatory practices vary and have occurred at every point in the employment process from recruitment to dismissal of employees. In addition, a patchwork of legislation, executive orders, regulations, guidelines, and court orders has evolved over the past 20 years.
Although the Supreme Court has stressed the importance of employer-initiated voluntary efforts to end employment discrimination, considerable litigation has taken place. Our nation's courts, in general, have shown great deference to the technical standards that have been developed for implementation of EEO legislation. The following is a sampling of some EEO-related court decisions:

1. An employer cannot force someone between the ages of 40 and 65 and doing satisfactory work to take an early retirement against his/her will and be replaced by a younger worker. This ruling was made in Wilson v. Sealtest Foods Div. of Kraftco Corp. (1974), and the ruling was based upon the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 and its subsequent amending legislation (which extended the age limit to 70). Yet another case, Hodgson v. Greyhound Lines, Inc. (1974) resulted in a court ruling that indicated it was illegal for Greyhound Lines to refuse to hire bus drivers over the age of 35 because they were a safety risk to passengers. In a pending case, EEOC v. Allen Park, in Baltimore, Maryland, U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) attorneys obtained a restraining order one day before the mandatory retirement of Allen Park police and fire fighters who had reached the age of 57. Again, both of these cases were based upon the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 and its amending legislation.

2. An employer no longer can use an arrest record as an automatic disqualifier. In addition, convicted felons cannot be excluded from employment on the basis of their conviction unless it has job-related implications (e.g., hiring someone convicted of theft as a cashier). In Butts v. Nichols (Iowa 1974), the court held that excluding convicted felons from virtually all civil service jobs violated the 14th Amendment's Equal Protection Clause. In yet another case, Phillips v. Martin-Marietta Corp. (1971), the court held that this company could not exclude women with preschool children from employment unless they also excluded men with preschool children. Both of these court decisions were based upon Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

These are but a few examples of how equality of employment opportunity legislation provided the impetus for court decisions that protect workers today. In general, employers must directly relate any criteria used to hire, fire, train, transfer, or promote individuals to the specific job content. Legally, this is referred to as the “job relatedness” principle.

Range of Discriminatory Practices

If you were to make an intensive study of current and past discriminatory employment practices by employment phase, it would become readily apparent that none are unaffected by EEO court decisions. For example, consider the following seven areas in the employment process:

1. Recruitment of Applicants: There are a number of laws and regulations that guide employers in recruitment of applicants. Notably, in United States v. Georgia Power Co. (1973), the court ruled that word of mouth recruitment and lack of advertising is illegal.

2. Hiring Practices: A myriad of discriminatory hiring practices now have been addressed through legislation, employer guidelines, and court decisions. For example, all discrimination in hiring because of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin has been banned under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. In addition to overt discrimination, systemic discriminatory practices that disproportionately screen out such groups as minorities and women generally are unlawful. One example would be giving job applicants tests that are not “job related” and that tend to screen out minorities and women.

3. Employee Benefits and Wages: The Equal Pay Act of 1963, as amended, prohibits employers from paying workers of one sex less than they pay workers of the other sex for performing similar work, with some exceptions. One court case, EEOC v. State of North Carolina (1980), was initiated by the U.S. Department of Labor against the state of North Carolina. EEOC charged the state with violation of the Equal Pay Act of 1963, as amended, with reference to two female magistrates who were paid less than males for performance of the same work. The judgment of the U.S. District Court in Charlotte gave both females full back pay with interest. Recently, the EEOC v. Colby College (Maine) provided the legal impetus for the development of a plan to equalize employee annuity benefits for men and women under contract with Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association and College Retirement Equities Fund (TIAA-CREF). Under the new plan, female employees no longer will be given lower retirement benefits than men who make the same contributions to the plan, and male employees no longer will be given lower death benefits than women who pay the same premiums. Another employee "benefit" that now has a legal base is that related to pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions. Under the Pregnancy Discrimination Act, a sex discrimination amendment to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, employers must treat pregnancy and pregnancy-related medical conditions the same as all other ailments in the administration of employment practices and employee health benefit plans.

4. Selection for Advanced Training, Education: Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and amending legislation in 1972 prohibit discrimination in all phases of the employer-employee relationship, including selection for advanced training and educational opportunities, especially since such programs typically lead to job promotions.

5. Harassment on the Job: If harassment of an employee affects any of the phases listed here (recruitment, hiring, benefits and wages, selection for training/education, promotion, or firing), it may be illegal, depending upon the individual circumstances. The National Labor Relations Act prohibits harassment. In addition, one type of harassment that is illegal is sexual harassment. The EEOC guidelines on "sex-related intimidation" in the work place treat sexual harassment as illegal sex discrimination under Section 703 of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended. In Mumford v. James T. Barnes & Co. (Michigan 1977), the decision was rendered that the employer has an affirmative duty to investigate complaints of sexual harassment and to deal appropriately with offending personnel. In Williams v. Saxbe (District of Columbia 1976), a person successfully claimed sexual harassment, and awarded damages included $16,000 in back pay and all negative evaluations removed from the employee's record. In a six-year suit against Nabisco, Inc., EEOC charged Nabisco with using a variety of discriminatory employment practices. Including sexual harassment, at 11 bakeries throughout the country. The total settlement, which includes sexual harassment benefits, will affect as many as 8,000 women and most likely will result in $5 million in benefits to them.

6. Promotion of Employees: Like other employment phases, there are a number of laws that prohibit an employer from discriminating against promoting employees on the basis of such factors as age, sex, national origin, race, color, and religion. Numerous court decisions have ruled that, where an employment system operates to the detriment of specific groups, employers must promote such people. For example, in Rowe v. General Motors Corp. (1972), the court ruled that not having blacks in foreman jobs was due to the subjective judgment of superiors and, therefore, it was illegal. In Newman v. Avco Corp. (1973), the courts held that subjective assessments by supervisors for advancement were discriminatory. In one of six lawsuits that EEOC filed against Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. (3M), a settlement was reached on behalf of an individual claimant who charged 3M with limiting women's job opportunities and advancement as sales representatives and in jobs in line of progression upward from sales representative. In EEOC v. Frigidaire Division of General Motors Corp. (Dayton, Ohio), it was found that women were discriminated against by means of height and weight classifications in Frigidaire's policy, which resulted in women employees being denied promotions to better paying jobs classified as too strenuous.

7. Firing/Dismissal of Employees: As in other phases of employment, a number of laws guide employers with regard to dismissal of employees. In EEOC v. Econocar (New Orleans), a male worker was fired in retaliation for having filed an affidavit in support of a female’s charge of race and sex discrimination. Due to EEOC’s successful efforts in securing a preliminary injunction by consent, the man was reinstated. Recently, EEOC v. U.S. Steel Corp. resulted in a $53,000 settlement requiring the steel manufacturer to pay nine former employees past wages. In this case, U.S. Steel discriminated against females who were fired prior to their completing their probationary period, whereas the company had a policy of firing male employees, when necessary, at the conclusion of their probationary period. U.S. Steel now has a policy that does not discriminate by sex among probationary employees.

Dismantling Employment Discrimination

Systematically dismantling employment discrimination is no easy task. Furthermore, even though the actual process of discrimination is a result of individual actions, the attitudes and behaviors of individuals are cultivated and guided by organizational and social structures that actively or passively permit and often reinforce individual discriminatory processes. In essence, to rectify the substantial effects of past employment inequities, changes in employer or organization-level attitudes and behaviors have been needed.

Therefore, several EEO laws and executive orders now require more than nondiscrimination, or the elimination of all discriminatory conditions and practices. Such laws now require affirmative action or special efforts by employers to recruit, employ, and promote qualified persons who are members of groups (protected classes) that have been formerly underrepresented. Affirmative action is a compensatory justice measure, a remediation effort, and employers are encouraged to voluntarily establish affirmative action programs rather than be directed via litigation to do so. Therefore, for over 10 years, employers have begun serious attempts at examining the status of protected classes within their organizations (e.g., handicapped, women, minorities, and older Americans between the ages of 40 and 70), and establishing remediation efforts for these groups.

Compensatory justice measures such as affirmative action will not correct inequities immediately, but they will have an impact over time. For example, as a part of the industrial reform movement in the United States, many states passed what were termed protective labor laws that were designed to improve dangerous and unsanitary working conditions that existed. Such laws limited the number of hours and conditions under which women could work. Indeed, women were barred from certain kinds of work, and although these laws were written with the intention of protecting women, they eventually prevented women from competing for better paying “male” jobs. For many decades, “protective labor laws” hampered women from effectively competing in the world of work, and today, compensatory justice measures are assisting women and other protected classes to equalize their representation in the workforce.

As guidance workers, each of us needs to understand some legal aspects of equal employment opportunity, depending upon what types of clients we normally serve. In addition, each of us needs to examine our attitudes toward equal employment opportunity and the consequences of our daily actions. Do we ever challenge organizational formal policies and informal practices that perpetuate inequalities? Do we assist our clients to become aware of their employment rights and do we help them to seek restitution? Do we understand the major enforcement or compliance agencies for equal employment opportunity legislation? Such state and federal agencies exist, and they have responsibilities for helping individuals with equal employment opportunity problems and complaints against employers.

Guidance workers can contribute a great deal by implementing “equity strategies,” which are processes and actions that can further equal employment opportunity. The major goal of this module is to help you become more knowledgeable about equal employment opportunity laws so that you can more effectively implement equity strategies to promote equal employment opportunity with your clients and employers.
EEO Laws and Executive Orders

Competency 2

Analyze major federal laws and executive orders related to equality of employment opportunity.

Major Laws and Executive Orders

Federal legislative attempts to eliminate and remEDIATE employment discrimination can be divided into four categories, the last three of which affect populations receiving federal monies:

- Laws that prohibit discrimination by employers
- Laws and executive orders that prohibit discrimination as a condition of federal financial assistance
- Laws and regulations that prohibit discrimination in specific federally funded programs
- Executive orders and regulations that govern nondiscrimination for federal employees

In addition, many agencies issue guidelines or interpretations for implementation of these laws and executive orders. As an introductory module on this topic, the following major laws, executive orders, and guidelines will be covered. In no way, however, are these to be construed as all-inclusive. Copies of these laws have been provided in appendix B of this module.

I. Laws that Prohibit Discrimination by Employers

- Equal Pay Act of 1963, as amended
- Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title VII, as amended
- Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended
- Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972 (amendment to Title VII, Civil Rights Act of 1964)

II. Laws and Executive Orders that Prohibit Discrimination as a Condition of Federal Financial Assistance

- Executive Order 11246, as amended
- Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended (Sections 503 and 504)
- Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Act of 1974

III. Laws and Regulations that Prohibit Discrimination in Specific Federally Funded Programs

- Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972

IV. Executive Orders and Regulations that Govern Nondiscrimination for Federal Employees

- Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972
- Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1978
- Executive Order 12067

Summary of Laws

1. Equal Pay Act of 1963 (P.L. 88-38): This is the oldest federal legislation that prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex. As an amendment to the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) of 1938, this piece of legislation prohibits employers covered under FLSA from paying workers of one sex less than they pay workers of the other sex for performing similar work. As amended by the Educational Amendments of 1972, the Equal Pay Act... now covers not only employees covered by FLSA (mostly blue-collar workers in settings that have a yearly business of $250,000 or more), but also outside sales employees and executive, administrative and professional employees, such as teachers.

Major Points:

- Differences in salary are allowable if differential is based upon (1) a seniority system, (2) a merit system, (3) a factor other than sex, or (4) an earnings system that is measured by quantity or equity of production.

- "Equal" does not mean identical. In the landmark case of Shultz v. Wheaton Glass, the Court stressed that "equal" really means "substantially equal."

- In analyzing any job, four criteria should be considered: (1) skill or performance; (2) effort, or mental and physical exertion needed to perform the job; (3) responsibility or the importance of the work, the value of the product, and the amount and type of supervision; and (4) working conditions.

- Substantial back pay awards have been rendered to protected classes who were found to have experienced pay-related discrimination. The statute of limitations for back pay is two years for a nonwillful employer violation; for a willful violation, back pay for three years may be awarded.

- This act prohibits a union or labor organization from actions that might motivate an employer to discriminate against an individual or group with respect to the equal pay provision in this legislation.

- Employers are not allowed to conform to the requirements of this act by reducing salaries.

The Civil Rights Act of 1964 established the Equal Employment Opportunity Coordinating Council (EEOCC), which became operational July 2, 1965. Subsequently, Executive Order 12067 of June 30, 1978 (effective July 1, 1978) abolished the EEOCC and established the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). When established, EEOC also was given the responsibility for establishing direction and giving guidance to the government's equal employment opportunity efforts.
Title VII requires employers covered by its regulations to post notices that summarize Title VII requirements.

The EEOC is the enforcement agency for Title VII, but charges filed with EEOC are deferred for a 60-day period when state and municipal settings have enforceable fair employment laws. Therefore, a guidance worker needs to become aware of his/her state's employment laws and the locations of the local employment practices agency, if one exists. The EEOC-designated state and local agencies with comparable legal and enforcement powers are sometimes referred to as "706"-designated agencies. A list of EEOC district and area offices and addresses is included in appendix A. Persons must file charges of Title VII violations within 180 days of the alleged violation or up to 300 days from when a state or local agency initially was contacted. Once receiving a charge, the EEOC must notify the person within ten days of receipt of the charge that it has been received. In general, if there is reasonable belief that the charge is true, the Commission encourages negotiated settlements of charges via informal methods of conciliation, conferences, and persuasion. If the suit is brought against a state or local government, governmental agency or political subdivision, the attorney general brings suit rather than the EEOC.

Enforcement Agency: Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

3. Executive Order 11246 of 1965: Although an executive order is not law, the courts have affirmed that the federal government has the right to set the terms of its contracts with contractors. E.O. 11246 was amended by E.O. 11375 in 1967 and prohibits all federal contractors and subcontractors with government contracts of more than $10,000 (with some exceptions) from discriminating on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

The Department of Labor issued Revised Order No. 4, "Affirmative Action Guidelines," as part of E.O. 11246, in January 1970. Because of confusion, "Sex Discrimination Guidelines" were issued in June 1970, and Revised Order No. 4 became effective on December 4, 1971. In essence, these revisions to E.O. 11246 prohibited sex discrimination by those covered and required employers to (1) designate an affirmative action person to be in charge of the program; (2) compile a job classification data base; (3) complete an examination of all employment practices (e.g., recruitment, hiring, salaries, and promotions; (4) identify areas of underrepresentation by women and minorities and make plans to overcome them; and (5) develop specific numerical goals and timetables.

Major Points:

- E.O. 11246 originally covered race, color, religion, and national origin.
- E.O. 11375 expanded E.O. 11246 by adding sex as a protected class.
- An employer is covered under these orders if the company has a federal contract of at least $10,000; has federal deposits or issues savings bonds; is a union that works under a company contract with a large federal contract.
- Also, contractors with 50 or more employees and $50,000 of federal government business in 1 or more contracts are required to adopt written affirmative action plans.

Enforcement Agency: U.S. Department of Labor, Office of Federal Contract Compliance Program (OFCCP). OFCCP has the overall responsibility but has delegated enforcement responsibility to appropriate other federal agencies—for example, in higher education, to the Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights.

4. Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA) of 1967 (P.L. 95-255) as amended (P.L. 95-444): The ADEA is similar to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 in language and purpose. Like Title VII, the act includes the same overall coverage of all employment practices, but as amended by the Age Discrimination in Employment Act Amendments of 1978, it specifically bans discrimination against workers aged 40 to 70. For federal government workers, there is no upper age limit.

Major Points:

- This act applies to private employers of 20 or more workers; federal, state, and local governments and employment agencies; labor unions with 25 or more members; and labor unions that operate a hiring hall or office that recruits employees for employers or vice versa.

- Like Title VII, ADEA does not apply if an age limit is a (1) bona fide job qualifier (e.g., for a teenage model); (2) part of a bona fide seniority system or employee benefit plan (however, mandatory retirement based upon age is prohibited); or (3) based upon reasonable factors other than age.

- The enforcement agency now is the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). Enforcement responsibilities were transferred from Department of Labor to EEOC on July 1, 1979, as part of the Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1978.

- A charge of discrimination based upon age must be filed with EEOC within 180 days of the alleged violation. If a state has an age discrimination law, this time is extended to 300 days of the alleged violation or within 30 days of termination of proceedings of the state enforcement agency. If an individual files a charge with EEOC, he/she may not file a private suit against the employer until 60 days after filing a charge with EEOC.

- A person may file an ADEA complaint or charge with EEOC. A person may retain complete confidentiality when filing an ADEA complaint. However, if an individual wishes to retain his/her right to a private suit against the employer, then the individual must file a charge, and once a charge is filed, the name can be disclosed to the employer.

5. Equal Employment Opportunity Act (EEOA) of 1972 (P.L. 92-261): The Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972, an amendment to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex, expands the powers of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), and enlarges EEOC's jurisdiction for enforcement of Title VII. Passage of EEOA extended Title VII coverage to state, local, and federal governments.

Major Points:

- At the time of this amendment, EEOC was named the Equal Employment Opportunity Coordinating Council (EEOCC). It officially became "EEOC" in 1978.

- The amendment expands EEOC's powers by allowing EEOC to bring cases to court.

- EEOC's enlarged jurisdiction includes the following new groups: (1) private employers with 15 or more persons; (2) educational institutions, public and private; (3) public and private employment agencies; (4) state and local governments; (5) labor unions with 15 or more members; and (6) labor-management joint committees for training and apprenticeship.

Enforcement Agency: Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

6. Title IX, The Educational Amendments Act of 1972 (P.L. 92-318): Title IX bans discrimination on the basis of sex by an educational institution receiving federal financial aid and provides coverage for both employees and students of such institutions. The regulations regarding enforcement of Title IX were effective July 21, 1975, and the main tenet of Title IX is that educational institutions should make every effort to treat the sexes equitably. Although the guidelines include student admissions and treatment of students in general, inclusion of guidelines on employment was not expected by the educational community.
Major Employment Points:

- Regarding employment, Title IX treats pregnancy as a temporary disability and also allows males a leave of absence to care for a newborn child.

- Fringe benefits are to apply equally to both full-time and part-time employees once they have worked one academic semester.

- Inequities of hiring, transfer, and promotion opportunities are prohibited.

Enforcement Agency: U.S. Department of Education.

7. Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-112): The Rehabilitation Act of 1973 prohibits discrimination against qualified workers based upon disability or handicap and requires written affirmative action for the handicapped. Specifically, Section 504 prohibits discrimination against the handicapped in employment, services, and participation and access to all programs that receive federal financial aid. The Department of Education, through its Office of Civil Rights (OCR), handles discrimination charges. (Department of Education Regional Offices for Civil Rights are listed in appendix A.) Section 503 bans discrimination in the employment of the handicapped by federal contractors and subcontractors. This section is enforced by the U.S. Department of Labor, Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFCCP). OFCCP has developed guidelines for requiring employers to institute affirmative action in employment of the handicapped.

Major Points:

- Employers required to have written affirmative action plans for the handicapped include (1) state and local agencies, (2) those with 50 or more employees, and (3) those holding contracts of $50,000 or more.

- Employers must provide "reasonable accommodations" for a handicapped worker, such as accessibility to the building, parking, or a cassette recorder for a blind employee.

- Preemployment physical examination requirements by employees are banned unless such medical examinations are required of all employees; no one given such an exam is disqualified unless a deficiency is job related.

- Preemployment inquiries regarding a person's handicapping condition must be limited to questions related to an applicant's ability to perform job-related functions.

- The affirmative action section (503) of the act mandates employers with government contracts of $5,000 or more must actively recruit qualified handicapped workers, and make "reasonable accommodations" for such workers. If there is an added cost because of hiring a handicapped worker, the cost can be added to the contract bid. Under this definition, about one-half of all businesses (3,000,000) are covered.

Enforcement Agencies: U.S. Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights (Section 503) and U.S. Department of Labor, Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (Section 503).

8. Vietnam Era Veteran's Readjustment Act (VEVRA) of 1974 (P.L. 93-508): This act's regulations are similar in scope and purpose to the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 guidelines in Section 503. Section 402 of the VEVRA requires covered employers to initiate affirmative action to employ and promote disabled veterans and veterans of the Vietnam era. "Reasonable accommodation" must be made for physical and mental impairments of disabled veterans by employers. Employers covered are (1) government contractors and subcontractors with contracts over $10,000 and (2) state and local governments that participate in or work on or under a government contract or subcontract or hold such contracts. Affirmative action plans are required, but not numerical goals and timetables.

Enforcement Agency: U.S. Department of Labor, Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFCCP).
9. Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1978: Under this plan, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) was formed and all coordination efforts of the Equal Employment Opportunity Coordinating Council (EEOCC--established in Section 715, EEOA, 1972) were transferred to the EEOC. In addition, this plan gave EEOC jurisdiction over Title VII complaints against federal agencies, formerly a Civil Service Commission (OPM) function.

10. Executive Order 12067 of 1978: Executive Order 12067 implemented the EEOC concepts contained in the Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1978. The EEOC was given authority to coordinate the efforts of all federal departments and agencies enforcing equal employment laws and policies. Also, EEOC was given the charge of developing uniform standards, guidelines, and policies for dealing with employment discrimination against federal employees. Under E.O. 12067, EEOC has the task of promoting efficiency and eliminating duplication among EEO programs administered by federal agencies; of reducing the costs of EEO legal compliance requirements for employers and for the federal government; and of developing publications to inform and assist federal departments, agencies, and employees of EEO related information.

EEO Guidelines

Equality of Employment Opportunity:
The Use of Guidelines

Whenever employment legislation is passed and executive orders are issued, employers are confused about how to interpret and implement the laws and orders. In such situations, guidelines and regulations typically have been issued to assist employers. Another reason for the issuance of guidelines is to facilitate uniform interpretation of the law/order for litigation purposes. Finally, guidelines may contain actual "amendments" that can greatly enlarge upon the intent of the initial law or order.

Because the scope and size of this module are limited, it is not feasible to review the sets of guidelines issued for the ten laws covered in Competency 2. However, an illustration of the guideline process and format typically used is provided herein for one area, Title VII, and specifically for sex discrimination.

Sample Guidelines

Law: Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended

With regard to Title VII, EEOC has issued a number of sets of guidelines:

1. Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures
2. Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex
3. Guidelines on Discrimination Because of National Origin
4. Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Religion
5. Guidelines on Affirmative Action

How Guidelines Evolve and Are Revised

Title/Section: Title VII, Section 703, "Sex Discrimination"

Evolution of Guidelines/Changes:

2. March 31, 1982: EEOC issued "Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex" that replaced the guidelines issued in 1965. These guidelines included the following sections:

- General Principles
- Sex as a Bona Fide Occupational Qualification (BFOQ)
- Separate Lines of Progression and Seniority Systems
- Discrimination against Married Women
- Job Opportunities Advertising
- Employment Agencies
- Pre-employment Inquiries as to Sex
- Relationship of Title VII to the Equal Pay Act
- Fringe Benefits
- Employment Policies Relating to Pregnancy and Childbirth.

3. October 31, 1978: P.L. 95-555, the Pregnancy Discrimination Act, was signed as an amendment to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended.

4. April 20, 1979: EEOC issued "Guidelines on Sex Discrimination, Adoption of Final Interpretive Guidelines, Questions and Answers." These amendments to the 1972 guidelines were issued in order to bring the 1972 guidelines into conformity with P.L. 95-555 and to provide answers to questions that had been raised by the public.

5. October 9, 1979: EEOC issued "Clarification of Pregnancy Act Guidelines, Questions 29 and 30, Interim Rule." This document was intended to clarify EEOC's enforcement position (questions 29 and 30) regarding charges of violation of P.L. 95-555.

6. April 11, 1980: EEOC issued "Interim Guidelines on Sexual Harassment as an Amendment to the Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex."

7. November 10, 1980: EEOC issued final guidelines on sexual harassment entitled "Discrimination Because of Sex Under Title VII of Civil Rights Act of 1964, as Amended; Adoption of Final Interpretive Guidelines." Under these guidelines, sexual harassment is defined and is pinpointed as an unlawful employment practice.

For each law and executive order, you may wish to become familiarized with the major interpretive guidelines that have been issued. For example, a number of guidelines related to sex discrimination have been issued as a result of other laws, such as Title IX, E.O. 11246, and E.O. 11375. In other words, if sexual discrimination in the workplace is a concern of one of your clients, there are other information sources besides the Title VII set of Sex Discrimination Guidelines. In general, the best source for obtaining those guidelines that may apply to your clients is to request them from your nearest state enforcement agency or from the national agency.

PART 1604 -- GUIDELINES ON DISCRIMINATION BECAUSE OF SEX

By virtue of the authority vested in it by section 713(b) of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C., section 2000e-12, 78 Stat. 265, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission hereby revises Title 29, Chapter XIV, §1604 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

These Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex supersede and enlarge upon the Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex, issued by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission on December 2, 1965, and all amendments thereto. Because the material herein is interpretive in nature, the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C 553) requiring notice of proposed rule making, opportunity for public participation, and delay in effective date are inapplicable. The Guidelines shall be applicable to charges and cases presently pending or hereafter filed with the Commission.

Section 1604.1 General Principles.

(a) References to "employer" or "employers" in Part 1604 state principles that are applicable not only to employers, but also to labor organizations and to employment agencies so far as their action or inaction may adversely affect employment opportunities.

(b) To the extent that the views expressed in prior Commission pronouncements are inconsistent with the views expressed herein, such prior views are hereby overruled.

(c) The Commission will continue to consider particular problems relating to sex discrimination on a case-by-case basis.

Section 1604.2 Sex as a Bona Fide Occupational Qualification.

(a) The Commission believes that the bona fide occupational qualification exception as to sex should be interpreted narrowly. Labels -- "Men's jobs" and "Women's jobs" -- tend to deny employment opportunities unnecessarily to one sex or the other.

(1) The Commission will find that the following situations do not warrant the application of the bona fide occupational qualification exception:

(ii) The refusal to hire a woman because of her sex based on assumptions of the comparative employment characteristics of women in general. For example, the assumption that the turnover rate among women is higher than among men.

(ii) The refusal to hire an individual based on stereotyped characterizations of the sexes. Such stereotypes include, for example, that men are less capable of assembling intricate equipment; that women are less capable of aggressive salesmanship. The principle of non-discrimination requires that individuals be considered on the basis of individual capacities and not on the basis of any characteristics generally attributed to the group.

(iii) The refusal to hire an individual because of the preferences of coworkers, the employer, clients or customers except as covered specifically in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(2) Where it is necessary for the purpose of authenticity or genuineness, the Commission will consider sex to be a bona fide occupational qualification, e.g., an actor or actress.

(b) Effect of sex-oriented state employment legislation.

(1) Many States have enacted laws or promulgated administrative regulations with respect to the employment of females. Among these laws are those which prohibit or limit the employment of females, e.g., the employment of females in certain occupations, in jobs requiring the lifting or carrying of weights exceeding certain prescribed limits, during certain hours of the night, for more than a specified number of hours per day or per week, and for certain periods of time before and after childbirth. The Commission has found that such laws and regulations do not take into account the capacities, preferences, and abilities of individual females and, therefore, discriminate on the basis of sex. The Commission has concluded that such laws and regulations conflict with and are superseded by Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Accordingly, such laws will not be considered a defense to an otherwise established unlawful employment practice or as a basis for the application of the bona fide occupational qualification exception.

(2) The Commission has concluded that state laws and regulations which discriminate on the basis of sex with regard to the employment of minors are in conflict with and are superseded by Title VII to the extent that such laws are more restrictive for one sex. Accordingly, restrictions on the employment of minors of one sex over and above those imposed on minors of the other sex will not be considered a defense to an otherwise established unlawful employment practice or as a basis for the application of the bona fide occupational qualification exception.

(3) A number of states require that minimum wage and premium pay for overtime be provided for female employees. An employer will be deemed to have engaged in an unlawful employment practice if:

(i) It refuses to hire or otherwise adversely affects the employment opportunities of female applicants or employees in order to avoid the payment of minimum wages or overtime pay required by state law; or

(ii) It does not provide the same benefits for male employees.

(4) As to other kinds of sex-oriented state employment laws, such as those requiring special rest and meal periods or physical facilities for women, provision of these benefits to one sex only will be a violation of Title VII. An employer will be deemed to have engaged in an unlawful employment practice if:

(i) It refuses to hire or otherwise adversely affects
the employment opportunities of female applicants or employees in order to avoid the provision of such benefits; or

(ii) It does not provide the same benefits for male employees. If the employer can prove that business necessity precludes providing these benefits to both men and women, then the state law is in conflict with and superseded by Title VII as to this employer. In this situation, the employer shall not provide such benefits to members of either sex.

(5) Some states require that separate restrooms be provided for employees of each sex. An employer will be deemed to have engaged in an unlawful employment practice if it refuses to hire or otherwise adversely affects the employment opportunities of applicants or employees in order to avoid the provision of such restrooms for persons of that sex.

Section 1604.3 Separate Lines of Progression and Seniority Systems.

(a) It is an unlawful employment practice to classify a job as "male" or "female" or to maintain separate lines of progression or separate seniority lists based on sex where this would adversely affect any employee unless sex is a bona fide occupational qualification for that job. Accordingly, employment practices are unlawful which arbitrarily classify jobs so that:

1. A female is prohibited from applying for a job labeled "male," or for a job in a "male" line of progression" and vice versa.

2. A male scheduled for layoff is prohibited from displacing a less senior female on a "female" seniority list; and vice versa.

(b) A seniority system or line of progression which distinguishes between "light" and "heavy" jobs constitutes an unlawful employment practice if it operates as a disguised form of classification by sex, or creates unreasonable obstacles to the advancement by members of either sex into jobs which members of that sex would reasonably be expected to perform.

Section 1604.4 Discrimination Against Married Women.

(a) The Commission has determined that an employer's rule which forbids or restricts the employment of married women and which is not applicable to married men is a discrimination based on sex prohibited by Title VII of the Civil Rights Act. It does not seem to us relevant that the rule is not directed against all females, but only against married females, for so long as sex is a factor in the application of the rule, such application involves a discrimination based on sex.

(b) It may be that under certain circumstances, such a rule could be justified within the meaning of Section 703(e)(1) of Title VII. We express no opinion on this question at this time except to point out that sex as a bona fide occupational qualification must be justified in terms of the peculiar requirements of the particular job and not on the basis of a general principle such as the desirability of spreading work.

Section 1604.5 Job Opportunities Advertising.

It is a violation of Title VII for a help-wanted advertisement to indicate a preference, limitation, specification, or discrimination based on sex unless sex is a bona fide occupational qualification for the particular job involved. The placement of an advertisement in columns classified by publishers on the basis of sex, such as columns headed "Male" or "Female," will be considered an expression of a preference, limitation, specification, or discrimination based on sex.
Section 1604.6 Employment Agencies.

(a) Section 703(b) of the Civil Rights Act specifically states that it shall be unlawful for an employment agency to discriminate against any individual because of sex. The Commission has determined that private employment agencies which deal exclusively with one sex are engaged in an unlawful employment practice, except to the extent that such agencies limit their services to furnishing employees for particular jobs for which sex is a bona fide occupational qualification.

(b) An employment agency that receives a job order containing an unlawful sex specification will share responsibility with the employer placing the job order if the agency fills the order knowing that the sex specification is not based upon a bona fide occupational qualification. However, an employment agency will not be deemed to be in violation of the law, regardless of the determination as to the employer, if the agency does not have reason to believe that the employer's claim of bona fide occupational qualification is without substance and the agency makes and maintains a written record available to the Commission of each such job order. Such record shall include the name of the employer, the description of the job and the basis for the employer's claim of bona fide occupational qualification.

(c) It is the responsibility of employment agencies to keep informed of opinions and decisions of the Commission on sex discrimination.

Section 1604.7 Pre-employment Inquiries as to Sex.

A pre-employment inquiry may ask "Male ______, Female ______"; or "Mr. Mrs. Miss," provided that the inquiry is made in good faith for a non-discriminatory purpose. Any pre-employment inquiry in connection with prospective employment which expresses directly or indirectly any limitation, specification or discrimination as to sex shall be unlawful unless based upon a bona fide occupational qualification.

Section 1604.8 Relationship of Title VII to the Equal Pay Act.

(a) The employee coverage of the prohibitions against discrimination based on sex contained in Title VII is co-extensive with that of the other prohibitions contained in Title VII and is not limited by Section 703(h) to those employees covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act.
(b) By virtue of Section 703(h), a defense based on the Equal Pay Act may be raised in a proceeding under Title VII.

(c) Where such a defense is raised the Commission will give appropriate consideration to the interpretations of the Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor, but will not be bound thereby.

Section 1604.9 Fringe Benefits.

(a) "Fringe benefits," as used herein, includes medical, hospital, accident, life insurance and retirement benefits; profit-sharing and bonus plans; leave; and other terms, conditions, and privileges of employment.

(b) It shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer to discriminate between men and women with regard to fringe benefits.

(c) Where an employer conditions benefits available to employees and their spouses and families on whether the employee is the "head of the household" or "principal wage earner" in the family unit, the benefits tend to be available only to male employees and their families. Due to the fact that such conditioning discriminately affects the rights of women employees, and that "head of household" or "principal wage earner" status bears no relationship to job performance, benefits which are so conditioned will be found a prima facie violation of the prohibitions against sex discrimination contained in the Act.

(d) It shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer to make available benefits for the wives and families of male employees where the same benefits are not made available for the husbands and families of female employees; or to make available benefits for the wives of male employees which are not made available for female employees; or to make available benefits to the husbands of female employees which are not made available for male employees. An example of such an unlawful employment practice is a situation in which wives of male employees receive maternity benefits while female employees receive no such benefits.

(e) It shall not be a defense under Title VII to a charge of sex discrimination in benefits that the cost of such benefits is greater with respect to one sex than the other.
(f) It shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer to have a pension or retirement plan which establishes different optional or compulsory retirement ages based on sex, or which differentiates in benefits on the basis of sex. A statement of the General Counsel of September 13, 1968, providing for a phasing out of differentials with regard to optional retirement age for certain incumbent employees is hereby withdrawn.

Section 1604.10 Employment Policies Relating to Pregnancy and Childbirth.

(a) A written or unwritten employment policy or practice which excludes from employment applicants or employees because of pregnancy is in prima facie violation of Title VII.

(b) Disabilities caused or contributed to by pregnancy, miscarriage, abortion, childbirth, and recovery therefrom are, for all job-related purposes, temporary disabilities and should be treated as such under any health or temporary disability insurance or sick leave plan available in connection with employment. Written and unwritten employment policies and practices involving matters such as the commencement and duration of leave, the availability of extensions, the accrual of seniority and other benefits and privileges, reinstatement, and payment under any health or temporary disability insurance or sick leave plan, formal or informal, shall be applied to disability due to pregnancy or childbirth on the same terms and conditions as they are applied to other temporary disabilities.

(c) Where the termination of an employee who is temporarily disabled is caused by an employment policy under which insufficient or no leave is available, such a termination violates the Act if it has a disparate impact on employees of one sex and is not justified by business necessity.
Public Law 95–555
95th Congress

An Act

To amend title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 to prohibit sex discrimination on the basis of pregnancy.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 701 of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

“(k) The terms ‘because of sex’ or ‘on the basis of sex’ include, but are not limited to, because of or on the basis of pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions; and women affected by pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions shall be treated the same for all employment-related purposes, including receipt of benefits under fringe benefit programs, as other persons not so affected but similar in their ability or inability to work, and nothing in section 703(h) of this title shall be interpreted to permit otherwise. This subsection shall not require an employer to pay for health insurance benefits for abortion, except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term, or except where medical complications have arisen from an abortion: Provided, That nothing herein shall preclude an employer from providing abortion benefits or otherwise affect bargaining agreements in regard to abortion.”.

Sec. 2. (a) Except as provided in subsection (b), the amendment made by this Act shall be effective on the date of enactment.

(b) The provisions of the amendment made by the first section of this Act shall not apply to any fringe benefit program or fund, or insurance program which is in effect on the date of enactment of this Act until 180 days after enactment of this Act.

Sec. 3. Until the expiration of a period of one year from the date of enactment of this Act or, if there is an applicable collective-bargaining agreement in effect on the date of enactment of this Act, until the termination of that agreement, no person who, on the date of enactment of this Act is providing, either by direct payment or by making contributions to a fringe benefit fund or insurance program, benefits in violation with this Act shall, in order to come into compliance with this Act, reduce the benefits or the compensation provided any employee on the date of enactment of this Act, either directly or by failing to provide sufficient contributions to a fringe benefit fund or insurance program: Provided, That the costs of such benefits on the date of enactment of this Act are apportioned between employers and employees, the payments or contributions required to comply with this Act may be made by employers and employees in the same proportion: And provided further, That nothing in this section shall prevent the readjustment of benefits or compensation for reasons unrelated to compliance with this Act.

Guidelines on Sex Discrimination; Adoption of Final Interpretive
Guidelines; Question and Answer

AGENCY: Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

ACTION: Final Amendments to Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex, and Addition of Questions and Answers concerning the Pregnancy
Discrimination Act. Public Law 95-555,

SUMMARY: On October 31, 1978,
President Carter signed into law the 95-555, 92 Stat. 2076, as an amendment in Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended. The act makes clear that discrimination on the basis of pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions constitutes unlawful sex discrimination under Title VII. The amendments to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex bring the Guidelines into conformity with Pub.
L. 95-555. The accompanying questions and answers respond to concerns raised by the public about compliance with the Pregnancy Discrimination Act.

Supplementary Information: The Pregnancy Discrimination Act makes clear that Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, forbids discrimination on the basis of pregnancy, childbirth and related medical conditions. As reflected in the Committee Reports (Senate Report 95-331, 95th Cong., 1st Session (1977) and House of Representatives Report 95-948, 95th Cong. 2nd Session (1978)), Congress believed that the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC or the Commission) in its Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex (29 CFR Part 1604, published at 39 FR 6836, April 5, 1974) had "rightly implemented the Title VII prohibition of sex discrimination in the 1964 act." H.R. 95-948 at p. 2.

Contrary to the EEOC's Guidelines and rulings by eighteen District Courts and all seven Courts of Appeal which casted the issue. in General Electric Co.
v. Gilbert, 429 U.S. 125 (1976), the Supreme Court ruled that General Electric's exclusion of pregnancy related disabilities from its comprehensive disability plan did not violate Title VII.
The Supreme Court further indicated that it believed that the EEOC Guidelines located at 29 CFR 1604.10(b) incorrectly interpreted the Congressional intent in the statute.

The Pregnancy Discrimination Act
reaffirms EEOC's Guidelines with but minor modifications. For that reason, the Commission believed that only slight modifications of its Guidelines were necessary and issued them on an initial basis on March 9, 1979 at 44 FR
13278. Along with these amended Sex Discrimination Guidelines, the Commission published a list of questions and answers concerning the Pregnancy Discrimination Act. These responded to urgent concerns raised by employees, employers, unions and insurers who sought the Commission's guidance in understanding their rights and obligations under the Pregnancy Discrimination Act.

Fringe benefit programs subject to Title VII which existed on October 31, 1978, must be modified in accordance with the Pregnancy Discrimination Act no later than April 29, 1979. It is the Commission's desire, therefore, that all interested parties be made aware of EEOC's view of their rights and obligations in advance of April 29, 1979, so that they may be in compliance by that date. For that reason, the Commission has determined that the amendments to 29 CFR 1604.10 and the questions and answers which will be added to 29 CFR Part 1604, are not subject to the requirements of Executive Order 12044. See section 6(b)(6) of Executive Order 12044.

The Commission, however, invited and received comments from the public and affected Federal agencies. The Commission has considered the comments and determined that its Sex Discrimination Guidelines at 29 CFR 1604.10 should be issued in final form as they were published in 44 FR 13278
(March 9, 1979), except that the word "opportunities" has been inserted in Subsection (a) of Section 1604.10 to emphasize that this subsection applies to all employment-related policies or practices, since there was apparent confusion on this point. Also as a result of the comments, the Commission has added several questions and answers which will be of further assistance to those seeking Commission guidance with respect to their rights and obligations under the Pregnancy Discrimination Act, and has amended two of the originally published questions and answers.

Question 21 was amended by changing the second paragraph of the answer to read "nonspouse dependents" instead of "other dependents," to clarify the intent of the answers. Question 30 (now question 34) has been amended to include women who are contemplating an abortion within the prohibition against discrimination on the basis of abortion.

Questions 29 and 30 were added to despict many of the concerns which had been raised with respect to "extended benefits" provisions.

Question 16(A) was added in response to questions and comments which pertain to child care leave.

A majority of the comments questioned the appropriateness of the Commission's answer to Question 21 of the questions and answers at 44 FR 13278. Question 21 asked whether an employer had to make available health insurance coverage for the medical expenses of pregnancy-related conditions of the spouses of male employees and of the non-spouse dependents of all employees.

The Commission concluded that health insurance benefits for the pregnancy-related conditions of the male employee's spouse must be available to the same extent as health insurance benefits are available to the female employee's spouse. The pregnancy-related conditions of non-spouse dependents, however, would not have to be covered under the health insurance program so long as that practice applied to the non-spouse dependents of male and female employees equally.

The Pregnancy Discrimination Act
amends Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended. To the extent that a specific question is not directly answered by a reading of the Pregnancy Discrimination Act, existing principles of Title VII must be applied to resolve that question. The legislative history of the Pregnancy Discrimination Act states explicitly that existing principles of Title VII law would have to be applied to resolve the question of benefits for dependents. [S. Rep. No. 95-331 at 6.]

The Commission, being responsible for interpreting and implementing Title VII, utilized Title VII principles to arrive at the position reached on the dependent question.

The underlying principle of Title VII is that applicants for employment or employees be treated equally without regard to their race, sex, color, religion, or national origin. This equality of treatment encompasses the receiving of fringe benefits made available in connection with employment. Title VII does not require employers to provide the same coverage for the pregnancy-related medical conditions of spouses of male employees as it provides for the pregnancy-related costs of its female employees. However, if an employer makes available to female employees insurance which covers the costs of all of the medical conditions of their spouses, but provides male employees with insurance coverage for only some of the medical conditions (i.e., all but pregnancy-related expenses) of their spouses, male employees are receiving a less favorable fringe benefit package. This view was explicitly supported in the Senate by Senators Daye and Cranston, 723 Cong. Rec. S15037, S15058 (daily ed. Sept. 18, 1977), and not specifically opposed.

Absent a state statute to the contrary, it would not be a violation of Title VII if an employer’s health insurance policy denied pregnancy benefits for the other dependents of employees (e.g., daughters) so long as the exclusion applied equally to non-spouse dependents of male employees and non-spouse dependents of female employees. Since male and female employees have an equal chance of having pregnant dependent daughters, male and female employees would be equally affected by such an exclusion.

Although costs may increase as a result of providing pregnancy benefits for the spouses of male employees whose benefits are made available for the spouses of female employees, the Pregnancy Discrimination Act provides that where costs were apportioned on the date of enactment between employers and employees, any payments or contributions required to comply with the Act may be made by employers and employees in the same proportion. If that apportionment was non-discriminatory.

As a result of the many comments and questions raised on the dependent question, questions 22 and 23 were added to provide additional guidance to interested parties.

With the exception of the addition of questions 18(A), 22, 23, 29, and 30, and the amendments to questions 21 and 30 (now 34), the questions and answers are issued in final form as they were published in 44 FR 13278 (March 9, 1979).

By virtue of the authority vested in it by Section 713 of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 2000-12, *2 Stat. 2065, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission hereby approves as final § 1604.10 and adopts questions and answers concerning the Signed at Washington, D.C., the 17th day of April, 1978.

Mary N. Wilkins,
Chair, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

1. 29 CFR 1604.10 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1604.10 Employment policies relating to pregnancy and childbirth.

(a) A written or unwritten employment policy or practice which excludes from employment opportunities applicants or employees because of pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions is in prima facie violation of Title VII.

(b) Disabilities caused or contributed to by pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions, for all job-related purposes, shall be treated the same as disabilities caused or contributed to by other medical conditions, under any health or disability insurance or sick leave plan available in connection with employment. Written or unwritten employment policies and practices involving matters such as the commencement and duration of leave, the availability of extensions, the accrual of seniority and other benefits and privileges, reinstatement, and payment under any health or disability insurance or sick leave plan available in connection with employment, written or unwritten policies, shall be applied to pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions as they are applied to other disabilities. Health insurance benefits for abortion, except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term or where medical complications have arisen from an abortion, are not required to be provided by an employer; nothing herein, however, precludes an employer from providing abortion benefits or otherwise affects bargaining agreements in regard to abortion.

(c) Where the termination of an employee who is temporarily disabled is caused by an employment policy under which insufficient or no leave is available, such a termination violates the Act if it has a disparate impact on employees of one sex and is not justified by business necessity.

(1) Any fringe benefit program, or fund, or insurance program which is in effect on October 31, 1978, which does not treat women affected by pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions the same as other persons not so affected but similar in their ability or inability to work, must be in compliance with the provisions of §1604.10(b) by April 28, 1979. In order to come into compliance with the provisions of §1604.10(b), there can be no reduction of benefits or compensation which were in effect on October 31, 1978, before October 31, 1979 or the expiration of a collective bargaining agreement in effect on October 31, 1978, whichever is later.

(2) Any fringe benefit program implemented after October 31, 1978, must comply with the provisions of §1604.10(b) upon implementation.

2. The following questions and answers, with an introduction, are added to 29 CFR Part 1604 as an appendix:

Introduction

On October 31, 1978, President Carter signed into law the Pregnancy Discrimination Act (Pub. L. 95-953). The Act is an amendment to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which prohibits, among other things, discrimination in employment on the basis of sex. The Pregnancy Discrimination Act makes it clear that “because of sex” or “on the basis of sex”, as used in Title VII, includes “because of or on the basis of pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions.” Therefore, Title VII prohibits discrimination in employment against women affected by pregnancy or related conditions.

The basic principle of the Act is that workers affected by pregnancy and related conditions must be treated the same as other applicants and employees on the basis of their ability or inability to work. A woman is therefore protected against such practices as being fired, or refused a job or promotion, merely because she is pregnant or has had an abortion. She usually cannot be forced to go on leave as long as she can still work. If other employees who take disability leave are entitled to get their jobs back when they are able to work again, so are women who have been unable to work because of pregnancy.

In the area of fringe benefits, such as disability benefits, sick leave and health insurance, the same principle applies. A woman unable to work for pregnancy-related reasons is entitled to disability benefits or sick leave on the same basis as employees unable to work for other medical reasons. Also, any health insurance provided must cover expenses for pregnancy-related conditions on the same basis as expenses for other medical conditions. However, health insurance for expenses arising from abortion is not required except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term or where medical complications have arisen from an abortion.

Some questions and answers about the Pregnancy Discrimination Act follow. Although the questions and answers are in the third person, they apply also to unions and other entities covered by Title VII.

1. Q. What is the effective date of the Pregnancy Discrimination Act?
   A. The Act became effective on October 31, 1978. However, with respect to fringe benefit programs in effect on that date, the Act will take effect 90 days thereafter, that is, April 29, 1979.

   To the extent that Title VII already required employers to treat persons affected by pregnancy-related conditions the same as persons affected by other medical conditions, the Act does not change employee rights gained prior to the Act. For example, Title VII has always prohibited an employer from firing or refusing to hire employees because of pregnancy-related conditions, and from failing to accord women on pregnancy-related leave the same seniority retention and accrual accorded those on other disability leaves.

   2. Q. If an employer had a sick leave policy in effect on October 31, 1978, by what date must the employer bring it into compliance with the Act?
      A. With respect to payment of benefits, an employer has until April 29, 1979, to bring into compliance any fringe benefits program, including a sick leave policy, which was in effect on October 31, 1978. However, any such policy or program created after October 31, 1978, must be in compliance when created.

      With respect to all aspects of sick leave policy other than payment of benefits, such as the terms governing retention and accrual of seniority, credit for vacation, and resumption of former job on return from sick leave, equality of treatment was required by Title VII without the Amendment.

      3. Q. Must an employer provide benefits for pregnancy-related conditions to an employee whose pregnancy begins prior to April 29, 1979, and continues beyond that date?
         A. As of April 29, 1979, the effective date of the Act’s requirements, an employer must provide the same benefits for pregnancy-related conditions as it provides for other conditions, regardless of when the pregnancy began. Thus, disability benefits must be paid for all absences on or after April 29, 1979, resulting from pregnancy-related temporary disabilities to the same extent as they are paid for absences resulting from other temporary disabilities. For example, if an employee is on leave from work before April 29, 1979, but is unable to return to work on that date, she is entitled to the same disability benefits available to other employees. Similarly, medical insurance benefits must be paid for pregnancy-related expenses incurred on or after April 29, 1979.

         If an employer requires an employee to be employed for a predetermined period prior to being eligible for insurance coverage, the period prior to April 29, 1979, during which a pregnant employee has been employed must be credited toward the eligibility waiting period on the same basis as for any other employee.

         As to any programs instituted for the first time after October 31, 1978, coverage for pregnancy-related conditions must be provided in the same manner as for other medical conditions.

   4. Q. Would the answer to the preceding question be the same if the employee became pregnant prior to October 31, 1978?
      A. Yes.

   5. Q. If, for pregnancy-related reasons, an employee is unable to perform the functions of her job, does the employer have to provide her an alternative job?
      A. An employer is required to treat an employee temporarily unable to perform the functions of her job because of her pregnancy-related condition in the same manner as it treats other temporarily disabled employees, whether by providing modified tasks, alternative assignments, disability leaves, leaves without pay, etc. For example, a woman’s primary job function may be the operation of a machine, and, incidental to that function, she may carry materials to and from the machine. If other employees temporarily unable to lift are relieved of these functions, pregnant employees also unable to lift must be temporarily relieved of the function.

   6. Q. What procedures may an employer use to determine whether to place on leave an employee who claims she is able to work or deny leave to a pregnant employee who claims she is disabled from work?
      A. An employer may not single out pregnancy-related conditions for special procedures to determine an employee’s ability to work. However, an employer may use any procedure used to determine the ability of all employees to work. For example, if an employer requires its employees to submit a doctor’s statement concerning their inability to work before granting leave or paying sick benefits, the employer may require employees affected by pregnancy-related conditions to submit such statements. Similarly, if an employer allows its employees to obtain their doctor’s statements from personal physicians for absences due to other disabilities or return dates from other disabilities it must accept the doctor’s statements from personal physicians for absences due to pregnancy-related disabilities.

   7. Q. Can an employer have a rule that prohibits employees from returning to work for a predetermined length of time after childbirth?
      A. No.

   8. Q. If an employee has been absent from work as a result of a pregnancy-related condition and recovers, may her employer require her to remain on leave until after her baby is born?
      A. No. An employer must be permitted to work at all times during pregnancy when she is able to perform her job.

   9. Q. Must an employer hold open the job of an employee who is absent on leave because she is temporarily disabled by pregnancy-related conditions?
      A. Unless the employee on leave has informed the employer that she does not intend to return to work, her job must be held open for her return on the same basis as jobs are open for employees on sick or disability leave for other reasons.

   10. Q. May an employer’s policy concerning the accrual and crediting of seniority during absences for medical conditions be different for employees affected by pregnancy-related conditions than for other employees?
        A. No. An employer’s seniority policy must be the same for employees absent for pregnancy-related reasons as for those absent for other medical reasons.

   11. Q. For purposes of calculating such matters as vacations and pay increases, may an employer credit time spent on leave for pregnancy-related reasons differently than time spent on leave for other reasons?
A. No. An employer's policy with respect to crediting time for the purpose of calculating such matters as vacations and pay increases cannot treat employees on leave for pregnancy-related reasons less favorably than employees on leave for other reasons. For example, if employees on leave for medical reasons are credited with the time spent on leave when computing entitlement to vacation or pay raises, an employee on leave for pregnancy-related disability is entitled to the same kind of time credit.

12. Q. Must an employer hire a woman who is medically unable, because of a pregnancy-related condition, to perform a necessary function of a job?
A. An employer cannot refuse to hire a woman because of her pregnancy-related condition so long as she is able to perform the major functions necessary to the job. Nor can an employer refuse to hire her because of its preferences against pregnant workers or the preferences of co-workers, clients, or customers.

13. Q. May an employer limit disability benefits for pregnancy-related conditions to married employees?
A. No.

14. Q. If an employer has an all female workforce or job classification, must benefits he provided for pregnancy-related conditions?
A. Yes. If benefits are provided for other conditions, they must also be provided for pregnancy-related conditions.

15. Q. For what length of time must an employee who provides income maintenance benefits for temporary disabilities provide such benefits for pregnancy-related disabilities?
A. Benefits should be provided for as long as the employee is unable to work for medical reasons unless some other limitation is set for all other temporary disabilities, in which case pregnancy-related disabilities should be treated the same as other temporary disabilities.

16. Q. Must an employer who provides benefits for long-term or permanent disabilities provide such benefits for pregnancy-related conditions?
A. Yes. Benefits for long-term or permanent disabilities resulting from pregnancy-related conditions must be provided to the same extent that such benefits are provided for other conditions which result in long term or permanent disability.

17. Q. If an employer provides benefits to employees on leave, such as installment purchase disability insurance, payment of premiums for health, life or other insurance, continued payments into pension, saving or profit sharing plans, must the same benefits be provided for those on leave for pregnancy-related conditions?
A. Yes, the employer must provide the same benefits for those on leave for pregnancy-related conditions as for those on leave for other reasons.

18. Q. Can an employer who is absent due to a pregnancy-related disability be required to exhaust vacation benefits before receiving sick leave pay or disability benefits?
A. No. If employees who are absent because of other disabling causes receive sick leave pay or disability benefits without any requirement that they first exhaust vacation benefits, the employer cannot impose this requirement on an employee absent for a pregnancy-related cause.

19. Q. Must an employer grant leave to a female employee for childcare purposes after she is medically able to return to work following leave necessitated by pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions?
A. While leave for childcare purposes is not covered by the Pregnancy Discrimination Act, ordinary Title VII principles would require that leave for childcare purposes be granted on the same basis as leave which is granted to employees for other non-medical reasons. For example, if an employer allows its employees to take leave without pay or accrued annual leave for travel or education which is not job related, the same type of leave must be granted to those who wish to remain on leave for infant care, even though they are medically able to return to work.

20. Q. If state law requires an employer to provide disability insurance for a specified period before and after childbirth, does compliance with the state law fulfill the employer's obligation under the Pregnancy Discrimination Act?
A. Not necessarily. It is an employer's obligation to treat employees temporarily disabled by pregnancy in the same manner as employees affected by other temporary disabilities. Therefore, any requirements imposed by state law on benefits for pregnancy-related disabilities, but not for other disabilities, do not excuse the employer from treating the individuals in both groups of employees the same. For example, a state law requiring an employer to pay a maximum of 26 weeks of disability for childbirth, but only six weeks for pregnancy-related disabilities, does not excuse the employer from providing the additional weeks to an employee disabled by pregnancy-related conditions, up to the maximum provided.

21. Q. If a State or local government provides its own employees income maintenance benefits for disabilities, may it provide different benefits for disabilities arising from pregnancy-related conditions than for disabilities arising from other conditions?
A. No. State and local governments, as employers, are subject to the Pregnancy Discrimination Act in the same way as private employers and must bring their employment practices and programs into compliance with the Act, including disability and health insurance programs.

22. Q. Must an employer provide health insurance coverage for the medical expenses of pregnancy-related conditions of the spouses of male employees? Of the dependents of all employees?
A. Where an employer provides no coverage for dependents, the employer is not required to institute such coverage. However, if an employer's insurance program covers the medical expenses of spouses of female employees, then it must equally cover the medical expenses of spouses of male employees, including those arising from pregnancy-related conditions.

But the insurance does not have to cover the pregnancy-related conditions of non-spouse dependents as long as it excludes the pregnancy-related conditions of such non-spouse dependents of male and female employees equally.

23. Q. Must an employer provide the same level of health insurance coverage for the pregnancy-related medical conditions of the spouses of male employees as it provides for its female employees?
A. No. It is not necessarily to provide the same level of coverage for the pregnancy-related medical conditions of the spouses of male employees as it provides for its female employees.
Questions and answers:

23. Q. May an employer offer optional dependent coverage which excludes pregnancy-related medical conditions or offers lesser coverage for pregnancy-related medical conditions where the total premium for the optional coverage is paid by the employee?
   A. No. Pregnancy-related medical conditions must be treated as one of the specified conditions under any health or disability insurance or sick leave plan available in connection with employment, regardless of who pays the premium.

24. Q. Where an employer provides its employees a choice among several health insurance plans, must coverage for pregnancy-related conditions be offered in all of the plans?
   A. Yes. Each of the plans must cover pregnancy-related conditions. For example, an employer with a single coverage policy cannot be forced to purchase a more expensive family coverage policy in order to receive coverage for her own pregnancy-related condition.

25. Q. On what basis should an employee be reimbursed for medical expenses arising from pregnancy, childbirth or related conditions?
   A. Pregnancy-related expenses should be reimbursed in the same manner as are expenses incurred for other medical conditions. Therefore, whether a plan reimburses the employee on a fixed basis or a percentage of reasonable and customary charge basis, the same basis should be used for reimbursement of expenses incurred for pregnancy-related conditions. Furthermore, if medical costs for pregnancy-related conditions increase, reevaluation of the reimbursement basis should be conducted in the same manner as are cost reevaluations of increases for other medical conditions.

Coverage provided by a health insurance program for other conditions must be provided for pregnancy-related conditions. For example, if a plan provides major medical coverage, pregnancy-related conditions must be so covered. Similarly, if a plan covers the cost of a private room for other conditions, the plan must cover the cost of a private room for pregnancy-related conditions. Finally, where a health insurance plan covers office visits to physicians, prenatal and postnatal visits must be included in such coverage.

26. Q. May an employer limit payment of costs for pregnancy-related medical conditions to a specified dollar amount set forth in an insurance policy, collective bargaining agreement or other statement of benefits to which an employee is entitled?
   A. The amounts payable for the costs incurred for pregnancy-related conditions can be limited only to the same extent are costs for other conditions. Maximum recoverable dollar amounts may be specified for pregnancy-related conditions if such amounts are similarly specified for other conditions, and so long as the specified amounts in all instances cover the same proportion of actual costs. If, in addition to the scheduled amount for other procedures, additional costs are paid for, either directly or indirectly, by the employer, such additional payments must also be paid for pregnancy-related procedures.

27. Q. May an employer impose a different deductible or co-payment for payment of costs for pregnancy-related medical conditions than for costs of other medical conditions?
   A. No. Neither an additional deductible nor a larger deductible can be imposed for coverage for pregnancy-related medical costs, whether as a condition for inclusion of pregnancy-related costs in the policy or for payment of the costs when incurred. Thus, if pregnancy-related costs are the first incurred under the policy, the employee is required to pay only the same deductible as would otherwise be required had other medical costs been the first incurred. Once this deductible has been paid, no additional deductible can be required for other medical procedures. If the usual deductible has already been paid for other medical procedures, no additional deductible can be required when pregnancy-related costs are later incurred.

28. Q. If a health insurance plan excludes the payment of benefits for any conditions existing at the time the insured's coverage becomes effective (pre-existing condition clause), can benefits be denied for medical costs arising from a pregnancy existing at the time the coverage became effective?
   A. Yes. However, such benefits cannot be denied unless the pre-existing condition clause also excludes benefits for other pre-existing conditions in the same way.

29. Q. If an employer's insurance plan provides benefits after the insured's employment has ended (i.e., extended benefits) for costs connected with pregnancy and delivery where conception occurred while the insured was working for the employer, but not for the costs of any other medical condition which began prior to termination of employment, may an employee: (a) continue to pay these extended benefits for pregnancy-related medical conditions but not for other medical conditions, or (b) terminate these benefits for pregnancy-related conditions?
   A. Where a health insurance plan currently provides extended benefits for other medical conditions on a less favorable basis than for pregnancy-related medical conditions, extended benefits must be provided for other medical conditions on the same basis as for pregnancy-related medical conditions. Therefore, an employer can neither continue to provide less benefits for other medical conditions nor reduce benefits currently paid for pregnancy-related medical conditions.

30. Q. Where an employer's health insurance plan currently requires total disability as a prerequisite for payment of extended benefits for other medical conditions but not for pregnancy-related costs, may the employer now require total disability for payment of benefits for pregnancy-related medical conditions as well?
   A. Since extended benefits cannot be reduced in order to come into compliance with the Act, a more stringent prerequisite for payment of extended benefits for pregnancy-related medical conditions, such as a requirement for total disability, cannot be imposed. Thus, in this instance, in order to comply with the Act, the employer must treat other medical conditions as pregnancy-related conditions are treated.

31. Q. Can the added cost of bringing benefit plans into compliance with the Act be apportioned between the employer and employee?
   A. The added cost, if any, can be apportioned between the employer and employee in the same proportion that the cost of the fringe benefit plan was apportioned on October 31, 1978, if that apportionment was nondiscriminatory. If the costs were not apportioned as of October 31, 1978, they may not be apportioned in order to come into compliance with the Act. However, in no circumstance may male or female employees be required to pay unequal apportionments on the basis of sex or pregnancy.

32. Q. In order to come into compliance with the Act, may an employer reduce benefits or compensation?
   A. In order to come into compliance with the Act, benefit or compensation which an employer was paying on October 31, 1978 cannot be reduced before October 31, 1979 or before the... expiration of a collective bargaining agreement in effect on October 31, 1978, whichever is later.

Where an employer has not been in compliance with the Act by the times specified in the Act, and attempts to reduce benefits, or compensation, the employer may be required to remedy its practices in accord with ordinary Title VII remedial principles.

33. Q. Can an employer self-insure benefits for pregnancy-related conditions if it does not self-insure benefits for other medical conditions?
   A. Yes, so long as the benefits are the same. In measuring whether benefits are the same, factors other than the dollar coverage paid should be considered. Such factors include the range of choice of physicians and hospitals, and the processing and promptness of payment of claims.

34. Q. Can an employer discharge, refuse to hire or otherwise discriminate against a woman because she has had or is contemplating having an abortion?
   A. No. An employer cannot discriminate in its employment practices against a woman who has had or is contemplating having an abortion.

35. Q. Is an employer required to provide fringe benefits for abortions if fringe benefits are provided for other medical conditions?
   A. All fringe benefits other than health insurance, such as sick leave, which are provided for other medical conditions, must be provided for abortions. Health insurance, however, need not be provided for abortions only where the life of the woman would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term or where medical complications arise from an abortion.

36. Q. If complications arise during the course of an abortion, as for instance excessive hemorrhaging, must an employer's health insurance plan cover the additional cost due to the complications of the abortion?
   A. Yes. The plan is required to pay those additional costs attributable to the complications of the abortion. However, the employer is not required to pay for the abortion itself, except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term.

37. Q. May an employer elect to provide insurance coverage for abortions?
   A. Yes. The Act specifically provides that an employer is not precluded from providing benefits for abortions whether directly or through a collective bargaining agreement, but if an employer decides to cover the costs of abortion, the employer must do so in the same manner and to the same degree as it covers other medical conditions.

Clarification of Pregnancy Act Guidelines, Questions 29 and 30
EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION
23 CFR Part 1634
[44 CFR 111]

Clari$ication of Pregnancy Act Guidelines, Questions 29 and 30

ACTION: Interim Rule.

SUMMARY: This document clarifies the Commission's enforcement position with regard to charges alleging violations of the Pregnancy Act.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On April 20, 1979, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission published Final Interpretive Guidelines, Questions and Answers, related to the Pregnancy Discrimination Act, at 44 FR 29004. On September 29, 1979, the Commission adopted the attached Notice for distribution to staff. The Notice clarifies the Commission's enforcement position with regard to charges alleging violations of the Pregnancy Act in the areas addressed by Questions and Answers 29 and 30. Coordination of this matter with other affected federal agencies, as is required by Executive Order 12087, is presently taking place. Should any coordination efforts result in any changes in the attached Notice, the revised Notice will be published in the Federal Register.

For the Commission.
Eleanor Holmes Norton,
Chair.

Notice—Automatically cancelled in sixty days.

Number: N-913.

Date: September 28, 1979.

1. Subject: interim changes in processing certain pregnancy discrimination charges.

2. Purpose: This notice sets forth the Commission's interpretation of the requirements for compliance with the Pregnancy Discrimination Act, Pub. L. 95-255, 92 Stat. 199 (1978), as discussed in the Answers to Questions 29 and 30 of the Commission's "Questions and Answers on the Pregnancy Discrimination Act," published at 44 FR 29004 (April 30, 1979) and specifically, the manner of compliance during the transition period provided by Section 3 of the Act.

Further, this notice provides interim guidance on the disposition of certain charges brought pursuant to Section 703(f) of Title VII, as amended, dealing specifically with pregnancy benefits as discussed in Questions and Answer Numbers 29 and 30.

5. Responsibilities: Directors and Area Directors are responsible for ensuring that all Equal Opportunity Specialists are familiar with the instructions and the interpretation in this Notice and that letters of determination drafted in or issued from their offices conform to these instructions.

6. Interpretations: Questions 29 and 30 deal with health insurance plans which provide benefits for pregnancy and related medical conditions on an extended basis, i.e., the plans pay the expenses of pregnancy-related medical conditions after employment has terminated if conception occurred prior to the termination of employment.

The Commission in Questions 29 and 30 correctly took the position that, in order to come into compliance with the Act by April 29, 1979, employers who provided extended benefits for pregnancy and related medical conditions at the date of enactment of the Pregnancy Discrimination Act, would have to provide extended benefits on the same basis for other medical conditions. Consistent with settled legal principles, the Commission could have taken no other position on the application of Title VII to the issue of extended benefits as expressed in Questions 29 and 30 and its view of the application of the applicable Title VII law remains unchanged. However, Section 3 of the Pregnancy Discrimination Act read in conjunction with the legislative history leads us to the conclusion that Congress did not intend to require employers to provide extended benefits for all conditions between the effective date of the Act and October 31, 1979.

Section 3 of the Pregnancy Discrimination Act prohibits the reduction of benefits for a one year period or until the expiration of a new collective bargaining agreement, in order to come into compliance with the Act. Hence, extended benefits for pregnancy and related conditions may not be reduced to achieve compliance.

The legislative history demonstrates that, in including Section 3, Congress intended that the Act "not interfere with the legitimate expectations of employees as regards their current fringe benefit coverage, or result in instability in labor-management relations."

The Supreme Court of the United States, in its decision in United Steelworkers v. Weber, 443 U.S. 193 (1979), held that "withdrawing extended benefits for pregnancy before October 31, 1979 or the expiration of an existing collective bargaining agreement, the charge shall be taken and a no cause letter of determination issued immediately.

In all charges of discrimination which raise the above allegation(s), among others, the investigation shall proceed as usual on the other allegations and the letter of determination shall include a no cause finding on the allegation(s) mentioned above.

Equal Employment Opportunity Commission

Final Amendment to Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex
EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION

29 CFR Part 1604

Discrimination Because of Sex Under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as Amended; Adoption of Final Interpretive Guidelines

ACTION: Final Amendment to Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex.

SUMMARY: On April 11, 1980, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission published the Interim Guidelines on sexual harassment as an amendment to the Guidelines on Discrimination Because of Sex. 29 CFR Part 1604.11(c) is in keeping with the Commission's policies in the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's (EEOC) 1978 Guidelines on Sexual Harassment. These guidelines were drafted after full consideration of the comments and the accompanying concerns, will let the Commission have substituted to clarify that sexual harassment is an unlawful employment practice. The EEOC received public comments for 60 days subsequent to the date of publication of the Interim Guidelines. As a result of the comments and the analysis of them, the Final Guidelines were drafted.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 10, 1980.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: During the 60-day public comment period which ended on June 10, 1980, the Commission received over 160 letters regarding the Guidelines on sexual harassment. These comments came from all sectors of the public, including employers, private individuals, women's groups, and local, state, and federal government agencies.

The greatest number of comments, including many from employers, were those commending the Commission for publishing guidelines on the issue of sexual harassment, as well as for the content of the guidelines. The second highest number of comments specifically referred to §1604.11(c) which defines employer liability with respect to acts of supervisors and agents. Many commenters, especially employers, expressed the view that the liability of employers under this section is too broad and unsupported by case law. However, the strict liability imposed in §1604.11(c) is in keeping with the general standard of employer liability with respect to agents and supervisory employees. Similarly, the Commission and the courts have held for years that an employer is liable if a supervisor or an agent violates the Title VII, regardless of knowledge or any other mitigating factor. Anderson v. Methodist Evangelist Hospital, Inc., F.Supp. ——- 3 EPD 18282 (D.C. Ky. 1971)., of F.4d 2d 723, 4 EPD 1901 (8th Cir. 1979). The 1978 Commission Decision No. 71-909. CCH EEOC Decisions (1973) §1932. Commission Decision No. 71- 1442. CCH EEOC Decisions (1973) §2118. Furthermore, a recent Ninth Circuit case on sexual harassment imposed strict liability on the employer where a supervisor harassed an employee without the knowledge of the employer. Miller v. Bank of America, 600 F.2d 211. 20 EPD §30,086 (9th Cir. 1979). In keeping with this standard, the Commission, after full consideration of the comments and the accompanying concerns, will let §1604.11(c) stand as it is now worded.

A number of people asked the Commission to clarify the use of the term "agent" in §1604.11(c). "Agent" is used in the same way here as it is used in §701(b) of Title VII where "agent" is included in the definition of "employer." A large number of comments referred to §1604.11(a) in which the Commission defines sexual harassment. These comments generally suggested that the section is too vague and needs more clarification. More specifically, the comments referred to subsection (3) of §1604.11(a) as presenting the most troublesome definition of what constitutes sexual harassment. The Commission has considered these comments and has decided that subsection (3) is a necessary part of the definition of sexual harassment. The courts have found sexual harassment both in cases where there is concrete economic detriment to the plaintiff. Heelan v. John-Manville Corp., 451 F.Supp. 382, 2 EPD 16067 (D. Colo. 1978). Barnes v. Castle, 561 F.2d 883, 14 EPD 77355 (D.C. Cir. 1977). Garber v. Saxon Business Products, 552 F.2d 1032, 14 EPD 75897 (4th Cir. 1977) and where unlawful conduct results in creating an unproductive or an offensive working atmosphere. Kyriazi, Western Electric Co., 491 F.Supp. 100, 18 EPD 87995 (D.N.J. 1978). For analogous cases with respect to racial harassment see Rogers v. EEOC, 454 F.2d 234, 4 EPD 75975 (9th Cir. 1977); EEOC v. Murphy Motor Freight Lines, Inc., 488 F.Supp. 381, 22 EPD 100,880 (D.C. Mn. 1980).

The word "substantially" in §1604.11(e)(3) has been changed to "reasonably". Many commenters raised questions as to the meaning or "substantially." The word "reasonably" more accurately states the intent of the Commission and was therefore substituted to clarify that intent. It should be emphasized that the appropriate course for further clarification and guidance on the meaning of § 1604.11(e)(3) is through future Commission decisions which will dual with specific fact situations. Since sexual harassment allegations are raised on a case by case basis, any further questions will be answered through Commission decisions which will be fact specific. A fair number of comments were received on §1604.11(d) which defined employer liability with respect to acts of persons other than supervisors or agents. Again, as in §1604.11(c), the traditional Title VII concept prevails regarding employer liability with respect to those people other than agents and supervisory employees. Many commenters asked the Commission to clarify the meaning of "others." As a result, §1604.11(d) has been separated into two subsections. The new §1604.11(d) refers to sexual harassment among fellow employees and the liability of an employer in such a situation.

The new §1604.11(e) refers to the possible liability of employers for acts of non-employees towards employees. Such liability will be determined on a case-by-case basis, taking all facts into consideration, including whether the employer knew or should have known of the conduct, the extent of the employer's control and other legal responsibility with respect to such individuals. A number of people raised the question of what an "appropriate action" might be under §1604.11(d). What is considered to be "appropriate" will be seen in the context of specific cases through Commission decisions.

Section 1604.11(e)(6) of the interim Guidelines, which sets out suggestions for programs to be developed by employers to prevent sexual harassment, now becomes §1604.11(f). The Commission has received many comments which state that this section is not specific enough. The Commission has decided that the provisions of this section should illustrate several kinds of action which might be appropriate. Depending on the employer's circumstances. The emphasis is on preventing sexual harassment, and §1604.11(f) intends only to offer illustrative suggestions with respect to possible components of a prevention program. Since each workplace requires its own individualized program to prevent sexual harassment, these specific steps to be included in the program should be developed by each employer.

Several commenters raised the question of whether a third party who was denied an employment benefit would have a charge cognizable under Title VII where the benefit was received.
by a person who was granting sexual favors to their mutual supervisor. Even though the Commission does not consider this to be an issue of sexual harassment in the strict sense, the Commission does recognize it as a related issue which would be governed by general Title VII principles.

Subsection (g) has been added to recognize this as a Title VII issue.

After carefully considering the numerous comments it received, the EEOC made the above changes to the Interim Guidelines and, at its meeting of September 23, 1980, adopted them as the Final Guidelines on sexual harassment, subject to formal interagency coordination. Formal interagency coordination has been completed, and none of the affected agencies had additional comments. Therefore, these Guidelines become final as adopted at the Commission meeting of September 23, 1980.

Signed at Washington, D.C. this 3rd day of November 1980.

Eleanor Holmes Norton.
Chair, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Accordingly, 29 CFR Chapter XIV, Part 1604 is amended by adding § 1604.11 to read as follows:

PART 1604—GUIDELINES ON DISCRIMINATION BECAUSE OF SEX

§ 1604.11 Sexual harassment.

(a) Harassment on the basis of sex is a violation of Sec. 703 of Title VII. Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature constitute sexual harassment when (1) submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment, (2) submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment decisions affecting such individual, or (3) such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment.

(b) In determining whether alleged conduct constitutes sexual harassment, the Commission will look at the record as a whole and at the totality of the circumstances, such as the nature of the sexual advances and the context in which the alleged incidents occurred. The determination of the legality of a particular action will be made from the facts, on a case by case basis.

(c) Applying general Title VII principles, an employer, employment agency, joint apprenticeship committee or labor organization (hereinafter collectively referred to as "employer") is responsible for its acts and those of its agents and supervisory employees with respect to sexual harassment regardless of whether the specific acts complained of were authorized or even forbidden by the employer and regardless of whether the employer knew or should have known of their occurrence. The Commission will examine the circumstances of the particular employment relationship and the job assignments performed by the individual in determining whether an individual acts in either a supervisory or agency capacity.

(d) With respect to conduct between fellow employees, an employer is responsible for acts of sexual harassment in the workplace where the employer (or its agents or supervisory employees) knows or should have known of the conduct, unless it can show that it took immediate and appropriate corrective action.

(e) An employer may also be responsible for the acts of non-employees, with respect to sexual harassment of employees in the workplace where the employer (or its agents or supervisory employees) knows or should have known of the conduct and fails to take immediate and appropriate corrective action. In reviewing these cases the Commission will consider the extent of the employer's control and any other legal responsibility which the employer may have with respect to the conduct of such non-employees.

(f) Prevention is the best tool for the elimination of sexual harassment. An employer should take all steps necessary to prevent sexual harassment from occurring, such as affirmatively training employees, expressing strong disapproval of such activities, and developing appropriate methods to sensitize all employees of their right to raise and how to raise the issue of harassment under Title VII and developing methods to sensitize all employees.

(g) Other related practices: Where employment opportunities or benefits are granted by the employer as a result of submission to the employer's sexual advances or requests for sexual favors, the employer may be held liable for unlawful sex discrimination against other persons who were qualified for but denied that employment opportunity or benefit.

The principles so stated here continue in effect in cases involving religious or national origin discrimination.

4. Invite participants to share examples and experiences they are aware of that relate to the seven areas of potential employment discrimination covered in the reading. As participants give examples, be sure they indicate the category in which they would place the example.

- If you are uncertain if an example is discriminatory, share your uncertainty and elicit opinions from others in the group. There are few “experts” on this topic.

5. After examples have been shared, review the fact that “adverse or disparate effect” can be defined as employment standards or practices that operate to exclude specific individuals or groups (both protected and affected classes are examples). Invite participants to brainstorm a list of groups that have experienced the “adverse effect” of various employment practices and standards over the years.

6. Once the group has a list generated, point out that guidance workers serve many, if not all, of these groups in some way and therefore, how important it is that guidance workers are knowledgeable about equality of employment opportunity.

If you need examples, the following are typical: minorities, women, youth, older Americans, persons with a poor credit rating, handicapped, limited English speaking, veterans, nonreaders, persons with an arrest record, persons with particular religious backgrounds, persons with non-USA national origins.

ANALYZING MY NEEDS

1. Can I summarize this law/E.O.?
2. Do I have clients affected by this law/E.O.?
3. Do I need to request more information or guidelines on this law/E.O.?
4. Can I name the compliance agency for this law/E.O.?
5. Do I know a state/local office or resource to obtain more information on this law/E.O.?
A Where Am I Now?

With regard to EEO, what do I know? What are my attitudes and beliefs about EEO? What are my strengths in helping clients with EEO concerns?

B Where Would I Like To Be?

What do I have yet to learn? In what ways do I need to change? How would I like to better assist my clients with EEO concerns?

C How Will I Get There?

What do I need to do to accomplish what I listed in Section B? What “next steps” do I need to take.

EEOC has 22 district and 27 area offices. The district offices handle the procedures of (1) rapid charge processing, (2) backlog charge processing, and (3) Commission-initiated systemic cases. The area offices typically handle (1) rapid charge processing, (2) charge intake, and (3) face-to-face fact-finding and early resolutions. In some instances, area offices offer backlog charge processing services also.

An Act
To provide for the establishment of fair labor standards in employments in and affecting interstate commerce, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That this Act may be cited as the "Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938."

Finding and Declaration of Policy

Sec. 2. (a) The Congress hereby finds that the existence, in industries engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce, of labor conditions detrimental to the maintenance of the minimum standard of living necessary for health, efficiency, and general well-being of workers (1) causes commerce and the channels and instrumentalities of commerce to be used to spread and perpetuate such labor conditions among the workers of the several States; (2) burdens commerce and the free flow of goods in commerce; (3) constitutes an unfair method of competition in commerce; (4) leads to labor disputes burdening and obstructing commerce and the free flow of goods in commerce; and (5) interferes with the orderly and fair marketing of goods in commerce. The Congress further finds that the employment of persons in domestic service in households affects commerce.

(b) It is hereby declared to be the policy of this Act, through the exercise by Congress of its power to regulate commerce among the several States and with foreign nations, to correct and as rapidly as practicable to eliminate the conditions above referred to in such industries without substantially curtailing employment or earning powers. 2

1 As amended by section 319 of the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1949. These amendments also excluded the definition of employer any individual who is employed by an employer engaged in agriculture if such individual is the parent, spouse, child, or other member of the employer's immediate family.

2 Similar language was added to the Act by the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1966. In determining the wage of a tipped employee, the amount paid such employee by his employer shall be deemed to be increased on account of tips by an amount determined by the employer, but not by an amount in excess of 50 per centum of the applicable minimum wage rate, except that the amount of the increase on account of tips determined by the employer may not exceed the value of tips actually received by the employee. The previous sentence shall not apply with respect to any tipped employee unless (1) such employee has been informed by the employer of the provisions of this subsection, and (2) all tips received by such employee have been retained by the employee, except that this subsection shall not be construed to prohibit the pooling of tips among employees who customarily and regularly receive tips.

Effective January 1, 1973, section 3(m) is amended by striking out "30 per centum" and inserting in lieu thereof "45 per centum".

(2) in connection with the operation of a street, suburban or interurban electric railway, or local trolley or motorbus carrier, if the rates and services of such railway or carrier are subject to regulation by a state or local agency (regardless of whether or not such railway or carrier is public or private or operated for profit or not for profit), or shall be deemed to be activities performed for a business purpose.

(s) "Enterprise engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce" means an enterprise which has employees engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce, or employees handling, selling, or otherwise working on goods or materials which have been moved in or produced for commerce by any person, and which—

(1) during the period February 1, 1967, through January 31, 1968, is an enterprise whose annual gross volume of sales made or business done is not less than $500,000 (exclusive of excise taxes at the retail level which are separately stated)16 or is a gasoline service establishment whose annual gross volume of sales is not less than $250,000 (exclusive of excise taxes at the retail level which are separately stated), and beginning February 1, 1968, is an enterprise, other than an enterprise which is comprised exclusively of retail or service establishments and which is described in paragraph (2), whose annual gross volume of sales made or business done is not less than $500,000 (exclusive of excise taxes at the retail level which are separately stated);

(2) is an enterprise which is comprised exclusively of one or more retail or service establishments, as defined in section 13(a)(2), and whose annual gross volume of sales made or business done is not less than $500,000 (exclusive of excise taxes at the retail level which are separately stated);

(6) is an activity of a public agency.

Any establishment which has as its only regular employees the owner thereof or the parent, spouse, child, or other member of the immediate family of such owner shall not be considered to be an enterprise engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce or a part of such an enterprise, and the sales of such establishment shall not be included for 15 As added by section 9 of the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1966, effective November 1, 1967. Prior to those amendments, paragraph 6 excluded from the definition of "enterprise" an enterprise which had employees engaged in commerce or in the production of goods made for commerce which was not more than a retail or service establishment, as defined in sections 3(a)(2) and 3(b)(1), respectively.

16 Prior to the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1966, the Act's minimum wage and overtime requirements did not generally apply to employees of laundries or dry cleaning establishments, even if such establishments were part of a covered enterprise because of the language in section 3(b)(1) which excepted those employees employed by an establishment engaged in laundering, cleaning, or repairing clothing or fabrics, more than 50 percent of which, in the aggregate, is engaged in activities performed for a public purpose.

17 Prior to the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1966, the Act's minimum wage and overtime requirements did not apply to most of the establishments listed in this subsection, because section 3(b)(1) as then read, excepted employees of a hospital or institution which is primarily engaged in the care of the sick, the aged, the mentally ill or defective residing on the premises of such institution, or the aged, the mentally ill, or the physically handicapped residing in a local public institution.

18 As added by section 26 of the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1966, effective October 1, 1967, to take effect October 1, 1968. See note 94 to this section.

the purpose of determining the annual gross volume of sales of any enterprise for the purpose of this subsection. The employees of an enterprise which is a public agency shall for purposes of this subsection be deemed to be employees engaged in commerce, or in the production of goods for commerce, or employees handling, selling, or otherwise working on goods or materials that have been moved in or produced for commerce. Notwithstanding paragraph (2), an enterprise which is comprised of one or more retail or service establishments, which on June 30, 1978, was subject to section 6(a)(1), and which because of a change in the dollar volume standard in such paragraph prescribed by the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1977 is not subject to such section, shall, if its annual gross volume of sales made or business done is not less than $50,000 (exclusive of excise taxes at the retail level when are separately stated), pay its employees not less than the minimum wage in effect under such section on the day before such change takes effect and shall pay its employees in accordance with section 7. A violation of the preceding sentence shall be considered a violation of section 6 or 7, as the case may be.

The Secretary 27 may establish and utilize such regional, local, or other agencies, and utilize such voluntary and uncompensated services, as may from time to time be needed. Attorneys appointed under this section may appear for and represent the Secretary 28 in any litigation, but all such litigation shall be subject to the direction and control of the Attorney General. In the appointment, selection, classification, and promotion of officers and employees of the Secretary, 29 no political test or qualification shall be permitted or given consideration, but all such appointments and promotions shall be given and made on the basis of merit and efficiency.

(c) The principal office of the Secretary 30 shall be in the District of Columbia, but he or his duly authorized representative may exercise any or all of his powers in any place.

(d) (1) The Secretary 31 shall submit annually in January a report to the Congress covering his activities for the preceding year and including such information, data, and recommendations for further legislation in connection with the matters covered by this Act as he may find advisable. Such report shall contain an evaluation and appraisal by the Secretary of the minimum wages and overtime coverage estab-

appraisal, the Secretary shall take into consideration any changes which may have occurred in the cost of living and in productivity and the level of wages in manufacturing, the ability of employers to absorb wage increases, and such other factors as he may determine to be pertinent. Such report shall also include a summary of the special certificates issued under section 14(b).

(2) The Secretary shall conduct studies on the justification or lack thereof for each of the special transmitted to the Congress not later than one year after the effective date of this Act, together with his recommendations to the Congress. Subsequent reports on such study shall be transmitted to the Congress at two-year intervals after such effective date. Each such report shall include suggestions respecting the Secretary's authority under section 14 of this Act.

(e) Whenever the Secretary has reason to believe that in any industry under this Act the competition of foreign producers in United States markets or in markets abroad, or both, has resulted, or is likely to result, in increased unemployment in the United States, he shall undertake an investigation to gain full information with respect to the matter. If he determines that increased unemployment has in fact resulted, or is in fact likely to result, from such competition, he shall make a full and complete report of his findings and determinations to the President and to the Congress: Provided: That he may also include in such report information on the increased employment resulting from additional ex-determine to be pertinent to such report.

(f) The Secretary is authorized to enter into an agreement with the Librarian of Congress with respect to individuals employed in the Library of Conor any other law, the Civil Service Commission is authorized to administer the provisions of this Act with respect to any individual employed by the United States (other than an individual employed in the Library of Congress, United States Postal Service,

Postal Rate Commission, or the Tennessee Valley

Such an application shall require only—subsection and which are related to the worker's

(3A) The Secretary may by regulation or order provide for the employment of handicapped clients in work activities centers under special certificates at

to the employment by any elementary or secondary school of its students if such employment constitutes,

Secretary of Labor issued under section 14;
except that no provision of this Act shall impose any liability upon any common carrier for the transportation in commerce in the regular course of its business of any goods not produced by such common carrier, and no provision of this Act shall excuse any common carrier from its obligation to accept any goods for transportation;
and except that any such transportation, offer, shipment, delivery, or sale of such goods by a purchaser who acquired them in good faith in reliance on written assurance from the producer that the goods were produced in compliance with the requirements of the Act, and who acquired such goods for value without notice of any such violation, shall not be deemed unlawful:

(2) to violate any of the provisions of section 6 or section 7, or any of the provisions of any regulation or order of the Secretary issued under section 14;

Sec. 16. (a) Any person who willfully violates any of the provisions of section 15 shall upon conviction

Any employer who violates the provisions of section 6 or section 7 of this Act shall be liable to the employee or employees affected in the amount of their unpaid minimum wages, or their unpaid overtime compensation, as the case may be, and in an additional equal amount as liquidated damages. Any employer who exceeds the provisions of section 15(a)(3) of this Act shall be liable for such legal or equitable relief as may be appropriate to effectuate the purposes of section 15, and section 4(a)(5), including without limitation employment, receipt, benefit, protection, and the payment of wages back and an additional equal amount as liquidated damages. An action to recover the liability prescribed in either of the preceding sentences may be maintained against any employer (including a public agency) in any Federal or State court of competent jurisdiction by any one or more employees for and in behalf of himself or herself and other employees similarly situated. No employer shall be a party plaintiff to any such action unless he gives his consent in writing to become such a party and such consent is filed in the court in which such action is brought. The count in such action shall, in addition to any judgment awarded to the plaintiff or plaintiffs, allow a reasonable attorney's fee to be paid by the defendant, and costs of the action. The right provided by this subsection to bring an action by or on behalf of any employee, and the right of any employee to become a party plaintiff to any such action, shall terminate upon the filing of a complaint by the Secretary of Labor in an action under section 17 in which (1) a restraint is sought of any further delay in the payment of unpaid minimum wages, or the amount of unpaid overtime compensation, as the case may be, owing to such employee under section 6 or section 7 of this Act by an employer liable therefor under the provisions of subsection (d) of section 3 or (2) legal or equitable relief is sought as a result of alleged violations of section 15, or 18(b).

The Secretary is authorized to supervise the payment of the unpaid minimum wages or the unpaid overtime compensation owing to any employee or employees under section 6 or 7 of this Act, and the agreement of any employee to accept such payment shall upon payment in full constitute a waiver by such employee of any right he may have under subsection (b) of this section to such unpaid minimum wages or unpaid overtime compensation and an additional equal amount as liquidated damages. The Secretary may bring an action in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover the amount of the unpaid minimum wages or unpaid overtime compensation and an additional equal amount as liquidated damages. The right provided by subsection (b) to bring an action by or on behalf of any employee to recover the liability specified in the first sentence of such subsection and of any employee to become a party plaintiff to any such action shall terminate upon the filing of a complaint by the Secretary in an action under this subsection in which a recovery is sought of unpaid minimum wages or unpaid overtime compensation under sections 6 and 7 or liquidated or other damages provided by this subsection owing to such employee by an employer liable under the provisions of subsection (b), unless such action is dismissed without prejudice on motion of the Secretary. Any sums thus recovered by the Secretary on behalf of an employee pursuant to this subsection shall be held in a special deposit account, and shall be paid, on order of the Secretary, directly to the employee or employees affected. Any such sums not paid to an employee because of inability to do so within a period of three years shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States as miscellaneous receipts. In determining when an action is commenced by the Secretary under this subsection for the purposes of the statutes of limitations provided in section 21(a) of the Portal-to-Portal Act of 1947, it shall be considered to be commenced in the case of any individual claimant on the date when the complaint is filed if he is specifically named as a party plaintiff in the complaint, or if his name did not so appear, on the subsequent date on which his name is added as a party plaintiff in such action.

(d) In any action or proceeding commenced prior to, on, or after the date of enactment of this subsection, no employer shall be subject to any liability or punishment under this Act or the Portal-to-Portal Act of 1947 or on account of his failure to comply with any provision or provisions of such Acts (1) with respect to work heretofore or hereafter performed in

1. The provision for liquidated damages was added by the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1961. SEC. 17. The district courts, together with the United States District Court for the District of the Canal Zone, the District Court of the Virgin Islands, and the District Court of Guam shall have jurisdiction, for cause shown, to restrain violations of section 15, including in the case of violations of section 15(4)(2) the restraint of any withholding of payment of minimum wages or overtime compensation found by the court to be due to employees under this Act (except sums which employees are barred from recovering at the time of the commencement of the action to restrain the violations, by virtue of the provisions of section 6 of the Portal-to-Portal Act of 1917).\footnote{Approved, June 25, 1938.}

No provision of this Act shall justify any employer in reducing a wage paid by him which is in excess of the applicable minimum wage under this Act, or justify any employer in increasing hours of employment maintained by him which are shorter than the maximum hours applicable under this Act.

Sec. 706. (a) The Commission is empowered, as hereinafter provided, to prevent any person from engaging in any unlawful employment practice as set forth in section 703 or 704 of this title.

(b) Whenever a charge is filed by or on behalf of a person claiming to be aggrieved, or by a member of the Commission, alleging that an employer, employment agency, labor organization, or joint labor-management committee controlling apprenticeship or other training or retraining, including on-the-job training programs, has engaged in an unlawful employment practice, the Commission shall serve a notice of the charge (including the date, place and circumstances of the alleged unlawful employment practice) on such employer, employment agency, labor organization, or joint labor-management committee (hereinafter referred to as the "respondent") within ten days, and shall make an investigation thereof. Charges shall be in writing under oath or affirmation and shall contain such information and be in such form as the Commission requires. Charges shall not be made public by the Commission. If the Commission determines after such investigation that there is no reasonable cause to believe that the charge is true, it shall dismiss the charge and promptly notify the person claiming to be aggrieved and the respondent of its action. In determining whether reasonable cause exists, the Commission shall accord substantial weight to final findings and orders made by State or local authorities in proceedings commenced under State or local law pursuant to the requirements of subsections (w) and (u). If the Commission determines after such investigation that there is reasonable cause to believe that the charge is true, the Commission shall endeavor to eliminate any such alleged unlawful employment practice by informal methods of conference, conciliation, and persuasion. Nothing said or done during and as a part of such informal endeavors may be made public by the Commission, its officers or employees, or used as evidence in a subsequent proceeding without the written consent of the persons concerned. Any person who makes public information in violation of this subsection shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both. (d) In the case of an alleged unlawful employment practice occurring in a State, or political subdivision of a State, which has a State or local law prohibiting the unlawful employment practice alleged and establishing or authorizing a State or local authority to grant or seek relief from such practice or to institute criminal proceedings with respect thereto upon receiving notice thereof, no charge may be filed under subsection (a) by the person aggrieved before the expiration of sixty days after proceedings have been commenced under the State or local law, unless such proceedings have been earlier terminated, provided that such sixty-day period shall be extended to one hundred and twenty days during the first year after the effective date of such State or local law. If any requirement for the commencement of such proceedings is imposed by a State or local authority other than a requirement of the filing of a written and signed statement of the facts upon which the proceeding is based, the proceeding shall be deemed to have been commenced for the purposes of this subsection at the time such statement is sent by registered mail to the appropriate State or local authority.

(e) In the case of any charge filed by a member of the Commission alleging an unlawful employment practice occurring in a State or political subdivision of a State which has a State or local law prohibiting the practice alleged and establishing or authorizing a State or local authority to grant or seek relief from such practice or to institute criminal proceedings with respect thereto upon receiving notice thereof, the Commission shall, before taking any action with respect to such charge, notify the appropriate State or local officials and, upon request, afford them a reasonable time, but not less than sixty days provided that such sixty-day period shall be extended to one hundred and twenty days during the first year after the effective date of such State or local law, unless a shorter period is requested, to act under such State or local law to remedy the practice alleged.

(f) A charge under this section shall be filed within one hundred and eighty days after the alleged unlawful employment practice occurred and notice of the charge (including the date, place and circumstances of the alleged unlawful employment practice) shall be served upon the person against whom such charge is made within ten days thereafter, except that in a case of an unlawful employment practice with respect to which the person aggrieved has initially instituted proceedings with a State or local agency with authority to grant or seek relief from such practice or to institute criminal proceedings with respect thereto upon receiving notice thereof, such charge shall be filed by or on behalf of the person aggrieved within three hundred days after the alleged unlawful employment practice occurred, or within thirty days after receiving notice that the State or local agency has terminated the proceedings under the State or local law, whichever is earlier, and a copy of such charge shall be filed by the Commission with the State or local agency.

(fk) If within thirty days after a charge is filed with the Commission or within thirty days after expiration of any period of reference under subsection (e) or (d), the Commission has been unable to secure from the respondent a conciliation agreement acceptable to the Commission, the Commission may bring a civil action against any respondent not a government, governmental agency, or political subdivision named in the charge. In the case of a respondent which is a government, governmental agency, or political subdivision, if the Commission has been unable to secure from the respondent a conciliation agreement acceptable to the Commission, the Commission shall take no further action and shall refer the case to the Attorney General who may bring a civil action against such respondent in the appropriate United States district court. The person or persons aggrieved shall have the right to intervene in a civil action brought by the Commission or the Attorney General in a case involving a government, governmental agency, or political subdivision. If a charge filed with the Commission pursuant to subsection (d) is dismissed by the Commission, or if within one hundred and eighty days from the filing of such charge or the expiration of any period of reference under subsection (e) or (d), whichever is later, the Commission has not filed a civil action under this section or the Attorney General has notified a civil action in a case involving a government, governmental agency, or political subdivision, or the Commission has not entered into a conciliation agreement to which the person aggrieved is a party, the Commission, or the Attorney General in a case involving a government, governmental agency, or political subdivision, shall notify the person aggrieved and within ninety days after the giving of such notice a civil action may be brought.
against the respondent named in the charge (A) by the person claiming to be aggrieved, or (B) if such charge was filed by a member of the Commission, by any person whom the charge alleges was aggrieved by the alleged unlawful employment practice. Upon application by the complainant and in such circumstances as the court may deem just, the court may appoint an attorney for such complainant and may authorize the commencement of the action without the payment of fees, costs, or security. Upon timely application, the court may, in its discretion, permit the Commission, or the Attorney General in a case involving a government, governmental agency, or political subdivision, to intervene in such civil action upon certification that the case is of general public importance. Upon request, the court may, in its discretion, stay further proceedings for not more than sixty days pending the termination of State or local proceedings described in subsections (c) or (d) of this section or further efforts of the Commission to obtain voluntary compliance.

(4) Whenever a charge is filed with the Commission and the Commission concludes on the basis of a preliminary investigation that prompt judicial action is necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act, the Commission, or the Attorney General in a case involving a government, governmental agency, or political subdivision, may bring an action for appropriate temporary or preliminary relief pending final disposition of such charge. Any temporary restraining order or other order granting preliminary or temporary relief shall be issued in accordance with rule 65 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. It shall be the duty of a court having jurisdiction over proceedings under this section to assign cases for hearing at the earliest practicable date and to cause such cases to be in every way expedited.

(5) Each United States district court and each United States court of a place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States shall have jurisdiction of actions brought under this title. Such an action may be brought in any judicial district in the State in which the unlawful employment practice is alleged to have been committed, in the judicial district in which the employment records relevant to such practice are maintained and administered, or in the judicial dis-district in which the aggrieved person would have worked but for the alleged unlawful employment practice, but if the respondent is not found within any such district, such an action may be brought within the judicial district in which the respondent has his principal office. For purposes of sections 1404 and 1406 of title 28 of the United States Code, the judicial district in which the respondent has his principal office shall in all cases be considered a district in which the action might have been brought.

(4) It shall be the duty of the chief judge of the district (or in his absence, the acting chief judge) in which the case is pending immediately to designate a judge in such district to hear and determine the case.
In the event that no judge in the district is available to hear and determine the case, the chief judge of the district, or the acting chief judge, as the case may be, shall certify this fact to the chief judge of the circuit (or in his absence, the acting chief judge) who shall then designate a district or circuit judge of the circuit to hear and determine the case.

(5) It shall be the duty of the judge designated

Subpart A—Duties of the Secretary of Labor

SEC. 201. The Secretary of Labor shall be responsible for the administration of parts II and III of this order and shall adopt such rules and regulations and issue such orders as he deems necessary and appropriate to achieve the purposes thereof.

Subpart B—Contractors' Agreements

SEC. 202. Except in contracts exempted in accordance with section 204 of this order, all Government contracting agencies shall include in every Government contract hereafter entered into the following provisions:

During the performance of this contract, the contractor agrees as follows:

1. The contractor will not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. The contractor will take affirmative action to ensure that applicants are employed, and that employees are treated during employment, without regard to their race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Such action shall include, but not be limited to the following: employment, upgrading, demotion, or transfer; recruitment or referral; advertising or recruitment advertising; layoff or termination; rates of pay or other forms of compensation; and selection for training, including apprenticeship. The contractor agrees to post in conspicuous places, available to employees and applicants for employment, notices to be provided by the contracting officer setting forth the provisions of this nondiscrimination clause.

3. The contractor will send to each labor union or representative of workers with which he has a collective bargaining agreement or other contract or understanding, a notice, to be provided by the agency contracting officer, advising the labor union or workers' representative of the contractor's commitments under section 202 of Executive Order No. 11246 of September 24, 1965, and shall post copies of the notice in conspicuous places available to employees and applicants for employment.

4. The contractor will comply with all provisions of Executive Order No. 11246 of September 24, 1965, and of the rules, regulations, and relevant orders of the Secretary of Labor.

Executive Order 11478 was signed by President Richard Nixon on Aug. 8, 1969.
2. Sec. 202, paragraphs 1 and 2 and sec. 203, subsec. (d) were amended by Executive Order 11375 to encompass sex discrimination. Executive Order 11375 was signed by President Lyndon B. Johnson on Sept. 24, 1965.
The contractor will furnish all information and reports required by Executive Order No. 11246 of September 24, 1965, and by the rules, regulations, and orders of the Secretary of Labor, or pursuant thereto, and will permit access to his books, records, and accounts by the contracting agency and the Secretary of Labor for purposes of investigation to ascertain compliance with such rules, regulations, and orders.

In the event of the contractor's noncompliance with the nondiscrimination clauses of this contract or with any of such rules, regulations, or orders, this contract may be cancelled, terminated, or suspended in whole or in part and the contractor may be declared ineligible for further Government contracts in accordance with procedures authorized in Executive Order No. 11246 of September 24, 1965, and such other sanctions may be imposed and remedies invoked as provided in Executive Order No. 11246 of September 24, 1965, or by rule, regulation, or order of the Secretary of Labor, or as otherwise provided by law.

The contractor will include the provisions of paragraphs (1) through (7) in every subcontract or purchase order unless exempted by rules, regulations, or orders of the Secretary of Labor issued pursuant to section 204 of Executive Order No. 11246 of September 24, 1965, so that such provisions will be binding upon each subcontractor or vendor. The contractor will take such action with respect to any subcontract or purchase order as the contracting agency may direct as a means of enforcing such provisions including sanctions for noncompliance: Provided, however, That in the event the contractor becomes involved in, or threatened with, litigation with a subcontractor or vendor as a result of such direction by the contracting agency, the contractor may request the United States to enter into such litigation to protect the interests of the United States.

SEC. 203. (a) Each contractor having a contract containing the provisions prescribed in section 202 shall file, and shall cause each of his subcontractors to file, compliance reports with the contracting agency or the Secretary of Labor as may be directed. Compliance reports shall be filed within such times and shall contain such information as to the practices, policies, programs, and employment policies, programs, and employment statistics of the contractor and each subcontractor, and shall be in such form, as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe.

(b) Bidders or prospective contractors or subcontractors may be required to state whether they have participated in any previous contract subject to the provisions of this order, or any preceding similar executive order, and in that event to submit, on behalf of themselves and their proposed subcontractors, compliance reports prior to or as an initial part of their bid or negotiation of a contract.

(c) Whenever the contractor or subcontractor has a collective bargaining agreement or other contract or understanding with a labor union or an agency referring workers or providing or supervising apprenticeship or training for such workers, the compliance report shall include such information as to such labor union's or agency's practices and policies affecting compliance as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe: Provided, That to the extent such information is within the exclusive possession of a labor union or an agency referring workers or providing or supervising apprenticeship or training and such labor union or agency shall refuse to furnish such information to the contractor, the contractor shall so certify to the contracting agency as part of its compliance report and shall set forth what efforts he has made to obtain such information.

(d) The contracting agency or the Secretary of Labor may direct that any bidder or prospective contractor or subcontractor shall submit, as part of his compliance report, a statement in writing, signed by an authorized officer or agent on behalf of any labor union or agency referring workers or providing or supervising apprenticeship or other training, with which the bidder or prospective contractor deals, with supporting information, to the effect that the signer's practices and policies do not discriminate on the grounds of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin, and that the signer either will affirmatively cooperate in the implementation of the policy and provisions of this order or that it consents and agrees that recruitment, employment, and the terms and conditions of employment under the proposed contract shall be in accordance with the purposes and provisions of the order. in the event that the union, or the agency, shall refuse to execute such a statement, the compliance report shall so certify and set forth what efforts have been made to secure such a statement and such additional factual material as the contracting agency or the Secretary of Labor may require.

The Secretary of Labor may, when he deems that special circumstances in the national interest so require, exempt a contracting agency from the requirement of including any or all of the provisions of section 202 of this order in any specific contract, subcontract, or purchase order. The Secretary of Labor may, by rule or regulation, also exempt certain classes of contracts, subcontracts, or purchase orders: (1) whenever work is to be or has been performed outside the United States and no recruitment of workers within the limits of the United States is involved; (2) for standard commercial supplies or raw materials; (3) involving less than specified amounts of money or specified numbers of workers; or (4) to the extent that they involve subcontracts below a specified tier. The Secretary of Labor may also provide, by rule, regulation, or order, for the exemption of facilities of a contractor which are in all respects separate and distinct from activities of the contractor related to the performance of the contract: Provided, That such an exemption will not interfere with or impede the effectuation of the purposes of this order: And provided further. That in the absence of such an exemption all facilities shall be covered by the provisions of this order.

Subpart C—Powers and Duties of the Secretary of Labor and the Contracting Agencies

SEC. 205. Each contracting agency shall be primarily responsible for obtaining compliance with the rules, regulations, and orders of the Secretary of Labor with respect to contracts entered into by such agency or its contractors. They are directed to cooperate with the Secretary of Labor and to furnish the Secretary of Labor such information and assistance as he may require in the performance of his functions under this order. They are further directed to appoint or designate, from among the agency's personnel, compliance officers. It shall be the duty of such officers to seek compliance with the objectives of this order by conference, conciliation, mediation, or persuasion.

Such investigation shall be conducted in accordance with the procedures established by the Secretary of Labor and the investigating agency shall report to the Secretary of Labor any action taken or recommended.
(b) The Secretary of Labor may receive and investigate or cause to be investigated complaints by employees or prospective employees of a Government contractor or subcontractor which allege discrimination contrary to the contractual provisions specified in section 202 of this order. If this investigation is conducted for the Secretary of Labor by a contracting agency, that agency shall report to the Secretary what action has been taken or is recommended with regard to such complaints.

SEC. 207. The Secretary of Labor shall use his best efforts, directly and through contracting agencies, other interested Federal, State, and local agencies, contractors, and all other available instrumentalities to cause any labor union engaged in work under Government contracts or any agency referring workers or providing or supervising apprenticeship or training for or in the course of such work to cooperate in the implementation of the purposes of this order. The Secretary of Labor shall, in appropriate cases, notify the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Department of Justice, or other appropriate Federal agencies whenever it has reason to believe that the practices of any such labor organization or agency violate Title VI or VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 or other provision of Federal law.

SEC. 208. (a) The Secretary of Labor, or any agency, officer, or employee in the executive branch of the Government designated by rule, regulation, or order of the Secretary, may hold such hearings, public or private, as the Secretary may deem advisable for compliance, enforcement, or educational purposes.

3. Recommend to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or the Department of Justice that appropriate proceedings be instituted under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

4. Recommend to the Department of Justice that criminal proceedings be brought for the furnishing of false information to any contracting agency or to the Secretary of Labor as the case may be.

(5) Cancel, terminate, suspend, or cause to be cancelled, terminated, or suspended any contract, or any portion or portions thereof, for failure of the contractor or subcontractor to comply with the nondiscrimination provisions of the contract. Contracts may be cancelled, terminated, or suspended absolutely or continuance of contracts may be conditioned upon a program for future compliance approved by the contracting agency.

(6) Provide that any contracting agency shall refrain from entering into further contracts, or extensions or other modifications of existing contracts, with any noncomplying contractor, until such contractor has satisfied the Secretary of Labor that such contractor has established and will carry out personnel and employment policies in compliance with the provisions of this order.

(b) Under rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, each contracting agency shall make reasonable efforts within a reasonable time limitation to secure compliance with the contract provisions of this order by methods of conference, conciliation, mediation, and persuasion before proceedings shall be instituted under subsection (a)(2) of this section, or before a contract shall be cancelled or terminated in whole or part under subsection (a)(5) of this section for failure of a contractor or subcontractor to comply with the contract provisions of this order.

SEC. 210. SEC. 212. Whenever a contracting agency cancels or terminates a contract, or whenever a contractor has been debarred from further Government contracts, under section 209(a)(6) because of noncompliance with the contract provisions with regard to nondiscrimination, the Secretary, or the contracting agency involved, shall promptly notify the Comptroller General of the United States. Any contract in excess of $2,500 entered into by any Federal department or agency for the procurement of personal property and nonpersonal services (including construction) for the United States shall contain a provision requiring that in employing persons to carry out any contract the party contracting with the United States shall take affirmative action to employ and advance in employment qualified handicapped individuals as defined in section 106(e) of this title. The provisions of this section shall apply to any subcontract in excess of $2,500 entered into by a prime contractor in carrying out any contract for the procurement of personal property and nonpersonal services (including construction) for the United States. The President shall implement the provisions of this section by promulgating regulations within ninety days after September 28, 1973.

Administrative enforcement; complaints; investigations: departmental action

If any handicapped individual believes any contractor has failed or refuses to comply with the provisions of the contract with the United States relating to employment of handicapped individuals, such individual may file a complaint with the Department of Labor. The Department shall promptly investigate such complaint and shall take such action thereon as the facts and circumstances warrant, consistent with the terms of such contract and the laws and regulations applicable thereto.

Waiver by President; national interest special circumstances for waiver of particular agreements

The requirements of this section may be waived, in whole or in part, by the President with respect to a particular contract or subcontract, in accordance with guidelines set forth in regulations which he shall prescribe, when he determines that special circumstances in the national interest so require and states in writing his reasons for such determination.

Code (section 301 of Title 3, The President), and as President of the United States, and in order to provide for consistent implementation within the Federal Government of section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. 794) [this section], it is hereby ordered as follows:

Section 1. The Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare shall coordinate the implementation of section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (this section), hereinafter referred to as section 504 [this section], by all Federal departments and agencies empowered to extend Federal financial assistance to any program or activity. The Secretary shall establish standards for determining who are handicapped individuals and guidelines for determining what are discriminatory practices, within the meaning of section 504 [this section]. The Secretary shall assist Federal departments and agencies to coordinate their programs and activities and shall consult with such departments and agencies, as necessary, so that consistent policies, practices, and procedures are adopted with respect to the enforcement of section 504 [this section].

Sec. 2. In order to implement the provisions of section 504 [this section], each Federal department and agency empowered to provide Federal financial assistance shall issue rules, regulations, and directives, consistent with the standards and procedures established pursuant to this order, by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Sec. 3. (a) Whenever the appropriate department or agency determines, upon all the information available to it, that any recipient of, or applicant for, Federal financial assistance is in noncompliance with the requirements adopted pursuant to this order, steps to secure voluntary compliance shall be carried out in accordance with standards and procedures established pursuant to this order.

(b) If voluntary compliance cannot be secured by informal means, compliance with section 504 [this section] may be effected by the suspension or termination of, or refusal to award or continue, Federal financial assistance or by other appropriate means authorized by law, in accordance with standards and procedures established pursuant to this order.

(c) No such suspension or termination of, or refusal to award or continue, Federal financial assistance shall become effective unless there has been an express finding, after opportunity for a hearing, of a failure by the recipient of, or applicant for, Federal financial assistance to comply with the requirements adopted pursuant to this order; however, such suspension or termination of, or refusal to award or continue, Federal financial assistance shall be limited in its effect to the particular program or activity or part thereof with respect to which there has been such a finding of noncompliance.

Sec. 4. Each Federal department and agency shall furnish the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare such reports and information as the Secretary requests and shall cooperate with the Secretary in the implementation of section 504 [this section].

Sec. 5. The Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare may adopt rules and regulations and issue orders which he deems necessary to carry out his responsibilities under this order. June 30, 1978

Providing for Coordination of Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Programs

By virtue of the authority vested in me as President of the United States by the Constitution and statutes of the United States, including Section 9 of Reorganization Plan Number 1 of 1978 (43 FR 19807), it is ordered as follows:

1-1. Implementation of Reorganization Plan.

1-101. The transfer to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission of all the functions of the Equal Employment Opportunity Coordinating Council, and the termination of that Council, as provided by Section 6 of Reorganization Plan Number 1 of 1978 (43 FR 19807), shall be effective on July 1, 1978.

1-201. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shall provide leadership and coordination to the efforts of Federal departments and agencies to enforce all Federal statutes, Executive orders, regulations, and policies which require equal employment opportunity without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age or handicap. It shall strive to maximize effort, promote efficiency, and eliminate conflict, competition, duplication and inconsistency among the operations, functions and jurisdictions of the Federal departments and agencies having responsibility for enforcing such statutes, Executive orders, regulations and policies.

1-202. In carrying out its functions under this order the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shall consult with and utilize the special expertise of Federal departments and agencies with equal employment opportunity responsibilities. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shall cooperate with such departments and agencies in the discharge of their equal employment responsibilities.

1-203. All Federal departments and agencies shall cooperate with and assist the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in the performance of its functions under this order and shall furnish the Commission such reports and information as it may request.

1-3. Specific Responsibilities.

1-301. To implement its responsibilities under Section 1-2, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shall, where feasible:

(a) develop uniform standards, guidelines, and policies defining the nature of employment discrimination on the ground of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age or handicap under all Federal statutes, Executive orders, regulations, and policies which require equal employment opportunity;

(b) develop uniform standards and procedures for investigations and compliance reviews to be conducted by Federal departments and agencies under any Federal statute, Executive order, regulation or policy requiring equal employment opportunity;
(c) develop procedures with the affected agencies, including the use of memoranda of understanding, to minimize duplicative investigations or compliance reviews of particular employers or classes of employers or others covered by Federal statutes, Executive orders, regulations or policies requiring equal employment opportunity;

(d) ensure that Federal departments and agencies develop their own standards and procedures for undertaking enforcement actions when compliance with equal employment opportunity requirements of any Federal statute, Executive order, regulation or policy cannot be secured by voluntary means;

(e) develop uniform record-keeping and reporting requirements concerning employment practices to be utilized by all Federal departments and agencies having equal employment opportunity enforcement responsibilities;

(f) provide for the sharing of compliance records, findings, and supporting documentation among Federal departments and agencies responsible for ensuring equal employment opportunity.

(g) develop uniform training programs for the staff of Federal departments and agencies with equal employment opportunity responsibilities;

(h) assist all Federal departments and agencies with equal employment opportunity responsibilities in developing programs to provide appropriate publications and other information for those covered and those protected by Federal equal employment opportunity statutes, Executive orders, regulations, and policies; and

(i) initiate cooperative programs, including the development of memoranda of understanding between agencies, designed to improve the coordination of equal employment opportunity compliance and enforcement.

l-302. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shall assist the Civil Service Commission, or its successor, in establishing uniform job-related qualifications and requirements for job classifications and descriptions for Federal employees involved in enforcing all Federal equal employment opportunity provisions.

l-303. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shall issue such rules, regulations, policies, procedures or orders as it deems necessary to carry out its responsibilities under this order. It shall advise and offer to consult with the affected Federal departments and agencies during the development of any proposed rules, regulations, policies, procedures or orders and shall formally submit such proposed issuances to affected departments and agencies at least 15 working days prior to public announcement. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shall use its best efforts to reach agreement with the agencies on matters in dispute. Departments and agencies shall comply with all final rules, regulations, policies, procedures or orders of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

l-304. All Federal departments and agencies shall advise and offer to consult with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission during the development of any proposed rules, regulations, policies, procedures or orders concerning equal employment opportunity. Departments and agencies shall formally submit such proposed issuances to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and other interested Federal departments and agencies at least 15 working days prior to public announcement. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shall review such proposed rules, regulations, policies, procedures or orders to ensure consistency among the operations of the various Federal departments and agencies. Issuances related to internal management and administration are exempt from this clearance process. Case handling procedures unique to a single program also are exempt, although the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission may review such procedures in order to assure maximum consistency within the Federal equal employment opportunity program.
1-305. Before promulgating significant rules, regulations, policies, procedures or orders involving equal employment opportunity, the Commission and affected departments and agencies shall afford the public an opportunity to comment.

1-306. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission may make recommendations concerning staff size and resource needs of the Federal departments and agencies having equal employment opportunity responsibilities to the Office of Management and Budget.

1-307. (a) It is the intent of this order that disputes between or among agencies concerning matters covered by this order shall be resolved through good faith efforts of the affected agencies to reach mutual agreement. Use of the dispute resolution mechanism contained in Subsections (b) and (c) of this Section should be resorted to only in extraordinary circumstances.

(b) Whenever a dispute which cannot be resolved through good faith efforts arises between the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and another Federal department or agency concerning the issuance of an equal employment opportunity rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or any matter covered by this Order, the Chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or the head of the affected department or agency may refer the matter to the Executive Office of the President. Such reference must be in writing and may not be made later than 15 working days following receipt of the initiating agency's notice of intent publicly to announce an equal employment opportunity rule, regulation, policy, procedure or order. If no reference is made within the 15 day period, the decision of the agency which initiated the proposed issuance will become effective.

(c) Following reference of a disputed matter to the Executive Office of the President, the Assistant to the President for Domestic Affairs and Policy (or such other official as the President may designate) shall designate an official within the Executive Office of the President to meet with the affected agencies to resolve the dispute within a reasonable time.

1-401. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shall include in the annual report transmitted to the President and the Congress pursuant to Section 715 of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended (42 U.S.C. 2000e-14), a statement of the progress that has been made in achieving the purpose of this order. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission shall provide Federal departments and agencies an opportunity to comment on the report prior to formal submission.

1-5. General Provisions.

1-501. Nothing in this order shall relieve or lessen the responsibilities or obligations imposed upon any person or entity by Federal equal employment law, Executive order, regulation or policy.

1-502. Nothing in this order shall limit the Attorney General's role as legal adviser to the Executive Branch.
